FLYING WEST ACROSS OCEAN WINTER FOR 1927

Captain Macintosh Has Decided That Ocean Flights Impractical For Rest Of Year

Forced To Return By Stiff Winds

"Princess Xenia" Was Sixth Attempt This Year To Fly West

ALLYBUNION, Ireland, Sept. 17.—(INS)—No further attempt to span the Atlantic from East to West by airplane likely to be made during the remainder of the present year. Captain R. H. Macintosh, and commandant James C. Fitzgibbon, Irish aviators, who had in an attempt yesterday, they announced today.

The flyers, exhausted by their battle with the elements yesterday, awakened late today, hoping to fly their plane, the "Princess Xenia," back to Baldonnel Flying Club, Dublin. They said that, because of the likelihood of adverse weather during the remaining months of this year, any further attempt to fly the Atlantic would be almost hopeless.

The sixth attempt this year to span the Atlantic ocean by air from East to West met with failure yesterday.

Captain Robert H. Macintosh, of the British Royal Air Force, who was in New York in the morning for New York in the morning, "Princess Xenia," was forced to turn back last night when a 40 mile an hour headwind made progress across the ocean impossible.

The "Princess Xenia" was forced to turn back on each occasion because of bucking terrific winds and squally weather.

In explaining his decision to turn back, Captain Macintosh stated that the "Princess Xenia" had been in the air for three hours at a time when very heavy weather was encountered. The visibility, he stated, was very poor, and at one time it was necessary to fly as high as 30 feet above the water.

"We found it impossible to steer the compass course," Macintosh said, "and we decided to return."

Fear Felt For Lion Flier, Hour Overdue

ROOSEVELT FIELD, N. Y., Sept. 17.—(INS)—As landing fields along the northern air mail routes reported no word of Martin Jensen, Dole flight flier and Leo, the moving picture lion, enroute here, from San Diego, officials at Roosevelt Field were given to expressions of anxiety this afternoon. Jensen was an hour overdue at three o'clock here while the airports at both Chicago and Columbus were without news of the flier.

AUTHORITY GIVEN TO PRESIDENT TO DIVERT BIG FUND

Two Million Dollars Voted For Emergency Work Will Be Used To Repair Broken Levees In Mississippi Valley

WASHINGTON, Sept. 17.—(INS)—President Coolidge has authority to divert funds under Congressional appropriation for emergency work and will use it to provide the $2,000,000 needed by the War Department for levee repairs in the Mississippi valley, officials of the Budget Bureau stated officially today.

The recent rulings of Comptroller General McCarl that rivers and harbors funds could not be diverted for the emergency levee repairs will be virtually set aside by the when available levee funds are expended, President, budget officials believe, President.

Coinciding with the Budget Bureau statement, Secretary of War Davis declared that since yesterday's cabinet meeting he felt no concern over the availability of adequate funds to provide new resources.

At the White House, it was stated officially that the emergency work would not be halted for want of funds.

House Burns After Beautiful Girl Is Abducted From It

JOHNSON CITY, Tenn., Sept. 17.—(INS)—In the midst of a country-wide search for a beautiful missing daughter, the family of R. S. Randolph of Johnson City were confronted with a second misfortune last night when their home was destroyed by fire.

Last Wednesday night Carrie Randolph, 18, retired at the usual time. Thursday morning she was gone, although her bed indicated she had retired. As she was known to be quiet and reserved with no close boy friends, the family immediately started a search which has spread east Tennessee, North Carolina and Virginia.

No trace of the girl has been found, and friends fear she may have been abducted. The disappearance of Miss Randolph follows closely on the heels of the spiriting away of Viola Berger of Kingsport by two girls, and police indicate the two cases may be connected with a band of white slaves known to have been operating in this vicinity recently.

VETERANS PAY TRIBUTES TO SOLDIER DEAD

Among White Crosses Of Surrenes Hill Legionaires Bow Heads In Memory Of Comrades Who Died In 1917

Pershing Delivers The First Address

Marshall Foch Also Speaks As Wreaths Are Placed On Grave Of Unknown Soldiers

PARIS, Sept. 17.—(INS)—Among the hundreds of white crosses, high on Surrenes Hill, which commands a beautiful vista of Paris, the American Legionnaires today inaugurated their week in France, by a solemn tribute to the memory of their comrades who died for France in 1917.

General John J. Pershing, commander-in-chief of the A. E. F.; Marshall Foch, generalissimo of the allied armies; Howard P. Savage, national commander of the American Legion, and other legion officials, took in the midst of the field of crosses which represent every rank and every state in the union, and paid their tribute to the American soldiers there, by reiterating the late President Harding's pledge made at the ceremony of the burial of America's unknown soldier at Washington:—"They have not died in vain."

A drizzling rain was falling as Marshall Foch and General Pershing walked arm in arm up the slope of the hill, at the top of which lie 1,500 American dead. Accompanying the two war-time commanders were the French Generals Gouraud and Debony, and the Americans, W. Harts and Milton Foreman, who commanded the Illinois division during the war, and 600 other Americans and Frenchmen.

The memorial services were brief but impressively simple. Sheldon Whitehouse, councillor of the American embassy, who presided at the services, said: "It is fitting that the first act of the American Legionnaires upon their arrival in France should be commemorative of their dead. I present a man who needs no introduction to you—General Pershing."

General Pershing then addressed the men whom he led in battle ten years ago.

"We have come this morning," he said, "to pay tribute and loving remembrance to the Americans who lie buried in the cemeteries of France. These companions of ours came to France with all the enthusiasm that men have when they are engaged in the sacred cause of defending liberty and justice. They represented a country which has never abandoned manhood, and they have laid their sacrifice on the altar of freedom."

"The principles for which they died will ever actuate the peoples of France and America. No soldier could have a sweeter resting place than on the field of glory on which he fell. The peoples of two nations watch over him here."

"Those of us here this morning wish for no better fate than that we, too, may find our final resting place so honored and so revered as are these of our comrades who died that theirs may live happier lives."

Marshal Foch, introduced by Mr. Whitehouse said: "We bow low before those who sleep here. So young they were, these who rest here, they died willingly for liberty and justice. They were not inspired by the prospect of fortune. They saw life and the happiness of the world threatened, and they rushed forward, giving up their labors, their homes, their families, because their ideals were the same as ours. We will keep ever burning the memory of these glorious dead."

World War Veteran Urges Kaiser William To Attend Legion Meeting In Paris

PARIS, Sept. 17.—(INS)—If the Kaiser did not send a message of greeting to the American Legion convention, it is not the fault of Albert Bellevue, of Napoleon Oullette Post, Rumford, Maine, former commander of the Maine department.

For the former doughboy extended the invitation by word of mouth but it did not seem to please the Kaiser. On the contrary, it seemed to peeve him. Bellevue came over with his own automobile and has been touring Europe previous to his arrival here. He visited Switzerland, Belgium, Holland and Germany.

It was in Holland that this legionnaire had his big thrill and saw the Kaiser, he says.

"I was rolling along nice and easy," said Bellevue, "about 15 miles out of Utrecht. I saw fisherman walking along the side of the road and I asked him if he wanted a ride.

"He spoke pretty good English and he jumped in beside me. He told me a lot about the country and we were having a fine time together when all of a sudden we came to a blind corner around a clump of trees.

"The road was very narrow—hardly wide enough for two cars to pass each other—so I blew my horn and got a reply from around the corner. An another car had answered my blow. I stopped. The other motor car came around the turn very slowly and stopped right plumb in front of me.

"It was a funny looking car—it had three seats in a row, one behind the other. My friend the fisherman nudged me and whispered in my ear: "That is the Kaiser in the back seat."

