Gas price update

After our press deadline yesterday, gas prices at some local service stations began to inch upward again, contradicting our story. Prices at the 7-Eleven on U.S. Highway 17-92 and County Road 427, which had been under $1, rose again to $1.02 per gallon of regular unleaded gas.

Unemployed rate lowers

TALLAHASSEE — The Florida unemployment rate in December dropped to 6.8 percent, its lowest level in a year, state economists said today.

The December figure is down from the 7.5 percent rate in November and is the lowest since a 6.3 percent rate in January 1991.

It's also the first time since December 1990 Florida's unemployment rate has been lower than that of the nation as a whole, said economist Rebecca Rust of the state Department of Labor and Employment Security.

The national December jobless rate released today was 7.3 percent.

Ms. Rust said the unemployment figure is another indication that Florida is gradually pulling out of its recession.

"All of our economic indicators are showing improvements," she said. "For three months in a row, we have seen some sustained gain. The economy has begun to recover."

The 6.8 percent rate translates into 449,000 unemployed people who could work, down from 488,000 in November.

Hot line number announced

LAKE MARY — City Manager John Litton announced the establishment of a hot-line complaint number for the city of Lake Mary. The number is 324-3058.

The hot-line was suggested by Mayor Lowry Rockett, during his successful political campaign. He wanted a phone specifically dedicated to receiving complaints, suggestions or comments from residents and business owners within the city.

Calls received will be noted in a written report, and forwarded to Litton or necessary department heads for consideration and/or action. "We would have Mr. Litton supply the members of the commission with a monthly list of the calls and whatever action was taken," Rockett had commented when he announced the move during a December meeting.

The phone number and an explanation of the type of calls wanted, will be sent to all residents and businesses in next month's water bills, as well as published in the city news letter.

Teacher found guilty

Jury: Former Sanford dance instructor molested boy

By GEORGE DUNCAN
Herald Staff Writer

SANFORD — A former instructor at a Sanford dance school was found guilty Thursday by a Seminole County jury of lewd and lascivious assault on a child and battery.

Prosecutors claimed Manuel "Jerry" Alicea had committed the assault on an 11-year-old boy who was in one of his classes at the School of Dance Arts.

The jury took approximately four-and-a-half-hours to arrive at the verdict. Judge O. H. Eaton ordered a pre-sentence investigation before he sentences Alicea.

Alicea now faces similar charges in Volusia, Pasco and Orange County, according to Assistant State Attorney Michelle Heller.

Both Heller and Defense Attorney Claude Van Hook acknowledged that Alicea had become a father figure to both the victim and his older brother, who also was a student at the studio.

At one time Alicea was well-liked by the boys' mother who often invited him over for dinner.

Prison for youth pastor convicted of molesting girl

By GEORGE DUNCAN
Herald Staff Writer

SANFORD — George Wayne Ciyatt, the youth pastor convicted in November of molesting an Altamonte Springs teen-ager, was sentenced to 27 years in prison Thursday by Judge Alan Dickey.

The sentence was applauded by Assistant State Attorney Stewart Stone, who had prosecuted Ciyatt.

"It was a good sentence, a proper sentence. It was the longest Judge Dickey could have given and should have given," said Stone.

Ciyatt deserved the 27 years, the assistant state attorney said.

The victim was a member of Ciyatt's congregation when the incident occurred. She and another member of a church youth group stayed at Ciyatt's home overnight in preparation for a candy sale the next day. Ciyatt molested her during the night, she testified.

Ciyatt denied the charges, saying the woman had made the story up.

However, Stone produced a second woman who told jurors that Ciyatt had molested her when she was a member of a Holly Hills church where Ciyatt had previously worked. She told jurors she had not gone to police because church officials persuaded her not to.

Ciyatt's defense attorney had tried to get the second woman barred from testifying but his motion was overruled by Judge Dickey.

The first trial ended in a mistrial but the second in November produced the guilty verdict. Jurors were out only about four hours before bringing in the guilty verdict.

Parade plans disappointing

SANFORD — The Rev. Harry Rucker said that if the state and the Sanford Martin Luther King Celebration steering committee had approached him before all his plans were made, he would have gladly combined his parade with the state's.

While the state will have a parade on Saturday, Jan. 16, which starts at city hall, snakes through downtown and ends at the Sanford Civic Center, Rucker has organized his traditional parade for Monday, Jan. 18.

Rucker said the parade that he is organizing, which he has done annually for many years, will begin in the black community and move toward city hall before culminating in a rally at Ft. Mellon Park.

"Civil rights marches always started in the black community and moved towards city hall," Rucker said.

He said that he was disappointed that the local

Budget needs trimming
State proposing $300 million in cuts before new taxes

By GUYT ANDERSON
Associated Press

TALLAHASSEE - Before they consider any new taxes, House Democrats want to slice away $300 million in spending - nearly $100 million more than the cuts recommended by Gov. Lawton Chiles.

"We can no longer have government as usual," he said. "There are a few sacred cows - not many."

The governor's proposed $34.9 billion budget for fiscal 1983-84 includes $302.4 million in cuts. Chiles would eliminate 998 state jobs and several programs, such as a $9.8 million state meat inspection program and $6 million in Department of Natural Resources operating costs.

Chiles' Budget Director, David Coburn, who outlined the spending plan Thursday before two House committees, said it won't be easy to slash any more.

"Good luck," he said of the $300 million proposal. The difficulty Chiles faces in gaining support for his tax proposal was illustrated by the kinds of questions Coburn fielded. Lawmakers repeatedly asked why certain exemptions were targeted for elimination and detailed problems their demise could cause.

Rep. Fred Lippman, a staunch supporter of Chiles' past tax proposals, said lawmakers should look at the big picture. "There are needs in this state," said the Hollywood Democrat. "More bickering over these single issues is not going to answer the people's problems."

President's son's home burglarized

MIAMI - The home of Jeb Bush, son of President Bush, was burglarized over the Christmas holiday while the family was vacationing in Camp David, Md.

The intruder, who broke in Dec. 23 through a rear bedroom window, stole a $25,000 diamond necklace belonging to Jeb Bush's wife, Columba, and a $2,000 Baume & Mercier gold watch. The Miami Herald reported Thursday.

"I've been overconfident all of these years," said Columba Bush, adding that she and her husband didn't set their burglar alarm before they left town. "I never thought this would happen. I love to trust people."

The Bushes left Miami Dec. 18 for a quick trip to Mexico, Columba Bush's native country. Two days later they flew north to spend Christmas with the president and Mrs. Bush at Camp David.

Jeb Bush's housekeeper, Margarita Lozano, discovered the break-in when she arrived at the house the morning after the burglary. She had checked the house the day before at 1 p.m. and all was well, she said.

Rancher pleads no contest to charges

PENSACOLA - A 65-year-old rancher has pleaded no contest to charges he sexually abused four girls 11- to 14-years-old while they were learning to ride horses at his ranch outside Pensacola.

Sidney O. Farish Sr. entered the plea Wednesday to seven counts of lewd and lascivious conduct as part of an agreement with prosecutors that calls for a 12-year prison sentence. Circuit Judge John Parham set sentencing for Feb. 3.

Farish had faced a possible life term without parole for 25 years for sexual battery on a child under 12, but that charge was reduced because of questions about the age of the girl at the time of the alleged act.

Blown the cause 3 deaths

GIBSONTON - Three people died and four were hurt when a tire blew, causing a chain-reaction accident on Interstate 75 south of Tampa, the Florida Highway Patrol said.

A accident in one lane caused a line of cars on the left front of a Chevrolet Blazer, last control and reversed into a Ford Taurus in the next lane. The driver of the Blazer overturned the car and was killed. The driver of the Taurus was killed instantly. Two boys were killed instantly. Two boys were killed instantly.

Deborah Robinson, 24, of Wesleyport, Fla., driver of the Taurus, was killed instantly. Two boys were killed instantly. Two boys were killed instantly.

Also killed were the occupants of the Blazer, Timothy A. Thompson, 21, and James Ray Short Jr., 21, both of Silverwater, Fla. Robinson said they were thrown from the Blazer. Thompson was not wearing a seat belt, and troopers were unable to tell if Short had worn one.

The driver of one of the southbound trucks, Norman Schenover, 63, of Santa, was treated and released from Tampa General Hospital's emergency room, a spokeswoman said.

A fourth driver, Don Shelton, 60, of Tampa, said he did not recall what happened to Farish but he had been hit. His company truck had a 10-foot red overhang from the impact with the Blazer.

Tallahassee - America's best-known college head leads Florida A&M University's incoming 100 got an invitation to perform in President-elect Bill Clinton's inaugural parade. But it must raise $250,000 to make the trip to Washington, D.C., for the parade on Jan. 20.

Under the direction of William Foster, the band has performed in the Super Bowl, two national television conventions and the Olympics. It was the 1985 Super Bowl band to lead the nation's top marching band. It was the only American band invited to help the French celebrate their Bicentennial.

The band is known for its better conduct during the Bicentennial of the state of 180 steps per minute.

Charles King, assistant band director, said band members will hold rehearsal sessions at the three Tallahassee hotels on Jan. 15 to raise money. They are also seeking money from fans who have seen the band perform at halftime shows, at television and in parades all over the globe.

"We are getting some contributions, but we still need a whole lot," King said. "We are trying to think as creatively as we can as if we will raise the money. We start rehearsal on Monday."

Donations may be sent to FAMU Foundation, Department of Bands, P.O. Box 485, Tallahassee, Fla. 32307, or call 904-299-3234.

Woman slain after filing a complaint

By Associated Press

ORLANDO - Sharon Henderson was apparently so tormented by a co-worker's telephone calls and unwelcome advances that she filed a complaint under Florida's anti-stalking law.

But nine days later, on Thursday, the 19-year-old Kissimmee motel clerk lay dead in the parking lot of Valencia Community College's Ocoola campus.

Her suspected killer was the sister she had feared, 28-year-old James F. Bead.

Deputies found Bead's body not far away. They said he apparently shot himself to death while sitting in his car.

The killing was the first involving a stalking victim since the law took effect July 1, 1982, according to the Florida Department of Law Enforcement.

