County Set To Levy Fee For 911 System

An extra 30-cent charge will begin appearing on Seminole County telephone bills Oct. 1, unless county commissioners change their minds after a public hearing. The fee will be used to pay equipment and service initiating costs for the Enhanced 911 emergency system.

The charge will be 30 cents monthly per telephone line.

Commissioners, in a work session Tuesday, agreed to levy the fee for 18 months, as permitted under law adopted during the 1985 session of the Legislature and signed by Gov. Bob Graham June 17.

The county's E911 coordinator,

Koanne Rubin, told the commissioners an ordinance setting the fee must be adopted prior to Oct. 1.

Commissioner Sandra Glenn said the proposed ordinance would be advertised and a public hearing would be held prior to its adoption.

County Administrator Ken Hooper said the fee would be charged against the 110,000 telephone lines in the county. At 30 cents per line, the county would receive $33,000 monthly.

Last year the commissioners discussed whether to ask the voters if they wanted such a system and were willing to pay a monthly fee for its initiating costs.

That idea was rejected because legislation would be required to authorize the fee on telephone bills and commissioners decided to pay the costs from its general fund.

The new law gives commissioners the option of setting a referendum on the issue or of voting without referendum to levy the fee. The commissioners opted to levy the fee without referendum.

The system is to be installed and in operation within 18 months by Southern Bell Telephone Company in cooperation with United Telephone Co.

Residents: '...Keep Them Out'

Asphalt Firm Asks Court To Overturn P&Z On Fuel Tanks

By Deane Jordan and Rick Brunson

The city of Sanford will be forced to grant a conditional use allowing above-ground petroleum storage at a proposed asphalt plant if an Orlando company wins a civil suit.

But a spokesman for a group of homeowners opposed to the plant said the residents will try to make sure the company doesn't get its way.

Sanford was named as defendant in a suit filed late Monday by Orlando Paving Inc. The company seeks to overturn a June 6 ruling by the city's Planning and Zoning Commission denying the firm the conditional use for an 18-acre site it may buy near Country Club Road and 19th Street. The company wants to build a $3.5 million plant including three storage tanks: two designed to hold 30,000 gallons of fuel oil and the other 10,000 gallons of diesel fuel. The site is zoned for heavy industry.

That meeting was attended 200 residents bitterly opposed to the proposed plant.

Robert Barrette, of 137 Country Club Circle, who led opposition to the plant, said Tuesday the residents would fight the suit.

"We don't want them here. We'll fight them all the way. We'll do everything within our legal rights to keep them out," Barrette said. He said residents would meet with their attorney to discuss what action they could take.

The company, apparently disgruntled by the turnaround, was compelled to file an appeal because it was prohibited by city regulation from taking the issue before the city commission. The regulation states if six members of the nine member P&Z body vote against a proposal it cannot be appealed to the city commission.

The vote against Orlando Paving was 7-2.

According to the civil suit, the company, which has an option to buy 67 acres, including the 18 for the proposed asphalt plant, wanted the conditional use permit for above-ground storage of petroleum. Storage of the fuel is prohibited without permission from the city.

Orlando Paving states in the suit such a plant requires above ground tanks holding at least 500 gallons of petroleum each.

Orlando Paving states in the suit that the P&Z commission offered no "competent" or "substantial evidence" to support their denial of the conditional use. The company tabled the denial discriminatory, arbitrary and capricious.

According to an argument presented in the civil suit, other companies in the area of the property have been granted conditional uses for above ground storage and case law supports such storage as an acceptable conditional use.

Sanford Weighs Budget Options

Scenic Board Funds May Be Trimmed

By Rick Brunson
Herald Staff Writer

The Sanford City Commission may chop the assistant city manager's position from the payroll and trim part of the money earmarked for beautifying the city, but the savings would probably be diverted to other departments such as public works.

In the first day of budget hearings Tuesday, the commissioners hunted for ways to boost revenues and trim expenditures in City Manager Frank Faison's proposed $12.4 million 1985-86 budget.

Commissioner David Farr said the commission should carefully scrutinize the budget for savings to prevent, if possible, a 43 percent increase in property tax rates. But the other commissioners and Mayor Bettye Smith said the commission should be courageous and hike taxes if necessary to raise the city out of its neglected state.

'I'm willing to raise the millage, but let's make sure we absolutely have to.'

—Dave Farr

Farr found one potential pocket of savings on the city spending sheet. He said, "We do not need an assistant city manager" because of the recent consolidation of the city staff. The commission last month, acting on Faison's recommendation, consolidated nine city divisions into two departments — engineering and planning and administrative services. While the move only reshuffled already existing divisions, four new workers are expected to be hired to head the two departments. That will cost about $145,000, which is earmarked in the proposed budget.

Money slated for the assistant city manager's post is about $114,000, which is for salary and other expenses. Mary Harkey Meyer serves as assistant city manager but is scheduled to retire July 31.

Faison said money for the position is "vulnerable" to commission's paring knife, but added he could use the help around city hall, especially to implement all the projects slated for the coming year.

Other commissioners voiced agreement with Farr's proposal, but formal action will wait until the commission starts a line item review of the budget this week or next week.

Farr also questioned the purpose of about $152,700 lagged for the Scenic Improvement Board. Faison said about $119,000 was for hiring gardeners, one of the recommendations in the board's report

Car Bomb Kills Socialite, Son

NAPLES, Fla. (UPI) — A car bomb explosion in a guarded subdivision killed a wealthy Pennsylvania socialite and her 21-year-old son, seriously injured her daughter-in-law and sent investigators scrambling for a motive.

A Federal Bureau of Alcohol, Tobacco and Firearms agent said the Tuesday morning blast was caused by an "explosive device" apparently triggered by the ignition key.

Margaret H. Benson, 63, and her son Scott, both of Lancaster, Pa., were killed in the blast that demolished a four-wheel drive vehicle and rocked neighboring homes in Quail Creek, a guarded subdivision of homes costing $400,000 and more in North Naples.

Carol Kendall Benson, 40, of Boston, was rushed to Naples Community Hospital in serious condition and officials said she would be transferred to a burn center today.

2-Cent Gas Tax On Way

A resolution of intent to levy a 2-cent-per-gallon gasoline tax beginning Sept. 1 for a 30-year period was adopted by the county commission Tuesday night just before its 11 p.m. adjournment.

The tax levy will become official after commissioners hold a public hearing and adopt an ordinance later this month or early in August.

The proceeds from the tax will be shared with the county's seven cities based on a formula called for in state law. Under the formula the county's share and the share of each of the cities will be determined by calculating how much money each of the governmental units have spent for transportation over the past five years.

Longwood OK'd For Park Grant

By Jane Casselberry
Herald Staff Writer

After three extensions over three years, Longwood has finally qualified for an $18,000 matching state grant by meeting its July 6 deadline for completion of facilities at the city's Rafter Park.

All bills are in hand and necessary documents are being prepared to send to the Florida Department of Natural Resources later this week in order to receive the grant funds, which will be applied toward the cost of the park. Parks and Recreation Department Director Bill Goebel told the city commission Monday night.

Although he does not expect to have the final figure until next week, Goebel said cost of the park is expected to run close to the projected total of $54,000 with the city's share being $36,000. The amount of the $18,000 actually received will depend on the actual cost of the park.

Open to the public as of Monday, the official dedication is set for 10 a.m. on July 20. Goebel hopes to have the Shriner clowns and camel and a cakecutting at the dedication.

When the city failed to meet the April 1 deadline, the commission appealed to State Rep. Carl Selph (R-Casselberry) for the second time for help in getting another extension. The city was given an additional 90 days to complete the park, which is located next to the fire station on West Warren Avenue.

When a labor shortage was cited for the delay in April, two employees were assigned full-time to Parks and Recreation at that time under Goebel's direction. Another delay was caused when soil borings at the $27,850 tennis court site proved unsatisfactory and proposed courts had to be relocated. It was found the two acres to the west that were obtained from the owner, Jimmy Reiter, after the original five-acre piece, were a more suitable location.

A disagreement with the contractor, Dennis Brubach, owner of Varsity Courts, Inc. of Longwood, threatened the project's meeting the deadline, but that was worked out and work got underway on the two tennis courts.

Changes in layout, additional chainlink fence, and hiring a soil testing company cost the city $1495 more than originally planned for the courts.

The gate to the fenced-in courts will be locked, but Goebel said residents can secure their own key for a $5 fee.

Other facilities at the park include three handball/tracquet ball courts, softball field, soccer/football field, and playground equipment.

Over The Limit

WAUKEGAN, Ill. (UPI) — Two motorcyclists have earned the distinction of setting a possible Illinois record for speeding.

James Afecarotta, 21, and Dean N. Darrus, 20, both of west suburban Riverside, were penalized Tuesday by a Lake County judge for going 83 mph over the speed limit when they went screaming down Interstate 94 toward the Wisconsin border. They were clocked on radar at 138 mph.

Lake County Circuit Judge Steven Walter fined each of the men $300 plus court costs. The citation for going 83 mph over the 55 mph speed limit may have set a record in Illinois, police said.

Tampa Firm To Expand Jail

By Donna Estes
Herald Staff Writer

A contract for $12 million was awarded by the county commission to the low bidder, Great Southwest Corp. of Tampa, for renovations of the 212-bed existing Seminole County Jail at Five Points and construction of five pods to provide space for 480 additional inmates.

The four commissioners present voted unanimously to award the bid, the lowest of three submitted by contractors. Commission Chairman Bob Sturm is in France with a Central Florida delegation looking into the light rail system there.

Commissioners also agreed another 96-bed pod may be added to the contract if federal funding of $700,000 for housing federal prisoners comes through as anticipated by Sheriff John Polk.

The board also voted to accept a grant of $300,000 in federal money to guarantee housing for 30 federal prisoners at the facility. In addition the county will be paid $34 per day for each day a federal prisoner is housed.

The $700,000 federal grant, offered informally to Polk, would guarantee the federal government space for another 66 federal prisoners for a five-year period.

Construction of the 480 bed additions and the renovations is expected to begin in August and be completed by August, 1987, said Dale Nederhoff of Watson & Co. of Winter Park, architects of the project.

Renovations will provide an enlarged intake area, administrative offices, medical, inmate program and court spaces. The new construction will include five housing pods, a control-visiting center and a service building with an enlarged kitchen and laundry.

The pods are to be constructed with precast concrete modular cells. The precast cells will arrive at the job site with the floor, walls and detention components installed. The floor of the second level cell creates the ceiling of the lower level cell. A two level control station will be located within the center of the hexagon pod, providing direct vision to all cells at both levels.

In addition to the $12 million construction and renovation, it is expected to cost another $1.6 million to furnish the facility, build a new road into the complex from U.S. Highway 17-92, pay architect fees, provide a contingency fund of more

Walker May Have Been Officer In Soviet Navy

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Former CIA officials say accused spy John Walker may have been a captain in the Soviet navy as part of a ploy by KGB agents to keep him in line supplying them with military secrets.

"It is not rare by any means for a case officer to say, 'The way to please my agent is to promote him in military rank, especially one he could not get in his own country,'" said former CIA agent David Phillips.

Walker, 47, retired from the Navy in 1976 as a warrant officer and during his career worked as a communications specialist and served aboard submarines.

Court papers filed by the FBI say Walker, the alleged mastermind of a family-and-friend spy ring that purportedly passed secrets to the Soviets for nearly 20 years, made deliveries to Soviet agents at several foreign locations.

More Tainted Cheese Recalled

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — A second brand of Mexican-style cheese has been ordered removed from supermarket shelves because tests show it is tainted with the bacteria linked to nearly 60 deaths nationwide since April.

Cheeses made before July 1 by Carique Cheese Company were recalled Tuesday when state food and agriculture officials discovered they were contaminated with listeria monocytogenes.

Discovery of the tainted cheese comes during the century's deadliest food poisoning outbreak. Tons of jalisco cheese have been buried and its manufacturers face possible manslaughter charges.

15 Jewish Settlers Convicted Of Terrorism

JERUSALEM (UPI) — A three-judge court today found 15 Jewish settlers guilty of waging a deadly terror campaign against Arabs in the West Bank and Golan Heights and convicted three of murder, which carries a mandatory life sentence.

All 15 were found guilty of participating in a Jewish terrorist underground responsible for the slayings of three Arab students and bomb attacks that maimed two Arab mayors.

They had pleaded innocent, arguing they acted in self defense — that they were forced to defend themselves because of lax security in the occupied Arab territories.

The trial, which began June 11, 1984, was Israel's longest since Nazi Adolf Eichman was convicted of crimes against humanity in a 15-month trial that ended in 1961.

The court was recessed until Thursday morning without sentences being imposed. Israeli law makes life imprisonment mandatory for anyone convicted of murder. But there has been public pressure for clemency or pardons for the defendants.

Part Of Jet's 'Black Box' Found

CORK, Ireland (UPI) — Investigators searching the ocean floor today recovered the voice recorder they hope will help determine whether a bomb caused the Air India crash that killed 329 people last month, Indian officials said.

The Indian investigating team in Cork said searchers, using a robot submarine operated from the French vessel Leon Therynt, found and recovered the recorder at a depth of 6,500 feet.

Irish officials said the cockpit voice recorder was to be sent back to India, where investigators would study it for clues to the cause of the June 23 crash.

Paving, said today the company should have been granted permission to build the tanks because other plants near the site use them.

"Basically, we don't feel they (the P&Z board) are consistent with zoning in that area," Evans said. "We feel that if they granted that (permission to use tanks) in the past and have them out there now they should grant the conditional use."

According to a transcript of the June 6 meeting of the P&Z commission, residents of the Country Club Circle area near the proposed plant site objected to the asphalt plant saying its fuel burners would stink, bulk delivery trucks would increase traffic and stockpiles of dusty materials would pose health problems for people with respiratory ailments. They also said they were afraid that the plant could explode.

Miranda Franks, attorney for Orlando Paving, told the residents that gasoline storage tanks at convenient stores near the neighborhood pose a greater hazard than the proposed plant and storage tanks.

The case has been assigned to Circuit Judge S. Joseph Davis Jr. No trial date has been set.

than $500,000 and pay other expenses.

The jail renovations and additions are being paid for with the proceeds from the one-cent sales tax approved by the county's voters last November for improvements of jail facilities. The levy of the special tax began Jan. 1 and is to end Dec. 31.

Meanwhile, county Management and Budget Director Eleanor Anderson reported to commissioners Wednesday that latest estimates show the proceeds from the special tax will total $13.7 million by year end.

And Barbara O'Hare of Mrs. Anderson's office said by investing the money, the county will realize $1.2 million in interest, and these additional funds will be used to pay for courthouse renovations, now underway.

Budget Director Makes Long-Expected Departure

WASHINGTON (UPI) — David Stockman, who reaped fame and frustration as the wunderkind of Reaganomics, is making a long-expected exit from government to pursue prestige and six-figure pay among the financial wizards of Wall Street.

With the White House in the throes of budget negotiations with Congress, Stockman announced Tuesday he will end his tenure as President Reagan's budget director Aug. 1 to join the biggest investment banking firm on Wall Street.

The announcement came as no surprise in the White House where Stockman has been regarded for months as a primary candidate to join the staff exodus under way since the start of Reagan's second term.

Speculation swiftly turned to possible successors, with Reagan expected to look for someone adept at numbers and politics — and less prone to controversy.

Among those rumored to be interested or under consideration were Commerce Secretary Malcolm Baldrige, presidential assistant John Svahn and Joseph Wright Stockman's No. 2 man at the Office of Management and Budget.

Stockman will become a managing director of Salomon Brothers, Sen. Alan Simpson, R-Wyo., joked that the onetime divinity student and two-term congressman might see his $75,100-a-year salary increase fivefold.

Reagan, who took Stockman to "the woodshed" for all-too-candid assessments of his policies and the economy, had nothing but praise for his budget director.

"Dave Stockman has served with dedication and distinction," Reagan said. "His tireless efforts to bring fiscal discipline to the federal government and ensure economic stability for the country are deeply appreciated."

On Capitol Hill, Stockman received bipartisan accolades for his grasp of an almost $1 trillion federal budget and his candor.

Stockman's greatest triumphs and most serious troubles came early.

