Airport fire injures 34

NEW YORK — Fire sent heavy smoke and flames billowing through a Kennedy International Airport lounge Wednesday, injuring 34 people — all but two of them police or firefighters — and delaying several international departures.

About 1,000 people were forced from the Air France terminal of the International Arrivals Building, where smoke was so dense that firefighters had to search on their hands and knees for the source of the blaze.

Flames pierced the ceiling and heavy smoke filled the second-floor lounge just as several international flights prepared to take on passengers.

Officials said they did not believe the fire was suspicious or related to any aircraft.

Suspect killed in shootout

LOS ANGELES — Santa Monica police shot to death a suspected gang member and wounded another teen after the two allegedly fired an Uzi-type assault rifle at officers while trying to escape from an earlier drive-by shooting, authorities said Thursday.

The two suspected gang members were struck by officers' bullets at the end of a chase when their stolen Volkswagen crashed and skidded down the street on its side in West Los Angeles about 10:40 p.m. Wednesday, Santa Monica police Lt. Roy McGinnis said.

One unidentified teenager died at the scene and a 17-year-old boy was taken to UCLA Medical Center with a gunshot wound in his thigh, McGinnis said. No officers were wounded in the gun battle.

NASA reviews launch plans

CAPE CANAVERAL — Top NASA managers met Wednesday to talk about the upcoming shuttle launch schedule amid debate about a tiny crack in an engine pump discovered after the last flight that must be resolved before the year's first launch next month.

NASA's management council, chaired by Rear Adm. Richard Truly, associate administrator for space flight, gathered at the Stennis Space Center in Bay St. Louis, Miss., for a regular monthly meeting to review launch preparations and other issues facing the space agency.

The shuttle Discovery, set to be hauled out to launch pad 39B at the Kennedy Space Center next week, is scheduled to blast off on the third post-Challenger mission Feb. 23, although the target date is expected to slip at least two days to Feb. 25 because of recent processing delays.

Governor Martinez and entourage prepare to board jet at Sanford Airport.

SANFORD — Seminole County is in one of the best positions to receive money to help build the $126.5 million expressway between Aloma Avenue and U.S. Highway 17-92, Gov. Bob Martinez said here Wednesday.

The reason, he said during an interview at the Sanford airport, is the preparation undertaken by county officials and the readiness to begin construction.

"Those counties or systems that show up in Tallahassee, clearly showing that they're beyond planning, beyond corridor siting, they're beyond engineering, and what they need now is concrete dollars, (they) may fare well compared to some other routes still not as far as that point," Martinez said.

"At least I would look upon it that way," he said. Martinez was in central Florida Wednesday to meet with business and governmental leaders in Orange and Seminole Counties and to address the state Chief Justices convention at Lake Buena Vista. He left Sanford Airport in a state jet at about 2 p.m.

In responding to other questions of local interest, Martinez discussed:

• School taxes — With regards to an increasing interest by some local school officials to increasing the local tax rate available to build schools, Martinez said he does not favor increasing the ceiling on the rate from $1.50 per $1,000 of taxable property over the current voter-approved bond financing method.

Local woman keeps her chin up, finally gets that diploma

By CAROL J. RUMSEY

CASSELBERRY — Last Friday evening marked the first time in 23 years Candace Peery spoke before a crowd.

The previous time was for a kid named Roger who wanted a seat on the 1966 student council of Niverville High. This time it was 160 high school diploma recipients at Seminole Community College. The difference is she wasn't scared this time. She was a bit with fellow graduates, her husband, and herself.

After years of little-to-no confidence, minimum-wage jobs, and mountain-size frustration, Peery not only received her diploma, she received a college scholarship. She was still reeling from the occasion the next day.

"You pay $25 for a GED (General Educational Development test) and you get so much," she said. "All you have to do is want it."

The desire grows even stronger when it's coupled with need. Over the years Peery tried to convince employers of her abilities, even fibbed on college entrance forms just to take a single computer course. She said the diploma was at her mother's, in the mail, or had been lost during a move. It worked for a while, but eventually she'd be caught, and wind up back where she started — without a diploma, and at times without hope.

She worked as a receptionist in a beauty parlor, a newspaper delivery person, and at

Expressway Authority OKs retirement center purchase

By J. MARK BARFIELD
Herald staff writer

SANFORD — Seminole County Expressway Authority members Wednesday unanimously approved buying the 26-acre New Tribes Mission retirement center in Tuskawilla near Oviedo for about $2.3 million.

The purchase will enable the mission, based in Sanford, to move its seven-year-old retirement center for missionaries to a 40-acre site across from WNSIAM on Celery Avenue. About 30 residents and as many staff members and their families live at the Tuskawilla center now.

Plans for the new center in Sanford call for 21 units of staff housing, 34 two-bedroom retirement duplexes, a minimal care facility, offices, a chapel and other mission buildings.

New Tribes officials have said they needed the money from the authority to proceed with payment for the new site and to begin construction. Under the agreement, the county will pay the mission and allow the retirement center to remain on the site through December for $10. The proposed expressway will pass through the center's current location. But if the mission stays at the current location after December, they could face a $15,000 a month rent under the agreement.

Also Wednesday, the authority heard a report from traffic consultants that expressway traffic

Longwood takes recycling steps

By SANDRA BOUCHAHINE

LONGWOOD — The city is preparing for the state recycling law which requires that all municipalities have a recycling program by July 1.

Sometime this weekend, a bin should be placed in the parking lot behind the city hall annex.

The city has arranged with Southeast Recycling Corporation, Orlando, to place a 7-yard container for used newspapers, according to Acting City Administrator Don Terry.

"That comprises a lot of waste. That will be some help," Terry said Wednesday.

The container will be provided at no charge to the city, according to Lee Adkins, general manager of Southeast's Seminole division in Longwood.

The city will be paid about $1 per 100 pounds for the newspaper collected. Adkins said that may drop to 75 cents per 100 pounds because the value of used newspaper fluctuates.

Southeast Recycling Corporation, an Atlanta-based company, provides paper containers for drivers, municipalities, schools and churches. The company is owned by three major newspaper chains, according to Adkins.

Commissioner Ted Poelking, at a previous commission meeting, had suggested looking into recycling for Longwood.

Betty Jernigan faces added theft charges

By J. MARK BARFIELD

SANFORD — More charges could be filed by Friday against Sanford insurance executive Betty Jernigan, alleging she stole more than $18,000 in premiums from seven customers, a state official said today.

Jernigan, wife of Sanford recreation director Jim Jernigan, already faces nine counts of grand theft in connection with alleged theft of insurance premiums from one truck driver.

Mrs. Jernigan has agreed to agree to make restitution in that state insurance fraud case in which it is alleged that she accepted $4,890 in premiums from the truck driver without actually acquiring insurance for him, the state official said.

In addition, she tentatively has agreed to surrender her state insurance license and to close her Jernigan Insurance Co., according to the official. Kerry Pugh, supervisor of the Orlando office of the state insurance fraud division

Morning accident

Violet Crawford of Sanford had a run-in with this utility pole Thursday morning on 13th St. Crawford was east bound and the truck, owned by Heuer Utility Contractors and driven by Randall Cain, was stopped at the time of the accident. Cain was in the area to install the pole for overhead utility lines. Crawford was taken to Central Florida Regional Hospital with possible neck and back injuries. Rescue crews from the Sanford Fire Department and Rural Metro responded to the scene.

FLORIDA BRIEFS

Explosion victims found

MIAMI — Florida Marine Patrol divers found the bodies of two women Wednesday who were victims of an explosion of a 38-foot sloop off Adams Key south of Miami, authorities said.

The husbands of the two women believed to be aboard the sailing vessel made their way ashore to an exclusive neighborhood in a dingy following the explosion and notified the Coast Guard.

The men were taken to a hospital in Homestead where they were treated for second-degree burns and released, said Capt. Ed Sharp of the Florida Marine Patrol.

Sharp said the sloop burned to the water line. "The boat melted and sank."

About a dozen divers looked for bodies and found one of the women in 10 feet of water in Biscayne Bay. The second was found two hours later inside the boat's cabin.

Sharp said that the men said they were in forward compartment asleep and the women were in a middle compartment when the boat exploded.

He said it took divers more than two hours to locate both women's bodies because they had to preserve the wreck as if it were a "crime scene," saying the accident is under investigation.

Sharp said the victims and the survivors were not identified. "They are two families, husbands and wives, but I can't release their names yet. They are out-of-towners though," he said.

He said the women were burned "beyond recognition" and will have to be identified through dental records.

Rescued whale dies

MIAMI — A baby sperm whale found near West Palm Beach and rescued by workers at Miami Seaquarium died Wednesday, said Dr. Gregory Bossart, veterinarian and curator of the marine park and research center.

A necropsy was being performed on the animal. Bossart said the mother may have died off the coast and the baby became disoriented and swam into shallow water.

The female found Tuesday was 13 feet, six inches long, "which indicates she was probably a newborn," Bossart said.

The sperm whale, an endangered species which is the largest of the toothed whale family, is the deepest diving marine mammal and normally is not found in the shallow waters of the Florida coast. Female sperm whales grow to about 38 feet, while males can be up to 50 feet long, Bossart said.

They reach depths of 3,000 feet and have been known to stay under water for up to an hour at a time. Their diet consists mainly of giant squid, Bossart said.

Four arrested for smuggling cocaine

MIAMI — Four men were arrested Wednesday and charged with attempting to smuggle into the United States 250 pounds of cocaine concealed in packages of imported fresh fish.

The cocaine was found Tuesday by U.S. Customs inspectors who were examining a 30-piece shipment of fresh fish that had arrived on a Pan Am flight from Panama City, Panama, officials said.