The law, called the strongest in the nation, is designed to give police a tool to discourage and punish stalkers.

Ray Marky, a prosecutor in Tallahassee who helped to draft the stalking law, believes Henderson could have been killed even if Bead had been arrested.

"To suggest that every time a stalking leads to a homicide or an assault ... is being somewhat naive," Marky said. "It's like any other law. The mere existence of the law is not going to deter everybody."

Henderson filed her stalking complaint on Dec. 29 when she reported that Bead, a co-worker at the Famous Host Inn, was obsessed with wanting to date her and had threatened suicide over her repeated rejections, according to sheriff's records.

Deputy Lisa Bowen, who took Henderson's stalking complaint, was on patrol Thursday morning when she heard an alert about the killing over the sheriff's radio.

"When I heard it go out I had a sinking feeling it might be my case," Bowen told The Orlando Sentinel for a story in today's edition. "It's not a good feeling ... I wish I could have done more, but there was nothing more I could do. I did everything I was allowed to do."

First time in 60 years, whooping cranes return

By Associated Press

TALLAHASSEE - The whooping crane, a symbol of nature, to save the world's remaining population of cranes, has returned to Florida for the first time in 60 years.

Of the tall, elegant birds, still young enough to wear their rusty brown baby down, several were banded this week. They are a special subspecies, one in which biologists hope will be the hub of a permanent colony.

Only 267 of the cranes exist in the world. The new colony, in Three Lakes Wildlife Management Area, will be only the second wild flock of the endangered bird and its success in a bay in the crane's survival, said John Taylor, director of the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service.

"This colony is the fulfillment of a dream," Taylor said. "I see this as a historic landmark in the nation's effort to protect rare, endangered species. A whooping crane is a symbol of the wildlife legacy of this country."

Whooping cranes were once abundant along the Atlantic seaboard, but their population plummeted. They were believed to be only 14 to 16 of the birds left in 1941.

The birds were native in Florida, but at the turn of the century fell victim to hunters and shrinking habitat. The last confirmed sighting of a wild crane in the state was in the late 1920s, said Jim Lewis, crane coordinator for Fish and Wildlife.

The new Florida colony, 40 miles north of Lake Okechobee, will become the first non-migrating flock, Lewis said.

Non-migrating cranes should mate more often and at an earlier age than their wild cousins now flying annually between Texas and Canada, he said.

Since each mating pair produces an average of one surviving chick each year, building up these numbers are critical.

Man charged with attempted murder

A Sanford man was charged with attempted murder after witnesses report he drove his truck over one person and attempted to run over the same person a second time.

Lonnie Paul Griffin, 23, 2403 Stevens Ave., Sanford, was also charged with reckless driving, criminal mischief, use of a vehicle while committing a felony, assault with a motor vehicle and driving with a suspended license. Witnesses reported to Sanford police Griffin backed his pickup truck over a man and attempted to drive over him a second time near 10th Street and Pecan Avenue shortly before 4 a.m. Wednesday. Witnesses reported Griffin then drove through several yards while chasing another man in his vehicle, causing a "large amount" of property damage before hitting another vehicle.

Police report seeing Griffin driving at a high rate of speed on Ninth Street.

Woman reports being choked, robbed

Three people, including a 16-year-old girl, were arrested by Longwood police Tuesday night after a woman reported she was choked and robbed of $100.

The woman reported she was riding with the other three individuals near a grocery store parking lot on U.S. Highway 17-92 when the passenger beside her began to choke her and demanded $100. The woman reported the passenger took the money, $35 in food stamps and a pager before pushing her from the car.

Charged with robbery was Kevin D. Hardy, 23, Orlando. Chandra K. Beckford, 20, 430 Countrywood Circle, Lake Mary, was charged with being a principle in crime and possession of marijuana. A 16-year-old girl in the car was taken to the Seminole County Juvenile Detention Center.

A man said he was punched and bitten by two men in the area of 10th Street and Mulberry Avenue, Sanford, at 10 p.m. Wednesday.

State Supreme Court orders resentencing

By BILL BRIDGEMAN
Associated Press Writer

TALLAHASSEE — The state Supreme Court set aside two death sentences imposed on Leaverty Robertson in the 1988 robbery and murder of a couple parked along a Miami causeway and ordered him sentenced again.

The court upheld Robertson's convictions in the Nov. 6, 1988, slayings of Frank Najarro and Leticia Pagnada.

"I think when the trial court reweighs the circumstances he will impose two life sentences," attorney Robin Greene, who represented Robertson, said after Thursday's ruling.

Circuit Judge Ralph Person originally imposed two death penalties and two consecutive life sentences on Robertson.

The Supreme Court said prosecutors didn't adequately prove some of the aggravating circumstances Person cited in imposing the death sentences.

Najarro and Pagnada had been in a car parked on an access road beside Miami's Julia Tuttle Causeway as Robertson and three others fished nearby, court records said.

While they fished, Robertson took a semiautomatic .23-caliber rifle from the car trunk and the four took turns shooting at objects in the water. Two of the group left after Robertson suggested robbing the couple in the car.

With his girlfriend's 13-year-old brother, Anthony Williams, in the car, Robertson parked next to the couple's vehicle, took the rifle and walked toward it.

Williams said he heard Robertson demand money from the driver, heard shots, saw the driver slump, saw a woman emerge from the passenger side of the car, and heard Robertson demand, "Give me the rings."

He said he heard the woman scream that she didn't have any money, heard more shots, and saw the woman fall.

Sanford cops' drug sting: Several busted

By J. MARK SANFELD
Herald Staff Writer

SANFORD — Sanford Police Special Investigations Unit agents arrested several individuals in a street-level cocaine sales sting Wednesday.

Police report the individuals sold small quantities of cocaine to confidential informants before their arrest. Each person was taken to the Seminole County jail. Arrested were:

Levory Hickman, 26, 1107 E. Ninth St., Sanford, was arrested at about 9:15 p.m. in the vicinity of 10th Street and Orange Avenue. Hickman was charged with sale and delivery of cocaine.

Near Ninth Street and Orange Avenue, Columbus Demps, 32, 904 E. 10th St., Sanford, was arrested at about 9:15 p.m. Demps was charged with sale and delivery of cocaine and resisting arrest.

Bernard Hall, 27, 1011 W. 12th St., Sanford, was arrested at about 10:30 p.m. in the vicinity of 11th Street and Avocado Avenue. Hall was charged with sale and delivery of cocaine and marijuana possession.

Near 12th Street and Pecan Avenue, John Thomas White, 29, 24 Castle Brewer Court, Sanford, was arrested shortly before 8 p.m. White was charged with sale and delivery of cocaine. Also charged was Veronica Ann Jackson, 25, 2000 Lake Mary Boulevard, Sanford. Jackson was charged with sale and delivery of cocaine and conspiracy. Police report Jackson arranged the alleged deal.

Vernon Raynard Sims, 26, 503 E. Seventh St., was arrested at about 8:30 p.m. near Seventh Street and Cypress Avenue. Sims was charged with sale of a substance in lieu of illegal drugs.

In another drug-related arrest, a City-County Investigative Bureau agent reported buying marijuana from Timothy John Hines, 23, with a listed address of 20th Street, Sanford, at 5 p.m. on 20th Street. Hines was charged with sale and delivery of marijuana.

Conviction in insurance fraud switch

By MARY POSTER
Associated Press Writer

PEARL RIVER, La. — When James McEivren fell off a 30-foot cliff while vacationing in 1990, his friends Benny and Tammy Milligan helped pull his limp, broken body out of the chasm and race him by car to a hospital.

And then they did one more thing they regarded as an act of compassion — something the government said was fraud, pure and simple.

Milligan switched identities with McEivren at the hospital to enable him to use the couple's insurance benefits. McEivren, who worked for a painting contractor, had no medical insurance.

Ten months later, in May 1991, all three were convicted by a federal jury in Tennessee of fraud and conspiracy to defraud the U.S. government.

Mrs. Milligan, 28, is serving four months under house arrest. Her 31-year-old husband, who was sentenced to nine months behind bars, and McEivren, 32, who got a seven-month term, were to report to prison today.

"They treated us like we murdered somebody instead of saving somebody's life," Mrs. Milligan said Thursday in a telephone interview.

Families USA, a Washington advocacy group, planned a demonstration outside the Milligans' home in Pearl River, 30 miles northeast of New Orleans, as Milligan left for the Federal Medical Center in Carville, near Baton Rouge.

"To me, Benny and Tammy are heroes, not criminals," said Ron Pollack, executive director of Families USA. "The real crime is a health care system that forces good people like Benny and Tammy into this kind of moral dilemma. They had to choose between James' life and their own future."

Ernie Williams, the U.S. attorney in Nashville, rejected claims that the three were unfairly punished. "The government of the United States viewed this as health care fraud," he said.

The Milligans and McEivren were vacationing together in Tennessee when McEivren fell along the Natchez Trace. With another couple, the Milligans scrambled down to his aid.

"We thought he was dying," Mrs. Milligan said. "He had no pulse, his face was gray and his lips were blue. His head was cracked open."

On the way to the hospital, the other couple said, they doubted McEivren would be admitted because he had no insurance. "We were scared and Benny just switched IDs so James could use his insurance," Mrs. Milligan said.

Milligan had insurance through his employer, the aerospace contractor Martin Marietta Corp.

"We shouldn't have done it," said McEivren, who fractured his back in 10 places. He underwent nine hours of surgery during which doctors put four screws, four hooks and three rods in his back and fused some bones.

He was in a full-body cast for three months and missed another three months of work.

A stamp of approval for U.S. Postal Service

Dead and gone for 15 years (though some would swear it isn't so), The King can still whip a crowd to frenzy, and without so much as a quiver of the hips. He's doing it now with just his face — on a stamp.

Like a box office stormed by ticket-hungry fans, the U.S. Postal Service has been flooded with advance orders for the commemorative Elvis Presley stamp, scheduled to appear today, the 58th anniversary of the rock legend's birth.

One enthusiast has parted with a staggering $34,900 for 120,000 of the 29-cent stamps.

Sanford and Lake Mary post office employees report tremendous interest from callers whom they expect will show up and buy big today.

