Record-breaking case of dumping nears showdown

By J. MARK BARFIELD
Herald staff writer

LAKE MARY — George Harmon stands by the entrance to his rural home on Art Lane, looking into the grassy field beyond.

"I remember when that used to be a beautiful lake," said Harmon. "They stocked it with bass. Now look at it. The land sloped down from house back then. Now it's level with my house."

The field next to Harmon's home of 12 years is the site of Seminole County's longest-running and largest code enforcement headache. Thus far, the accused violators have been cited with fines - contested and as yet unpaid - amounting to nearly $1 million.

The case is headed for legal showdowns later this month.

The county has tried to stop what they say is an illegal dumping operation on Art Lane by a Longwood trucking company, JCL Landclearing Inc., since 1986. The company has no county or state permits to dump at the site, officials said. The operation reached a peak about five years ago when dozens of JCL trucks would travel to the site each day, Harmon and other residents say.

The site is at the end of Art Lane which leads to a unincorporated pocket surrounded by Lake Mary. See Dumping, Page 5A.

Loaded truck enters dump site last week, emerging minutes later apparently empty.

Suddenly the question arises: Can we help enforce codes?

SANFORD — The streets and buildings in the city limits of Sanford may soon be cleaner and better appearing, due to a heavy increase in the number of people becoming involved in whether various city codes are being followed.

For the actual City, the final word on specific violations is presently a one-woman job. Mary Muse serves as Sanford's only full time building inspector. It is her job to verify reports of violations received by the city.

During last month's workshop meeting of the city's Code Enforcement Board, it was suggested that the board members might become involved in an educational program. See Codes, Page 5A.

High-tech business to re-locate here

By J. MARK BARFIELD
Herald Staff Writer

SANFORD — A laser-optical company with a $2.3 million annual payroll will relocate here from Orlando next month and may soon hire more employees, a company official confirmed Friday.

LazerData Corp., which manufactures laser bar-code readers for warehouses and distribution centers, will begin production in Sanford Central Park during the later half of June, said company controller Greg Howell. The company needed a larger facility than the three small buildings at the current location in south Orlando, Howell said.

The company will move to the 32,000-square-foot facility vacated by Harbor Medical Inc. last year, Howell said.

LazerData currently employs 73 people, many already living in Seminole County and west Volusia County, Howell said the employee roster could swell to 100 if pending contracts are successful. Howell would not release annual sales data for the company.

"We like the northern I-4 corridor," Howell said. "We don't have to fight all that traffic every day. We've been planning this move for about a year and suggesting that our people find housing up there."

Howell said the company manufactures bar-code readers not unlike those used to price groceries but more durable and accurate. He said the readers have been bought by Sears and J.C. Penney for use in warehouses and conveyor companies for use in their installations.

Howell said LazerData, which has been in Orlando for several years, was purchased by Faeco Industries, Lake Forest, Ill. in 1989. Faeco, with annual sales of $600 million is a subsidiary of Hawker Siddeley Group PLC, a diversified London corporation with over $4 billion in annual sales.

Get out the old birth certificate

An old westside farmer visited us the other day. No, he wasn't of German descent. He was the son of Thomas and Allie Bell. His name is George Bell. And, he didn't come to talk about celery.

But we did find out that his father and his uncle, John Bell, produced the first car of "washed celery" ever shipped in the United States. This was around 1920.

Back to George's visit. Seminole County was created by the Florida Legislature. It came into existence April 25, 1913, when then Governor Park Trammell, later a U.S. Senator, signed the bill. The event was celebrated. The Herald even published an "extra." A big parade wound its way through downtown Sanford streets.

Until that day the area now known as Seminole County was a part of Orange County. All legal records were maintained at the courthouse in Orlando.

This included birth certificates. Although issued by the Florida Department of Health (at that time in Jacksonville) each certificate SANFORD — Barney Lee Johnson II, 18, of 221 N. Elder Rd. in Lake Monroe was arrested early Saturday after being involved in a high speed chase through the streets of Sanford.

Charged with attempted murder of a police officer, Johnson was booked at the John E. Polk Correctional Facility at 5:15 Saturday morning. While the officer escaped unharmed, the car Johnson had been driving, had several bullet holes.

The white Camero, owned by a friend, remained in the parking lot of the Sanford Police Department headquarters on French Avenue on Saturday afternoon where police investigators were looking it over.

According to the police report, at 1:21 Saturday morning, Sgt. Tom Bernosky was attempting to perform a routine traffic stop on the vehicle which had been traveling at a high rate of speed on First Street.

Bernosky, after calling for assistance, pursued the vehicle through several residential neighborhoods until it ended at the dead end of Ninth Street.

The report stated that Johnson allegedly started to attempt to back out of the dead end as Officer Doug Botalico tried to approach the vehicle. Johnson allegedly backed into a yard at the corner of Ninth and Bay.

As Botalico again attempted to approach the vehicle. See Car, Page 2A

Parade organizers seek all-wars veterans to ride Victory floats.

By MICK PFENAUER

SANFORD — The Desert Storm Victory Parade planned for June 15, will honor not only Persian Gulf war veterans, but those who served in all wars.

In the words of Sanford Desert Storm Support Group chairperson

Judy Osborn, "We want this to be the greatest and largest parade ever held in the history of Sanford."

Special floats are being arranged for the parade.

One will hold veterans from the Persian Gulf war, one is for Viet Nam veterans, and another will combine veterans from each of the world wars plus the Korean conflict. Veterans who may be able to participate are urged to contact Pat Johnson, 323-1888.

The Desert Storm Support Group is continuing its regular meetings each Monday evening beginning at 7 p.m., at the American Legion Post 53, 2874 Sanford Avenue. Osborn said.

"We hope to have six, possibly more service persons who have returned from the Persian Gulf as our special guests this Monday," and she urged all support group members to attend.

As many of the local returning Navy veterans served on board the aircraft carrier Saratoga, there may be a special privately-made float for those veterans, created by their family members in the local area.

The parade will begin at 10 a.m. See Parade, Page 5A

When he allegedly returned a short time later and used his fists to strike Brown in the face, police were called and he was taken into custody. He was transported to the John E. Polk Correctional Facility where he was held on $500 bond.

Drug charges made

Vinnie Newkirk, 30, of 608 1/2 Palmetto Ave. in Sanford, was arrested on Thursday. He was charged with conspiracy to sell crack cocaine. The arrest report did not offer details of his arrest.

Newkirk was arrested at his home and transported to the John E. Polk Correctional Facility where he was held in lieu of $3,000 bond.

Burglary, battery charged

SANFORD — William Bradley, 18, 59 Lake Monroe Terr., Sanford, was charged with burglary and battery by Sanford police for reportedly breaking into a nearby home and beating a woman Thursday night. 'Abandoned' 14-year-old held at police station

By VICKI BOBROWER
Herald Staff Writer

SANFORD — A 14-year-old girl tried to check herself into Central Florida Regional Hospital on Saturday morning to have a post-surgical check up, but they couldn't help her, according to the Sanford Police Department.

"State law won't let them touch her without a parent's consent," Lt. Bill Bernosky of the Sanford Police Department, said. "And she has apparently been abandoned."

Bernosky said that the petite white girl has staples in her abdominal area, but she can not, or will not, tell them what the surgery was for.

"We don't know if it is connected to that baby that was abandoned in Daytona Beach (on Friday morning) or something else all together," he said.

Bernosky described the young woman as "very streetwise" though he said that she claims to never have attended school.

The youngster told police that she was originally from San Francisco and that she had traveled with her father who had abandoned her in this area after a seven month stint living on the streets in New York City.

He said that she is distrustful of police officers because, she claims, officers in New York City fractured her skull with a night stick.

Police are checking out her story, but Bernosky said that they will not attempt to locate her father.

He said that they are attempting to work through the department of Health and Rehabilitative Services (HRS).

"I'm willing to go through three miles of hell to help her get some treatment and to get her a home," Bernosky said.

Bernosky said that he has contacted Boy's Town and they have told him that they can not help her.

He said that he will continue to work with HRS in an attempt to help the young woman, but that the legal red tape will make the task very difficult. He believes that the young woman needs medical attention, though her life is apparently not in any immediate danger.