It was wrapped in plastic bags on top of fish fillets packed inside styrofoam containers. The inspectors notified federal agents, who made the arrests at the Genapo Seafood Warehouse in northwest Miami.

Arrested were Carlos A. Londono, 33, and his wife, Mercy Arcely Londono-Rosado, 32, Luis Jose Lopez, 46, and Henry Pinto, 30.

Baggage handler admits drug smuggling

NEWARK, N.J. — A former baggage handler for Eastern Airlines in Miami pleaded guilty in New Jersey Wednesday to conspiring to ship wholesale quantities of cocaine from Florida to New Jersey.

Victor Miyares, 34, of Miami faces up to 15 years in prison when he is sentenced in June, Assistant U.S. Attorney Paul Zoubek said.

Miyares admitted his guilt the day after his trial began. He and Bilal Muhammed, 45, an Eastern baggage handler who pleaded guilty on Monday, were indicted last September and charged with conspiring to distribute multi-kilogram quantities of cocaine and with possession and possession with intent to distribute 1 kilogram.

Mistral declared in sex slaying trial

TAVARES — A mistrial was declared Wednesday in the trial of a California man accused in the 1986 sex slaying of a Fort Lauderdale travel agent.

Circuit Judge John Thurman ended the trial because State Attorney Brad King improperly referred to the defendant's prior criminal record while questioning the final witness in the weeklong trial.

William Happ, 27, of Gilroy, Calif., had been charged with murder, rape, kidnapping and burglary in the death of Angela Crowley, 21. She was strangled with her own pantyhose and her body dumped into the Florida Barge Canal on the Gulf Coast north of Tampa in May 1986.

NEWS FROM THE REGION AND ACROSS THE STATE

NASA assesses shuttle schedule

CAPE CANAVERAL (UPI) — Top NASA managers met Wednesday to talk about the upcoming shuttle launch schedule amid debate about a tiny crack in an engine pump discovered after the last flight that must be resolved before the year's first launch next month.

NASA's management council, chaired by Rear Adm. Richard Truly, associate administrator for space flight, gathered at the Stennis Space Center in Bay St. Louis, Miss., for a regular monthly meeting to review launch preparations and other issues facing the space agency.

The shuttle Discovery, set to be hauled out to launch pad 30B at the Kennedy Space Center next week, is scheduled to blast off on the third post-Challenger mission Feb. 23, although the target date is expected to slip at least two days to Feb. 25 because of recent processing delays.

One issue facing the flight is the status of powerful high-pressure oxygen turbopumps used by shuttle's three main engines and an investigation to find out what caused a tiny crack in a pump bearing assembly used by the shuttle Atlantis last month during the second post-Challenger flight.

The .005-inch crack was found in one of the pump's four bearing "races," circular housings that fit around a pump's turbine shaft. Engineers believe the crack in bearing race No. 3 was caused by "stress corrosion," a phenomenon triggered by water trapped inside the pump after assembly.

When a pump is put together, the turbine shaft is chilled in liquid nitrogen and the tight-fitting bearing races are heated before they will fit on the shaft. The pumps then are heated to eliminate any water condensation.

Inspections of Discovery's engine pumps revealed at least one spot of "discoloration" in a bearing race and an investigation is underway to determine once and for all what caused the crack in Atlantis's pump and whether Discovery faces any similar problems.

"It obviously was one of the subjects discussed at the meeting of the management council today," said NASA spokeswoman Sarah Keegan. "There's no final decision on anything. We're still examining what we found after Atlantis's flight and trying to assess how that's going to impact the hardware that's on Discovery."

Smooth-running pumps are crucial for safe engine operation and sources said if managers ultimately decide to replace the pumps aboard Discovery, a job that would be conducted at the launch pad, blastoff could be delayed well into March.

But Discovery needs to be off the pad by around March 14 or a delay would mean postponing plans to launch Atlantis April 28 on a showcase mission to deploy the $530-million Magellan Venus radar mapper, a high-priority science payload.

Because of the positions of Earth and Venus, Atlantis must get off the ground by around May 23 or Magellan will face a two-year launch delay.

For that reason, NASA wants to preserve the opening of the Magellan "launch window," and that, in turn, is why the pump issue is especially important when it comes to launching Discovery next month.

countless other jobs. None required her to work at her full potential, and none paid more than $135 a week.

A baby, her third — and a birthday, her 35th — changed this. Like most parents, Peery wanted to be a strong provider, and set a good example for her children. Tired of feeling a failure, she knew it was time for action. She couldn't quit on her dreams now. Even in high school when her grades dropped, she rose every morning for classes and attended the full four years, right up until the last day.

"I was so devastated when I found out I wouldn't graduate," she said.

Peery never lacked intelligence or discipline. Her difficulties lay elsewhere. The 1960s found her father in Vietnam, her mother worried, and two older brothers and a big sister pursuing their own lives. Peery felt alone. There was too much to think about, too much to concern her.

She had friends, but was far from popular. Other teenagers filled with television images of the war and campus uprisings, scoffed at her pride for her father's efforts. It was a case of bad timing for Peery, as later a nation would come to understand.

She not only differed on beliefs, she looked different than her classmates. While living in the Philippines — her dad stationed at Clark Air Force Base — an entire wardrobe was hand-stitched for her. It looked stunning there, but less than chic in Fort Walton Beach. One outfit she particularly remembers: empire waisted and entirely of orange and black. It had orange and black stripes from the waist up, and orange and black flowers from the waist down. At times feeling silly, or even ignored, she wore it in defiance. Peery is very strong, with a good sense of humor, both of which she credits to her parents.

After high school, she foundered in an unsuccessful marriage, a child with a congenital heart defect, and rejections to every job she knew she was capable of doing.

"All you're thinking about is getting by," Peery said. "No self-confidence comes from that because you're not really making it, you're scraping."

She considered the GED test several times, but rejected the idea, labeling it a simple little test keeping one off welfare. In truth she was scared.

"If I couldn't do it then, how was I to do it now?" she remembered thinking.

As the years passed, she became a little wiser, and a little more courageous. Life seemed good. She married again, lived in a comfortable home, and had time to care for her new baby.

She made a telephone call to SCC and started a home-study course through the college. A month later, battling a cold and a bad case of nerves, she sat for the GED test.

"If I heard this I'd think, Oh sure that's her," Peery said. "It's not that at all. I'm the kind of person who skips the front page and goes straight to the crosswords."

She is now the kind of person with plans and incredible energy. After college, she wants to put her skills to work in the medical/social services field. Before this happens, she will write GED instructors to thank them for all that is now open to her.

For more information on GED help-classes and test times, call SCC adult education, 323-1450, Ext. 649.

show them what is you're going to get for it," he said.

Gun control — Martinez said he continues to support a mandatory three-day cooling-off period for handgun purchases and would give favorable consideration any such renewal of interest by the Legislature this year. Last year, legislators were willing only to give counties the option to adopt a three-day cooling-off period. Seminole County commissioners voted against the proposal but have been asked by a number of cities to reconsider.

Gas tax — Martinez said he continues to oppose any increase in the state gas tax to help the state Department of Transportation out of its current $100 million funding shortfall produced by what state officials have called a speeded-up work schedule.

He said state growth will produce more than $25 million in new revenue this year for roads.

Seminole County officials hope to convince the Florida Legislature this spring to jointly fund the 12.2-mile expressway from roughly the Orange-Seminole counties line to U.S. 17-92.

Gerald Brinton, Seminole County Expressway Authority executive director, said the authority will seek at least $60 million from the state toll program created last year which allows highways connecting to Florida's Turnpike to receive bonded revenue from turnpike tolls.

Design of the expressway is well underway and expected to be completed by August. Few other expressway authorities — also seeking funding from the toll fund — are as far along as Seminole County, state road officials said.

As an alternative, authority members Wednesday approved seeking funding of the entire highway between Aloma Avenue and Interstate 4.

An authority traffic study released Wednesday shows that by 2010, at least 15,000 cars per day can be expected to travel back and forth on the expressway from Volusia County, enhancing bonding capabilities with their tolls.

Estimates of Seminole County drivers expected to use the expressway will be completed in May, consultants told authority members Wednesday.

State officials are uncertain how much bond revenue will be available this year, but some estimates place the amount as high as $1 billion based on the amount of toll revenues expected from the turnpike.

Brinton said $60 million would allow the authority to receive $148 million in bond revenue which in turn would allow the authority to pay back $5 million loaned to it by Seminole County and $16.5 million loaned to it by the state. The remaining money would enable the authority to fully finance the more than 12-mile length of road between Aloma Avenue and U.S. 17-92.

Jernigan

A trial date has been set for Feb. 20. Assistant state attorney Beth Rutberg said there has been no final agreement and any settlements must be approved by a Seminole County Circuit Judge O.H. Eaton Jr.

Jernigan was unavailable for comment today at her home and at her office.

Pugh said he plans to file the additional charges as early as Friday. He said the number of charges will depend on the number of total payments these additional victims made to her.

Between Sept. 21, 1986 and

May 19, 1987, Pugh said, Foye Foskey paid Jernigan $4,890 in nine payments for his dump truck, thinking he was making payments on an insurance policy. When Foskey became suspicious last May about the status of his policy, because he had not received a renewal notice, he complained to authorities.

As a result of the state investigation, Jernigan was arrested on Nov. 18, on nine charges of grand theft — each charge stemming from a payment Foskey made.

Pugh said she has "agreed to agree" to a settlement in the case and to repay Foskey.

Man arrested on racketeering charges

SANFORD — Sanford police this morning arrested an Ohio man wanted on charges of racketeering. Michael Aaron Scalco, 21, Litchfield, Ohio, was reported as a suspicious person at R & N Manufacturing near McCracken Road and Airport Boulevard. A crime check revealed he is wanted by the Hillsborough County Sheriff's Department on eight active warrants for dealing in stolen property. Scalco is in violation of the Racketeer Influenced and Corrupt Organization Act.

