Sande's Superb Riding Could Have Won Race On Holstein Cow, His Admirers Declare

LOUISVILLE, Ky., May 18.—In all the 51 years of Kentucky derby history no horse from the field ever had won the great turf race until Saturday when Earl Sande, America's premier jockey, guided Flying Ebony to victory in a dramatic finish between showers of thunder, lightning and a down pour of rain drenching the spectators before the cheering of the winner had ended.

Horse experts have agreed that Sande shared honors with William Duke, trainer of the victor, in combining racing skill and condition, both factors being responsible for Flying Ebony's time. The little black colt's chance of victory was so highly regarded that he was grouped with eight others comprising the field betting. The skill, however, so highly regarded the skill of Sande, if not of Flying Ebony, that the supply of tickets in the mutuels at the field house was quickly exhausted.

The heavy backing of the field explains why Flying Ebony only paid $8.30 for $2, or slightly better than three to one.

Sande's superb skill in handling Flying Ebony convinced his admirers that he will remain the Sande of old, with the undiminished skill he displayed at Saratoga last August when he was cruelly trampled and all but fatally injured. He suffered a broken leg at that time and physicians said he never would be able to ride again. But this same Sande is back riding to victory again, when a less game, or determined young man would have been riding in a wheel chair.

After he finished his race, veteran horsemen shook their heads, remarking: "There was nothing to it but Sande. If the boy had been on a Holstein cow he would have won."

Sande won with Flying Ebony as he did with Zev in the derby two years ago but he did not make Flying Ebony in exactly the same fashion. In the 1923 derby Sande shot Zev to the front and led all the way. Yesterday, however, he wisely allowed his charge to drop back into second place, permitting the pace maker, Captain Hal, to wear himself to a point of exhaustion that would have forced him to falter in the dash for the wire. Just as Sande's judgment dictated, Captain Hal did this very thing and was fading rapidly as they neared the finish when Flying Ebony cut across undashed in to the lead.

MEMPHIS MEET HOLY SERVICE OF CHURCHMEN WITNESSED BY COMES TO END 60,000 PEOPLE

Annual Baptist Convention. Attended by 6,000. Hailed One of Most Successful Sessions in Church History

Rome, May 18.—All the great wealth of religious solemnity and splendor at the command of the Roman Catholic church was displayed Sunday morning at St. Peter's on the occasion of the celebration by Pope Pius in the presence of more than 60,000 persons of the present anniversary of the coronation of the infant Jesus, Carmelite nun of Lisieux, France, Sister Theresa was beatified in 1923.

The fact that the sanctification was the first of 1925 holy year, and that the new saint was a child of the present generation, having died in 1807 at the age of 21 years, heightened the religious fervor of the multitude filling every corner of the edifice, the decoration of which in beauty seldom has been surpassed.

All the rich hangings, ornaments and myriad electric lighting effects were arranged to preserve the original lines of the impressive basilica, which was filled with roses. Amplifiers on the papal altar carried the words of the pontiff to every part of the church. Forty thousand seats were provided in specially erected tribunes.

The ceremony began with the traditional and gorgeous procession of the representatives of all the dioceses and all levels of the church hierarchy, dressed in ceremonial vestments.

The procession advanced to the music of two male choirs and when a huge banner bearing the picture of the new saint appeared it was greeted with waves of applause. The cardinal deacons followed by the pontiff borne on the sedia statoria, upon which he was enthroned and from which he bestowed the pontifical blessing on those assembled.