"It's a shame that she can't just get medical treatment without going through all this," Bernosky said.

Until she is placed in HRS custody, Bernosky said she will remain at the police station.

Nuclear caution

The fifth anniversary of the Chernobyl nuclear disaster should serve as a reminder of the potential dangers of atomic power if it is not managed properly.

The accident near Kiev in the Ukraine was caused by serious flaws in Soviet nuclear plant design and operating standards. But the catastrophe inflicted environmental damage across a large swath of Eastern Europe and Scandinavia and has made countries around the globe wary of turning to nuclear power for their energy needs.

The world's worst nuclear accident started with a series of errors during a safety exercise that exposed the core of one of Chernobyl's four reactors. An explosion and fire spewed radiation into the atmosphere with 10 times the fallout of Hiroshima. The Soviets claim that only 32 people died as a direct result. But unofficial estimates place the death toll at more than 250, and possibly as high as several thousand when radiation-related diseases are taken into account.

Chernobyl was an accident waiting to happen. U.S. reactors are designed to shut down when the flow of coolant to the core is interrupted. The Chernobyl reactor wasn't. It also lacked a containment building to prevent the release of radioactive materials. Incompetence and ignorance contributed to lax operations. The tragedy was compounded by Soviet mishandling of virtually every aspect of the emergency response, from evacuation to health care and cleanup.

These facts are important to note at a time when some are saying the lesson of Chernobyl is that nuclear power is inherently unsafe. American safety standards make a similar occurrence extraordinarily unlikely in this country.

But the U.S. nuclear power industry is not without its shortcomings. The Three Mile Island accident in Pennsylvania, documented safety breaches at other facilities, including radioactive releases from the Hanford nuclear weapons plant in Washington, and the waste disposal problem underscore the need for continued efforts to improve the margin of safety.

Repositories must be established for high-level nuclear wastes that now are accumulating in storage ponds at commercial nuclear plants around the country. It is also important to continue development of a new generation of nuclear plants with standardized designs that will be simpler and safer to operate. The Bush administration is pursuing both these goals, as well as working with Moscow to prevent another Chernobyl-type catastrophe in the Soviet Union.

Although the Chernobyl accident clearly hindered the expansion of atomic power worldwide, nuclear plants supply 21 percent of the electricity in the United States, 75 percent in France, 33 percent in Germany and 27 percent in Japan. This country's growing energy needs and the economic, environmental and health risks of burning fossil fuels provide strong reasons to make greater use of the nuclear option — while also working to make it safer.

On the education of our teachers

Tuesday, May 7, was National Teacher Day. Researchers have stressed that the importance of the teacher in a student's life "can be seen in the countless testimonials given each year by students. They recall the most significant persons in their lives as their teachers." Teachers occupy a singular position in our society as they touch the lives of our children. Teachers are the shapers of our civilization. Therefore the process of educating teachers is continuously being analyzed.

Debate is vigorous about what the critical elements in teacher preparation should include. Should liberal arts disciplines provide the foundation, with particular emphasis upon the study of children and adolescence? Should education be general with attention directed toward pedagogy and methodology? Amid this debate another question is surfacing about the traditional teacher mentor model. The traditional model usually calls for a supervisor affiliated with an education institution of higher learning and a teacher mentor in the school setting.

It has been suggested that education needs to adopt the medical internship model. Teachers should be trained in schools designated as professional development schools and serve an internship for a specified time.

The schools in a district designated as professional development schools should reflect the demographic composition of the community. It should not be a school that is atypical of the population to be served. There should be a mix of students from all ethnic, socio-economic and mental ability groupings in order to provide the prospective teachers with experiences consistent with what they might encounter in a given classroom.

PROFESSIONAL DEVELOPMENT

Professional Development Schools could integrate teachers development and instructional programs for children. Supervisors professional services might be better used providing on site seminars and strategies for the teachers mentoring the interns and pedagogy for the interns.

The role of the teacher mentor would provide another career option for teachers. Their job descriptions would be different from the regular teacher and would encourage their creativity relative to instructional program.

In educational circles the search continues for ways of improving teacher education. The possibility of a different paradigm for student teachers appears to be very appealing.

Adopting the medical model in the educational system will require a great deal of planning and collaborating among institutions of higher learning and the school districts they served.

The Professional Development School concept would provide opportunities for research and development with all of the principal actors involved. Supervisors, teacher mentors, student interns and students would work together. Comparisons could be made relative to which practices and methodology produced the most desirable results.

National Teacher Day is very, very important and hopefully everyone who knows a teacher should have taken time to express their appreciation for the contributions teachers make to this society. The future, our children, are in their hands.

Mrs. Sweeting is a guidance counselor at Wilton Elementary School in Sanford.

ELLEN GOODMAN

Is this survivor electable?

BOSTON — A generation ago, it was still a word to be whispered. Grandparents in scenes that resemble a Neil Simon play would say it under their breath, afraid that if the word escaped into the air it would tempt the evil spirits.

Newspapers would rarely print it on the obituary pages. People died "after a long illness."

Even parents would often keep the diagnosis from their patients and patients would often keep the word from their families. If they looked it up in the dictionary, the very definition was shrouded in secrecy and even shame.

Cancer — it still states — is "a malignant growth anywhere in the body of a person or animal." Then Webster's adds for metaphorical measure, "anything bad or harmful that spreads and destroys."

But now the word cancer has been placed prominently and publicly in an entirely new context: Presidential Politics. No whispering allowed.

Paul Tsongas, who was diagnosed with cancer in 1983, announced his candidacy for president. Paul Tsongas, who fought a difficult battle with lymphomas, is the first Democrat to throw his hat in the ring. Paul Tsongas, whose cancer is said to be in complete remission, is making a bid for the White House.

Every national news story about the former senator from Massachusetts, pointed out that he was (1) a long shot, (2) a Greek-American and (3) a cancer survivor. Of course, they also said that he is a pro-business liberal; a pro-choice environmentalist who believes in the death penalty and nuclear power; a bright, engaging man with a subtle sense of humor, a strong sense of family, an 85-page pamphlet of ideas and a speaking style that makes Michael Dukakis look charismatic.

But it is the cancer that initially kept off the page. We may have gotten immune to frills in politics. The first Catholic, first black, first female. But the first cancer survivor to run for president must face down a lingering prejudice, a different heart of darkness.

Today in the United States there are some six million people who have been treated and survived. Cancer is no longer one disease but many, each with a separate treatment and prognosis. While some carry a swift death sentence, others have survival rates as high as 90 percent. About half of all those diagnosed with cancer in 1981 survived at least five years and 44 percent are still living. We are permitted now to even use the word "cured."

Times have changed since 1983 when Sen. Tsongas found a lump in his groin while taking a shower. The experimental bone marrow transplant that he underwent in 1986 has become almost common. Now the candidate's oncologist — interviewed more closely than his wife — has pronounced the likelihood of a recurrence so remote as to be negligible.

But public attitudes are often sluggish when dealing with disease and its sidekick, fear. It is still harder for a survivor even of a "good" cancer to get life insurance, or a job, or a promotion. "Consciously or unconsciously," says Dr. Samuel Broder, the head of the National Cancer Institute, "Some aren't given the opportunity to return to the work force. People are passed over for promotion or forced out of a small business because of insurance issues."

Nobody has to hire you to run for president. It's an equal opportunity race which, for Tsongas, is actually and mystically connected to his experience. It was cancer, he said sometime ago, that led him out of public life. Now, he calls his candidacy, "the obligation of my survival."

The question is how it will be seen by voters. Can people listen to ideas without looking for symptoms? Can a survivor be accepted as a leader for the future? If the long odds ever grow shorter, will those odds hinge on believing in Tsongas' oncologist as well as his agenda?

"I suspect he doesn't want to be known as 'the cancer candidate,'" says his doctor, Tak Takvorian. But this 50-year-old father who has seen his hair fall out and grow back, his weight drop off and come back, his ambition recede and return in a changed form — will inevitably come to represent more than his ideas.

He will stand for, run for, speak for, a changed reality about cancer. And he will find out whether consciousness has kept up with oncology.

He has a speaking style that makes Michael Dukakis look charismatic.