"I sat my breath for a minute then, as the other car started to back up I said: "How do you do, your majesty?" "There were four officers in uniform, one beside the chauffeur (two on the second seat and one beside the Kaiser himself. Naturally I spoke in English and the Kaiser spoke in French. I got a rise out of his ribs. I thought I would go the limit so I said: "I am a former American soldier and I am on my way to the American Legion convention in Paris—have you any message for the boys? Say you should have seen his face—he gave me one hand look—growled something at the chauffeur and they went away from there like a shot. Anyway, he hasn't any sense of humor. That's all I can say."

GOVERNMENT HAS BIRD-POLICY FOR ANTI-RUM FIGHT

Will Transport Forces From Florida To Great Lakes In Summer And From Lakes To Florida In Tourist Season

WASHINGTON, Sept. 17.—(INS)—Adopting a bird migration policy, the government is planning a campaign against rum runners with forces concentrated on the Great Lakes and Canadian border in the summer and in Florida waters in the winter, it was announced today.

Shift of coast guard reserves with the seasons will mark the major activities of the drive, but some redistribution of customs and prohibition forces is planned.

The coast guard's annual budget, to be submitted to congress in December, contains a request for funds to make possible expansion of coast guard facilities on the Great Lakes and a strong reserve force of men and boats that may be organized into a mobile unit capable of disposition wherever emergencies arise.

Immediate plans of the coast guard call for a concentration of forces along the Florida coast, coincident with the approach of cold weather, which automatically cuts down Canadian smuggling. New bases are reported to have been set up in Bilmi and other off coast islands.

Bases for hiding liquor smuggled into the country are said to have been established by the rum runners throughout the Everglades sections of Florida, where enforcement is difficult.

The Florida airplane base of the coast probably will be strengthened by planes from the north. A strong flotilla of small boats will be assigned to this district. Speed and effective airplane scouting are essential to anti-smuggling campaigns in the south-east, officials said.

JERSEY WIDOW DENIES KILLING AGED HUSBAND

Mrs. Margaret Lillendahl 42, Tells Of Her Devotion Of Ten Years To Husband Who Was Broken In Health

Sticks To Story Of Negroes Being Guilty

Accused Woman To Make Every Effort To Assist Police. She Says Through Relative

HAMMONTON, N. J., Sept. 17.—(INS)—Although no charge had been placed against her, Mrs. Margaret Lillendahl, 42, attractive club and church leader, today denied she had any reason to kill her aged husband, Dr. William Lillendahl, and told of her devotion to him during the last 10 years. Her denial was made through a spokesman in the face of new developments which came rapidly in the mysterious murder story.

For three days Mrs. Lillendahl has been questioned concerning her story that Dr. Lillendahl was murdered by two negroes when he sought to prevent them from attacking her.

Her statement was made public this afternoon through Colonel Clarence Hodson, a distant relative, on the heels of the state's announcement that they were in possession of "new facts" and that the "search for the two negroes had been halted."

"She was a devoted wife," said Colonel Hodson, "she gave ten years of her life for a man broken in health and in a highly nervous condition. She had no reason to kill him and could have let him die years ago simply by stopping her care of him. Every day she took him for an auto ride along unfrequented roads and it was on one of those roads that the crime occurred. We will make every effort to help the law solve this crime and for that reason we will make no move to obtain her freedom."

His concluding words were in conflict with statements made by Mrs. Lillendahl's other friends and relatives earlier in the day, that they would seek her release on a writ of habeas corpus.

Although police deny Mrs. Lillendahl is "under arrest," they have detained her under close guard at state trooper's headquarters while detectives repeatedly unearched what they regard as clues in her story.

Mrs. Lillendahl, who was 30 years her husband's junior, clings consistently to her story that her husband was slain when he attempted to save her from two negroes who had boarded their machine and forced them to drive into a deserted side road.

Although she based the attack on a robbery motive, her writ watch, ring and Dr. Lillendahl's pocketbook containing $20 were all found within a few yards of the murder scene.

Detectives further exploring the woods, said today that Mrs. Lillendahl's footprints were the only one found in the soft earth around the death car.

Meanwhile, the slain doctor's activities as a former "mystic expert" were under investigation. He was known to have treated drug addicts and was at one time arrested on a narcotic charge, but the indictment was never pressed.

Bodies Of Brothers Taken From Graves For Examinations

BLAKELY, Ga., Sept. 17.—(INS)—The bodies of James and Amos Hayes were taken from their last resting place today in an effort by prosecuting authorities to prove that their parents, Mr. and Mrs. Harrie Hayes, poisoned them to collect life insurance.

The task was under supervision of Dr. A. J. Ayers, Atlanta pathologist, who will remove the viscera of both bodies and deliver them to Dr. E. L. Everhart, state chemist for analysis, to determine if they contain strychnine in fatal quantities, such as was found in an autopsy on the body of Mrs. Gladys Hayes, of Detroit, wife of Amos Hayes.

The parents are held in jail on murder warrants charging them with the death by poisoning of Mrs. Gladys Hayes.

W. G. McAdoo Tells Democrats He Will Not Run Next Year

SPECULATION IS RIFE IN CAPITAL OVER STATEMENT

Much Talk On Effect McAdoo's Announcement Will Have On Chances Of A Smith's Nomination In 1928 Convention

WASHINGTON, Sept. 17.—(INS)—Williams Gibbs McAdoo's announcement that he would not run for the Democratic presidential nomination next year caused no great surprise among the cautious politicians today, but led to wholesale speculation. They had anticipated it.

The unnermost question was the effects of McAdoo's withdrawal upon the chances of Governor Al Smith of New York for the nomination. McAdoo and Smith fought it out to a deadlock in Madison Square Garden in 1924, and ever since have been regarded as the two most formidable presidential candidates. They have personified the west and the east in the party.

Smith's followers were heartened, not so much because Smith would gain in value by reason of McAdoo being out of the picture, but because of the likelihood of a split among the delegates over a candidate. The militant abolitionists who concentrated behind McAdoo may be divided far and wide, while the west strength will be solidified behind Smith. Such a situation, Smith's backers declared, would materially enhance the chances of the New York Governor in the '28 convention.

Party leaders generally felt that another Madison Square spectacle would be avoided with McAdoo out of it. They said, too, that the same thing would hold true had Smith, instead of McAdoo, withdrawn. They agreed with McAdoo that a renunciation of 1924 would be "calamitous" for the party in the next elections. With both Smith and McAdoo at each other's throats again, the leaders saw little escape from another deadlocked convention.

NEW YORK, Sept. 17.—(INS)—"I have nothing to say concerning it," said Governor Alfred E. Smith when asked today in comment upon the announcement of Williams Gibbs McAdoo, that he would not be a candidate for the presidential nomination next year.

Governor Smith indicated by his manner, however, that he had no interest whatever in McAdoo's announcement. The Governor smilingly rebuked an International News Service reporter who roused him out of bed, in his suite at the Biltmore, by sending in word that he had "important" information for him. He emerged from his bedroom in his bathrobe and regarded his visitor with indifference. His face changed to expression and he frowned a bit when told the nature of the news.

"Why I thought you had something important," he rebuked. "You made my heart skip a couple of stops—I thought maybe one of my friends was dead."

The reporter offered to let him read McAdoo's announcement. He waves the dispatch aside.

"I don't want to say a word about it," he reiterated.

He "ceased" the reporter out with a shake of the hand and a look that suggested, "don't do anything like this again."

WASHINGTON, Sept. 17.—(INS)—Tennessee would go entirely Republican if Governor Al Smith of New York is nominated by the Democrats, Rep. J. Will Taylor of Tennessee, Republican national committeeman, declared at the White House today.