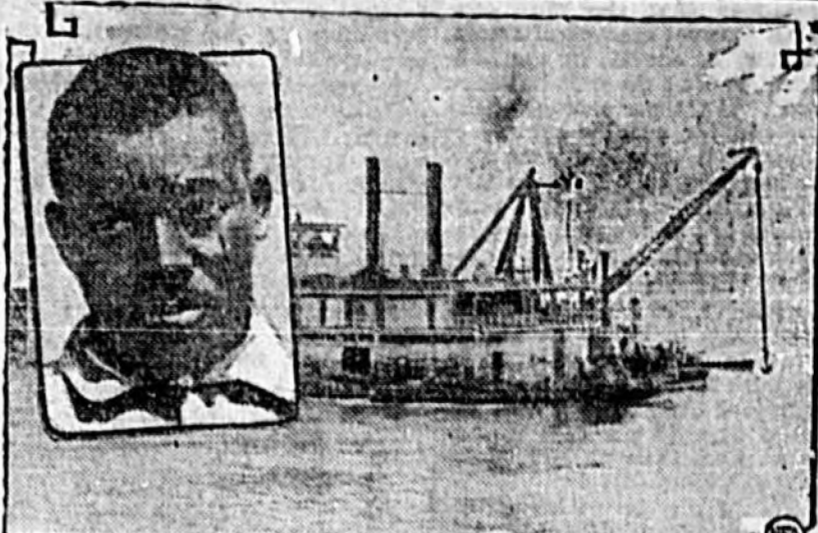

Royalty Present.

Among those present in the royal box were former Queen Amelia of Portugal, the Countess of Caserta, Prince and Princess Ranieri of Bourbon, Princess Josephine of Bourbon, Dowager Princess of Orleans, Prince Pietro of Orleans, Braganza, the Duchess of Saxony, the Princess Marie Antoinette of Bourbon, Princess Christina of Bourbon, and the Princess of Bavaria.

In a special reserved section was seated the governor general of the Irish Free State, Timothy Healy, while in a box for the pope's family, sat his sister and his cousin, Monsignor Rodolph Ratti, provost of Anso.

In addition to the score of cardinals residing in Rome, Cardinal Dougherty of Philadelphia and Cardinal Bourne, archbishop of Westminster, also were present while in the procession immediately following the pope was an impressive group of two hundred archbishops and bishops from all parts of the world.

Disaster Hero and Rescue Ship

When the government boat E. Norman turned over in the Mississippi river, near Memphis, causing the death of more than a score of people, Tom Lee, negro (insert), proved himself a hero. Through his effort at least 20 persons were carried to safety in his launch. Above is shown the Choctaw, which arrived on the scene shortly after the accident, dragging the river.

U. S. DRY FORCE FIGHTS BILLION DOLLAR UNION

Uncle Sam is Matching 30 Million Dollar Equipment Against Giant Conspiracy

Rum Smuggling Almost Halted

Every Liquor Vessel Within Striking Distance Is Picketed

NEW YORK, May 18.—A billion dollar rum running combatant by the United States Coast Guard with a $30,000,000 equipment, government officials announced at the completion of a four day official and newspaper inspection cruise of the Mid-Atlantic rum smuggling area.

There are 38 foreign rum running boats of all descriptions and Lieut. Co. Stepen S. Yeandle, in command of the coast guard cutter, Rear Admiral Billard. These craft have been pouring contraband liquor into the United States with the assistance of a large and far reaching shore organization with intricate ramifications.

Against this array the coast guard's entire force consists of duty in the safeguarding of ships and lives at sea; an authorized fleet of 20 converted destroyers, not yet complete, 2045 patrol boats, each 65 feet long and 103 feet wide, 136 foot long and 103 feet wide, six foot pike boats.

It is these conditions, Commander Yeandle said, that the coast guard has entered its first drive, sixteen cutters whose primary the mid-Atlantic rum blockade, which in less than two weeks has sent more than seventy smuggling craft scuttling to sea and has so tightly ringed the remaining smugglers with small, heavily armed boats to put a virtually complete stop to the once copious quantities of liquor that flowed through Long Island, New Jersey, New York and New England sea coast channels.

The plan itself is simple enough. It calls for the continued picketing of every rum boat that comes within striking distance of shore and the continued patrolling of all waters leading to sea and has so tightly ringed the remaining smugglers with small, heavily armed boats to put a virtually complete stop to the once copious quantities of liquor that flowed through Long Island, New Jersey, New York and New England sea coast channels.

Commander Yeandle pointed out that the largest of these shore rum running organizations were at New York and in New England. Others exist in Florida Cities, where the contraband is shipped by way of countless sand pits, bays and islands between Florida and Cuba and the Bahamas, on the Gulf of Mexico, to attend to the shore end of the business for a rum fleet off the mouth of the Mississippi river in Georgia, North Carolina, and South Carolina; at San Diego, Los Angeles, and San Francisco in California and on Puget Sound.

