Editor Traces Paul's Journeys

Anyone familiar with the Book of Acts and the letters of Paul to the young churches, which he had nurtured, cannot help but feel a strong kinship with early Christians struggling against human frailities and oppression while glorying and seeking to grow in their new found faith.

Paul's messages of encouragement and rebuke are often still so relevant that we tend to forget that these epistles were written over 1900 years ago. Those travelers who expect to find things unchanged in 1973 A.D. may be disappointed when they attempt to trace the footsteps of Paul and his compenions on their missionary journeys.

When touring Greece and Turkey, it is necessary to sort out the overlay of cultures and religions that have washed across the area with the waves of history. Often the same ancient ruins or building may have been used in turn as Greek or Roman pagan temple, a meeting place for early Christians, and a Moslem mosque

The marvelous architecture of the classical Greek period has undergone the ravages of nature, fire, earthquakes destruction of countless wars, real of early Christians in destroying reminders of pagan religions, and "art lovers" who hauled away the choicest works of art to display in those who would follow Paul's itinerary, while he had to travel on foot, donkey or small boat. Even rushing from place to place over modern highways, it is almost impossible to squeeze it all into a 10-day or two week tour.

One of the most outstanding is St. emetrius, which is built over catacombs used by the early church and was erected on the site of Demetrius' martyrdom during a period of persecution in 303 A.D.

Along the roadways of Greece one sees many small shrines ranging from simple to elaborate. These have been erected where an accident has happened or by a grateful motorist who escaped a fatal crash.

Crossing over into Turkey, one may visit the cities where Paul founded the Asia Minor churches. In Pergamum (new Bergama) were the First Century Basilica, where St. John wrote his letters. There are Thyratira, Smyrna, Sardes, Philadelphia, and of course Ephesus with its white marble streets and Basilica of St. John containing the tomb of the

Oppressive Law

County Commissioner Greg Drummond has branded "oppressive" a section of the county building code, but failed in his attempt to have the section changed or homeowners a least advised of its implications.

Drummond said the code permits an individual homeowners to construct a house, but bans a neighbor or a son from assisting . Quoting from the code that states, "he shall do all the work himself except he may hire one unskilled laborer," Drummond insisted a father who allows his son to help him would be guilty of a misdeameanor. "The state attorney agrees with me," Drummond Marsee disagreed with Drummond's and state attorney's interpretation, insisting sections of the ordinance relate to one another and cannot be interpreted apart.

Zoning Director J. B. Williams said his department has not been enforcing the section Commission Chairman Sid Vihlen said the board has no intention of enforcing it Drummond's move to have

On presidentia check-bouncing

The U.S. Constitution itself, plus a long series of Supreme Court decisions, seems to point unmistakably to the notion that the checks and balances among the three branches of President Nixon is acting, however, af if the power of Congress to impeach him were the only valid and necessary check upon him in the conduct of his office. Guided by his lawyers in the crucial struggle over the release of his tapes relating to the Watergate case, his basic argument appears to be that he is immune to the commands of the third branch, the court system.

Supreme Court by making new appointments, though these, of course, are subject to Senate confirmation and this now and then modifies their influence.

It is also highly significant that a president almost wholly commands the appointive power affecting the federal court system at lower levels. This gives him a strong counter-weight, despite the fact that some visible limits exist. Judges are removable for varying kinds of missenduct and these.

But the U.S. Court of Appeals already has told him, in supporting U.S. District Judge John Sirica's order to the president to turn over the tapes for judicial study. That he has no Clearly the cycle of interactive checks and balances would such immunity. The appeals court accepted Sirica's view be incomplete if the Presidency were to be exempt from that there are ample legal precedents indicating that a judicial constraint. Nothing in the historical record suggests President may be subject to court restraint as well as that it is. legislative censure and removal by impeachment. In that court's words, "he is not above the law's commands."

To lay political analysts as well as many lawyers, the precedents indicating a double check upon the Presidency at the peak of the executive branch are viewed as compelling.

Inatit is.

Mr. Nixon's legal arguments in the Watergate tape issue thus have been twice rejected. Furthermore, his and his aides' behavior in the out-of-court phases of discharged Special Prosecutor Archibald Cox's watergate inquiry offers potent evidence of the dangers of presumed immunity.

Widow's computer dates leave her still lonely

By Abigail Van Buren

DEAP ABBY: If you use my letter, please don't use my name. I already feel like a first class fool. I am a 58year-old widow who signed up with a computer dating service four months ago.

