Count Ten

The nearer one goes in the realm of life, the more apt it is to see things with the proper perspective. A strange stallion suddenly admitted to a corral full of horses is promptly viewed with eyes of intense suspicion; there is no sense of hospitality among them. A baby, deprived for the moment of its rattle, cries loud and lustily; the rattle is the most important thing in its life. A moron, inadvertently bumped by another person on a busy street, is offended, angered, and wants to fight. But the intelligent citizen welcomes the stranger, smiles at the deprivations of life, and laughs at the bumps he gets.

A Tampa man who is charged with attempting to kill a neighbor because the neighbor's cow grazed upon his property, comes under the head of those persons who have not grown to a full enjoyment of the amenities of life. Like the infant he takes himself and his rattle too seriously. No doubt a neighbor's cow could be very annoying if it by chance insisted upon grazing off your favorite flower beds and trampling down your plants and vines, but how much better it would be, we think, to make your neighbor so fond of you and the attractiveness of your place that he would want to keep his cow at home.

But the Tampa man who is thus charged with assault with intent to commit murder is not a very popular sort. He has something of a record as a bad man. His name is Marion Highsmith. He first came into prominence some years ago when he killed Charles Ewing and was sentenced to Raiford for life. He again attracted attention last year when he participated in a gun fight with a convict who was attempting to escape. Highsmith aided Superintendent Blitch in recapturing House, Commendable, yes.

For this he was pardoned and returned to Tampa where he has resided for several months apparently at peace with the world until this cow strayed upon his property. What a little thing to get mad about. He shot the cow and is said to have shot at this neighbor. He might have killed him. Then he could have returned to Raiford, probably finding it more difficult next time to get a pardon.

It is always well to count ten before shooting.

The Abolition Of Grammars

As we now remember it the first eight years of our scholastic career, so far as English was concerned, was spent in learning to parse, spell, diagram and conjugate. We do not believe we ever read, in grammar school, a single one of the classics. For that reason it is particularly interesting to find the following in the New York World which tends to show that schools are gradually awakening to the fact that the best way to learn good grammar is to read good grammar and to talk good grammar:

"Old-fashioned people still believe in teaching the alphabet by rote, though youngsters learn to read more quickly by studying syllables and words. They still believe in drilling everybody in compound proportion or the 'double rule of three,' though much advanced arithmetic is useless lumber for those who know a little algebra. Such people will be horrified by the elimination of grammars in all New York grades below 7A, and the drastic simplification of the study elsewhere. No parings, No conjugations? No black-board diagrams of involved sentences, or drill in the subjunctive, the ablative and the dative?"

"Dr. O'Shea explains that the abolition of grammar books does not mean the abolition of grammar. It means that the time once spent in learning abstract rules governing the pluperfect tense and the use of the accusative will henceforth be more pleasantly and profitably employed in absorbing good usage from the masters of literature. There are numerous examples of great writers whose only grammars were the Bible, Shakespeare and a few other classics. There are no examples of great literary figures, who learned to write by memorizing the rules in Lindley Murray or A. S. Hill. Dr. O'Shea's announcement means the emancipation of youngsters from a rather senseless tyranny. The world sometimes seems a little careless of mere grammar nowadays, and prefers vigor to wooden correctness. But even the purist will point to the classics and not to the textbooks as the best place to learn purity."

IN HIS BRUSH with Senator Heflin about the Catholics, Senator Borah made an excellent speech in which he assailed religious bigotry of the type personified by the Alabamian. He rebuked intolerance very effectively. But something seemed nevertheless to be wrong with this Borah speech. While good in itself it did not ring true. The fault with it was pointed out by Senator Joe Robinson who sharply arraigned Borah for his studied silence on the question of the Presidential campaign. Borah was the leader of Hoover's oratorical battalions. The Idaho Senator went to curious extremes of partisan advocacy in the interest of Mr. Hoover, but never once lifted his voice to rebuke the bigots who were standing by his side yelling as uproariously for Hoover as their lungs would permit. Borah accepted their aid, if not without misgivings, at least without rebuking them.—Montgomery Advertiser.