Woman reports abduction, robbery

SANFORD — Sanford police are investigating a report by a 25-year-old Lake Mary woman who said a gunman forced entry to her car as she was leaving The Barn nightclub at about 8:30 p.m. Wednesday.

Susan M. Blanchette, told police the man tapped on her car window when she was leaving the club on U.S. Highway 17-92. He opened the car door and got in and made her drive around Sanford for about three hours.

He was armed with a pistol and Blanchette told police she couldn't describe the man, except to say he wore gold-rimmed eyeglasses.

During the drive, she said, the man touched her chest and legs and took $46 from her purse. He made her drive into Volusia County on U.S. Highway 17-92, and got out of the car near the power plant just across the county line.

Man arrested for grand theft

SANFORD — A man, who fled Sanford police in a stolen car, was captured after the car collided with a police car and the man attempted to run away on foot.

One policeman was injured in the accident on Jan. 20 at Castle Brewer Court, police said.

Willie McCloud, 18, of 26 William Clark Court, Sanford, is charged with grand theft, resisting arrest with violence and leaving the scene of an accident with injuries. He was arrested at 3 p.m. Wednesday following questioning at the police station. Bond is $3,000.

Cop arrests men after seeing smoke

FERN PARK — Two men confronted by a Seminole County sheriff's deputy who believed they were smoking marijuana in the parking lot of Circus Circus, U.S. Highway 17-92, Fern Park, were arrested after the deputy found contraband in their possession, he reported.

James Allen Grimes, 21; and Pierre Marcel Latigau, 21, both of Orlando, are both charged with possession of marijuana. Grimes is also charged with possession of cocaine. They were arrested at 11:54 p.m. Wednesday.

CASSELBERRY — The son of the owner of a chain of insurance agencies in Central Florida has been jailed by Casselberry police for allegedly calling in a bomb threat and harassing telephone calls to a competing agency here.

Lloyd "John" Eldo Register IV, 25, of 3052 Rivera Bay Court, Oviedo, is charged with falsely reporting the planting of a bomb and making harassing phone calls. Bond is $1,000.

Register, who works for Cash Register Insurance, Co., 1299 E. Altamonte Drive, Altamonte Springs, was arrested following questioning at the Casselberry police station at 3:10 p.m. Wednesday. He is accused of making harassing calls between Jan. 5 and 20 to Southern Casualty Insurance, Co., 3190, U.S. Highway 17-92. A bomb threat to that company made by telephone on Jan. 19 has been linked to Register, according to police.

United Telephone Security workers put a "trap and trace" on the line after Eileen M. Lamb, 27, complained that she had been receiving harassing calls apparently from the same man. Police said at one point during one of the conversations the caller unwittingly identified himself as John Register.

During a 10 minute period on Jan. 13, 24 harassing calls were made, and telephone company officials reported they were traced to Register's work phone. Lamb told police she is afraid of him, and the Seminole state attorney's approved the arrest Wednesday.

Six barrels probably not hazardous

By SANDRA BOUCHAHINE
Herald staff writer

LONGWOOD — Laboratory tests could not confirm whether the contents of six of the barrels dug up on city property are hazardous, the Florida Department of Environmental Regulation (DER) has told Longwood officials.

The drums were six of 16 removed from the rear of the public works department last month by order of the DER. The city was cited by DER on Nov. 9 for violating a regulation that requires making hazardous waste determinations before disposal.

Richard Tedder, DER hazardous waste program manager, said Wednesday that the materials in the drums were not in high enough concentrations to determine whether they were hazardous. He suggested that it "could have been motor oil" but that could not be verified.

"It's not at all unusual you can't get enough information in order to get a definitive determination. Based on the analysis we were asked for, we did pretty good," Tedder said.

Earlier tests by ENCO Laboratories in Orlando confirmed that eight of the barrels contained hazardous materials including ignitable, corrosive and high metal contents such as lead and chrome released from paint that was in them. One barrel was declared non-hazardous and another was empty.

The city has two alternatives at this point. Those are to either treat the six barrels as hazardous waste and dispose of them accordingly, or to have additional tests done on them. DER officials said.

Acting City Administrator Donald Terry indicated Wednesday that the city would probably treat them as hazardous and get permission from DER to dispose of them to avoid the cost of having more tests performed.

The city has been billed more than $31,000 by Chemical Conservation Corporation, Orlando, for cleanup and lab analysis testing which amounted to $11,175.30. Longwood officials delayed payment of the bill because they claimed the company charged too much for the work and asked them to revise the bill. They are still awaiting a bill revision, according to Terry.

Tedder said DER is pending another response to the city addressing disposal and what the next step should be. That response is expected to be complete within the next two or three weeks.

In the meanwhile, Terry said the city will take bids to dispose of the 16 barrels which have been put in containers behind the public works department.

Two boys, one man arrested in Longwood burglary spree

By SUSAN LODEN
Herald staff writer

LONGWOOD — The arrest of an 18-year-old man and two boys has cracked a burglary ring believed responsible for all of the dozen or so burglaries committed since Dec. 28 in the Wekiva-Hunt Club area of rural Longwood, Seminole County Sheriff's deputies said today.

The three are accused of stealing about $500 worth of items from each of the burglarized homes.

In addition, they are accused of stealing a $36,000 Corvette, which is the only item that has been recovered, investigator Daren Tjornstol said.

The adult, Jack David Mellott, 18, of 2971 Brantley Hills Court, Longwood, is a suspect in all the burglaries, Tjornstol said.

They have been arrested in connection with two burglaries on Tuesday and Wednesday to a home at 328 Needles Trail. Two handguns were stolen there in one of the burglaries.

Looking for new ways to attack terrorism

Terrorists and airport security forces all over the world are locked in a desperate and ever-intensifying arms race. In recent years, terrorist groups have gained access to weapons such as the plastic explosive used to blow Pan Am's Flight 103 out of the sky over Scotland on Dec. 21, which are more powerful and less detectable than ever before.

Traditional airport X-ray systems installed to detect relatively crude weapons such as guns and knives are useless against plastic explosives. Now there is news of a machine that will detect plastic explosives in passengers' luggage, and ultimately give the upper hand to security forces once more, but there will be long delays before it can be put into operation.

The machine bombards luggage with neutrons that detect the characteristic elements of explosives, but it expense is likely to prove a handicap. Each machine costs between $750,000 and $1 million. Airlines, rather than airports, are expected to buy the machines, which means that in the long run passengers will pay the price for increased security.

The Federal Aviation Agency will take delivery of five of the machines during July for use at major U.S. airports handling the greatest number of international flights. Prototypes proved 95 percent effective during tests earlier this year at Los Angeles and San Francisco airports.

A spokesman for the International Air Traffic Association in Geneva says security is extremely difficult to impose on the hundreds of airport workers swarming about the tarmac, refueling aircraft, handling luggage, and placing provisions on board. Many of these menial jobs are held by low-paid workers vulnerable to bribery.

There is still no deterrent as effective as hand-searching luggage, and international passengers can expect a lot more of that from now on, together with the inevitable delays and inconvenience that are the price of increased security.

A link with Libya

West German officials are finally admitting that U.S. officials were right in their accusations that West German companies did help Moammar Gadhafi build in Libya a plant that can be used to produce chemical weapons.

At first the West Germans had implied that the Reagan administration was just making wild charges about the plant that has raised concerns that the sometimes irrational Gadhafi could escalate Middle East terrorism to new heights. But after an examination of the evidence produced by the United States in support of its claims, West German Chancellor Helmut Kohl conceded the issue.

The evidence, embarrassing as it is to the West Germans, should help the United States obtain international support for stopping the production of chemical weapons by Gadhafi and other nations.

If there was ever an area in which the United Nations could play a constructive role, it would be in reducing the chemical weapons stockpile. Hopefully the United Nations will join the efforts of President Reagan to eliminate these terrible weapons.

Berry's World

"Would you stop referring to me as a 'human resource'?"

BEN WATTENBERG

What will they run on the front page?

I was 6 years old, living in the Bronx, when World War II broke out in 1939. During the years after that I used to look at the war maps in the newspapers and ask my father to explain the headlines: "Germans Advance on Kharkov," "Corregidor Surrenders," "Americans Land in Sicily." In August 1945, at a summer bungalow colony, I ran from cottage to cottage yelling, "They've harnessed the atom, they've harnessed the atom."

During those years, I remember asking my father, "What will there be to read in the newspapers after the war is over?" I couldn't think of anything worthy of the front page except the Dodgers, the Yankees and the Giants. And if they put sports there, what could they put in the sports section?

As it turned out, there was a good half-century worth of big front-page story to come: "The Soviets vs. the West."

Only now that there is a possibility of that big story winding down is it apparent how all-pervasive it was. Of course, it dealt with arms and the balances of power, and military alliances, and the money needed to produce the arms, and what the money might be spent for if it didn't have to go for arms.

But it went much beyond that. What, for one example, were our motives for foreign aid to poor countries? One big reason was to keep them from becoming "fertile breeding grounds for communism" and to keep them on "our side."

That East-West big story permeated the whole of intellectual life as well. The goal was to "be free," to "stay free" and to "help others be free." After all, human liberty had come under serious threat around the world from the communist totalitarians. Just prior to that, from the time of the ascent of Adolf Hitler in Germany in 1933, liberty had been under serious threat from fascist totalitarians.

How potent was the issue? Well, it is now 1989. Suppose we assume that a person must be at least 14 years old before he or she has a sense of the issues of the day. That means that no one under 70 has been seriously involved in a world where the primary focus has not been on totalitarianism.

The big argument raged over decades: Was the threat exaggerated? Weren't we somewhat guilty, too? Why was everything East-West?

