LOCALS BLANK SAINTS SECOND TIME IN SERIES

Feds Stage 8th Inning Rally For Two Runs Just As They Did In Game On Day Before

Cusack Gives Up Only 6 Safeties

Saints Threaten Only Once But Fine Fielding Cuts Off Runs

For the second time in as many days the Celery-Feds yesterday triumphed over the St. Petersburg Saints by the same score, 2 to 0. Incidentally the proteges of Lou Crowe put the game on ice in the eighth inning by scoring two runs just as they had done on the day previous.

Until the fatal eighth it was a pitchers battle between old man George Cusack and Dewey Alverson, southpaw heaver who two years ago tossed 'em over for the Feds. With the honors about even, Alverson went into the eighth and proceeded to blow up. Four hits and a sacrifice fly did the dirty work but it was not enough to heat Alverson, a trick the Feds love to pull but they are seldom able.

Cusack pitched steadily, being especially tight in the pinches. He was knicked for only six sacrifices, one a three bagger by Brown in the fifth. Alverson gave up 10 hits, three of which "Pug" Allen secured. Cusack started the ball rolling in the eighth inning rally with a sharp single.

The Saints' only threat was in the fifth but some good fielding prevented the visitors from scoring. In the eighth Sanford's half Cusack singled but was forced at second by Beasley. Hoke promptly nipped Alverson and came home on Bill Fayer's one-liner to center. Fog Allen singled for his third time and Meyers went to third. He scored a minute later on Crowe's sacrifice to left field. Bailey singled to left and Alverson went to second. He and Bailey advanced a base on a wild throw by Alverson. Dunbar ended things by grounding to third who tagged Bailey.

Tunney Takes His Time Getting Down To Rigid Training

CHICAGO, Sept. 3.—(INS)—Heavy after his tumultuous reception, Gene Tunney arose today and announced that he would not appear in his first public workout until Monday. The champion is in excellent condition and is displaying no hurry about getting down to rigorous training.

"I am a conservative liver," he explained today, "and always keep myself fairly fit. My three months at Speculator served to whip me in just the shape I wanted. I will keep the same pace I struck there, working along gradually until two weeks before the fight. Then I intend to plunge into intensive training. I'll need about two more sparring partners and intend to keep all six busy from then on."

TRIO OF PIRATES ARE SLATED FOR TRADE IN SPRING

Dreyfuss Willing To Part With Cuyler, Smith And Unnamed Pitcher; Deal Rumored With Reds; Giants Seek Rhem

DAVIS J. WALSH
I. N. S. Sports Editor
NEW YORK, Sept. 3.—Regardless of whether the Pittsburgh Pirates win the pennant—and the writer now is prepared to disapprove of them very seriously if they don't—the general notion had got about today that the good, old Bernard Dreyfuss, will do a bit of house cleaning before the ideas or sorrows of spring are with us again. According to the good word in this locality, Hazen Cuyler, outfielder; Earl Smith, catcher and puglist, and John Doe, the famous John, pitcher, are due to go away from there with Bernard's best wishes—for a broken leg.

The Pirates were a game in front today and headed for the open end, in the general excitement incident and indigent to a world series, if and at all, Bernard might go so far as to forget to remember. But Bernard usually is not that kind of a picola.

Cuyler was the poor unfortunate who refused to slide one fine day and was fined $50; Smith was the bimbo who hit Dave Bancroft first and didn't even explain afterward, suffering a month's suspension as if getting the Pirates back where they didn't belong these many weeks; Doe or John, as I prefer to know him, is the unknown or at least unnamed pitcher who incurred Bernard's ire, by different work when Bernard had almost no use for indifference.

The story I get is that Cuyler will be playing centerfield and adding very readily and actually for the Cincinnati Reds next season, that Hughley Clegg will be playing second base for the Pirates. It also is my information that Pete Dohobue, Cincinnati pitcher, will be with the Pirates and that Bubbles Hargrave and Eppa Rixey, Cincinnati, will be no man knows where.

