There's No Cure For Colds, Yet...

Dr. Lamb

DEAR DR. LAMB—I'm a male, nearly 70 years of age, and for many years I've had such bad colds. Mostly they start out as head colds or sinus trouble. When I have a cold I can't go outside as the cold tightens up and gets worse. What can you do for sinus? Do you think that a gas heater makes it worse? Would a humidifier help? Would changing climates help? Would cold shots help prevent sinus or what other medication should I take?

DEAR READER—as you know, we still don't have a cure for the common cold. I wish we did. There is some hope upon the horizon though. The future possibility of being able to produce Interferon cheaply with bacteria also raises the possibility that the common cold may be quickly aborted by administering Interferon when it first starts. Colds and a gamut of upper respiratory infections are caused by viruses and Interferon looks like one of the most promising anti-virus agents that we've had yet.

If everything works well, possibly within a few years people will be able to be quickly treated for colds rather than just getting symptomatic treatment as occurs today. You might see an ear, nose and throat specialist to see if you have a chronic sinus problem that deserves treatment. Some of these are bacterial and do respond to antibiotics. But the viruses that cause the usual colds and bronchitis are not as affected by antibiotics.

What to do about colds is discussed in The Health Letter number 84, Colds and Flu Group. Prevention and Treatment, which I am sending you. Others who want this issue can send 75 cents with a long, stamped, self-addressed envelope for it to me in care of this newspaper, P.O. Box 1551, Radio City Station, New York, NY 10101. Gas heaters and other forms of dry heat do tend to dry out houses. Some of the houses, particularly in the North are as dry in the dead of winter as the Sahara desert. This dries out the delicate linings of the respiratory system. A humidifier would help provided it's kept clean. Humidifiers that aren't properly cared for can sometimes cause problems in their own right.

Changing climates may not help as much as you think. Don't forget that the respiratory infections are just contagious diseases, which means that you get them from other people.

I've always been amused by the story of the Eskimos who had never experienced a cold in the history of an Eskimo village. A group of scientists went to study the Eskimos and, you guessed it, they infected them with the virus and for the first time the Eskimos had colds. Not because of cold weather but because they had contracted a contagious disease.

DR. LAMB—Someone recommended using a straw to drink water and milk to prevent excess gas from swallowing air as one drinks. It works. I no longer have gas.

DEAR READER—Thank you for your tip. It will help some people. There will still be some air in the back of the mouth and you may still swallow some air but it can help decrease the amount of air you swallow with liquids. It won't prevent gas in the person who unconsciously develops the habit of swallowing air when not eating or drinking.

HOROSCOPE

By HERNICE BEDE OSOL

For Wednesday, August 20, 1980

YOUR BIRTHDAY
August 20, 1980
A busy, hard-earned social calendar could be in store for you this coming year as you come in contact with more and more people who share the same interests. You may even take a couple of short trips.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22)
You should be feeling a spirit of freedom and independence today which enables you to do some of the things you want, like going after a personal goal.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22)
Your intuitive intelligence is again guiding you to make the right choices and decisions about your material affairs. Don't ignore it.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 23)
Group involvements continue to be where you shine again today, so don't hide your light under a bushel. People want to hear what you have to say.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24-Nov. 22)
Concentrate on your status or give your pride in their accomplishment. This is your strong suit today.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23-Dec. 21)
Your outgoing, optimistic outlook will have a marvelous effect upon all with whom you come in contact and you'll be welcomed with open arms.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19)
The uncertainties you feel in the morning will quickly leave you team up with those who are bold in spirit. They'll bring out your best.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 19)
The false start you may feel early in the day will give way to more positive and progressive thinking which will lead you toward your goal.

PISCES (Feb. 20-March 20)
Conditions appear very favorable today, work or careerwise. Set the pace and others will fall in at your side, making things easier.

ARIES (March 21-April 19)
Get your work done early today. By afternoon, you could find yourself much in demand socially and you'll want to be able to take advantage of it.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20)
If there is a project at home you've been wanting to tackle, this may be the day to do it. You're equipped with keen mental, physical and creative aptitudes.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20)
Although you may have a tough time getting out of the house early, once you do you'll find good contacts and get your errands done in litchy-split time.

CANCER (June 21-July 22)
Give money-related matters or business situations your attention today. You're exceptionally sharp in these areas and could correct some old woes.

WIN AT BRIDGE

by Oswald Jacoby and Alan Sontag

The Alharran-Jais book is one quarter by Alharran, who discusses rubber bridge psychology, and three quarters by Jais, who discusses bidding and play from the standpoint of the 1950s.

Alharran says that a sense of timing is most important and gives today's hand as an example.

The South hand is one that only a lucky player ever sees. Most people play all their lives and never get a really strong two-suiter.

South's first four bids were mastery indeed. He had tried to act like a desperate underdog on saving the rubber, when all the time he really expected to make six spades.

Then greed took over. He redoubled!

West stood by his guns, but East was too smart for the greedy South. He bid seven diamonds.

South had been prepared to double seven hearts and lead a club. Now West had become declarer. A double of seven diamonds would almost surely produce a heart lead. South had to lead at seven spades, down one.

By the way, we think South's deceptive bidding was a little absurd. He would have had a much better chance of getting doubled at spades if he had bid four spades right over East's one heart.

Flames Trap, Burn 265 To Death On Arabian Jet

JEDDAH, Saudi Arabia (UPI) — A Saudi Arabian Airways passenger jet that caught fire and was forced back to Riyadh for an emergency landing erupted in flames on the ground, trapping and killing all 265 people on board — most of them Pakistani Muslims on a pilgrimage to Mecca.

Government officials said rescue teams rushed to the Lockheed L-1011 TriStar jet after the plane landed with 265 passengers and a crew of 18 landed at the airport it had left earlier Tuesday for Jeddah.

"But the fire had engulfed most of the aircraft," a joint statement by the Saudi Civil Aviation authorities and the Saudi airline said, explaining the rescuers could not get near the burning craft.

"There was no contact with the plane," the statement said. "It was impossible to open the plane's emergency doors — either from outside or inside — and it was impossible to bring the fire under control despite the massive efforts of firemen."

The 265 death toll on Flight 163, which originated in Karachi, Pakistan, made it the third worst disaster involving a single aircraft in aviation history.

The Saudi statement did not give a breakdown of the nationalities of the passengers and crew, but it was believed most of the passengers were Pakistani Muslims on a pilgrimage to Mecca.

On the ground, the plane went to the end of a runway as rescue workers dashed out and the pilot radioed the crew was trying to remove the passengers through the emergency exits.

But flames engulfed the plane and rescue teams could not open the exits, the Saudi Civil Aviation Authority said. Later explaining there was no contact with the aircraft because of the flames.

Feds Sue Auto-Train

By DIANE PETRYK, Herald Staff Writer

The U.S. Justice Department and the Interstate Commerce Commission filed suit Tuesday in U.S. District Court in Washington to force Auto-Train Corp. to put $500,000 into a special bank account to cover advance bookings should the company go bankrupt.

Daniel Linhardt, senior trial attorney with the ICC Office of Consumer Protection, said the suit is a result of Auto-Train's failure to comply with a Dec. 7, 1979 order requiring the money to be deposited by March 15, 1980.

Linhardt explained that the firm maintains running advance ticket sales of $3 million to $4 million. If the corporation goes into bankruptcy the ticket purchasers would have to compete with large creditors for refunds, he said.

"We're not predicting it (bankruptcy)," Linhardt said, "but the carrier has been in a financially precarious position for some time. We want to make sure no consumer gets hurt."

He said the ICC realizes Auto-Train could not place the full $3 million to $4 million in escrow at this time, but said the order requires them to continually add 1 percent of their gross receipts until the amount equals advance sales.

Auto-Train Senior Vice President and Chief of Operations Dick Goldstein said Tuesday he is familiar with the ICC's program to rescue trucks crewed by paramedics and the cost, which would add about $1.50 per $1,000 of assessed value of real property to the city's tax rate, if funded through the property tax.

Council members have suggested alternative means of funding, including a per-living-unit basis, to increase the share of the proposed burden which would be handled by mobile home dwellers.

The paramedic program, as currently conceived by city officials, calls for the hiring of seven state-certified paramedics who can perform a wide variety of life-saving techniques beyond first aid, purchasing a new rescue truck costing about $30,000, and installing about purchasing $4,000 worth of new equipment in the city's present rescue vehicle.

To put the program in place, hiring all seven crew members at once and purchasing all equipment immediately would raise the price tag of the first year's budget to $180,000, according to figures prepared by Fire Chief Charles Holtzman.