The debt-ridden postal service stands to gain a lot from this mania — as much as $20 million from sales of Elvis paraphernalia that will accompany the three-month stamp offering. And while it may be less than desirable to watch our post offices temporarily transformed into curio shops, the hard fact is they can use the money.

The service must now decide whether to meet demand by issuing more than the 300 million stamps initially planned. Given that it expects to generate $13 million through Elvis stamp retention (that is, stamps bought but never used) in the first printing, it would seem like a smart move to print more. Besides it's the least the post office could do for a guy who could turn a song about mail — "Return to Sender" — into a classic.

Do we have to take it?

The last few weeks you tried to be a politician and now you are trying to be a dictator. In your editorial last Monday you informed the people of Timucuan, Lake Mary and Sanford that the noise from the large jets had to be accepted, just like the cities near paper mills had to accept uncomfortable odors. You are just like many other people — as long as the noise doesn't go over your house and upset your household, it's fine and to hell with everybody else. You sure love our city and all the people who have supported your paper for years and years!

For your information, airlines have been told to tone down plane noise and to update or stop using older, noisier planes. Gary Taylor of the Sentinel staff wrote an article Sept. 10, 1992 stating that the Sanford Airport Authority will use a federal grant of more than $300,000 to fund a noise study and update a master plan for the Central Florida Regional Airport. Now that is what I think we would all call progress.

For newcomers who may not know about the Naval Air Station, I would like for them to know it was a nightmare. I am putting it mildly when I say it was like living in a war zone. Its noise was so loud it cracked many of the windows in homes and we were forced to get rid of all our pets because they couldn't survive. Editor, how in the world could you honestly put in your paper that during that time there were very few complaints? Where are you getting your statistics? There were millions of complaints — what a disaster! Just as it is now, large residential developments were near and along the landing and take-off strips.

Actually, I look back and wonder how we survived. I have often wondered who made the grave mistake of putting an airport right in the middle of a residential section (a historical residential section). By law, an airport should be at least five miles from a residential section.

Speaking of noise, the noise from the aircraft will affect more residences on the north-south runway than on the east-west runway because as I have said, the airport is directly in the middle of a neighborhood and the runway is next to a large residential section. Whereas the east-west runway is farther away and, of course, much longer. I want it clearly understood that all the homes are historical — none are new.

It is refreshing to read in some of the papers that cities are passing ordinances to make their cities quieter. Gosh! It's so nice to know that some commissioners really care.

Reports have proven that the skybus doesn't spell progress for Sanford. It may receive a small share from car rentals. However, it is some progress for the airport. The director and the authority board of the airport have never screamed at us to accept the noise. I have always found them very cooperative and willing to make adjustments.

Editor, please, politics and dictatorship are not your cup of tea — please cool it!

P.S. We are prisoners in our cars. We are prisoners in our homes and everything that comes into this town seems to be something destructive such as helicopter schools, rehabilitation facilities, and on and on — why is Sanford a "scapegoat" for everything no one else wants?

Our theaters are gone — empty stores everywhere and hundreds of homes for sale. Let's face reality, not fantasy — plenty of beautification and not a sprig of it bringing in a dime.

CHUCK STONE

Bill Clinton's seconds and thirds

Compared to Odysseus, Bill Clinton had it easy. The legendary Greek itinerant lost six men trying to navigate his ship between two competing shoals controlled by Scylla and Charybdis.

When Clinton tried to navigate his presidential-elect Cabinet between a rock (white males) and a hard place (women and minorities), he didn't lose any men. But conservative white males have forcefully berated his judgment.

And what was his egregious wrongdoing? Well, for the first time since America's founding in 1789, Clinton appointed a Cabinet that was not dominated by white males. Of his 15 Cabinet appointments, in fact, only six were white males.

Columnists Evans and Novak moaned that the only reason distinguished foreign-affairs scholar, educator and business executive Dr. Clifton R. Wharton Jr. was appointed deputy secretary of state was skin color.

That columnist of Olympian erudition, George F. Will, was chagrined that Clinton had succumbed to what he derisively condemned as "quota games and math games."

But even sophisticated racism is no longer fashionable. To avoid that ignominious label, Will concocted a brilliant pre-emptive strike by trotting out his favorite black authority on black people, Shelby Steele.

The scholarly Steele serves a noble purpose for conservative white males. By mercilessly flailing away at what Steele calls black America's "victimization" syndrome, he gives right-wing antediluvians a socially respectable rationale for opposing black America's unfinished fight for complete civil rights.

"We're not racists," they insist with peacock serenity. "We're only condemning black people with the logic developed by Shelby Steele, and he is black."

Steele has come up with a tantalizingly brilliant, but ultimately superficial, argument for opposing equal rights for women and ethnic minorities.

Steele calls it "the new sovereignty." These groups have not earned a meritocratic entitlement to positions of power. He contends that the government conferred these positions on them ex cathedra.

But that's American democracy — our entire history is a history of "new sovereignties." Beginning with the colonialists' separation from Great Britain, successive presidents and Congresses conferred several "new sovereignties" — emancipating slaves, granting women's suffrage, protecting labor unions' right to organize, giving special considerations for war veterans and guaranteeing civil and political rights for minorities.

In 1993, for the first time, a president doesn't feel he needs a 204-year-old white male "sovereignty" to hold his Cabinet together. And that's what really threatens the George Will, the Arthur Schlesinger, the Pat Buchanans and the New Republic magazine crowd — a loss of their MFWMs (most favored white male status).

Two hundred and five years after the first president, George Washington, appointed his Cabinet, the 42nd president, Bill Clinton, has finally awarded "seconds and thirds."

Compared to Odysseus, Bill Clinton had it easy.

Rookie senator's lessons in the club

WASHINGTON — When Brock Adams, D-Wash., cast his final vote as a U.S. Senator last October, the Democrat was dizzy with the kind of emotion and nostalgia a retiring baseball player might feel during his last at-bat in the big leagues. Adams' career as a consummate political player was coming to an end.

There were no standing ovations — just a spontaneous tribute from a rookie Sen. Paul Wellstone, D-Minn., who shared an elevator with Adams as both men returned to their offices after the vote.

"Brock, it's been really great," Wellstone said. "Ever since the first day — the Persian Gulf War, fetal tissue research, the issues you've been out in front of, the things you've done, I just want you to know you've been a real inspiration to me. I really appreciate having served with you in the Senate."

As the elevator doors opened to Wellstone's floor, Adams returned the compliment in his own way: "Well, Paul, always remember this. The mightiest oak tree started out as a little nut that held its ground." It seemed to sum up Wellstone's tilting-against-windmills first two years in the Senate. Though it seemed at one point that Wellstone would never take root in the world's most exclusive club, he has seasoned and matured into a respected member of the upper chamber.

For a while it seemed Wellstone would be a one-term senator. His frothing-at-the-mouth style — he once referred to Sen. Jesse Helms, R-N.C., as someone "I despise" — won him few friends, and sent his poll numbers plummeting in Minnesota. Wellstone hit bottom after he used the Vietnam Memorial as a stage prop to condemn Operation Desert Storm. He's apologized for the stunt, but not for the stance. Wellstone now is "senatorial," and the political stuntman reputation is receding. In fact, Wellstone recently co-sponsored a trade bill with Helms.

"Wellstone used to be a wrestler," said one veteran Senate Democratic staffer. "I think a wrestler understands leverage and points. I think he realizes that a scrappy little wrestler his size was never going to wrestle this place and pin its shoulders down."

Wellstone himself uses wrestling as his prime political metaphor. "The wrestling background is great for the Senate," he said. "Getting ready for a debate and you're real nervous, it just reminds me of getting ready for a wrestling match. You tell yourself that you can do it. You just have to keep your confidence."

The new members of the U.S. Senate could learn from Wellstone's early wrestling matches with the Senate. It's a freshman orientation that might help them avoid the early pitfalls. In a recent interview with our associate Ed Henry, Wellstone pontificated on everything a new member should know, but might be afraid to ask.

"If you rock the boat, people are going to get angry at you," he told us. "The best example for me is that I didn't even realize how controversial it was to call for the roll call votes on matters of huge appropriations. ... But there's another code around here that's pretty interesting." Wellstone describes that code as hard work and sticking to your convictions, despite the heat, as a way of winning respect.

Wellstone recounts a conversation he had with Dianne Feinstein, who was elected last November to the Senate from California. Feinstein commented that she had been studying the Senate manual, complaining about its complexity and thickness. "I told her, 'That manual is your tool. Look at it in the positive.'"

The mightiest oak tree started out as a little nut that held its ground.

Rosty may be charged in scam

WASHINGTON — A death watch of sorts has begun on Capitol Hill. House leaders now believe that Illinois Democrat Dan Rostenkowski, powerful chairman of the Ways and Means Committee, will be indicted as part of the ongoing House Post Office investigation.

Rostenkowski will probably be charged with violating federal election laws by converting campaign funds to personal use to buy large blocks of postage stamps in his home district, and then exchanging them for cash at the House Post Office. Insiders also believe the transactions, if proven, could land Rostenkowski in hot water with the Internal Revenue Service.

Rostenkowski maintains his innocence. Apart from his guilt or innocence, the greater question is whether he will be forced to relinquish his tax-writing chairmanship. Who will take over, and what effect will that have on Bill Clinton's legislative package?

Under Democratic caucus rules, any committee chairman indicted on a felony carrying more than a potential two-year term is required to step aside in favor of the next-ranking member. That member becomes acting chairman "for the remainder of the session, or as long as the chairman remains under indictment." Upon conviction, the caucus would vote for a new chairman — not necessarily the next-ranking in seniority.

If Rostenkowski is indicted, it would almost surely be for crimes carrying a maximum of more than two years. In that case, the acting chairman would be Florida's Sam Gibbons. That could mean headaches for the new administration.

Gibbons is among Capitol Hill's most absolute advocates of free trade. Although the Ways and Means Committee does not directly get involved in trade matters, the president-elect has said he wants to pass certain tax measures protecting American workers by making it more difficult for U.S. companies to move jobs out of the country. Rostenkowski would champion such legislation; Gibbons would probably oppose it.

American rights advocates believe their cause on Capitol Hill was greatly helped by the 1992 elections.

