U.S. GOLFERS ARE LOOKING TO OPEN FOR COMEBACK

Speculate Upon Chance of Americans in Big British Event

LONDON, Apr. 29—(INS)—Will enjoy a warm glow of anticipation over the brilliant victory of the British golf professional Saturday which brought the Ryder Cup back to England and with it a good deal of lost prestige, those followers of the game and thousands of others, not so close, speculated today upon England's chances in the open championship of Muirfield on May 6.

Hope for the British victory in the open this year, more or less dormant, before the Ryder Cup matches, has revived to an extent where it might almost be called unbounded confidence.

Since 1923 when Arthur Havers beat Walter Hagen by a single stroke every British open has been won by an American. However among the 242 entries for the open, there are 21 Americans, and their strength is not being discounted despite Saturday's result.

When the open begins, the entire Ryder Cup squad consisting of Hagen, Leo Diegel, Hoston Smith, Gene Sarazen, Al Espinosa, Johnny Farrell, Johnny Golden, Al Watrous, Ed Dudley and Jo Turnesa will be reinforced by such golfers as MacD. Hall Smith, "Wild" Bill Welborn, Tommy Armour, Bobby Cruickshank and Jim Barnes, among the professionals with George Von Elm leading the amateurs. After his sensational play Saturday, Diegel has in some measure displaced Hagen as the one the Britons must fear.

St. Petersburg Man, Crusader On Vice, Is Beaten And Robbed

(Continued From Page One) der his car. They reconsidered, however, and stripping off his clothing, they bound him over a log and beat him with a whip, which had been knotted.

Just before they left, Bickers said, one of the men gave him orders about getting out of town and of keeping his mouth shut about what had happened and what he had done it.

He said he finally worked free from his bonds, but not until after files and ankles him the most acute misery. He crawled to a road nearby, where some people in an automobile saw him. They stopped and heard his story, and at first did not want to pick him up, but he finally begged them to take him to the city hospital.

Bickers, who formerly was assistant attorney general for Shelby county, Tenn., at Memphis, came to St. Petersburg several years ago. Many of his cases have been sensational ones, including many divorces.

Last winter when the dog racing season was inaugurated here he was employed by the church interests to stop them. He went to work on this and finally the races were stopped for a few nights, but soon were resumed.

His most recent case was one in which he asked Governor Carlton for the removal of Sheriff Gladstone Beattie, who is charged with accepting protection money from bootleggers, and allowing gambling to go unhindered at the dog tracks. All the evidence in this case has been filed with the governor. What effect Bickers' decision to leave the state will have in this case is not known.

What was perhaps the most intensive man hunt ever conducted in this part of Florida was instituted under the personal direction of Mayor John N. Brown when Bickers' abduction was reported. Mayor Brown ordered out 60 special policemen, had all officers of duty called in and pressed city firemen into duty to aid in the search. He also chartered three airplanes and had them make a most minute survey of the entire county in an effort to locate the automobile of Bickers and his ab- ductors.

Sheriff Beattie called on Bickers tonight and said, notwithstanding their feud he was determined to do everything in his power to run down the assailants.

Bickers had realized for a week or more that his life was in danger. He said a leader of the underworld in Tampa had been to St. Petersburg and told him to "lay off" certain things he was investigating.

Bickers had told newspapermen that he was planning to leave his home, which is located in a sparsely settled suburban location and go to a downtown hotel just as soon as his wife had recovered sufficiently to be removed.

Mrs. Bickers telephoned Governor Carlton this afternoon and told him of her husband's abduction. The governor told Mrs. Bickers he would leave no stone unturned in an effort to apprehend the abductors.

The mads at the Bickers home said a number of men had been watching the house for the last week. They too saw the lawyer abducted, and were confident they could identify at least one of the men.

While at first it would have appeared a most daring thing to take Bickers in broad daylight, a survey of the situation showed that had not Mrs. Bickers heard her husband drive up and looked out the window, there would have been no eye-witness to the abduction.

Federal Expert Is Here To Push Drive On Fruit Fly Pest

Until the work is thoroughly organized here, Mr. Monk said, it would be necessary to rely upon volunteer service of the people. The use of automobiles or personal service may be needed, he said. Referring again to the pest, the sooner modification of the regulations will be made and the earlier our fight will be waged.