Free vs. non-free: It was the ultimate issue. It brought people into public life who in other times would have been poets or playwrights. Rest assured, they wouldn't have been involved if the issue were international trade.

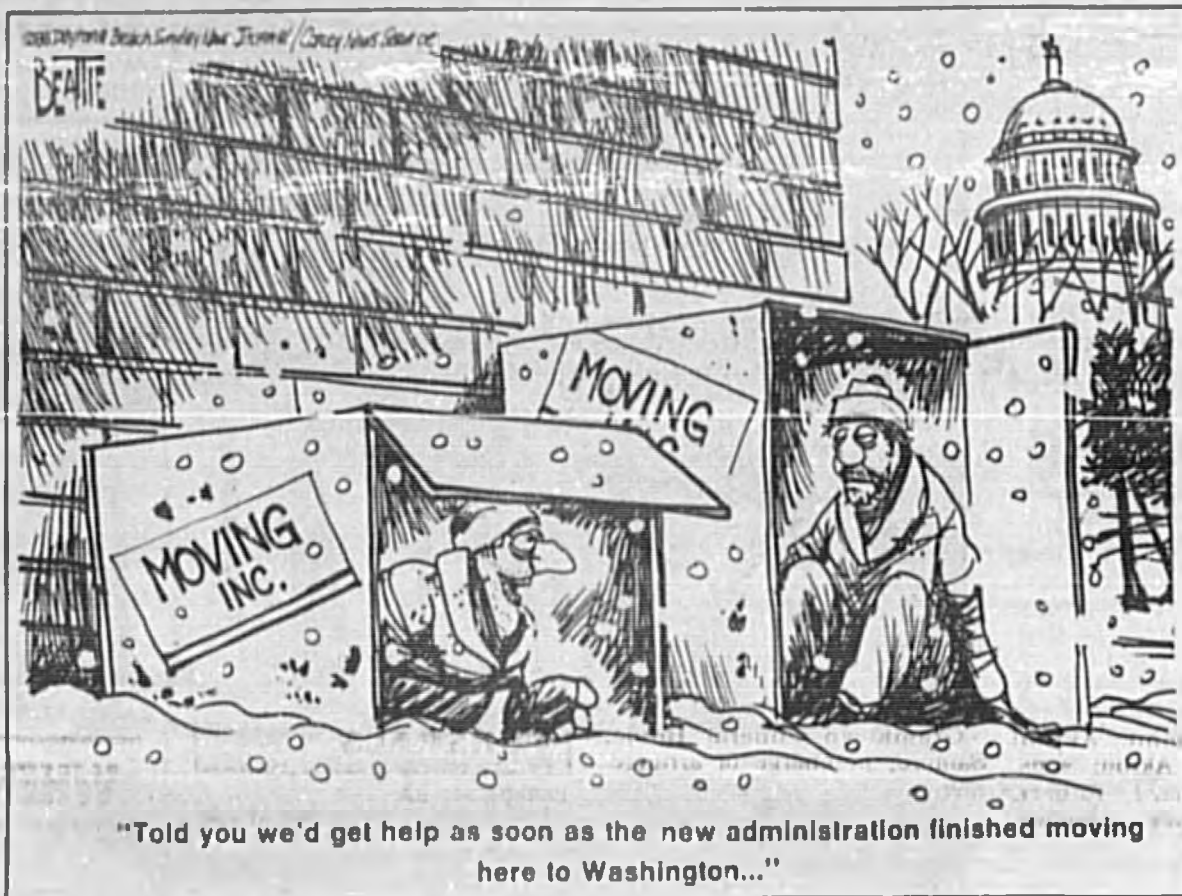

Ironically, the central question of our time may turn out to be whether we will be able to acknowledge that such an all-pervasive issue is not always the central question of every time. Is it really the normal order of being for humans to be constantly concerned over such a titanic and meaningful cause? Perhaps everything since 1933 is not the way the world works.

Suppose the Soviets unwind. Suppose the Soviet Union remains militarily strong, an non-democratic, and poor — all likely, in my judgment. But suppose, too, they come to be correctly seen as a non-expansionist power and one that is highly unlikely to pose a nuclear threat.

It is the hope of our time. But I still can't figure out what could come after that. What will they run on the front page?

Free vs. non-free: It was the ultimate issue.

Prison overcrowding a tough test for Bush

WASHINGTON — "If you do the crime, you do the time." Is the kind of rap that plays well on the campaign trail. George Bush used that tough-on-crime image to help propel him to the White House.

One of the first tests of his sincerity will be the budget increase he plans to give the Justice Department's Bureau of Prisons, which has 54 critically overcrowded prisons. The worst facility is the Federal Correctional Institute at Tucson, Ariz., where 623 prisoners are squeezed into a space designed for 196. The Tucson prison tops this month's list of the 10 most overcrowded prisons in the federal system.

The extent of the overcrowding is not news to Bush. While he was vice president, a 1987 Cabinet-level report on the prisons spelled out the crisis. But the confidential report was kept from the public eye, and even from members of Congress, because it showed the shortcomings of the Reagan administration.

We have seen the report, and it warns that if the overcrowding is not alleviated, the resulting gridlock would force "significant departures from current enforcement, prosecution, sentencing and incarceration policies." In plain English, that means fewer people going to prison and shorter sentences for those that do. And that doesn't mesh with what George Bush said on the campaign trail.

Some experts believe the gridlock is already here. The federal report credits increased law enforcement and a greater number of prosecutors, judges and enforcement agents with sending more people to prison. Federal prisons have always counted on state and local prisons to take the overflow, but local authorities are putting more people in jail, too. At the same time, lawsuits by inmates and civil rights groups are forcing the state and local prisons to give the inmates more space.

The authors of the report, led by then-Attorney General Edwin Meese, thought the situation would only get worse and did not feel their own administration was handling the problem effectively. The shortcomings were tactfully blamed on fiscal restraints.

Bush pledged to spend more money on new prisons. He pointed to one study that concluded it costs $25,000 a year to keep one inmate in prison, while a career criminal on the loose can cost society $430,000 a year in law enforcement and losses to victims.

But if Bush sticks with the budget proposed by Ronald Reagan for new prisons, he will start $411 million behind what the report recommended should have been budgeted by now.

If he does increase the budget, that will be good news to the wardens contending with the tough problems of overcrowding today. Judging from Bureau of Prisons statistics, we have determined the 10 most overcrowded federal prisons in the country this month. The Tucson prison is 218 percent overcrowded. (The Bureau of Prisons considers a prison to be 100 percent overcrowded when it is at double its capacity, so a prison that is 218 percent overcrowded actually has more than three times the number of prisoners it was designed to hold.) After Tucson comes the Atlanta Camp (184 percent), the U.S. Penitentiary at Atlanta (177 percent), Metropolitan Correctional Center in Miami (165 percent), Federal Correctional Institution Texarkana, Texas (132 percent), FCI La Tuna in Texas (112 percent), FCI Pleasanton in California (110 percent), FCI Ray Brook in New York (102 percent), Yankton Federal Prison Camp in South Dakota (101 percent), and FCI Loretto in Pennsylvania (98 percent).

That doesn't mesh with what George Bush said on the campaign trail.

Cheap oil, on balance, is a boon

WASHINGTON — Twelve years ago, a new administration began by declaring a dramatic "moral equivalent of war" on the energy crisis. But ever since 1891, when the U.S. Geological Survey discounted the possibility of discovering oil in Texas, the world has had pleasant surprises.

In 1965, proven world reserves were 353 billion barrels; in 1979, 611 billion; today, 887 billion. Iran's reserves are huge. Iraq's may match Saudi Arabia's. Geological formations in western China suggest vast reserves, as does the fact that Siberia is on the same latitude as Alaska's Prudhoe Bay.

U.S. taxpayers now own 560 million barrels in the Strategic Petroleum Reserve, with a distribution capacity of four million barrels a day. The SPR is a weapon against OPEC's "oil weapon," but OPEC's weapon has been largely disarmed by economic and technological developments.

It has been said that if the Strait of Hormuz was closed, the lights would go out. But that strait is hard to close and harder still to keep closed. Anyway, last year, on one day, five tankers were burning in the Gulf and the price of oil barely moved. Markets know the oil will flow.

Pipelines connect Iraq with the Mediterranean and the Red Sea. In the 1990s, upwards of seven million barrels a day will be able to leave the Persian Gulf by pipeline. Furthermore, three of America's top four suppliers (Mexico, Canada, Venezuela, Saudi Arabia is the fourth) are not insecure sources.

OPEC is not impotent. Absent OPEC, oil might cost $7 rather than $12-$15. But many OPEC nations have development needs that require a high cash flow. Thus they need high production of oil. Furthermore, both Iran and Iraq have war debts exceeding $40 billion, and each needs at least that much for reconstruction.

Cash-hungry OPEC nations are not exactly mendicants begging for markets, but they are, in effect, buying markets by means of "downstream integration." They are buying refineries and service stations. Such producers (e.g., Saudi Arabia, with an interest in 11,500 Texaco gas stations) have a stake in U.S. economic vigor.

The probable persistence of the oil glut for many years means that U.S. oil industry is in twilight. Eighty percent of all the oil wells ever drilled on the planet have been drilled in the lower 48 U.S. states. But today, Saudi Arabia is pumping nearly one-fifth of the world's oil flow from fewer wells than are operating today in the city of Los Angeles.

Conservation has far exceeded 1970s projections. Gasoline costs less today in real terms than at almost any time since 1935, but today's automobile fleet goes 50 percent farther on a gallon than in 1976. However, American demand is growing and American production is dropping. We are importing 42 percent of our needs (we hit a high of 48 percent in 1977) and oil imports account for one-quarter of the trade deficit.