When the 102nd Congress adjourned, Planned Parenthood Federation of America believed it had 186 House votes solidly in favor of the "Freedom of Choice Act" — the abortion rights bill intended to codify into law a woman's right to have an abortion.

According to Planned Parenthood President David Andrews, his side has picked up 27 more votes from incoming freshmen in the House with the largest bloc coming from the 24 new women elected to the House for the first time.

If the organization's count is correct, the Choice Act now can count on 213 votes — only five short of the majority needed for passage.

In the Republican caucus that organized the GOP side of the aisle for the upcoming 103rd Congress, ultra-conservative Republicans, led by Minority Whip Newt Gingrich of Georgia, staged a mini-coup that captured several leadership posts. This gives the far right effective control of the GOP leadership, and all but isolates House Minority Leader Bob Michel of Illinois, a moderate.

According to high-level GOP staffers, Gingrich's efforts in this year's GOP caucus are only the beginning of a major effort to take control of the House GOP. In two years, at the caucus to organize for the 104th Congress, he will challenge Michel for minority leader.

The march to minority leader will not be easy for Gingrich. While he was successful in backing conservative Texas Reps. Richard Arney and Tom DeLay for Republican Conference chairman and secretary respectively, Arney only won by a scant four votes. In addition, Gingrich was unsuccessful in an attempt to oust Rep. Bill Thomas as ranking Republican on the influential House Administration Committee.

GOP Capitol Hill insiders say they expect that, over the next two years, Gingrich will attempt to funnel hundreds of thousands of conservative dollars into the campaign coffers of incumbent Republicans to build up political IOU's he will then cash in for the race against Michel.

Speaking of campaign cash, the two weeks in December that Congress was in town organizing itself and the first two weeks of the new session are known among lobbyists as "debt-burner" season. In this period, newly elected members of Congress hold after-election fund-raisers to pay off debts and begin to build their re-election war chests.

At breakfasts, lunches, dinners and cocktail receptions, lobbyists and political action committees will give to candidates they might not have supported during their fledgling campaigns.

Many new members waited to throw their parties after committee assignments were announced. That way they would know which groups of lobbyists and interests to approach.

A death watch of sorts has begun on Capitol Hill.

Most Haitians end hunger strike

By Associated Press

MIAMI — There were conflicting reports about whether a hunger strike by detained Haitian refugees was over or had entered its ninth day today.

Officials said most of the protesters at the U.S. Immigration and Naturalization's Krome Detention Center west of Miami resumed eating. But advocates discounted that and one relative said male strikers were forced to eat.

"All of the men except for four ate the evening meal," said Wayne Joy, acting deputy director for the Immigration and Naturalization Service office. "We don't know about those four."

The Miami Herald reported today that most of the women who had refused food also ate Thursday evening.

That was news to the detainees' advocates.

"(The hunger strike) has not ended to my knowledge," said Rolando Dorancy, executive director of the Haitian Refugee Center.

But Kelli Dunham of Florida

Rural Legal Services, which has assisted the Haitians, told The Herald male strikers had confirmed their protest was over.

"They were really relieved to be eating. And they believe that people have listened to them," she said. "But they said they didn't want the outside world to forget them because they're still inside."

Johnnie McMillan, president of the Miami-Dade National Association for the Advancement of Colored People, went to Krome on Thursday.

"I had an opportunity to go today and talk to some of them and their convictions are very strong and the likelihood they would end that hunger strike is 1,000 to one," she said. "I don't know what kind of games INS is playing."

A relative of one of the detainees, who identified himself only as Lewis, told The Associated Press he received a call from a relative who said the male strikers were forced to eat.

"He told me they kicked them to go to eat and forced them to eat and say if they want to go (on with the hunger strike) they're going to put each people in a cell," he said. "I think it's a violation of people's rights."

Calls to Joy's office late Thursday were not returned, but earlier he denied any mishandling of the Haitian detainees.

"We don't condone such treatment," he said.

The Haitians, many of whom have been held for months, began their protest soon after 48 Cubans were paroled into the community within two days after their arrival in Miami aboard a commandeered aircraft.

Haitians have argued that they should receive the same consideration Cubans get under the 1996 Cuban Adjustment Act, which assumes that all fleeing the island are political refugees.

Haitians say they are escaping oppression at home that followed the September 1991 coup in which democratically elected President Jean-Bertrand Aristide was ousted. But the Bush administration says Haitians are economic refugees and all discovered on the high seas should be returned home immediately, without being given a chance to make a claim for political asylum.

As a candidate, President-elect Clinton said he would end such repatriation, but there were reports this week that he is considering extending it.

Florida's U.S. Senators, Bob Graham and Connie Mack, have called on the government to restore Aristide, by military force if need be.

Most of the 352 Haitians who arrived in Miami on a freighter Tuesday were farmed out to county jails around Florida as there wasn't room for them at Krome; 100 of them went to the Lake County Jail in Tavares, where INS is paying the county $82 a day to care for each. The Orlando Sentinel reported today.

Some of the refugees spoke of the political persecution in their homeland.

"If we go back, they are going to kill us," 37-year-old Saintil Jean Eric told the newspaper. "That's why we left."

Meanwhile, Cubans continue to come to South Florida. The Coast Guard reported Thursday it picked up 18 Cubans in a boat and on rafts in waters off Florida.

A sheet of the new Elvis stamps at Sanford's post office.

until the noon hour to purchase their stamps.

"We've been getting calls for months," said Gail Clements, secretary to postmaster Pat Brennan in Sanford. "People have been calling asking us to put stamps aside and to save them sheets of the stamps."

She noted, however, that the post office could not honor any of those requests.

"We'll be selling the stamps on a first come, first serve basis," she said.

In Lake Mary, postal employees reported that they have received hundreds of calls over the last few weeks from people who wanted to reserve their stamps as well.

"We can't do that," Richard Sherrill, postmaster in Lake

Mary said. "We have to sell them to people as they come in after the stamp goes on sale."

Frank Saults, an administrator at the Sanford post office, said the stamps arrived yesterday at the local facility and he could not even allow postal employees to purchase the stamps ahead of time.

"We have to be fair about it," he said.

The stamp is expected to be a big money-maker for the U.S. Postal Service. Locally, post offices expect that they will quickly sell out of their first allotments of the stamps, but they promise to get more in as soon as possible to keep up with the public demand.

"I'm sure this is going to be one of the most popular stamps we've ever handled," Sherrill said.

D.C., Georgia showed worst 1990 infant mortality rates

By MALCOLM MITTEN
AP Science Writer

NEW YORK — The District of Columbia and Georgia had the highest infant mortality in the nation in 1990, and Maine the lowest, a study says.

Maine's rate of 6.3 deaths per 1,000 live births was less than one-third that of the District of Columbia's 20.7, and half of Georgia's 12.6, according to the report from the March of Dimes Birth Defects Foundation.

Infant mortality refers to death within the first year of life.

The foundation calculated the rates "so that each state can look at it and address where they are, and deal with the problem in the same way that we're trying to do nationally," said foundation official Dr. Richard E. Johnston.

The foundation derived the state rates from new, final federal statistics for 1990, which showed the national infant mortality rate at 9.2 deaths per 1,000 live births.

In the state-by-state rates, "I think the disparity is remarkable and it probably points to something that's important that we need to dissect better," Johnston, the foundation's medical director and senior vice president for programs, said Thursday in a telephone interview.

Most of the 10 states with the highest mortality rates were in the Southeast. That is probably because of high numbers of poor people who have poor nutrition, a lot of substance abuse and little prenatal care, he said.

Carol Regan, director of the health division of the Children's Defense Fund, which also tracks state rates, said the foundation list of the 10 states with the highest rates was similar to what her organization had found for 1989.

Signs

remains undecided. The Lake Mary City Commission tabled it on first reading during last night's meeting.

Although the lengthy document had previously been approved by the Business Advisory Board with a unanimous vote, commission members last night suggested additional changes and clarifications.

Some alterations will be made to sections regarding political signs, grand opening signs and flags before bringing it to a vote.

In the exemption, section, the proposed code deals with the flying of flags. It would allow a maximum of one state, federal and local/county flag per parcel, each with a maximum of 50 square feet.

"Why limit the size for a business flying our nation's flag to only 50 square feet," asked

Commissioner A.R. "Doc" Jore.

City Planner Matt West responded. "When that was discussed, we determined that while displaying a flag is a sign of patriotism, some of those huge flags are nothing more than an advertising gimmick."

Political signs also came up for discussion. Commissioner Gary Brender was concerned over the section dealing with the requirement of a bond before putting up the signs.

In Business Advisory Board discussion of the proposal in October of last year, the recommended bond amount was reduced from $250 to $100. A candidate would post the bond when obtaining a political sign permit, and have the money returned at the end of the campaign, only if no sign code violations are registered.

"I'm still bothered with this," Brender said. "This may not be appropriate in situations when there is a hardship candidate. Would he or she still have to pay the bond in order to put up signs?"

"I don't think we should reduce the fees for anyone," said Mayor Lowry Rockett. "The city pays an employee to remove signs found to be in the right-of-way or otherwise posted improperly," he said, "and money we may receive in such cases helps offset these expenses."

Another question was raised regarding the length of time allowed for the display of grand opening or special event signs. As currently proposed, the ordinance would allow businesses to display the signs for a period of no more than 10 days, while non-profit organization signs could remain displayed for two weeks.

City Attorney Ned Julian suggested the difference was not proper. "This is not fair to both parties," he said. "I suggest the requirements for profit as well as non-profit special event sign limitations should be the same."

Rockett suggested Julian examine the entire sign code document, to insure that there were no improprieties contained in the wording or intent. Julian is to make any recommended changes to the commission by the next regular meeting.

Unless further problems are uncovered, the matter could be brought up for a first reading vote on Jan. 21.

Verdict

according to testimony.

However, the prosecution claimed Alicea used his position with the younger son to molest him on two occasions between September and December 30, 1991.

In his closing argument, Van Hook told the jury that "molestation" accounted for the charge against his client. The boy's testimony was vague in regard to details of the crime and there was no physical evidence of any crime, Van Hook argued.

Heller countered by saying that in such cases there is often little or no physical evidence.