Patriotism rekindled

In the 1970 and 80s it was not popular to support the military, to wave the flag, to stand up for American foreign policy. Many were apologetic, sometimes even belligerent and bellicose when confronted with public announcements on any of these.

Desert Shield and Desert Storm has changed all that. The president, even Congress, affirmed support for those involved in the desert conflict. Americans by the millions responded by "Flying the Flag" and decorating trees, windows with yellow ribbons, symbolic of their prayers and concern for a successful mission, and a safe return for those who "went to war."

Desert Storm has changed the face of America! Finally, the Vietnam syndrome of despair has been shattered, and America's patriotic fervor has been rekindled. Returning military have been cheered and honored in parades and ceremonies. Once again, after decades of disdain, apathy and sheer indifference, Americans are proud to be patriotic, proud to back their country in the desert venture, proud of the military and the mission they were called upon to perform, proud to wave the flag.

Patriotism however, has its price. Homes were uprooted. Families were separated. There were some 150 casualties in Desert Storm. These have joined those tens of thousands from earlier conflicts who helped pay the price to stem aggression, to uphold the torch of freedom and liberty.

As we seek to forge a peace, we honor those who have served and those who have died, in Desert Storm. Their task, however, is not yet done. Lasting peace, with justice for all involved, must be the final goal. As we count the price paid for freedom, as we wave the flag, our first priority then must be to press on and win the peace.

Memorial Day of 1991 will have new meaning for Americans. Desert Storm and Panama casualties have been added to the price tag paid in freedom's name. These have helped rekindle the lagging patriotism and respect for the forgotten veterans of the Vietnam era, and the aging veterans of Korean and World War II conflicts.

May America be wise enough and bold enough not to let the flames of patriotism flicker out, but continue to work towards winning the peace. Our prayer to God, may our American Leadership have the courage to face the challenges called for to meet the goals, the strength and determination to take action as needed, and the wisdom to establish and assure peace and stability in the Middle East, and in the world at large, in the countless decades ahead.

Dumping

and Sanford. About a half dozen houses had the dirt road which leads to Loch Lowe Preparatory School.

The owners of the Art Lane dump site, Frank J. Sobotka and Rodney S. and Carolyn R. Laval, face two $250-per-day county fines which have reached a total of $637,750. By the time the Seminole County commission considers collection action against Sobotka May 29, the fine will reach $845,750.

In addition to the county code enforcement action, Sobotka also faces trial beginning May 21 on criminal charges under state litter and environmental laws. Beth Rutberg, assistant Seminole County state attorney who is prosecuting Sobotka, said she may seek imprisonment for the violations, which she said constitute a felony.

Another hearing is scheduled for Tuesday to consider a Seminole County motion to dismiss Sobotka's lawsuit against the county claiming it's Code Enforcement Board can't impose fines. It stems from an appeal of the fine filed in 1986.

Sobotka did not return calls Wednesday and Friday. His Lake Mary attorney, Joe Rosier, referred a caller to Oviedo attorney Mike Jones who did not return calls Friday. Sobotka's criminal defense attorney in Orlando, Cheney Mason, was out of town Friday and could not be reached.

Assistant Seminole County Attorney Lonnie Groot said the judicial process has prevented the county from taking swifter enforcement action against Sobotka. Sobotka filed an appeal against the Code Enforcement Board in 1986 seeking to block the fines and declare the code board had no constitutional powers to impose fines.

Although much of Sobotka's original lawsuit has been dismissed, a hearing is scheduled for this week before Seminole Circuit Judge C. Vernon Mize Jr. to consider a county motion to dismiss the final complaints.

"I don't think the county has been unable to enforce its codes," said Groot. "The two lawsuits ate up a lot of time. There were several changes of judges and delays in judge's decisions. Decisions were re-announced."

Reported environmental problems at the site date back to at least 1983, when state environmental officials attempted to get former owner Bruce Peacock to clean up groundwater contaminants found in the former pits, Rutberg said. In 1985, county records show a complaint was filed with the county stating that hazardous materials were dumped there.

None were found, but county inspectors found boat molds in the pits, records show. Sobotka and the Laval bought the property in 1986 before Peacock closed up the site, Rutberg said.

The county enforcement against Sobotka began with a county inspection on Aug. 18, 1986. The county code inspector Delta Leigh reported finding found tires, lumber, empty paint cans and mineral spirits cans, chairs, shingles, a rusted car frame and other materials, county records show.

The county issued several violation notices to Sobotka for the dumping, but no compliance was ever obtained, records show.

The county Code Enforcement Board imposed a $250 per day fine Oct. 23, 1986, against Sobotka and the Laval for operating a landfill without a county permit and a second fine of $250 per day for operating a borrow pit without a permit. The fines are still continuing at a total of $600 per day.

But even as county and state enforcement reach a climax this month, the dumping continues on Art Lane. Residents report seeing several loads taken to the site Friday morning by a blue dump truck bearing the "JCL Landscaping Inc." name on the cab door.

At 10:10 Friday morning, a dump truck with a blue cab bearing the JCL company name could be seen as it drove to the locked gate entrance to the site. Concrete and twisted metal could be seen creating the top of the loaded truck. The driver, who would not give his name, was wearing a blue t-shirt with the JCL company name on it and a blue and green cap with the JCL name.

Lake Mary discusses its limits on spending

LAKE MARY — The Lake Mary City Commission held a special meeting last night to review possible changes to the City Charter. "It was probably one of the shortest meetings on record," Mayor Randy Morris said. The meeting lasted approximately 35 minutes.

Considered of major importance last night was a citizen-proposed amendment that will appear on the general election ballot in November. If approved, it would prevent the city from entering into any financial agreement that would require payments to last beyond one year, without prior approval by the voters of Lake Mary.

Morris said it was his belief that all of the individual commissioners were against the proposal, and wanted to make that a singular issue on the

The driver said the company hauls construction debris and landscaping materials to the site, but refused to answer further questions. After driving the truck through the gate and reloading it, the truck passed several minutes while the driver spoke into a walkie-talkie.

After several minutes, he drove the truck several yards into the site and could be seen from the road relading the dump bed. The truck left several minutes later, apparently empty.

At 10:30 a.m., the truck driven by the same driver returned, this time with brush and limbs protruding out of the top of the truck. About 10 minutes later it left empty. The truck drove a short distance to a construction site on Lake Mary Boulevard at South Fifth Street, where a loader could be seen accepting debris into the truck.

Rutberg said Sgt. Jeff Ardisman, of the Florida Game and Freshwater Fish Commission issued Sobotka a warning on April 18 that if the dumping continued, the state could seize trucks and other possessions.

"Any continued dumping could be the subject of additional charges," Rutberg said.

Seminole County may look to seize Sobotka's possessions as well later this month, but not the dump site itself. County natural resources officer Tim Clabaugh said he will recommend commissioners do not attempt to foreclose on the property to compensate for the fine because of evidence of contamination on the site. If the county were to own the property, then it would be responsible to clean it up.

ballot. Had they agreed to make any major charter revisions during last night's meeting, they would have also appeared on the ballot, Morris said. "We want to focus on this one thing this year."

Only a half dozen citizens attended the session which was to cover a number of items in the charter, including possible changes involving the length of terms for city commissioners. City Manager John Tilton, has proposed such a change several times in the past, and it was expected to bring it up again Thursday night. While it was briefly mentioned, the matter was postponed for the time being.

Morris said it is not expected that the length-of-term matter would be brought up again during this year. Lake Mary commissioners presently serve two-year terms.

Open letter from code boss

Not many of the citizens of Sanford know much about the City's Code Enforcement Board. That's good news and bad news. It is good news because only a small minority of our citizens have received a Notice of Violation from the code inspector and been asked to appear before the Code Enforcement Board. It is bad news because they were unaware of their community and legal responsibilities regarding city regulations, not because of lack of concern or neglect. It is also bad news because those who do not violate codes do not know what to do when confronted with a neighbor or business who does violate codes. It is the purpose of this paper to shed some light and, hopefully, no heat on this subject.

In 1980, the Florida Legislature adopted an act authorizing municipalities to create code enforcement boards for the enforcement of various occupational license, fire, building, zoning, sign, and related technical codes within the municipalities. On September 22, 1980, the Sanford City Commission enacted City Ordinance Number 1596 to create the City of Sanford Code Enforcement Board. The Commission's intent was to provide the citizens of Sanford with an equitable, expeditious, effective, and inexpensive method of enforcing the various city codes.