I am unable to say whether Bernard is interested in Bubbles, with the possible exception of those found on the rim of a glass. Possibly he isn't, because they say he slipped into Philadelphia, which is what Bernard does with or without provocation, and tried some of his slick, city talk upon the Phillies on the subject of Jimmy Wilson, catcher. A horse-and-hoss trade of Smith for Wilson doesn't sound plausible, however, because after all they only pay off on socks to the outfielder and not to the law. Meanwhile, there are two sides to every trade and Rhem will become a Giant if and only when McGraw lays plenty on the dead line.

Injunction Boys Begin Their Work Beseiging Dempsey With Law Suits

CHICAGO, Sept. 3. (INS)—The injunction boys are at it again. An atmosphere, apparently essential to every present-day major boxing event, was being manufactured hereto day as lawsuits—and threats of lawsuits—designed at stopping the impending Tunney-Dempsey brawl, were thrown into the judicial grist.

This atmosphere—of quarreling lawyers and tip-toeing sleuths armed with mysterious papers—only rugers, according to those of cynical bent, the complete success of Tex Rickard's greatest promotional venture.

Most important of the legal overtures now in the cocoon stage is an echo of Tex Rickard's 1926 gesture to hold a heavyweight championship match in Chicago. At that time Dempsey was champion, and one B. C. Clements—of the Chicago Coliseum Club threatened to make things unpleasant on the grounds that Dempsey was under contract to fight for him. He later tried to stop the Philadelphia fight, but failed.

Yesterday, this same B. C. Clements, on behalf of his club, asked the Cook County circuit court to enjoin Jack Dempsey from appearing in the world's title bout scheduled for Soldiers Field Sept. 22. The complaint is the same as before, that the ex-champ has not as yet fulfilled his obligation to the Coliseum Club.

Tex Rickard; George Getz, his Illinois promoter; the state boxing commissioner, and Floyd Fitzsimmons, an Indiana promoter, were also named with Dempsey as defendants in the suit. A hearing on the injunction plea will be granted next Tuesday.

RUTH HITS 4TH

PHILADELPHIA, Sept. 3.—(INS)—Although Babe Ruth hit his 44th home run of the season yesterday, "Buster" Gehrig swatted two of them and is only one behind the Bambino. Gehrig also hit two singles and gained considerable ground in the race for league batting honors. Ruth is still five homers behind his 1921 record.

ROSS CHALLENGES

CHICAGO, Sept. 2.—(INS)—"I will swim them for money, marbles or chalk, American swimmers have long been leaders in their short distances; there is no reason why the big prizes should be won by foreigners." Thus speaks Norman Ross, runner-up in the Catalina swim last year, who wants to race the German, Vierkoetter, the Frenchman, Michael, and the Canadian George Young, in a four-cornered international match contest.

Carter Discusses Plans To Extend The Tourist Season

ORLANDO, Fla., Sept. 3. (INS)—Plans for lengthening the tourist season were discussed at a meeting here yesterday between Jerry W. Carter, state hotel commissioner, and representative of transportation lines, hotel owners and operators.

Under the plans outlined by Commissioner Carter, six weeks will be added to the first and last of the season, thereby making it of practically six months duration instead of three.

Carter's program calls for extensive advertising and soliciting in the populous centers of the north and east by a well trained corps of men, capable of answering intelligently all questions on Florida and Florida life.

Transportation lines are being requested to put into effect special rates for six weeks prior to the official season and the six weeks following the usual close of the season. Hotel owners and operators are being asked to take special rates to all tourists taking advantage of the special fares offered by transportation lines.

The subject of lengthening the season was discussed at the recent meeting of Florida Hotel Association and it was the unanimous decision of the meeting that the plans outlined by Mr. Carter were practicable and should go into effect.

There are 1,377,000 more women than men in England.

Nairobi, East African Protectorate is planning to erect a hotel with all modern conveniences, including electric elevators and its own bakery.

Who'll Win?

Perhaps Jack Dempsey is asking the cards to tell him whether he'll beat Gene Tunney when they meet at Chicago next month. And again, perhaps not. Jack spends many moments each day playing solitaire.

STRANGE PLANE SIGHTED NEAR HARBOR GRACE

Princess Lawenstein-Wertheim, who left Upavon, England early Wednesday morning in an attempt to fly across the ocean.

If the reports that a plane's beacon was seen are authentic, it would appear that the "St. Raphael" kept to schedule during the first half of its flight across the ocean then flew far off its course. What is believed to have been the last trace of the missing plane was several hundred miles southeast of New York City, a point far away from the course of the aviators intended to fly to Ottawa.