The principal centers, he said, are New York, New Jersey and New England and these organizations now are virtually idle because of the great success of the existing blockade. These centers will remain the most popular, the guardsmen insist, because they contain the greatest population.

A state of war virtually exists on the coast of New York, New Jersey, Rhode Island and the position of Massachusetts. All movements against the beleaguered "rummies" are transmitted in code by wireless from coast guard headquarters in Washington. The coast guardsmen are getting little shore liberty. Crews and members of crews are being shifted constantly to offset attempts of the "enemy" to frustrate the blockade by bribery, intimidation and sabotage.

Commander Yeandle said the coast guard for the purpose of the rum war had been welded into a mobile organization. Twenty movable bases have been established at various places along the four thousand miles of sea coast which the guardsmen are responsible for, including bases at Atlantic City, Staten Island, Great Point, L. I., New London Connecticut, Boston, Gloucester and Woodshol, Mass., Cape May, N. J., Miami, Fla., Norfolk, Va., Block Island, Lewis, Del., Fort Townsend, Port Angeles and Anacostis, Wash., and Goat Island in San Francisco Bay.

LEGISLATURE IS READY TO TACKLE IMPORTANT BILLS

House Faces Hard Schedule Despite Many Measures Already Passed; Senate Has More Favorable Position

TALLAHASSEE, Fla., May 18.—With a long list of general measures out of the way the legislature reconvened this afternoon for the seventh week of the 1925 session prepared to get down to work toward final action on the bigger problems that are to be disposed of during the remaining three weeks.

While the house has disposed of a score or more general bills, it finds itself still facing with the general appropriation bill, reappropriation, matters affecting the state's road system and the question of tick eradication.

The senate finds itself in a more favorable position on these measures, having disposed of the reappropriation bill, practically completed the appropriation bill, and the tick eradication item. The upper house has still ahead of it, however the road bills, proposals for aid to the state's primary schools and other measures of lesser importance, many of which have passed the house.

Both the appropriation bill itself and the amendment by Senator Singletary are expected to encounter the strongest sort of opposition in the lower house when they reach that side of the capitol. There the members have gone on record as opposing salary increases—of which the appropriation bill carries scores, including those for the governor, members of his cabinet, the judiciary and other state employees.

Not only have the house members expressed themselves against raising appropriations, but they also have indicated much hostility to the tick eradication work as it has been carried on during the past year or so. So strong has been the feeling in this respect that measures have been introduced on the subject ranging all the way from efforts to abolish the present state live stock sanitary board, to proposals to reorganize the board on an entirely different basis.

Both houses planned to devote more time to consideration of the matter until the end of the session as the calendar is in an effort to clear the calendars at the earliest possible moment.

The senate had cleared its calendar of virtually all local bills when it adjourned Friday over the week-end, and house rules under which business will be conducted from now until the end of the session are designed to clear up matters there with greater speed. Monday and Thursday nights will be devoted to local measures on other nights consideration of "pet" bills. The calendar will be the order of business. Under this arrangement each member will be given an opportunity to have one favorite measure taken up for consideration in calendar order in which their names are listed or beginning at the top, then reversing the order and starting at the bottom until all "pet" bills have been cleared out of the way.

MISSOURI SOLON WILL BE LAID TO REST IN ST. LOUIS

Senator Spencer's Body Is Removed From Washington To Missouri Home; Successor Subject of Speculation

WASHINGTON, May 18.—Arrangements for the funeral of Senator Spencer of Missouri, who died unexpectedly here last Saturday night, were completed Sunday by the family.

No service will be held in Washington and the funeral party will leave late today for St. Louis where the funeral will be conducted at 3 p. m. Wednesday, in the Second Presbyterian Church, by the Pastor, Dr. John W. MacIver.

One son, Brooks, is here from Pittsburgh, and another, Oliver, is expected to arrive from St. Louis today.

The third son, Seldon P. Jr., is a missionary in China. A congressional committee of pallbearers will accompany the body.

Successor Is Important.

ST. LOUIS, May 18.—Recovered from the shock of the sudden demise of Senator Selden P. Spencer in Washington Saturday night, politicians have turned their interest aside from funeral arrangements toward the state House in Jefferson City.