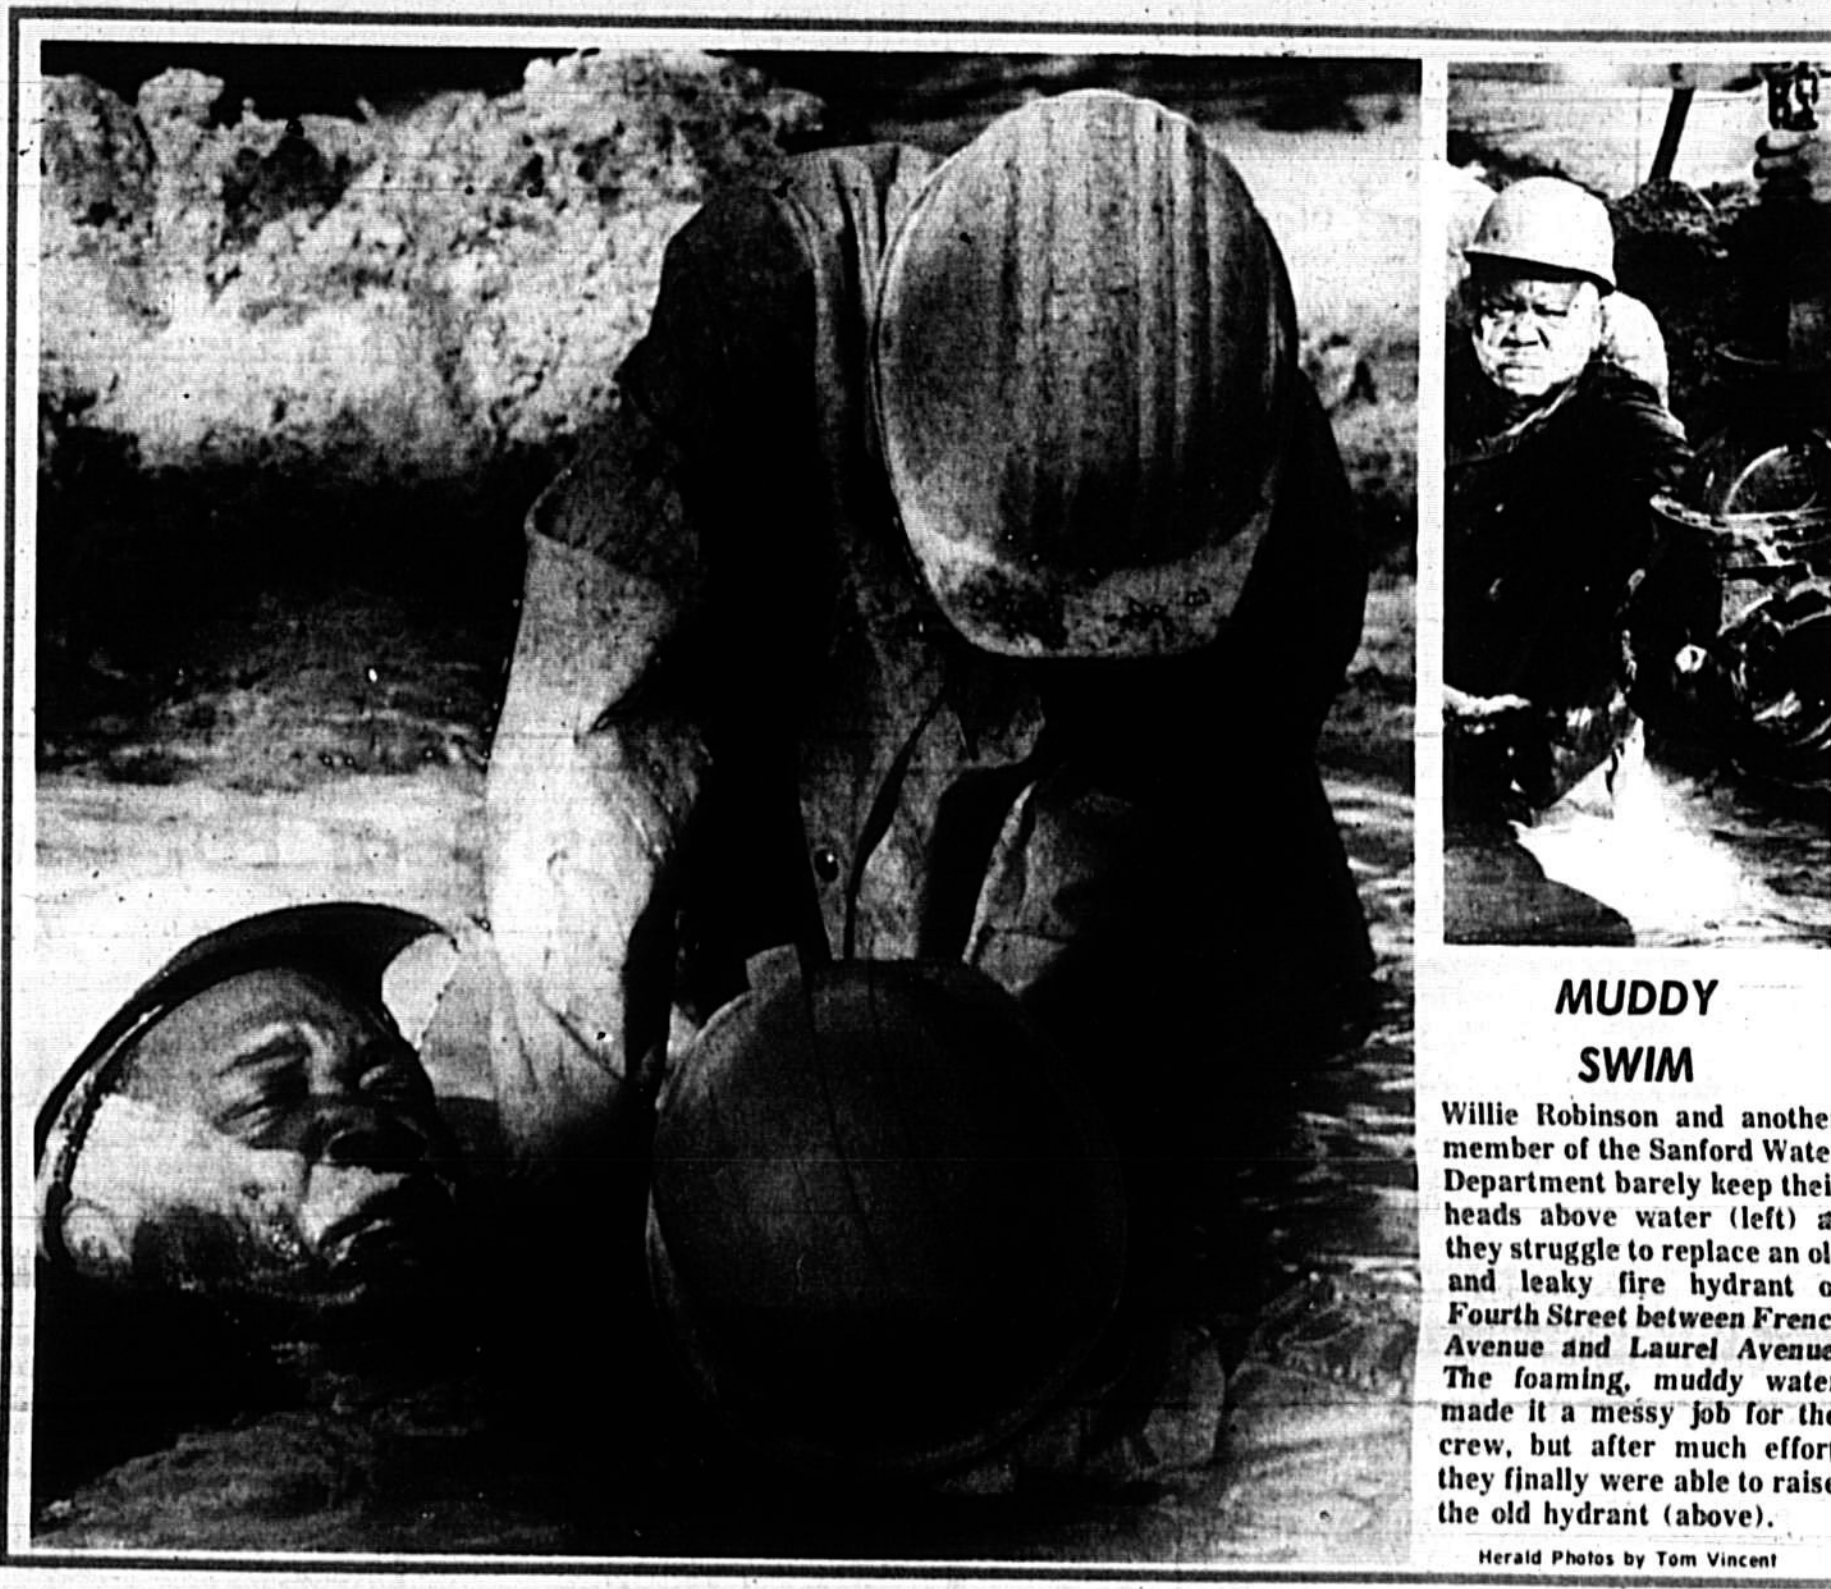

However, City Manager Richard Rozansky said actual costs would be less, because the city would be unable to instantly buy equipment, train firefighters and hire a full crew of paramedics.

The straw poll on the November ballot was a compromise measure worked out during the meeting mainly between councilmen William Jacobs and John Torcaso, the plans leading proponents, and Councilman John Bennett, who said he opposes the plan because the city cannot afford it.

After the unanimous vote, Piland named the three to work out wording on a plan to educate the voters about the program and its cost.

The three are scheduled to present the plan to the council when it meets next Tuesday evening.

Following debate on the paramedic program, the council members turned their attention to the fiscal 1981 city budget.