As Reagan savored a heady series of victories on budget and tax cuts in late 1981, Stockman, in a magazine interview, labeled his supply-side economics "a Trojan horse" that cut taxes for the rich and did little for the poor.

Stockman offered his resignation in February. He said he was humbled budget director, his voice quavering, expressed gratitude "for this second chance to get on with the job the American people sent President Reagan here to do."

But Stockman's sometimes pugnacious manner resurfaced in February with a double-barreled attack on farm support programs and military pensions.

Government, he said, should not try to prevent farmers from going forced out of business because "that is the way a dynamic economy works." The military pension system, he said, is "a scandal — an outrage."

Charge Dropped Against Judge's Son-In-Law

A spouse abuse battery charge has been dropped against the son-in-law of Seminole County Judge Fred Hitt.

The decision not to prosecute Ricky Karl McNamara, 20, of 113-C Concord Square, Casselberry, was announced in county court Tuesday.

Assistant State Attorney Kathy Simcoe said the alleged victim, Amy McNamara, 18, said after her husband was arrested that she did not want to prosecute, and that Mrs. McNamara refused to return prosecutor's calls.

According to court records, Casselberry police were called to the McNamara home May 27 by a citizen who heard a woman screaming.

Mrs. McNamara, Hitt's daughter, told police her husband had hit her in the face. She said she didn't want to press charges and only wanted to leave the home with her baby. She also asked the officers to call her father.

Hitt arrived and persuaded Ricky McNamara to let his daughter and her child leave. The man also agreed to seek counseling and work towards a reconciliation, police reports said. When the woman began to leave, however, the man reportedly grabbed her by the arm and then refused to hand over the baby which led to his arrest.

Longwood To Pay Manning $36,000 For Double Job

By Jane Casselberry
Herald Staff Writer

Longwood Police Chief Greg Manning will be receiving an annual salary of $36,000 while he also doubles as acting city administrator — more than either of the two previous administrators.

Manning said he thought he deserved the raise since he was doing two jobs and saving the city $40,000 a year. "Anything less and I'd take offense. I would be giving the city a free ride," he added.

When Manning was acting administrator Jan. 7 to April 8, he received the same salary as former city administrator David Chacey, $34,290. City Clerk Don Terry, who resigned from the administrator post effective June 28, was paid $35,000. Manning took over again when Terry resigned, Manning's salary as police chief was $30,400 plus $800 incentive pay.

Prior to promoting Terry from city clerk the commission had offered William T. Powers, assistant city administrator and finance director for the city of Perry, $35,000, but balked at Powers' demand for $40,000 with a $5,000 pay raise in nine months.

At Monday night's Longwood Commission meeting, commissioner Larry Goldberg, who made the motion that the raise be retroactive to the date Manning took over, said he would like to give Manning the city administrator's salary and maybe a little more because he was also serving as police chief. When Manning was previously acting administrator, Captain Terry Baker was acting chief, but this time Manning said he would not give up his department and allow him to run it.

Manning asked the commission Monday night to set his salary as administrator and the effective date. He wanted a written agreement for how long he would be expected to serve and if he was replaced as administrator he would still have his job as police chief.

You are going to decide in the next two weeks at the budget hearings whether you want one person to do two jobs and what the administrator's salary will be. By October you are going to know if I can do the job to your satisfaction," Manning told the commission.

The commission unanimously approved the increase, but Commissioner June Lormann said she was still not in favor of combining the two jobs. "I would never vote for not having a city administrator, but I will support you," she told Manning.

The commission approved Geri Zambri, former city clerk, being made assistant city clerk and personnel director assigned to Terry's office.

to the commission last month. The rest of the money is for board projects, Faison said.

But Faison said the beautification money was the swing item in the budget that could be trimmed. He said he would like to see some of the money for the Scene Improvement Board, as well as from the assistant city manager's position, funneled into the Public Works Department which needs more vehicles and equipment. The other commissioners voiced approval of the suggestion.

Faison also suggested that $5,000 be added to the $38,726 slated for the city commission to cover travel expenses to Florida League of Cities meetings. Mayor Smith agreed, saying what the commissioners learn at the meetings is worth the money spent to attend them.

With the additional $5,000 the city commission would still be getting about $14,500 less than it did this year because of money saved on insurance and election costs. The new commission apparently is younger and healthier, therefore it costs the city less to insure them, said City Clerk Henry Lamm.

The commissioners were troubled by the lack of taxable land and the drop in revenues generated from building inspection permits.

Faison said about 40 percent of the property in Sanford — mostly government land — is tax exempt. That means a smaller tax base which creates a strain on city funds and leads to tax increases, he said.

The strain could be offset by the housing boom the city is experiencing, but it could be up to two years before tax money starts rolling in from it, said Lamm.

Lag time was also blamed on the $3,000 drop in revenues from building inspection permits. Money from permits in the 1984-85 budget was $115,000 while only $112,000 is projected for next year. Mayor Smith asked if the city is booming, why a drop in permits?

Faison said developers bought up permits last year when they heard the city was going raise the fees. The developers have been hanging on to the permits, using them as they build instead of paying for the higher priced permits, he said. Permits are good for six months and can be renewed without charge, Farr said.

The city took the loss of $327,000 in federal revenue money on the chin. Farr reminded his colleagues the commission passed a resolution in January supporting President Reagan's call for a balanced federal budget, knowing all the time Reagan would probably cut the federal subsidies to cities.

"We ought to be proud we're cutting it out of the budget," Farr said.

But Farr also said the commission should examine the budget closely and try to pass the city budget without a tax increase, if possible.

"I'm willing to raise the millage, but let's make sure we absolutely have to,"

But Mayor Smith, comparing the city to an old home in need of repairs, countered the commission should have the "courage" to raise taxes.

Commissioner John Mercer added the commission should have the "guts" and willpower to raise taxes for next year, and then lower the taxes over the next couple of years as the effects of the building boom are felt.

Commissioner Robert Thomas said people may be remorseful about a tax increase, but will feel better once they see their money at work. Commissioner Milton Smith said the commission could maintain the "status quo. But if we expect to accomplish what we need — it's going to cost more."

Asked about a motive for bombing Collier County Sheriff's Capt. Curtis Mills said, "It's a mystery, really."

A construction worker who was about 200 feet away from the Benson home said he heard two explosions.

"The first was quite loud, and the second explosion happened one minute or two minutes later," he said. "After the second explosion, I heard a woman screaming. It was just a lot of blood and guts."

Investigators were trying to determine whether there were two bombs or whether the second explosion was the car's gas tank.

Chuck Martin, another construction worker, told a reporter he heard the blast, rushed to the scene and dragged Carol Benson away from the smoldering wreckage of the car.

"He (Scott) just turned on the key and it blew up," Martin said. Carol Benson told him.

Martin theorized Carol Benson survived because the car exploded just as she was opening one of its doors.

The blast tossed debris 200 feet. Police covered the wreckage with plastic sheets. Two expensive sports cars and a luxury car were also parked in the driveway of Benson's home on White Violet Way.

Margaret Benson was described as an active civic and social leader in her hometown of Lancaster, Pa. She was first president of the Town Club and active in the Episcopal church, local country club and the Iris Club.

Her husband, Edward Benson, died in 1980. He was board chairman of Lancaster Lease Tobacco of Pennsylvania Inc., a

Suicide Car Bombers Kill 17 In Lebanon

BEIRUT, Lebanon (UPI) — A Syrian man and Lebanese woman went calmly before TV cameras to salute Syrian President Hafez Assad, then set off in TNT-packed cars on suicide attacks, killing themselves and as many as 17 other people.

Both attacks Tuesday were aimed at security checkpoints in southern Lebanon manned by the South Lebanon Army — the Israeli-backed militia headed by Gen. Antoine Lahd.

"I warn Lahd that his fate will be the fate of all traitors. The best martyrdom is the martyrdom of blood," Ibtissam Harb, a university student from Gharifa in the Shouf mountains, said in a television interview taped moments before she embarked on the suicide mission.

Beirut television said the attacks occurred seven minutes apart at the Bayada-Naqoura and Hasbaya bridges.

The bombings — the first in the SLA-patrolled security zone around the Israeli border since Israel withdrew from Lebanon last month — came amid bloody fighting between rival Moslem militiamen in Tripoli. Eleven people were killed and 13 wounded — bringing the two-day toll for the fighting in the northern port city to 19 dead and 28 wounded.

The violence overshadowed an announcement by Prime Minister Rashid Karami of a "new national plan" that calls for the rewriting of Lebanon's constitution in a bid to end 10 years of civil war.

Both bombers were identified by Beirut television as members of the Syrian Popular National Party, an extreme nationalist group that carried out a similar attack at Batr a Shouf in April. Two Israeli soldiers were killed and two wounded.

Smith, Moore Named To United Way Board

Sanford Mayor Bettye Smith and Susan Moore of Longwood have been appointed to the United Way executive committee, according to Dave Joswick, United Way president.

Mrs. Smith is to fill the unexpired term of Bob Whitehill. Mrs. Moore will replace Jim Montegny. Mrs. Smith is an adjunct instructor at Seminole Community College and is owner of the Park Avenue Diet Clinic in Sanford. She is on the board of directors of the Salvation Army, a United Way agency.

Mrs. Moore is executive director of the Central Florida Community Health Clinic in Sanford. She has agreed to serve as chairman of the United Way Social Planning Committee. She served on last year's budget committee.

Whitehill and Montegny, active in past United Way campaigns have been promoted by their companies and no longer are working in the county.

Sherry Gould of Orlando has been appointed to fill the unexpired term of Bob Ewing, who has resigned from the United Way board because of a change in employment. Mrs. Gould is branch manager of Coral Gables Federal in the Altamonte Mall.

Spray Effluent Site Sought

Negotiations are underway to purchase a 9.5-acre parcel on Red Bug Lake Road, between the Red Bug Elementary School and Red Bug Park, as a site for spray irrigation of effluent from the county-owned Consumer sewer plant near Casselberry.

County Environmental Services Director Jim Bible got the county commission's blessing Monday to continue negotiating for the parcel which has a $300,000 pricetag and to hire an appraiser to determine the value of the property.

GENUINE UNITED STATES GOV'T. SILVER DOLLARS

U. S. COIN RESERVE

U. S. Coin Reserve, a division of Verret Enterprises Inc., a chartered distributor of Government Currency, has found over 15,000 Original Silver Dollars dating as far back as 1878. These treasured coins will be released to the American Public for one week only at a guaranteed price of $54.90 each...an incredible $25.00 less than a major national advertiser. Orders received later may not be honored due to volatile fluctuations in the precious metals market, and checks may be returned uncashed.

CONGRESS MELTS MORGAN SILVER

Created by the U. S. Mint over a century ago, more than 270 million Morgan Silver Dollars were melted down during World War I by the Federal government increasing the value of these coins dramatically. After only one more minting, Morgan Silver Dollars were never issued again. Their silver content then as today is almost one Troy ounce of .900 fine silver. Despite fluctuations in the price of silver, Morgan Silver Dollars have had an average annual appreciation of 26.4% in value over the last 10 years alone!

PRIVATE INDUSTRY MELTS U. S. SILVER DOLLARS

In January of 1980, silver hit a record breaking $50.00 per ounce, triggering a second massive melting of Silver Dollars. The combination of these two major meltings has resulted in Silver Dollars being more scarce than ever. We have been approached by the European Markets for these rare coins, but we feel they should be in the hands of the American Public. In consideration of the fewer number of these coins available, we guarantee an increase in value that could be over 60% yearly. Which means in five years they could be worth up to $575.66 apiece.

SILVER DOLLAR STOCKPILES FOUND

Our find of over 15,000 original Silver Dollars will be released from guarded vaults to the American public only through this notice! Most coins are up to 105 years old and guaranteed to be in brilliant uncirculated condition. Also, these coins are guaranteed to be genuine U. S. Gov't Issue and are accompanied by a numbered Certificate of Authenticity to that effect. We can only guarantee this price for one week due to the volatility of the precious metals market.

STRICT LIMIT

Since our price of $54.90 each is an incredible $25.00 less than a major national advertiser, we expect an avalanche of orders to come pouring in. Therefore, we advise you to get your order in early before the strictly limited supply at this price is sold. We offer a 10-day examination period for each order at which time they may be returned for a full refund. A limit of five hundred coins per order will be strictly adhered! Avoid disappointment. Statue Of Liberty Needs Our Help

More than $155 million has been collected toward a $230 million fund to restore two of our national symbols — the Statue of Liberty and Ellis Island.

The statue stands on 12-acre Liberty Island. It and 27½-acre Ellis Island lie close to one another in New York Harbor's Upper Bay.

Contributions, which are tax deductible, are being raised from the general public and from corporations and foundations.

The Statue of Liberty was a gift from France to the people of the United States, a monument to Franco-American friendship. The 100th anniversary of the statue's dedication will be next year, and restoration work is expected to be completed in time for the centennial celebration.

Restoration is extensive. The torch held by the statue is being replaced. The structural skeleton is being renewed. The copper skin is being cleaned and treated with anti-corrosive materials. Various stairways are being restored, elevators replaced and ventilation improved. It is a massive task.

Ellis Island was an immigration station between 1892 and 1954. During that time 17 million immigrants arrived at the island from their native countries and passed through to become new Americans. An Ellis Island centennial will be celebrated in 1992, with the opening of its refurbished buildings and a new historical museum.

Those who came to America from Europe sailed by the Statue of Liberty on their way to Ellis Island. The statue became a symbol of hope and freedom, and it represented home to American servicemen returning from Europe after two world wars.

Those who wish to offer financial help to these two great restoration projects can send checks to: Statue of Liberty/Ellis Island Foundation, P.O. Box 1986, Terminal Annex, Los Angeles, CA 90051.

Sportsmanship

Sportsmanship basically is fairness and self-control.

We have to remind ourselves of that whenever Jimmy Connors and John McEnroe play tennis and engage in their foul-mouthed confrontations with lineamen and spectators.

Or when basketball coaches become so ugly with referees that they get technical fouls, or when baseball managers kick up dirt and scream at umpires.

The recent U.S. Open Golf Tournament provided something for the tennis brats, bully coaches and crybaby managers to think about.

One competitor led all the way, right up to the end. But he was nosed out on the last hole by Andy North, who beat him for the title by one stroke — a penalty that the novice had been given.

He received a one-stroke penalty on a weird shot in which he popped the ball upward while in the rough and by accident hit it a second time on his swing.

This broken-mirror luck on the last round cost him the title. But did he throw his clubs, scream, and yell that he was cheated out of the championship?

Not at all. All this true sport said was that his second-place finish "wasn't too bad for the first time." No demeaning of the champion or the umpire who assessed the penalty that cost him many thousands of dollars.

That was sportsmanship. And also courtesy enough, T.C. Chen, the good sport, is not American. He is Taiwanese.

These Questions Can Cut Years Off Your Life

WASHINGTON (UPI) — "Every day, 30 Americans turn 100," says a questionnaire prepared by a New York advertising agency. "Will you be one of them?"

Well, 79, which, according to the accompanying actuarial table is my "average life expectancy," is a nice age. But the questions posed by the firm of Calwell Davis Partners are not reassuring for anyone hoping to turn 100, a good round number.

The questionnaire asserts that "you can add months, years, even decades to your life, or foreshorten it, depending upon your family life, personality, fitness, work, play, health and heredity."

Amen to the foreshortening. It was not, however, the actuarial pluses and minuses that actually did me in. It was the indecision.

For instance, statistics indicate people lose 15 months off their projected life span if they drive more than 20,000 miles annually without seat belts. 12 months if they buckle up.

I seldom drive that far anymore, and always fasten my seat belt even for short hauls. But I wasn't certain whether to add three months to my score.

In years past, I have driven more than 20,000 miles and the autos I owned back then didn't even have seat belts. Should I count off for that, and for the fact that I might end up driving more than 20,000 miles this year?

Honesty compels me to give myself an "I" for question No. 19.

And what about question No. 21, which asks: "Do you use prescription or over-the-counter drugs only when prescribed, following instructions carefully?"

Candor obliges me to admit that no doctor I ever consulted prescribes over-the-counter drugs. And what of the prescriptions I have thrown away unfilled?

To be frank about it, most of the over-the-counter drugs I have taken were prescribed by my mother-in-law, who never attended a medical school.

And by "instructions," does Caldwell Davis mean the directions printed on the bottle or hers?