Over the past decade plus, the Board members have changed but the format and procedures remain pretty much as they began. The Board now consists of seven regular members and two alternate members. All are unpaid volunteers, your neighbors, and residents of the area. In addition, the Board has an attorney, a code inspector, who is a Building Department inspector, and a secretary, who is also employed in the city's Building Department.

Board meetings are held on the second Tuesday of the month at 7 p.m., in the Commission Chambers at City Hall and are open to the public.

The Board is a quasi-judicial body issuing findings of fact, conclusions of law, and orders which have the force of law. The Board can issue summons, impose fines, and foreclose liens. It can do so...but does not do so until, other efforts fail. The goal of the Board is to obtain compliance with the codes. It works with those who receive code violations by providing time, advice, and suggestions to help the individual or business comply with the code. If that fails, the Board may impose a fine to begin. Sometimes, additional time is provided for compliance. Additional time to bring the property into compliance with city codes is not usually provided if the violation concerns a serious threat to the public's health, safety, or welfare.

Most of the cases brought to the Board concern nuisances of high grass/weeds, junk cars, trash/refuse or old building material in the yard. The cases also involve occupational licenses, home occupations, sign permits, and electrical and fire code violations.

Each citizen can help the Board resolve these problems and make Sanford a better place to live if he/she will:

1. Keep their own property well maintained and in compliance with all city codes.

2. Call the City Building Department (330-8656) before re-roofing, building fences, erecting storage sheds, or making additions to the house to determine if a building permit is required. If so, get a permit. This will save time and money in the long run. If located in the downtown Historic District, a Certificate of Appropriateness may also be required.

3. Report any unattractive, nuisances mentioned above or other suspected code violations. This can be done by calling the Building Department at 330-8656. You do not have to give your name to request information or report a violation.

4. Use the services of the Public Works Department (330-5679) for the special pick-up service which, at present, will remove brush, appliances, leaves, old building material, etc. which is placed at the curb. If you have regular city garbage service, a single-family residence can get one free pick-up per year. Additional pick-ups vary in cost depending on the size of the load and begin at $15. This minimum is less than it would cost you to haul the material to the county landfill and amounts to about three pickup truck loads.

In conclusion, we can all enjoy a better quality of life if we work together. It is obvious that the opportunity to report a code violation can be misused to fuel neighborhood arguments, so use this privilege properly. Sanford is The Friendly City. Let's keep it that way.

that would inform groups and organizations as well as individuals about the rules under which the board operates. Several members of the board volunteered to serve as guest speakers at various meetings if called on, to help improve public awareness.

Meanwhile, as Jimmy Durante often said, "Everybody wants to get into the act." Various organizations are now becoming more involved in reporting the violations. They include the Sanford Historic Trust, St. Lucia Festival, Sisters, and other groups. Some, such as St. Lucia, are providing a member as an alternate to the Code Board, to be called upon in cases when a normal quorum cannot be obtained for a meeting.

At the workshop, the Code Enforcement Board received a long list of violations presented by Martha Yancy, who requested copies be submitted to members of the City Commission. In the list, which contained 14 reports of code violations at residences as well as one on a vacant lot, Yancy wrote that they were "Code Violations turned in to me from members of clubs and other groups." The groups include a number of other local organizations who are similarly interested in improving various aspects of life in Sanford.

Recently, the Sanford Historic

Trust organization produced a pamphlet on neighborhood responsibilities of individual citizens, and circulated it to the members of their organization. Martha Yancy had requested additional pamphlets be provided for even further distribution, to help increase the public awareness and understanding of the situation.

President of the Code Enforcement Board, Robert M. Keith, has issued a number of suggestions for individual citizens to use in helping this project. Included are recommendations of keeping property well maintained and within compliance, using the Public Works Department for special pick-up services when needed, and contacting the city Building Department before making changes on personal property to be sure all codes are carried out and permits are obtained when required.

Keith's main suggestion however, is to have private individuals notify the Building Department of any unattractive nuisances or suspected code violations. This can be done without identifying the name of the person reporting the possible problem area.

Hopefully, an increase in public involvement and the assistance from various organizations will improve the overall code enforcement, which will, in turn, will help improve the city.

As Keith said, on behalf of the board, "We can all enjoy a better quality of life if we work together. Sanford is The Friendly City. Let's keep it that way."

Gallery opening starts new era for historic downtown Sanford

By Mark Pappas
Herald Staff Writer

SANFORD — The door of the First Street Gallery in historic downtown Sanford continued to swing open Friday night as hundreds of special invited guests entered 203 E. 1st Street to see the start of a new facility in downtown Sanford.

It was the grand opening inaugural of a new gallery to be used in displaying arts and crafts of local artists as well as items of historical significance.

Sanford Mayor Bettye Smith welcomed visitors to the gallery which was decked with 18 paintings by noted local artist E.B. Stowe.

Even though he is 97 years of age, Stowe continues to exhibit beautiful paintings. Several of the works of art have been done during the past year, while Stowe has been in a rest home. Among many activities, he recently had one of his paintings on display in the U.S. Senate gallery in Washington D.C.

Among those attending were city and county government leaders, business leaders, and persons connected in one way or another with the world of art.

Speaking of the gallery and its first exhibit Friday night, David Farr, executive director of the Greater Sanford Chamber of Commerce said, "I think this is the most important cultural opening in historic Sanford...ever!"

Farr said he considers the new center a "cultural start," one which he hopes will be the forerunner of more to come in the city's future.

Local artist Abby Jones, who studied under E.B. Stowe and currently has a display of paintings in the Sanford City Hall, gave praise to two of the founders of the gallery, Bettye Reagan and Kay Barthomolew.

"Those two don't do anything half way," Jones said, "when they do something, no matter what project they are involved with, they do it right." He added, "this place is among their greatest."

Another guest, Seminole County Manager Ron Rabun said his previous work as City Manager in Clearwater, gave him a deep knowledge of what the needs are of a downtown area.

"I consider this as the heart of downtown Sanford," he said. "It has not only charm, but soul." Rabun said every city needs such a place to serve as the central focus of what it stands for.

The First Street Gallery will be open to the public Tuesday through Saturday, with the Stowe one-man exhibit on hand through this month.

Beginning in June, the gallery will host an all media gallery benefit show, a juried exhibit open to all artists. Separate artistic programs are planned for each month during the remainder of this year.

The gallery was created through a joint venture of the St. Lucia Festival and the Sanford/Seminole Art Association. It is a non-profit operation and completely manned by volunteers from both groups.

Teacher in Fort Pierce named best in Florida

Associated Press

LAKE BUENA VISTA — An English teacher who called herself an "accidental teacher" has been named Florida's teacher of the year for her innovative reading program at Fort Pierce Westwood High School.

Kathleen K. Hule, a graduate of Michigan State University, has been teaching for 10 years. She beat four other educators chosen from more than 120,000 public school teachers across the state.

At Westwood High School, she implemented an Independent Reading Program that allows students to choose their own reading material.

"This program not only improves students' reading rates but also helps them make independent, critical evaluations of literature," she said in her contest application biography.

Sanford-Lake Mary charity ball raises $10,000

By LACY DOWNS
Herald People Editor

ALTAMONTE SPRINGS — Candles flickered on mirrored and linen clad tables as partygoers at the Park Suite Hotel, Altamonte Springs, Friday night danced to the Orlando Society Orchestra and feasted on shrimp, oysters and chocolate covered strawberries.

Pink, blue and white helium balloons hovered near the ceiling.

Exotic plants graced tables. Women in silk, satin and taffeta were each presented with a powder pink tote bag filled with complimentary makeup samples from Lancome, Paris.

The American Cancer Society, Sanford-Lake Mary Unit, will benefit by about $10,000 from proceeds from the May Day Ball, according to Chairman Emy Bill.

"It's a beautiful evening," she said of the annual event. Cid is a black and white animal print caftan. Bill visited each table to ensure her guests were having fun.

"I think everyone is having a good time," she said.