Upon the shoulders of Governor Sam A. Baker revolves the duty of naming not only a successor to the dead Senator but possibly the standard bearer of the Republican party in Missouri's Senatorial election in 1926.

Mr. Baker's appointee will hold office only until the election, the death of Senator Spencer, it is generally admitted, will cause an early opening of the Republican battle in Missouri for the Senatorship.

Though the names of prominent men have been mentioned for the candidacy next year, including former Governor Arthur M. Hyde, of Trenton; Dwight F. Davis, of St. Louis, Assistant Secretary of War; E. R. Brewster, Kansas City attorney; Congressman Cleveland A. Newton and Congressman Charles Faust.

As Governor Baker is a Republican he will not result in any change in the complexion of the Senate. A Republican is certain to fill the vacancy.

HEADS OF TRADE O'CONNOR THINKS BODY IN DISPUTE OVER DECISIONS

Change in Publicity Rules on Commission's Meetings Brings Sharp Differences; Nugent Asserts Rule Unfair

WASHINGTON, May 18.—Differences between federal trade commissioners over recent changes in the commission's rules of procedure were brought into the open Sunday night with the publication of the dissenting opinion of Commissioners Nugent and Thompson and an answer to their dissent by Commissioner Humphrey, a member of the majority in the dispute.

The rules revisions which caused the dispute sharply restrict the publicity given the commission's proceedings and provide that a respondent, by agreeing to discontinue a trade practice complained of by the commission, may escape formal proceedings by that body with the attending publicity. When complaints are made public only after the respondent's answer to the charges has been filed. The commission's previous practice of issuing a press statement with each complaint was discontinued.

Asserting that the new rules are grossly unfair, Commissioner Nugent, author of the dissenting opinion, declared manufacturers and merchants who conduct their business on a basis of fair dealing are to be subjected to the law given to unscrupulous competitors.

"When such competitors," he said, "are permitted in a stipulation, to admit that they are guilty of the unfair practices charged the same, and thereupon have the application for contempt dismissed without any inking to the public in respect of the matter, either as to the name of the respondent or the unfair practices followed by," he said, "an honest manufacturer or merchant are not afforded the protection which the statute contemplates should be accorded them."

Mr. Humphrey's statement on the dissenting opinion declared that the only objections to the charges in the commission's rules had come from "those who preach a doctrine that there is no honesty in the conduct of the business of this country." He asserted that the chief objection of Commissioners Nugent and Thompson is met in another way by the commission's rules which they apparently overlooked. This, he said, is the rule providing that "when the very business itself is fraudulent, it may well be considered by the commission that the protection of the public demands that the regular procedure by complaint and order shall prevail."

O'CONNOR THINKS FORD WILL MAKE OFFER FOR SHIPS

Shipping Board Head, Back From Detroit Conference, Says Auto Man Wants Ships For Scrapping, Operations

WASHINGTON, May 18.—That Henry Ford will offer to buy government vessels for scrapping "and for operation in members not yet determined by him," was expressed in a statement Sunday night by Chairman O'Connor of the Shipping Board.

The statement was made after the return of the chairman from Buffalo and Detroit where he discussed ship sales with the Detroit manufacturer. Referring to newspaper accounts of Mr. Ford's readiness to buy several hundred ships for scrapping and pe... O'Connor said he... love this from... alks with... statements made after such talks."

The chairman is expected to report to his associates on the board concerning the Ford proposition today. None of them was apprised in advance of the chairman's intention of going to Detroit and talking ship sales with the manufacturer, and their information on the question has been limited to press advices. Practically all of them, however, have indicated an opinion that a policy as to selling ships in considerable numbers for scrapping must first be considered, and that if such a policy is adopted, the sales should be made through open competitive bidding.

Chairman O'Connor, who holds that 400 government ships should be scrapped, emphasized that, although he went to Detroit to interview Mr. Ford in buying some government ships, "if my errand is successful Mr. Ford's offers would be considered by me as a member of the board in exactly the same way as all other offers are considered, strictly upon their merits."

"In considering the scrapping features of our sales problem," he added, "it must be borne in mind that a sale must be advertised by law. Bids will be examined upon their merits. The amounts of the bid will be made public. I am for the best bid for the most ships."