Mr. Monk has had experience fighting pests similar to the Mediterranean fruit fly, having been for a number of months assigned to Texas where a long fight has been waged against the Mexican fruit worm. Two weeks ago, along with many others, he was transferred to Florida. He has been stationed at Orlando here for the past few days. His stay here will be for an indefinite period, he said.

3 Prominent Film Men Die In Crash Of Their Airplane

LOS ANGELES, Apr. 29—(INS)—Three men prominent in the film colony were dead today, sent hurtling to their doom by an ironical fate that stole a star from a film thriller they were to produce.

In exactly the manner that was to furnish the dramatic high spot for their production, the three streaked to earth in an airplane.

The dead: William Oviatt, 22, wealthy owner of the plane and son of William H. Oviatt, manager for Morris Gest, theatrical producer; Ray N. Scott, 25 actor and nephew of Charlie Murray, screen comedian; and Mack A. Fife, 27, film character actor.

Before taking off for a flight on the three had set in the Hollywood apartment of wealthy Sayre Deering discussing details of a production he was to finance which, by a weird coincidence, was to have been used.

China's Proposal At Arms Meet Shelved

GENEVA, Apr. 29—(INS)—China's proposal that compulsory military training be abolished as part of the general disarmament plan, was shelved today by the League of Nations preparatory disarmament commission without a vote.

All the nations represented here opposed China's suggestion except Germany and Soviet Russia which are favoring drastic programs of general disarmament by land, sea and air. The commission informed Hugh Gibson, American representative, that it did not consider the national guard (American state troops) as part of the effective of the United States standing army.

To feature the death of three men in a wild airplane crash, Deering had arranged to finance the film. Scott had written the scenario. Fife was to have had an important role, and Oviatt's plane was to have been used.

Substitute May Be Made For Paulino Schmeling Battle

NEW YORK, Apr. 29—(INS)—If Max Schmeling is unable to go through with his bout with Paulino Uzcudun in the main number of the milk fund card at Yankee Stadium on June 27, matchmaker Tom McArdle plans to match Rene De Vos, Belgian middleweight, and Ace Handkins at the head liners in the show. Reports have reached here from Germany that Schmeling will not box until his contract with his manager, Arthur Bulow, becomes void.

Handkins won a close decision over De Vos here some time ago. McArdle said that if necessary he would stage a bout between Leo Lemke, light-heavyweight of Aberdeen, Wash., and Charley Belanger the Canadian as a substitute semi-final.

Celery Not Affected

Sanford people have scarcely had time to come to a full realization of how thankful they should be that the fruit fly which is causing so much concern among vegetable and fruit growers throughout the state, does not attack celery, and that the quarantine regulations which go into effect tomorrow do not apply to celery. For some time or until yesterday, the impression has prevailed to some extent that celery, growing in any district designated as Zone One under quarantine regulations, could not be shipped.

Such a contingency, should it exist, would cause considerable embarrassment to a large number of Seminole county growers who have not yet sent their produce to the markets. In the Oviedo section there is at the present time practically a half million dollars worth of celery ready to be cut and shipped, and Oviedo, containing one or two infested groves, is in Zone One. If these growers were not allowed to ship their celery, it would work a most unnecessary hardship upon them and their community. So would it to Sanford, next year, if the fly is still with us at that time and Sanford should happen to be in an infested zone.

But the announcement of W. M. Scott in yesterday's Herald has cleared up much doubt existing in the minds of many of our growers on this particular point. Mr. Scott, who is district manager and chief entomologist of the American Fruit Growers, has just returned from Washington where he has spent several days in close conference with Department of Agriculture officials and in lobbying for the appropriation bill. He is thoroughly acquainted with every phase of the campaign now being waged and is undoubtedly as thoroughly qualified as anyone in the country to speak intelligently regarding the Mediterranean fruit fly.

According to Mr. Scott's statement, celery will be affected by the pest and the quarantine only in the most insignificant way. It will be necessary to wash the dirt off the celery before shipping; that is all. As this is already done in a great many cases, most of our growers will never know the difference. The rest of them can wash their celery and forget about embargoes. There will be no more restrictions against washed celery than against the movement of horses, dogs, people, pineapples or furniture.