About 100 people enjoyed the festivities during which Rep. Art Grindle shed his suit coat to preside over a fund-raising auction of art and memorabilia such as autographed baseballs and paintings by acclaimed local artists.

Framed art from wildlife to real life graced the auction block.

Grindle's wife, Phyllis, clad in a silver sequined cardigan, joined in the bidding as Grindle rolled up his sleeves to auction paintings by Bettye Reagan, Faye Siler and Jose Porter.

"Phyllis is the skill. Just because she bid doesn't mean you can't bid against her," he chuckled early in the auction.

Phyllis outbid several guests on two items.

"Did you bring your own money?" Grindle jokingly asked.

Bahamian cruises, golf vacations and paintings were among auctioned.

"It was very successful," Bill said.

Prior to the auction, guests feasted on fresh seasonal fruit, seafood, assorted cold canapés, hot hors d'oeuvres, carved steaks and accompaniment by berran and bordelaise sauces and miniature silver dollar rolls.

"I have to dance to work off this great food," guest Sarabecca Roster said.

After the auction, the orchestra serenaded partygoers until midnight. Dancing to Big Band hits such as "In the Mood" and to more current favorites such as "Don't Cry For Me Argentina" by the 12-piece orchestra enticed a cross section of dancers onto the floor.

An array of luscious desserts and coffee were served late in the evening.

Corporate sponsors were Sunland Corporation and Park Suite Hotels.

Bess Edwards outbid the crowd at the American Cancer Society auction during the May Day Ball to purchase a baseball autographed by a member of the Kansas City Royals.

Partygoers at the May Day Ball, held at the Park Suite Hotel in Altamonte Springs Friday night, danced to the 12-piece Orlando Society Orchestra.

Also contributing were Abbot's Printing, Seminole Flower Shop and Lancome, Paris.

Items for auction were donated by the Kansas City Royals and Kathleen Reynolds, president of the Sanford-Lake Mary Unit of the American Cancer Society. Art was donated by Jose Porter, Bettye Reagan and Faye Siler.

Dave and Edith McNeill donated the Bahamian cruise.

At the end of the evening, the flower centerpieces were also auctioned to benefit cancer research.

"Anybody who missed this missed a good time," Bill concluded.

IN BRIEF

Foyt on front row

INDIANAPOLIS — An emotional A.J. Foyt, recovering from the worst injury of his career, made an impressive comeback Saturday and qualified for his 34th and final start in the Indianapolis 500.

The only driver faster than Foyt on the first of his four days of qualifications was Rick Mears, who extended his own record of Indy poles to 11.

The 56-year-old Foyt, the oldest known driver to start the race, made a front-row start in 1988, will start the May 26 race between Mears and Mario Andretti.

With about 250,000 spectators cheering him on, the four-time Indy winner drove his Chevrolet-powered Lotus to a four-lap, 10-mile average of 222.445 mph.

Mears believed that with a run at 234.113 in a Penske #1 Chevy.

Andretti's Lola-Chevrolet earned the other front row spot with a speed of 231.818.

FSU loses in Metro

CINCINNATI — Jamie Baker's RBI triple highlighted a two-run eighth inning Saturday that gave the University of Cincinnati a 7-6 Metro Conference victory over Florida State.

Florida State (46-13, 13-6 Metro) took a 6-5 lead in the top of the eighth on Chris Brock's suicide squeeze bunt, which scored Ty Muller.

Cincinnati (27-26, 3-17 Metro) rallied against reliever John Nedean (0-2) in the bottom of the inning. Chris Newton walked and scored on Baker's triple to tie it, and Tony Elsbrock singled with two out to score Baker.

Pat Murphy (5-2) pitched three innings for the win.

Macley wins A title

HAINES CITY — Mike Martin tripled in two runs and pitched 5 1-3 innings of two-hit ball to lead Tallahassee Macley to a 5-2 victory over Mayo Lafayette in the state Class A championship game Saturday.

Martin's triple highlighted a three-run third inning for Macley as the Marauders (26-6) led 4-0 going into the top of the sixth inning.

But Lafayette (21-4) scored two runs in the sixth on a walk, single, error and a balk to close the game to 4-2.

Tucker Barr, who pitched the final 1 2-3 innings for Macley without giving up a hit, hit a sacrifice fly in the bottom of the sixth inning to close out the scoring.

Martin allowed both runs — only one was earned. He walked four and struck out five. Brett Hewett went two innings, allowing four hits, four runs and a walk. Only two of the runs were earned.

Bolles routs CCC

HAINES CITY — Jason Bouquet, Kyle Kirkeide and Danny Wheeler each drove in three runs Saturday to lead Jacksonville Bolles past Clearwater Central Catholic 13-2 in the Class AA title game at the state high school tournament.

Bolles' margin was the largest in a state championship game since 1968, when Palatka defeated Boca Raton 14-1.

The title was the second in three years and the third overall for Bolles (26-3). Clearwater Central Catholic finished 18-9.

Clearwater scored its two runs in the first inning on Jim Bochis' single, but Bolles tied the game in the second, took a 3-2 lead in the third and scored 10 runs in the final three innings.

Steve Carver (4-0) pitched 5 2-3 innings to pick up the victory, he allowed three hits and six walks, and struck out three.

Matt Granese (6-5) went 4 2-3 innings. He allowed nine hits, three walks and seven runs while fanning four.

Belle nails fan

CLEVELAND — Cleveland outfielder Albert Belle, who spent 10 weeks in an alcohol rehabilitation program last summer, threw a baseball at a heckler in the left-field stands Saturday, hitting him squarely in the chest.

Jeff Pillar, 30, told the umpiring crew he was kidding Belle about throwing a keg party. Belle picked up a foul ball hit by California's Ron Tingley in the seventh inning, turned and heaved it hard at Pillar from a distance of about 15 feet, hitting Pillar in the chest.

State meet an eye-opener for Seminole track teams

By ROBBIE STOKK
Herald Correspondent

WINTER PARK — Considering the past performance of Seminole High School's track teams, it would seem almost impossible that no team or individual would win an event in Friday night's Class 3A state track meet at Showalter Field.

But that's exactly what happened. In fact, neither squad managed to crack the top 10, both finishing 13th in a day of disappointments.

The closest any athlete came to winning an individual title was Carlo White, whose throw of 59 feet, 5 1/2 inches finished just 1 1/2 inches behind the champion, Byron Price of Richards.

"I just didn't do it," said White, who won the state title last year. "I was too tense, I was nervous because I wanted to do better."

On the girls' side, Kacin Ward ran a strong third leg to help Seminole's 4 x 400-meter relay squad finish third with a time of 4:00.01. She combined with Kacie Lawrence, Kim Brown, and Denise Manlin in the race.

Individually, Ward and Lawrence both posted fifth-place efforts, with Ward running a 58.4 in the 400-meter run while Lawrence finished the 300 meter hurdles in 48.6.

Despite the low finish by his team, girls' coach Nate Perkins didn't look at the state meet as a disappointment, but as an experience from which his young squad will benefit.

"It was an eye-opener," said Perkins. "Next year when they (the girls' team) come back, they will pay the price to be a state champion. They have to work a little harder."

In the boys' meet, senior Henry Williams came through with a 48 foot, 1 1/4-inch performance in the triple jump to take fifth. Bernard Sparrow finished seventh in the shot (50 feet, 4 inches).

Camill Hitchman gave Seminole's 4 x 400 team a strong leg as they finished sixth (3:22.83). Running in the first heat, the Seminoles grabbed the lead on the backstretch of the final lap, but Michael Clark couldn't hold on for the win. Dalvin Davis and JoJo Murphy also ran legs on the relay squad.

On of the biggest letdowns for Seminole came in the 4 x 100 meter relay. In their preliminary race, Seminole held the lead as it entered the final exchange. But Anthony Neal couldn't get a hold on the baton that Corey Wilson was trying to hand to him and it dropped to the ground.

"This is probably the worst state meet we've ever had," said Brauman. "After so many years, you're bound to have a bad meet."

Bill Glades Glades Central took the girls' championship while Jacksonville Ribault won the boys' title.