NON CHURCHGOER SPEAKS

Two of the pulpit made against the modern Protestant church in an article "A Sky Pilot Taxes," published in a recent issue of Berthier's, were: "Youth was conspicuous by its absence." Also "because the church has failed the way they do not go to church." In a more recent issue of the same publication the son of a Baptist minister and nephew of four others who is a colonel in the United States marine corps, comments on the observations of the "sky pilot" and upon those of others who have discussed the problem of nonattendance at church services. He says, among other things: "There might be blame for the delinquency of the Ph.D.'s and other highbrows who wrote such solemn contributions on the above-mentioned discussion the impression that one non-churchgoer has formed."

The colonel's impression as to why Protestant churches are failing to reach so many young people and to retain their hold upon so many grownups is listed by him in seven parts, or reasons for the situation with which these churches are faced. They are as follows: First—The stubborn resistance of the Methodist church (I class the others, under this too-familiar term) to Sunday sports, and their determined lobbying in state legislatures against any bill designed to allow Sunday baseball and

"We lived, fell down and sunset's glow, and were loved"

None more than William A. MacKenzie of Leesburg whose death last Monday has shocked and saddened Florida. The fervor of dawn and the triumph of sunset filled his life. He loved greatly and was greatly loved. In the death of a man whose life course is run there is sadness but no tragedy but in that of a man like Dr. MacKenzie, whose years had just reached their brilliant and useful prime, there is tragedy in bitter degree. Leesburg's loss is his city and his state a record of spiritual, cultural and physical service which his death does not destroy but only illuminates.

The greatest thing in life, Dr. MacKenzie wrote us last winter, "is the extreme joy of life's opportunities to grow by service. There is no other real happiness." He considered to be the finest quality in any man or woman. Intolerance, self-righteousness, bigotry were hateful to him, alien to his thoughts and deeds. Rarely have faith and works been joined as noble in one man's life story as in his. In business, in journalism, in medicine, in politics, and in manifold public services he will be remembered long for what he did and what he inspired others to do.

The calibre of men chosen by President Hoover for his law enforcement commission is too high for much criticism in advance of findings. But not so high that the eventual report, whatever it is, will escape withering abuse from one side or another in the liquor law question. Unless, of course, the commission plays safe and gets nowhere.

The supreme court's decision in the so-called O'Fallon case, permitting railroads to base their valuations for rate-making and income purposes on present cost of reproduction is a great victory for the carriers. Most economists agree that ordinarily the most satisfactory basis of value is average earning power. But where, as in the case of railroads and other public utilities, earning power is arbitrarily limited by the government through regulation of rates, some other basis of valuation must be found. The fixing of such a basis is a delicate and dubious task as are all similar substitutions of human regulation for natural economic laws. By and large, the only proper agencies of economic justice are those economic laws of competition and of supply and demand. The fact that the laws do not work in the social case, of public utilities or of agricultural production is only warrant for governmental interference.

From a California congressman has come a bill authorizing a federal appropriation of $1,000,000 to reimburse Florida fruit growers whose property is destroyed in the war on the Mexico. This fine gesture of "hands across the continent" gives emphasis to the often forgotten fact that Florida and California have a much in common as in competition.

Tallahassee comes this week to its greatest problem in arithmetic. In just how many ways five cents can be divided is a question for which every legislator seems to have his pet answer. The lowly nicker was never so notable.

If the legislature can squeeze through all its remaining business before the adjournment date fixed by law it will qualify as a con-tortionist.

With $435,500 in permits reported for the town of Palm Beach, and $150,780 for the city of West Palm Beach, to all building permits for the Palm Beaches for April are well over the half-million mark, and exceed those of April, 1928, by a wide margin. Permits for the entire first four months of 1928 were only $398,976 for Palm Beach, as compared to a total of $564,055 for a similar period this year.—Palm Beach Times.

signally fail in its mission." Comment upon such expressions as these of the "sky pilot" and the colonel of marines would seem to be unnecessary. They must convey an obvious lesson, message and warning in all such churchmen as have not become so thoroughly engrossed in the futile and dangerous business of trying to control society as a whole that they have eyes and see not and ears and hear not.