Once again, I drew a blank, although I might have lost a couple of years, depending on how that last question is answered.

Up to nine months can be lost, and no time gained, by the 24th question: "Are you exposed to air pollution?"

I am a regular habitue of the Senate press gallery, just off the Senate chamber, and occasionally visit "the cave of the winds" itself.

Does this mean I am "regularly" exposed to air pollution "in substantial amounts?"

It depends, I suppose, on which senators are orating and what your own political philosophy might be.

Contrariwise, up to 12 months can be gained, but no time lost, by the 26th question: "Do you have regular medical checkups?"

The only possible answers are "complete" and "partial." But what of the person whose medical checkups are spasmodic, or episodic, rather than regular? And what if you have no medical checkups at all?

Since most of the questions were impossible, or impractical, to answer, I gave up trying to figure out how long I might live.

I simply concluded I had been dead for six years, and let it go at that.

Wary Of Tax Reform

Until the tax reform issue is settled in Congress, little else is likely to receive close public scrutiny. If the outline of the future tax system is unclear, individuals and business organizations won't be likely to make new investments. Indeed investors already are worried that they will be penalized for gains achieved under the existing tax code.

What company will order expensive new industrial equipment if they won't be able to depreciate it as rapidly as at present? What independent oil operator will be enthusiastic about exploratory drilling if the depletion allowance won't be put to work effectively in the months ahead while the tax features remain undecided.

Meanwhile, Congress is hearing disturbing news. In mid-June, the House Ways and Means Committee heard Dr. Martin Feldstein, former head of the President's Council of Economic Advisers, warn that the administration's tax proposal "would probably cause a recession in 1986." He pinpointed the planned end of the investment tax credit as the probable cause of such a recession. He recommended that the move be postponed. In his view, removal of this incentive to invest would cut U.S. competitiveness in world markets.

Dr. Feldstein also blasted a provision to take back $57 billion in revenue lost through current, speeded-up depreciation write-offs, saying this is "unfair and absolutely unprecedented."

This is a tax provision to recapture alleged windfalls from accelerated depreciation. It would strike a heavy blow against a variety of capital-intensive industries, the oil industry, transportation industry and others. It is a very unfair proposal and smacks of ex post facto law. Companies made their investment decisions on the basis of the accelerated depreciation provision. They should not be informed, after the fact, that this provision won't be operative and that additional tax is due the federal government. This recapture provision would come into effect six months prior to the setting of new tax rates. In an editorial, Business Week says "This is not fair; good and bad should be phased in together." Whoever dreamed up this provision had no intention of playing fair with investors who create jobs.

Military 'Fiasco' Was Really A Success

By Jack Anderson and Dale Van Atta

WASHINGTON — While the Reagan administration weighs its options for dealing with terrorism, it is relevant to examine the lessons learned from a remarkable U.S. military operation nearly 15 years ago: the commando raid on Son Tay, North Vietnam.

The raid was widely regarded as an intelligence fiasco, since the American prisoners who were supposed to be rescued were no longer there. In fact, it was nothing of the sort. U.S. intelligence was quite accurate, and the raid itself was carried out with superb skill.

What the Pentagon planners knew before the Son Tay raid and the surprising results have never been revealed. Here's the story:

On Nov. 21, 1970, a force of 60 elite commandos landed in a secluded compound 23 miles west of Hanoi, deep inside North Vietnam. The men were told their mission was to liberate as many as 80 American POWs being held

WILLIAM RUSHER

Mr. Reagan's Critics

Reading the comments of some of my conservative colleagues on President Reagan's handling of the hostage crisis, one gets the impression that their basic emotion on the subject is an obscure but powerful sense of dissatisfaction. Since no other convenient means of venting this dissatisfaction suggests itself, they are railing at Mr. Reagan like a flock of angry blackbirds. They are wrong.

In the first place, as I have pointed out, Mr. Reagan managed to bring the hijacked passengers home without yielding to a single one of their captors' demands — a remarkable feat in the circumstances. The decisive factor was probably the threat of a fresh U.S. military intervention in Lebanon — something that both Syria and the Soviet Union would give a great deal to avoid.

In the second place, to criticize Mr. Reagan at this point is like trying to review a play at the end of the first act. The story is patently not over. The whole retaliation scenario remains to be played out — and it may well be delayed substantially by the need to weigh the fate of those remaining seven hostages in the Bekaa Valley. If no retaliation ever ensues, that will indeed be the time, and the occasion, for condemnation. But it is scarcely here yet, and such spasms as Norman Podhoretz's ex post facto proposal of "an ultimatum followed by military strikes of great severity if the hostages were not immediately released" (a course that would probably have resulted in the slaughter of all of them) are simply embarrassing.

Thirdly, the American public would do well to bear in mind the distinction between sentiments appropriate to a highly satisfactory outcome of Act I of this drama and the understandable exasperation of Israel and its friends over some of the dialogue that managed to get onto American television during the crisis. A weary, befuddled hostage or two spoke sympathetically of the Shiite cause (whatever that is), somebody in the administration drew, or allowed to be drawn, an unjustified parallel (George Will's complaint) between kidnapped Americans and detained Lebanese; Syrian President Assad managed to appear transiently benign, despite his own long record of complicity with terrorism. Is Israel's case so fragile that it is vulnerable to pinpricks of that size?

Fourth, the steadfast refusal of people who ought to know better (and let's start again with leading conservatives) to contemplate the implications of the unsuccessful attempt on Qaddafi's life in May 1984, or of the mysterious bomb blast at the home of the head of the Party of God movement in Beirut in March this year, is beginning to border on intellectual irresponsibility.

SCIENCE WORLD

Incans: Who Were They ...?

By Charles J. Cannon

BOULDER, Colo. (UPI) — A literal and figurative cloud covers the ancient city of Gran Pajaten, nestled amid dense mountain foliage high in the thick rain forests of northern Peru.

A team of more than two dozen scientists has started the first stage of a University of Colorado effort to shed light on the civilization that flourished there and then disappeared.

The university announced earlier this year that it had signed a five-year contract with the Peruvian government to excavate and study the one-time metropolis often shrouded in clouds.

A team of Peruvian scientists did preliminary work there in 1963, and American explorer Eugene Savoy of Reno, Nev., visited the 8,600-foot-high site in 1965 and gave it its name (pronounced Gran Pah-hah-tayn).

But the Colorado effort is the first extended multidisciplinary effort to study the city and its unknown civilization, believed to be a pre-Incan people. The Incas dominated most of civilized South America from 1476 until the Spanish conquest that ended in 1535.

By contrast, a CU scientist said preliminary evidence indicates Gran Pajaten may have been inhabited from 500 A.D. to 1500 A.D. But the identity of the residents is unknown.

"We want to learn everything we can about them," said Tom Lennon, an archaeologist who, with anthropologist Jane Wheeler, is co-directing the CU team working jointly with Peruvian scientists.

"We will try to learn about their social organization, the impact of environmental stress, how they adapted to the extremely wet weather — up to 230 inches of rain annually — what they ate, which crops they raised," he said. "All this will require extensive study over a period of at least 15 to 20 years."

Lennon said the Peruvian government's goal is to "find how to use this kind of area without ecological damage."

"The rate of destruction of tropical forest worldwide is a scandal," he said. "This area has had no major impact, and we want to figure out how to avoid destruction, how to make it a model for management and analysis of pristine areas."

there.

Not a single POW was found. Only North Vietnamese (and some Chinese) soldiers were on the premises. A brisk battle ensued. The enemy suffered up to 100 casualties; not a single American was killed. In fact, the only U.S. "casualty" was a commando who sprained an ankle.

The raiders were bitterly and understandably disappointed. They had apparently risked their lives for nothing. Who had blundered?

The overwhelming evidence is that no one had goofed. U.S. intelligence was reasonably certain there were no American POWs at Son Tay by the time of the raid. So why send the raiders in?

The chief planner of the raid, Gen. Donald T. Blackburn, told our associate Donald Goldberg years later: "We knew they (the POWs) had been moved. We didn't want to give up the demonstration of power." The real purpose of the raid, he said, was to show the North Vietnamese how vulnerable they were.

There were intelligence gaps, though not over the central question of the presence or absence of Americans in the camp. An Army intelligence officer who worked on the raid told us recently that the Pentagon deliberately held down the number of reconnaissance drones that flew over the camp for fear of tipping off the North Vietnamese to an imminent raid.

"The big thing was not whether there were POWs there or not," he explained, "but whether there was a North Vietnamese regiment there or not. We had to make sure that they would not set up a trap for the raiding force or we could have had 60 more POWs, which would have been disastrous."

The large number of troops the raiders encountered was a surprise, as was the quality of their weapons. In fact, a CIA analyst later resigned over the raid, complaining that his boss, not wanting to admit he had no spies in the area, "estimated" that the enemy soldiers at Son Tay were armed only with old Japanese and French rifles, pitchforks and machetes. In fact, they had machine guns.

But, in retrospect, the raid was both a strategic and tactical success. It netted maximum military gain from a minimum risk of men and material. There were four important results:

- Enemy leaders were so frightened at the demonstration that U.S. raiders could strike with impunity so close to Hanoi that they withdrew from the capital and avoided gathering together, which hampered their planning ability.

- Some of their best troops were pulled back from the south to protect Hanoi.

- Devastatingly effective surface-to-air missile batteries were also recalled from the south to ring Hanoi.

- The treatment of American POWs improved dramatically as they were moved into Hanoi for security. It was "less likely that some sadistic sergeant out in the sticks" would mistreat them, a source explained.

Ex-Lake Mary Mayor Reprimanded

Gov. Bob Graham has fined former Lake Mary Mayor Walter Sorenson $500 and publicly reprimanded him for using city telephones and automobiles for personal use.

Sorenson was also reprimanded for taking a $900 expense advance without city commission approval.

Graham took the action Monday based on a recommendation of the state Commission on Ethics.

Former city commissioner Ray Fox brought Sorenson's actions to the attention of Lake Mary's city commission in September 1983, but "elected officials lacked the courage and integrity and the local press adopted a head-in-the-sand attitude," Fox said. When the commission did not take action, Fox pressed the matter with the ethics commission.

Sorenson, 42, served as Lake Mary's mayor for 10 years. He lost his post in November to Mayor Dick Fess.

"Walt Sorenson was 100 percent candid with the citizens of Lake Mary," said

Michael Gray, Sorenson's attorney.

Gray said that although Sorenson is guilty of some "technical violations" the case is not a criminal one.

"It appears to be a personal vendetta by the party who made the charges," Gray said.

Sorenson was accused of making long-distance phone calls from Lake Mary City Hall to his business in Orlando, and using a city vehicle to drive to Port Canaveral.

Lake Mary City Commissioner Colin Keogh started a defense fund to help pay Sorenson's legal bills. Keogh said the fund had about $900 in it and that it would almost cover Sorenson's legal expenses.

According to Keogh, the dispute between Sorenson and Fox came about over the purchase of new fire truck for the city.

"After Sorenson broke a tie vote denying purchasing the truck, Fox said to Sorenson 'You will never be elected in Lake Mary again,'" Keogh said.

Fox then brought Sorenson's actions to the attention of the city commission and local press.

When commissioners heard the charges, "there was little we could do," Keogh said.

"The attorney said that we could send it (the case) to the ethics commission, but if we announced it (intentions to refer the case to the state) publicly, we would have been guilty of a misdemeanor."

But Fox insists that he only wanted to see justice done and that there is no personal vendetta against Sorenson.

"I did not oppose Sorenson, but philosophically we are miles apart on what is right and what is wrong. He did not think it was wrong to use city property for personal use. I feel that justice has been done," Fox said.

Fox said that the support Sorenson has received indicates that many people also must think he (Sorenson) did nothing wrong.

"But I took an oath of office to uphold the laws of Lake Mary and this state, and that's what I did," Fox said.

School Board Seeks To Enlarge Geneva School Site

The Seminole County School Board is expected to approve a recommendation by Superintendent Robert Hughes to purchase 1.26 acres of land adjacent to Geneva Elementary School at its meeting Monday.

Board members discussed the purchase at their June 19 meeting and unanimously agreed to make an offer for the land.

Benny Arnold, assistant supervisor for facilities and transportation, said that school board guidelines call for elementary schools to be situated on 15 acres of land. Geneva has about 13

Arnold said that the land, valued at $14,900, would be used to increase the school's capacity from 250 to 790 in a future construction project. He said some of the land would be used for a playground facility.

In a related construction matter, the state Department of Education gave the school board final approval for its proposed re-roofing project for sections of Oviedo High School and Milwee Middle School.

The job will cost $231,219. No date has been set for construction to begin.

'I Have To Go To The Restroom,' Woman Tells Rapist

A 24-year-old Osteen woman who turned up nude and asking for help at a Sanford home at about 9:30 p.m. Tuesday told Seminole County Sheriff's deputies that she was raped by a man who offered her a ride.

The victim said the suspect had picked her up at the corner of Sanford Avenue and 3rd Street in Sanford. He was to take her to her grandfather's Sanford home but instead drove to a remote area at the dead end of Narcissus Avenue in Sanford where he reportedly raped the woman, a sheriff's report said.

The victim escaped after the attack by telling the man she had to go to the restroom. She fled nude to a home at 2330 Narcissus Avenue, and sheriff's deputies were called to the scene, the report said.

Deputies searched the area but found no sign of the suspect, the report said.

The suspect said he had permission to have the vehicle, but dealership management insisted the car had been stolen, the report said.

Kenneth Leon Fields, 21, of Room #3, Last Stop, was arrested at his home and was being held in lieu of $5,000 bond.

In separate incidents, two Seminole County men reported to sheriff's deputies that they were attacked by thieves.

Raymond Burnam, 28, of 391 E. Altamonte Drive, Altamonte Springs, told deputies he was attacked from behind when he approached the front door of his home at about 2 a.m. Tuesday.

Burnam said the attacker or attackers turned him and punched him in the left eye. He was temporarily blinded and was also punched in the sides, a sheriff's report said.

The West A Cauldron Of Smoke And Flames

United Press International
The West already ravaged by wildfires that have charred 1 million acres and driven thousands from their homes, is bracing for more of the scorching weather that is fueling the inferno.

In the worst fire season in the memory of many veteran firefighters, savage grass and forest fires continued to crackle across the region Tuesday, and forecasters said the searing temperatures — more than 100 degrees in many states — and absence of rain could last at least another 10 days.

A record 13,900 firefighters — 90 percent of the professionals in the country — were on the lines in the American West on Tuesday, with another 3,000 fighting 550 blazes in British Columbia.

We are currently coordinating the largest short-time fire suppression effort in the history of firefighting, said Bill Bishop of the Boise Interagency Fire Center that coordinates manpower for the lower 48 states.

Our resources are being strained. We still have available manpower but it's starting to get in short supply."

Major fires were raging out of control in California, Oregon, Nevada and British Columbia, and crews were coming in from as far away as New York and Alaska. About 250 California National Guardsmen, trucks and helicopters were ferrying bone-weary firefighters from blaze to blaze. Nearly a quarter-million acres have burned in California in the past week.

Canadian authorities said Tuesday they fear a series of forest fires in the western province could explode without warning into a giant fireball, trapping 100 people who refused to flee their homes in a logging town.

Teague Rediscovered Strike Zone, Maitland Upend Oviedo

By Chris Flister

OVIDO — The Maitland Senior League contingent Tuesday night felt it might have needed radar to locate the strike zone in the latter innings here Tuesday night. Pitcher Perry Teague and manager Bruce Johnson said they felt the strike zone had lost a couple of sizes.

After walking a pair of runs which enabled the Oviedo Seniors to pull within 7-5 in the bottom of the seventh, Teague bore down and threw strikes to the dangerous Derek Mays and, with the bases loaded and two outs, induced him to pop out to short right field for the final out as Maitland escaped with a 7-5 victory in Little League Baseball District 14 Division 2 Tournament action.

"If (the strike zone) got pretty small in the seventh inning," Teague said. "It got to me a little but I just tried to keep calm and throw strikes."

"You couldn't ask for any better pitches than he (Teague) was throwing," Johnson said. "But he wasn't getting any calls. He hung in there though and gutted it through a very tough situation. He really played his heart out."