He again urged the President to accept an invitation to address the National Association of Manufacturers in Chattanooga on Oct. 26. The President will decide within 10 days.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 17.—(INS)—"I think Gov. Al Smith ought to follow McAdoo's example and clear the way for a new slate in the Democratic party," Sen. Duncan U. Fletcher (D), of Florida, declared today in commenting on the withdrawal of Williams Gibbs McAdoo's withdrawal from the 1928 presidential race.

After praising McAdoo's record, Fletcher said: "By retiring from the presidential arena McAdoo has made a generous sacrifice of his own future for harmony in the party. It is in line with his well known loyalty to the party and his well-known patriotism."

NEVER TOO OLD

LONDON.—It's never too late to mend, and a hen is never too old to hatch. That's the inference drawn from the fact that a 30-year-old hen at Heppelshill Beds recently hatched a brood of 14 chicks. It has been held by most authorities that the hen is too old to hatch at the age of three years.

Former Treasury Head Adds That His Feud With Al Smith Isn't Over; To Fight Wets

McAdoo Wishes To Avoid 1924 Fiasco

Warns Democrats On Repetition Of Protracted Struggle

WASHINGTON, Sept. 17.—(INS)—Williams Gibbs McAdoo announced today he would not be a candidate for the Democratic presidential nomination next year. He burned all his bridges behind him when he said definitely: "I shall not be a candidate for the Democratic presidential nomination in 1928."

His refusal to enter the race was contained in a letter to George F. Milton, publisher of the Chattanooga News-Milton, publicity manager for McAdoo in 1927, had urged him to be a candidate again.

At the same time, McAdoo served notice that his political feud with Governor Al Smith of New York, which deadlocked the Democrats in the sweltering heat of Madison Square Garden in 1924, is far from ended. He said he would continue to fight for the triumph of progressive principles in the party, and for the suppression of the nullificationists, or the wets.

A desire to free the party from a repetition of the disastrous 1924 fight, was advanced by McAdoo as one of his chief reasons for retiring. He said also that he had earned a respite, "an honorable discharge," from the rigors of active political life.

He warned the party that defeat lay ahead in 1928 if the next convention degenerated "into a mere struggle of individuals for personal preference at the expense of principle and the policies of fundamental importance to party character and to the welfare of the nation."

"My chief concern," he said, "is the supremacy of Democratic principles and progressive policies, for these mean the preservation and improvement of the constitution of the United States; the suppression of nullification and the enforcement of law, without which stable government is impossible and without which the blessings of liberty will disappear; justice to agriculture, without which the farmers cannot get their rightful share of national prosperity; and social and economic justice for all classes, without which human opportunity cannot be widened.

"Perhaps I can do more to advance these great objects as a private citizen than as a candidate for the presidency. I prefer to stand aside in order that the field may be left clear so far as I can clear it, for the development of a leadership that can more effectively gain these ends."

Indirectly, he advised the party to avoid the injection of the religious issue into the next campaign.

"In 1924 I entered the campaign because it was urged upon me that the progressive element of the party be called upon me for leadership," he explained. "You know how that campaign was rendered abortive by the unfortunate injection, against my opposition, of the false religious issue into the Democratic National Convention.

The 1924 convention was broken wide open by a Klan and anti-Klan fight. It prevented any reconciliation between the factions represented by the two leading candidates, McAdoo and Smith.

McAdoo did not mention any persons who would be acceptable to him as candidates.

MIAMI HUSTLERS WIN FORFEITED GAME OFF COLTS

Manager Phil Wells Takes Team Off Field in Ninth When Umpire Refuses To Honor Protest On Decision

Miami, Fla., Sept. 16.—After nine innings of brilliant baseball Miami won a forfeited game from Orlando 9 to nothing in the Florida State League series Thursday afternoon.

Manager Wells refused to continue the game in the last of the ninth, when his team was leading 1 to nothing. Casares had started the ninth with a base on balls and went clear to third on Brasier's sacrifice, Lehmann to Abrams. Key drove a hot liner at Tinker, the Orlando shortstop got the ball but Umpire Moore behind the plate ruled that he had trapped it, leaving Keys safe on first.

Tinker claimed he had made a fair catch of the ball, and Manager Wells of Orlando refused to continue play when Umpire Moore stood by his original decision. Umpire Moore then ruled that the players had fought bitterly for victory.

Orlando scored in the second on Lees' single, Keyes error a passed ball and Tinker's sacrifice fly to Casares. Sweeney Orlando star buried was in great form, allowing Miami but three hits, Davis was just as good, however, granting four and never being in danger except for poor playing on the part of his team mates in the second inning.

Tagging All Bases

By International News

The Cardinals and the Giants, who have fought each other to a Mexican standoff in three successive double-headers, meet again in a seventh game which probably will be the last of the season. The Cardinals, if anybody, is going to catch the flying Pirates. The Corsairs annexed their eighth straight victory yesterday by trimming Boston again and are now 4-1-2 games in front of St. Louis and New York, who are still deadlocked for second place.

A feature of the torrid battles in St. Louis has been that rookie pitchers won where veterans failed. Yesterday Jim Faulkner, recruit from Toronto, won the first game for the Giants, 11 to 3, and Fred Frankhouse, St. Louis freshman, subdued New York in the nightcap, 8 to 5.

Bill Terry, who is on a home rampage, hit two homers in the opener and Zach Taylor, New York's weak-hitting pitcher, checked two triplets and a single. The Giants knocked Jess Haines, who the Cards retinkered in the nightcap by routing Fred Fitzsimmons.

German Hill, Pittsburgh mound ace, won his 22nd victory, holding Boston to five hits and winning a 7-1 triumph from Bob Smith. Smokehouse hero immediately began ordering their world series duets. The Braves have lost 12 games in a row.

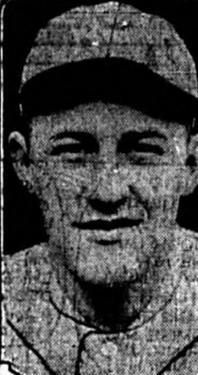

The Cubs, Robins, Reds and Phillies did not play. The Yankees failed to win their hundredth victory, losing to Cleveland 3 to 2. Langford, Cleveland recruit, hit a homer and a double.

A double steal in which Ty Cobb participated enabled the Athletics to nose out the White Sox, 5 to 4, and sweep the series. Fox hit a homer with two on.

The Tigers broke their losing streak by outslugging Washington 8 to 3. A home run by Harry Campbell and the Browns to a 2 to 1 victory over the Red Sox.

STAGG BEGINS HIS 38TH YEAR WITH CHICAGO ELEVEN

Veteran Mentor Will Attempt To Shape Winning Team To Overcome Disappointments Of His Team Last Season

CHICAGO, Sept. 16.—(INS)—Out Stagg the University of Chicago's athletic grounds one of those modern miracles is taking place today. Alphonse A. Stagg, that beloved mentor whose enthusiasm, force and cunning the years have failed to dim, is starting his thirty-eighth year as coach on the Midway.

Attacked by one of the alumni and undergraduate body because of Chicago's record last season the most disastrous in the history of the university the "grand old man of the gridiron" finds himself confronted this fall with a "do or die" aspect. It is perhaps the most crucial year in Stagg's long coaching career and unless he succeeds in turning out a winning eleven the demand for a younger coach is certain to grow louder and louder.

Coach Stagg, truly beloved of Chicagoans and seemingly as much a part of the University of Chicago as the Midway itself, probably never will be displaced as head coach at the Maroon institution.

May Get Assistant
Should his eleven prove as ineffective this year as in 1926, he may be partially supplanted by an assistant who will have a great deal to say about Maroon football but Stagg undoubtedly will remain supreme in his berth until such time as he chooses to retire.