The 11-year-old had no reason to lie, to go through months of depositions and questionings if he was not telling the truth, she said.

"Mr. Van Hook would have you believe we brought the charges because we need the work," Heller told jury.

Government officials did not get together simply to frame the defendant, she said.

Van Hook had introduced a Valentine's Day card from the youngster to the defendant and said it was proof that there was an on-going friendly relationship between the two. He implied that trouble between the two came only when Alicea rebuffed the romantic advances of the boy's mother.

Alicea had denied the charges when he testified and said he made clear to the boy's mother that he "did not want a wife and family."

Valerie Weld, co-owner of the dance studio, had no comment about the verdict.

"He was not really an instructor. He was a guest teacher passing through. I have no comment," she said.

Sanford Police spokesman Lt. Mike Rotundo said he recalled the complaint against Alicea but could not remember there being any other complaints filed here against him.

"It was some time ago," Rotundo said.

Judge Eaton came close to citing Van Hook with contempt after an exchange during the attorney's closing argument. Van Hook was reading from the victim's deposition when Heller objected. Eaton sustained the objection but Van Hook persisted in his argument.

The soft-spoken Eaton explained his ruling, adding "I am speaking the English language," as a warning.

When Van Hook again questioned the ruling, Eaton said, "If you argue with me anymore about this I will do something Claude Van Hook, that both you and I don't want me to do."

and state committee did not contact him when they began making their plans for a parade in Sanford. He said that he has been organizing a Sanford's Martin Luther King commemorative parade for many years.

He said that his parade "touches base with the common man" while the other parade is geared more toward "the intellectuals." He said that his parade is for all people who want to participate.

"We have done the parade for years," said Rucker. "I don't know why they didn't contact us."

He said that he only heard about the Sanford steering committee's plans for a parade about three weeks ago when he attended, as a member of the public, one of their meetings.

Rucker, who is pastor at First Shiloh Missionary Baptist Church, said that the lack of communication between the steering committee and the community shows a lack of unity in Sanford.

"I want to see us coming together this year," he said. "I want to see more unity in the Sanford community."

Support for theory that universe began with bang

By Associated Press

PHOENIX — Millions of temperature readings by a NASA satellite are giving strong support for the theory that the universe began some 15 billion years ago with a big bang.

Precise measurements by the Cosmic Background Explorer, or COBE, satellite of remnant energy left from the big bang are giving results that are exactly as the theory predicted. John C. Mather, a National Aeronautics and Space Administration astronomer, announced Thursday.

"This was the toughest test yet of the theory," Mather said at a news conference at a national meeting of the American Astronomical Society. "The big bang is still a winner."

First proposed in the 1920s, the big bang theory states that all matter in the universe was once compressed into an exceedingly small center that exploded, sending energy and particles outward in all directions. At the moment of the explosion, temperatures would have been trillions and trillions of degrees and have been cooling ever since.

If the theory is correct, astronomers expected temperatures just fractionally above absolute zero to be evenly distributed throughout the universe in an afterglow of the explosion.

Mather said a COBE instrument called the Far Infrared Absolute Spectrophotometer has now taken hundreds of millions of measurements across the full sky and has determined that the primordial temperatures are smoothly distributed. He said the uniform temperature left from the big bang is 2.726 degrees above absolute zero — or about minus 456.9 degrees F.

Because of the average thermal radiation is the same in all directions of the universe, Mather said, that shows it had to come from one source.

"The big bang is still the simplest explanation we have," he said.

Craig Hogan, a University of Washington astronomer, said the new research "is verifying the textbooks" by providing powerful evidence for the theory.

Hogan said the COBE results exactly match the theoretical curve of temperature energy decay that would be expected in the big bang theory.

Some COBE measurements were released in 1990, but Mather said those were preliminary results. The research announced Thursday is 30 times more precise and leaves little room for other theories, he said.

The new data measure temperature decay back to a point just one year after the big bang, Mather said. Beyond that, no measurements now are possible.

The big bang theory originated with the findings in 1929 by astronomer Edwin Hubble that all galaxies were moving away from each other at a constant rate, with those farthest away moving the fastest. This is exactly what would occur in an explosion.

Important support for the idea came in 1965 when Bell Laboratory scientists discovered cosmic background radiation, an unexplained source of energy that seemed to be distributed throughout the universe.

This background energy could not be measured precisely until the launch in 1989 of the COBE satellite.

Washington 'wakes up,' leads Seminole romp

By DEAN SMITH
Herald Sports Writer

SANFORD — The Lake Brantley girls' basketball team learned two important lessons Thursday night: there is no substitute for quickness and don't get upset Niki Washington.

Seminole's tenacious full-court defense forced 29 turnovers and collected 18 steals as Washington awoke from the doldrums to dominate a 26-point fourth quarter in the Tribe's 61-29 rout of the Patriots in a Seminole Athletic Conference contest at Bill Fleming Memorial Gymnasium.

The junior varsity game also went the Tribe's way by a score of 24-21.

"Most people probably thought I took Niki out in the second quarter because she got her second foul," said Seminole head coach John McNamara. "But I actually took her out because she was playing so badly. She just wasn't jumping."

"But after she got fouled late in the third quarter, she seemed to get mad. I don't know if she got pushed or if someone said something to her, but it woke her up and she just dominated the rest of the game." With Washington going to the bench with her third foul early in the third quarter, Lake Brantley cut a 25-13 halftime deficit to 26-20 with 2:18 left in the third stanza.

But the senior point guard re-entered the game and immediately took control as the home team scored 28 of the next 30 points, including 21 straight over the first 5:55 of the fourth quarter.

to take a 56-22 lead with 2:05 left in the game.

During the streak Washington, who has signed with the University of Houston, scored 17 points, grabbed six rebounds, blocked three shots, had four steals and three assists.

Late in the game, the Lake Brantley bench and some of the fans in attendance were wondering aloud why Seminole was still in the press.

"I heard the people yelling," said McNamara. "But I don't have another game until a week from next Wednesday and Belinda Morgan has just joined the team. I'm trying to give the team a chance to get here it is, January 7th, we've played 20 games and only have nine games left."

"Plus, with this team, games can change around so fast. A couple of turnovers and some three-point shots and they can be right back in the game. And with only eight girls dressed, you can only make so many substitutions. Who do you leave on the floor? Niki."

Sophomore shooting guard Trenishia Eason earned the Seminole attack until Washington took over and ended up the game's high scorer with 26. She also had 10 rebounds, four assists.

Walraven helps 'Noles register first home win

From Staff Reports

SANFORD — Jason Walraven, a second-team All-State selection in football as a placekicker, led Seminole High School to a 2-0 win over Flagler-Palm Coast in a 3A District 5 boys' soccer match Thursday at Seminole's Thomas E. Whigham Stadium.

Not only did Walraven have a foot in both of Seminole's goals, he anchored a defense that helped goalie Jon Williams post his first shutout of the season.

It was also the first win at home for Seminole (4-10) this season.

"The defense did a great job," said Seminole coach Carlos Merhino. "Jason, Brian Grimes, Daniel White, and Ben Brown played well in front of Jon."

"But it's the same old problem. We don't have an experienced person up front to put the ball in the net. We also appeared to be a little sluggish from playing back-to-back games."

While the Seminoles (who lost to Lyman Wednesday night) may have been a bit sluggish, they didn't take long to take the lead as Sam Earl took a pass from Walraven and scored just 1:48 into the game.

The other Tribe goal came with 8:04 left in the game when Jimmy Johnson corralled the rebound of a Walraven blast and knocked it home at 71:56.

Seminole outshot Flagler-Palm Coast 12-6 and had a 7-2 advantage in corner kicks, forcing the Flagler-Palm Coast goalie to make seven saves. Williams had to come up with five stops to post the shutout.

The Tribe will play defending Class 3A state champion Daytona Beach-Seabreeze Monday night at Whigham Stadium. The junior varsity will play at 5:15 p.m. with the varsity contest set for 7 p.m.

Greyhounds begin new streak

From Staff Reports

LONGWOOD — In their first game back after seeing their 46-game win streak snapped, the Lyman High School girls' soccer team picked up where it left off, blanking Seminole 3-0 Thursday night in a Seminole Athletic Conference match.

Lyman, which lost to Daytona Beach-Seabreeze 3-1 in overtime in the finals of the Burger King Classic on Dec. 22, improves to 11-1, 6-0 in the SAC. Seminole drops to 7-6-1, 1-5 in the conference.

"It was a good effort all the way around," said Lyman coach Gary Barnett. "We were a little short on the finishing end, but then we didn't work on that very much over the break. Seminole did a nice job of pressuring us on defense and playing the offside trap. They did nice a job against us."

"Once again, we worked on some new things over Christmas. We implemented them beginning tonight. We have some players in some new spots and we're trying some different things. Overall, I was pleased with what I saw."

Sara Katie scored first for Lyman on an assist from Danielle Garrett at 15:16. In the second half, freshman Michelle St. Louis converted a pass from Garrett into a goal at 59:38. Garrett capped the scoring with an unassisted goal at 75:07.

Lyman outshot Seminole 34-3 and had a 4-1 advantage in corner kicks. Greyhound goalie Cheryl Roberts had to make just one save to notch the shutout while Seminole "keeper Christy Oliver was called upon to make 17 stops.

The Greyhounds also won the junior varsity game, 6-0.

Lyman will play at Bishop Moore tonight and will host Winter Park on Saturday afternoon. Seminole plays at Flagler-Palm Coast Saturday afternoon at 2 p.m.

LAKE MARY — Once again Paul Clayton was on the spot.

Wrestling in the 220-pound classification for the Lake Mary Rams Clayton was faced with a "must win" situation in his match to keep the Rams from losing a dual meet.

And once again, he came through Clayton, who was a defensive captain for the Ram football team, pinned his opponent in 2:40, boosting Lake Mary (5-0) to a 10-32 win over the visiting Colonial Grenadiers. On Tuesday night, Clayton won his match with a pin to help Lake Mary pull out a 35-35 tie with University.

Lake Mary also won the junior varsity dual meet Thursday night, 17-30.