"The shipping board is the sole judge of what ships it is willing to sell for scrap and what ships it is willing to sell for operation. When we designate ships for scrap, I hope that they will be sold and sold in large numbers, with no waste of time. To longer keep useless ships is an insult to public intelligence."

"When it comes to selling ships for operation, I hope that Mr. Ford and other responsible citizens will improve and use in foreign competitive trade."

MIAMI SHORES

A Better Buy Today Than Was Miami a Few Years Ago

Magnificent in area as well as in plan of development, Miami Shores extends over an area of 2,800 acres. It has frontage on Biscayne Bay, on lakes and streams of nearly ten miles. Four main highways leading through it into Miami give it frontage on these thoroughfares of approximately ten miles.

THIS IS A RATHER strong statement but it is nevertheless a conservative statement of fact.

A FEW YEARS AGO there was no definite assurance that Miami would be a great seaport city. A few years ago there was no assurance that Miami would attract the centers of finance. A few years ago Miami was more or less a question mark in the minds of the investing public. A few years ago no one knew that the inheritance tax amendment would become a reality. A few years ago Miami was just a delightful winter resort town.

TODAY MIAMI is a great seaport city. Today Miami is attracting the centers of finance. Today Miami is not a question mark but a reality in the minds of the investing public. Today the inheritance tax amendment is a reality. Today Miami is much more than just a delightful winter resort city.

AND, THEREFORE, Miami Shores, an integral part of Greater Miami, situated as ideally as is Miami—and more so from a residential standpoint—which its new causeway to the ocean, its wide paved boulevards—none less than 75 feet in width—with its complete city plan and with the absolute elimination of all unfavorable commercial development—inasmuch as the municipal causeway prevents forever the expansion of shipping docks north of 13th Street—therefore, Miami Shores is a more perfect investment opportunity than was Miami a few years ago.

Milk Furnished By Sanford Dairies Declared To Be Of Best Quality, Says Spencer

In a communication addressed to the Sanford Herald, G. W. Spencer of this city takes issue with remarks said to have been made in an address before the Woman's Club some time ago in which he declares a "certain dairy seemed to have been well advertised and others of equal merit were treated with silent contempt."

In his communication, Mr. Spencer points out that he is not making his statement to cast any reflection upon any of the standard dairies of Sanford but is made to show the citizens of this city that they are getting a good, standard product from all of the dairies and to show that his plant is furnishing milk whose quality is as good as the best.

In his communication, Mr. Spencer encloses the city inspector's report for February, March, April and May and also gives what constitutes good milk and quotes an excerpt from the city code which defines what the law requires in the sale of milk. In defining what constitutes good milk, Mr. Spencer says:

"The specific gravity of milk is the method used in determining the solids. The average density of

Bryan Is Compared To Nero By Noted Lawyer In Statement to Press

NEW YORK, May 18.—Clarence Darrow, Chicago lawyer, who is to oppose William Jennings Bryan in a Tennessee evolution trial, came out today with a few opinions about the hammer.

Nero and Bryan were linked by Darrow as men, whose irrational opposition enhanced the spread of a great doctrine. Nero he said, "tried to kill Christianity with persecution and law, and Bryan would block enlightenment with law."

He said that he and Dudley Field Malone, New York attorney, are willing to pay all expenses of the Tennessee trial "in order that day may triumph over night." Any man of ordinary intelligence would topple Bryan in his argument," Darrow continued.

BIBLE THOUGHT AND PRAYER

A MUCH NEEDED PRAYER: Create in me a clean heart, O God; and renew a right spirit within me, Psalm 51: 10.

THORNS AND FLOWERS

A reaper in the fields of life I hastened forth to be, But others plucked the pretty flower, And left the thorns for me.

I turned aside and weeping asked, "Shall thorns reward my quest?" A voice replied, "Yea, gather these What God appoints is best."

Then meekly I obeyed, and found Each thorn a priceless gem; A blood-stained wreath I wove, and lo, A sparkling diadem!

The lovely wreaths of flowers bright, All perished in a day; Before the scorching summer heat They withered fast away.