Admirers of Stagg point out that he is a builder of character in young men, rather than just a moulder of winning football teams and it is said not a single man, who ever filled a regular position on a Chicago eleven, has failed to make good in life, after college graduation.

Recently a Chicago newspaper writer paid tribute to Stagg in these words:

"When Stagg dies the sons of 100,000 fathers will ask: 'Why are you crying, daddy?'"

Chicago lost only five players of consequence last season. Three of these were regulars, including Captain Marks. So the veteran mentor has at least a fairly experienced squad this fall.

Pat Kelley, a halfback who has the triple threat of kicking, passing and open-field running, will be eligible for the 1927 squad. He played an excellent game on the frosh squad in 1925 but since that time has been under professional ban because of low grades in his studies.

The 1927 Schedule
Kelley will battle it out for a steady job in the Maroon backfield with Kyle Anderson, another triple threat man; Casacks and Gleason, experienced backs, and Leyers, Klien and Libbey, who played full-back last season. From the 1926 Grier, Mendenhall, Burgess and freshmen eleven Stagg will have others.

At a quarter Dygert and McDonough are seasoned men.
Captain Ken Krouse, Small and Olwin, centers; Wolff and Borden, guards; Lewis, Garen and Mochrane, tackles; Spence and Apitz, ends are the veteran players for the line on hand.

Weaver, a giant from Jonesboro, Arkansas, has a chance to win a regular tackle berth.
The University of Oklahoma, a powerful eleven in the southwest last year, will play the Maroons, October 1 in the opening game of 1927. The rest of the Stagg schedule, one of the stiffest in the Big Ten conference, includes games with Indiana, Purdue, Pennsylvania, Ohio State, Michigan, Illinois and Wisconsin.

CITRUS fruit shipments from Florida during last season totaled 17,151,955 boxes.
WELLBORN—Florida Power & Light Company turns on electric lights in this town.

Penn's Punter

Here's Paul Scull, star kicker of last year's eleven at Pennsylvania, showing Coach Lou Young he can still handle the punting job for the Penn team. It's quite a nifty feat Scull is using these warm days. Isn't it?

Jacksonville Tars Win League Pennant

JACKSONVILLE, Fla., Sept. 16.—By defeating Columbus at Columbus today, 11 to 7, the Jacksonville Tars of the Southeastern League won the pennant of that loop even though Montgomery, the contenders for the title, whipped St. Augustine 3 to 0.

The season comes to a close Sept. 20. Should Jacksonville lose the remaining five games of the schedule the club would still have a safe majority in percentage even though the Montgomery Lions win their remaining games.

The standing tonight:

| Team         | Won | Lost | Pct. |
|--------------|-----|------|------|
| Jacksonville | 89  | 59   | .601 |
| Montgomery   | 83  | 65   | .561 |

Should the Tars lose their remaining games and the Lions win the next five the standing would be:

| Team         | Won | Lost | Pct. |
|--------------|-----|------|------|
| Jacksonville | 89  | 64   | .582 |

Stars For Big Fight Put On The Gloves Try Round Or Two

CHICAGO, Sept. 16.—Previous to yesterday, both men had played more rounds of golf I mean. But just in a spirit of unwarranted vindictiveness toward a writer who "saw his duty and done it," therefore riding 139 miles between the two camps, Gene Tunney and Jack Dempsey decided to box virtually at the same time, but not in the same ring, not by exactly 139 miles.

This was too much. These men were going to don gloves and mix socially with their sparring partners. The writer, by dint of much arduous travel, was the only man who saw both of them do it. He, therefore, can give exclusively his impression of them as they appeared just one week before the meeting for the world's heavyweight championship. Briefly, it is this: that Gene Tunney is at least as good, if not better than he was before the Philadelphia fight last year. That Jack Dempsey is a better man than he was before the Sharkey fight two months ago.

How much better he will have to be to beat a good fighter like Tunney remains for the night of Sept. 22 to disclose. He is talking a great fight.

"One thing you can bet on," he said after last night's workout. "This fight won't go ten rounds. I had that happen once and it was enough. This time, they will drag heels before it is over."

Mr. T. Rickard, the man with the open face box office, also spoke his little piece.

"You fellows," he said, "have got this fellow Dempsey all wrong. That fellow knows what he is doing. You expect him to box his head off at the age of thirty two and leave all of his fight in the training quarters. He's too smart a feller for that."

Anyhow, it seemed possible today that maybe Dempsey was right. Maybe, too, that Rickard was right and maybe that they both were right or neither of them. For after seeing just how the principles worked at this stage of the proceedings, it was difficult to say who was wrong, if anyone.

There were holes in the performance of both, for one thing. For one round of his five, Dempsey seemed easy to hit and big boy Peterson did it. He kept winging a left and right to the ex-champion's frontispiece and the lad seemed too fast, withal, for Dempsey to catch. So, any neutral observer, would be constrained to state that blew the round.

Four other rounds were fought with Dave Shade, Whitey Allen, Roy Williams, a middleweight, and Bennie Krueger, a welterweight. They didn't mean much, if anything. Shade bobbed about the premises and Dempsey watched him do it with a degree of academic interest. Williams and Krueger caught a great game, merely that, and Allen went down to posterity before the camera men.

Tunney stepped six rounds at eventide on the shores of Lake Villa and he looked like a real champion most of the way. His average was about 80 percent against Billy Vidabeck, who fought, somewhat after the Dempsey manner, Tunney broke ground on occasions under the other's body attack. But, then,

Rickard Stands To Lose As Result Of Lack Of Ballyhoo

CHICAGO, Ill., Sept. 16.—A very elaborate puns has hit Tex Rickard right on the whisker region and the promoter of fistie extravaganzas finds himself today in the position of a man who may lose world's record for receipts.

For which Rickard has none but himself and a couple of loafing gladiators to blame. Smart men every so often outsmart themselves and this deals with Rickard and a specific instance.

When the match between Dempsey and Tunney was made, Rickard was anxious to have both men on the Illinois premises as early before the fight date as was possible; just so their presence could be used as a means of ballyhoo. But Tunney refused to come to Chicago until he got good and ready and the result was that Dempsey was hauled along from the west and sent into training almost a month ago—which was about three weeks before he needed to do any intensive work.

Dempsey trained for many months tuning for Sharkey. Then he fought a tough battle with the Boston job. His condition was splendid for Dempsey. After the fight he took a few weeks layoff and then was brought on here and sent into training more than a month before the battle, although he needed only ten days of actual work.

Naturally, Dempsey refused in the good interest of the ballyhoo and all other interest to over-train and break down.

TAIHAHASSEE—Permanent park to be established at edge of city.

BUNNELL—Water well No. 1 ready for pumping operations. Work on reconditioning of city streets.

Tunney always was something of a ground-breaker, anyhow. They went two fast rounds with Tunney ahead. Jackie Williams, another light heavyweight, tried to take the play away from the champion and had the perry villagers mouthing "oh" and "ah," and an occasional uncouth snicker as he scored with both hands to the head. Gene finally became somewhat displeased and crossed a right to the young man's chin whistler and the young man began an involuntary black bottom.

"Unless I am greatly mistaken, which possibly would be no novelty, Tunney today was a better fighter than he was last year, faster and with a snappier punch."

That would make both of them good, which probably is possible.

New Orleans Club Will Play Texas Loop Flag Winner

MEMPHIS, Sept. 16.—(INS)—The New Orleans Pelicans, who yesterday clinched the 1927 Southern League championship, will meet the Wichita Falls team, winners of the Texas League pennant, in the little world's series to decide the Dixie championship.

The series will start with two games in Wichita Falls Sept. 21 and 22. The teams will then go to New Orleans where they will meet for three games, Sept. 24, 25 and 26.