MUDDY SWIM Willie Robinson and another member of the Sanford Water Department barely keep their heads above water (left) as they struggle to replace an old and leaky fire hydrant on Fourth Street between French Avenue and Laurel Avenue. The foaming, muddy water made it a tricky job for the crew, but after much effort they finally were able to raise the old hydrant (above). Herald Photos by Tom Vincent

Winter Springs Places Paramedic Plan Back On Ballot

By DAVID M. RAZLER, Herald Staff Writer

The proposed Winter Springs paramedic program put up before the voters five weeks ago by the city council, then pulled off the ballot by the council only a week later, has been placed back on the November ballot in a different form.

In its third vote on the proposed program in a straw poll at meetings, the council voted Tuesday night to hold a straw poll to ask voters whether they would favor upgrading the city's rescue service at a cost of about $150,000 for the first year.

The new proposition, approved unanimously by council members, replaces one pulled from the ballot last week which would have given voters the chance to either approve or refuse the program in a binding referendum.

Mayor Troy Piland also named three of the councilmen to come up with a brochure to explain the benefits from moving from the city's current Emergency Medical Technician

Tentative approval was given to a salary schedule which will give city employees roughly a 12 percent total pay hike, 7 percent in the beginning of the fiscal year and another 5 percent seven months into the year beginning in October.

Rozansky said quietly as the council then took up the matter of his salary for the coming year.

At the end of a brief debate a resolution tentatively set the city manager's salary at $21,000 a year for the last five months of the year, $22,000 a year for the last five months.

Rozansky had not asked for any figure above his present $18,000 annual salary, but Piland pointed out city managers for cities the size of Winter Springs are averaging more than $24,000 a year.

Debate on the budget, expected by council members to end up costing city property owners the same $2.05 per $1,000 assessed value they are paying this year, continues next Tuesday at 7:30 p.m. at city hall on Edgemon Avenue.

Pot-Plane Crash Kills Longwood, Maitland Men

Two men, one tentatively identified as a Maitland pilot and the other tentatively identified as a Longwood man, were killed early Tuesday morning when their plane, laden with about 500 pounds of marijuana, crashed near a dirt road in Osteen.

The Volusia County Medical Examiner's office this morning tentatively identified the two bodies found outside the remains of a Cessna Skymaster as Myron Lawenthal III, 32, of Maitland, and James Zollo, 32, of Longwood.

Volusia County Deputies said the two men were killed when the twin-engine plane crashed in a field about four miles from Osteen.

The crash occurred shortly before 3 a.m. Tuesday, said deputies, who arrived on the scene about half an hour after area residents reported hearing a plane coming in low and circling, followed by the sound of it hitting the ground.

Both the marijuana and the two bodies were pulled from the plane, said deputies, who are not sure whether someone had been waiting on the ground got away with any of its load before being scared off.

The plane apparently had been scheduled to land on a dirt road near the crash site, which was shrouded by early morning fog at the time of the crash.

Deputies said they believe the plane picked up the 25-pound plastic-wrapped "bales" of marijuana somewhere in the Caribbean but are still checking the plane's path.

The plane was equipped with a large auxiliary fuel tank, extending its range to more than 1,000 miles. — DAVID M. RAZLER

67,814 County Posts Number Of Eligible Voters

The majority of Seminole County registered voters still designate the Democratic Party as their preference, Seminole Elections Supervisor Camilla Bruce said today.

The way things were going I thought the Republicans were going to catch up," she said, "but the quota is just about the same as it was. There are about 9,000 more Democrats than Republicans. I thought the Republicans were going to close the gap, but they didn't," she said.

Final totals of eligible voters as of Aug. 9 when the registration books closed for the Sept. 9 primary election were: 35,945 Democrats; 26,869 Republicans; 2,772 Independents; and 4,238 others, Mrs. Bruce said.

Mrs. Bruce said there were "an awful lot of cancellations" of registered voters who moved out of the county and registered elsewhere. She said that during the Republican National Convention there was a spurt in Republican voter registration.

The total number of eligible voters is 67,814, the highest number in the county's history. Eligible voters for the election two years ago was 64,000.

Mrs. Bruce said her office has received requests for 688 absentee ballots for the Sept. 9 primary. Requests for absentee ballots will be accepted by the elections office until the day of election "as long as the voter can get the ballot back in by 7 p.m. election night," she said.

Mrs. Bryant's office is the old jail building and at the Interstate Mall will open on Saturdays again for voter registration for the Nov. 4 election on Sept. 6. Registration books for the November election will close on Oct. 4 — DONNA ESTES

Government Drops Nitrite Ban

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The government has dropped its plans to ban sodium nitrite, the preservative used in the nation's bread, hot bacon and other cured meats, but will continue its crackdown on cancer-causing nitrosamines that can be an offshoot of the chemical.

The Food and Drug Administration and the Agriculture Department announced the decision Tuesday after reviewing a controversial 1978 study that claimed to show that sodium nitrite itself produced cancer in laboratory rats.

The agencies said the review showed there is not enough evidence to draw that conclusion. The industry had claimed a ban would pose a health threat and drive some meat products off the market.

Iowa pork farmers were pleased with the decision but angered by the losses of income over the past two years as consumption of nitrite-treated meats dropped.

The decision was good news for the meat industry, which uses the preservative in $1.5 billion worth of products annually. The industry had claimed a ban would pose a health threat and drive some meat products off the market.

Iowa pork farmers were pleased with the decision but angered by the losses of income over the past two years as consumption of nitrite-treated meats dropped.

Old Timers Remember 'Dutch' Reagan As Good Kid

DIXON, Ill. (UPI) — The future Republican candidate for president sat on top of a spotlight and gazed down at the police chief of Dixon, Ill., "Dutch, come down," the chief said.

"Twinkle, twinkle, little star," Dutch answered. "Just who in the hell do you think you are?"

So it was that Ronald Reagan, having struck a blow for civil disobedience, had to go to the police station and was fined the grand total of $1 for getting mildly drunk and feeling destined to climb a stop light and all there.

"It is highly probable the police went easy on him because Dutch Reagan was known all around Dixon as a youth who just escaped the 'clit' of being 'goody goody' because most people couldn't help liking him.

Practically everyone in Dixon and in the other towns where Reagan grew up in the northern and central Illinois still like him. Particularly the many who knew him when he came Hollywood, California and politics, they say, Dutch Reagan has not changed.

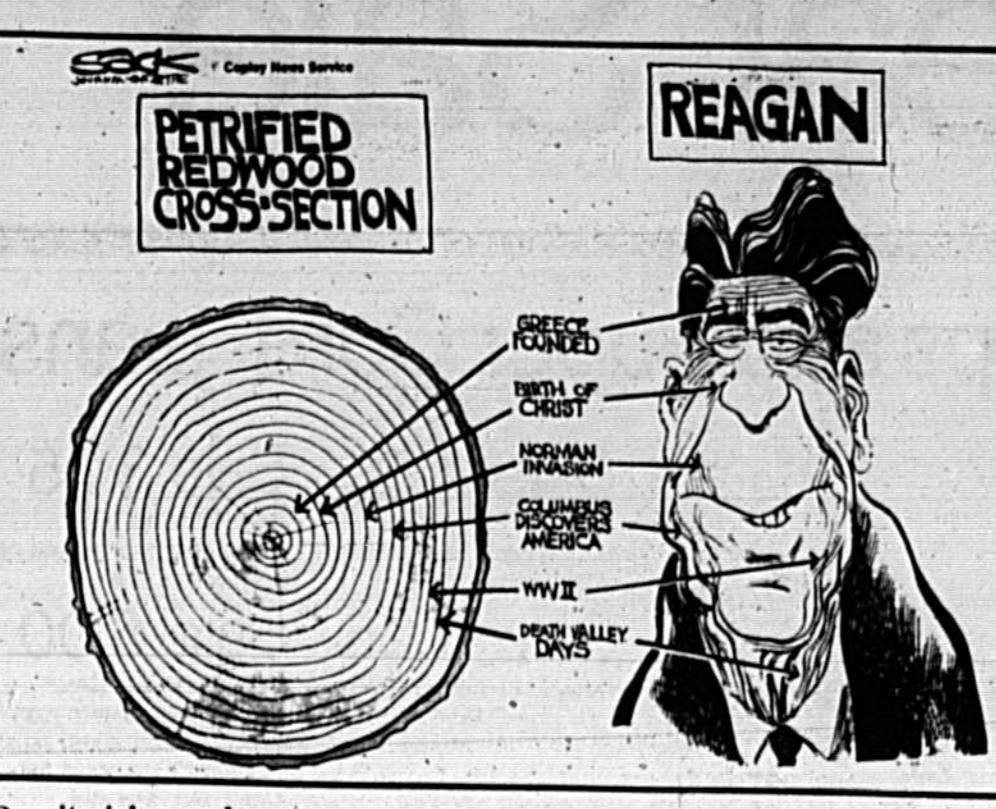

They recall a free-spirited puritan, a Democrat in a Republican world, a poor boy who never seemed to know his poverty, a mother's boy who never seemed to love his rascalship father.

If these appear to be paradoxes, they are the reports of people who knew him through Tampico, the village where he was born; Dixon, where he grew up; and Eureka, where he worked his way through college.

They said he was a youth: —who had an extraordinary capacity for close friendships which he has nourished ever since. The friends he made in Dixon and at Eureka College regard themselves as his intimates now, largely because Reagan has not ceased to treat them as such.

