Need For Planning Has A High Priority

Any further delay in providing the planning our-view required for certification of Sanford's "work-able program" can be indulged in by the City Com-

At least 12 programs which provide federal funds to assist in our growth are at stake. The city has been given a coloniar dead-line of April 1 for re-certification which must be done by the U. S. Department of Housing and Urban Development.

There is also a seed to recognize what planning means in the challenge new knocking on the door of the City Commission. This is no marrow or one-time

In a further statement Mr. Maurer points out that, "The community must demonstrate that it has the ability to abserb federal funds and will not balk at changes in local policy which are often endemic to the acceptance of ostelde aid."

Such opinions from such an authority as Mr.

Maurer are, of course, most valuable when thought about in the light of our present time of growth and

They are offered as points which some may have overlooked. But the one point which certainly cannot be overlooked, or put aside or delayed is the HUD deadline and the necessity to move at once so that the preliminary steps can be taken in time!

Concert & Game

If anybody was looking for proof that Sanford and Saminale County - indeed the entire Ploride area - were very much alive and able to suspect two such events as the ap-pearance of the greatest jazz pianist in the world and a top-ranking basistball game, they have

Duke Ellington at Sanford' Civic Center was the magnet whose name and fame brought music buffs from as far away as Jacksonville and large groups from as near as Winter Park.
His was the appearance and his the event which, identified with Sanford, brought the name of our laboride city into the spotlight of notice wherever the Duke's great talents were discussed. And brought it there associated with that word "excellence" which is so dearly won. Yet the greatest number of spectators, the greatest freezy of audience participation were not in the Civic Center but in the Seminole High School gymnacium where an inspired hasiathall team from Seminole Junior College defeated the Loke City Junior College team This event is also credited with creating a great traffic jam as the fired-up crowd took to the road with horns blaring celebrating this

All of which — concert and game — is, to be sure quite in the order of normal events. But this coincidence of scheduling two such major performances on the same night, also, bears a

The time may come when such unfortunate scheduling will not be avoidable. Certainly it is avoidable now, however. We believe that there is an obvious need for a central clearing house where all Sanford events could be listed. for our increasingly successful Interpretive Report

Port and starboard are common terms at sea, though generally referred to on the bridge these days as left and right. At one time port was "larboard." Larboard at the time of Drake was the left side of the vessel looking forward, taken from Medieval English "laddeborde - lading side. Starboard came from the ancient English word "steorbord" - arising from the use of a large steering our that was on the right side of the vessel at the stern, or a "steering board."