"Once again, Paul was the hero," said Lake Mary coach Doug Peters. "He's gone from a football player wrestling to being a football player and a true wrestler. He had to win his match for us to win and he did."

It's not like the result was a given Clayton was leading just 1:2 after one period, having been reversed by Santiago before the end of the period. But Santiago chose the down position to open second period. It only took Clayton 40 seconds to get the pin with a half Nelson, overpowering Santiago.

Also, several of the younger Rams contributed to the team victory by keeping their matches close and not allowing Colonial to rack up extra team points with pins, technical falls or major decisions.

"Our 152-pounder, Aaron Reddy, had to face one of their better wrestlers," said Peters. "Aaron wrestled well. He looked very good in third period. We thought he SANFORD — It was not a good night for the Fall champions, but it was an excellent first appearance for a newcomer as the Sanford Recreation Department Men's Thursday Night Class C Polar Bear Slowpitch Softball League got underway at Chase Park.

Gator's, the defending Fall champions, fell behind 10-0 after three innings and Florida Sports Wear went on to win 10-3, while R.E. Templeton, made up primarily of players from the Fall Church champion Central Baptist team, hammered Meyers Tree Service 20-8 in its first foray into the recreational softball wars.

The other game found Bamboo Cafe besting Sanford First Baptist Church 12-7.

Next week, Bamboo Cafe will play Gator's at 6:30 p.m., First Baptist and R.E. Templeton will battle at 7:30 p.m. and Florida Sports Wear will take on Meyers Tree Service at 8:30 p.m.

Contributing to a 31 hit R.E. Templeton attack were Ken Perry (five singles, two runs), Mike McCoy (double, three singles, four runs), Tom

The proud evergreen stands in defiance of winter. Unlike many trees, winter cannot ravage her lush emerald cloak. She reigns supreme, surveying God's creation from a lofty throne, arms spread wide, standing erect in regal majesty. Yet, when the snow covers her domain, she, too, bows to the earth, in deference to the Creator, as her branches bend with the weight of winter... and she is even more beautiful. Psalm 22:29 proclaims, "Yea, to Him shall all the proud of the earth bow down." As we bow in worship to our Maker this Sabbath, may we be aware that we are ever more regal when wearing the stately cloak of humility.

Healthy lifestyles pay off in time

DEAR DR. GOTT: I don't smoke, drink, use drugs or caffeine. I exercise and eat a balanced diet. I've just been diagnosed with breast cancer. There is no family history, but my father died of prostate cancer at the age of 71. What improvements can I make in my life to mitigate the condition?

DEAR READER: Regrettably, bad things happen: ill health can befall even the most prudent person. A corollary: Behaving yourself does not insulate you from disease -- although, in my experience, folks who don't take care of themselves get sicker sooner and die earlier, and that's just the point.

You have evidently not abused your health in the past. As a consequence, you're probably in exceptionally good shape, a characteristic that may make an enormous difference in overcoming your breast cancer. For example, were you a smoker and heavy drinker, you wouldn't respond as well to therapy for your breast tumor, which may include radiation and/or chemotherapy.

Thus, your many years of sensible living may now pay off dividends. You can approach your unanticipated breast problem with a healthy body and mind. Follow your physician's advice about what specific actions you could take to beat your breast cancer.

DEAR DR. GOTT: I'm 92 and all of a sudden am suffering from varicose veins. Is there a good healing salve I can use? I must be active, so being abed is out.

DEAR READER: There is no topical treatment, such as ointments, for varicose veins. As we age, the veins in the legs tend to balloon and dilate, leading to the unsightly varicose veins we're all familiar with. In severe cases, blood clots may form in these veins or the varices can affect circulation, resulting in troublesome skin ulcers.

As a general rule, mild/moderate, uncomplicated varicose veins in the legs are treated with elastic support stockings, elevation of the legs and avoidance of prolonged standing. More severe varices, especially those associated with skin ulceration, usually have to be removed surgically. Ask your doctor about this. I am sure he can give you some tips that are pertinent to your condition -- or he can refer you to a surgeon for another opinion.

In the second half of the 1980s, Scotsman Hugh Kelsey wrote two classic bridge books, "Killing Defence at Bridge" and "Advanced Play at Bridge." I reviewed the former last year. The latter has just been republished in a paperback edition ($15.45, Gollancz, 212-868-5880).

Not only do the deals live up to the title, but Kelsey carefully and lucidly explains the thought processes one should go through when planning the play. This alone makes the book worth reading.

Today's deal is the first in the book. It defeated 13 "unlucky" experts, all of whom "played too quickly." How would you try to win nine tricks?

You have six top tricks: three spades, two hearts and one diamond. There are three ways to go for the extra tricks. Win trick one in the dummy and take an immediate diamond finesse. Win trick one in hand and attack either diamonds or clubs. The "unlucky" 13 all led the club queen at trick two, going down when the suit divided 4-1 and the diamond finesse lost.

The best line is to win with the heart ace and cash the diamond ace. If the suit splits 5-0, you must revert to clubs, hoping for a 3-2 break. But if everyone follows to the diamond ace, your contract is assured. Just continue with a diamond toward dummy's queen.

With the given layout, West must duck his king. Otherwise you have nine tricks: three spades, two hearts and four diamonds. Then, after winning with dummy's queen and seeing East's discard, you can play on clubs. Your nine tricks will be three spades, two hearts, two diamonds and two clubs.

YOUR BIRTHDAY
Jan. 9, 1993

People to whom you will be attracted in the year ahead are likely to be individuals who are progressive thinkers and in tune with the times. Your best new friends are apt to be drawn from their ranks.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19) Joint ventures could hold more promise for you today than independent endeavors. However, you must be teamed with a partner whose contribution equals yours.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 19) Moderation is the key ingredient to success today, so try to play everything down the middle. For best results don't be too aggressive or too passive.

PISCES (Feb. 20-March 20) Lounging in a cozy easy chair could have strong appeal for you today, but if you fail to be productive, you're apt to collect guilt for just wasting your time.

ARIES (March 21-April 19) Although you won't be putting on pretenses, your behavior will have a dramatic flair that will induce others to focus their attention on you.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20) Success is indicated today in situations where you are strongly motivated to do good or bring joy to people you love. Do your good deeds and don't worry about the results.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20) This could be a fortunate day for you to promote a cause that you truly believe in. Even people who are usually resistant could succumb to your persuasive appeal.

CANCER (June 21-July 22) Material affairs tend to work out to your advantage today if you are prepared to give in order to get. It's important that you prime the pump in order to generate the flow.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22) You're not apt to shy away from challenges today. In fact, you might even welcome situations that are too trying or overwhelming for others to deal with.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22) Greater gratification will be derived today from being helpful instead of trying to feather your own nest. Good deeds will be rewarded.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 23) Be hopeful regarding the outcome of events today, because you are presently in a luckier cycle than you may realize. Of course, optimism and positive thinking help.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24-Nov. 22) You are not likely to seek out competitive situations today, but you're not apt to duck them either. Should one arise you'll be a tough competitor with which to contend.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23-Dec. 21) View things from a positive perspective today and your faith should work wonders in making events happen just the way you envision. Got the picture?

Washington 'wakes up,' leads Seminole romp

By DEAN SMITH
Herald Sports Writer

SANFORD — The Lake Brantley girls' basketball team learned two important lessons Thursday night: there is no substitute for quickness and don't get upset. Niki Washington.

Seminole's tenacious full-court defense forced 29 turnovers and collected 18 steals as Washington awoke from the doldrums to dominate a 26-point fourth quarter in the Tribe's 61-29 rout of the Patriots in a Seminole Athletic Conference contest at Bill Fleming Memorial Gymnasium.

The junior varsity game also went the Tribe's way by a score of 24-21.

"Most people probably thought I took Niki out in the second quarter because she got her second foul," said Seminole head coach John McNamara. "But I actually took her out because she was playing so badly. She just wasn't jumping."

"But after she got fouled late in the third quarter, she seemed to get mad. I don't know if she got pushed or if someone said something to her, but it woke her up and she just dominated

With Washington going to the bench with her third foul early in the third quarter, Lake Brantley cut a 25-13 halftime deficit to 26-20 with 2:18 left in the third stanza.

Walraven helps 'Noles register first home win

From Staff Reports

SANFORD — Jason Walraven, a second-team All-State selection in football as a placekicker, led Seminole High School to a 2-0 win over Flagler-Palm Coast in a 3A District 5 boys' soccer match Thursday at Seminole Thomas E. Whigham Stadium.

Not only did Walraven have a foot in both of Seminole's goals, he anchored a defense that helped goalie Jon Williams post his first shutout of the season.

It was also the first win at home for Seminole (4-10) this season.

"The defense did a great job," said Seminole coach Carlos Melino. "Jason, Brian Grimes, Daniel White, and Ben Brown played well in front of Jon."

"But it's the same old problem. We don't have an experienced person up front to put the ball in the net. We also appeared to be a little sluggish from playing back-to-back games."

While the Seminoles (two loss to Lyman Wednesday night) may have been a bit sluggish, they didn't take long to take the lead as Sam Earl took a pass from Walraven and scored just 1:48 into the game.

The other Tribe goal came with 8:04 left in the game when Jimmy Johnson corralled the rebound of a Walraven blast and knocked it home at 7:1:56.

Seminole outshot Flagler-Palm Coast 12-6 and had a 7-2 advantage in corner kicks, forcing the Flagler-Palm Coast goalie to make seven saves. Williams had to come up with five stops to post the shutout.

The Tribe will play defending Class 3A state champion Daytona Beach-Seabreeze Monday night at Whigham Stadium. The junior varsity will play at 5:15 p.m. with the varsity contest set for 7 p.m.

Greyhounds begin new streak

From Staff Reports

LONGWOOD — In their first game back after seeing their 46-game win streak snapped, the Lyman High School girls' soccer team picked up where it left off, blanking Seminole 3-0 Thursday night in a Seminole Athletic Conference match.

Lyman, which lost to Daytona Beach-Seabreeze 3-1 in overtime in the finals of the Burger King Classic on Dec. 22, improves to 11-1, 6-0 in the SAC. Seminole drops to 7-6-1, 1-5 in the conference.