—who teased a black friend in Dixon, telling him to 'go down to the bakery and get me two dozen doughnut holes.' But who also, when three black football teammates were turned away from a hotel in De Kalb, Ill., joined his brother in piling them into a car, driving them to Dixon, and putting them up in the Reagan home.

—who would sit beside the pond at Lowell Park and watch the ear lobs of his fellow lifeguard, John Crabtree, (literally — it was a habit of his at the time) while dreaming some day of possessed Dutch but he climbed up on top and sat there.

"About that time the chief of police drove up in his Model T Ford with Officer Dick Conrad. They got out and said, 'Come down, Dutch, get down.' I don't know what he yelled him to do, but he looked down and said, 'Twinkle, twinkle little star, just who in the hell do you think you are?'

"They got him down and fined him a buck.

"He had the opportunity to sleep with the girls and more of an opportunity to overindulge. But he didn't do it. He'd quit in time. He's better than me. He was the smart guy.

"He had a rough go at school. He lived in more houses than anybody. Old Jack was not that kind of provider and the landlords even in Depression wanted almost fit to kill when he pay the rent he'd say 'go.' "Dutch didn't have clothes. He just didn't have it, period. I never heard him say a word about Old Jack or even make any excuses for him. Old Jack was all man and a yard wide. He was a shoe salesman. He was just thirsty all the time. "I think his mother — I think her influence was so great that it kind of kept Dutch straight. Neil Reagan was a very religious woman but not a Roman whereas Jack was. And there were two boys, Neil and Ron, and one who was raised Catholic and the other boy was raised in the Christian Church.

"His mother was the dominating influence. She used to go up to the county jail on Sundays and sing hymns to the prisoners.

"Dutch was red hot on sports announcing. He never considered movies or politics back there in those days. He'd sit beside you on the bench out at the park and he'd put his arm across the back of your shoulder and play with your ear and talk about sports." Crabtree considers himself a close friend of Reagan's.

lives in the old Reagan place with his wife and likes it. But Nicely has told him he has to be out by Aug. 15.

Staelens sat on a tavern stool and said he didn't want to talk about anything. But he is a gracious man and ended up doing so.

"You know what I am, don't you?" he exploded. "I'm a Democrat."

"Will you vote for Carter then?"

"No."

He wouldn't say why, but vowed he would be long gone from Reagan's natal home before the campaign heats up.

People started calling Reagan "Dutch" in Tampico before he was a year old.

The story is that Jack Reagan, wearied of his son's bawling, snapped "for a fat little Dutchman he sure makes a lot of noise." Neil Reagan apparently thought that was funny and spread the word around. The name stuck to Reagan all the way to Hollywood and most everybody still calls him Dutch in these parts.

The fact is that hardly anyone in Tampico remembers the Reagan family. Hard up as usual, they'd be briefly in Chicago, 30 miles up the road from Tampico, when some say a girl friend from home talked him into taking a screen test. Others maintain the catalyst was another old Dixon girl, gossip columnist Louella Parsons.

The fact is he signed for what seemed an outrageous salary to his old friends in Illinois. Reagan had bet his fraternity brothers he would make the enormous sum of $5,000 a year within five years of graduation.

"He just made it and he sent back a telegram saying 'Pay you, you devil, I did it,'" recalled Harrod.

One of his most memorable roles was that of George Glip, the legendary Gipper of Notre Dame. Reagan did it superbly. He had been playing football for much of his life as tackle and guard for Dixon North and Eureka.

But he was never all that good at it.

"He was good — good in the sense that he'd try like hell," Crabtree said. "But he wasn't husky enough. He made it up in spirit. He really played like crazy. He really tried hard."

"I don't see how he could miss being a good president. Like playing football, he'd try like hell."

Indian Schools Face Extinction

CONCHO, Okla. (UPI) — Nearly a century ago, an Indian school superintendent in Pennsylvania wrote to a colleague that President James Garfield's assassination would be a sad blow to the education of Indian children.

But that's not the case today. Indian boarding schools are being closed or eliminated by Congress after the death of Garfield, an Indian advocate.

But Pratt's fears were not realized until 50 years later when lawmakers began slowly reducing Indian school budgets.

"President Carter, with the help of a budget-conscious Congress, now appears to be fulfilling the final death blow to Indian boarding schools across the nation.

"The number of Indian schools has declined steadily in the 20th century. In Oklahoma, for example, the Cherokee tribe alone had more than 100 schools in 1905.

Today, with the June closing of two Indian boarding schools and a recommendation for closing another, there are just two schools in the state.

Pratt's school, the Carlisle Indian School in Carlisle, Pa., educated and housed thousands of Indian students from across the United States before it was converted into military barracks. Most of the children came from reservations or Indian lands in the Midwest.

Despite school closings, federal appropriations by 1977, $157 million was spent to open 72 boarding schools for a year — an average $2.1 million per facility for schools which seldom housed more than 300 students each, a government study has shown.

One of Oklahoma's remaining boarding schools, the Concho-Arapaho school, rests on about 300 acres of a Cheyenne-Arapaho tract that once covered several hundred square miles near Oklahoma City.

Concho School Principal Arthur Cometsavah calls the elementary and middle school "a survivor" in the eradication of boarding schools. Oklahoma's only remaining Indian high school for boarding students is the Riverside School near Lawton, Okla.

"We provide here what the public schools are supposed to be doing," Cometsavah said. "These little Indian kids don't express themselves openly in a white culture. They need help making academic adjustments."

And Cometsavah takes pride in his students' progress. Although he had been superintendent for just three months, he called students by name and asked them about their academic progress in specific areas during a walking tour of Concho.

"The Indian people were here first," Cometsavah said. "The people who now occupy this country have an obligation to provide an education for these kids."

Sammy White, a spokesman for Oklahoma City's Native American Center, said nearly all national Indian groups oppose closing the schools.

"I'm a product of the Indian schools, but they've changed a lot since then," White said. "Now, many of the students won't have a decent place to live without them."

Cometsavah confirms that nearly all of the 200 students attending Concho are either court referrals, products of broken homes or students with learning disabilities.

But Congress and the president disagreed with Cometsavah and many Indian supporters who argue all the schools should remain open and some should be expanded.

The congressional cutbacks were spearheaded by Sen. Henry Bellmon, R-Okla., a member of the Interior Appropriations subcommittee.

Bellmon has cited annual costs up to $20,000 per pupil for some boarding school operations. The figures led Congress to cut funding for two Oklahoma schools.

President Carter's budget cuts proposed elimination of funding for 10 boarding schools, including two large schools — Fort Sill, Okla., and Stewart, Nev.

"The problem is that seemingly Indian children are being sent to public schools," Bellmon said during March committee hearings. "The enrollment of these schools went down ... (and) with the staff staying almost constant, costs went right through the roof."

A recent General Accounting Office study, sharply critical of Indian boarding schools, confirms Bellmon's statement. The report shows schools with vacant and abandoned dormitories, partially filled classrooms and under-utilized facilities.

Some Indian groups argue that despite the costs and declining enrollment, Indian schools should remain open because they were guaranteed by original treaties.

One treaty, called the Medicine Lodge Treaty of 1867 signed by the Kiowa and Comanche tribes, promises "one schoolhouse and teacher for every 30 Indian children."

Legal claims to right of separate education facilities for Indian students are not accepted by Congressional leaders and their staff experts.

Bellmon's Indian expert, Blythe Thomas, said although she is not qualified to interpret legal language of old Indian treaties, she believes Congress "is interpreting the law to provide the best opportunities possible for Indians."

"The tribes say the government is supposed to follow the treaties," Ms. Thomas said. "But there are more than 400 treaties, so which one do you follow?"

"Indians are simply becoming integrated with the rest of the population," Ms. Thomas said. "But the schools are quite an emotional thing to the tribes. A lot of this has really upset the parents."

She said most of the problems at Indian schools have been caused by several decades of poor management of the facilities by the Bureau of Indian Affairs.

A 1977 GAO report repeatedly criticized the BIA's management of Indian schools, saying the agency had failed to act on criticism frequently leveled at the agency since 1969.

The report stated funds were being mismanaged, unqualified students were admitted to schools, buildings had been abandoned but funds continued to be allocated, and space and manpower were being used inefficiently.

Longwood Raises Occupational License Fees By $15

By JANE CASSELL-BERRY
Herald Staff Writer

Occupational license fees in the City of Longwood have been increased effective Oct. 1 from $25 to $40 at the request of City Administrator David Chacey.

Chacey said Monday night's meeting the increase was needed because there had been no adjustment in fees since 1971, while "everything else has tripled" and it was needed to supplement the budget. The increase is expected to raise this year's revenue from occupational licenses of $23,000 to $38,000 next year.

The city commissioners also voted unanimously (Commissioner John Hipp was absent) to set the minimum water rate at $14, which with the tax will amount to $4, and charge 20 cents per thousand gallons used over 5,000 gallons. Chacey said the increase should provide $25,000, which will go toward acquiring an additional well for the city.

City Commissioner William Mitchell proposed an additional source of revenue for the city. Mitchell said the city is permitted under state law to assess a 500-day tax against a person conducting dog racing in the city. He said that if imposed during the Sanford-Orlando Kennel Club's 120-day racing season, it would bring the city $6,000.

Following the meeting, Mitchell indicated he would like to see this money used for the badly needed sidewalk along County Road 427 for school children.