Maitland remains in the winner's bracket where it will take on Eustis tonight at 7:30 at the Oviedo complex. Oviedo drops to the loser's bracket and will travel to Eustis tonight for a 7:30 battle with West Volusia.

Although Oviedo made it close in the last two innings, it was Maitland that got off to a quick start and took away Oviedo's running game.

Baseball

Maitland rocked Oviedo starter Alan Greene for three runs on three hits in the top of the first.

"Our game plan was to put the bats on them in the first inning," Johnson said. "We knew Greene would probably be pitching so we took two days of hitting nothing but hard heat in practice."

Greene hit leadoff man Ted Schieffelin with a pitch and, with one out, Willie Daunic ripped a single to right. Schieffelin was waved around second and the throw from right fielder Micah Kinnard had him beat but Schieffelin knocked the ball loose from the third baseman's glove and was safe with Daunic taking second on the throw through.

Cleanup man Kevin O'Brien worked Greene for a walk, bringing up Teague with one out and the bases full. Greene quickly got two strikes on Teague and, after a curve missed, he went back to the fastball and Teague blasted the 1-2 offering deep to right center for a two-run double and a 2-0 Maitland lead.

Chris Norton followed with an infield single to reload the bases and, with two outs, J.C. Sandberg walked on a 3-2 pitch to force in O'Brien with a 3-0 lead. Greene went 3-2 again on the next hitter but got the payoff pitch over and Wayne Kemp grounded back to the mound for the third out.

"You've got to give Maitland credit," Oviedo manager David Austis said. "They took it right to us and took us out of our game."

Teague and Greene breezed through the next three innings as neither team threatened again until the fifth. At one time Greene struck out six consecutive hitters and retired nine straight going into the top of the fifth.

Schieffelin looped a single to center to start off the fifth, took second on an errant pickoff attempt by Greene and went to third on a wild pitch. Bobby Liefelder followed with a walk and stole second. Greene then tried to pick Schieffelin off third but again threw wild and Maitland took a 4-0 lead.

Willy Daunic then lined a single to left center to drive in Liefelder for a 5-0 advantage. Greene then walked O'Brien and Daunic and O'Brien pulled off a double steal on a missed bunt attempt. With one out, Norton smashed a single past a drawn in infield to drive in two more runs as Maitland took command, 7-0.

Over the first four frames, Teague had Oviedo shut out on three hits. Oviedo finally cracked Teague for two runs in the bottom of the fifth with help from two Maitland errors. With one out, Mays singled down the left field line, went to second on a wild pickoff attempt and stole third. With two outs, Mays scored when Willie Gainey reached on an error. Gainey took

Aggressive Nationals Zap Volusia

Andy Spolski tossed a four-hitter and was backed by an aggressive offense as the Altamonte Nationals opened Little League Baseball's Major District 14 Division 2 Tournament All-Star play with a 12-3 rout of West Volusia Tuesday night at DeLand.

The Nationals return to action tonight at 7:30 against Maitland at Eustis. Neill James will be on the mound for Altamonte.

Spolski struck out nine and walked four in the game and the Nationals gave him all he needed with four runs in the first inning.

"Andy (Spolski) pitched really well," Altamonte manager Duke Plecones said. "He was around the plate all night long. And we had some good defensive plays behind him by Chris Plecones, Bill Rippard and Matt Albert."

Altamonte used its aggressive baserunning to come away with four runs in the top of the first. With Albert on second and James on first, the pitcher caught a short pop up near the first base line. The pitcher didn't notice that the runners had tagged as Albert moved to third and James to second. Then, the throw to third was wild and both runners scored for a 2-0 lead. Rippard added an RBI single later in the inning as Altamonte built a 4-0 lead.

"Our aggressive baserunning accounted for at least five runs," Plecones said. "We had them (West Volusia) throwing the ball around all over the place."

Spolski shut West Volusia out the first three innings while Altamonte increased its lead to 9-0 with one run in the second and four in the top of the fourth. Spolski's solo home run was the highlight of the fourth-inning outburst.

The defensive play of the game was made in the bottom of the fourth. With a runner on third, Rippard speared a line drive to center, relayed to Albert who tossed to catcher Pete Joseph to nail the runner at the plate.

West Volusia scored single runs in the fourth, fifth and sixth frames but it was too little, too late.

Altamonte had nine hits in the game including two each by Travis Lloyd and Rippard and one each by Spolski, James, Joseph, Sean Spivey and Scott Davidson.

Chris "Bulldog" Jackson took a bite out of the Oviedo offense Tuesday night. The Altamonte right-hander struck out eight and shut out Oviedo on two hits.

Jitters, Jackson Spoil Davis Gem

ALTA MONTE SPRINGS — The opening game of a tournament is always guaranteed to bring out one thing — jitters.

Oviedo's defense had them committing six errors. The Altamonte Americans usually potent offensive attack had them too, mustering just three hits. The umpires weren't immune to the jitters either. The three-man crew appeared to blow at least a half a dozen calls.

Altamonte, taking advantage of every Oviedo defensive lapse, used a big five run third inning en route to a 9-0 victory in the first round of the Little League Baseball District 14 Division 2 All-Star Tournament at Altamonte's Eastmonte complex Tuesday night.

The Americans, 1-0, go to Oviedo tonight for a 7:30 game against Deltona. A 10-1 winner over St. John's Chuck Lamb will hurl for the Americans. Oviedo, 0-1, goes back to Altamonte for a 7:30 p.m. game with St. John's Marvin "Bubba" Fore will pitch for Oviedo.

Altamonte manager Mike

Morro and Oviedo coach Kenny Tulp were critical of the umpiring but it was Oviedo's defensive lapses which put it in the hole early, spoiling an excellent pitching performance by Russell Davis.

Davis, who played in Altamonte last year, overpowered the Americans. "Russell just threw smoke," said Oviedo coach Kenny Tulp. "His curve wasn't working but he didn't need it. He just smoked them."

Davis allowed just three hits and just one — T.J. Guiffreda's RBI double in the fifth — was hit hard. The big right hander struck out nine, walked seven and hit one. Six of the strikeouts were called.

His undoing, however, came in the third. Leadoff hitter Guiffreda, who played his role to perfection by reaching base four times, got aboard on an error by the shortstop. John Jump then reached when the second baseman dropped a throw on a

Metzger 1-Hits Deltona

By Kevin Gross

Special to the Herald

DELTONA — Greg Metzger shrugged off a sore shoulder to hurl a one-hitter and lead the Altamonte Springs Seniors to a 10-2 victory over Deltona in the Little League Baseball District 14 Division 2 Senior League Tournament Tuesday night at Charlie Paulus Field.

"I was just trying to throw strikes," said Metzger who struck out 13 hitters and didn't allow a walk. "I had a lot of confidence in my curveball. I threw a lot of them on 3 and 2."

"My fastball is my main pitch but my curveball was working well tonight so I stuck with it."

Altamonte, 1-1, takes on Southwest Volusia today at 5:30 at Valentine Park in Orange City. Altamonte coach Ralph Cochran said he will go with either Penny Siqueros or Shane Stuflet on the mound.

"We played a real good game but we could have played better," said Cochran. "We didn't run the bases well. But I think we're starting to jell."

Altamonte's Chad Cochran got things started with a one-out walk in the first inning. Cochran then stole second and came around to score when Kenny Jackson smashed a single to right. After Corey From, the star of Monday's 4-3 loss to Maitland popped out to third, Jackson stole second and moved to third on Jim Kremer's swinging bunt single. Both runners were stranded, though, as the next batter struck out.

In the third, Metzger and Cochran walked to start things rolling again. Jackson then plated a run with his second hit, a line-drive double to center. From added an RBI single to

Coaches, Parents Are Key Link To Little League Success

Granted, baseball managers get most of the ink. After all, they are the managers while the rest of the staff is assigned the title of coach.

Any manager worth his salt, though, depends religiously on his coaching staff. It's just too big of a job to watch everything. He'll be the first to admit, too, that supportive parents make it easier to sleep at night.

The successful teams have everything organized. They'll be as many as four coaches taking care of various duties. Only two are allowed in the dugout but you'd be surprised how some effective some coaches can be on the fringe.

Parents are at the opposite extreme. It hampers the manager's situation when parents are throwing their two cents onto the field or in the dugout.

Last year's Altamonte National League team was one such example on a finely tuned unit. Manager Jerrey Thurston was the organizer and motivator. Greg Ebbert was the pitching coach and motivator. Jim Barfield was the infield coach and motivator. Rudy Callahan was the outfield coach and motivator. Nate "The Witchdoctor" James was the trainer and motivator. Doug Heiser was the scorekeeper and motivator.

Yes, there is a bit of redundancy in that last paragraph. But motivation is a redundancy that is very when dealing with Little Leaguers. Their emotions and confidence level runs up and down like a seesaw. Any coach can scream and yell. Sometimes it works. But does it work with 12-year-olds? Not too often. Baseball is supposed to be fun. Positive strokes usually promote a better outcome.

HERALD SPORTS EDITOR

But Thurston promoted togetherness from the first day of practice and it was one of the most together teams you'll ever see.

This team also had another ingredient which was very important to its success. It probably had the greatest Little League parents ever assembled. And how many teams can say that?

As most of you know, discussion on any team can usually be started by an interlarding parent. His son or daughter isn't playing. He feels badly for the boy and (admittedly or not) worse for himself. He is embarrassed by the fact his sibling isn't good enough to crack the starting lineup.

He starts to shoot his mouth off to the other parents. They don't want to hear but they put up with it. The mouth sounds off a little too loud on occasion and puts the manager, coaches and players in an uncomfortable situation. Pressure is felt by all and mistakes pop up on and off the field.

Dissension, interjected by a frustrated parent, has been the bad seed which has destroyed many teams. It's something that doesn't usually show up in the box score but those close to the team know about its detrimental affect on the team.

It may be a little farfetched to list cooperative and promoting parents as one of the ingredients for a visit to Williamsport, Pa. but Thurston, who couldn't say enough good things about his players' parents last year, lists their support as one of the cornerstones of his National League All-Stars' success.

"I love every one of them," said Thurston last year after his boys finished second to Seoul, South Korea. "They came to every game. Always cheered for every boy and never caused any trouble. You don't know how comforting that is to a coach. It's just one more problem area that you don't have to worry about."

And their unflinching support should be used as a role model as this all-star season continues. A tip of the cap to the Radcliffs, Thurstons, Wallaces, Jameses, Musalewhites, Varitek, Alberts, Carlsons, Diehs, Conklins, Martins, Iatarolas, Heisers and Waualas. Hopefully, your positive role will be followed by every team's parents which attend a game.

It's parents like these that a manager doesn't mind leaning on the dugout screen.

Jim "Bru" Brubaker, the pitching coach for the Altamonte Juniors, has been wearing his smile from earlobe to earlobe lately. And what pitching coach wouldn't if his team was averaging almost 19 runs per game.

Altamonte has 18-2, 25-0 and 13-3 victories thus far. That's 56 in three tries. The pitching hasn't been too shabby either. Chris Radcliff no-hit Deltona, Jerrey Thurston one-hit Oviedo while Aaron Iatarola and Curt From combined to subdue Maitland Sunday.

Another familiar name has popped up with the Altamonte 13-year-olds. Roger Beathard, better known for his football and wrestling coaching exploits at Seminole and Lake Mary high schools, is also on manager Kelly Waincott's staff with Thurston and Brubaker. Beathard said he expects Maitland or DeLand to resurface for Monday's winners' bracket final at Oviedo. "Maitland beat DeLand but three of DeLand's better players got their late," said Beathard. "It might be different the next time they play."

You would think that elementary schools principals would be ready for the isolation ward

Gooden Keeps Reds Reeling — Raines Gets 4 Hits

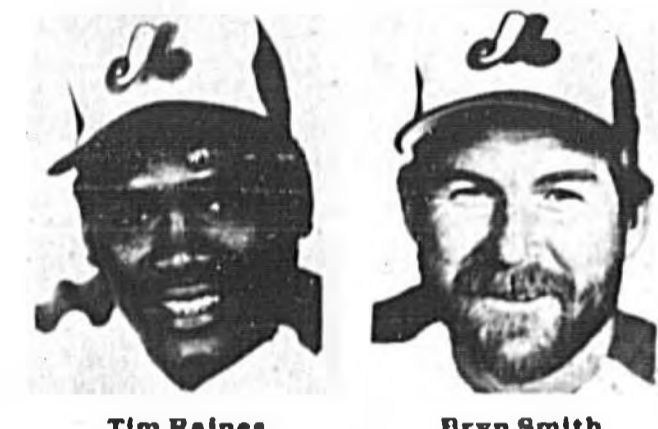

United Press International
The last person the struggling Reds needed to see Tuesday night was Dwight Gooden.
"This was a rough one tonight, but it's really not tonight's game that bothers me," said Cincinnati player-manager Pete Rose after Gooden and the New York Mets handed his team its sixth loss in eight games, 11-2. "It's the way things have been going the last week. It seems that everything we've been working so hard for is slipping away from us."
Meanwhile, for the Mets, things are coming together. After getting no decisions in his previous two outings, Gooden hit what he described as his best groove ever.
Now that's scary.
New York's offense, recently resurgent, got plenty of help from Cincinnati pitching, receiving 11 walks. The Mets have won eight straight, the longest winning streak in the National League this year.
"You can't walk 10 batters and give up nine hits and expect to win, not when you're playing against Dwight Gooden," said Rose. "Those walks really kill you. I'd rather give up 19 hits than walk 10."
The worst culprit was starter Mario Soto, 8-9, who issued seven passes, including walking the bases loaded. Soto suffered his sixth straight loss, the longest streak of his career, and hasn't won since June 4.
On the other extreme is Gooden, who surrendered five hits and struck out five over eight innings to remain unbeaten since May 25 with six victories in nine starts.
"Through the first seven innings, I was in the best groove I've ever been in," said Gooden, the major league leader in strikeouts with 142 and earned run average at 1.78. "But in the eighth inning, the heat really got to me. I was gasping for air."

N.L. Baseball
"It felt like I was on the disabled list the last two weeks, like I wasn't even a part of the team. It's great to get back in the groove and help the team again."
George Foster drove in four runs with a solo homer, a two-run single and a bases-loaded walk. Keith Hernandez hit his second two-run homer in two nights. New York scored four runs in the eighth inning without getting a hit, thanks to two errors and four walks.

Cubs 7, Padres 3
At Chicago, Ryne Sandberg belted a pair of two-run homers in the first two innings and singled and scored in the fourth to stop San Diego. Steve Trout, 8-4, and George Frazier, who earned his first save, combined on a four-hitter. Eric Show, 7-6, was the loser.

Dodgers 8, Pirates 3
At Pittsburgh, Steve Sax singled in two runs and Rick Honeycutt and Tom Niedenfuer combined on a six-hitter, pacing Los Angeles. Honeycutt improved to 6-7. Niedenfuer earned his seventh save. The Dodgers tied their season-high for hits with 16. Rick Rhoden, 5-9, was the loser.

Expos 5, Braves 1
At Atlanta, Tim Raines rapped four hits, Mike Fitzgerald belted a solo homer and Andre Dawson drove in two runs, lifting Montreal. Bryn Smith, 10-3, allowed five hits and struck out a career-high 10 over 8 2-3 innings, including six straight, falling one short of the Montreal record set by Steve Renko in 1972. Raines also stole a base, his 27th of the year and drove in a run.

Cardinals 3, Giants 1
At St. Louis, Tom Herr rapped out two hits and drove in two runs to improve his National League-leading RBI total to 65 and defeat San Francisco. Danny Cox, 10-4, pitched a five-hitter and his eighth complete game. Bill Laskey fell to 1-11.

Phillies 5, Astros 3
At Houston, Rick Schu ignited a five-run fourth inning with his second double of the game and Kevin Gross won his third straight decision to improve to 8-7 and pace Philadelphia. Kent Tekulve gained his eighth save. Bob Knepper, 8-5, was the loser.

Owner Losses Are Less But Industry Is A Loser

Baseball
NEW YORK (UPI) — An accounting professor hired by major league baseball owners to review 26 clubs' 1984 financial statements concluded Tuesday the industry realized a $27 million loss — $16 million less than the owners claim.
However, George Sorter, professor of accounting at New York University's Graduate School of Business Administration, agreed with the owners that baseball, as a whole, was ailing financially.
"It's not in great shape. It's a losing industry. It's clearly a losing industry," said Sorter, who emphasized that his views did not represent those of the owners.
In some parts of his interpretation of the financial statements, Sorter agreed with the Major League Baseball Players Association, which is negotiating a new labor contract with the owners.