But there are non-economic as well as economic arguments for draining foreign sources first. And there is no compelling argument for rushing exploration in the Arctic National Wildlife Refuge or off California's coast.

If the price goes high enough, several centuries' supply of oil can be extracted from sand, shale and other sources in Colorado, Canada and elsewhere in this hemisphere. But even without scarcity, there is a move to alternative forms of energy. Japan's "strategic petroleum reserve" may be plutonium as Japan becomes more reliant, even than France, on nuclear power. Australia may become the Saudi Arabia of uranium.

Fifty-seven percent of America's electricity is generated by coal, of which America has a 300- to 500-year supply. But we do not want to pay the environmental costs of mining and burning it. This is especially so because of the greenhouse effect, which is aggravated by burning hydrocarbons.

Natural gas is a relatively benign fuel and U.S. reserves of it may be as large as U.S. oil reserves. Furthermore, vast quantities of natural gas are being found in places like Qatar's North Dome Field, the largest discovery ever. And the Pacific rim is an extremely promising source.

Most of the data in this column comes from John Herrington, who just stepped down as secretary of Energy. The data point toward several hopeful conclusions, and a chastening conclusion.

Cheap oil, although it inhibits the search for alternative energy sources that might be environmentally preferable, is on balance a big blessing. And the pace and direction of change in the energy picture in the last dozen years is a timely reminder to the new administration of just how opaque the future is.

Nearly one-fifth the world's oil flow from fewer wells than are operating today in the city of Los Angeles.

Arrests made in Jersey kidnap, killing

HACKENSACK, N.J. — A man and a woman were arrested in the abduction and slaying of a Bergen County man found dead just a day after police watched the alleged kidnapers drive away with $25,000 ransom in the man's car, police said Thursday.

Police declined to identify the suspects, describing them only as a man and a woman. Further details were to be disclosed by Bergen County Acting Prosecutor John Holl later Thursday.

Irving Flax, 58, of Fair Lawn, disappeared Monday morning sometime after 9:30 a.m. when he left home for work at a Secaucus warehouse, officials said.

His body was discovered about 25 hours later, late Tuesday morning, in his car in a parking lot at a Paramus shopping mall.

Drexel settlement announced

NEW YORK — Wall Street securities giant Drexel Burnham Lambert Inc., in settling its federal securities law violations, agreed to fire its star executive, Michael Milken, and withhold virtually all of his estimated $200 million personal earnings for 1988. It was disclosed Wednesday.

Milken was accused of plotting with imprisoned financier Ivan Boesky to reap illegal profits on takeover-related corporate transactions.

Drexel agreed Dec. 21 to pay $650 million in fines and restitution and plead guilty to the six felony counts to avoid being indicted on charges of racketeering, insider trading, stock manipulation and other violations.

From United Press International reports

Mishap damages weapons reactor

United Press International

WASHINGTON — A vital nuclear weapons reactor at the Savannah River Plant was damaged over the weekend due to operator error, a top Energy Department official said Wednesday, possibly delaying restart of the facility and renewing concerns about lax safety practices.

At a Senate hearing, Troy Wade, acting assistant energy secretary for defense programs, confirmed news reports that operators at the South Carolina plant failed to follow proper procedures and mishandled a part of the secondary cooling system in the K Reactor.

The incident Sunday night came amidst a major effort by the Energy Department to improve safety at Savannah River, site of three aging reactors that are the sole source of radioactive tritium gas essential to the nation's nuclear weapons program.

The reactors have been shut down since last April due to worries about deteriorating equipment and poor safety practices. The shutdown has prompted national security concerns among Pentagon officials, who fear a shortage of tritium, which gives nuclear warheads more power but must be replenished periodically.

In the incident Sunday, reactor operators mistakenly left open a valve during a test in which they sought to increase water pressure inside the K Reactor's secondary cooling system.

Reactor operators began the test by activating one pump to inject water into the system, but pressure did not rise as expected. Instead of investigating the failure to pressurize operators turned on a second pump to boost flow. The additional water caused the open valve to abruptly close, creating a surge of water that led to the equipment damage.

That scenario was similar to the aborted restart of the P Reactor last summer in which reactor operators sought to boost power levels even though the reactor was not operating as predicted and they did not know why.

originating in Volusia County is projected to be much higher than previously expected. That increases the amount of money the authority can raise to build the road, the design of which is nearing completion.

About 50,000 cars per day are passing into and through Seminole County from Volusia County, the study shows. By the year 2010, that amount is expected to increase to more than 100,000 trips per day, consultants reported. Of that 100,000 cars, officials estimated based on interviews late last year, that about 15,000 would use the expressway.

Unless State Road 415 is widened between State Road 46 and Deltona, the consultants found few more cars would use a "spur" between SR 415 and the expressway north of Lake Jesup.

Authority members took no action on the report.

On another matter, the authority approved a plan to have a level bridge over Lake Jesup, allowing polluted rainwater to flow directly into the lake and to clean up Six Mile Creek instead — at a savings of about $1.5 million.

Wiener quits DNC race, Brown declares victory

United Press International

WASHINGTON — Rick Wiener withdrew from the race for national Democratic Party chairman Wednesday and endorsed former Jesse Jackson aide Ron Brown, who promptly declared he had enough votes to win.

Wiener, the former head of the Michigan Democratic party, ended his candidacy after several state delegations he had been hoping would support him went instead for Brown, a Washington attorney.

His departure from the race, coupled with the withdrawal earlier this week of former Rep. Michael Barnes of Maryland, left Brown and former Rep. Jim Jones of Oklahoma as the two remaining major candidates. Also in the race is former Rep. James Stanton of Ohio.

However, as soon as Wiener announced his withdrawal, Brown declared victory, contending he had enough guaranteed votes to be elected when the Democratic National Committee chooses a new chairman Feb. 10.

"I now have more than enough votes to win the chairmanship of the DNC. I am very, very pleased and look forward to leading a united party for the next four years," said Brown.

Brown aides, however, refused to release a list of the votes they believe are now guaranteed to them.

Stocks open lower

United Press International

NEW YORK — Prices opened lower Thursday in moderate trading of New York Stock Exchange issues.

The Dow Jones industrial average, which rose 9.46 Wednesday, was off 6.60 to 2259.29 shortly after the market opened.

Declines led advances 480-229 among the 1,210 issues crossing the New York Stock Exchange tape. Early turnover amounted to about 10,270,000 shares.

Before the market opened, the government reported that durable goods orders for December rose 6.4 percent, far above the 0.3 percent hike many economists' had forecast.

A report on the fourth-quarter gross national product data is to be released Friday. Analysts said it would show whether the Federal Reserve's previous efforts to slow the economy's growth have begun to take effect.

Analysts said market participants Wednesday extended gains won since mid-November in a healthy fashion by displaying a more tempered approach to buying than was shown on Tuesday, when the Dow soared 38.04 points.

Occasional profit taking kept the market's recent rally in check, they said.

Dollar falls overseas

United Press International

The dollar was lower against key foreign currencies Thursday in trading on major foreign currency markets. Gold was higher.

In Europe, the dollar began the day in Frankfurt at 1.8390 West German marks, down from 1.8460 West German marks at Wednesday's close.

The dollar began the day in Zurich at 1.5655 Swiss francs, down from 1.5685 Swiss francs. In Paris, the dollar opened at 6.2605 French francs, down from 6.2750 French francs on Wednesday.

The dollar opened in Brussels at 38.77 Belgian francs, down from 38.86 Belgian francs, and began the day in Italy at 1.34575 Italian lire, down from 1.34940 Italian lire.

In London, the British pound began the day at $1.7750 compared with $1.7720 on Wednesday.

In earlier trading in Tokyo, the dollar eased slightly against the Japanese yen in slow trading, closing at 127.52 yen, down 0.13 yen from Wednesday's close.

Dealers said dollar-selling intervention by the U.S. Federal Reserve was a major factor in the U.S. currency's decline.

President Bush's comment that he hopes the U.S. central bank will not tighten credit policy also contributed to the dollar's slide, a dealer said.

In early New York trading, the dollar was firmer against key foreign currencies in quiet trading.

Dealers said there was a tendency to buy dollars, although traders were cautious ahead of a meeting of the Group of Seven scheduled for next week.

Women can prevent reinfected bladders

DEAR DR. GOTT: Cystitis has been plaguing me for about a year. Is there any new therapy available?

DEAR READER: Cystitis (bladder infection) has a variety of causes. In general, the disease appears in two forms.

Acute cystitis begins suddenly with painful, frequent urination. The urine often contains blood. Acute cystitis almost always affects women, is usually related to sexual intercourse and is caused by bacterial infection. The diagnosis is established by a urine culture, a test in which a sterile urine sample is obtained. The bacteria in the urine are identified and tested against an array of antibiotics. In this manner, the most effective antibiotic is chosen.

Treatment is almost always successful. To prevent re-infection, women can carry out two simple procedures.

First, women should wipe themselves from the front after urinating, from the back after defecating. This technique will stop intestinal bacteria from entering the bladder opening and causing cystitis.

Second, women should empty their bladders after sexual relations. This will prevent residual bladder-urine from becoming infected and will wash out the urethra (bladder opening).

Acute cystitis, although common, is readily treated and prevented.

On the other hand, chronic cystitis is more of a problem. This debilitating disease has an unknown cause and is associated with urinary frequency and abdominal pain. As many as 90,000 women may suffer from chronic interstitial cystitis. However, experts estimate that the actual number of undiagnosed cases may be five times this number. Treatment with antibiotics is inappropriate. However, many cases respond to periodic distension of the bladder (with water through a tube) under anesthesia. Women with chronic cystitis should be under the care of urologists, specialists in diseases of the urinary tract.