By a 3-1 vote, the commission approved in first reading an ordinance spelling out restrictions on non-conforming lot platters before 1984. Under the proposed ordinance, in order to get a special exception to build on lots which do not meet present restrictions, the lots must be under separate ownership.

ship and not be continuous. A public hearing and final reading were set for 7:30 p.m., Sept. 15.

Commissioner J.R. Grant voted against the ordinance explaining he did not think it was legal. "We would just be buying ourselves another lawsuit," he said.

The commission decided to install a three-way stop at E.E. Williamson and Tiberon Cove roads as requested in a petition by the residents of Tiberon Cove, but instead instructed Public Safety Director Greg Manning to post "Dangerous Curve" and 25-mph-speed-limit signs at the curve on E.E. Williamson Road.

A resolution was passed to authorize the mayor to sign a contract for the project to E.E. Williamson Road. The project contractor for the project is Base Paving and Construction of Sanford, which had the low bid of $56,286.

The loan will be repaid in 10 equal annual installments with the first payment due on July 21, 1981.

City Attorney Mar-in Rooks told the commission an extension of time had been obtained to allow the city to prepare a way of cutting peak demand for electricity and therefore reducing the need for expensive additional generating capacity. But the utilities say experiments have shown their customers reluctant to sign up for time-of-day rates, especially because of the expense of special meters.

The PSC ordered its staff to prepare time-of-day rate schedules covering each category of residential and commercial customer for Florida Power Corp., Florida Power & Light Co., Gulf Power Corp. and Tampa Electric Co.

The utilities, if they want, will be granted public hearings on the rates before they are put into effect.

The four firms, as ordered by the PSC earlier this year, filed their own proposed time-of-day rates but they did not cover all categories of customers.

"The commission's order was clear," said Commissioner Joe Cresse. "But the companies have not filed tariffs applicable to all classes of customers."

The PSC also approved a request by FP&L to conduct a combined time-of-day pricing and interruptible service experiment with a small number of customers.

Under the experiment, 125 customers selected by the utility would be offered lower rates not only for time-of-day usage but also for allowing FP&L to cut off the power to their heaters and air conditioning 75 minutes every half hour for most of the day.

Cresse and Commissioner Gerald Gunter warned the firm not to think the PSC would await the experiment's results before imposing permanent time-of-day pricing. "I'm not going to wait," Cresse said. "As far as I'm concerned, it's been experimented with and proven effective in this country."

Said Gunter: "There's not a great deal of enthusiasm in the electrical industry of Florida for much change."

PSC Orders Time-Of-Day Electric Rates

TALLAHASSEE, Fla. (UPI) — The state's four major electric utilities, including the two serving Seminole County, have been told they will have to offer time-of-day usage rates to all their customers who want it.

The Public Service Commission Monday instructed its staff to draw up a schedule of time-of-day rates for each of the firms within 30 days.

Under a time-of-day rate structure, customers pay less for electricity consumed during off-peak hours. A housewife, for example, who does the laundry at night, rather than in the morning would save on her electric bill.

The PSC ordered its staff to prepare time-of-day rate schedules covering each category of residential and commercial customer for Florida Power Corp., Florida Power & Light Co., Gulf Power Corp. and Tampa Electric Co.

The utilities, if they want, will be granted public hearings on the rates before they are put into effect.

Bookmobile Visits Set For Sanford

The Seminole County Public Library System Bookmobile unit will be stopping at the Kinart Plaza on Highway 17-92 every other Monday from 10:00 a.m. to 12:00 p.m. The next stop will be Aug. 25.

The bookmobile houses approximately 3,000 volumes covering a wide variety of subject interests.

A schedule of stops can be obtained at the Sanford and Casselberry Branch Libraries or by calling the Special Services section at 320-1014 to have a schedule mailed to your home.

Listen To Body, Says Diet Expert

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — Disembarrassed with continuous failures in her 15-year battle against fat, Melody Marks started consuming all the milkshakes, hot fudge sundaes and orange marmalade her overweight body craved. That's when she lost 60 pounds.

She has maintained her perfect, size-7, 125-pound form for the past three years simply, she claims, by tuning in to her body's needs.

"It's important to learn to listen to your body," she said. "Stop eating by the clock and forget the times as a child when you were made to sit at the table as long as it took you to eat your plate. Eat when your body tells you it's time to eat and stop when your body feels comfortable and not stuffed."

Mrs. Marks, a psychiatric clinician with a Masters degree in social work, believed so firmly in her simple, but effective, method for shedding excess pounds, she gave up her job a year ago and started the Weight Wise program in San Francisco.

Dozens of her followers attest to the effectiveness of her solution to the perennial American problem of overweight that has spawned an $11 billion diet industry, which the American Medical Association says, has a 95 percent failure rate.

"You need not diet," Mrs. Marks, an attractive 5-foot-7 hazel-eyed brunette, tells her individual and group counseling sessions. You need only to know yourself and why you eat: Once you reach a certain point of understanding and insight, weight loss will follow.

The key to her system is self-respect and self-acceptance. In contrast — she points out — to dieting programs that associate weight loss with punishment or self-rejection.

Hillary Pymate, 27, who tried "everything except bypass surgery" to slim down her 300-pound frame, said "incredible things have happened since I met Melody last March. I'm now 6 pounds thinner, Ms. Pymate said she once used food to satisfy her "psychological rather than physical hunger."

Whether I was sad, depressed, frustrated or even happy, I ate. Food was my reward, my comforter — and the source of all my guilt."

After several sessions — at $30 an hour for individual counseling and $65 for an eight-week group encounter — Mrs. Pymate said she learned "I did not have to deprive myself of the pleasure of eating but that I should not use it as a substitute for other needs."

NBA To Investigate 'Epidemic' Drug Use

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — Commissioner Lawrence O'Brien has confirmed the NBA is worried about drug use by players and said a special committee has been formed to study the problem.

Drugs following the league meetings in June. "All general managers and team representatives with any information on this subject have had a continuing responsibility to provide that information to the league office and, in addition, will be required to furnish the same information to the special committee," said O'Brien.

Players, coaches and executives all expressed concern cocaine use has reached epidemic proportions in the league with an estimated 40 to 75 per cent of all players using the drug and free base.

Cocaine is most frequently used in a social setting. A fast-acting drug, it produces euphoria and mood elevation. Because it can alleviate fatigue and enhance sexual enjoyment, some view it as an aphrodisiac but researchers say that, used excessively, it may lead to sexual indifference.

Earl's New Deal His Last Deal

Sports Parade

By MILTON RICHMAN

NEW YORK (UPI) — You have Earl Weaver's word for it. This is the last baseball contract he's signing. When it runs out at the end of 1982, he's all done, finished. He's quitting. The umpires won't have Earl Weaver to kick around anymore.

He even gets worked up over close victories, such as that 6-3 squeaker over the Yankees Monday evening. "My heart was pounding when I walked into the clubhouse after that one and I was shaking like a leaf," he confesses. "I don't mind saying those things. They're true. As a player, I never shook."

One of the reasons he didn't might've been because he never played a single day in the majors. As a major league manager, though, it has been altogether different.

"I've probably made a lot of mistakes," he says. "Everybody makes mistakes and I'm sure I've made my share. The big thing I try not to do is make the same ones over again."

When he does retire, Weaver will be missed by the fans and media alike. Maybe by even a few umpires. He keeps things alive and there is no real meanness in his makeup.

Sanford's Mr. Baseball, Zinn Beck, got somewhat of a surprise when he dropped by the Sanford Memorial Baseball Stadium Tuesday afternoon. Minnesota Twins owner Calvin Griffith and Twins farm director George Brophy were on hand to say hi to an old sports buddy.

Chambers Waived

TAMPA, Fla. (UPI) — Two years ago the Tampa Bay Buccaneers traded away a tight end and last year's number one draft pick to the Chicago Bears for former All-Pro defensive end Wally Chambers.

Tuesday, the Bucs waived the 6-6, 250-pound 8-year veteran. "He doesn't understand it, but native-born Texan Nolan Ryan seems to win easier at home," Ryan said after he allowed seven hits over 7 2/3 innings and Cesar Oquendo and Art Howe each knocked in two runs Tuesday night in leading the Astros to a 5-2 victory over the Pittsburgh Pirates for their fifth straight triumph.

Chambers was second to All-Pro Lee Roy Simon last year with 5 1/2 sacks and 42 quarterback pressures and was seventh in tackling with 88.

British Face Cup Struggle

NEWPORT, R.I. (UPI) — The British have one day to reverse an America's Cup campaign they admit has faltered because of bad timing.

The French drew within one race Tuesday of eliminating the British from Cup contention with a smashing victory margin of nearly 10 minutes. The win gave the French a 3-1 record for the best-of-seven semifinal series for Cup challengers.

Baseball's Big Streaks

Stone First 20 Game Winner, Brett Stopped At 30

UPI Sports Writer — Prior to this season, Steve Stone's major league career could easily be compared to a case of flat beer. But, Tuesday night it was champagne.

"I didn't want to carry it to Oakland," he said. Eddie Murray, Dan Graham and Doug DeCinces helped Stone with home runs as the Orioles kept pace with the first place New York Yankees in the AL East.