THE SANFORD FORUM

PIKEAPPLES AND FREIGHT RATES

EDITOR SANFORD HERALD—Dear Sir:—In response to your editorial of Tuesday proposing the growing of pineapples in the Sanford District, I wish to inform you that pineapples cannot be produced in this latitude under outdoor cultural conditions. They would freeze almost every winter. I was one of about a dozen men who were in the pineapple business in Orange County a number of years ago but we had to provide cloth greenhouses and artificial heat in order to produce this fruit and the cost proved to be prohibitive.

We have tried out everything that agriculturists and horticulturists have recommended for this latitude and have settled on celery as our most logical main crop because of our peculiarly favorable equipment in soil, climate, and water for irrigation, which enables us to produce this crop without failure, year after year, and if we would get on the right track in the distribution and marketing of our celery crop we would not have to decrease our present acreage or look for any other main crop.

I do, however, wish to call your attention to a new vegetable freight-rate law that has just gone into effect and which may prove of interest to our farmers. This freight rate or ruling went into effect February 6th, 1929, and provides that cars of mixed vegetables may be shipped out under a freight rate carrying each vegetable in the car at the car-load rate on that vegetable. Heretofore farmers have been handicapped by having to pay a rate on such mixed cars of vegetables which was based on the highest rated product in the car.

I have stated briefly this matter and it is only a beginning of more favorable rates on mixed cars of both fruits and vegetables. I am enclosing the freight-tariff and will ask you to publish the note that I have underscored if you use this article in order to make clear provisions of the freight tariff.

I am enclosing also Bulletin number 29 of the University of Florida, Division of Agriculture and the United States Department of Agriculture cooperating, under the title of Commercial Truck Crops of Florida. You will find here listed sixteen different products and they can all be produced in their seasons in the Sanford Districts with the addition of a few more such as turnips and radishes.

With our packing-house facilities we could now put out mixed cars of celery, beets, carrots, cabbage, turnips, radishes, green bunched onions, etc., through the winter seasons and find a profitable market for them in hundreds of towns and cities to which we cannot ship a solid car of celery.

There are only a few of the products listed in this Bulletin which are affected by the Mediterranean Fruit Fly and if Seminole County farmers wish to diversify and at the same time help get a better distribution of celery I consider this time a most favorable one for the starting of mixed cars of vegetables out of Sanford, under a more favorable freight rate than we have ever had and with packing-house facilities that we have not had until recently.

ED Note:—The tariff rate regulations to which Mr. Berry refers is as follows: "Where mixed carloads of vegetables are shipped, the carload rate applicable to each commodity shall be applied to the actual quantity of that commodity in the car subject to a carload minimum weight to be arrived at by applying the tariff estimated package weights. If the weight of the contents, under the tariff estimated package weights, is less than the carload minimum weight fixed herein the difference between such weight of the contents and such carload minimum weight shall be charged for at the rate applying to the highest rated commodity contained in the car. (Effective Feb. 5, 1929)." The sixteen products which Mr. Berry recommends as being most indigenous to this soil and climate are beans, beets, cabbage, cauliflower, celery, cucumbers, eggplants, lettuce, okra, onions, English peas, peppers, squash, strawberries, sweet corn and tomatoes.

GOVERNOR'S PLAN ENDORSED

TAMPA TIMES

Announcement has been made that the legislative committee of the Florida state chamber of commerce, composed of G. G. Warr, Leesburg, chairman; Herman A. Lamm, St. Petersburg; Joe H. Gill, Miami; Dr. Burdette G. Lewis, Penney Farms and Lewis Liv-ly, Tallahassee; has endorsed the tax relief program of Governor Carlton in its entirety. Approval of the measure here involved by such a committee of representative Floridians ought to go a long way to testify to the desirability of the governor's plan. Chairman Warr and his associates are not men who would go off half-cocked.

