Thomas R. Marshall War Vice President Is Claimed By Death

Morrison, his little adopted son. While Mr. Marshall in 1917 was directing a diet kitchen in Washington maintained for the poor children he was attracted to a sickly little year-old waif. When they went to their summer home in Michigan that summer, Charles Morrison accompanied them. With the mother's consent, the child upon their return was permanently made a member of their household although no steps for its legal adoption were then taken. In order that the child's mother might be near the baby boy, Mr. Marshall secured employment for her at their hotel. Possessed with a wealth of human sympathy for his fellow men, Mr. Marshall had a quiet sense of humor, which the pall of senatorial dignity failed to dampen. Many times the humor was expressed at the expense of some senator.

FLORIDA SOLONS ENTER LAST LAP THIS AFTERNOON

Legislators Enter Upon Last Week of Present Session With Full Calendar Ahead of Both Senate and House

TALLAHASSEE, June 1.—Florida legislators tomorrow will enter the last lap of the 1925 session. With four and a half days yet to go before adjournment Friday at noon they will still have in the house the one big problem of appropriations to dispose of. Second, perhaps, in importance to that is the matter of tick eradication in Florida treated in several bills before the lower house and one in the senate. There also still remains a rather bulky list of proposed general legislation and local bills on the calendar.

Much less remains to be done by the senate which more than likely senators have stated, will devote the last few days of its session to marking time and waiting on the house. The appropriation bill is slated for further consideration today. When it is taken up it will be handled under a new cloture rule adopted by the house. This provides that the introducer of an amendment on a specific section shall be limited to two minutes' discussion, the chairman of the appropriations committee two minutes; a motion to table such amendment to two-minute limit.

Pending the time when the appropriation bill is called up it is not unlikely, members stated, that proposals to amend the act of 1923 creating the state live stock sanitary board will be taken up. Several of these proposals are on the calendar. One by Rep. Davis, of Leon, provides that the present board shall be abolished and in its place a new board be created and provision made for continuation of the tick eradication on a modified plan, the state co-operating with the counties.

Four Special Orders
On the senate calendar for special orders and third readings these remained four measures which senators considered important: the temperance legislation, the reforestation bill, the measure designed to give Miami control of certain submerged lands and consideration of the governor's veto on establishment of the municipality of Camp Walton, Okaloosa county, passed by the 1923 session.

The reforestation bill was admitted by its friends to be virtually killed after their vain efforts to secure consideration for it during the past week. Miami in seeking possession of certain submerged lands on her waterfront to be used for docks and warehouses for ocean going steamships which cannot now put into that city.

On second reading, subject to call at any time, under waiver of the rules, several other bills, most of which were introduced early in the session. Among these was a bill introduced by Senator Hodges, to repeal the act which created the state live stock sanitary board. Another of Senator Hodges' bills is that one providing for a state office building to cost $300,000. This still awaits action by the senate.

A measure which would create a state advertising board and which carries an appropriation of $60,000 for this purpose is another bill which senators considered important. The fourth of the measure on second reading is Senator Clark's bill abolishing the death penalty for murder.

The Call of the American Tropics

FLORIDA and its prosperity is a much-discussed theme nowadays among writers of national repute. Babson, Barron, Leslie, Edmunds, Brisbane, Howe, are all busy explaining the economics of the phenomenon. Babson says it is the result of the desire of people to add years to their lives; Leslie that it is a well-established trend of migration to the tropics. Edmunds' idea is that it is the logical result of the increase of national wealth and the increased desire for health and comfort. The range of reasons for the tremendous development is as varied as it is interesting; but all are agreed that Florida's prosperity is as actual as it is exceptional, that it is still in its earliest stages, and that it will have far-reaching and incalculable results.

The average reader will not enter the troubled waters of the discussion as to the causes of this prosperity. It will be quite enough for him to know that in Florida today are wonderful opportunities for making money. He will pass over Mr. Babson's rather involved theories, to rest comfortably on the writer's conclusion that "Florida during the next five years offers the greatest opportunities for money-making of all of the states in the Union."