Publicity of the Wrong Kind

Last week saw the publication of three occurrences which will prove more harmful to Sanford than anything which has yet happened in its history and which will counteract to a large extent the benefits derived from the extensive advertising campaign recently inaugurated. Almost every paper in the United States told the story of the alleged whipping of Benjamin Way, followed almost immediately by the seizure of a carload of celery in New Orleans on account of a two generous application of a "spray," and then the lynching of a negro, perhaps by an Orlando mob but at least in Seminole county.

Since these things happened, clippings from newspapers all over the country have poured into this office. Many letters from much offended Northerners have found their way here condemning the "outrages." Many declare they will never come to Sanford. More assert that they will never touch another stalk of Sanford celery.

It matters not that Benjamin Way was generally considered by local persons to be very much of a crank, or that the consensus of local opinion is that he was never man-handled in any way in this county. It matters only that the story of his alleged mistreatment was published in hundreds of newspapers throughout the North. It matters not that the "poison" found on that celery in New Orleans was used in a spray recommended by the United States Department of Agriculture, is generally known to be harmless and can be easily washed off. It matters only that the story of "poison celery" was read by hundreds of thousands of persons in these United States. It matters not that the negro lynched last week was guilty of a most heinous crime, or that in all probability it was an Orange county mob that lynched him. It matters only that the affair occurred in Seminole county and that Seminole county received the publicity.

It will not take much of such publicity to ruin permanently the celery industry in Sanford and to wreck forever the possibility of this city ever becoming anything of a tourist resort. It is a matter which seriously deserves the utmost consideration not only of public officials, of the sheriff's office, of the police department and of the mayor; it should be a matter of much concern in every public welfare organization in the county, in every civic club, in the American Legion, in the Ku Klux Klan, in the Knights of Columbus, and in every organization which even pretends to have any purpose whatsoever for existence.

It may be that the officials of law enforcement are doing all in their power to apprehend the guilty parties in the recent lynching; it may be that they are earnestly trying to locate anyone who may have been connected with the alleged whipping of Benjamin Way; it is reasonably certain that if such parties should be located they would be severely prosecuted. But the officials of law enforcement cannot do everything. Much depends upon public opinion and the attitude of the citizens toward such affairs and upon the persons themselves who might take part in any such defiance of law and order.

It is largely up to the people of this community to prevent whippings, lynchings and similar crimes. It is up to the ministers to tell their congregations what they think of such affairs; it is up to the president of the Chamber of Commerce to denounce such law violations; it is up to the president of the Rotary Club to condemn any action which tends so strongly to ruin the reputation of this community. It is up to every good citizen to frown upon whippings and lynchings.

But mainly it is up to the men themselves who do such things to realize that they are cutting off their noses to spite their faces; to realize that by their means they are defeating their own ends. Lynchings, indeed, are passee. Time was when man wanted a wife, he crowned with a club some woman and dragged her home. Since then he has learned gentler methods. He now obtains the same result with far less exertion. And he doesn't get so much unfavorable publicity.

HE WHO HAS the quest of the good in his heart relates himself thereby with all the highest powers and forces of the universe and they aid him at every turn.—Trine.

WHAT A MAN is inwardly that to him will the world be outwardly; his mood affects the very "quality of the day."—Bradford Torrey.

MY FAVORITE STORIES BY IRVIN S. COBB

The other day somebody told me a story of a man under sentence of death to whom the jailer came with the word that he might follow any congenial occupation he pleased during the time which would elapse before the fatal date. The prisoner had only to nominate his choice and the facilities for prosecuting it would be provided. Indeed, there was rather a suggestion that if the condemned man had not completed the favored undertaking by that day, there might be a delay in the execution of the law to give him an opportunity to finish it.

The situation having been made clear, the messenger awaited the captive's decision. "Well, old man," he said finally, "what is it you want to do?" "I think," said the prisoner, "I'd like to learn Chinese." The hearing of this story reminds me of another—a blood brother to it—which was current in Tennessee years ago.

One chilly evening in the early part of March the sheriff entered the county jail and, addressing the colored person who occupied the strongest cell, said: "Gabe, you know that under the law my duty requires me to take you out of here tomorrow and hang you. So make your final hours on earth as easy as possible. For your last breakfast you can have anything to eat that you want and as much of it as you want. What do you think you'd like to have?"