Trio pitches Cardinals over Royals

From Staff Reports

SANFORD — Curtis Peterson, Deon Daniels and Jason Wildermute combined on a five-hitter as the Knights of Columbus Cardinals doubled the score on the Rotary Royals 10-5 in Sanford Recreation Department Babe Ruth Baseball League game at Chase Park Friday night.

The win was the Cardinals' sixth straight overall and made them 2-0 in the second half of the season. The Royals fell to 0-2 in the second half.

The trio of Cardinals pitchers struck out 17 Royals with Peterson and Daniels fanning eight each in their three innings of work.

The Royals grabbed the early lead by scoring a run in the first inning and a run in the third inning. The first run scored on a pair of walks and a hit by Eric Roberts. Harry Flowers scoring the run. The second run scored on a single by Willie Williams, a walk to Eric Ingram and another RBI single by Roberts.

But the Cardinals came back to take the lead for good in the bottom of the third inning when they put a three spot on the board. Mitch Shepherd and Lloyd Dixon walked before Cornell Daniels hit into a fielders choice, retiring Shepherd. After Dixon and Daniels stole third Deon Daniels lined a single to right-center to score both runners. Deon Daniels later scored on a sacrifice fly by Demetrius Jackson.

The winners added a run in the fourth, two in the fifth, three in the sixth and one in the seventh. The Royals scored their final three runs in the seventh.

Doing the damage for the Cardinals were Deon Daniels (four singles, three runs), Cornell Daniels (two singles, run), Jackson (double, run), Johnnie Dennis (single, two runs), Wildermute (single, run), Peterson and Shelton Fuleang (one single each) and Donnie Hinson and Dixon (one run each).

Providing the offense for the Royals were Williams (two singles, two runs), Roberts (two singles), Bo Pearson (double), Ingram (single) and Flowers (Jason Compton and Chris Giovanelli one run each).

Lake Mary High School's Vivian Jones (above) and Shannon Cook (below) have contrasting styles in the shot put, but both qualified to compete in the event at Saturday's Class 4A state track meet at Showalter Field.

Ram duo a study in contrasts

By ROBBIE STOKK
Herald Correspondent

WINTER PARK — They are two of Seminole County's best athletes with contrasting styles: the first is fluid, graceful and seemingly void of effort while the second is not-as-blessed with natural ability but rich in heart and determination.

But when Lake Mary's Vivian Jones and Shannon Cook headed to the Class 4A state track at Showalter Field on Saturday, they had one focus, one goal, one desire: to leave the shot as far as possible and earn themselves a spot on the Class 4A All-State team.

Both Cook and Jones earned their way into Saturday's competition with a top-four finish in last week's 4A-Region II meet. Cook finished the meet in second place after a school-record performance of 38 feet, 10 3/4 inches; Jones took fourth after an effort of 35 feet, 11 1/2 inches.

At the state meet, though, Cook and Jones will look to break the 40-foot barrier. Each has shown the ability to do so. Jones setting the 4A-District 9 meet record after a toss of 37 feet, 9 3/4 inches as well as hitting distances upwards of 40 feet in practice this past week, which Cook has also accomplished.

"They are both capable of being in the top six," said Lake Mary girls' track coach Mike Gibson about his talented twosome. "They've been practicing real hard."

For Jones, a senior, this is the culmination of four years of hard work.

"Nothing has come easy for Vivian," commented Gibson. "She's improved each year."

In fact, in each of her first three years at Lake Mary, Jones broke the School class record for the shot. But Cook surpassed her sophomore and junior efforts while Karen Morris outdistanced Jones's freshman output.

"Vivian Jones is a dedicated worker," stated Henry Sheppard, who coaches the shot and discus events for the Rams. "I would rate her as perhaps an overachiever. She is an asset."

For Cook, just a junior, the state meet will serve as a

SCC announces Payne Basketball Camp schedule

From Staff Reports

SANFORD — Worried about the kids not having anything to do this summer? Why not send them to college to learn to play basketball?

Seminole Community College will be the place to be again this summer for young basketball enthusiasts as SCC men's basketball coach, Bill Payne has announced the dates for the 1991 Bill Payne Basketball Camp.

The camps, sponsored by Seminole Community College and the Seminole Community College Foundation, are for both boys and girls between 7 and 14 years of age and will consist of three week-long sessions. The first session will be June 17-20, the second session is June 24-27 and the third session will be July 22-25.

The daily sessions will last from 2 to 5 p.m. The cost will be $45 per session. This fee includes insurance, instruction, Camp T-shirt and awards sponsored by SCC and the SCC Foundation. For the first time, a multiple session discount will be given for campers who wish to attend more than one session. The cost for two sessions will be $85 and $125 for all three sessions.

Each session will be held in the air-conditioned Health and Physical Education Center on the SCC campus.

This will be the fifth year for the camps. Each year, the attendance has increased, from 30 the first year to over 150 campers for the three sessions last year.

The camp is under the direction Coach Payne who, in his nine years as head coach at SCC, has a record of 200-95 with one Mid-Florida Conference championship and two state tournament appearances. He has also coached two Junior College All-Americans and 10 All-State players.

Payne, who was a very successful high school coach at Orlando Colonial and Seminole before moving to SCC, recently received another honor when he was named an assistant coach of the South team for the Olympic Festival at UCLA this summer. He is the first Florida coach to be selected to coach in the Olympic Festival and will assist Alabama's Wimp Sanderson.

Assistant coaches for the summer basketball camp will be Mike McClintock, Bob Ek, Dean Smith, Jim Adams and several current and ex-Raider players.

The camps are geared for the player who is looking to improve his or her knowledge of basic basketball fundamentals; passing, shooting, ball handling and defense.

The camps also stress team play as each session will have three-on-three and five-on-five competition in addition to team and individual drills. The last day of each session will consist of tournaments for all teams and players.

At the end of each session, every participant will receive a certificate of attendance and awards will be presented to the most valuable camper, the most enthusiastic camper, the most improved camper, the best free throw shooter as well as the winners of the team competition.

For more information, write to: Seminole Community College, Bill Payne Basketball Camp, 100 Weldon Boulevard, Sanford, Florida 32773-6199, or call Bill Payne at 323-1450, extension 400, Monday through Thursday.

Landing a tarpon shows why fishing is a sport and not just recreation

The rod creaked in the holder and 50-pound monofilament melted off the 4/0 reel. In the next instant, a huge tarpon was jumping wildly on the surface. It was a smaller fish, "only" around 120 pounds, so my fishing buddy, Bruce Carlton, wasn't too excited about wasting his energy on such a fish. He reluctantly grabbed the rod and fought the tarpon to a standstill after 45 minutes of isometrics on the rod.

The above scenario is common every May in the Pine Island Sound/Charlotte Harbor portion of the west coast. Boca Grande Pass, Redfish Pass and Captiva Pass empty into this great inland body of water. From April until October of each year, tarpon swarm by the thousands over the shallow grass flats in search of crabs and other tasty morsels. Tarpon can be found "rolling" early in morning, and Bruce and I make it a point to anchor in the vicinity of active fish. Once fish have been located, strikes are a foregone conclusion. This may sound a little smug, but once we have put out at least six rods and tossed out a bunch of chum, the fish cannot resist.

As there is little current in these shallow waters, we "freeline" our baits with no weight. Terminal tackle is simple. We attach a 6/0-7/0 forged tarpon hood to a two-foot length of 90-pound Sevenstrand wire leader. The leader is attached to the fishing line via a strong awl. Simply hook on the bait and you're in business.

The tarpon in this area eat a wide variety of fishes, so Bruce chum the entire area. The tarpon don't have a chance once they stumble upon this bonanza of bait.

We have had some wild, tiring days pulling on these silver giants. One day, we landed and released 18 fish. On an average day, we will land 2-4 fish, and they will all usually top 100 pounds. My largest to date is a 174 1/2-pound monster, and Bruce has landed a 162-pound fish.

This is fantastic angling and you don't need a big boat or a lot of fancy equipment to land these huge fish. Fighting these acrobats is an experience you will never forget.

Shape's Scoop
One of the best tarpon spots is directly across the sound from South Seas Plantation. This vast area of flats is home to countless numbers of tarpon.

Fishing Forecast
Steve Gard at the Ocean Bridge Fish Camp report that 39 boats fished the May Bass Tournament. Bill Long took Big Bass honors with a 6-pound, 11-ounce lunker.