"It was a good effort all the way around," said Lyman coach Gary Barnett. "We were a little short on the finishing end, but then we didn't work on that very much over the break. Seminole did a nice job of pressuring us on defense and playing the offside trap. They did nice a job against us."

"Once again, we worked on some new things over Christmas. We implemented them beginning tonight. We have some players in some new spots and we're trying some different things. Overall, I was pleased with what I saw."

Sara Kane scored first for Lyman on an assist from Danielle Garrett at 15:16. In the second half, freshman Michelle St. Louis converted a pass from Garrett into a goal at 59:38. Garrett capped the scoring with an unassisted goal at 75:07.

Lyman outshot Seminole 34-3 and had a 4-1 advantage in corner kicks. Greyhound goalie Cheryl Roberts had to make just one save to notch the shutout while Seminole "keeper Christy Oliver was called upon to make 17 stops.

The Greyhounds also won the junior varsity game, 6-0.

Lyman will play at Bishop Moore tonight and will host Winter Park on Saturday afternoon. Seminole plays at Flagler-Palm Coast Saturday afternoon at 2 p.m.

During the streak Washington, who has signed with the University of Houston, scored 17 points, grabbed six rebounds, blocked three shots, had four steals and three assists.

Late in the game, the Lake Brantley bench and some of the fans in attendance were wondering aloud why Seminole was still in the press.

"I heard the people yelling," said McNamara. "But I don't have another game until a week from next Wednesday and Belinda Morgan has just joined the team. I'm trying to give the team a chance to get here it is, January 7th, we've played 20 games and only have nine games left."

"Plus, with this team, games can change around so fast. A couple of turnovers and some three-point shots and they can be right back in the game. And with only eight girls dressed, you can only make so many substitutions. Who do you leave on the floor? Niki?"

Sophomore shooting guard Tennesha Eason carried the Seminole attack until Washington took over and ended up the game's high scorer with 26. She also had 10 rebounds, four assists.

Clayton delivers for Rams once more

From Staff Reports

LAKE MARY — Once again Paul Clayton was on the spot.

Wrestling in the 220-pound class in a match for the Lake Mary Rams, Clayton was faced with a "must win" situation in his match to keep the Rams from losing a dual meet.

And once again he came through Clayton, who was a defensive captain for the Ram football team, pinned his opponent in 2:40, boosting Lake Mary (30-1) to a 40-32 win over the visiting Colonial Gremlins. On Tuesday night Clayton won his match with a pin to help Lake Mary pull out a 46-35 tie with University.

Lake Mary also won the junior varsity dual meet Thursday night 17-10.

Once again Paul was the hero, said Lake Mary coach Doug Peters. "He's gone from a football player wrestling to being a football player and a true wrestler. He had to win his match for us to win and he did."

It's not like the result was a given Clayton was leading just 4:2 after one period, having been reversed by Santiago before the end of the period. But Santiago chose the down position to open second period. It only took Clayton 40 seconds to get the pin with a half Nelson, overpowering Santiago.

Also, several of the younger Rams contributed to the team victory by keeping their matches close and not allowing Colonial to rack up extra team points with pins, technical falls or major decisions.

"Our 152-pounder, Aaron Reedy, had to face one of their better wrestlers," said Peters. "Aaron wrestled well. He looked very good in third period. We thought he

WARRIORS WHIP HEAT, BUT FANS MISS PIZZA

OAKLAND, Calif. — The Golden State Warriors are having more fun these days, even if the fans didn't get free pizza. Winning will do that to you.

The Warriors won for the sixth time in seven games Thursday, beating the Miami Heat 119-105. Despite the comfortable margin, Golden State point guard Tim Hardaway launched a three-quarter length shot at the buzzer that went straight in the basket, but didn't count.

If it had, the Warriors total would have surpassed 120 in a victory, meaning all the fans could submit their ticket stubs for free pizza at outlets of an area chain.

The fans had booed as the Warriors missed a few free throws in the final minutes. With Golden State at 119, Hardaway deliberately fouled Miami's Kevin Edwards with a half-second remaining.

"Coach (Don) Nelson didn't like that," Hardaway said. "He thought I was prolonging the game and embarrassing the other team, and I'm sorry about that, but sometimes you have to do something for the fans."

Before the throw-in, Hardaway told fellow guard Latrell Sprewell to get out of the way so he could get the ball.

"I was determined to get the ball," he said. "The people wanted pizza."

Hardaway finished with 17 points and 11 assists.

The Heat players and coaches didn't know what was going on until afterward, coach Kevin rebounds, Leigh Ann Penny chipped in with six points, five rebounds, five steals and three assists.

The victory was the first SAC win for Seminole after three losses and improved its overall record to 12-7. The Tribe will return to action on Wednesday, Jan. 20, in a boy's-girls doubleheader at Lyman.

Lake Brantley suffered its second consecutive loss to fall to 7-4 overall and 1-2 in the SAC. The Patriots will play again Saturday night at Dr. Phillips with the junior varsity starting at 5:30 p.m.

SOCCER

Lake Mary Rams and scored in the 59th minute.

Each team took 14 shots on goal, Lake Mary goalie Michelle Rovito making six saves while Lake Howell keeper Paula Yulis made three stops. Lake Howell had a 5-4 edge in corner kicks. The Rams were whistled for 13 fouls while the Silver Hawks had three fouls called against them.

Lake Howell won the junior varsity contest, 2-1.

Lake Mary, now 7-3-5 overall and 2-1-3 in the Seminole Athletic Conference, will play at Tampa-Leto Saturday at noon. Lake Howell, 12-4-4 overall and 2-2-2 in the SAC, plays at West Orange Saturday afternoon in a 2:30 p.m. contest.

might have a chance to come back, but he did a real good job."

Richard Bradley (103 pounds), Kevin Dunn (112), Pat Paroline (135) and Kyle Bergman (140) all won their matches with pins for Lake Mary while teammate Cory Cullins shutout his opponent 10-0 for a major decision. Jean Pierre (171) picked up a win by forfeit.

Lake Mary hosts Flagler-Palm Coast in a dual meet this evening. Weigh-ins are scheduled for 6 p.m. with junior varsity competition beginning at 6:30 p.m. and the varsity meet set for a 7:30 p.m. start.

Warriors whip Heat, but fans miss pizza

Loughery said.

"I think it's a bad idea, though," Loughery said. "The game is more important than pizza."

The contest went the Warriors' way for the 11th time in their last 14 primarily because they outrebanded the Heat 27-12 in the first half and made 15 more foul shots than Miami. The Heat won the rebounding battle in the second half, but couldn't come back from a 58-43 halftime deficit. Except for one brief moment in the third quarter, they never got closer than nine points in the second half.

"They outthruated us, especially on the boards," Heat forward John Salley said. "Rebounding and defense are the things that consistently win for you. You can't count on jump shots going the whole time."

Miami forward Glen Rice was more succinct: "They hustled, and we didn't."

Chris Mullin scored 24 points to lead Golden State, and second-year forward Chris Gatling scored a career-high 18 points and tied Tyrone Hill for the team high with 10 rebounds.

"Chris played great, and it was good to see him score," Mullin said.

Gatling, averaging 6.7 points a game beforehand, said, "I only got to play seven minutes in the previous game) against Seattle, so this was my chance and I made the most of it."

Kevin Edwards led Miami with 26 points and Rony Seikaly contributed 20 points and 12 rebounds.

Proud nurse educates clods about her work

DEAR ABBY: I am writing in response to the letter signed "X-ray Tech," who complained that she was tired of patients who, while being positioned for mammograms, make comments such as: "Do you do this all day? What a disgusting job; there's not enough money in the world to pay me to do what you're doing."

I can relate to such comments because I am a nurse, and I'm tired of being asked, "How can you stand to work with terminal patients? Isn't it depressing caring for people when you know they are going to die?"

Instead of treating this as an insult, or passing it off as ignorance, I take a few minutes to explain why I chose the nursing profession.

Also, one should please tell "X-ray Tech" that she's a "radiologic technologist" — and she should take pride in her chosen profession.

DEAR ABBY: When holiday time rolls around again this year, please remind your party-giving readers to consider people who are trying to watch their calories.

I can't count the times I've gone to holiday gatherings where almost every dish offered had cream cheese or sour cream in it.

My boyfriend is allergic to all dairy products, and I am trying to cut down on sugar and fat in my diet. It's not easy to enjoy a party when all you can find to eat is the parsley decorating the wheel of Brie.

All I'm asking for is moderation and variation in menus. Your guests will appreciate it.

DEAR M.M. IN BEVERLY HILLS: Good reminder: The moderate hostess offers options. For those who are trying to resist high-calorie desserts, an assortment of fruit and berries will be very much appreciated.

Remember, too, that it's unwise and unfair to encourage guests to have "another drink" or "one for the road." Always have plenty of soft drinks available. And never spike the punch bowl with vodka or anything else without letting your guests know.

DEAR ABBY: I think you should know that Mike Hitt of

ADVICE

ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

Katy, Texas, was recently recognized for his donation of a total of 75 gallons of blood.

Hitt began donating blood in 1966 when he was active in the U.S. Army. He continued donating blood until 1987 when he became one of the blood center's first pheresis donors. Hitt's dedication has been phenomenal; he usually donates twice each week. The Blood Center of Texas gave Mike a plaque and a 75-gallon mug at a reception in his honor.

DEAR FRIEND: Mr. Hitt's donation record is indeed impressive. And for those who don't know what "pheresis" means (I didn't), my medical dictionary describes it as the procedure of drawing blood, after which the desired components of the blood are removed, and the remainder is re-infused into the donor.

Common exercise myths

No pain, no gain not necessary for average person

The first month in the New Year I'll bet 70 percent of you make the commitment to lose weight! Here are some common exercise myths I came across that I hope will be of interest to you. I'm glad to know these expressions I've heard most of my life aren't true — one less hurdle to jump!

No pain, no gain. While it is true that competitive athletes must push themselves beyond the point of discomfort in order to reach a higher level of performance, for the average person, this is not necessary. One can become physically fit without overdoing it. In fact, the primary reason that people quit exercising is that they try to do too much and they find the price is too great.