The teams will return to Wichita Falls on Sept. 28 and if a seventh game is necessary a coin will be tossed to decide where it shall be played.

The Pels won the pennant yesterday by beating the bears 10 to 9, at Mobile. A sprint on the home stretch won the rag for the New Orleans team, after they had most of the season.

Plans for the Dixie series were made at Shreveport, La., yesterday even before the Pels had clinched the pennant.

Why Not A Receiver, Mr. Amos?

Six weeks ago today the Seminole County Bank closed its doors. In spite of rumors immediately started on their way that the bank would re-open Monday, or would be reorganized shortly and resume business as usual, the doors have continued to be closed and to a large extent apparently everything connected with the bank is a closed issue.

For five weeks, bank examiners worked feverishly on books and records compiling their report for the State Comptroller. For five weeks no one knew anything about the bank except what was heard on the streets. One week ago yesterday a brief statement was prepared for publication and given to the public setting forth something of the bank's condition at the time of closing.

Since that time apparently nothing has been done. In Palatka the East Florida Savings and Trust Company failed Thursday; on Friday a receiver was appointed. The Seminole County Bank was closed on August 6, and up to the present time, six weeks later, a receiver has not been appointed. In West Palm Beach the First Bank and Trust Company closed its doors last March; and yet six months later, no receiver has been appointed.

What is Mr. Amos going to do for Sanford? Do we get a receiver or don't we? Are the interests of the depositors going to be taken care of, or the interests of the borrowers or some particular individual? These are questions Sanford people are beginning to ask. Mr. Amos, six weeks have gone by and nothing has been done. More than a week has passed since the examiner's report was made. Let's see some action. The depositors of that bank want their money back. They will be shouting for dividends before a receiver is appointed.

As to who is made receiver The Herald does not care. It is not the purpose of this paper to join in the ballyhoo for any particular individual or clique. We have been asked to lend our support to at least a dozen different candidates for the job, very few of whom were any good. Men suitable for this position will not pass petitions or canvass support to influence Mr. Amos' appointment. Men suitable for the job will not want it, and will take it only upon earnest solicitation from Mr. Amos.

The Herald hopes that the State Comptroller will use his head to its utmost capacity in making his appointment. The Herald hopes he will find a man, first of all, who is honest, a quality as scarce as municipal bonds, a disinterested person, who has no axe to grind or friend to favor, a courageous man with nerve enough to look after the depositors' interests.

If such a man is appointed The Herald does not care who he is; if not The Herald is going to object and keep on objecting.

A Picturesque River

We seldom appreciate fully the natural advantages that we have until some outsider points them out or we go to other places and find ourselves comparing them with those of distant cities, counties and states. We Floridians in a vague way know that we have a pleasant climate but we never think much of it until our northern friends come down here and literally go into ecstasies over the balmy breezes and the warm sunshine. Then we prick up our ears and learn a thing or two about something we should have realized all the time.

There are many Floridians who care little for oranges and other citrus fruits. One of the chief reasons is that the fruit are grown in such abundance that they lose their appeal. Nevertheless, we appreciate their value when we go away and hear outsiders praise the fruit as among the most luscious in all the world. Then there are many of us who still fail to estimate the natural beauties the Sunshine State is able to boast.

The grandeur of the scenery in some of our island country cannot be approached by any other section of the country. Our beaches lined with palms, our beautiful lakes surrounded by pine and oak forests and our picturesque streams lined on both sides by tropical foliage compose scenery which is the wonder of thousands of visitors and yet we Floridians give it little thought except when it is brought to our attention.

Although the Times-Union is by no means an outsider, it has from time to time expressed its appreciation of these things. One of the Jacksonville paper's best narrations of Florida beauty is its description of the St. Johns River which it pictures in this manner:

"Our river, is a majestic one, and safely may be classed among the most interesting waterways of the North American continent. It is tidal for 135 miles of its length of 285 miles, from its source in Lake Helen Blazes in Brevard county, until it reaches the ocean in Duval county, and in dry periods it is tidal to 175 miles. At places shallow, at Jacksonville it is fifty or more feet deep, a safe anchorage place for ships which come here from all parts of the world."

"Its banks for many miles from the sea are clothed in magnificent verdure of live oak, magnolia, hickory and gum. Farther up it runs through long stretches of semi-tropical vegetation of rare beauty."

"At places along its lower reaches the banks are low, but for many miles they are high and bold, a delight to the eye. In its upper reaches the river overflows its banks for a long distance."

"It flows through masses and clusters of tall pines, magnolias, bays, oaks, palmettos, cypress, which give exquisite combinations of green beautiful and soothing to the eye. Climbing vines, long tresses of pendant gray moss, vivid colors on the bole of trees, all make pictures never to be forgotten."

"Creeks and bays open on the river with a beauty that defies description. Rivers flowing from big lakes pour large volumes of water into the river. At Green Cove Springs the wonderful Quisisana Spring discharges 3,000 or more gallons a minute of sulphur-chalybeate water into the St. Johns. Above Lake Dexter the beautiful Blue Spring of clear deep blue chalybeate-sulphuretted hydrogen water flows in a stream ten feet deep and five feet wide into our river."

"Its reaches are often so long that river and sky melt together at their end. At what is known as Lake George the river is ten miles wide for twenty or more miles. The view of the river banks from the deck of a steamer shows but few signs of the busy contented life of hundreds of homes hidden in the foliage of the hammocks. The river looks as it must have looked to the early voyagers."

"Along the river the rising current of moisture gives rise to magnificent sunsets made doubly lovely by being mirrored on the placid surface."

"The mouths of creeks and bays are made wonderfully beautiful by masses of blooming water hyacinths 'bonnets'. Great masses of blooming water hyacinths, an acre or two in area, often break away from the shore and float down the river toward the sea and big fish come in from the sea."

As Brisbane Sees It

Mr. Taft, 3 score and 10. A New Ford Empire. Milburn Conquers Age. Wall St. Wild and Gay. BY ARTHUR BRISBANE Copyright 1927 by Star Co.

CHIEF JUSTICE TAFT spent his 70th birthday yesterday with his family in Quebec. He is a good American, a just learned judge, a good natured man, liked by more than a hundred millions of his fellow citizens.

He, like Theodore Roosevelt, he had given all his thoughts and good ideas direct to the people, instead of telling them to friends only, he would not have been beaten for President the second time.

THE LONDON EVENING NEWS got excited yesterday and used a seven column headline on the news that "Henry Ford plans to spend $30,000,000 on a rubber empire," to compete with the present British monopoly on rubber. Henry Ford, it is alleged, will extend his land holdings in rich rubber land of Para to 2,800,000 acres. That will amuse Ford. He is busy with things nearer home than Para.

AMERICANS BEAT THE British at polo, easily the first game, less easily the second. Three of the four American players are past 40 years of age. Milburn, the captain, backbone and keystone of the team, is 46, born in 1881.

That American nearly 50 years of age, playing the hardest, most exhausting, dangerous game, can beat younger men, the pick of Great Britain, is more important to the country than any athletic victory. The British can find consolation in Milburn's victory, for John Milburn, his father, was born in England.

WILD, GAY TIMES in Wall Street yesterday, poor bears wondering if higher and higher prices will go on worrying them forever. General Motors, which some poor geese were selling recently at 227 "for a quick turn," closed at 263-3/4. They got the quick turn.

United States steel went up four points to 159-3/8. Call money dropped to 3-1/2 percent, many stocks "went wild," spouting up new high prices, and so forth and so on. But don't gamble, you can't win at that.

CHICAGO'S HOT WAVE, having killed several, traveled eastward to New York, creating a September 15 high death record for all time in the big city. New York has complained for months of too little sunshine and now complains of too much of it and too hot. It has been a queer season in many parts of the world, sun spots perhaps.