Steve Garver and Mark Richter won first place with 18 pounds, 11 ounces while David and Lowell Martindill came in second with 16 pounds, 9 ounces. Eddie and Steve Bussard held down third place with 15 pounds, 2 ounces.

Snook fishing has been steady at Bobcat's with most of the fish being taken after dark. An outgoing tide seems to be the best with most of the snook hitting live shrimp. One-ounce jigs are also a good bet. Captain Jack at Port Camaveral said that the dolphin are hot in 80 feet of water on out. Some real giants, in excess of 80 pounds, have been landed in the past week or so. Wahoo and king mackerel are scattered. Good catches of grouper have been made in the deep water known as the "cones."

Small flounder and sheepshead are hitting in the Port, while trout and redfish are still strong in the Bassano and Indian rivers.

Anglefish, sheepshead, drum and bluefish are hitting at Passo Islet, but the action has been less that spectacular. The "rocks" are still a great place to wet a line if you don't have a boat. The atmosphere is relaxing and bits are frequent.

barometer of her ability in an event which is not her specialty. Her best events this past season were the triple jump and the discus, but she failed to qualify for state in either of those events.

"She (Cook) doesn't know her potential," said Sheppard, who noted that Cook's gymnastics background has benefited her in the shot. "She hasn't put much (work) into the shot put. She has so much ability. Cook could very easily hit 40 or 41 feet (at the state meet)."

Saturday will also help prepare

Cook for next week's heptathlon meet in Tarpon Springs.

"Shannon will establish all kinds of records before she leaves Lake Mary," commented Sheppard. "She will surpass 41 or 42 feet."

Despite their different styles, Cook and Jones have blended a solid friendship throughout their two years competing together, and they hope to draw on that for inspiration Saturday night.

"In the stretch, they both cheer each other up," said Sheppard. "I think that has helped them tremendously."

"Any coach would be proud (of Cook and Jones). Those two ladies have been dedicated. You won't find a better 1-2 punch. I'm very proud of them."

And both Cook and Jones have not been selfish with their abilities. They have spent much time teaching other members of the Rams' girls track how to throw the shot and discus as well as training themselves.

"They complement each other because they help each other," explained Gibson. "They pick up things for each other."

LONGWOOD — Parker Hannifin has begun an expansion of their Longwood assembly plant and expects to hire a dozen workers later this summer.

"We've experienced exceptional success with our expansion valve line in spite of the general recession that the nation is experiencing," said Lawrence J. Hupcraft, president of the Cleveland-based corpora-

Deed transactions up in two-county region

WINTER PARK — The Orange-Seminole real estate market ended a five-month slump in March, posting the sharpest gain since March of last year, according to the latest warranty deed survey by GulfAtlantic Title Agency.

There were a total of 2,034 warranty deeds recorded in the two-county market in March — a whopping 18.7 percent jump over February's figures, says GulfAtlantic Title President Dan Wallace.

Wallace, whose comments were contained in a press release, cautioned that it is too early to celebrate the end of the recession.

"One month does not signal a pattern but it does provide more than a glimmer of hope that the worst is behind us and we're coming out of the woods," he said.

"If we're able to string together two or three months like March, then we know that the real estate market is rallying. April is a lay and I'm confident that it will be equally as strong as March's surge."

The 18.7 percent increase was the highest one-month gain since last March when warranty deed activity soared 28.6 percent. It was also the first time since November that overall activity in the two-county market eclipsed the 2,000-mark plateau, Wallace said in the press release.

Warranty deeds are the accepted measure of sales volume in the industry, with GulfAtlantic reflecting only the activity of the 29 title insurance agencies and companies operating in Seminole and Orange counties. That would reflect the lion's share of the volume but some transactions, such as those handled solely by lawyers, for example, would not be included.

Contributing to the March level were strong sales activity of both Orange and Seminole Counties, Wallace said.

There were a total of 989 deeds registered in Seminole and 1,055 in Orange, increases of 15.6 and 21.7 percent, respectively.

Despite the strong March showing, activity for the first quarter was still down 12.4 percent from the same period last month, the release said.

The differential would have been greater had it not been for the activity in Seminole County, which was up 21.1 percent, he said.

Wallace attributed the increase in volume to lower interest rates, an upsurge in consumer confidence following the Persian Gulf conflict and stability in housing prices.

Pulmonary group offers scholarships

The Orange Pulmonary Group is offering two $500 scholarships to University of Central Florida cardiopulmonary students in their final year of study.

Lawrence Gilliard, M.D., a lung specialist with the group and clinical professor at UCF, will present the awards for the sixth consecutive year.

Scholarship selection will be based on student's record of achievement, supplemented by evaluations of persons well acquainted with the individual's work. Grade point average and rank in class will be considered but may not be the only determining factor in selecting the recipients; well-roundedness and leadership qualities will also be a major determining factor. Applications may be obtained from UCF's Department of Cardiopulmonary Sciences and should be completed by July 31.

How common are urinary tract infections?

By ANTHONY ARCIOLO, M.D.
Urologist

Both men and women have their share of urinary tract infections. The infections are caused by bacteria which travel into the system from outside of the body. The bacteria can travel into the urinary tract, multiply and infect any of the urinary organs.

Typical symptoms of a urinary tract infection include a frequent need to urinate, passing only small amounts of urine, an urge to urinate although you just did so, burning or stinging upon urination, fever and chills, cloudy or foul smelling urine, blood in the urine, low back pain or lower abdominal discomfort. Any or all of these symptoms can herald a urinary tract infection and the earlier treatment is started, the quicker you will be able to get the infection under control and create less difficulty for you.

Typically a urinary tract infection can be treated after a physical examination and a urine analysis has been performed. A urine culture will likely also be required in order to identify the organism causing the infection and to identify the appropriate antibiotic to treat the infection quickly and completely.

Occasionally urinary tract infections or their symptoms may be recurrent and troublesome and prolonged courses of antibiotic therapy or further testing is necessary.

Urinary infections can be called many different things. Urinary tract infections can be called: "cystitis" (an inflammation of the bladder), "urethral syndrome" (an inflammation of the urinary tube) or "pyelonephritis" (an infection going into the kidney) or "prostatitis", an inflammation of the prostate gland found only in men.

Most urinary tract infections do not require surgery, however surgery may be required to relieve obstructions such as enlarged prostate or a kidney stone and to treat problems caused by scarring or long term infections. A good fluid intake, good personal hygiene and bladder habits will help prevent urinary tract infections.

Occasionally other disease processes can either cause a urinary tract infection or mimic the symptoms of a urinary tract infection. This is an excellent reason to seek urologic care if you develop symptoms of urinary tract irritation or bleeding.

An IVP or kidney x-ray is usually required if more than one urine infection has occurred in one year. This test examines the organs that secrete and store the urine. A problem can be found here.

Cystoscopy, which is an examination of the bladder also needs to be done to make sure the anatomy of the bladder and drainage tubes (ureters and urethra) are normal. This can be done in the office under local anesthesia and is virtually pain-free.

Your urinary tract infection can usually be treated successfully, and prevented from recurring, with your help. Once you have been diagnosed, take your medications, follow the instructions of your physician and you should be back to normal again.

Dr. Arciolo is a urologist with office at 1483 Medical Plaza Dr., Suite 101, Sanford, 726 Lake Mary Blvd., Suite 113, Lake Mary and 1848 Susan Blvd., Suite 204, Orlan.

'A Healthy Smile is Ageless'

The dental community will be holding a variety of activities throughout Florida to celebrate Senior Smile Week, May 12-18.

During the fifth observation of Senior Smile Week, dental professionals will be going into senior centers and attending senior health fairs to spread the message. "A Healthy Smile is Ageless."

Throughout the month, but particularly from May 12-18, dentists will be doing oral screenings and educational programs on the importance of oral health. Dentists and dental hygienists will also be distributing bookmarks and other materials with the message that a healthy smile is ageless. Older Floridians will even have a chance to flash their best smiles during senior smile contests.

National Senior Smile Week was initiated in 1987 by the American Dental Association in an effort to create awareness among older adults about the importance of maintaining good oral care throughout life.