Information is also to the effect that a referendum of the board of directors of the chamber relative to the proposed gross sales tax, the luxury tax and an absentee voter's law was canvassed by the committee, which announced an overwhelming sentiment against the two special tax proposals and a virtually unanimous vote in favor of the absentee ballot measure. The legislative committee voted favorably to the following measures: Bills abolishing the automobile speed limit; providing that all expenses of the state government be paid by appropriation made by the legislature and that no ad valorem tax be levied or collected for any special purpose; providing for the creation of the office of state veterinarian; prohibiting the posting of signs along highways without written consent of land owners; reducing residence requirements in divorce actions to six months; concerning the guardianship of incompetent veterans and minor children of disabled or deceased veterans; to repeal the law protecting fresh water muskrats; health, accident and disability insurance policies held by heads of families from claims of creditors.

PULLING TOGETHER

SARASOTA HERALD

One of the most famous orchestras of the country was at rehearsal. Arduous arguments were in progress. The players were highly temperamental and each apparently arbitrary in his views. It looked as if harmony would be impossible, yet on the appearance of this nationally known organization before the public each musician knew that their individual and collective success as well as the fame of their orchestra depended upon each other under the leadership of the director, regardless of their own personal opinion or feeling in the premises. So, they were highly praised and appreciated by the public. They had the spirit we must cultivate. We must learn to play and work together for the

from the back of the fork; the American is unique in considering it well bred to tip his soup plate away from him; to call a man a cow (or is it a camel?) in France is as insulting as to suggest canine ancestry in America. Time was, and not so long ago, when a woman was immodest who showed her ankle; the quarter sleeve masculine bathing suit of fifteen years ago seems merely cumbersome today. That is obscene which shocks; that shocks which is unfamiliar. There can be no absolute standards of obscenity or profanity; they are relative to mind of the listener. Hence it is inevitable that judgments should differ in Boston and New York, in London, England, and London, Ontario, and even in New York from one year to another.

NEW YORK HERALD TRIBUNE Today it is illegal to mail Mrs. Bennett's pamphlet on The Sex Slide of Life, but it is still legal to ship it by express or to sell it over a counter. In Canada the booklet is fit for mails, and perhaps when the Circuit Court of Appeals has passed upon it it will resume its purity in the United States. Before returning home they expect to spend some time with relatives at points in North Carolina.

Miss Higgins Honors Her Club Members

The members of the Chic Chat Club were honored with a bridge party given on Wednesday afternoon by Miss Julia Higgins at the home of her parents in Loch Arbor. Several progressions of bridge were enjoyed during the afternoon and prizes were awarded to Miss Beverly Bender and Miss Ethelida Tatterson. Miss Bender received a crepe de chine handkerchief for high score, while Miss Tatterson was the recipient of a silk handkerchief for low score.
The rooms where the guests were entertained were adorned with a profusion of cut flowers and fern. At the tea hour a sweet course was served by the hostess, assisted by Miss R. E. Griffin.
Members present were: the Misses Thelie Holston, R. E. Griffin, Beverly Bender, Ethelida Tatterson, Jane Torrance, Katherine Schindler, Margaret Thompson and Rose LaVerne Hurt.

GAY WHITE WAY SEES NOT GREAT CHURCH GROWTH

NEW YORK, May 23. (INS)—While Broadway, the street of the bright lights and broken hearts, wines and dines and guffaws at wisecracks, New York City is in the swing of a great church construction movement. More than eighty edifices are planned or actually being built.
All this is going on quietly without fanfare and publicity that has attended the recent trials of two night club hostesses, or the occasional shootings and raids on speakeasies. If the country as a whole forms the opinion that this is a jazz age town, the church-going conclusion is quite different.
No other city ever has raised so many magnificent places of worship at one time, as New York.