The condemned man studied for a minute. "Mr. Lukins," he said, "I believe I'd like to have a nice watermelon." "But watermelons won't be ripe for four or five months yet," said the sheriff. "Well, sah," said Gabe, "I kin wait."

ALL FLORIDA IS GRATEFUL ST. PETERSBURG TIMES

Florida owes a debt of gratitude to the men who write advertising and public relations through every conceivable channel. Floridians are well aware of the power of printer's ink and particularly when the advertising carries with it the Truth. Associated Advertising Clubs of the World have their determination to make Truth in Advertising the standard upon which their work is based, created in the minds of the public a confidence in their statements. The people believe the advertisements and govern their actions accordingly. Upon this feeling of confidence millions have been invested in Florida which would not have come here otherwise.

Florida had a glorious climate even during the time when it belonged to Spain. The natural wealth was present since the land came up out of the sea. For centuries the state lay quiescent. Then came the advertising men, they checked up on the wealth of every kind. They opened the eyes of the rest of the United States. They created a desire to investigate the romantic scenes of the days of Ponce de Leon. They urged upon the transportation lines better service. They argued hotel owners in the northern resorts to building winter hotels. They made Florida what it is today. St. Petersburg as host to the Advertising Clubs of the World offer to its guests the best it has in the way of entertainment and pleasure. The lachings of the homes in the city will be out, the delegates will be honored guests and they will feel that the welcome extended comes from hosts who appreciate what their guests have come for them. All Florida invites the Advertising men of the World to come to the state in 1926. With St. Petersburg as headquarters they will be shown the entire state and given a comprehensive idea of the Nation's Winter Playground. St. Petersburg "the City that advertising built" is grateful to the men who have made its growth possible and deeply appreciative of their good work.

QUESTIONS FOR DEAN INGE. SAM'S 7 BEST CUSTOMERS. NATURE IN NO HURRY. MONEY GOES TO MONEY. By ARTHUR BRISBANE (Copyright 1925)

IN CONNECTION with religious hatreds and stupidities, did you notice the farewell remarks of the Very Rev. Inge, Dean of St. Paul's, London, as he sailed for home?

He said to the reporters, and all the newspapers print his words, "I would advise them, meaning the Jews to rebuild the Temple of Solomon here in New York, where they have the largest number of Jews—and plenty of Gentiles to fleece."

The reverend gentleman also remarked that he would be glad to get back to his cellar, meaning his supply of alcoholic fluids.

IT ISN'T worth while to tell Dean Inge what the Jews have done to build up this country, or how much England owes to the intelligence of Cromwell, who allowed the Jews to come into England and build up English prosperity, while Spain and Portugal went down and STAYED down, because superstitious brutality drove the Jews out.

BUT YOU might ask the Dean, well paid by the Christian Church, these questions:

How do you make your living? Do you suppose there would be and such things as a Dean of St. Paul's Christian Cathedral, if there hadn't been any JEWS? Where do you think Christianity started? What was the nationality of the apostles and of the mother of Christ?

AND to those questions, you might add this:

Providence, in sending the religion in which you believe, or rather in which you DON'T believe, to this earth, had its pick of the whole globe. Why did it pick out the land inhabited by Jews? Perhaps Dean Inge thinks Providence knows less than the Dean of St. Paul's.

NEVER QUARREL with your customers, especially your best customers, and don't get mixed up in any thing that might lead to a quarrel.

The United States Chamber of Commerce informs you that Uncle Sam has seven big outstanding customers. They bought from the United States in 1924 TWO THOUSAND MILLION DOLLARS' WORTH OF PRODUCTS.

SUCH CUSTOMERS are worth keeping. Their names are Great Britain, Canada, Germany, Italy, France, Japan, China.

The wise merchant keeps on good terms with customers, treats them all fairly and alike, avoids anything that might cause friction.

THEREFORE, WHEN Uncle Sam is invited to enter into any foolish League of Nations, or into any well packed World Court, he should reply: "No, THANK YOU, gentlemen, I stay on my side of the ocean, doing business politely and efficiently over my counter. I shall not mix up in anything that might cause unpleasant irritation. I am not going to help England decide against France, Japan against China, or Germany against Italy. You are my good customers. I shall continue to attend to my business, and I shall do it in the old American way."