Reggie Jackson and Bob Watson slammed home runs and Tom Underwood and Rich Gossage combined on a five-hitter to pace New York. Jackson hit his league-leading third homer in the eighth.

Dorsett Wants New Pact

By United Press International — Some veterans and countless rookies and free agents were going their walking papers by NFL teams Tuesday, but one name played continued to lower the boom — against management.

Eagles, Redskins Will Battle In NFC Eastern Arena

For years the also rans in the NFC East have been impatiently waiting for the Dallas Dynasty to come crumbling down. While the Lone Star effort will once again be tough to contend with, it won't be quite the team minus Roger Staubach.

The defensive front wall played the biggest role in Washington's success last season and should be better this year. Veteran Diron Talbert leads the sack pack of Coy Bacon, Perry Brooks and Joe Jones while the return of injured Matt McDonnell has to help.

will get better than his impressive 50 percent completion ratio as a rookie. Coach Ray Perkins went for some offensive help in the draft by marrying Danny Perkins who should be able to step in and help John Perkins and Ernie Gray go long for New York.

Philadelphia faces its toughest schedule in years, but defensive consistency and the emergence of Ron "The Polish Rifle" Jaworski, seem up to the task.

From The Sidelines

ambunctious all-pro Bill Bergery in the middle. That's just the way returning contender Philadelphia and the improved Washington Redskins like it for 1980.

White should go to his backfield more on the short stuff. Using the talent of Tony Dorsett, Drew Pearson and Tony Hill in an effective threesome.

Coach Jim Hanftan will count on improved play from the offensive line with the return of a healthy Dan Diederich sidelined with knee problems a year ago.

Wes Rinker's Fall Baseball Classes at Sanford Memorial Baseball Stadium will be gearing up shortly.

Astros Win 5th Straight Behind Ryan

In other games, Los Angeles beat Montreal, 3-2. San Francisco topped New York, 5-4. Atlanta nipped Chicago, 5-4. Los Angeles 3, Montreal 2.

Two-out singles in the ninth inning by Steve Yeager, Derrel Thomas and Davey Lopes led the Dodgers. Lopes' single drove in Yeager and snapped a 2-2 tie to give Don Stanhouse his first victory.

single up the middle in the fourth inning to drive in the go-ahead run and help the Reds. LaCoss' two-out single scored Dave Concepcion.

Patriot head coach Dave Tullis keeps a close eye on his offensive linemen as they go through the paces of blocking drills. Lake Brantley will once again feature the biggest offensive line in the county in the upcoming 1980 season.

Injured Boxer Still Critical. ALBUQUERQUE, N.M. (UPI)—A promising young boxer who won nine of 10 fights in his brief professional career was listed in critical condition following surgery for a blood clot on the brain. Victor Romero, a 125-pound junior lightweight, was recuperating in the intensive-care unit at St. Joseph Hospital, where he underwent surgery Tuesday after collapsing at the end of a workout Monday.

OURSELVES

Grandparents Day Now Holiday

"It's great to be grand," proclaims Mike Goldgar, the leading proponent of Grandparents Day, this country's newest national holiday, to be celebrated Sept. 7. Goldgar of Atlanta, Ga., is founder of the non-profit National Council for the observance of Grandparents Day. He is also, unabashedly, the doting grandfather of 4-year-old Jennifer Leigh Barber, a young lady who inspired her "gramps" to campaign for the new holiday.

Tiny Girl Violated Men's Privacy In Locker Room

DEAR ABBY: I am a 30-year-old man. Yesterday I went swimming at a local pool, and while I was in the locker room changing into my swimming trunks, I turned to find a little girl who appeared to be 4 or 5 years old staring at me! I later learned that she had been brought there by her father, who was calmly drying himself after showering. The locker room was crowded with men in various stages of undress. Some were completely naked. All were unaware that they were being observed by a wide-eyed girl.

Carolyn Fisher says she likes to experiment with different dishes and recipes. Food's always been big with us. In fact, it was so big I just took off 60 pounds of it.

Say Cheese With Pleasure

Wise Axiom: Guests Can Wait, But Not A Souffle

Cheese souffles are one of the classics in the world of cooking. And they're great for a main dish because of the protein that comes not only from the one or two kinds of cheese, but also from milk and eggs.

Contrary to popular opinion, the souffle is not difficult to prepare. It's made with a thick white sauce to which you add egg yolks, cheese and/or vegetables, fish or meat. Egg whites, stabilized with cream of tartar and beaten to the soft peak shape, are folded in to give the souffle light and fluffy texture.

Here are some other do's and don'ts for successful souffles. The classic dish is deep with straight sides for the souffle to rise spectacularly. Butter the sides and/or coat with Parmesan cheese to make removal easier.

Mix a small amount of sauce into egg yolks before combining all of it. That allows egg yolks to blend smoothly with the white sauce. When turning the souffle into a baking dish, be gentle so airiness is not lost.

Sauces may be served with the souffle to add yet another dimension to the dining experience. They're designed to complement the main dish in flavor, color and texture. They'll certainly add to the feeling of satisfaction because of their safety value.

It's an old axiom but a wise one: your guests can wait, but no soufflé. Have them seated at the table when you take it out of the oven.

pretty palette of color that goes with a light or heavy meal. Instead of a regular dessert portion, you can content your self with a few tidbits of cheese and fruit if dinner's been substantial, or fill up on more if the meal's been light.

Generally, the rule for fruit and cheese is this: the more mild flavored the cheese, the more pronounced can be the fruit flavor. That's why pineapple, for example, is harmonious with Brick cheese. Blue cheese has a distinctive flavor so it goes well with rather mild honeydew melon.

Nut-like Swiss is somewhat dry so it's an excellent choice with juicy, fragrant green grapes. Cheddar cheese and apples have a traditional flavor harmony, but you might like Colby with apples, too.

Those are only suggestions to get you started. This is one place where you can choose your own combos!

CHEESE SOUFFLE
(6 servings)

1 cup milk
2 cups (8 oz.) shredded Cheddar cheese
3 egg yolks, slightly beaten
5 egg whites
1/2 teaspoon cream of tartar

Preheat oven to 350 degrees F. Butter a 2-quart souffle dish or casserole. Sprinkle enough Parmesan cheese in souffle dish to coat bottom and sides evenly, remove any excess. Melt butter in saucepan; blend in flour, salt and cayenne pepper. Remove from heat; stir in milk. Heat to boiling, stirring constantly. Boil and stir 1 minute. Remove from heat and stir in cheeses until melted. If necessary, return to low heat to finish melting cheeses. (Do not boil.) Blend a little of hot mixture into egg yolks; return all to saucepan and blend thoroughly; set aside. Beat egg whites until frothy. Add cream of tartar and beat until soft peaks form. Fold egg white mixture into egg yolks. Turn into souffle dish. Bake 40 to 45 minutes.

VARIATION: BROCCOLI SOUFFLE: After folding in egg whites, fold in one 10-ounce package of frozen chopped broccoli which has been cooked and drained.

Impotence Is Only A Symptom by Dr. Lamb. DEAR DR. LAMB—My husband is a diabetic and he's impotent. Recently he saw a medical television show that said there's an operation available to help many diabetics with their sex life. I would like to get more information on this. Could you explain the operation? Also, what doctor would you have to see about this operation? I think on the TV program the doctor inserted an object in the penis and it had a bulb attached to it that pumped up the penis to just the same as if blood had poured into the penis to induce erection.

Potpourri

ALPINE MACARONI
 2 frankfurters, sliced diagonally
 1/2 cup green pepper strips
 2 tablespoons butter or margarine
 1 can (19 ounces) chunky split pea with ham soup
 1 cup canned kidney beans
 1/2 cup cut-up canned tomatoes
 2 teaspoons Worcestershire
 1/2 teaspoon hot pepper sauce
 1/4 cup water 1 tablespoon cornstarch
 Cooked bow-shaped macaroni
 In saucepan, brown frankfurters and cook green pepper in butter until tender. Stir in soup, kidney beans, tomatoes, Worcestershire and hot pepper sauce. Mix water and cornstarch; stir into soup mixture. Cook, stirring until thickened. Serve over macaroni.
 This kitchen-tested recipe makes about 4 1-cup servings.

FRUIT FRIENDS
 2 cups shredded carrot
 1/2 cups celery slices
 1 cup raisins or chopped dates
 1/2 cup peanuts
 1/2 cup mayonnaise
 1 29-oz. can pear or peach halves, drained
 Lettuce
 Kraft miniature marshmallows or Kraft marshmallows
 Combine carrot, celery, raisins, peanuts and mayonnaise; mix well. Chill. Arrange slaw mixture and fruit halves on lettuce-covered plates. Garnish with additional raisins, peanuts, celery or marshmallows to make faces.
 8 servings.

SPROUT SALAD IN AVOCADO BOATS
 3 large ripe avocados, pits removed
 1-3rd cup salad oil
 3 tablespoons white vinegar
 2 tablespoons soy sauce
 1/2 teaspoon salt
 1/4 teaspoon freshly ground pepper
 1/4 teaspoon hot pepper sauce
 1 garlic clove, crushed
 1 (1 lb.) can bean sprouts, rinsed and thoroughly drained
 1/2 cup thinly sliced green pepper strips
 1/4 cup thinly sliced scallions
 1/4 cups cubed cooked ham
 2 cups shredded lettuce
 Combine the salad oil, vinegar, soy sauce, salt, pepper, pepper sauce, and garlic in mixing bowl. Add bean sprouts, green pepper and scallions. Chill at least 1 hour, tossing frequently.
 Just before serving, add ham and lettuce; mix well and fill avocado halves with the mixture.
 Serves 6.