Tooke Drives In 10 Runs — Renegades Snare 4th

Softball
The Fern Park Renegades, a 15 and under all-star team composed of Seminole County players, won five games and lost three this past weekend to tie for fourth in the Plantation Central Park Tournament.
The Renegades, who were just formed in late May, got off to a good start in the tournament by winning their first four games.
In the opener, Stormi Littrell, Laurie Rivers and Susan Hayden banged out two hits each and Marcie Tooke smacked a home run and drove in three runs as the Renegades upended Lake Worth, 13-3. Tooke, a Seminole High sophomore-to-be, capped a six-run second inning with a three-run homer.
In game two, pinch-hitter Sherry Shotts drove in the winning run in the top of the seventh as the Renegades trimmed Miami, 7-6. Tooke and Hayden had two hits each to power the 13-hit attack.

IN BRIEF

Mecir: Pernfors Quite Good, But Not Good Enough 6-3, 6-4

BROOKLINE, Mass. (UPI) — Miloslav Mecir doesn't know why he is a winner these days. The Czechoslovak who won barely half his matches in 1984 is now ranked 11th in the world. After his opening-round victory Tuesday in the U.S. Pro Championships, a 6-3, 6-4 dismissal of Mickael Pernfors, Mecir claimed ignorance concerning the reasons for his rise. "I feel I can win now, but I felt that last year too," added Mecir. "I have more confidence, but I don't know what's different. I'm just winning more matches."

Pernfors, a student at Georgia University and two-time NCAA champion, was "quite good, but not good enough," said Mecir.

Unlike the South Americans who usually dominate the clay-court circuit, Mecir does not slug from the baseline with high topspin groundstrokes, but relies on varied speeds, placement and sharp angles. His chances of reaching the finals at Longwood Cricket Club improved greatly when No. 2 seed Andres Gomez, who was in the same half of the draw, withdrew late Tuesday due to a recurring injury in his right thigh. Tournament physician Dr. Robert Leach diagnosed a torn quadriceps muscle and said Gomez, of Ecuador, would be unable to play on tour for at least two weeks.

The same injury had kept the fifth-ranked Gomez out of Wimbledon. His place in the Longwood draw will be taken by Stanislav Birner of Czechoslovakia.

In the only other match involving a top seed, No. 5 Henrik Sundstrom of Sweden overcame first-set mistakes to erase qualifier Thomas Muster of Austria and score a 4-6, 6-2, 6-1 victory and move into the third round.

24 Dolphins Remain Unsigned

MIAMI (UPI) — Speculation before the start of training camp usually centers on which rookies will make the team and what veterans will be either forced into retirement or released.

For the Miami Dolphins, however, most of the talk has centered on the 24 players they have not signed to contracts.

The defending AFC Champions open camp Monday, but have yet to sign 11 of their 13 draft picks. Thirteen veterans also are without contracts. Four of them are starters — safeties Lyle and Glenn Blackwood, linebacker Bob Brudzinski and tight end Dan Johnson.

The lack of signings is common throughout the league and is mainly due to the lack of competition for talent from the financially strapped United States Football League.

Mayor Sees Marathon Changes

BOSTON (UPI) — In an effort to maintain the Boston Marathon's status as one of the world's premier marathons, Boston Mayor Raymond L. Flynn reportedly plans to recommend major changes for next spring's 90th running.

Prize money totalling $292,500 would be awarded and the race — the oldest continuously run marathon — would be shifted to the Sunday of Patriot's Day weekend under the proposals, the Boston Globe reported today.

Historically, the race has been run on the Monday celebrated in Massachusetts as Patriot's Day, drawing criticism from runners from other states where the holiday was not celebrated. Moving the race to a Sunday would increase the race's chances of being nationally televised.

O-Twins Split; Hold Onto 1st

The Orlando Twins clung to a one game lead in the Southern League's East Division by splitting a doubleheader with Chattanooga at Tinker Field Tuesday night. The O-Twins outslugged the Lookouts, 13-9, in the first game but dropped the nightcap, 7-4.

Mark Davidson and Greg Morhardt powered homers in the first game to propel Orlando. The Twins host Chattanooga again tonight at 7:30.

In other minor league play, Osceola was rained out at Fort Lauderdale. The Astros, who lead the Florida State League's Central Division by 2½ games, play two tonight at Fort Lauderdale.

Knight, FCA Attend Retreat

Twelve members of the Seminole High chapter of the Fellowship of Christian Athletes, along with sponsor Donalyn Knight, left Sunday morning to attend the National FCA Conference in Black Mountain, N.C., at the YMCA Blue Ridge Assembly on July 8-12.

Those attending include Beth Nelson, Leslie Crabtree, Suzi Nye, Julie Nye, Shawna Cole, Karen Edgemon, Christy Gonzales, Lori Swain, Michele Bisigni, Jennifer McKibbin, Lori Hall and Rose Speer.

Becker Another Borg? Be Serious

Larry Castle
HERALD
WRITER

I can't resist writing one more time about Wimbledon. It's on the mind of most every tennis fan. Most everyone is still talking about it and I'm just still very confused about the whole thing.

I'm talking about the men's singles, of course. The women's championship was as predictable as usual. Martina and Chris met in the finals, and, by the way, had another good match. As you know Martina won in three sets.

These two have now met a total of 66 times. Martina has won 34, Chris 32. Ho, hum, so what else is new? I'm rather tired of seeing these two in the finals but they are so far above the rest of the field that it is going to happen over and over.

None of us was ready for what happened in the men's singles. It was wild and it was crazy. I warned you last week that anything could happen in a grass court tournament. Well anything and everything did happen and what transpired during this great and glorious tennis event will go down in the history of tennis under the heading of bizzare.

Who would have ever dreamed that a 17-year-old kid from Germany would win it all. Boris Becker was little known in the world of tennis and was not even seeded in this tournament. In fact, he had to qualify to even get in the main draw.

His booming serve and go-for-it-all type game was perfect for the slick, fast grass courts and his calmness under pressure was surely something to behold.

In the finals, against Kevin Curren, Becker served over 20 aces and many, many more unreturnable serves.

The ball moves through the court very fast on a grass court and the bounce is very low. Any attempt to return a really good serve is a scrambling, lunging, skating exercise in futility. Curren himself is a really big server and got to the finals on the strength of his big boomer.

Actually, in beating McEnroe and Connors his serve was almost impossible to return. Most experts rated his serve better than Becker's and gave Curren the edge in the match. The hustling 17-year-old kid was not to be denied, though, and won the finals in four hard fought sets.

Now everyone is saying this new player is going to be the next great champion. They are writing that he might dominate the game like Borg or Laver or McEnroe. Well, I enjoyed his style and it was great fun to watch him, but another Borg?

Come on folks, let's get this all in proper perspective. This was his first big tournament win. Let's wait a few years and see what happens. This young player may never win another tournament.

In fact, he almost lost a couple of times in the early rounds against some unknown players. I believe he will be a good solid pro, make lots of money but I really doubt that he will ever be a top 10 player.

Probably not even the top 25 consistently. I believe we will see him really fade during the clay court season. Some of these clay court boys will simply outsteady him and his serve will not hurt them on clay.

Still Boris Becker won Wimbledon, he was the only unseeded player to ever do it, and the youngest. No one can ever take that away from him. He fought hard and deserved to win.

I'm kinda glad Wimbledon is over. I like power tennis but not the bash, grope and slide variety. Those courts were just too fast, too slick and too dry for really good tennis. The clay court season starts soon and later some good hard court tennis at Cincinnati, the U.S. open and Toronto. I think we'll see things get back to normal in the weeks to come.

center to close out the scoring to boost Altamonte's lead to 3-0.

Deltona came back with its only two runs in the bottom of the third. Siqueros, however, lead off the fourth with a wicked double down the left field line. Stuffed followed with a walk and both runners advanced on Metzger's sacrifice bunt. Cochran then blooped a single to center to score Siqueros.

One out later, Prom singled to center to drive in another run. Prom then stole second and when the catcher's throw sailed into center, Cochran came around to score for a 5-2 edge.

Altamonte came up with one run in the fifth as Craig Radzak doubled to deep left center. Noah Falesnick, who turned in several stellar defensive plays at third base, followed with a RBI single to right.

Prom led off the sixth with his third hit, a single to left, and advanced to second as the ball got by the left fielder. Kremer followed with a single to center to move Prom to third. One out later, Falesnick hit a sacrifice fly to score Prom and advance Kremer to third. Siqueros then walked and stole second once again the catcher's throw rolled into center allowing Kremer to score. With two outs Metzger singled to center to drive in Altamonte's final run.

second on a wild pitch and scored when Greene blooped a single to right to cut Maitland's lead to 7-2.

Oviedo went with Gary Gotwalt in relief of Greene in the top of the sixth and he got out of the inning with relative ease with the help of catcher John Boston who gunned down a runner stealing.

Teague seemed to be tiring in the bottom of the sixth when he walked the bases loaded with no outs. Then however, Teague was the beneficiary of the pitcher's best friend — a doubleplay.

Teague quickly got ahead on the count on Boston and, on an 0-1 pitch, Boston bounced one back to the mound. Teague threw to the catcher who fired to Daunic at first to complete the twin killing and take Oviedo out of force play. Davis, understandably rattled, walked Jared Soto to load the bases.

Altamonte was still hitless when Terry "Downtown" Brown hit a pop fly uptown in short right field. The second baseman couldn't locate the ball and it fell 20 feet behind him for an RBI single and 2-0 lead. Altamonte had picked up a run in the second on another Oviedo error.

Davis then regrouped to get Jeff Jackson on a pop fly to third and Chuck Lamb on a called strike three. He appeared to be out of trouble when Chris Jackson hit a slow roller to the right side but the first baseman misplayed it, allowing two more runs to score for a 4-0 lead.

Jackson, somewhat unglued, walked Eddie Howard to reload the bases and then passed Chris Koepke to force in another run. Giuffrida, up for the second time, also drew a free pass for an RBI and 6-0 lead. Davis finally got out of the jam by catching Jump looking at a called third strike. Altamonte scored his five runs on just one hit — the last pop fly.

"We just didn't have any intensity," said Tulp about his team's showing. "Maybe we left it all at practice. We really worked hard for this game.

Russell pitched a great game. It's a shame." Altamonte added two insurance runs in the sixth when Soto singled. Brown reached on an error and Jeff Jackson walked. Pinch-hitter William Thompson played Soto with a groundout and Jackson alertly hustled home on a wild pitch.

Pitching as well but almost overlooked because of the errors, lack of hits and poor calls was Altamonte's Chris Jackson. The big right-hander turned in a heady performance, using his curveball and spotting his fastball to keep Oviedo off balance.

"Chris Jackson is a gamer," said Altamonte manager Mike Morro. "That's why we call him 'Bulldog.' Did you see that look on his face? He really wanted it tonight."

Jackson, who hurled a no-hitter and one-hitter in the Top Team Tournament which his Tigers won, shut down Oviedo on two hits. He struck out eight.

Kevin Blagg and Shelly Elliott had the Oviedo hits. Blagg singled in the second and Elliott shortstop's reach in the sixth. He and Oviedo were erased on a controversial 6-3-5 double play to end the game.

by June. The last place you would expect to find them would be with 11- and 12-year-old baseball players.

Not so with Longwood Elementary School's Dave Scott, though. The personable principal has taken an active role as coach for the Altamonte Little Americans for manager Mike Morro.

"It's been a living for me," said Scott who never tires of his dealings with the youngsters. His son, Kevin, is an 11-year-old alternate for the Americans. Scott served as a coach for the second-place Indians who he hopes will win it all next year.

They don't know baseball field after just anybody. Charles Comiskey and Bill Wrigley were two names in Chicago. That's why it was quite an honor for a good friend (as friendly as you can get with an umpire) of mine that a Little League field was named after him.

Charlie Paulus, a pressman at the Evening Herald, had that distinction earlier this year when Deltona named its Little League field in his honor. Charlie was one of the cornerstones of the Deltona program when it started 10 years ago and Little League president Don Maddox and his group recognized the veteran umpire this year.

Charlie is a stickler for the Little League rules. He said he reads the rule book as religiously as the Bible. There isn't ever an question as to a call or an interpretation when Charlie pulls on the blue.

He takes pride in his work. Something all umpires should do as an integral part of the game. Little League needs more men like him. By the way Charlie, keep those players from stepping out of the batter's box so often. It slows down the game.

Cook Of The Week: Chef Prudhomme Claimed 'The Greatest Practitioner of Louisiana Cookery'

By Tom Giordano
Herald Managing Editor

It's tough to find just the right superlative to describe one of America's leading chefs, because all of the ones I found in Roget's Thesaurus are applicable — to him and to his dishes.

This magnificent chef is none other than Chef Paul Prudhomme, author of Chef Paul Prudhomme's Louisiana Kitchen and owner-operator of K-Paul's Louisiana Kitchen in the French Quarter of New Orleans.

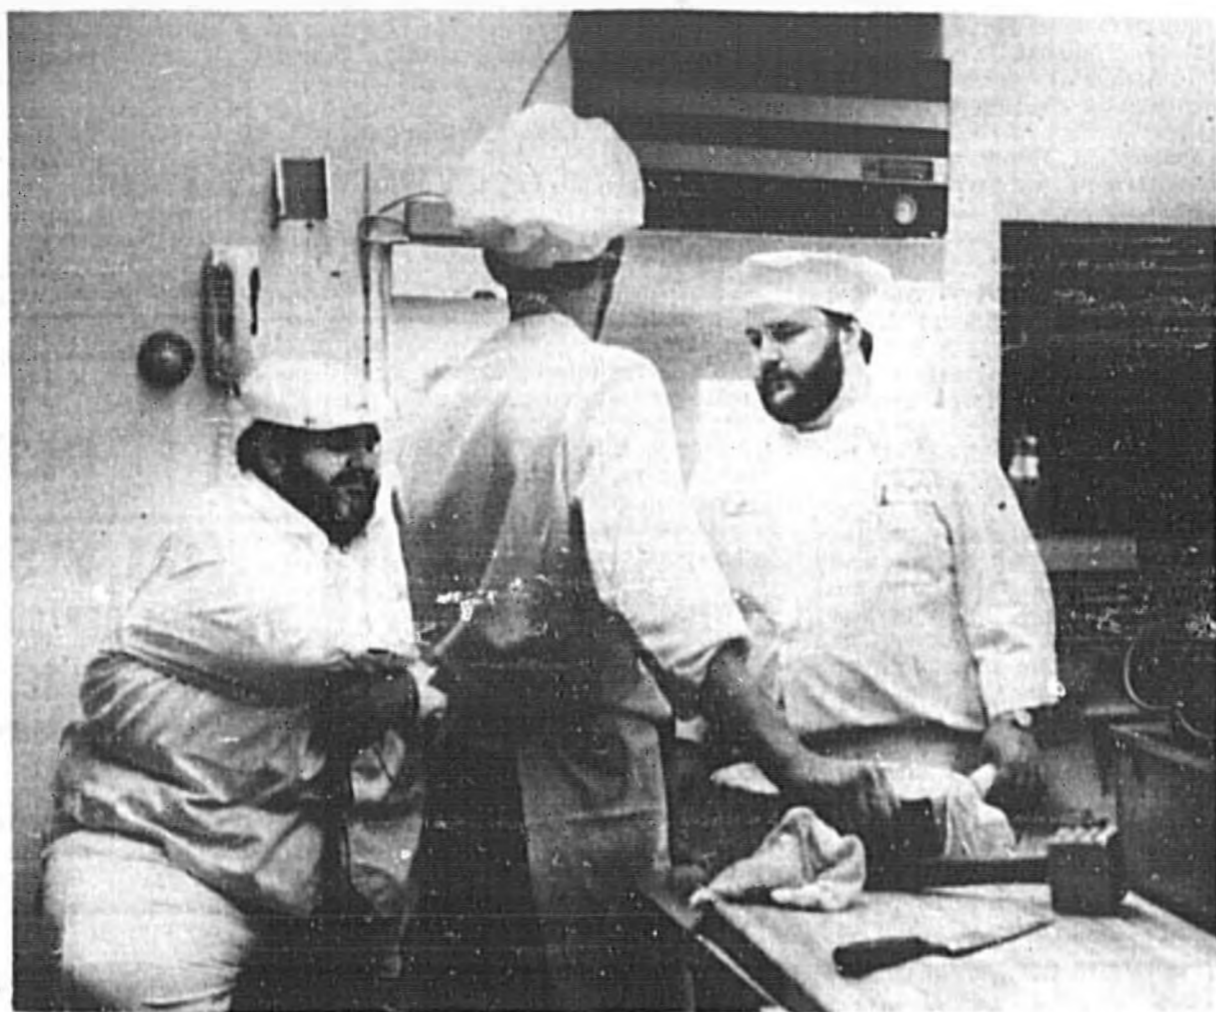

Chef Prudhomme has that indefinable quality possessed by great actors, great authors, and otherwise men and women of all types of greatness, and yet, he also possesses the warmth and charm that makes anyone feel comfortable in his presence. At the same time, he has the ability to take control of a situation, as does any good executive, without displaying animosity (while I was interviewing him, two wine salesmen came in to congratulate him on having received a recent award. They also tried to sneak in a sales pitch for their product. He politely, but firmly, let them know he'd talk with them after he finished talking with me, though they didn't know who I was or what we were talking about. The two young men walked sheepishly over to another corner of the restaurant to sit and wait patiently until the chef and I were through).