Go for the burn. Jane Fonda is an advocate of this popular myth. The truth is that pain is a warning that the body has been overstimulated. When you feel pain you should ease off. Going for the burn isn't necessary to improve fitness.

Spot reducing will shape up particular parts of the body. There is no such thing as spot reducing. You are born with a profile and you put on fat in certain places — according to your individual pattern and your sex. The only way to burn fat is with aerobic exercise. An aerobic exercise (short bouts of exercise) burns only carbohydrates. After 20 minutes or so of aerobic exercise the body shifts from using mainly carbohydrates to using more fat.

When you stop exercising, muscles will turn to fat. Muscles and fat are two different things. When you stop exercising, your muscles will atrophy, and fat may take its place, but muscles do not turn into fat.

Cellulite. Cellulite is the term used to describe dimpled fat found on hips and thighs of many women. Cellulite is often promoted as a special type of fat that is resistant to diet and exercise. The truth is that cellulite does not exist — it is ordinary fat that can only be lost as part of an overall weight control program. Double blind biopsy studies of fat were made from people with dimply, lumpy fatty tissue and those with normal appearing fat tissue. There was no difference in the chemical composition of the fat cells. The difference in appearance of fat is probably caused by an increase in fat cell size which may cause fat compartments to bulge and produce a waffled appearance of the skin.

CONSUMER FOCUS

Sauna suits help you lose weight fast. Sauna suits are dangerous to the point of being potentially lethal. Sauna suits are made out of rubberized material that does not allow air to reach the body. Therefore, sweat does not evaporate and the body cannot cool itself. Your internal body temperature becomes too high for body metabolism and vital internal organs to function properly.

Athletes and other people who exercise need nutrient supplements. Research shows that athletes don't require special nutrient supplements to improve performance. Balanced meals containing milk, meat, breads and cereals, and fruits and vegetables are sufficient to supply all the necessary energy and essential nutrients for athletes as well as non-athletes. Athletes have a high energy requirement which should be met by increasing the amount of food from the food groups in the diet. Contrary to popular belief, athletes do not require added vitamin, mineral or protein supplements.

Running a mile burns more calories than walking a mile. You will use about the same number of calories whether you walk, jog or run a mile. It takes about 100 calories to travel a mile. (The exact amount depends on your body weight.) If both the jogger and the slow walker exercise one hour, the jogger will burn more calories since he or she will travel a longer distance.

Drinking water or any fluid during exercise makes you waterlogged and impairs your performance. This is not true. Drinking water regularly before, during, and after exercise is essential to prevent dehydration. Dehydration can affect how you feel and decrease your performance capabilities.

Salt tablets are necessary when you exercise strenuously and sweat a lot. Once it was thought that supplementation of salt through salt tablets was essential to replace the salt lost through sweat. However, most people obtain sufficient salt in their diets to replace salt lost. The body adapts to heat stress by reducing the salt content of sweat.

Gaining and aging go hand in hand. As people get older they tend to gain weight for several reasons. They become less active so they burn less calories than when they were younger. But their food intake often says the same. As people age their metabolism slows down and their body requires fewer calories. It is estimated that for every decade after age 20, there is a 10 percent reduction in resting calories requirement. If eating and exercise habits do not change, the extra calories are converted to fat.

Pot-smoking son needs boundaries set by mother

DEAR MARY: I was unexpectedly widowed last year when my husband was killed in a traffic accident. Our son was in 8th grade at the time. He and his dad were great buddies and my husband did most of the disciplining. After my husband died, I was so overwhelmed that I couldn't even do a lot of the normal things like shopping and taking care of the car, much less take on the task of monitoring and disciplining our son.

Now I have found out that Mark (not his real name) has been hanging out in a park with older kids after school, smoking marijuana. I know I have got to get some control over him before things really get bad but I don't know how I should go about doing it. Please help.

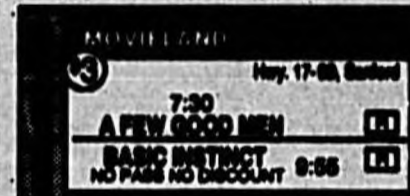

DEAR MARY: You are absolutely right; for your son's sake it is essential that you regain your role as parent. Two very important factors in effective discipline are consistency and setting boundaries. Amazingly, kids both want and need the assurance that a parent can set limits and offer control when it is needed. For your part, you must decide what you can accept and what you can approve and clearly distinguish them for your son. Let him know that you accept the fact that he needs to spend time with his friends, but you will neither accept nor approve of his hanging out in the park, and certainly not his illegal drug use. an open, non-threatening way, and be very clear as to what consequences will follow a violation of your expectations. If the violation occurs, you must follow through consistently with the consequence. Kids and teens welcome and need the structure a parent provides, even if they don't outwardly express it.

The proud evergreen stands in defiance of winter. Unlike many trees, winter cannot ravage her lush emerald cloak. She reigns supreme, surveying God's creation from a lofty throne, arms spread wide, standing erect in regal majesty. Yet, when the snow covers her domain, she, too, bows to the earth, in deference to the Creator, as her branches bend with the weight of winter ... and she is even more beautiful.

Psalm 22:29 proclaims, "Yea, to Him shall all the proud of the earth bow down." As we bow in worship to our Maker this Sabbath, may we be aware that we are ever more regal when wearing the stately cloak of humility.

Healthy lifestyles pay off in time

MEDICINE
PETER GOTT, M.D.

DEAR DR. GOTT: I don't smoke, drink, use drugs or caffeine. I exercise and eat a balanced diet. I've just been diagnosed with breast cancer. There is no family history, but my father died of prostate cancer at the age of 71. What improvements can I make in my life to mitigate the condition?

DEAR READER: Regrettably, bad things happen: Ill health can befall even the most prudent person. A corollary: Behaving yourself does not insulate you from disease -- although, in my experience, folks who don't take care of themselves get sicker sooner and die earlier, and that's just the point.

You have evidently not abused your health in the past. As a consequence, you're probably in exceptionally good shape, a characteristic that may make an enormous difference in overcoming your breast cancer. For example, were you a smoker and heavy drinker, you wouldn't respond as well to therapy for your breast tumor, which may include radiation and/or chemotherapy.

Thus, your many years of sensible living may now pay off dividends. You can approach your unanticipated breast problem with a healthy body and mind. Follow your physician's advice about what specific actions you could take to beat your breast cancer.

DEAR DR. GOTT: I'm 92 and all of a sudden am suffering from varicose veins. Is there a good healing salve I can use? I must be active, so being abed is out.

DEAR READER: There is no topical treatment, such as ointments, for varicose veins. As we age, the veins in the legs tend to balloon and dilate, leading to the unsightly varicose veins we're all familiar with. In severe cases, blood clots may form in these veins or the varices can affect circulation, resulting in troublesome skin ulcers.

As a general rule, mild/moderate, uncomplicated varicose veins in the legs are treated with elastic support stockings, elevation of the legs and avoidance of prolonged standing. More severe varices, especially those associated with skin ulceration, usually have to be removed surgically.

Ask your doctor about this. I am sure he can give you some tips that are pertinent to your condition -- or he can refer you to a surgeon for another opinion.

By Phillip Alder

In the second half of the 1960s, Scotsman Hugh Kelsey wrote two classic bridge books, "Killing Defence at Bridge" and "Advanced Play at Bridge." I reviewed the former last year. The latter has just been republished in a paperback edition ($15.45, Gollancz, 212-866-5880).

Not only do the deals live up to the title, but Kelsey carefully and lucidly explains the thought processes one should go through when planning the play. This alone makes the book worth reading.

Today's deal is the first in the book. It defeated 13 "unlucky" experts, all of whom "played too quickly." How would you try to win nine tricks?

You have six top tricks: three spades, two hearts and one diamond. There are three ways to go for the extra tricks. Win trick one in the dummy and take an immediate diamond finesse. Win trick one in hand and attack either diamonds or clubs. The "unlucky" 13 all led the club queen at trick two, going down when the suit divided 4-1 and the diamond finesse lost.

The best line is to win with the heart ace and cash the diamond ace. If the suit splits 5-0, you must revert to clubs, hoping for a 3-2 break. But if everyone follows to the diamond ace, your contract is assured. Just continue with a diamond toward dummy's queen.

With the given layout, West must duck his king. Otherwise you have nine tricks: three spades, two hearts and four diamonds. Then, after winning with dummy's queen and seeing East's discard, you can play on clubs. Your nine tricks will be three spades, two hearts, two diamonds and two clubs.

YOUR BIRTHDAY

Jan. 8, 1993

People to whom you will be attracted in the year ahead are likely to be individuals who are progressive thinkers and in tune with the times. Your best new friends are apt to be drawn from their ranks.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19) Joint ventures could hold more promise for you today than independent endeavors. However, you must be teamed with a partner whose contribution equals yours.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 19) Moderation is the key ingredient to success today, so try to play everything down the middle. For best results don't be too aggressive or too passive.

PISCES (Feb. 20-March 20) Lounging in a cozy easy chair could have strong appeal for you today, but if you fail to be productive, you're apt to collect guilt for just wasting your time.

ARIES (March 21-April 19) Although you won't be putting on pretenses, your behavior will have a dramatic flair that will induce others to focus their attention on you.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20) Success is indicated today in situations where you are strongly motivated to do good or bring joy to people you love. Do your good deeds and don't worry about the results.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20) This could be a fortunate day for you to promote a cause that you truly believe in. Even people who are usually resistant could succumb to your persuasive appeal.

CANCER (June 21-July 22) Material affairs tend to work out to your advantage today if you are prepared to give in order to get. It's important that you prime the pump in order to generate the flow.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22) You're not apt to shy away from challenges today. In fact, you might even welcome situations that are too trying or overwhelming for others to deal with.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22) Greater gratification will be derived today from being helpful instead of trying to feather your own nest. Good deeds will be rewarded.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 23) Be hopeful regarding the outcome of events today, because you are presently in a luckier cycle than you may realize. Of course, optimism and positive thinking help.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24-Nov. 22) You are not likely to seek out competitive situations today, but you're not apt to duck them either. Should one arise you'll be a tough competitor with which to contend.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23-Dec. 21) View things from a positive perspective today and your faith should work wonders in making events happen just the way you envision. Got the picture?