FRANKS 'N MAC DINNER
 1 7-1/2 oz. pkg. macaroni and cheese dinner
 1 cup cottage cheese
 1 tablespoon instant minced onion
 1 lb. frankfurters, split in half lengthwise
 Crushed potato chips
 Prepare dinner as directed on package. Add cottage cheese and onion; mix well. Place half of frankfurters in a 12x12-inch baking dish. Top with dinner mixture and remaining frankfurters. Sprinkle with potato chips. Bake at 350 degrees, 25 minutes.

DIAMOND HEAD CAKE
 1 two-layer devil's food cake
 1-1/2-cup envelope whipped topping mix
 1 cup cold water
 4 eggs

1 cup margarine
 1 cup sugar
 1/4 teaspoon vanilla
 4 eggs
 2 cups flour
 1 teaspoon baking powder
 1/4 teaspoon salt
 1/2 cup pure unsweetened orange-pineapple juice
 Cocoa Frosting
 Combine cake mix, whipped topping mix, water and eggs; mixing at medium speed on electric mixer until well blended. Pour into greased and floured 10-inch Bundt pan or tube pan. Bake at 350 degrees, 45 to 50 minutes or until wooden pick inserted in center comes out clean. Cool 10 minutes; remove from pan.
 Cream margarine and sugar until light and fluffy. Blend in vanilla. Add eggs, one at a time, mixing well after each addition. Add combined dry ingredients alternately with juice, mixing well after each addition. Pour into greased and floured 9 x 13-inch loaf pan. Bake at 350 degrees, 1 hour and 30 to 35 minutes or until wooden pick inserted in center comes out clean. Cool 5 minutes; remove from pan. Cool. Cut cake in half vertically. To assemble cake, place one half of yellow cake on top of chocolate cake. Taper corners of yellow cake to form a volcano shape. Frost with cocoa frosting.

COCOA FROSTING
 1/2 cup margarine
 1/2 cup cocoa
 1 teaspoon vanilla
 Dash of salt
 4 cups sifted confectioners' sugar
 1/2 cup milk
 Cream margarine; blend in cocoa, vanilla and salt. Add sugar alternately with milk, beating until light and fluffy. Note: Serve remaining half of yellow cake with fruit or ice cream as a dessert.

GAZPACHO
 2 whole pintos
 2 tablespoons olive oil or vegetable oil
 1 teaspoon salt
 1 small clove garlic, peeled
 1/4 pounds fresh ripe tomatoes, cored and quartered
 2 tablespoons plain dry bread crumbs
 2 tablespoons red wine vinegar
 1 1/2-cup can tomato juice
 1 red pepper, seeded and quartered
 1 cucumber, peeled, quartered and seeded
 1 bunch green onions or scallions
 1/4 cup plain or seasoned crostons
 Put pimientos, oil, salt and garlic in food processor fitted with chopping blade. Cover and process 8 to 10 seconds. Add tomatoes, bread crumbs and vinegar. Cover and process 10 to 20 seconds longer until pureed.
 Strain tomato mixture into large bowl or serving bowl. Discard seeds and tomato skins. Stir in tomato juice. Chill thoroughly before serving.
 For topping, put red pepper in food processor fitted with chopping blade. Cover and process 10 to 15 seconds, stopping and starting frequently until pepper is coarsely chopped.
 Repeat to chop green pepper and cucumber, keeping vegetables separate.

 This kitchen-tested recipe makes about 4 1/2 cups soup.

Vegetable Medley Adds Variety

Dress up off-the-shelf canned soups and frozen vegetables to add variety to your meals.
 The list of vegetable combinations is endless, for example. For warm days, serve a marinated vegetable medley. This is a make-ahead dish, one you may want to prepare on a Friday night for weekend entertaining or in the morning before you leave for work to serve that night.
 Another quick combination franks with canned split pea soup, kidney beans, tomatoes and seasonings to serve over bow-shaped macaroni. This is a hearty dish men should enjoy.

MARINATED VEGETABLE MEDLEY
 Marinade:
 1 can (10 1/2 ounces) condensed chicken broth
 1/2 cup vinegar
 1/4 cup salad oil
 1/4 teaspoon celery seed
 1/4 teaspoon thyme leaves, crushed
 1/4 teaspoon salt
 1/4 teaspoon oregano leaves, crushed
 8 peppercorns
 Vegetables:
 1 package (9 ounces) frozen cut green beans
 1 package (9 ounces) frozen cut wax beans

1/2 cup water
 2 medium tomatoes, cut in wedges
 1 cup sliced onion
 1 cup small fresh mushroom caps (about 1/4 pound)
 To make marinade, combine marinade ingredients in saucepan. Cook over low heat 10 minutes; stir occasionally. Meanwhile, in saucepan, combine beans and water. Bring to boil; reduce heat. Cover; simmer 3 minutes. Drain. Arrange vegetables in 3-quart shallow dish (12-by-9-by-3 inches); pour marinade over all.
 Cover; refrigerate 6 hours or more. Stir occasionally. Serve with slotted spoon. This kitchen-tested recipe makes about 5 cups or 6 servings.

HAWAIIAN SUNSHINE PUNCH
 6 cups unsweetened orange juice
 2 cups unsweetened grapefruit juice
 1 cup water
 1 cup sugar
 3 tablespoons lemon juice
 2 tablespoons lime juice
 1 1/2 qts. ginger ale
 Combine all ingredients except ginger ale; mix well. Chill. Add ginger ale just before serving. Sixteen 1-cup servings

Crab Neptune Makes Quick Weekend Meal

A crab salad with special Neptune dressing makes a quick weekend meal. It's especially good as a brunch for guests on a warm day.
 For an extra touch, serve with a bottle of chilled dry white wine, hot homemade biscuits and a bowl of the season's freshest fruits.
CRAB NEPTUNE SALAD
 2 packages (6 to 8 ounces each) frozen Alaska King crab meat
 Lettuce leaves
 2 cups torn, romaine lettuce
 1 large tomato, sliced
 1 ripe avocado, cut in eighths
 1 1/2 cups bean sprouts
 Neptune dressing
 Thaw crab; separate into pieces. Line platter with lettuce leaves; mount romaine in center. Arrange all ingredients except dressing on lettuce. Serve with Neptune dressing. This kitchen-tested recipe makes 4 servings.
Neptune Dressing
 Combine 1 clove minced garlic, 1 tablespoon each anchovy paste and lemon juice, 2 tablespoons each tarragon wine vinegar and finely chopped chives or green onion, 1-3rd cup dairy sour cream, 3-3rd cup mayonnaise, 3 tablespoons finely chopped parsley, 1/4 teaspoon salt and dash pepper; mix well. Garnish with chopped parsley. This kitchen-tested recipe makes 1 1/2 cups.

This tempting kitchen-tested crab salad is especially good for brunch. For a perfect meal, add a bottle of chilled wine, hot biscuits and fresh fruit.

Leftover Salad Originated From Dutch Hussars

A good story about the origin of a dish is always enjoyable to learn. And it's even more welcome when it can lead cooks to a more economical meal.
 An example is a Dutch Hussar's salad. Believe what you will, but supposedly the name and dish originated when the hussars were garrisoned in small towns. The enterprising young men talked kitchen maids of the fine houses into making meals out of the leftovers for them. Better than barracks' fare. This is a "leftover" salad inspired by the "hustling" hussars.

HUSSAR'S SALAD
 2 cups diced leftover cooked veal or pork
 2 green apples, peeled, cored and chopped,
 1 can (18 ounce) diced beets, drained
 3 hard cooked eggs, chopped
 3 sweet gherkins, diced
 3 pounds potatoes, cooked, peeled and diced
 1/4 cup oil
 1/4 cup cider vinegar
 2 teaspoons Angostura aromatic bitters
 Salt and pepper
 Lettuce leaves
 Cucumber slices,
 halved tomato slices
 In bowl, combine meat, apples, beets, eggs, gherkins, potatoes, oil, vinegar and bitters. When well blended, season to taste with salt and pepper. Chill.
 Mound mixture on lettuce leaves and garnish with cucumber and halved tomato slices. Serve with crusty bread slices. This kitchen-tested recipe makes 8 servings.

Put Up Chutney Now For Giving During Holidays

It's never too early to think of holiday gifts and stock your own shelves with jars of chutney and relishes.
 Take advantage of the late season peaches and corn and zucchini for example, to put up some jars of treats for year-round enjoyment.
 For full flavor, allow the peach chutney to age at least one month before using. The mingling of flavors is worth the wait.
 Serve with your favorite meat or poultry dishes. Also, try both the peach chutney and the corn-zucchini relishes on your favorite sandwiches. You'll be surprised at the pleasing taste combinations.