I was interviewed in person and said I liked classical music and theater, and only wanted a presentable escort. I paid them $398, and they guaranteed me two dates a month with a man supposedly selected by computer whose interests would match mine.

None of the characters they came up with were even presentable. All impressed me as men who were looking for a meal ticket. Some were insulting.

After four months without one suitable date, I asked this company for a $200 refund. They turned me down. I saw my lawyer, who said I was an idiot for having gone for a deal like this in the first place.

I could sue them, but I don't want to publicize my foolishness I ask you, are all these mating and dating services just out to take people? And where does a respectable woman go to meet a decent man? BEEN HAD

DEAR BEEN: I've had both bad and good reports on computer dating and mating services. [Mostly bad, which is not surprising since people write to me about their bad breaks-not their good.] I agree with your lawyer. Respectable women meet decent men thru mutual friends, or in decent places like volunteer organizations, church groups, and adult education classes.

DEAR ABBY: I am 17 years old and am still a virgin. This guy I'll call Randy asked me to go all the way with him. I told him I was saving myself for marriage, and he said I was foolish because no guy wents a virgin anymore.

Randy signed up for the Navy for four years and he is leaving soon. Do you think a girl should get that serious with a guy before he goes into the Navy? He probably just wants somebody to write to, but I am afraid to get involved with him knowing he'll be tied up with the Navy for so

Please tell me what to do as I am all mixed up. IN DOUBT DEAR IN DOUBT: Slow up, young tady, or you will be in TROUBLE. Plenty of guys want their brides to be virgins so don't let Randy sell you a bill of goods. He sounds like an immature, irresponsible kid you would do well to

POLLY'S POINTERS

Military strict

By POLLY CRAMER

DEAR POLLY - My Pet Peeve concerns the civilian relatives and friends of those of us with military privileges who so often think we should shop for them at the PX or commissary because we can "get it cheaper." They do not seem to realize or care that these hard-earned privileges, including the "free" medical services for our families, can be revoked if one is caught purchasing things, other than bonafide gifts, for others. We hate to refuse. Often they become angry. I suppose my Pet Peeve is their unjudified anger and refusal to understand how much we stand to lose — NINA

DEAR POLLY - I am answering Mrs. D.R.A. who has some chips in her bathroom sink. Several years ago I grew dissatisfied with the white basin in a bathroom where the tub and toilet were a creamy pink. Since there was maroon tile on the counter I painted the sink with maroon epoxy paint. I was very careful to follow instructions for cleaning and application that came with the paint so it has worn well and the color pleases me. — MRS K.E.C.

DEAR POLLY - I want to pass on a handy Pointer of mine to other readers who may be getting out their electric blankets. We had not convenient place to put the blanket controls. We bought a soap dish of the type that hangs over hs side of a tub. The wires were bent to fit over the side rail on the bed and the controls put in the soap dish. The bedcovers and spread hide this during the day. - MRS. E.D. DEAR POLLY - Recently I came home from the hospital with a lovely baby girl and soon realized that night feedings would be a chore since our bedrooms are all upstairs. I decided to use a styrofoam ice bucket we had. I put a tray of ice cubes in it, a bit of water to help melt the ice and keep the bottles of milk cold. We pack this just before going up to bed and along with it goes the bottle warmer and pacifier. We are in business for the night without having to go downstairs. Baby is fed right in our bedroom. — ANDREA.

correct margin of victory for the Lyman battle hosted by Sanford on Lyman's field. Lee Geiger seems to be causing some trouble lately striving for the top spot. With unparalled luck the Philly native picked Rockledge to upend the Pats by 20 points - he only missed the margin by two points. Lee is coming along well - considering the expert guidance available. John "Choo Choo" Cherwa, better known as day train, is chuggin up from the rear with a 31-11 mark for third place behind second ranked Geiger at 32-10. The poor boy appears headed back down however due to this week's ineptness. Last, but not least, is our peerless leader - who I really should not mention because I have heard from an unusually reliable sourse that I am covering the classic clash between Chickapaw Flats and Greasy Pebble held annually in the sand dunes near the metropolis of Pahokee. J winds up with a 29-13 ledger accompanying a look of Chagrin — in light of the fact he is five games off the pace. Enough of this rear view mirror though - on with this week.

NEW SCHOOL SITE

SITE OF the Sabal Point Elementary School on Wekiva Springs Road in Sweetwater Oaks was visited Friday by Robert Hughes, principal and a group of teachers of the new school. Students and teachers are currently on the afternoon session at Forest City Elementary. The school is expected to be completed in August and students should be in the school by next September. Many trees are being left on the site to surround the school.