Mrs. Holly Is Hostess To Her Bridge Club

Honoring the members of the Afternoon Tea Duplicate Club, Mrs. R. J. Holly entertained with bridge on Wednesday afternoon at her home, 618 Park Avenue. Sixteen boulevards duplicate were played during the course of the afternoon and high scores were held by Mrs. Roy F. Symes and Mrs. R. M. Pughworth.
Red was the predominating color used for decorations and party appointments. Red gladioli and fern were arranged in vases and bowls about the rooms where the guests were received while the card tables were also in red. A salad and ice course was served late in the afternoon by the hostess to the following: Mrs. T. J. Dumas, Mrs. W. M. Scott, Mrs. Roy F. Symes, Mrs. B. M. Lippworth, Mrs. J. C. Benson, Mrs. S. J. Loucks and Mrs. Harry Wilson.

Fashions for the Smart Woman

For those who dance around the ball or merely watch the stereotyped lack of vitality, a fascinating innovation in sport took. The model sketched above is typical of the most accepted version of this fashion with the deep V back for those who follow the Sun Tan cult, and trim smartness. A deep poke effect simulates a two-piece effect over the hips and extends to a deep V in the center-front. The stake is repeated in the front of the blouse fitting with the popular low trim, while the tailored belt defines the normal waist line. Pique, shantung, linen or flat crepe are the popular fabrics.
Patented Printed Pattern No. 4816. Sizes 14 to 20 years, 32 to 46 bust, 35 cents. Monogram No. 568, 3 inches, 20 cents.

Salutatory—Dorothea Wyman.
Introduction of Speakers—Mr. A. F. Kemp, Trustee.
Address—Mr. C. D. Wolfe.
Song—"Over the Summer Sea".
Awarding of Diplomas—Supr. T. W. Lawton.
Valedictory—Paul King.
Benediction.

Baptists Act Against Heads Of University

DES MOINES, May 23.—(INS)—Baptist ministers here today were "fed up" on Dr. T. T. Shields and Miss Edith M. Rehm, President and secretary of the board of trustees of Des Moines University.
Resolutions adopted by the pastors today declared the Institution should no longer continue under Dr. Shields and Miss Rehm's direction.
"We are not at all in sympathy with the present management and cannot lend our sympathy, co-operation or encouragement to the future of the College under the present regime," the resolution added.

Church Circles Hold Meetings On Monday

The members of Circle Number Seven of the First Baptist Church met on Monday afternoon at the church for their regular business meeting. Mrs. I. E. Estridge, chairman, presided over the business session after which the mission study course was taken up. Fruit and magazines were donated by all present to the Salvation Army for charity work.
Those present were: Mrs. F. E. Savage, Mrs. Bob Howell, Mrs. Strange, Mrs. Horn, Mrs. A. J. Waiker, and Mrs. I. E. Estridge.
Mrs. H. A. Spier entertained members of Circle Number Nine of the First Baptist Church at their regular meeting Monday afternoon at 3:30 o'clock at her home, 2108 Palmetto Avenue. Mrs. George Huff led the devotional which was followed by the study course in the mission book, conducted by Mrs. W. E. Stone.
Those present were: Mrs. George W. Huff, Mrs. W. E. Stone, Mrs. G. S. Selman, Mrs. E. J. Taylor, Mrs. W. L. Stoudenmire, Miss Guslie Fletcher, Miss Mary Goodale and Mrs. Spier.
Mrs. F. E. Boltz presided at the meeting at Circle Number Five of the First Baptist Church which was held on Monday afternoon at Mrs. Boltz's home, 1205 Park Avenue. Mrs. F. W. Staney opened the meeting with a prayer after which the chairman gave a talk on her topic for the afternoon "Beginning of Missions."
Mrs. E. M. Carroll and Mrs. C. B. Rudd then sang a duet and the mission study course was taken up. The members decided at this time that the next month's work should include the distribution of literature.
Among those present were: Mrs. C. B. Rudd, Mrs. E. M. Carroll, Mrs. F. W. Stanley and Mrs. J. M. Newby.