Canadian officials searching for the plane have been informed by the British air ministry that a light was seen, midway across the Atlantic, on Wednesday night by the German-American oil tanker Josiah Macy. The spot where the glow was seen in the sky was in latitude 53.15 and longitude 29.45 indicating that the St. Raphael had safely negotiated the first half of its trip across the Atlantic. Word of sighting the plane's light was contained in a wireless message picked up from the Josiah Macy by the Irish Broadcasting Company.

The other report, emanating from Halifax, stated that the Dutch Steamship Bijdenijk had seen the light of a plane at 6 A. M. G. M. T. Wednesday (1 A. M. New York Daylight Time) at latitude 59.28 north and longitude 64.3 west, a point 420 miles southeast of New York City, and far off the plane's course.

Meanwhile, with hopes of the fliers being found alive, decreasing hourly, every agency at the command of Canada was being pressed in the search for the fliers. All through the night, radio stations throughout the Dominion hummed with broadcasts seeking to pick up some word of the Princess and her two companions, but without success.

The hope still persists that the fliers may have been able to make some landing at some isolated spot in Canada or Newfoundland, and that their emergency rations will keep them alive for several days. Or, on the other hand, if the "St. Raphael" was forced to descend at sea, the hope is held out that the collapsible rubber lifeboat carried by the fliers will keep them afloat until rescued by some ship.

Mrs. Hamilton, wife of the "St. Raphael's" pilot, has not given up hope for the safety of her husband and his two companions. She made the following statement to International News Service: "I still have the highest hope. There is really no little one can say when everybody brings such gloomy messages, yet I am sure that Leslie will be found."

"But I am just bucking my knowledge of Leslie's ability and Col. Minchin's record against tremendous odds. I know what these men are like when they are in a tight corner, and it is that which makes me so confident."

"I realize that the odds are tremendous. It would probably be easier if they were flying a seaplane rather than a land machine, but somehow I feel that they will be found on this side or will be picked up by a ship. In the meantime, while waiting for news, I am steadfastly confident somehow, somewhere, Leslie will be found. It is hard to wait for the news that will make me the happiest woman in the world."

A big mirror placed in a dull corner will brighten up the room and enlarge it.

Figures compiled by the Washington, D. C., traffic bureau show that five per cent of that city's automobile casualties are caused by persons walking into the sides of moving motor vehicles.

There is approximately one physician to every 753 persons in the United States; one to every 1,067 in Great Britain; one to every 1,290 in Switzerland; one to every 1,350 in Japan; one to every 1,040 in Germany; one to every 1,500 in Sweden.

A THOUGHT

By Charles A. Wagner

From New York Herald-Tribune

How the winds throb like a heart

And the rain falls like a flood

Of tears across the end of human love,

But not all the wind or rain

Or tears or natural and normal things

Can tell the beauty of one burning thought

Made a mixture of all mortal sin

Which stings across the rain

Flooding my brain.

Today is Labor Day, but there is no rest for the wicked.

This may be Labor Day, but the "Pride of Detroit" flies right on.

A thirteen year old boy fell seven hundred feet in a balloon, and was unhurt. There's nothing like being of an unlucky age.

Flying across the Atlantic is about like swimming the English Channel; only you don't have a rowboat to go along with you.

We have even seen it reported that the flying Princess is sixty years old. We wish she would show up so we could set the record straight.

Lindbergh flew across the Atlantic to encourage interest in aviation. Most of the rest of them attempted to fly across because they liked the fame he won. That's the difference.

It seems to us that what the Key Club in Tampa needs is a padlock—Sanford Herald. They had a padlock, but it seems that the Tampa judge was envious of the number of keys.—DeLand News.

Perhaps Alms will now stick to the uniform of the Army of the Lord and let that of the United States Navy alone.—Gainesville Sun. It is rather indecent for the Army to be running around with the Navy, isn't it?

Wonder what people a hundred years from now will think when they discover an old newspaper in a attic and find nothing but airplane news in it. Such publicity would be just as strange to them as if today newspapers carried long articles about every railroad train that "hops off."