Opportunities there are in plenty here for investment. Coral Gables, one of the first in the field, the finest in beauty and extent of development, is the leader of them all. Those who bought here three or two years ago, and reaped their profit on reselling, are coming back and bringing their friends. The enlarged area of ten thousand acres opens up not only a wider range for future investment, but adds immensely to the value of all that has been done before. And for safety, security and assured returns there is no equal to Coral Gables in the Southern Florida real estate field.

The cumulative effect of all of the national advertising and publicity which Florida is receiving, and will receive in larger measure than ever before during the next year, will be entirely lost to you unless you take advantage of the investment opportunities now offered to you. The wisest and safest investment you can make is at Coral Gables.

A visit to Coral Gables is part of every complete Florida tour--and it makes a delightful outing. Call at our local office and let us tell you how you may see Coral Gables with no transportation cost to you.

Validation Of Tax Levies Regulated By New Regulations

TALLAHASSEE, June 2.—Validation of tax levies heretofore made on real estate in the name of the true owner of the property is provided for in an act passed by both houses of the Florida legislature. Introduced by Representatives McLean of Suwanee and McKenzie of Putnam, members of the House Finance Committee, the measure provides:

"That every assessment of taxes heretofore made in this state of real estate where such assessment has been actually made in the name of the true owner shall be and is hereby validated in so far as the description of ownership is concerned, and no tax assessment or tax levy made upon any real estate in this state shall be held invalid by reason of or because of the fact that such real estate was actually assessed in the name of the true owner although such owner had made no return of the real estate to the tax assessor.

"From and after the passage of this act no decree shall be made by any court in a suit brought by or on behalf of any land owner to enjoin any tax sale or to set aside or cancel any tax certificate in the State of Florida until such owner shall have paid to the tax collector of the county where the property is assessable the full amount of the taxes which could have been lawfully assessed against the property involved for the period covered by the assessment complained of, whether such real estate shall have been returned for assessment by the owner thereof or not. It all such cases the court shall ascertain and determine and by decree fix the amount of such tax to be paid by the owner."

Okeechobee Farms Worth $3270,700, Bureau Estimates

TALLAHASSEE, June 2.—The following statement by the Federal Department of Commerce gives some of the results of the 1925 farm census for Okeechobee county. The figures are preliminary and subject to correction, it is stated. This census, which covered the crops of 1924, with the inventory of farm property for January 1, 1925, was taken by a force of enumerators employed to make a canvass of all the farms in the county.

Results of the enumeration showed the following comparative figures for January 1, 1925 and January 1, 1920, respectively:

Number of farms 159 and 67; operated by white farmers 159 and 67; operated by owners 148 and 58; operated by tenants 11 to 6; operated by managers 7 and 3.

Land in operated farms, total acres 222,769 and 213,287; crops harvested, acres 2,131 and blank.

Value of operated farms, land and buildings included, $3,270,700 and $1,266,100.

Domestic animals reported on farms: Number of horses 299 and 172; mules 51 and 7; cattle 13,740; and 10,017; swine 2,658 and 1,672.

Selected crops in 1924 and 1919, respectively:

Oranges, trees not of bearing age 23,809 and 3,863; trees of bearing age 17,069 and 2,144; grape fruit, trees not of bearing age 1, 273 and 1,654; trees of bearing age 1,533 and 1,318; Lemons, trees not of bearing age 3,364 and 17; trees of bearing age 1,165 and 13.

MARSHALL PROUD THAT HE WAS JUST ORDINARY MAN

Marshall delivered himself of that dictum which has become the most celebrated of all his homilies.

"Needs Good 5 Cent Cigar"

"What the country really needs is a good five cent cigar."

Like the President with whom he served Mr. Marshall came to high responsibility after but a short apprenticeship in public office. Five years before his election to the Vice-Presidency, he was regarded in a comfortable law practice in Columbia City, Ind., was known to but a limited number outside his community, never had held elective office and apparently was without political ambition. But in 1908 an unexpected turn of events elevated him to the Governor's chair at Indianapolis, where he was serving when the Democratic National convention at Baltimore selected him as Vice Presidential nominee in 1912.

The careless fire-builder, the unkempt factory with waste piles fairly itching to burst into infernal blaze, the man who believes that "there is no loss because it is all insured," cost the nation every year almost as many lives and as much money as the whole Revolutionary war.