Mrs. Smith Honors 2 Visitors On Tuesday

Mrs. A. E. Morrison and Mrs. T. J. Baggs of Tampa who are visiting Mrs. A. C. McLendon, 1300 Park Avenue, were the honor guests at a bridge party given on Tuesday afternoon by Mrs. Lester H. Smith at her home in the Hill Apartments. Mrs. Morrison and Mrs. Baggs received novelty handkerchief cases as gifts from the hostess.
Several progressions of bridge were played during the afternoon and high score prize, a novelty cabinet for the dressing table, was won by Mrs. E. J. Trotter, who scored high score prize, a handkerchief case containing georgette handkerchiefs in pastel shades, was presented to Mrs. R. A. Smith. Pink and white were the colors chosen for decorations and party appointments. A profusion of roses, gladioli and zinnias, in shades of pink and white, was arranged in various places about the party rooms while the tallies and other bridge accessories further developed the color motif.
Refreshments were served by the hostess, assisted by Mrs. Wade Lowrey, to the following: Mrs. Morrison and Mrs. Baggs, honor guests, Mrs. E. J. Trotter, Mrs. R. A. Smith, Mrs. A. C. Dolores Costello's "Glad Rag Doll" Diverting Comedy

Kipling was right about the Colonel's lady and Judy O'Grady being sisters under the skin. At least, it seemed so at the lawn fete given by the aristocratic Fairchild's when an unwelcome "actress person" and a superannuated but kiltish admiral, guest of honor at the reception, went among the sedate dancers and proceeded to put on a highly colored version of the Varsity Drag.
At first the supercilious ladies and gentlemen gazed on the spectacle in disdain and disapproval, and the hostess was in a torment of consternation. But within a few minutes the guests without exception were all reveling in the abundance of the new dance, "dragging it" furiously and enjoying themselves to the utmost.
This forms one of the amusing scenes in the new Warner Brothers' Vitaphone production, "The Glad Rag Doll," at the Milane theatre today, which stars Dolores Costello, and presents an unusually excellent supporting cast which includes Ralph Graves, Audrey Ferris, Albert Gran, Arthur Rankin, Maude Turner Gordon, Tom Ricketts, Dale Fuller, Claude Gillingwater, Aude Beranger, Tom Kennedy and Lee Moran. Michael Curtis directed, and C. Graham Baker wrote the scenario, based on an original story by Harvey Gates. "The Glad Rag Doll" has much diverting comedy mingled with its drama.

Mrs. DeCottes Gives Party For Her Club

Mrs. George A. DeCottes was hostess to the members of the Fort-nightly Club and other friends with bridge and luncheon on Wednesday afternoon at her home, 1920 Park Avenue.
After the arrival of the guests at 1 o'clock, luncheon was served in courses from the card tables which were overlaid with linen cloths and centered with small vases of garden flowers. Other decorations about the rooms where the guests were entertained consisted of Spring flowers which were arranged in vases and bowls.
At the conclusion of the bridge games, high score prizes among the club members went to Mrs. F. E. Rounhill and Mrs. D. L. Thraeber, while Mrs. J. G. Sharon and Mrs. Wallace W. Wright won high score prizes for the guests. Each received a novelty beach bag.
Those present were: Mrs. F. E. Rounhill, Mrs. George D. Bishop, Mr. Frank L. Miller, Mrs. W. J. T. Green, Mrs. D. P. Drummond, Mr. D. L. Thraeber, Mrs. A. P. Corbett, Mrs. J. E. Brouse, Mrs. J. G. Sharon, Mrs. Wallace W. Wright, Mrs. R. A. Newman and Mrs. F. J. Gonzalez.