A Woman's Faith

Earle Sande, America's premier jockey, has lost his best friend, Marion Sande, his wife. With the passing of his helpmate, the clear-eyed Norse boy, the idol of millions of turf followers, has lost the companionship of one who offered him his greatest inspiration in reaching the pinnacle of horsemanship. There is a beautiful story in the lives of these two which only the death of Marion Sande has brought to light.

It was back in the days when Earle Sande was beginning his remarkable career that he married Marion Casey. Shortly thereafter the little jockey was taken seriously ill and for a long time he hovered between life and death. Doctors gave him up but not Marion Sande. Acting as his nurse and his inseparable companion, the plucky wife brought him back to health and another start on the road to fame.

It was in 1924 that Sande, with bad luck still following in his footsteps, suffered another misfortune. While riding at Saratoga, he was spilled by his horse and his leg was broken. For months the jockey lay in a hospital while even his closest friends were dubious about him ever being able to ride again. Sande said he would come back and in this belief his wife joined wholeheartedly. With her faith as a reassuring factor, Sande did ride again and with even greater success than before.

Then another obstacle appeared in the veteran rider's path. He began to get fat. Again his wife came to the rescue. She arranged a diet for him so he could make his riding weight. To assist her husband, Mrs. Sande began to diet with him, to act as a companion and pace-maker. The jockey made his weight and again rode off to victory, but the hardship was too much for his wife. Her health had been undermined by the rigid diet and she was taken ill and passed away. A brave little woman died for the man she loved.

Mother's love guides a man along the straight road, but it's inspiration of a wife's love that spurs him on to success. When others doubted, Marion Sande never faltered in her faith. What a comfort, what a cheering thought for him to know that Earle Sande realized while she was here what his wife meant to him. But there are others who do not. It's the irony of fate that sometimes makes us fail to appreciate what we have until we have already lost it.

Mean What You Say

We have often heard the expression that some people cannot even "open their mouth without putting their foot in it." There comes a time or two in the life of every person when he says the wrong thing and thereby "puts his foot in it." However, there are others that seem to be addicted to the habit. Everything they say is wrong insofar as exercising good judgment is concerned. Lack of tact in the wording of public statements has placed many an official in an embarrassing position. Proof of this is contained in a story from Washington recently appearing in the press of the country.

The story is told of Secretary of State Kellogg who refused to permit aviators of the Houston chamber of commerce to make a good-will flight to the Mexico City because of the possibilities that the expedition might jeopardize "larger interests" of the United States. The statement naturally aroused ill feelings in this country and some antagonism on the part of Mexico. Obviously Mr. Kellogg's "larger interests" referred to oil, something we all regard with suspicion.

Attention was also called to a recent rebuke sent by Secretary Wilbur to two Pacific fliers for sending out an SOS when they were about to fall in the ocean. Secretary Mellon has also "put his foot in it" on several occasions, the most notable of which was when he aroused the ire of the British government by making a few pointed statements about the English debt.

The most recent example of lack of perception as exercised by men in public office is a statement by Prohibition Director Doran, who aroused suspicion of the dregs by his declaration that he has given up hope of enforcing the prohibition amendment in New York, and has created resentment within the ranks of both dregs and wets by his criticisms of the "fanatical dregs" and the "fanatical wets."

From these examples and from our own observation we are inclined to believe that when one makes public utterances, he should weigh carefully the wording of his statements. Not that we believe one should be forever "putting on the soft pedal" but that he should guard against misunderstanding. If you have an opinion, express it in words that describe your views, so that there will be none of the misinterpretation which characterized the remarks of Secretaries Kellogg, Mellon and Wilbur.

THIS MARRYING BUSINESS GREENVILLE NEWS

It is no tribute to South Carolina that it is diverting much of the marrying business away from the borderline counties of North Carolina. The Tarheel state has a physical examination law for prospective bridegrooms, safeguard for society that all states should have and will have as they become enlightened. South Carolina has repudiated such a statute in its General Assembly several times.

To become married in North Carolina costs $11, whereas one can have the job done in this state for a dollar or two, depending on where one goes. Some of the counties in North Carolina favor a reduction of marriage fees so as to compete more equitably with the state, but the Charlotte-Observer wisely frowns on the idea. "Rather than make marriage easier," says The Observer, "it should be made more difficult. If a couple is not in a financial position to pay a license fee of five dollars (and the incidental examination fee), then that couple is in no financial position to be married."