WIN AT BRIDGE

By James Jacoby

"Cover an honor with an honor" is one of those easy bridge sayings that should be taken as anything but gospel. Yes, it's usually right to cover an unsupported honor when led from dummy, and of course it's a natural play to cover a jack with the king or queen when you are the declarer and the opening lead is through the dummy. But the natural play is not always the right play, and the efficient declarer should consider the alternatives before making his play decision.

Today's South couldn't wait to put up the heart king from dummy. Of course East won the ace and switched to the queen of diamonds. The defense took two diamond tricks and then waited to take the setting trick in clubs.

Everything is different if South calmly plays a low heart from dummy at trick one, since the king of diamonds can no longer be attacked. Eventually declarer will take a ruffing finesse with dummy's K-Q of hearts and get rid of a diamond. That will limit the defenders to three tricks. Note that East cannot counter this strategy by going up with the heart ace anyway at trick one. Although his side could then take two diamond tricks, South would get two club pitches on the K-Q of hearts.

James Jacoby's books "Jacoby on Bridge" and "Jacoby on Card Games" (written with his father, the late Oswald Jacoby) are now available at bookstores. Both are published by Pharos Books.

HOROSCOPE

By Bernice Bede Osol
YOUR BIRTHDAY
January 27, 1989

The year ahead has many good things in store for you. However, it could take some of the bloom off the rose if you involve yourself with people whose ideals are not equivalent to yours.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 19) Unless you are alert at all times in your business dealings today, someone who is much more wide awake may end up getting the drop on you. Stay on your toes. Get a jump on life by understanding the influences which are governing you in the year ahead. Send for your Astro-Graph predictions today by mailing $1 to Astro-Graph, c/o this newspaper, P.O. Box 91428, Cleveland, OH 44101-3428. Be sure to state your zodiac sign.

PISCES (Feb. 20-March 20) Do not accept as gospel today the comments of a friend of yours who tends to have a somewhat jealous nature. This person's comments are likely to be more green with envy than true blue.

ARIES (March 21-April 19) Your efforts could be ineffective today if you and the people with whom you'll be involved do not have well-defined objectives. Be sure everyone is aiming for the same targets.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20) There's a possibility today that you may waste more time and energy on devising reasons why you shouldn't do certain things than you will on being productive.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20) Do not be a wishful thinker where your present obligations are concerned, particularly those of a financial nature. Problems aren't likely to be eradicated as if by magic.

CANCER (June 21-July 22) In order to conclude a tiresome matter to your satisfaction today you cannot treat it in an indifferent fashion. You must be determined and tenacious at the close.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22) Unfortunately, you are not likely to find helping hands today to do things for you that you should be taking care of yourself. Roll up your sleeves and start doing what needs doing.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22) You might be too much of a gambler for your own good today. Don't bank on Lady Luck to bail you out if you take a foolish financial risk.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 23) Some information about your family that you want to keep confidential could leak out today unless everyone involved appreciates the value of secrecy as much as you do.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24-Nov. 22) Usually you're a rather intuitive and perceptive person, but today your hunches could be off the mark. Don't let fuzzy feelings cause errors in judgment.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23-Dec. 21) If you want to buy something special today, keep your top price in mind and don't go beyond it. Should your desires exceed your common sense, you might make a bum deal.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19) Career associates might not show you the same consideration today you have shown them. To be on the safe side, don't expect favors just because you were a good guy in the past.

Bulls waste Jordan's 10,000th

For Michael Jordan, becoming the second-fastest player in NBA history to score 10,000 points, playing hurt no less, was a tainted accomplishment.

"If we had won the game, I would have been much more appreciative, but it didn't happen that way," Jordan said after Charles Barkley led the Philadelphia 76ers to a 120-108 triumph over his Chicago Bulls Wednesday night.

Jordan needed 303 games to reach 10,000 points, second only to Wilt Chamberlain, who did so in 236 contests.

Elsewhere in the NBA, Detroit edged Golden State 105-104, Indiana downed Boston 103-94, Dallas crushed the LA Clippers 117-98 and Utah defeated San Antonio 107-103.

Sukova, Graf advance to finals

MELBOURNE, Australia — Helena Sukova of Czechoslovakia struggled into her second Australian Open final Thursday and will face Steffi Graf, who eased past Gabriela Sabatini at the $3 million tournament as on-court temperatures reached 142 degrees.

Sukova, seeded fifth, defeated New Zealander Belinda Cordwell 7-6 (7-2), 4-6, 6-2 in a 139-minute match at Flinders Park, where air temperature reached 91 degrees.

Graf, who won all four Grand Slam events last year, defeated a bewildered Sabatini 6-3, 6-0 in the first Grand Slam event of 1989. Sabatini was the only player to beat Graf last year, a feat she accomplished twice before losing the U.S. Open final which clinched Graf's sweep.

"I'm surprised at the way the match worked out," said Graf. "Gabriela was not up to her best, that's for sure."

COLLEGE HOOPS

Schintzius serves up Gator win

NASHVILLE, Tenn. — Dwayne Schintzius of Florida forced overtime by hitting 2 free throws with one second left in regulation Wednesday after Vanderbilt fans drew a technical for throwing tennis balls at him, then scored 7 straight in overtime to give the Gators an 81-78 Southeastern Conference victory.

With the Commodores ahead 72-70, Florida's Livingston Chatman threw the ball away with 1 second left in regulation. Although Vanderbilt simply needed to inbound successfully to win, fans hurled balls onto the court to taunt Schintzius, who was suspended this season for hitting a student with a tennis racket on the Florida campus.

Officials promptly called the technical, and Schintzius hit both free throws to forge a 72-72 tie at the end of regulation.

Redwings lose without Probert

Glen Sather, a maverick fond of bucking odds, believes in reclamation projects. When the coach and general manager of Edmonton named his team for last year's All-Star Game, he was adamant that Bob Probert be included.

But Wednesday, the very day Sather named the 1989 All-Star team without Probert, the troubled Red Wing was suspended for the third time this season and Detroit went on to lose for the third time in four games, 6-3 to the Buffalo Sabres.

Detroit's talented but problematic winger seemingly had rebounded from repeated alcohol problems. On Wednesday, Probert was supposed to be at Joe Louis Arena at 5:45 p.m., but didn't arrive until 6:10 p.m. He was suspended for one game without pay after a meeting with Coach Jacques Demers.

"It definitely was a distraction," Demers said of the Probert incident after the loss. "I feel for my players. This is a young team and very fragile."

Rollins loses by one to No. 6 FIT

BY JIM RICKENBACKER
Herald Correspondent

WINTER PARK — Rollins, atop Division II statistically in free-throw shooting, missed only one of 11 attempts during the second half of Wednesday night's Sunshine State Conference showdown with Florida Institute of Technology.

The trouble is, it came three seconds before time expired at Enyart-Alumni Fieldhouse and left Rollins on the short side of 65-64 score.

A season-high crowd of 1,059 watched as Rollins repeatedly rallied throughout the second half, the last coming when the Tars erased a 63-59 deficit.

Cameron Forbes, who snuffed out Ashley Smith's baseline shot just inside the four-minute mark, finished off a three-point play with 2:22 left. And Sam Arterburn gave Rollins its last lead (64-63) on a layup courtesy of Dan Wolf's long pass.

Trailing 64-63, FIT (15-1, 4-0) regained the lead on a pair of free throws by Ashley Smith (game-high 22 points) with 1:45 remaining.

When Rollins (8-9, 1-4) got the ball 40 seconds before game's end, Devon Kelley knocked it away from Forbes under FIT's basket 28 seconds later. Forbes snatched an offensive rebound on an errant shot and Smith was fouled him.

Forbes' first free throw on the one-and-one situation bounced off the rim, effectively ending the Tars' chances for an upset.

"Give Tom (Klusman) credit. He outcoached us, starting out with that triangle and two defense on (Dwight) Walton and Kelley," said FIT Coach Tom Follard, relieved to have escaped with FIT's second road victory in the history of this heated rivalry. "Tom did a great job of mixing defenses and offenses all game."

"Rollins did a better job of controlling the tempo against us than any team we've played all year. I thought they played much better as a team. And we played like the 26th-ranked team rather than the sixth-ranked team. Lots of times we didn't play like a club that's won 12 in a row."

The Tars' trio of Wolf (13 points total), Arterburn (8) and Martin kept pace the ultra-physical Panthers in the first half. Four times the teams were tied, but Wolf's third three-pointer of the half ensured Rollins of a 32-31 halftime advantage.

Martin scored 16 of his team-high 21 points after intermission, nine coming on a trio of three-points in the first five minutes of the second half.

"We did things to neutralize their awesome talent," said Klusman, whose team is in jeopardy of missing the four-team conference tournament at regular season's end. "The whole thing for us is to keep getting better as a team. That's been our goal since day one."

Fourth time's the charm

Tribe overtakes Patriots to win in final seconds

By TONY DESORMIER

ALTAMONTE SPRINGS — How many times can a team come back?

The Seminole High School Fighting Seminoles managed to come back on four different occasions on Wednesday night at Lake Brantley High School, the fourth time finally overtaking the host Patriots to win 72-70.

Seminole improved to 10-8 with the win while Lake Brantley fell to 6-10.

"For three quarters, we just stood around," said Seminole coach Greg Robinson. "They played a tight zone on defense, so we couldn't get to the hoop. We wanted to, but they wouldn't let us do anything that we wanted."

"The guys did a great job in the last two minutes. I looked up at the clock with 2:47 left and we were down by seven."

Over that next 2:47, the Tribe would outscore their hosts 15-6. Keying the explosion were steals by Seminole guards Bernard Eady and Brandon Cash.