OR IT MAY be "etheron," so small it makes an atom look like a mountain, traveling nearly 100,000 miles farther per second than light.

That etheron may be the missing link that explains gravitation. NEWTON FORMULATED but could not explain or account for his "directly as the mass, inversely as the square of the distance."

NORMAN THOMAS, socialist leader, wonders what Walker and Mussolini could have talked about. They talked of many things, including probably the best and surest ways to get and hold control of public opinion.

THE LATE THOMAS Watson of Georgia, who won his seat in the senate by appealing to religious prejudice, said to this writer: "The whole secret of success in public speaking and in politics, is to remember that it is impossible to exaggerate the stupidity of the public."

Mussolini and Walker would probably say "it isn't impossible, but difficult." EIGHTEEN FLYING machines will carry prosperous prizefight "fans" from New York to Chicago on a round trip "hop." Seats within sight of the ring can no longer be had. Any man possessing 500 good seats could undoubtedly get a quarter of a million dollars for them—$500 each. Such are prosperity and civilization in 1927.

Baldwin Mortgage Company Approves Local Investments

As an evidence of their faith in Sanford, officials of the Baldwin Mortgage Company, Florida financing firm which several weeks ago established a local connection, have approved this week six loans aggregating $26,000. This information was given out today following a visit to Sanford by H. B. Walton, vice president of the company.

The loans are all on Sanford real estate. The total amount approved of $26,000 from the company have made close study of Sanford conditions, it was stated, and are now in a position to extend their investments to cover a much larger sum than has already been approved.

S. L. Dighton, local counsel for the mortgage company, is gratified at the action this client, in coming to Sanford and making immediate investments. He said today that numerous other applications are being received and loans will be made on a conservative basis.

Mr. Dighton feels that the Baldwin company's activities here are especially significant in view of the fact that many other financing organizations have withdrawn from the field.

The Baldwin Mortgage Company is a Florida institution having connections in many cities of this state and having its larger offices located in Jacksonville, Miami and Tampa.

NEW ENGLAND'S AIR CONFERENCE TO BE BIG ONE

Most Effective Methods Of Promoting Commercial Aviation Will Be Discussed

BOSTON, Mass., Sept. 17 (INS)—New England is to learn of the opportunities of the air at an aviation conference to be held at the Hotel Statler on September 30 under the auspices of the Committee on Public Relations and Community Organization of the New England Council.

The purpose of the conference will be to discuss the most effective methods of promoting the following:

1. Building airports in New England communities.
2. Manufacturing for the aviation industry by New England industries.
3. Use of aviation by New England industry and business, as well as by individuals.

Use of Flying

The conference is being called at the request of organizations interested in one or more of these phases of aviation development. Community and industrial organizations throughout New England will be invited to send representatives to the conference, at which specialists will present various phases of aviation in relation to New England's development.

Committees of men already actively engaged in aviation development are preparing the details of the program. Under this subject of manufacturing, it is planned to have brought out at the conference the things the aviation industry now uses and what it will require in the future, what New England manufactures are now furnishing to the industry, and what they can, with present facilities, furnish in addition.

Under airport development will come discussions as to the status of airports, whether they should be municipal or commercial, their physical requirements, such as size, accessibility, character of land, and environment, their financing and earnings, the need for legislation in New England states to facilitate the establishment of airports and the commercial development of adjacent land.

The conference also will develop the ways in which New England business can effectively use the air mail, air express and air passenger transport service, both on scheduled routes and as a taxi service. The possibility of forming aero clubs for recreational flying also will be discussed.

The manufacturing section of the program is being arranged by John D. Haughey, President of the Air Service of New England, Inc., and F. W. McLanathan, Lawrence manufacturer.

Legal Battle May Be Outcome Of Doctor's Trial For Slaying

FORT MYERS, Fla., Sept. 17 (INS)—With Hendry and Gladys counties each ready to "pass the buck" in claiming the right to the trial of Dr. S. J. Simons, Jacksonville physician, charged with murder in connection with the brutal slaying that Friday morning of Albert Douglas near his home at LaBelle, a legal tilt is expected when the trial is set. Neither of the counties was the trial, and in view of the fact that the dividing line runs through La Belle, each county is ready to contend that the crime was committed on the other side of the border.

While it has been admitted that the bullet-riddled body of the La Belle youth was found in Glades county, it has been intimated that it will be contended that the actual killing took place in Hendry and that the body was carried across the line to be hidden in brush and palmettos near the Fort Myers-Palm Beach highway.

Hendry county residents declare, does not want the unfavorable publicity and black mark on its record. Shadows cast by the lynching at La Belle last year are still hanging over the town's reputation and citizens are reluctant to "go through" another similar seige. Glades on the other hand, declares it records to be comparatively free of crime and the people of Moore Haven and other communities of the monk county indicate that they will not tolerate the trial.

In the meantime a careful investigation is being made by the prosecuting attorney and his assistants. The alleged killer is being held for the grand jury and it is expected that the trial will be held in October.

Fort Myers Man Is Back Home After He Is Given Up As Dead

FORT MYERS, Fla., Sept. 17 (INS)—Exactly three months after he was reported lost in the Gulf when the motor in his tiny fishing boat was said to have gone dead and the craft battered to pieces by rough waters Earl Davis, young fisherman of Punta Rassa, surprised his wife and parents at midnight last night by walking into the house. Stunned by the sight of her husband who she thought dead, Mrs. Davis nearly collapsed and later declared she thought he was a ghost.

According to the story told by the missing fisherman he was picked up out of the Gulf by a passing Cuban fishing smack and was taken to Havana. He later worked his way to Galveston, Texas, on a smuggling boat and walked most of the way to Florida from that city. Without money, food or presentable clothing he encountered many hardships in his homeward trek.

Mrs. Davis, convinced that her husband had been drowned, made application for his insurance money. The application was pending approval but no part of the policy had been paid and the happy wife declared she is now glad that the insurance company delayed payment.

Rene La Coste And "Big" Bill Tilden Play Title Match

FOREST HILLS, N. Y., Sept. 17 (INS)—Rene La Coste, of France, and "Big" Bill Tilden of Philadelphia and the U. S. A. will meet for the American Lawn Tennis Championship here this afternoon. La Coste is the defending champion while Tilden held the title from 1920 until last year when Henri Cochet, another Frenchman, eliminated him in one of the early rounds.

Tilden earned the right to play in the finals by defeating Francis T. Hunter of New Rochelle, his Davis Cup doubles partner, yesterday in a hard fought match in which Tilden did not stand forth as invincible. In fact it was just an ordinary Tilden who beat Hunter 1-12, 6-1, 4-6, 9-7, in a wearing 1-1/2 hour match. La Coste, on the other hand, played a game that fairly sparkled with brilliance to defeat Little Bill Johnston, 6-2, 2-6, 6-4, 6-1.

Judging from their play yesterday and La Coste's four set victory over "Big" Bill in the first round of the Davis Cup matches last week, there is every indication that La Coste will have little trouble in retaining his crown.

SIT FOR SUIT

NEW YORK—You must sit down now girls, when being measured for a skirt, according to Mrs. Edna W. Chase, editor of Vogue. One should sit in front of a mirror with the legs crossed, with the principal measure being taken from the knee down, according to Mrs. Chase. This is to avoid a vulgar display of garters and bare legs she says.

Tin flower holders, gayly colored and often having pictures of scenes or gardens on them, make lovely vases for summer porch use.

BITTER STRUGGLE FOR MINING FIRM COMES TO LIGHT

Former Philadelphia Business Man Takes Control Of Pitt Coal Company And Defeats Aims Of Railroad Builder

PITTSBURGH, Sept. 17.—(INS)—A bitter struggle for the control of the largest bituminous mining company in the world, the Pittsburgh Coal Company, which the public knew was being waged under cover but which both sides denied, the time, has come to light.