Mrs. Mero Has Party For Club Wednesday

A bridge luncheon was given on Wednesday morning for the members of the Sisters Club by Mrs. P. A. Mero at her home on Elliott Avenue in Mayal. At the conclusion of the bridge games, high score prizes were awarded to Mrs. C. E. Kirtland and Mrs. M. J. Kirtland.
Quantities of pink roses and carnations were arranged about the party tables and helped develop a pink color scheme which was further emphasized by the tallies which were of-fashioned designs.
Early in the afternoon luncheon was served in the parlors by the hostess, assisted by Mrs. C. E. Kirtland and Mrs. H. B. Wright.
Those present were: Mrs. Elton Moughton, Mrs. M. J. Kirtland, Mrs. E. L. Perkins, Mrs. M. Wiggins, Mrs. J. L. Hurt, Mrs. M. Kirtley, Mrs. E. F. Housholder and Mrs. Floyd Palmer.

6 Sanford Students Are In Rollins Recital

A number of Sanford students participated in one of a series of recitals which was presented Tuesday evening at the Woman's Club home in Winter Park by the Rollins College Conservatory of Music. Miss Elizabeth Smith and Miss Alice DeCoursey gave piano solos while Miss Lucille Bolt, Walter Smith and Edwin Smith presented several violin selections. Others taking part on the program were Miss Helen Douglass and Miss Elizabeth Smith who played a piano duet.
Guests from Sanford included: Mr. and Mrs. W. C. Smith, Mrs. W. R. Corran, Mr. and Mrs. Frank Smith, Mrs. Vanz and Miss Hazel York.

Nut-Sweet Flavor

It takes three years to produce Lucky Strike's flavor. This unrivaled cigarette is a blend of finest tobaccos from each of three consecutive growths—the cream of the crop. Then comes the secret toasting process which in the opinion of 20,679* physicians makes Lucky Strike less irritating than other cigarettes. This exclusive heat treatment also purifies the tobacco and adds a touch of nut-sweet flavor—appetizing, delicious, different—the earmark of one of the world's most popular products.

1. A "wet gas" is an atomized mixture of gasoline vapor in which are suspended drops of raw gasoline.
2. These drops of raw gasoline resist the action of the spark and will not ignite.
3. Result:—destructive crankcase dilution—difficult starts—slow acceleration—sluggish power.

1. The new and better Texaco vaporizes so readily that it forms a "dry gas"—a volatile mixture of gasoline and air.
2. This pure, "dry" gas responds instantly to the action of the spark.
3. Result:—lightning starts—rapid acceleration—smooth power.

8 Mile Climb In Plane Is Britain's Air Goal

LONDON, May 23.—(INS)—Britain is planning a spectacular attempt on the air altitude record of 8 miles that will be made by a biplane that will be able to climb at least eight miles. The present record figure is 23,000 feet.

Elaborate preparations will be necessary for this effort, and the selected pilot will have to undergo special training. A secret super-charged engine will be used and the overhead wings of the machine will be heated from the exhaust.

Records should not be set up. Almost daily pilots are attempting to break the 20,000 foot, using oxygen apparatus and this is part of their daily routine duty.

Pilots find high flying particularly fascinating. As the margin rises higher and higher there comes a sense of complete detachment from the world. Clouds take on a solid aspect, and after flying for half an hour at a height of 30,000 feet the sensation on return is almost one of coming back to a different world.

Australian Explorer Plans His Last Quest

LONDON, May 23.—(INS)—Sir Douglas Mawson the famous Australian explorer, who is leaving today and night on his last great adventure—an expedition to the Antarctic which he hopes will make world history.

Sir Mawson knows more about the land he has explored than any other man. He led the Australian Antarctic Expedition in 1911-1914, putting 1,000 miles of new coastline on the map, and now at the age of forty-six, he is leaving forty men there again.

Obviously the trip is to short further great gaps along the coastline and to study the life and habits of the whole for commercial reasons. In the mind of Sir Douglas, however, it is a greater and much more far-reaching mission.

Railroads Work Towards Phone Installation Upon Their Fast Moving Trains

NEW YORK, May 23.—(INS)—The use of practically all telephoning from a fast-moving train has been demonstrated, railway officials in this country are giving attention to the commercial possibilities of the new and revolutionary system of communication.