Better strategy for North Carolina than reducing fees and eliminating the examination law is to wait until South Carolina adopts similar legislation, as it eventually will. It is hard to marry and easy to divorce in North Carolina, where as it is easy to marry and impossible to divorce in South Carolina. Everything in this state is made for matrimony, and since we make it an indissoluble life-time contract we should at least throw such restrictions around it as will induce reasonable contemplation.

OUR WEALTH GAINESVILLE NEWS

Some measure of the growth of wealth in the United States can be found in a recent statement by the Wall Street Journal analyzing the reports of many business concerns for the year 1926. The cash and investment holdings of 129 concerns analyzed totaled two and a quarter billion dollars, and the significant fact is that this was an increase of nearly $300,000,000 over the year 1925. The working capital of the same concerns increased a little over $450,000,000 during the same period.

The list was headed by the United States Steel corporation, with the Standard Oil of New Jersey coming second, the General Electric third and the General Motors fourth. There were eleven companies in the list with aggregate cash and security holdings approximating a billion dollars in each case.

And the wealth of the smaller concerns in America and of individuals from the highest to the lowest is increasing proportionately. One has only to visualize the number of new business and office and public buildings, of comfortable new homes in every city and town and of the endless procession of new automobiles to know that this is true.

And the Pittsburgh Chronicle-telegraph makes a point when it declares that "Naturally this great wealth is envied by people of other countries which have not been so prosperous. Some of these people would be quite willing to compel the Americans to give up part of their possessions. Force has often been used for purposes of this kind. This is one of the great reasons for maintaining a protective army and navy adequate to keep our pos-

Always A Chance. A Doer Of Things. Using Motor Trucks. Makes Idlers Sometimes. Women Trust Men. Curis Coming Back BY ARTHUR BRISBANE Copyright 1927 by Star Co.

YOU READ "REPORTER kills himself" and it occurs to you that you haven't seen that before. Actors, doctors, bankers, idlers kill themselves. Reporters write about them, they don't commit suicide. Reporters don't kill themselves, first, because life to them is interesting. They study and report it. Every reporter having reported more than one suicide knows that suicide is foolish, it means failure and it is futile. There is always another chance.

"ITALIAN AMBITION worries the French." So reads a dispatch from Paris.

Mussolini is starting flying machine routes leading from Rome in all directions, especially to Turkey and the east, so interesting to the French.

Mussolini says "go" and everything in Italy moves forward. In France it is not so. You have seen foxhounds coupled together, before the hunt. One pulls one way the other another. They make little progress.

IN FRANCE different parties and different minds pull against each other in different directions. In Italy, one mind runs everything. That gives results, while that mind rules.

THE REST OF the world will watch Mussolini and Italy, and wonder how much one man can do. France need not worry, her power is as great as ever. Her task is to prove that French intelligence can manage France on a Democratic basis, without calling in some weak faced pretender from the drugs of a royal race, or some strong jawed dictator, a modern Superman, to rule the others.

BECAUSE OF excessive railroad charges, newspapers are using motor trucks for long distance delivery. Excessive postoffice rates also will stimulate independent delivery by newspaper publishers. One newspaper sends 13,700 pounds of newspapers 60 miles by truck at a cost of $70. Sent by mail the shipment would cost $232.90.

Even Uncle Sam will find that Ford was right when he cut prices. Postal cards at two cents earned less profit for the government than they did at one cent.

A GENTLEMAN, occasionally posing as a nobleman, was arrested recently accused of marrying 60 women and getting a million dollars in money and jewelry from them. There is nothing to be said about that it is the nature of a woman to trust men, unfortunately for women.

"CURLS ARE coming back" says a professor of physiology, even "puff curls" and the "shingle" will pass. Common sense is with the bob. Romance with the puffed curl. You could not imagine Martha Washington with a bob.

WHITE MEN have decided that they want a bridge across the north end of the Grand Canyon, which would be very convenient for automobiles and tourists generally. The bridge would cost $200,000. The typical "white man" plans to make the Navajo Indians pay half the amount. The bridge would not do them any good. It doesn't connect any separated sections of their reservation. It is purely a white man's improvement for the benefit of white men. But after the white men had given the Navajo, Osage and some other Indians about the worst land they could pick out for their reservations, fate decided that oil should be struck on the land and of the Navajos and the Osages also.