I arrived for the interview early that afternoon, about 15 minutes earlier, actually, to size up the restaurant and kitchen for photo opportunities, and to also give me a chance to speak with his general manager and some of the help. I sensed, as I'm sure others did, an air of anticipation as those who were there to see Prudhomme for one reason or another waited anxiously for his arrival.

His popular restaurant is open only for dinner — long lines form early and extend the entire block at times — but he arrives early in the day to supervise the kitchen for that night's activity.

Adjacent to the restaurant is a garage with a tiny office in front and a sort of training kitchen in the rear, where several of his employees were gathered around a table working diligently to prepare for the evening meals. Chef Prudhomme finally drove up — in a pickup truck of sorts — skillfully backing it into the garage with a little help from his general manager, confidante and trusted assistant, Paulette Rittenberg, who drew him in like a traffic cop, her palm extended to slow him down, or turned to the side waving him a little to the left.

I was standing near the entrance to the tiny office at the front of the garage when Prudhomme got out of the truck ... slowly. He extended his walking stick — a beautifully hand-carved "Italian Broom" with an intricate design on the silver handle — to the cement floor of the garage, supporting his massive hulk as he placed one foot at a time gingerly onto the floor. As Prudhomme walked toward me, his pudgy hand extended for the handshake. I could think of no other comparison to make to describe him, but to liken him to Jose Ferrar's portrayal of Toulouse-Lautrec.

Chef Prudhomme, seated, plans day's activity with some of his cooks. The chef holds his prize Italian Broom walking stick and wears his favorite "bebop" hat, which he says are popular in New Orleans. Various pins with snappy sayings are attached to the cap, including his favorite given to him by his wife which reads: "Hot Stuff."

Prudhomme is decidedly bowlegged, and an early knee injury requires him to use the walking stick for support, not to mention to support his 390 pounds of body-weight. All these combined cause him to walk from side to side, shifting his body weight from one leg to the other, using the walking stick on which to rest some of the weight.

Chef Prudhomme speaks admiringly of his walking stick. "I collect them," and points out he has several from around the world, gifts he's received from admirers who've read his book. He also speaks freely about his weight. "I used to weigh five hundred pounds. When I was fifteen I tripped while carrying a one-hundred-forty pound sack of green coffee and fell on my knee. It's never been the same since." At 45, ("I'll tell you how old I am, but it's nobody's business.") Prudhomme, who has a birthday July 13, has no problem with his apparent obesity.

"I learned at an early age not to consider it a problem ... not mine, in any case. If it's a problem to others, then it's their problem."

I followed Prudhomme through the garage, heading for the kitchen. As we passed the table where his employees were working, I got the feeling I was walking with a superstar held in awe by those in his service. One by one they greeted him: "Good afternoon, chef," "Hello, chef," "Hey, chef, how's it goin'?" I sensed that the greetings, with a great deal of admiration and affection in their tone, were genuinely sincere ... nothing phony. Prudhomme responded warmly to them individually, giving this one a pat on the back, another an affectionate squeeze on the arm. He knows the value of touching, I thought.

We passed through the doors leading to the kitchen, greeted a few more employees — cooks, obviously — then passed

Prudhomme eased his hulk into his favorite chair at a small table he uses to conduct his daily business.

Once we settled in for the interview, Prudhomme spoke nostalgically of his youth and his induction by his mother into kitchen service. Prudhomme was 7 years old when his last sister left their home in Acadian (Cajun) farm country south of Opelousas, La., to get married. As the youngest of 13 children, Prudhomme worked closely in the kitchen with his mother, plucking chickens, stirring gravies and learning the special relationship between field, barn and table.

"With seven or eight kids still at home, it was like running a small restaurant. We didn't have electricity, so we didn't have refrigeration. This meant we used only what was fresh. In season: I've continued to do this in my career as a chef. I know that fresh ingredients of good quality are the most important factor in preparing exceptional food." When he was 17, Prudhomme tried a small drive-in restaurant in his hometown ... It failed miserably. He left there and went to New Orleans where he worked as a bus boy and a cook. Eventually he ended up in Colorado as a cook, mostly at resorts, and when the boss wasn't looking, he'd sprinkle onto customers' dishes special blends of hot peppers he carried around in plastic bags.

That little trick caused him to end of grief with management. And after 12 years of apprenticeship — and a lot of arguing with his superiors — he left the area, convinced the world was ready for Cajun cooking.

Back in Louisiana he became executive chef at some of the more famous restaurants and by 1979, he was ready to go it on his own, opening K-Paul's with his wife, K. "That's it... K, that's what her mother named her. She didn't want anyone to label her with a nickname."

It didn't take long for the lengthy lines to assemble at K-Paul's, the customers having heard about the mouth-watering dishes of blackened redfish, Cajun popcorn (batter-fried crawfish tails), sticky chicken with rice and rabbit jambalaya with sauce piquante.

In May 1983, Prudhomme was one of the few chefs — all Americans — to be invited to prepare special meals for the leaders of seven western nations who met at the economic summit conference in Williamsburg, Va. Chef Prudhomme served a Cajun feast of batter-fried crawfish and crab claws, broiled redfish with oyster sauce and roast duck with pecan sauce. Although Prudhomme is apolitical, he's met several world leaders, including President Reagan. "I met him twice," he says, with an unmistakable touch of admiration in his voice. "What's he think of Reagan? 'I think he's the most wonderful president we've ever had. He just knows how to be a good president, and people can tell he does. He's really down to earth. When I was about to meet him for the first time, they had given us directions on how to step up and greet him. But he never let us worry about that. He took the initiative and walked up close to all of us so we didn't have to step out of the line one at a time. I don't know about anybody else, but Reagan just makes me feel comfortable... secure.'"

When Prudhomme agreed finally to put many of his favorite recipes in book form, his prime goal, he said, was to take otherwise complicated recipes and simplify them so the general public could benefit. Chef Prudhomme says too many cookbooks aren't written for the average American kitchen. "To explain something in the book, compared with explaining something to one of my experienced cooks are two completely different things," says Chef Prudhomme.

When he began the project, he set up an experimental kitchen next to the restaurant and installed an everyday stove and what he calls a $14.95 set of pots — complete with painted yellow flowers.

But before the book was finished, it would cost him much more than that. "It probably will make me a millionaire, but it cost me somewhere in the neighborhood of $275,000 in equipment, materials and people's time." From start to finish it took Prudhomme five years to complete. About three of those years he was assisted by Paulette, for whom the chef doesn't run out of praise. "She was absolutely amazing. She followed me around, writing down everything I did whenever I put together a recipe. And each time we'd test it, we'd try again and again, with Paulette taking it all down until we perfected it. I was amazed at the questions she'd ask whenever I did something. She was able to put on paper things I was doing when preparing a recipe that I never would have even thought about."

Prudhomme is proud that an American chef has touched the family kitchen with apparent success. He insists on "freedom from European straitjackets," and has an abiding love for fresh produce and seafood and various types of peppers that "explode like time capsules in the mouth. I've always believed in, first of all, American regional food." He's been acclaimed by food writers as one of America's greatest chefs. Indeed, on the cover of his book, (Chef Paul Prudhomme's Louisiana Kitchen, Morrow, $19.95) Craig Claiborne, food writer for the New York Times, writes "Paul Prudhomme is the greatest practitioner of Louisiana cookery — his book is absolutely essential."

And just which kinds of wine go with this magnificently spicy food of Prudhomme's? "Nothing weak, of course, something robust, else its flavor will get lost in my cooking and one may just as well have swallowed a glass of water."

Prudhomme says simple table wines are best, those which are blended from a variety of grapes, rather than single-grape wines which, he said, tend to be too same to complement food with its own kick.

Prudhomme got something of a kick himself out of describing the meaning of his name to me. "It means proud man in French, but I understand it was given in the 14th Century to a man who negotiated with labor for the king, hence, it also means negotiator," a label Prudhomme obviously considers applicable to his own style.

Does he have any children? "Yes, I do, of course. I have sixty-seven of them, and I'm working on one hundred," he jests, referring to the number of employees at K-Paul's.

What are his favorite foods? "Usually anything that's in front of me," he says, giving his stomach a little pat. If he's out of town and can't find a restaurant to feed on his favorite Cajun cooking, what kind of restaurant might he eat in — looking for what kind of food? "Mexican food. I love it... not that last food stuff, the real stuff, of course."

A typical work day for Chef Prudhomme runs from 6 a.m. until midnight, five days a week. "On weekends I usually get involved with civic activity."

What's the attraction for the lifestyle of a chef? Where's the fulfillment? "Cooking is caring, caring about people. Think about it... How important it is... water, food and air, they cause cancer, other diseases... we seem to have water and air under control, we need to control our food, too, that's how important that is."

What's a prime piece of advice in short-cut cooking to accomplish good taste and good dishes? "Make a darn good stock. That's imperative. You don't need to get fancy, but you do need good quality bones. When you go to the market to buy chicken, fish, shrimp, et cetera, you can use all of it for making stock. But you must insist on quality. Then try to agree on the particular taste you're searching for, for you can put anything in your stock, so long as it gives you the sought-after flavor. Then let it simmer and cook down as much as you can, because the longer it cooks down, the more concentrated the flavor becomes."

"And for God's sake, don't throw any food away... put it into the stock pot. Brown your bones in the oven first, because that will cause a caramelization process and give your stock a rich, dark color naturally, rather than using gimmicks or additives."

What advice does Chef Prudhomme have for aspiring young cooks? "Love people. If you don't love them, you can't understand them. And if you can't understand them, you'll never know what cooking is all about. Trust yourself, but always have a little doubt. Know that anything can always be improved upon... even the finest cooking. And remember that you're never there... each day that you get up, commit yourself to doing an even better job that day than the day before. If you lived to be a hundred, you'd probably learn only about five percent of what there is to know. There are a hundred-and-fifty ingredients in the entire world that we use, like peppers, herbs, chickens, yet each cook in each home will take a chicken and make it taste different than the guy next door. The variations in taste are endless."

"And yet, even though we are constantly creating new dishes, new flavors, I'm absolutely amazed at times when after spending a few years serving what we thought was a totally new dish, someone comes in, orders it, then says, 'What a great dish! I used to eat that when I was a kid!'"

SHRIMP CREOLE

Makes 10 servings

Shrimp Creole was created before the days of refrigeration. Like most great dishes of the world, it was made only during the season when fresh ingredients were available — in this case, whole fresh shrimp and Creole tomatoes. The fat in the shrimp heads is an important taste and color contributor. The fresh Creole tomatoes and fresh shrimp fat give the sauce a natural sweetness and an incredible flavor. Browning the onions until caramelized is also an integral part of the dish, as it brings the sugar in the onions to the surface. The use of butter enriches the sauce further, and the red and white ground peppers are important stimulators of the taste buds. The completed sauce may have white specks of shrimp fat in it and should be an antique red color. (In the old days, whole shrimp — heads, tails, shells and all — would go into the pot; then the shrimp fat really did show in the sauce.)

The sauce is best if made a day before serving. Make the shrimp stock first, then the sauce. When ready to serve, skim off the oil from the surface and reheat the sauce to a boil. Lower the heat to very low, add the peeled shrimp tails and cook covered just until the shrimp turn pink, about 5 minutes.

3/4 pounds large shrimp with heads and shells, as fatty as possible (see Note)

2 1/2 cups, in all, Basic Shrimp Stock

1/2 cup chicken fat, pork lard or beef fat

2 1/2 cups finely chopped onions, in all

1 1/2 cups finely chopped celery

1 1/2 cups finely chopped green bell peppers

4 tablespoons unsalted butter

2 teaspoons minced garlic

1 bay leaf

2 teaspoons salt

1/2 teaspoons white pepper

1 teaspoon ground red pepper (preferably cayenne)

1/2 teaspoon black pepper

1 1/2 teaspoons Tabasco sauce

1 tablespoon dried thyme leaves

1 1/2 teaspoons dried sweet basil leaves

3 cups finely chopped peeled tomatoes (preferably Creole)

1 1/2 cups canned tomato sauce

2 teaspoons sugar

5 cups hot Basic Cooked Rice

Note: Shrimp fat is the orange substance in the heads. If shrimp with heads are not available, buy 1 1/2 pounds of shrimp without heads (but with shells for making the stock).

Rinse and peel shrimp; refrigerate until needed. Use heads and shells to make the Basic Shrimp Stock.

Heat the chicken or other fat over high heat in a 4-quart saucepan until melted. Add 1 cup of the onions and cook over high heat 3 minutes, stirring frequently, until onions are a rich brown color but not burned, about 3 to 5 minutes. Add the remaining 1 1/2 cups onions, the celery, bell peppers and butter.

Cook over high heat until the bell peppers and celery start to get tender, about 5 minutes, stirring occasionally. Add the garlic, bay leaf, salt and peppers; stir well. Then add the Tabasco, thyme, basil and 1/2 cup of the stock. Cook over medium heat about 5 minutes to allow seasonings to marry and vegetables to brown further, stirring occasionally and scraping pan bottom well. Add the tomatoes; turn heat to low and simmer 10 minutes, stirring occasionally, and scraping pan bottom. Stir in the tomato sauce and simmer 5 minutes, stirring occasionally. Add the remaining 2 cups stock and the sugar. Continue simmering sauce for 15 minutes, stirring occasionally.

Cool and refrigerate if made the day before. Or, if serving immediately, turn heat off and add the shrimp; cover the pot and let sit just until shrimp and slump and pink, about 5-10 minutes. Meanwhile, heat the serving plates in a 250° oven. Serve immediately.

To serve, center 1/2 cup mounded rice on each heated serving plate; spoon 1 cup Shrimp Creole sauce around the rice and arrange 8 or 9 shrimp on the sauce.

Vegetable trimmings from recipe, or:

- 1 medium onion, unpeeled and quartered
- 1 large clove garlic, unpeeled and quartered
- 1 rib celery
- 1 1/2 pounds rinsed shrimp heads, and/or shells

Always start with cold water — enough to cover the other stock ingredients. Place all ingredients in a stock pot or a large saucepan. Bring to a boil over high heat, then gently simmer at least 4 hours (preferably 8), replenishing the water as needed to keep about 1 quart of liquid in the pan. The pot may be uncovered or set a lid on it askew. Strain, cool and refrigerate until ready to use.

Basic Cooked Rice

Makes 6 cups.
2 cups uncooked rice (preferably converted)

2 1/2 cups Basic Shrimp Stock

1 1/2 tablespoons very finely chopped onions

1 1/2 tablespoons very finely chopped celery

1 1/2 tablespoons very finely chopped green bell peppers

1 1/2 tablespoons unsalted butter (preferred) or margarine, melted

1/2 teaspoon salt
1/2 teaspoon garlic powder

A pinch each of white pepper, ground red pepper (preferably cayenne) and black pepper

In a 5x9x2 1/2" loaf pan, combine all ingredients, mix well. Seal pan snugly with aluminum foil. Bake at 350° until rice is tender, about 1 hour, 10 minutes. Serve immediately. However, you can count on the rice staying hot for 45 minutes and warm for 2 hours. To reheat leftover rice, use a double boiler or warm the rice in a skillet with unsalted butter.