Cash also dropped in a pair of three-point field goals to help bring the 'Nolca back. His second three-pointer, which came with 41 seconds remaining in the game, tied the score at 70-70. Twenty seconds later, Cash stole a Lake Brantley pass and fed Earl Williams for the winning basket.

Wasted in the loss was an outstanding effort by Lake Brantley center Bo Pamplin, who scored a game-high 26 points and pulled in 14 rebounds. He also had two blocked shots and was called for defensive goaltending once.

"We couldn't stop their big kid in the middle," said Robinson. "He just killed us."

What stopped Pamplin was the play of his own team. In the first half and into the third quarter, the Patriots were handling the Seminoles by working the ball inside to Pamplin. But when Lake Brantley tried to run with Seminole down the stretch, that took Pamplin out of its offense.

"Their press hurt us. We didn't handle the press," said Lake Brantley assistant coach Frank Gooch. "We didn't play smart in the fourth quarter at all."

An example of what Gooch was talking about came right near the end of the game. Down by two with about six seconds left, Lake Brantley's Trey White pulled up and attempted a potential game-winning three-point shot. White, who was

Lake Brantley wasted a great effort by center Bo Pamplin (No. 30) on Wednesday night, falling to Seminole 72-70. Pamplin scored a game-high 26 points, had 14 rebounds and two blocked shots, including this one of a shot by Seminole's Robert Moore * but couldn't keep the Patriots from squandering a seven-point lead with 2:47 left in the game.

SCC falls to DBCC in conference clash

DAYTONA — Kevin Simmons poured in a game-high 28 points and led Daytona Beach Community College to an 82-68 Mid-Florida Conference victory over Seminole Community College Wednesday night before 801 fans at the Scot Palace in Daytona.

DBCC improved to 22-1 with the victory and 7-0 in the MFC. The Raiders dropped to 17-7 and 5-2.

"We played very well. I'm not disappointed in the way we played at all," Seminole coach Bill Payne said. "We hustled and played good defense, we were just up against a very talented team. Daytona is extremely tough and they turned out to be every bit as good as I expected, if not better."

Simmons was unstoppable as he connected on 11 of 18 field goals, including three of four from three point range. Elgin Downey added 17 points while Clifton Sykes netted 13. T.J. Scaletta and William "Wimpy" Woods led Seminole with 12 points apiece.

The Scots jumped out to a quick 5-1 lead with back to back jumpers by Downey and Simmons before Seminole got on track. The Raiders scored nine straight points behind the play of Woods and Nick Milledakis to take a 10-5 lead with 16:49 to play in the opening half.

The teams then went back and fourth before Daytona made a seven point run with two inside field goals by Harry Hart around a three point field goal by Downey to give Daytona a 16-15 lead with 9:33 remaining in the first half.

Robert Thomas then drilled a three point field goal to give Seminole a two point lead only to have Downey answer with a three point field goal of his own to put the Scots back in front.

Mike Gaskill then hit a driving layup before Hart put in a short

Lions wrestle 57-21 win away from DeLand

OVIDEO — The Ovidio High matmen cornered another victim in their Lion's den Wednesday night, this time the DeLand Bulldogs were the Lions' prey as Ovidio mangled the Dogs, 57-21, in prep wrestling action at Ovidio in front of 301 fans.

The Lions ensured themselves a winning season for the first time in five years with the win moving their record to 10-3 while the Bulldogs dropped to 5-8. Both teams prepare for this weekend's Seminole Athletic Conference championships at Lake Mary High on Friday and Saturday.

Junior varsity move-up Jeff Messenger got a pin in his varsity debut at 112 pounds over Pat Glemetti in 5:49 while teammate Kevin Newton had an easy night of things with a win by forfeit at 119.

"Jeff Messenger's pin really set the tone for tonight," Lion head coach Mark Geary said of his fleshy grappler. "The kids are looking a lot better as the season progresses. They're starting to go after the moves real well and they looked good on their feet, too."

Ken Schrupp kept the Lions' winning ways intact with a pin over Don Brown in 4:42 and Matt Rogers hammered Trevor Brant with a pin in 1:02. Paul Isaacson kept on the heat with a pin over Kurt Cryche in 3:17, but Rion Hewitt and Jason Bell each scored pins over Lions for 12 DeLand points.

At 152, Brian Boxley pinned Jeff Gilogely in 1:44 and Kyle Larum followed suit with a pin in 2:52. DeLand's Willie Postell got a pin and then the Lions' heavyweights finished business for Ovidio as Chris Ison got a pin. John Black scored a win by forfeit, and Mike Kobla fought out an 18-13 decision to end the scoring.

Lake Brantley, Lyman win in shutouts

From Staff Reports

Lake Brantley broke loose for four second half goal en route to a 6-0 shelling of Seminole Wednesday night in girls prep soccer action at Seminole High School.

The Lady Patriots, ranked fourth in class 4A, improved to 19-3-3 overall and will return to action in the district tournament. Seminole dropped to 11-11 overall and will also return to action in the district tournament.

"We played well in the first half and managed to stay close," Seminole coach Suzy Reno said. "The second half was a different story, we just fell apart."

Seminole was down just 2-0 in the first half, but lost goalie Bobbie Osbourne to an injury. Seminole backup goalie Heather Brown then came in and could not contain the powerful Lady Patriots offense. "We had to go with our second and third goalie and we couldn't stop them," Reno said. "Once we lost Bobbie (Osbourne) we got taken out of the game."

Lyman 3, Oviedo 0

LONGWOOD — The Lyman Lady Greyhounds scored three second half goals to defeat the visiting Oviedo Lions 3-0 in Seminole Athletic Conference action on Wednesday night.

The win improves Lyman's record to 11-6-5 while Oviedo falls to 5-15-0. After a scoreless first half, Tracy Sher put the Lady Greyhounds ahead 1-0, scoring on an assist from Tammy Fulsang.

Later in the half, Fulsang and Beth Robinson scored insurance goals on assists from Jen McAvoy and Pam Wise, respectively. "We were having problems in the final third, making that final pass to get into good shooting position," said Lyman coach Laura Roundtree. "We were shooting in the first half, they just weren't going in."

"In the second half, our connecting of passes was much better, especially in the final third."

Roundtree also singled out Cindy Kirkconnel for her outstanding play at stopper against Oviedo. "She played really well," Roundtree said. "She was able to go forward and get into the attack."

Lyman ended up outshooting Oviedo 30-1 as Lady Greyhound keeper Becky Carr notched the shutout without having to make a save. Oviedo goalie Michelle Freeman was called on to make nine saves. In corner kicks, Lyman held an 8-0 advantage.

 bank shot. Simmons then hit two consecutive jumpers, one a three pointer to give DBCC a 26-23 lead with 6:45 to play in the opening 20 minutes.

Seminole then picked up a free throw by Barnes and a bucket by Gaskill before Barnes came up with a steal and a layup to even things up at 28-28 at the 5:32 mark. The teams then traded buckets until Daytona scored 10 straight points to take a 45-38 advantage with less than one second to play in the half.

Scaletta then hit a jumper from the corner to trim the lead to 45-40 at the intermission.

Seminole opened the second half strong with Terry Acox scoring the first four points. Eric George then hit a jumper for Daytona before Milledakis and Woods hit consecutive hoops to give Seminole a 48-47 lead with 16:07 to play.

The Scots, though, scored the games next nine points to take control. Simmons opened the run with a field goal followed by a three pointer by Downey. George then came up with a steal and a bucket before Downey capped the scoring with a bank shot to give DBCC a 56-48 lead with 11:47 to play.

"We got caught up in playing in Daytona's tempo and we can't play that style of basketball," five-for-five in the fourth quarter up until then, hit the back of the rim.

"That didn't upset us the game, but that's an example of us not playing smart," said Gooch. "Why try to win it. Step in, take the two points and let it. It's stuff like that, not shooting well when we had the opportunity and taking bad shots instead of running more time off the clock."

"Even when we were running our offense, we must have missed half a dozen easy shots. And we didn't shoot well from the free throw line (10-for-19 while Seminole was 15-for-28). It's those intangibles we need to work on."

Winter Park 61 Apopka 55

APOPKA — It's an NBA week for the Winter Park boys basketball team in the estimation of Wildcat coach Kerry Patrick.

It started on Monday when the Wildcats were beaten at home by Oak Ridge 74-60. That was followed by Wednesday night's 61-55 Metro Conference victory over the scrappy Apopka Blue Darters. On Friday night, defending District 4A-10 champion Evans visits Winter Park.

"We just persevered tonight," said Patrick, whose outfit used the charity stripe to run its record to 12-6 overall and 9-1 in the conference. "We shot 35 percent from the field, but hit on 15-of-18 free throws. We kept our poise considering we didn't play well."

Willy Daunic paced the Cats with 21 points, including all six fourth-period free throws. Dan Ostergaard, who starts at guard opposite Daunic, contributed a season-high 18 points. Senior center Danny Rubin added 11 points.

LBHS Freshman 51 Bishop Moore 45

ORLANDO — Jeff Kleiman scored 17 points as the Lake Brantley High School freshman boys basketball team came back from a halftime deficit to beat Bishop Moore 51-45.

At the half, Bishop Moore led Lake Brantley 24-22. The score was tied 35-35 after three quarters.

Be choosy about child care

By VICKI DeSORMIER
Herald correspondent

More than 50 percent of households in the United States are in a situation where both parents work and need someone to care for their children while they are out earning a living.

In some cases, a single parent is faced with the responsibility of finding someone to care for the children while they are on the job.

"That's not always an easy thing," said Geneva Gano, director of the Head Start program in Seminole County. "You have to do some research and find a program that is right for you and your child."

Since the quality of child care facilities and the experience of those who care for children varies widely, parents will want to explore all the alternatives before making such an important decision.

The Better Business Bureau of Central Florida offers advice to those who are struggling to find a care facility that meets all their requirements.