It is perfectly possible that there might be a celery field planted immediately adjacent to an orange grove. The grove might be alive with pesky little fruit flies, and the area for a mile around might be known as Zone One and the area nine miles beyond that as Zone Two, but the cultivation of celery could go right on. When it is ready to be cut, it could be cut, then washed and shipped without restriction. Sanford farmers will get their money as they have in the past. And Sanford will continue to grow and prosper.

Sanford people should bend every effort toward the extermination of the fruit fly; they should co-operate to the utmost of their ability with the officials who have charge of the eradication campaign; they should do this for the rest of the state, for the citrus growers, for the tomato, pepper, and eggplant growers; but Sanford can thank its lucky stars that celery and lettuce, our biggest crops, are not affected.

Florida's Big Crop

Florida has approximately $250,000,000 worth of groves which annually produce on an average of $100,000,000 worth of oranges. This great crop has only one rival in the business development and the financial stability of the state, and that of course is the tourist crop which in recent years has reached stupendous proportions. Speaking of oranges, Moses Folsom, in the Florida Times-Union said recently:

"In 1928 Florida produced approximately 8,000,000 boxes of grapefruit, Porto Rico 1,000,000; California 550,000; Texas, 260,000 and Arizona 100,000. Exports totaled 679,000 boxes. Great Britain taking 385,000 boxes; Canada, 260,000 boxes; Germany, 6,000 boxes; France, 3,400; Venezuela, 2,600; Newfoundland, 2,200; British Malaya, 1,900; China, 1,800; the Philippines, 1,600; the Netherlands, 1,400; Panama, 1,200; Norway, 1,100; Netherland West Indies, 1,100; Argentina, 1,100 and Ceylon, 1,100.

"In 1928 the orange production of the United States amounted to about 35,500,000 boxes, with California first, Florida second, Alabama third, Louisiana fourth, Arizona fifth, Mississippi sixth and Texas seventh. The exports of 1928 amounted to 2,700,000 boxes, of which Canada took 85 per cent, with Great Britain second. During October to May, United States oranges face competition from Spanish and Palestine oranges in British markets. The best season for United States oranges appears to be in the summer months.

"In 1928 the United States imported 109,000 boxes of grapefruit valued at $199,000; 26,000 boxes of oranges valued at $113,000, and 942,000 boxes of lemons valued at $2,191,000. Our imports of fresh fruits in 1928 had a value of $42,500,000. This included 61,208,000 bunches of bananas valued at $35,377,000 and 1,310,000 pineapples, valued at $1,407,000. Most of our bananas come from Honduras and Mexico and from Jamaica, Porto Rico, Cuba and others of the West Indies. Hawaii sent us 495,000,000 pounds of canned pineapples in 1928 valued at $39,500,000. Porto Rico sent us 355,000 boxes of oranges and Japan 20,000 boxes in 1928."

What this great industry means to Florida, is properly pointed out by B. C. Forbes, well known economist and financial analyst of New York City, when he said: "I don't believe there is a single other state in the Union which has as bright an agricultural outlook as Florida faces at the present time. Florida has so many natural advantages that it cannot remain undeveloped. Most of Florida's crops are produced when the farm land in nearly all the other states is snowbound and idle. Florida is closer to the large centers of population, and there will always be a market for winter vegetables, fruits, poultry and dairy products. California, with all its industry and tourist business has realized that agriculture is her greatest asset. And California has many costly items to consider—irrigation is one—that Florida does not have to face."

IT WILL TAKE at least two years, and possibly longer, before the fight on the Mediterranean fruit fly will be over and the pest exterminated. During this time production of any fruits and vegetables that the fly is accustomed to frequent will be a more or less problematical matter. It might be a good plan to find out what it does not trouble and turn our attention to such production—Ocala Star.

Give yourself the pleasure of smoking a fragrant, mellow cigarette

CAMEL CIGARETTES

WHY CAMELS ARE THE BETTER CIGARETTE
The Camel blend of choice Turkish and Domestic tobaccos has never been equaled.
This blend produces a delightful mildness and mellowness.
Camels are always uniform in quality.
You can smoke Camels freely without tiring your taste.
They do not leave a cigarettey after-taste.
Camels are a refreshing and satisfying smoke.