The battle has been won by the Pittsburgh Coal Company's present head, W. G. Warden, who came here in 1926 from Philadelphia when the firm reopened its first mines with non-union labor after renouncing the United Mine Workers.

Pitted against Warden and his cohorts in the fight for control of the Pittsburgh Coal Company was Frank E. Taplin, of Cleveland, nationally-known coal and railroad magnate, according to an affidavit filed in federal court here by John L. Lewis, president of the United Mine Workers.

Expose Is Denied

Lewis' expose of alleged transactions by Taplin have since been denied in an affidavit filed by the Cleveland lawyer in answer to the mine union chief, but Lewis insists that Philip Murray, vice-president of the mine union, and P. T. Fagan, district union president, were present when Taplin is alleged to have proposed that the union aid him in acquiring control of the company's stock.

Taplin is supposed to control the Pittsburgh Terminal Coal Corporation, and in filing the union's answer to the injunction proceedings Lewis and the union sought to retaliate for charges of violence and unfair methods they were blamed with by the Taplin corporation.

Lewis asserted that prior to April 1, when the last union wage agreement with the operators expired, he talked with Taplin in Miami, Fla., and that the latter proposed that the union funds be used to help Taplin gain control of the Pittsburgh Coal Company.

In return, it is alleged, the union was to benefit by being granted a new contract for the operations of the mines which it lost in 1925. In 1925 the Pittsburgh Coal Company had 54 mines in operation in Western Pennsylvania, using union miners. It closed all those mines that year and abrogated its union contract which had until 1927 to run, claiming it could no longer pay the union scale and operate at a profit.

Gold Assaying $30 To Ton Discovered In Alabama Section

HEFLIN, Ala., September 17 (INS)—Gold assaying $30 to the ton.

The steps of old timers as they come in to view operations on the new discovery "south of Turkey Heaven Mountain," are brisk, they are bright with the unquenched light of the prospect.

As they visit the property of A. J. Ayers, along the line of Cleburne and Randolph counties, about five miles from the famous Arbacoochee gold mines and in close proximity to two other mines, they dream of the days when a gold rush to Alabama and Georgia did not seem at all unlikely.

The new workings are said to be the best paying ever discovered in Alabama. The vein is cut in several places for about a quarter of a mile, according to reports.

In addition to the gold vein just found, W. P. Ayers, living in the same section of Cleburne County, has recently discovered a mica field on his property. He estimates the field to be about five acres and declared it to be a high grade mica.

According to reports a great deal of valuable ore is to be found in this section of Alabama.

Pig Clubs Become Popular In Georgia

WAYCROSS, Ga., Sept. 17 (INS)—"There are lots of lessons and valuable ones the young boys and girls of the rural community can learn, but one of the outstanding bits of schooling attempted in Ware county has been to teach the club boy and girl to 'love a pig.'"

This is the comment of Dr. R. J. Heyde, Ware County agent and one of the most widely known livestock men in the South.

"It is remarkable how the young farmers respond to the work of the pig club," Dr. Heyde continued. "It has been a revelation here what the benefits of introducing pure bred stock through the medium of boys' and girls' clubs would amount to."

JAPAN'S CHRISTIANS

TOKIO—During the last eight years Christianity has increased its foothold on Japanese soil with some 10,000 converted Christians. There are more than 29,000 Japanese Methodist Christians in Japan at the present time, not counting the Japanese Christians of other creeds.

AFRAID TO EAT

Bloating Spells, from Indigestion, Put an Oklahoma Man in a Miserable Fix, But He Found Relief.

Swink, Okla.—In describing how he suffered from indigestion, Mr. B. T. Strain, of this place, says:

"I have been a user of Black-Draught for four or five years. I have been taking it for stomach trouble. I suffered after eating with bloating and a tight feeling. I had spells when I could not eat much of anything. I had severe headaches. I would be nauseated and hurt a lot. I was in a pretty bad fix."

"I began taking Black-Draught. It seemed to help me wonderfully. I hadn't found anything that relieved me as Black-Draught did. I certainly can recommend it."

"There were times when I could not eat without anything to eat and I was too weak to go. I was not miserable, and when I ate my system seemed clogged."

"I had very severe headaches. So I didn't know just what to do. I knew I couldn't work if I didn't eat. I seemed like what I call up was better as could be. I took Black-Draught pretty regularly and got what I could eat and I don't have to take it so regularly now."

"I began taking Black-Draught. It seemed to help me wonderfully. I hadn't found anything that relieved me as Black-Draught did. I certainly can recommend it."

First Matinee Given For Local Children Today At The Milane

On Saturday morning a children's matinee sponsored by the Woman's Club, was given at the Milane Theatre. A splendid program was enjoyed including a novelty animal picture "A Dog's Tail," as well as a synchronized song, which was sung by the children. The feature of the morning was the comedy, "For Heaven's Sake," featuring Harold Lloyd.

While the attendance this morning was not as large as was expected, it is assured that these children's matinees will grow in popularity.

Attractive pictures together with wholesome comedies, interspersed with songs and music, have been arranged for each Saturday morning. There are a group of chaperones each morning and members of the Boy Scouts act as ushers, assuring mothers who cannot accompany their children, that they are being taken the best of care of.

The members of the committee from the Woman's Club urge the mothers to attend these matinees with their children, the price of admission for mothers is the small sum as for the children. The management of the Milane Theatre will give to the Woman's Club a part of the proceeds from these affairs.

On Saturday morning the committee in charge were: Mrs. E. A. Douglas, Mrs. Henry Wright, Mrs. R. G. Davey, Mrs. Charles Powell Jr., Mrs. K. S. Dutton, Miss Margaret Young and Mrs. C. E. Myers.

Acting as ushers were Wilbur Smith, Eugene Estridge, John Fourier, Milton Robbins, Silney Weinberg and Haf Coover.

Sam's Battle Fleet Gets New Boss

With impressive ceremonies, Admiral Louis Rudolph de Steiguer took command of Uncle Sam's battle fleet in Los Angeles harbor the other day. The arrow points to Admiral de Steiguer coming aboard the flagship California to succeed Admiral Richard H. Jackson in command. The inset is a closeup of the admiral's face.

He Flies Trails She Helped Blaze

Verne Roberts of Fargo, N. D., who flies over the trails his grandmother pioneered half a century ago, is entered in the National Air Derby from New York to Spokane. Roberts and his grandmother, who was the first white woman to come to Fargo, are pictured above.

In Oil Bubble

Jacob Bermann, alias Jack Bennett, charged with the responsibility for the bursting of the $100,000,000 Julian oil bubble in Los Angeles, is shown as he telephoned from San Francisco to New York shortly after his arrest to tell his wife "not to worry." The young New Yorker told detectives that, although credited with spending $7,000,000 while with the petroleum corporation, he is now broke.

WORLD GROUP TO HAVE CONTROL OF ELECTRIC FIELD

British Manufacturers Force Combine Organized Soon By U. S. - German Interests; Big Scale Production Seen

LONDON, Sept. 17 (INS)—A worldwide electrical combine under American and German control is foreshadowed by British electrical manufacturers who are advocating a system of trusts and price fixing in this country to enable them to meet foreign competition. They assert that the electrical industry in Great Britain, with 180,000 employes, has been able to maintain its position thus far through effective combination and reasonable standards of production and price, but that German and American manufacturers have forged ahead more rapidly with associations and combinations, thus closing most of the world's electrical markets to British products.