YOU WILL observe that in spite of his much criticized and wholly SOUND Washington plan of mind-ing his own business, old Uncle Sam is NOT losing trade.

For the month of April he sold to other countries more goods by $100,000,000 worth than in any April during the last five years. And the trade balance for April was in Uncle Sam's favor by $51,000,000. When you are doing WELL, don't let critics worry you. Sometimes their criticism is not ENTIRELY unselfish.

THIS IS the only country that has any supply of helium gas worth while. We get it after it has leaked up through the earth and in pools of natural gas.

According to Dr. Elind, chief of the Bureau of Mines, "it takes 20,000,000 years for helium to leak from minerals and rocks and come within our reach."

Many things happen in science that couldn't happen if this earth were only 6,000 years old, as was once believed. It took millions of years for evolution to change a creature as big as a fox, with seven toes, into the horse of today. It takes 20,000,000 years for helium gas to become available. It will take our sons 300,000,000 more years to cool off.

Nature is in no hurry. MONEY GOES to money, and if you understand business you can easily get capital to develop your enterprise. The other day, for instance, Mr. Edward L. Doherty sold his Mexican oil properties to a branch of the Standard Oil. He now organizes a new company, of a million shares, "no par value," to develop properties in the West.

Does the new company have to start out and work up from the bottom? Hardly. Mr. Doherty told his friends that he would start operations with a cash capital of $85,000,000 and all of this "new money," money from the East brought in to develop the West.

"THERE'S GOLD in them mountain," the old prospector used to say. There is, if you know where to find it. Bupt there's a good deal more gold in those oil wells. If you know how to locate them. And apparently Mr. Doherty does know.

SUMMER SCHOOL

OF INTEREST TO DOG OWNERS MIAMI TRIBUNE

This is the time of year when the winter resident becomes conscious of responsibility involved in the ownership of dogs, particularly if dogs attend the families in their migration north for a month or two of holiday. There are some who go so far as to resolve at this season of the year that even one dog involves a weight of responsibility and care quite beyond the returns received from same. Anyhow there will probably be sympathetic reactions to the following description from H. I. Phillips in the American Magazine, who describes somewhat in detail "A Dog Owner's Perfect Week":

"Monday: Arose early. Took dog for a walk and missed usual train to office. Quit shortly after noon to shop for dog biscuits, dog pills, dog soap and dog tonic. Arrived home at six o'clock. Took dog for walk. Went to movie. Took dog for walk.

"Tuesday: Had restless night. Dog kept household awake by snoring and heavy breathing. Wife for walk must have pneumonia. Wrapped dog in blanket and drove him to specialist. Specialist finally received dog and reported he was in perfect health. Said all bulldogs snore and breathe heavily, due to short noses. Five dollars, please!" Drove back home with dog. Day a total loss.

"Wednesday: Up at 7. Took dog for walk. Office at 8:30. Wife phoned at 11 to say dog was lost. Took noon train home. Searched whole village for dog, and put ads in newspapers offering reward.

Drove around town all night looking for clues. Resolved never to own another dog. "Thursday: Couldn't sleep. Kept wondering where dog could be. Wife up most of night imagining she could hear dog barking. Spent most of night whistling out bedroom window. No work today. Resumed search for dog. Wife confessed he was let out without collar. Suspect he was picked up by dog-catchers. Phoned the pound, and found dog answering description was held there. Rushed to pound and recovered dog. Another dog gone to waste.

"Friday: Up early. Took dog for walk. Dog acted very peculiarly. Discovered cut on ear. Suspect dog may have been bitten by another dog while in pound. Think he may have hydrophobia. Recall stories with hydrophobia. Rushed to specialist. Specialist put three cents' worth of iodine on ear. Five dollars please! Reached office at 2 p. m. Day too far gone to accomplish anything.

"Saturday: Up early. Took dog for walk. Neighbor also took dog for walk. Two dogs met and got into fight. Neighbor blamed my dog. I blamed his dog. Neighbor and I got into fight. Returned home. Found wound in dog's forehead. Rushed dog to specialist. Wife much upset. Am thinking of rushing her to specialist. If this keeps up much longer will rush self to specialist.

"Sunday: Wife spent day with relatives. Locked dog in cellar with plentiful supply of bones. Went to attic and got in first day's work in week."