Prize Winner Will Be Among Plays To Be Given Tonight

"The Ghost Story," one of the three one-act plays to be staged tonight at the high school auditorium under the auspices of the Little Theater Workshop and for the benefit of the scholarship fund of the Welfare Department of the Woman's Club, recently won second place in the state high school dramatic contest and for that reason its presentation here has aroused considerable interest.

The cast is composed of a group of high school boys and girls, who have been cast in numerous local productions recently. The part of the "earnest young man" is taken by Nat Farnworth and the "pretty young girl" by Katherine Schrader. A group of girl friends includes Sara Maxwell, Lucille Boltz and Beverly Bender. Friends of the young man are Henry Witte, Gene Turner, Hendrix Lyles and Kelly Pope. Katherine Williams will take the part of the maid.

The "Deceivers" by William DeMille will present Byron Stephens as Amos Little and Sam Byrd as "The Mink." Mrs. W. E. Stone will have the role of Flora Little. The third play is "Where There's a Will" written by Sam Byrd. It presents the Rev. Mortimer Glover in the leading role, supported by a cast composed of Byron Stephens, Edward F. Lane and Mary Elizabeth Neely.

God Has Been Good To Sanford, Says Divine In Sermon

Addressing a congregation that packed the Presbyterian Church Sunday morning, Dr. E. D. Brown took as his text Psalm 103:2, "Forget not all His benefits." The minister enumerated blessings, which he said God had given to all in Sanford as a "basis for good cheer and courage."

"God has given to all of us abundance of food, clothing and shelter, prime physical necessities of life. There have also been given to us civil liberties, intellectual privileges, luxuries, friends, loved ones, and spiritual privileges."

The minister discussed each of the blessings and concluded with this statement, "Consider pardon, guidance, strength, courage, hope, comfort and love. We would not surrender any of these seven for the money we have lost or hoped to win. We are not bankrupt. We are rich in the things that count."

Your Family Doctor Doesn't Offer "Specials"

Suppose your Family Doctor offered a "special" on measles every other Thursday, or advertised his office fees would be cut in half on the second and third Mondays of the month.

Illogical, isn't it? That is exactly why the J. C. Penney Company doesn't offer "specials" or "cut prices" or hold so-called "sales."

Day after day we sell merchandise at the lowest figure consistent with market costs, plus a fair charge for distribution and handling. Whenever you buy anything in our store you may be sure of two things:

1. It is priced as low as we can possibly make it — and our buying resources make this very low indeed.
2. You are paying exactly the same price as your neighbor — no more, no less.

has been worked out in so much detail," he said, "is simply to make it desirable that every member should know exactly what the organization is for, and how it will be run, and how the growers will be benefited. It is the duty of the directors to act as governing body. In other words, the contract is presented to the growers and they will not be asked to sign it until they have had all the facts before them so they can satisfy themselves every dollar collected for the benefit will be used for their benefit exclusively and for his benefit."

Nature Thought of Everything

Nature thought of everything when the human body was made. When the body is about to become ill, nature sends danger signals to warn us. If our children grind their teeth when they sleep, or lack appetite, or are from abdominal pains, or itch about the nose and fingers, we should know that they may have contracted worms. Then, if we are wise, we buy a box of White's Cream Vermifuge and surely expel the worms. There is no danger of very serious results. White's Cream Vermifuge costs only 25¢ a bottle, and can be bought from Sanford Drug Co., Laney Drug Store, Roumillat & Anderson, or from Pharmacy.

When SHE Drives
---No Tires Can Be To Good---

When SHE is behind the wheel, probably with the little ones in the back seat, you'd give anything to insure the safety of that car. When SHE drives, no tires can be "too good." If your present tires have reached the stage of occasional punctures and a slippery smoothness of tread why not—especially for her sake—exchange them on an equitable basis for new Goodyears? We will recommend the type of tire which, according to the way your car is driven, will give you safety, combined with the required mileage at lowest cost.