The test, made from a railroad train on the Canadian National Railways, was successful in every sense of the word. This reporter, the first newspaper man to talk over the telephone from the train could converse with a party twenty miles away in Toronto as easily as he ordinarily can while making a local call. The train was going about thirty miles an hour at the time and this in no way hampered communication.

Newspaper Comment Since the demonstration there has been considerable comment in the newspapers regarding possibilities of the new telephonic system and there is no doubt that the matter will receive attention from American railway officials. That the subject of telephoning from trains had been previously considered by the railroads in the United States is disclosed, however, by Walter S. Gilford, president of the American Telephone and Telegraph Company, Inc.

For some years the American Telephone and Telegraph company has been ready to install telephone service on moving trains and about two years ago had the matter up actively with two of the leading railroad systems in the country. Both railroads decided against it as it was not considered commercially practical if any railroad wishes to give such service on its lines and bear the cost of it, we should be very happy to install it and connect it with the lines of the Bell system."

The Canadian National railway officials are proud of their achievement in being the first to establish a two-way telephone communication from a moving train to a point on the ground.

Canada in Lead One-way telephone communication from trains has been in effect in Germany but Canada is the first country to successfully demonstrate the possibilities of two-way communication. The Canadian National Railways plans to install the service as quickly as possible on two of its trains. The system will be installed on other trains subsequently.

Credit for the achievement is being largely given to a modest, self-effacing chap of thirty-two—Joseph C. Burkholder, chief engineer of the Telegraph and Telephone Department of the Canadian National Railways. He is the man who some time previously perfected the carrier current system that has been installed on 25 per cent of the company's telegraph lines and has proved one of the most revolutionary telegraph developments of the past decade.

Paris, May 23.—(INS)—The faculty of the latest American "floating university" to visit Europe, met here today to consider what punitive measures, if any, should be taken towards "insurgent" students.

A group of the 85 young men and women students led by James Oliver Curwood, Jr., and others, had held an indignation meeting last night claiming that the criteria had been misrepresented and that the students had been compelled to undergo hardships, notably during their travels through the Orient.

Dan Sidney Greenberg, of Amherst, Mass., who is in charge of the cruise, promised that a statement would be issued in the Press late in the day answering the accusations of the students.

LOUISE FAZENDA NEEDS NO DOUBLE IN HER PICTURES

Star Is Able To Alter Her Voice To Meet Many Requirements

By Frederic A. Chase International News Service Staff Correspondent HOLLYWOOD, May 23.—The movie magicians, Make-up and Wigs, have taken a new member into the firm. The old partnership was all right for the silent films, but they couldn't handle the talkie situation by themselves.

The new partner isn't old enough yet to have a name of his own, but he has to do with the ability of the citizenry of elemental to change their voices as they play different character roles.

Louise Fazenda is an exponent of the new art. Louise can change her voice just as easily as she can her make-up. She can voice the freedom of a rapper or the provincialism of an old maid; she can be scolding or seductive; a victim or a vampire. She can laugh softly and discreetly, like a princess, or giggle like a schoolgirl.

Many a double who used to earn a precarious livelihood by swimming tagging currents, jumping from precipice to precipice, falling off racing horses, and the like, now stands in the corner out of sight of the camera and coast seductively, or sings love songs, for his or her famous counterpart.

Louise never has had a double, and declares she never will. Certainly, her friends say, she won't have to get one for her voice; she is as accomplished as a mocking bird already.

Fred Datig, casting director out of Paramount, is having a time of it finding his chorus of 180-pound girls for the picture "Dyke and Eddy," the screen version of the play.

Fred has had to do all but batter in the dens of private homes in Southern California and select his heavyweights from their husbands, or children, or for dinner tables—whatever that may be attached to—and drive them into his elaborate stage set.

Dan Sidney Greenberg, of Amherst, Mass., who is in charge of the cruise, promised that a statement would be issued in the Press late in the day answering the accusations of the students.