The Osage Indians are looked after by enterprising white men that sell them whiskey for large sums, and get away the rest of the money when they are drunk or insure their lives, and then kill them to collect the insurance.

Uncle Sam is apparently taking a hand in the game with the Navajos. He has arranged to build the bridge, take half the cost, $100,000, from the oil profits of the Navajo Indians, about all they would get in a year.

This will not surprise the poor Navajos. Honest treatment would surprise them.

WHEN PRESIDENT Coolidge assured the nation that "our air service is being perfected, and our whole military establishment is being made worthy of the power and dignity of this great nation," he made good news.

But how does our air service compare with that of England, France or Japan? Does it equal one tenth of those nations, just what would be worthy of "the power and dignity of this great nation?" Our power and dignity would be badly shaken if any great foreign air power should decide to attack our cities.

Americans are against any war of aggression and will defend their country to the last man and the last dollar. And the man who opposes adequate protection in the way of what is really military insurance is too short sighted to be a good American in the least sense of the word no matter how well meaning he may be.

"Hula" Is Colorful South Sea Romance Starring Clara Bow

Clara Bow is now a "keiki wahini Lalaui." Sounds terrible but that is the part she portrays—a flapper of Paramount vehicle "Hula" which to the Milane Theatre today.

When Miss Bow read Armine Von Tempiski's popular novel she begged studio officials to buy it for her. The Paramount corporation lost no time in securing the rights agreeing that it undoubtedly was one of the best they could obtain for her.

"Hula" is a story of social life on Hawaii, of an American girl, born and raised on the "crossroads of the Pacific" who remains herself amid an artificial atmosphere created by an irresponsible set of "fast livers."

In this interesting but strange situation comes Clive Brook, leading man. The troubles of lively Miss Bow in obtaining her real love make up one of the most fascinating screen tales of the day. Romance, color, smiles and tears are all rolled together in this fast moving story.

The production was directed by Victor Fleming famous for his success with "Mantrap" then "The Road Riders" and more recently "The Way of All Flesh" starring Emil Jennings. In addition to Mr. Brook who has demonstrated himself one of the most popular leading men of the day, Miss Bow is supported by a hand picked cast consisting of Arlete Marchal, Arnold Kent, Doris Anderson adapted the novel. The screen play was prepared by Ethel Doherty.

The little Drummer of Bergerac

EVERY morning he parades the streets, rat-tat-tatting the gossip of the day.

He announces municipal orders, and auction sales; tells whose cow is astray, or child is lost, and what motion picture will be shown on the open air screen before the cafe on the Place D'Armes.

That's the way they get the news in Bergerac.

And that's why Bergerac STILL thinks in the mental ruts of mid-history and walks cobbled pavements laid when Black Prince Edward was sovereign in the land, and pence and pound, French coin.

Bergerac squats beside the Dordogne, among foaming eddies aching to drive turbines for mills and factories but left to sport with the monster salmon that leap its rolling waters.

The shoemaker sits before his door, cobbling hand-made boots; the carpenter adzes beams and furniture as his fathers wrought for a dozen centuries.

Bergerac was old when William the Norman raped a crown, and his returning ghost would find much unchanged there since that day.

Half of Europe cannot understand how

"That's the way they get the news in Bergerac"

America is so affluent and resourceful. Hundreds of millions yonder are mystified by the phenomenon of a wilderness so suddenly transformed into the richest and the highest industrialized state on earth.

America is great because America THINKS —because America searches possibility and is forever dissatisfied with things as they are.

We are a news-reading people. There's not a village between Atlantic and Pacific without its little sheet.

Presses crossed the continent in covered wagons—were at each gold rush—arrived at Sutter's Creek with the first prospectors—every mining camp had its journal—and a dozen printing outfits dashed across the line at the opening-up of Oklahoma.

The combined daily editions of these United States many times exceed the total circulation of ALL other countries.

There's the secret of America's successful career.

We learn facts first and make them common and simultaneous property.

The Constitution declared for an equalization of opportunity, but it took the newspaper to guarantee it.