CORN MAQUE CHOUX

Makes 10-12 side dish servings

My mother cooked a lot of sweet or semisweet dishes. One of these was Corn Maque Choux, which we ate with rice and gravy. Every Cajun family has its own recipe for Corn Maque Choux.

4 tablespoons unsalted butter
1/2 cup vegetable oil

7 cups fresh corn cut off the cob (about seventeen 8-inch cobs), or frozen corn kernels

1 cup very finely chopped onions

1/2 cup sugar
1 teaspoon white pepper

1/2 teaspoon salt
1/2 teaspoon ground red pepper (preferably cayenne)

2 1/2 cups, in all, Basic

The author of a cookbook, Chef Paul Prudhomme's Louisiana Kitchen, the world-famous chef has a prime piece of advice for good cooking: "Make a darn good sauce...And for God's sake, don't throw any food away...put it in the stock pot."

Chicken, Beef or Pork Stock

4 tablespoons margarine
1 cup evaporated milk, in all
2 eggs

In a large skillet combine the butter and oil with the corn, onions, sugar, white pepper, salt and red pepper. Cook over high heat until corn is tender and starch starts to form a crust on the pan bottom, about 12-14 minutes, stirring occasionally, and stirring more as mixture starts sticking. Gradually stir in 1 cup of the stock, scraping the pan bottom to remove crust as you stir. Continue cooking 5 minutes, stirring occasionally. Add the margarine, stir until melted, and cook about 5 minutes, stirring frequently and scraping pan bottom as needed. Reduce heat to low and cook about 10 minutes, stirring occasionally, then add 1/2 cup additional stock and cook about 15 minutes, stirring fairly frequently. Add the remaining 1 cup stock and cook about 10 minutes, stirring occasionally. Stir in 1/2 cup of the milk and continue cooking until most of the liquid is absorbed, about 5 minutes, stirring occasionally. Remove from heat.

In a bowl combine the eggs and the remaining 1/2 cup milk; beat with a metal whisk until very frothy, about 1 minute. Add to the corn, stirring well. (The heat from the corn is ample to do everything necessary to the eggs to give the dish a rich, frothy texture.) Serve immediately, allowing about 1/2 cup per person.

Basic Chicken, Beef or Pork Stock

Same directions as in Basic Shrimp Stock

• Beef: use 1 1/2 pounds beef shank (preferred) or other beef bones

• Chicken: use 1 1/2 pounds backs, necks and/or bones from chickens

• Pork: use 1 1/2 pounds pork neck bones (preferred) or other pork bones

BARBECUE SAUCE

Makes about 5 cups
This sauce is super used to barbecue chicken, pork or ribs.

Seasoning mix:
1 1/2 teaspoons black pepper
1 teaspoon salt
1 teaspoon onion powder
1 teaspoon garlic powder
1/2 teaspoon white pepper
1/2 teaspoon ground red pepper (preferably cayenne)

1/2 pound sliced bacon, minced
1 1/2 cups chopped onions

2 cups Basic Pork, Beef or Chicken Stock

1 1/2 cups bottled chili sauce
1 cup honey
1/2 cup coarsely chopped pecans, dry roasted

5 tablespoons orange juice (also slice and save rind and pulp from 1/2 the squeezed orange)

2 tablespoons lemon juice (also slice and save rind and pulp from 1/2 the squeezed lemon)

2 teaspoons minced garlic
1 teaspoon Tabasco sauce
4 tablespoons unsalted butter

Combine the seasoning mix ingredients in a small bowl and set aside.

In a 2-quart saucepan fry the bacon over high heat until crisp. Stir in the onions, cover pan, and continue cooking until onions are dark brown but not burned, about 8-10 minutes, stirring occasionally. Stir in the seasoning mix and cook about 1 minute. Add the stock, chili sauce, honey, pecans, orange juice, lemon juice, orange and lemon rinds and pulp, garlic and Tabasco, stirring well. Reduce heat to low; continue cooking about 10 minutes, stirring frequently. Remove orange and lemon rinds. Continue cooking and stirring about 15 minutes more to let the flavors marry. Add the butter and stir until melted. Remove from heat. Let cool about 30 minutes, then pour into a food processor or blender and process just until pecans and bacon are finely chopped, about 10-20 seconds.

Obituary Not The Place For Health Instruction

Dear Abby

DEAR ABBY: I have great respect for your reasoning, and I especially admire your long answers, but sometimes your short ones don't measure up.

Specifically, when someone wrote to say that whenever she read in the newspaper that someone had died of lung cancer, she wondered if that person had been a smoker. Then she added, "I think that should be included in the report of death, don't you?"

Your reply: "Yes, I'm sure most people would like to know."

Why stop there? I suggest the following:

Died John Doe of liver disease after years of drinking like a fish. Survivors include Mary Doe and the Doe children, several of whom are drunks.

Died Jane Doe of a heart attack. Grossly overweight. Mrs. Doe never took care of herself. Survivors include her husband, Joe "Fats" Doe.

Died Timothy Doe, of a drug overdose, a mixture of heroin and Drano. Survivors include his parents, who take too much Valium.

Died Richard Roe, of injuries sustained in a traffic accident. Mr. Roe had five speeding tickets in the last three years.

I don't think you gave very much thought to your reply, Abby. Clearly, obituaries are not the place to provide health advice.

CHARLES L. SMITH, SEATTLE, ATTORNEY AT LAW AND PIPE SMOKER

DEAR MR. SMITH: You are right, of course. I permitted my vehement anti-smoking bias to cloud by better judgment. Mea culpa.

DEAR ABBY: I've been going with this fellow for over a year, and we're planning to be married in September. My problem is I'm always getting an ex-lover or girlfriend thrown in my face. He tells me about the affairs he has had, and then wants to introduce us. I keep finding their belongings (intimate apparel) all over his apartment. Yesterday was the last straw when I found some nude pictures of one of his girlfriends — taken at his place!

I really love him and keep forgiving him, but I don't know how much more I can take.

sense — and a more beautiful ceremony — if the bride and groom were to face the congregation during the ceremony? This might not go over so well with some ministers, but I'm sure the congregation would appreciate it. What do you think?

SAN DIEGO PARENTS

DEAR PARENTS: I think it's a great idea. But as soon as this hits print, I'll probably hear from someone saying, "That's not an original idea. We did that!"

HEARTBROKEN AND CONFUSED

DEAR H. AND C.: Call off the wedding and consider the $800 tuition in the school of experience. Marriage to this man would have cost you much more than $800 in anguish, pain, regret, headaches, sleepless nights and acid indigestion.

DEAR ABBY: Our daughter was recently married in a traditional Protestant church wedding. Her mother and I sat in the front pew on the left, and the groom's parents occupied the front pew on the right.

We arranged to have a friend videotape the entire ceremony from an obscure position behind the minister.

After the honeymoon, the bride and groom and both sets of parents viewed the tape of the ceremony. It was beautiful! We were able to see the faces of the bride and groom as they pledged their vows — not just the backs of their heads, which is the view we (and everyone else) had during the ceremony.

Abby, wouldn't it make more

CONFIDENTIAL TO LOVES TO TRAVEL

Don't take too many vacations or your boss might suddenly realize he can get along without you.

DEAR ABBY: I dearly love the English language, but it appears that either our English teachers aren't teaching or their students aren't learning. I am appalled at the number of teenagers who use the verb "goes" instead of "says." Example in point:

"Butch and I were discussing this problem, and Butch goes, 'But you promised you'd do it.' Then I go, 'Well, I changed my mind.' So Butch goes, 'That's not fair, a promise is a promise.' Then my mom goes, 'Will you kids stop fighting?' and I go, 'We aren't fighting.'"

Abby, please point out that "goes" is a verb meaning forward motion in movement, not speech.

We are producing a nation of imbecilic-sounding youths holding bachelor degrees! And they can't spell either!

Dazzle Without Frazzle

Spectacular Desserts To Make Ahead

Summer entertaining... In these balmy months, backyard barbecues frequently take the place of elaborate eight course dinners, and dessert more often than not means opening a half-gallon of ice cream. But for really dazzling your guests without reducing yourself to a frazzle, do-ahead summer desserts are just the answer.

Spectacularly pretty, each of these desserts will top off a quick and easy main course with memorable style. CocoRibe Summer Pudding is a captivating new approach to bread pudding, that traditional dessert making a comeback on the menus of many sophisticated restaurants. Strawberries, blueberries and raspberries give this dessert a lovely jewel-like hue. And coconut rum, a delicious combination of rum and natural coconut, brings out a sensational new dimension to these fresh fruit flavors. A whipped cream and fresh fruit garnish tops off this lovely creation.

Frozen Lime Souffles in individual serving dishes are another surefire way to impress guests. These lovely frozen creations have an appealing tartness that's delightfully enhanced by the coconut rum. Chopped nuts pressed around the edge of the souffles and a whipped cream and lime slice garnish make this dessert picture perfect.

And best of all, you can make these frozen lime souffles well ahead of time — on a rainy day, perhaps? — ready to debut at your next company dinner.

COCORIBE SUMMER PUDDING

- 10-12 slices white bread, crusts removed
- 2 cups fresh strawberries, hulled and quartered
- 2 cups fresh blueberries
- 1 package (10 ounces) frozen raspberries, thawed, drained
- 1/2 cup sugar
- 1 cup coconut rum
- 1/2 cup heavy cream, whipped
- Lime the bottom and sides of a 1 1/2 quart bowl with overlapping slices of bread, reserving 4 slices for top of bowl. In medium saucepan combine strawberries, blueberries, raspberries and sugar. Cook over medium heat stirring until sugar is dissolved. Simmer 10 minutes. Remove from heat, cool. Stir in coconut rum. Spoon mixture into prepared bowl, cover with remaining slices of bread. Place a plate, slightly smaller than the top of the bowl, directly onto the pudding. Place a 2 pound weight on the plate. Chill overnight. To serve, turn pudding out onto serving plate. Garnish with whipped cream and fresh raspberries, blueberries or strawberries, if desired.

FROZEN LIME SOUFFLES

- 5 large eggs, separated
- 1/2 cup sugar, divided
- 1 cup CocoRibe coconut rum
- 3 tablespoons lime juice
- 1 teaspoon grated lime peel
- Green food coloring, optional
- 1 cup heavy cream, whipped
- 1/2 cup finely chopped nuts
- Prepare eight 2-inch wide strips of wax paper or aluminum foil long enough to go around 5-ounce individual souffle dishes. Fasten securely with string or tape to form a collar to hold souffle mixture above dish until it sets. In small mixer bowl beat egg yolks with 1/4 cup sugar until thick, about 5 to 7 minutes. Gradually stir in coconut rum, lime juice, lime peel and 3 or 4 drops of green food coloring, if desired. In large mixer bowl beat egg whites until foamy; gradually add remaining 1/4 cup sugar beating until whites are stiff and glossy. Fold egg yolks into beaten whites. Fold in whipped cream. Spoon into prepared souffle dishes. Freeze overnight. To serve, remove collar; press chopped nuts around edges of souffle. Garnish with additional whipped cream and lime slices, if desired.

Yield: 8 servings

Fruits combine in elegant dessert.

Light And Lovely Finish To Meal

If you are trying your hand at a Chinese dinner, this easy dessert salad is especially for you. Spend your time on a more difficult main dish and save an impressive confection to end the meal with flair. Homemade ice cream is the centerpiece for summer's festive occasions.

Rich Homemade Ice Cream Takes The Sizzle Out Of Summertime

Celebrate a festive occasion this summer with homemade ice cream. Your guests will enjoy hearing the churn work and the anticipation of ice cream's good taste. Someone is sure to tell a "when I was a child" story about making ice cream, and that will start a nostalgic conversation. All ice creams, of course, carry good nutritional value because their basic ingredient is milk, but homemade ice cream has the bonus of fresh flavor along with protein, calcium and riboflavin.

Homemade ice cream will come smooth and creamy from your freezer if a few tips are followed. Determine the right ratio of rock salt to crushed ice for uniform freezing. If the mixture freezes either too fast or too slow, a coarse texture or a spongy buttery texture results. So it's important to know how to operate your ice cream freezer before you assemble the ingredients for your own dairy desserts.

If yours is one of the half-gallon electric freezers that uses ice cubes and rock salt, you can cut any of these recipes in half.

Two of these recipes feature favorite ingredients such as bananas, marshmallows and crunchy peanut brittle, opening new taste opportunities in the homemade category. Special Vanilla is included for those who savor the simpler flavors. A version popular in Philadelphia adds grated vanilla bean instead of vanilla extract.

Add to your party table some big chocolate chip or sugar cookies and appropriate decorations. The event will be one to remember!

MELLOW BANANA MARSHMALLOW ICE CREAM

Gradually add sugar; beat until thickened. Add cream, vanilla and salt; mix thoroughly. Blend in marshmallow mixture, bananas and maraschino cherries. Chill. Churn-freeze. Yield: 1 gallon

CRUNCHY PEANUT BRITTLE ICE CREAM

VARIATION: FRENCH VANILLA: Omit peanut brittle. Yield: approx. 3 quarts

Biscuits Top Peach Cobbler

Peach Cobbler and Peach Pan-Dowdy have a folksy early American ring. Basically, they are the same, a deep dish peach pie, but with a biscuit-type topping rather than a pastry crust.

PEACH COBBLER

6 cups peeled, pitted, sliced peaches (about 12)
1 tablespoon lemon juice
3/4 cup sugar
2 1/2 tablespoons corn starch
1/2 teaspoon ground cinnamon
1 package (7.5 oz.) refrigerator biscuits

In large bowl, toss peaches with lemon juice. In small bowl, stir together sugar, corn starch and cinnamon. Add to peach slices; toss well. Turn into greased 8x8x2-inch baking dish. Bake in 400°F. oven 20 minutes. Arrange biscuits on top. Bake 10 to 15 minutes longer or until golden brown. Makes 10 servings.

Food Processor Makes Life In Kitchen More Enjoyable

Quick and easy meals are in order now that nice weather has arrived.

Whether you're trying to save time for outdoor activities or create a culinary sensation for entertaining guests, the home economists at KitchenAid say a food processor can make life in the kitchen simpler and much more enjoyable.

Here are some suggestions from these experts on how to get the most from your food processor.

- When adapting a favorite recipe, decide which ingredients can be prepared in your food processor.
- If suitable, chop or slice foods instead of dicing.
- To save time washing blades and bowls, process dry ingredients before foods with a high water content.
- To avoid overprocessing, add dry ingredients last when preparing a quick bread, cake or cookie batter.
- When chopping a large amount of food, avoid overloading the bowl. Uneven chopping can result. Check frequently and scrape down sides of bowl to redistribute food. If necessary, process in several batches.
- When slicing a single piece of food such as a carrot or stalk of celery, position it to the right side of the feed tube to avoid uneven slices. The feed tube pusher and rotation of the disc will hold the food in place and prevent it from falling over during processing.

SCALLOPS PROVENCE

- 1/4 pound fresh mushrooms
- 1 can (28 oz.) Italian tomatoes, seeded, juice reserved
- 3 sprigs fresh parsley
- 1 tablespoon olive oil
- 1 tablespoon butter or margarine
- 4 cloves garlic, minced
- 1 pound bay or sea scallops
- 2 tablespoons red wine
- 1 tablespoon lemon juice

- 1/2 teaspoon oregano
- 1/4 teaspoon basil
- Salt and pepper
- Hot cooked rice

Position slicing disc in work bowl. Slice mushrooms. Remove from bowl and set aside.