ACCIDENT MIGHT HAVE HINDERED FLIGHT TO POLE

The Associated Press today that a wireless message sent to the Maud on May 29 could not be delivered as there was "no communication."

A dispatch to the Shipping Gazette received from Spitzbergen and timed 10 o'clock last night described the situation with respect to the Amundsen expedition as without change, thereby indicating that nothing had been heard from the polar explorers.

Thinks Party Marooned LOS ANGELES, June 2—Years of close association with Amundsen, familiarity with his methods of operation and an intimate knowledge of his plans for the flight into the Arctic which started May 21, prompted Haakon H. Hamner, who led the Amundsen relief dash of 1923, to express the opinion here tonight that the Amundsen - Ellsworth party is marooned in the frozen North.

"Amundsen has made a land-landing and cannot get up, because he has smashed his flying boats, or because the ice is too rough for a take-off with his heavy planes, or else he is in Alaska. The latter barely is possible," he asserted.

World Is Everlasting Declares Speaker On Prophecies of Bible

J. Edward Grimes, representing the International Bible Students' Association lectured at the Milano Theater Sunday evening, taking for his subject "Millions Now Living Will Never Die." The speaker closed his lecture as follows.

"In the past we have had 'the old world,' 'the world that was,' 'the world of the ungodly,' which ceased to be at the time of the Flood. More recently we have had what the Scriptures designate as 'this world,' 'the world that now is' or 'this present evil world,' which passed out of existence with the World War.

"The future, and the immediate future at that, holds in store for us when Christ shall reign over the earth and judge the living righteously, as our text declares. That world will be the 'new world' without end of which the world longings."

Make It a Thousand

If figures given The Herald are correct there are now two hundred and sixty members in the Sanford Chamber of Commerce. At the weekly luncheon last Friday there were present just twenty-eight men, including at least one out-of-town visitor.

Accomplishing more worth while results than any other civic body in the city, the Chamber of Commerce is doing much for the advancement of this section, and has made under the direction of its president, Edward Higgins, an enviable record for doing things.

With a paid up membership of a thousand, and with a fund of twenty-five thousand dollars coming in yearly from its members, would not the scope of activity of this important civic organization be greatly enlarged?

It is unfair to expect a handful of men to attempt to do all that should be done by Sanford's Chamber of Commerce.

WHY ADVERTISING INCREASES

Advertising is increasing steadily in two directions—in volume and in popularity. Why this is so was indicated very briefly by Secretary of Commerce Hoover in the twenty-first annual convention of the Associated Advertising Clubs of the World, recently held in Houston, Texas, says the Jacksonville Times-Union.

SLOW DOWN AND SAVE $10

"Slow down and save $10!" is on a sign at the entrance of a village near New York. How wonderful it would be if multitudes of business men—women, too—should take a lesson from this sign, slow down and save devalitizing oneself; save a crochety, tuncy disposition; save other people the pain of getting on their nerves; save mental poise; save the frightful waste of vitality; save worrying yourself to the point where even your own family have difficulty in living with you.

THE UNENLIGHTENED

THE UNENLIGHTENED mind wonders what difference partial or complete abstinence can possibly make to the Euler of the universe, with its solar systems, nebulae, comets, all rolling in infinite space and endless time. But with such questions the mind unenlightened should not presume to deal.

DAN DOBBS SAYS

Watching the elusive waist line will develop your neck. The question is, will airplane take up the price of gas? The girl who runs after a man has to be entirely too fast. Let the flies eat with you and you won't eat much longer. Stenographers are chicks, but shorthand resembles hen tracks. Dimples won't make a girl popular as a comfortable partner. Chicago will end daylight saving. Robbers got home too. Florida may pass a $3 tax on single women over 25. The state will collect about $10. We will start reporting what Henry Ford isn't making money of what he is making. Maybe three tramps jailed Detroit for stealing cream can it was vanishing cream. Treasury will drop about 25 clerks. Anyway, it's a nice job of the year to be fired. Trains are more safe now as if heroines can't flag them and red petrolas any more. Iowa twins have identical fingerprints, so how will mother tell which one got the jam? Bass Lake covers 5,000 Manasota acres. It's drying up. May be the bass are drinking it. Some think they are resisting temptation by swearing off smoking when they don't smoke.