Don't put it off!

One of the key steps in choosing a center is to start your search early. Don't wait until the week before you need child care to begin looking. Oftentimes, there are waiting lists. Begin by asking your friends and neighbors where their children are enrolled.

By starting early, you will also give yourself plenty of time to make the right choice.

"We have a good supply of child care facilities in this area," said Brenda Griffin, head of the Seminole County Pre-K program. "But the demand is growing daily. I'd recommend that people start looking at programs as soon as possible."

Gano echoed Griffin's better-safe-than-sorry advice. "You don't want to be left in the cold, so start looking as early as you're able."

Child care is not merely baby-sitting. The caregivers have a great deal of influence on the child. Make sure that their philosophies correspond with yours.

By starting early, you can talk to the individuals involved, check their credentials, speak with other parents involved in the program and make a logical informed decision.

"One thing you want to be sure of is that learning is taking place," Gano advised. "When you go to the center, look for children touching and experimenting with things. Observe the interactions between children and teachers. Make sure there is space set aside for creative outlets and quiet time. And make sure there is an area for large muscle stimulation—playing and exercise, that is."

Experts all agree that supervision is the key to appropriate child care. They recommend you talk not only with the center's director, but also with those who deal with the children. Don't shy away from any questions that you feel is important. If it is important to you, the answer you get may help you make your choice.

Is it your type?

Different types of child care have their own sets of pros and cons, depending on what your needs are and what sorts of budget restraints you have.

Most child care facilities are aimed at specific age groups, since each age has its own needs that must be met.

One of the most expensive ages child care is from infancy to about two and a half years. (This is basically the pre-toilet trained stage.) Often the care is in either in your home or that of the caregiver.

Such young children require a great deal of individualized attention and interaction with both adults. Look for a loving caregiver who shares your beliefs. Select a home that is like your own or hire someone to come to your home.

With the nursery- to kindergarten-age, learning in a social setting is important in order to teach your child to get along with others. It also gives the child a good start on education. While these youngsters need love and attention, they also need structure and discipline.

"We recommend that parents look at the educational aspect very carefully," Gano warned. "The Seminole County Head Start Program offers early learning programs in a caring environment. That is what a parent needs to be sure of before they enroll a child in a nursery school."

Once a child is in school, child care concerns are not over. There are summer and Christmas breaks, teacher vacations and other holidays that probably do not coincide with your own. In such cases, after-school care would be in order.

The ideal situation would be one affiliated with your child's school.

"Many schools do offer such programs, but not all of them do," Gano said. "Ask the dean or guidance counselor for information."

If that doesn't pan out, other programs are available. The Seminole County YMCA has an assortment of programs throughout the year at a reasonable cost. Local places of worship and established daycare facilities also offer programs.

Camps, both of the day and overnight variety, are readily available. Use the same care in selecting a camp as you would any other child care facility. When possible, select a camp that specializes in something that is of special interest to your child.

Selective checking

To make things easier for yourself, consider the following when considering a child care center:

Location: The facility should be conveniently located so you do not have to travel far to drop off or pick up your child or in case of an emergency.

Hours of operation: Depending on your work schedule, the facility may not be appropriate. Some centers do not open before a certain time or close precisely at the appointed hours. Some offer no exceptions; others charge extra to care for your child outside those parameters.

Transportation: If you are not able to bring your child, find a facility that provides a bus service. Check if the bus will pick you, child up at school, drive them to activities (such as dance lessons, sports practice) and then take them back to the center. In any case, weigh the cost of such transportation.

Education: See that the center offers the kind of educational stimulation you feel is appropriate for your child. Ask questions. Observe the children already enrolled there.

Cost: One of the most important considerations is the cost of child care. You must be able to afford the care. If you are spending much of your salary on child care, it might be better to stay at home with your children.

In many government-sponsored facilities, cost is based on a sliding scale. In other words, the amount you pay is a certain percentage of your income.

Some of the more progressive companies are beginning to offer child care services to their employees, but widespread availability of such advantages is far off in the future. Until such time, parents must carefully choose into whose hands they place their children.

CALENDAR

Charity run set for Heathrow

The Annual Seminole Winter Classic eight-kilometer (five-mile) run, sponsored by the Longwood Rotary Club, is set for Saturday, Jan. 28, at 8:30 a.m. The benefit run will begin on International Parkway near the Heathrow Shops in Heathrow. Long-sleeve T-shirts will be received upon payment of the entry fee—$8 through Jan. 27 or $10 the day of the race. For pre-registration, call Track Shack at 898-1313.

Dance company offering auditions

"Dance" Central Florida will have auditions on Sunday, Jan. 29, at 1:30 at The World of Dance and Performing Arts, 2585 Park Drive, Sanford. Interested dancers from age 11 and up are welcome to try out for the dance company, which consists of dancers with limited budgets from all different dance schools. The company works on performances given each January. Members of the company enjoy four free hours of rehearsal time and several free dance seminars. For further details, call 321-4299.

Honesty's best policy with the terminally ill

DEAR ABBY: This is in regard to "One Against Many," who wants to tell a close relative that she—the relative—is terminally ill. Other family members are against telling her. Abby, I am on your side.

I am absolutely outraged that a physician would violate the privileged doctor-patient relationship by revealing a patient's condition to family members while withholding the truth from the patient.

I think every adult has the right to know the truth about his or her condition, and relatives who are concerned with how he or she will react should be prepared to lend support in any way possible. To withhold the truth—however sad—from adults for whatever reason is patently unfair. It is the patient's right to have the necessary information to maintain control of his or her life for as long as possible.

My mother died of cancer, and it would have been inconceivable for me and a grave insult to her intelligence to have judged her unfit to know of this painful but unavoidable reality.

You may use my name.
PENNY BAKER

DEAR ABBY: After reading the letter concerning whether or not to tell a terminally ill patient the truth about her condition, I had to write. I feel qualified to comment because three days ago we had a memorial service for my husband.

He was given six to 12 months to live—that was less than two months ago. After the initial shock, we made what time he had left count. My husband was only 45 years old, and he had never been sick, so getting such news was hard to take.

Seven of his longtime friends from five states came to visit us. I cannot describe how much that meant to my husband. He accepted his impending death and helped me plan the service. At 42, I wasn't prepared to cope with it, but he gave strength to me and our children, 16 and 21.

ADVICE

ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

We did it together.

I am all for total honesty, I say, tell your loved one the truth. The chances are that he or she knows it already. They can read it in the eyes of those they love and who are caring for them.

GINGER M.

DEAR ABBY: I've read your column for years, but this is my first time to write. I was pleased to see your answer to "One Against Many." I share your opinion. I was also one against many when my father was diagnosed as terminally ill. I live in California and he was living in New York when I was told that he was terminally ill, so I went East to see him and the rest of my family.

I wanted so much to talk honestly with him about so many things, but I was not allowed to because his sister (my aunt) told me that if he knew the truth he would kill himself. She insisted that she knew her brother better than I knew my own father.

Abby, my father already knew the truth. But out of respect for my aunt, I chose to abide by her judgment. Now I realize it was a grave mistake. Maybe my experience will help others.

SAD IN SACRAMENTO

DEAR SAD, GINGER AND PRNNY: I can only reiterate my original advice to anyone who is faced with that decision: "Do unto others..."

And for the record, my mail has been running overwhelmingly in favor of total honesty—no game-playing. It's the patient's right to know the truth.

Legislators come to meet with residents

Seminole County residents will have two opportunities next month to air their concerns to local representatives of the Florida legislature.

The local delegation of two senators and five representatives will meet with the public at Sanford City Hall Feb. 2 at 9:30 a.m. and at Casselberry City Council Chambers Feb. 22 at 6:30 p.m.

The meetings will allow local governments to petition for legislations, and for local residents to address the delegation with concerns on state issues.

At the hearing, residents also will meet Senators Richard Langley and Bud Gardner, and Representatives Frank Stone, Tom Jennings, Stan Bainter, Tom Drage and Art Grindle.

Residents who wish to address the delegation should call Langley's office to be listed on the agenda. For more information, call Brian Jogerst, aide to Langley, at 321-9812.

Festival sets meeting dates

LAKE MARY - The Lake Mary-Heathrow Festival of the Arts has set a general meeting schedule.

The first general committee meeting is set to be held at 6:30 p.m., Thursday, Feb. 16 at Sun Lake Apartments Clubhouse.

Other meetings scheduled for 6:30 p.m. at the clubhouse are on March 16, April 20, and May 15.

Meetings to be at 6:30 p.m. in the Heathrow Board Room are set for June 15, July 20, Sept. 14, Sept. 21, Sept. 28, and Oct. 5.

The third annual Festival of the Arts will be held on the weekend of Oct. 7 and 8.

City commission approves living-area requirements

SANFORD - The city commission has approved an emergency ordinance establishing minimum living area requirements for one- and two-family homes.

The ordinance establishes an 800-square foot requirement for one-family homes and a 700-square foot requirement for two-family homes.

In another matter at the Monday night weekly meeting, the commission denied a request by Pat O'Neill to waive marina ramp fees for a 40-vessel regatta Jan. 28 and Jan. 29.

Commissioner Lon Howell said the only vote to allow the waiver, claiming that "it could help the whole area."

The commission then scheduled a workshop for March 6 at 4 p.m. to discuss the marina fees. Implemented six months ago, "We may decide to raise them," Mayor Betty Smith said.

In other business, the commission:

- Approved an inter-local agreement with Seminole County for a community development block grant program to improve drainage in the Mill Creek area. The program is in its third year.

- Approved a $4,700 contract with Schweizer, Inc. to study the extent of needed renovation in the Sanford Civic Center. Bill Simmons, director of planning and engineering, said the city has a $300,000 grant from the state to improve acoustics.