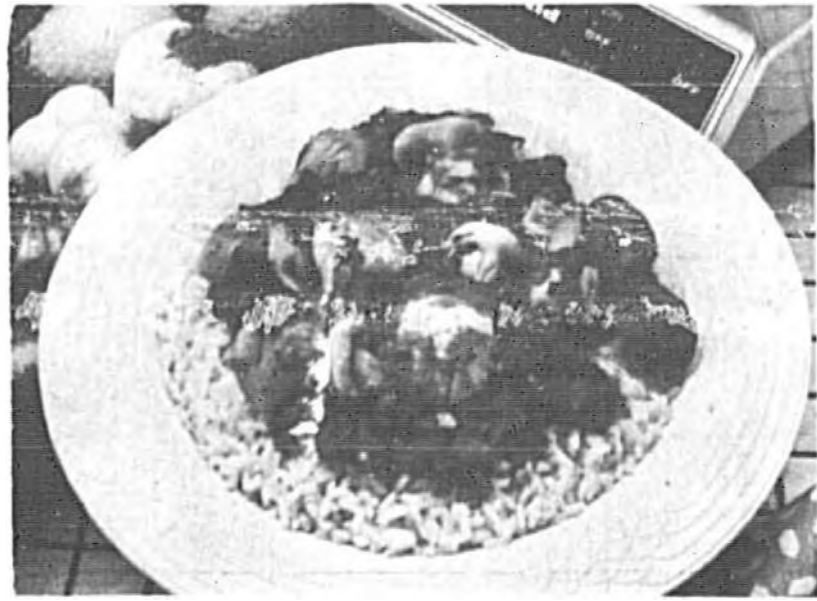

Exchange slicing disk for work blade. Add tomatoes and parsley to bowl. Pulse 3-5 times to coarsely chop. Remove from bowl and set aside.

Heat olive oil and butter in a 12-inch skillet over medium heat. Add garlic and saute 1 minute. Add scallops and saute 1 minute. Add mushrooms and cook another minute.

Add tomatoes and reserved juice with parsley, red wine, lemon juice, oregano, basil, salt and pepper. Stir well. Reduce heat and simmer 5-7 minutes. Serve immediately with hot cooked rice.

Yield 4 servings

Scallops combine with mushrooms in a light but spicy tomato sauce for quick, easy and tasty Scallops Provencale.

Yogurt Desserts

Tart and tangy frozen yogurt steps into the dessert spotlight for the summer. When the mercury soars, even non-yogurt fans melt at the sight of the tempting treat that tastes like ice cream with a "bite."

Once the amount of equipment and effort it took to produce frozen yogurt desserts at home made preparation discouraging to all but the most ambitious cooks. For today's yogurt fans, however, these light and luscious freezer pleasures are within easy reach. With the "secret ingredient," Kraft marshmallow creme, to streamline preparation, smooth and creamy textured frozen yogurt desserts are a breeze to make without special equipment or cranking 'til your arms ache.

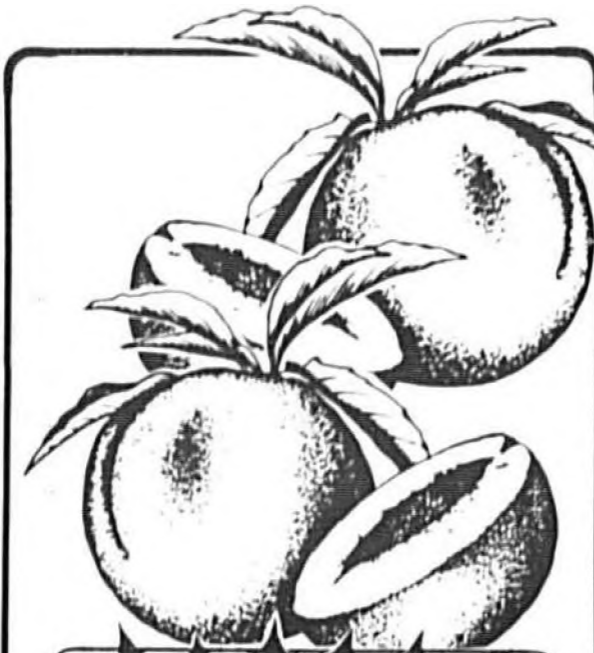

If you have a favorite dessert or snack prepared quickly and easily with marshmallow creme, or if you'd like to create one, you could be a winner in the 1985 KRAFT Marshmallow Creme "Easy Secret Ingredient" Recipe Contest.

Entries must be postmarked by midnight, Sept. 30. This year there are three all-new categories to enter: "Candies, Cookies and Snacks" includes recipes for all these special favorites, except for fudge. Recipes entered in the "Desserts, Baked, Refrigerated or Frozen" category can range from quick family favorites to elegant mealtime treats. "Sweet Et ceteras" can include recipes for beverages, soups, sauces, dips, frostings, etc. Almost any original marshmallow creme recipe is a potential winner. Complete rules for the recipe contest follow, or you may obtain additional copies by sending your name and address to: RULES, KRAFT Marshmallow Creme "Easy Secret Ingredient" Recipe Contest, P.O. Box 11192, Chicago, Illinois 60611.

Cook brown sugar mixture at high for 1 1/2 minutes till butter melts and mixture is bubbly, stirring once. Add banana slices and cook at high for 2 minutes till bananas are warm, stirring once. In 1-cup glass measure place rum. Place in microwave oven.

Cook rum at high for 20 seconds, pour rum over banana mixture. Ignite rum using a long match. Spoon sauce over ice cream and serve immediately. Makes 6 servings.

CURRIED FRUIT HAM RING

- 1 egg
- 1/4 cup soft bread crumbs (1 slice)
- 1/4 cup finely chopped onion
- 1/4 cup milk
- 1/4 pound ground fully cooked ham
- 1/2 pound ground pork
- 2 tablespoons brown sugar
- 1 tablespoon butter or margarine, softened
- 1/2 teaspoon curry powder
- 1 17-ounce can fruits for salad, drained
- Cashews (optional)
- Flaked coconut (optional)
- Chutney (optional)

In a mixing bowl combine egg, bread crumbs, onion, and milk. Add ground meats and mix well. In 8x8x2-inch baking dish shape meat mixture into a 6-inch ring. (If desired, place a 6-ounce custard cup, right side up, in center of dish and mold mixture around the cup.) Cover with waxed paper and place in the microwave oven.

Cook meat ring at high for 7 minutes till thoroughly cooked, add more cooking time, if necessary. Remove from microwave oven. (Remove custard cup.) Drain off meat juices. Combine brown sugar, butter, and curry, spread over ham loaf. Cover and return meat ring to microwave oven.

Cook meat ring at high for 3 minutes. Spoon fruit over and around loaf. Cook, covered, at high for 3 minutes. Transfer meat ring to serving plate, spoon on juices and fruits. Serve with cashews, coconut, and chutney sprinkled atop, if desired. Makes 4 servings.

TIPS & TECHNIQUES

Flaming: To flame a sauce for dessert, place 2-4 tablespoons liquor in glass measuring cup. Heat at high for 15-20 seconds till hot. Carefully ignite with a long match, pour over dessert. Use caution when cooking with liquor. Don't double recipes containing wine and liquor, especially those that use only small amounts of other liquids. Remember that wines and liquors are alcohol and as such are really a form of fuel.

Shape: Foods that are shaped in ring molds or other round shapes (such as ground meat patties) will cook more evenly than square, oblong, or irregular shaped foods, since microwaves penetrate equally from all sides.

PICNIC-STYLE CHICKEN SUPPER

Total cooking time: 30 minutes

- 1 2 1/2-3 pound broiler/fryer chicken, cut up
- 1 4-ounce package crispy-style coating mix for chicken
- 4 fresh ears of corn
- 1 6-ounce can German potato salad
- 2 10-ounce packages frozen halved strawberries (in quick-thaw pouch)
- 1 pint vanilla ice cream

Coat the chicken with the seasoned coating mix according to the package directions. Place the chicken in pan, skin side up, with meatiest portions to outside of pan on microwave roasting rack in 12x7x2-inch baking dish. Cover chicken loosely with waxed paper. Place the chicken to the far right on the rack in the microwave oven. Wrap each ear of corn in waxed paper, twist ends to close. Place ears of corn on the rack next to the chicken, leaving space between the ears. Place the potato salad in a 9x5x3-inch loaf dish. Cover potato salad loosely with plastic wrap. Place the potato salad on the bottom of the microwave oven below the ears of corn.

Cook at high for 15 minutes. Rearrange the chicken pieces in the pan. Also rearrange the ears of corn. Stir the potato salad. Remove strawberry pouches from the packages, cut an "X" in each strawberry pouch. Place the pouches on the bottom of the microwave oven below the chicken.

Cook at high for 15 minutes till the chicken and corn are done. Pour the strawberries into a serving bowl. At dessert time, spoon the strawberries over the ice cream to make sundaes. Makes 4 servings.

Forget All-Protein Diet; Eat Well Balanced Meals

Dr. Gott

DEAR DR. GOTT — I have heard that going on an all-protein diet for a couple of weeks will cause a large weight loss, which may serve as a good incentive to continue on a more nutritious diet. How healthy is it to be on an all-protein diet for two weeks?

DEAR READER — I don't encourage anyone to go on an all-anything diet for two weeks. Protein is essential, but so are other nutrients. Without any fats or carbohydrates in your food, you'll lose weight, all right — about half of it fat and the rest muscle. You heard me correctly: You will burn about equal amounts of fat and protein during a pure protein diet or a fast.

A more appropriate approach would be to keep your protein intake high, and, at the same time, to eat some complex carbohydrates — like grains — to prevent muscle wasting. The carbohydrate you can cut out is the "simple" type — in particular, sugar. That's hard, though, since sugar seems to be in everything these days. Even table salt has sugar (dextrose) added to keep it pouring when it rains. Check labels and, to the extent you can, avoid sugar. Try to maintain a diet that is balanced with other foods.

DEAR DR. GOTT — Several years ago a diet doctor put me on dexedrine to help curb my appetite and lose weight. This really helped. Recently I was considering trying that again, yet I heard that it is now illegal for doctors to prescribe dexedrine. Is this true? Will I be wasting my money by going back to a diet doctor, or do they have something else that works as well?

DEAR READER — Don't use dexedrine. It's poison. No, I'm understating the case. Dexedrine is one of the most dangerous compounds available. It will kill you. It should only be used under close medical supervision for a neurological disorder called narcolepsy and its related equivalents.

Don't go to a diet doctor who prescribes drugs. To begin with, the drugs are harmful. Second, what are you going to do when the drugs run out? You can't keep using a medical crutch indefinitely. Third, if you really can't lose weight on your own, go to a dieting organization. They're cheaper and safer than most diet doctors. Weight Watchers and the Diet Center come most readily to my mind, but there may be equally effective groups, by other names, in your community. A really would be wasting money on diet medicine — and those drugs count waste you.

WIN AT BRIDGE

By James Jacoby
The bid of three spades by North was not a full-fledged responder's reverse. Instead, in their partnership methods, it was simply checking back to see if a 4-4 spade fit existed. (South might easily have jumped to two no-trump while still holding four spades.)

North and South also had an agreement that North would bid three clubs over two no-trump to elicit three-card support for hearts from South. South therefore knew that his partner did not hold five hearts, and so bid three no-trump.

The diamond suit was established for the defense on the opening lead. At first glance, declarer's problem seems to be simply which black card to look for, the club king or the spade queen. The odds are even for finding a specific card well located.

But if that chance can be improved upon, it is worth doing even at the risk of being set an extratrick.

Following the sound bridge axiom that two chances are better than one, declarer played the king of spades at trick two and a spade to the ace at trick three. Probably the queen of spades was not going to drop, but lo and behold, it did!

That gave declarer nine tricks, even though the heart suit split badly. Of course, more often than not, South would have had to resort to the club finesse, but on the occasional deal where the spade queen comes down doubleton (as here), he is spared that necessity.

Passage To Hollywood: Banerjee Tackles Tinseltown

By Dick Kleiner
HOLLYWOOD (NEA) — Victor Banerjee, the Indian actor who was such a joy to watch in David Lean's "A Passage to India," is an equal joy to talk to. He mixes English and Hindi with his idea of American slang and what comes out is pure Banerjee.
 His thoughts, these days, are mostly on his career, which is only natural. "A Passage to India" automatically lifted him out of the crowd of Indian actors into international stardom.
 "If you're on a good wicket," he says, "you must stay with it."
 And then, a moment later: "It would be chicken of me not to try to make it here in Hollywood now. I have to try, even though I was very successful in India."

He was, he says, at the top of his field in India, where the movie business thrives. He has won awards, worked for the best of India's film makers, started in the most successful Indian movies.
 "I was at the top," he says. "But now there is a totally new environment for me. Now there is the West! And I'm off to a flying start."
 Banerjee claims to be the first Indian actor to make it in international films since Sabu, the Elephant Boy. (Although Ben Kingsley, who was "Gandhi," is Indian-born, Banerjee disqualifies him because he is only half Indian.)
 "Actually, I am also the only Indian actor in 'A Passage to India," he says. "The British unions have such a stranglehold on the industry that they made Mr. Lean fly actors out from London to India — even those playing Indian guides are actually from England, flown out for the film."

 But Banerjee is Indian, all the way. And, because of that, he has become something of a national hero in India. He says all of his friends and relatives are beside themselves with ecstasy.
 "We Indians are a very sentimental people," he says.
 He is also proud of "A Passage to India." He thinks it will do better in India than "Gandhi" did, and not merely because of his presence in the cast.
 "'Gandhi' is a history lesson," he says. "Most of us Indians are surfeited with that history lesson. Also, in 'Passage,' Indians are not made out to be utter fools."

 Now Victor Banerjee is going to try his luck in the Hollywood pool. He and his wife and two daughters — 10 and 8 — will be moving from India to Hollywood soon.
 "It will be difficult for us to adjust," he says. "My wife is the kind of person who only shows one emotion — pleasure — but I know that underneath she is apprehensive."
 His ultimate goal is to go back and live peacefully the rest of his days in the cottage the family has at the 8,000-foot level, high in the Himalayas. There, he says, is nothing but tranquility. "It is only so I can get back to that place sooner, and stay longer."

Haggerty Pleads To Tax Charges

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — Actor Dan Haggerty, convicted earlier this year of selling cocaine, has pleaded guilty to charges he failed to file federal tax returns for the years 1978 and 1981, when he earned more than $500,000 while starring in the "Grizzly Adams" movie and television series.
 Adams, 43, faces up to two years in prison and a $20,000 fine on the misdemeanor charges. U.S. magistrate John R. Kronenberg accepted the plea Monday and scheduled sentencing Oct. 11.
 Because of Haggerty's guilty pleas, Assistant U.S. Attorney David Nimmer said the government will not prosecute the actor for allegedly also failing to file returns for 1979 and 1980.
 Last April Haggerty was sentenced to 90 days in jail after being convicted in March of selling a small amount of cocaine to undercover police officers at his Beverly Hills home. He is free on bail pending appeal.
 W. Michael Mayocek, Haggerty's attorney, said Haggerty had taxes withheld from his salary during the two years, but that the actor left preparation of his tax returns to an accountant and to his wife, from whom he is now divorced.

Unincorporated Rate Up

County Tax Rate Same As Last Year

By Donna Estes Herald Staff Writer

Certification of the Seminole County property tax rates for fiscal 1985-86, which begins Oct. 1, at $4.18 per $1,000 assessed valuation countywide and of an additional $2.50 per $1,000 in the unincorporated areas has been approved by the county commission.

The rates are the same as last year countywide but will mean additional revenues to the county because the tax base — the taxable value of property in the county — is up by 14 percent compared with the 1984-85 year.

The increase in the tax base for the most is the result of new construction while the balance is from reappraisals of some property, parcels County Property Appraiser Bill Suiter says are scattered throughout the county.

The tax rate in the unincorporated area is up by 19 cents per $1,000 for fire protection.

Once the certification is approved, the county cannot raise the tax rate but the rate can be reduced after public hearings are held in September on the budget.

Under the certification countywide tax rates would be as follows: general fund, nearly $3.79; a newly created countywide transportation tax, nearly 18 cents; debt service on the jail almost 4 cents and the libraries nearly 18 cents for a total of $4.18.

For the unincorporated area, fire protection and rescue, $2, up from $1.81; and transportation, 50 cents, the same as last year. While commissioners earlier had tentatively approved a reduction in the transportation rate of 2 cents for the unincorporated area, Commissioner Bill Krehhoff urged that the rate remain the same as last year, reminding his colleagues that it can be reduced after the public hearings on the budget scheduled for September.