To make the situation clear, the British Electrical Allied Manufacturers' Association has published a book giving detailed account of the international trade of the General Electric Company and the Electricitats-Gesellschaft, showing the connection of these concerns throughout the world, and declaring that the German and American associations are now virtually controlling the world's electrical supply, finance and manufacture.

Markets Are Tight

"Belgium, France, Italy, Germany and Switzerland," the book states, "may be considered as closed preserves as far as the British electrical industry is concerned. Even if all tariffs were swept aside and free trade established throughout Europe, the British electrical manufacturers would benefit only very slightly."

Pointing out that further openings are closed through the "infiltrations of American electrical manufacturers in Japan, Central and South America, the West Indies, Mexico, and Canada," the British manufacturers conclude that they must either throw in their lot with the international groups or prepare to meet their competition by a well-organized electrical ring in this country.

The British industry, it is declared, "can meet that competition if it combines much more effectively than hitherto and carries out the work of co-ordination in face of the necessary changes before the testing period will come."

Trusts are held to be inevitable in the direct line of evolution towards the better economic and social conditions in the modern state. With regard to price-fixing, the manufacturers say: "The days of exchange and barter are over, and the day of fixed prices has come, and such development must be considered as a real condition of economic and social progress."

Large Scale Production "In the main necessities of life, in articles of everyday consumption, a fixed momentary return is demanded for goods and services without the possibility of bargaining."

"Electrical manufacturers in America and Europe adopted very early the principle of large scale production and co-operation action both in market and price control."

"The free play of competition between firm and firm belongs now to history—it has definitely gone from the world of practice politics."

"The price-fixing ring or association governs electrical manufacturers in every European country which has an industry worthy of the name and it is impossible not to regard the system as fairly sound and fairly justifiable."

"The only alternative to it must

Florida And California Use Different Methods In Making Bid For Tourists

ORLANDO, Fla., Sept. 17 (INS)—Florida and California are bidding for winter tourists, but with different tools, according to Paul O. Meredith, executive secretary of the Florida Association of Real Estate Boards, who has just returned from a trip to the west coast during which he spent some time in California.

According to Mr. Meredith, Florida excels in natural or God-given advantages and California in man-made appeals.

"Florida has a better all-year climate, greater natural beauty and a better location in the United States, but California is way ahead of us in such man-made advantages as cooperative advertising, beautification, both public and private, railroad rates, tourist entertainment, consistent public and personal boosting and general spirit of the people," he said. "Of course in consideration of these two states who lead in the winter visitor business, we must remember that California has been in it and with her eyes open much longer than Florida."

"While California has developed her co-operation marketing organizations and her manufacturing enterprise more extensively than Florida I believe that at the present time general business is better in Florida than in California or a score of other northern and western states which I visited."

"Always considering that fact that Florida is young in development, with a scant 1,600,000 population, she is in better shape than the majority of states, and what she lacks which man can supply would be a challenge to every citizen of this state."

"As everyone knows, our winter tourist business is one of our mainstays, but in order to create a steadily increasing demand for this product, Florida must profit from the lessons learned by our more experienced sister and put more man power behind our appeal. More support should be thrown to our organizations working to attract tourists. One of the lessons which California has evidently learned is that if you gouge a tourist once, you may not get the chance to do it again. California landlords, restaurant and hotel-keepers evidently operate on a policy of making a reasonable return on normal valuation of their investment. Coupled with the other items, previously mentioned in which they excel in California, this gets the business, as it will in Florida."

While in California, Mr. Meredith studied methods and results and interviewed the managers of Californians, Inc., Californian Opportunities, The California Development Association, the Sun-Maid Raisin Growers, the All Year Club of Southern California, the San Diego California club and many other boards of commerce and realty boards.

NOTORIOUS EAST SIDE OF FORMER DECADES IS GONE

River Section And Bowery Today Are Fully Americanized; Chinatown Has Been Cleaned Out And Thoroughly Tamed

NEW YORK, Sept. 17.—(INS)—The famed "East Side" is not what it used to be.

Gone is the old Bowery; the picturesque characters such as "Gyp the Blood," the ruthless and crooked politicians; the houses of ill repute; the distressing poverty of the rows of dilapidated tenements—and many other evidences of a primitive type of people who fifteen or twenty years ago were the subject matter for the writers of vivid fact and fiction.

The immigration laws, restricting the influx from foreign countries, have wrought a decided change.

Today, the East Side is pretty much Americanized. Instead of a bubble of tongues you hear the English language along the "Side walks of New York." You see intelligent young men studying in the night schools; you hear the older men discussing with a knowing air such matters as Mr. Coolidge not "choosing" to run again and Al Smith's chances of becoming president; you see neat, silk-stockinged flappers "ankling along in the approved Fifth Avenue manner and you notice that there are less children wild on the streets than years ago.

Chinatown Is Tamed Chinatown, in the heart of the East Side, has tamed down considerably and a tong war is now quite an event. The merchants of Chinatown, in itself a little city, have learned by experience that tong wars are disapproved in America, and that they don't pay.

True, there are pushcarts still, but they are becoming fewer and fewer and are being propelled by elderly men who can't do anything else to earn a livelihood. Like the bootblacks of the Horatio Alger novels they are becoming noticeable.

Unlimited competition, progressive ruin in the resultant state of anarchy, the emergence of a few producers too weak to face foreign competition effectively even with the aid of a tariff and the disappearance of the industry."

ably scarcer. The apache-like gangsters of twenty years ago have been replaced by a numerically smaller type of "sheik" gunmen-whose activities are largely devoted to defeating the aim of the Eighteenth Amendment to the Constitution. They regard bootlegging as a nice, refined business.

Tammany Remains Tammany Hall still is located on East Fourth street but the grip of politicians on the community has slipped tremendously, and politicians are no longer the "high nuckity-nucks" they used to be. Other community influences are more powerful.

Tenement life is giving way to a movement to rectify conditions in this respect. Mayor "Jimmy" Walker has just completed a study of the housing situation in Europe and steps are under way to wipe out the last vestige of the slums of New York, which are in the East Side.

The police have long since driven out the women of easy virtue. A restricted district is a thing of the far distant past.

People from out of town who wend their way to that busy section at Forty-second and Broadway are imprompted to make "slumming" trips in big busses to the East Side—to "see Chinatown at night" and the other sights. They may be thrilled by the superficial appearances of a strange and exotic foreign city in New York when they are driven to say Rivington and Delancy streets, but rest assured, readers, it isn't the old ghetto. Neither is Chinatown the Chinatown of 1900 or 1910. Things are so quiet at night in Chinatown now that the Chinese, with an eye for business, have to "rib up" signs to show the curious and the sights are so tame that the visitors who come to be shocked are invariably disappointed.

Greenwich Village Wanes Even the far-famed Greenwich Village, located on the western fringe of the lower East Side, has lost nearly all of its individuality and recovered all of its respectability. There are a dozen or two cafes and cabarets with queer names making a pretense at featuring the gay life but it is, indeed, pretense. The old spontaneous naughtiness of the Village is gone. There is no ary going up for "freedom." Everybody seems to go to Greenwich Village to smoke cigarettes or bob their hair.

Covering The Field

In buying advertising a merchant must consider what portion of the territory served the medium selected will cover. The cost of advertising should always be judged by results, for results alone are what count.

Reach Sanford's Trading Territory At One Cost

Through The Herald, the only A. B. C. paper in Seminole County, an advertiser can at one cost put his message before 90 per cent of the people that live in Sanford's trading territory. No risks, no if's and's and but's about it--The Herald covers the field thoroughly.

Economy In Advertising Appropriation

Through The Herald an advertiser can reach 90 per cent of the people who buy in Sanford--this medium needs no supplementary publicity--The Herald is an evening paper, a paper which goes home and is read by all the family.