PEACH CHUTNEY
 3 quarts peeled, coarsely chopped fresh peaches (18 medium)
 1 1/2 cups chopped fresh onion
 3 cloves garlic, minced
 2 1/2 cups light brown sugar, firmly packed
 3/4 cup cider vinegar
 6 tablespoons fresh lemon juice
 1 1/2 teaspoons salt
 1/4 teaspoon ground ginger
 1/4 teaspoon ground nutmeg
 1/4 teaspoon Tabasco pepper sauce
 In large kettle, combine all ingredients. Cook slowly, uncovered, about 1 hour, or until mixture is thick; stir occasionally. Pour immediately into hot sterilized jars and seal. Since chutney improves on standing, allow at least one month before opening. This kitchen-tested recipe makes about 3 quarts.
 (To peel peaches, drop into pot of rapidly boiling water for 1 or 2 minutes; transfer to cold water. Skin should slip off easily using the dull edge of a knife.)
FRESH CORN-ZUCCHINI RELISH
 4 cups fresh corn, cut from cob (8 ears)
 1/4 cup chopped onion
 1 cup chopped red pepper
 1 cup chopped green pepper
 2 cups cider vinegar
 1/4 cup sugar
 4 teaspoons salt
 1 teaspoon celery seed
 1 teaspoon turmeric
 1 teaspoon mustard seed
 1/4 teaspoon dry mustard
 3 medium size zucchini, sliced 1/4 inch thick (4 cups sliced)
 In large kettle, combine all ingredients except zucchini; mix well. Simmer, uncovered, 30 minutes, stirring occasionally. Add zucchini; simmer, uncovered 20 minutes longer. Relish can be kept in refrigerator for use within a short time, or can be poured hot into sterilized jars and sealed for future use. This kitchen-tested recipe makes 2 quarts.
NOTE: To sterilize jars, place jars, lids, caps and rings in kettle of hot water so jars are submerged. Bring water to boil; boil jars, lids, caps and rings 10 minutes.

School Jobs OK'd To Satisfy Feds

By DIANE PETRYK
Herald Staff Writer

In an effort to comply with federal requirements, the Seminole County School Board Wednesday voted 4-1 to create two new staff positions for bilingual persons to aid in the registration of foreign language-speaking students.

The board also approved 61 new teacher appointments despite protest from the teachers' union representatives who said teachers with good recommendations who taught in the district last year should be rehired before new people are brought in.

The new staff positions call for a Spanish-speaking registrar who will receive an annual salary of at least $11,000 and a registrar's aide who must be fluent in English and another language other than Spanish and who will receive an annual salary of at least $5,700.

Board members said they hope the two new positions will satisfy federal officials who charged that the district does not adequately identify students whose primary or home language is other than English, does not adequately assess and classify those students by the level of their English proficiency and does not adequately communicate with non-English-speaking parents.

Dan Dagg, assistant superintendent of instruction, said representative of the U.S. Department of Education's Office of Civil Rights indicated to him the jobs would correct those problems, but he said they did not guarantee it.

"I'm reluctant to approve this and employ people if it won't satisfy the stipulations that were laid down (by the federal government)," said board chairman Allan Keeth. "But if it will help to a better job with our initial screening, then I think it's important we have this type of operation going on."

"It's a positive direction to take," said board member Roland Williams.

But board member William Kroll, the only member to vote against the proposal, remained adamantly opposed to the proposal.

"It's the federal government that's letting the people into this country," Kroll said. "The federal government should pay for their education."

"I feel the same way Bill (Kroll) does," said board member Robert Feather. "But these children are in our community and we have to move forward to do what we can."

Before approving the registrar's position, Williams suggested that the person should be certified to teach Spanish and the stipulation was included.

It was suggested that the registrar's aide speak Vietnamese, but so far no specific language has been specified.

The board also approved a job description for a consultant-coordinator who will provide services to all schools in regard to federal projects in Exceptional Student Education. The position is federally funded.

In approving the 61 teaching appointments, the board faced a familiar objection from Seminole Education Association (SEA) members.

"There are still a number of (laid-off) teachers who taught in the system last year who have not been reappointed," said Bill Moore, interim executive director of the SEA. "They should be rehired before approving brand new people."

Williams voted against the appointments because he agreed teachers with satisfactory records should be reappointed first as openings arise.

Feather disagreed.

"With 3,000 active applications on file, why should we hire teachers that are not satisfactory?" Feather asked. "Among those we must be able to find teachers that are better than satisfactory."

Earlier, Seminole County Schools Personnel Director Owen McCarron said his office does not know the exact number of active teacher applications on file.

No, that isn't a smile coming from Lake Howell High School's Larry Otis. The Silver Hawk grider is one of a little blood, sweat and tears. ## Crash Pilot Was Inexperienced

Volusia County investigators say the pilot of a marijuana laden plane that crashed and killed two men Tuesday had been licensed just 38 days and was not qualified to fly the twin-engine Cessna Skymaster.

Authorities have identified the pilot as Myron Monroe Lewenthal III, 23, of Maitland. Also killed in the crash when the plane clipped a pine tree in the fog and burrowed its right wing in a field, was James A. Zello, 27, of Longwood.

L. Bill Smith of the Volusia County Narcotics Task Force said flight records showed the two had gone to Jamaica and had returned to Florida with 625 pounds of pot worth $312,000.

Smith said the two victims were pulled from the plane by people on the ground who unhooked the marijuana and stacked it for transport near the plane on a sandy roadside. Twenty-five bags were recovered.

High Costs May Force Port To Shelve 4th Mini-Mall

The Seminole County Port Authority's fourth "mini-mall" to house industrial tenants may not get off the drawing board due to the high cost of construction and financing.

The port's long-range plans call for nine multi-tenant buildings to be built on an "as demand" basis. So far, mini-malls I, II and VII have been constructed and are fully occupied. And, according to Port Administrator Dennis Dolgner, there has been a demand for more rental space at the port.

But, Dolgner told the port's board of directors Wednesday, the prospects for Mini-Mall III don't look good unless interest rates drop.

A preliminary cost analysis, Dolgner said, shows that the planned 16,000-square-foot building could be constructed for about $200,000.

That would mean space would have to be rented at about 17 cents per square foot, he said.

"I'm not sure that's a rate the Seminole County market can bear," he said. "And I don't want to be uncompetitive and stuck with a mortgage payment due every month and no tenants."

"The demand for the space has been there," he said, "but I'm not sure the demand would accommodate the price we would have to charge."

He said he will continue to study the matter and report back to the board no later than their next regularly scheduled meeting next month.

Mini-Mall I, with 10,000 square feet, Mini-Mall II, with 14,000 square feet, and Mini-Mall VII with 7,500 square feet, rent for an average of 14 cents per square foot, Dolgner said. And for renters of large spaces, the price could start as low as 11 cents, he said.

Mini-Mall III was envisioned as a building with up to eight 2,000-square-foot bays. It would accommodate up to eight tenants or fewer tenants with some utilizing more than one increment of 2,000 square feet.

Dolgner said the port will become more selective concerning industrial tenants. He said he hopes within two years to require all new tenants be those who intend to use the port's large-berthing facilities. Or, he said, they would be tenants who would lease Seminole County if not permitted to locate at the port.

In other action Wednesday, the port authority board ratified guidelines and procedures for the issuance of industrial revenue bonds.

The port has the authority to issue such bonds under Florida statute.

The guidelines are to help the applicant and the authority coordinate their activities, Dolgner said. They formalize procedures that have already been used. Now, however, is a fee schedule for the authority's service in processing bond applications.

Approved are a $350 application fee, $500 attorney's fee, and $1,000 minimum-financing fee.

Industrial revenue bonds may be used for up to 100 percent financing of industrial projects.

Billy Says He Stressed His Lack Of Influence

WASHINGTON (UPI) — President Carter's brother Billy told a special Senate committee today he went out of his way on his first visit to Libya in the fall of 1978 to stress he was a friend but not "a vehicle through which Libya could affect United States policy."

Carter, testifying under oath before the special Senate committee charged with investigating his Libyan dealings, said when he traveled to Libya in September 1978, "In my own mind, I thought I had been invited because I was the president's brother."

President Defends His Defense Record

BOSTON (UPI) — President Carter today defended his defense spending record as wise and prudent and said it would do "no good" to seek absolute superiority over the Soviet Union.

He gave the message in a speech to the national convention of the American Legion, which heard Ronald Reagan soundly criticize U.S. military strength around the world on Wednesday.

"The destructive power of the world's strategic arsenal is already adequate for total devastation," the president said.

"It does no good to increase that destructive power in search of a temporary edge or in pursuit of the illusion of absolute superiority. Chasing either advantage can undercut the stability and assured deterrence that is our real goal and need."

Carter did not mention Reagan by name today, but he clearly countered many of the Republican presidential candidate's accusations in laying out what he sees as the nation's defense needs for the 1980s.

"We could have spent more money, but we could not have spent more wisely. We could have placed our chips on the B-bomber — that would have been in service quickly — and obsolete almost as quickly," said Carter.

The president said he decided instead to opt for rapid development of the U.S. Cruise missile, one of the nation's major weapons. The little unmanned aircraft are capable of avoiding enemy radar and delivering nuclear payloads over thousands of miles via low-altitude flights.

Four years ago, presidential candidate Jimmy Carter spoke to the American Legion convention in Seattle and was

Poland Replaces Strike Negotiator

GDANSK, Poland (UPI) — The government today removed the head of a special commission trying to negotiate with shipyard strikers and brought in the vice premier who had settled the first serious outbreak of strikes last month.

Tadeusz Pyka, the deputy premier who was named during the weekend to head the commission, was transferred to other duties, the government radio announced.