She's spent her life giving to and caring for others

By SANDRA ELLIOTT
Herald Correspondent

SANFORD — A lifetime of selflessly giving her time to and caring for others helped Sanford resident Georgia Chorpensing be chosen a "Mother of the Year."

Nominated by long-time friend Barbara Brown, the spry 87-year-old expressed surprise upon receiving the honor.

"I'm elated," Chorpensing said. "I had no idea you'd do something like this for me!"

Brown noted that her "adopted" mom is so used to doing nice things for other people, she would not stop to think someone would do something nice for her.

In her nominating letter, Brown praised Chorpensing for her volunteerism and caring about other people.

"This lady has a heart of gold. She is always ready to help other people without thinking of herself. If someone is ill, she is there to help and do whatever needs to be done to help the person get back on their feet and go on with their lives," the letter states.

Acquainted since 1951, the two met when Brown's family moved to Sanford from North Carolina when she was a child. The bond between the two grew stronger several years ago when Brown's mother died.

"When I lost my mother and was having a very hard time accepting my loss and continuing life without the mother that was my Very Best Friend," Brown wrote, "she (Chorpensing) took the time to listen to me and to use her wisdom to counsel me and help me get my life back on track, so that I could learn to live with my loss and remember the great times we shared together."

"She was always there when I was down and felt like the world was against me," Brown recalled.

"Barbara is unusual because she's got lots of love to give and I'm glad I'm included in her friendship," Chorpensing replied. She added, "I never feel like I help anybody."

"That's because you give so much and it comes so naturally to you," Brown said. "I just love her. She's my adopted mom."

Son says mother is perfect model of loving person

By JOAN KING
Herald Correspondent

SANFORD — When Barbara Murphy learned she was selected "Mother of the Year," she cried.

"My feelings about this are hard to put into words. I was very surprised, very pleased and very proud of Shawn," she said smiling broadly.

Shawn Murphy, Barbara's son, is a 16-year-old Seminole High School 11th grader.

He submitted a two page letter revealing his mom's many acts of kindness.

Shawn said, "I saw the ad for the Mother's Day contest in the school library. Last year I didn't have a chance to enter. This year when I saw it, I didn't have much time left to enter but I wanted to try. Mom has helped me through some real hard times. By the time I finished the entry letter, the deadline was here. I hand carried it to the paper and got it in just in time to qualify."

Murphy sees his mother as a caring, giving person who shows by example the many ways of being a loving person.

This Mother of the Year cared for her own ill mother by driving to Orlando several times weekly with food she prepared for lunches and dinners. She was also preparing meals for her family of five at home.

She cleaned her mother's home and did all of her errands, paid bills and in general took care of all the domestic needs while still maintaining and caring for her family.

Shawn stated in his letter, "Many of the easy jobs around the house grandma could do for herself, but things like paying bills and major cleaning were done regularly by Mom. I would try to do as much as possible to help but most of the work Mom did was done while my sister and I were in school. It was almost as if Mom was leading a double life. Being a mother to her mother and always being home in time to help us with homework, to cook, to do wash and all the other mom jobs."

Shawn continued with several examples of his mother's help to her parents (his grandfather is ill, also) and to others.

During a four year period while Shawn was attending elementary and then middle school, his mother cared for 25 foster babies.

"Even though I was young while we had the babies in our home, I do remember how difficult but rewarding the experience was for my mother

Mom taught kids to treat others with kindness

By ANDREA BENN
Herald Correspondent

SANFORD — She hunts and helps and hustles, but mainly holds the hearts of those who have her near.

Barbara Robare Foster, affectionately known as "Bear," delivered her "Mother of the Year" nomination letter on the rainiest of days. Her mom, Betty Robare, was touched at having been selected as a "Mother of the Year."

Robare is known as a hunter but certainly not of animals. She is a member of the Friends of Animals Society. Robare hunts sales, Foster said. And she loves layaways.

Foster says, "My mom is known as the 'Layaway Queen.' My father is in the Navy, about to retire. But when I was growing up she would depend on the monthly paycheck my father sent back. There may be sneakers or whatever and we wanted them. She'd put them on layaway. No matter how long it took her to save, we got them."

Foster recalls, "I was 13 or 14 years old, and my friend, Bet's mother would get her the best tennis shoes. I'd say to Mom, 'Mom, I need a pair of tennis shoes,' but I actually ripped them apart. She thought I wore them out. I feel so bad, now, but she would buy the best sneakers and I won."

Robare says, "I really did not think about myself. I just thanked the Lord everyday that I could do things for others." Foster says Robare has helped many people.

"I just can't say 'No' to anyone and I taught my children to treat others as you want to be treated," Robare says.

Foster remembers, "My mom cared for my godmother everyday for two years by taking her for daily cancer treatments, picking up medicine and still attending to our needs. She believes in being honest and helping people no matter what it takes — even a can of beans or old pair of pants help."

But, there was one time she forgot to think of someone else, Robare recalls with a mix of humor and poignancy.

"I had to take three of the children to Little League baseball practice — each in different places. I came home, prepared supper, then went

The Rev. Leo and Rubye King celebrated their 47th wedding anniversary April 27 which was also Rubye's birthday. Preservation a passion among those celebrating this week

Today marks the beginning of National Historic Preservation Week. Those of you who own an old home understand the meaning of the celebration. For those of you who don't, it's a passion I'll try to explain.

My father often shook his head over my old house antics. He thought it was bad enough to buy a ramshackle Victorian in the then-questionable neighborhood of downtown Sanford, but filling it with oddities of the age baffled him. He swore I'd be the death of him when I coerced him into painting the living room and one bedroom crimson.

"And just what is wrong with white paint? If you have to have color, paint it off-white," he'd lecture.

I gutted the kitchen and he almost choked when he saw my new gourmet French Art Deco room. Both stove and refrigerator are from the 1920s. I traded and sold new appliances for old ones.

Bob, my dad, paled and said, "Those are older than I am! What if they break? Who will fix them? There's no freezer!"

More projects ensued: a mirrored parlor, stained glass windows, gold-leafed and star covered ceilings. I even toast bread and make waffles in appliances from the 20s.

Bob passed away before my house was done. I'll always cherish the last visit we had. He toured the house, speechlessly, inspecting the eclectic mix that was coming together for me, with not a drop of white paint in sight.

He turned and said, "You know, I hate to admit it, but this is really looking nice. You're doing a great job."

Bob would have celebrated his birthday during National Preservation Week. I think of him often, especially when I cook. He loved my stroganoff and my monitor top refrigerator sure kept the beer cold.

My appliances outlasted my dad. Maybe part of preservation entails cherishing fine old things that hold fine old memories. Here's to you dad. The beer is still ice cold!

Horace turns 100

Speaking of dads: Evelyn Holtzclow reports that the birthday party thrown for her dad, Horace Kinney, in Longwood, was a wonderful tribute to a wonderful man. Horace turned 100 on May 3, and celebrated with about 100 friends and family members.

Horace was born in a one-room log cabin in Quincy, Fla.

His first job was as a water boy, 10 hours a day for fifty cents a day. He was 12.

Horace also worked as a cowboy, fisherman, orange picker and farmer. He delivered mail by horse and buggy. He cooked in the army during World War I and built the streets in Key West. He was also a grounds crew worker and a construction roller operator.

"Most of all, he was the best father," Evelyn added.

John Carbert, Nell Varvel, Pat Kinney, Jesse Kinney, Red Skinner, Pat Skinner, Marlan Kinney and Wilbur Kinney.

Horace fathered two sons and eight daughters. He has 36 grandchildren, 30 great-grandchildren and 3 great-great-grandchildren. The party was hosted by Leon and Pat Skinner. Pat is Horace's other daughter. The Kinney clan managed to make the event a family reunion, too. "It was great. We all had a good time," Evelyn said.

WEDDING

Rogero, Robinson wed in Gainesville

GAINESVILLE — Mary Jane Rogero and David C. Robinson were married March 10, 1991, 4 p.m., at St. Patrick's Catholic Church, Gainesville. Father John Phillips performed the double-ring ceremony.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. "Gene" Rogero of Sanford and the bridegroom's parents are Mr. and Mrs. Lester Robinson of Gainesville.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride chose for her vows a white, tissue weight taffeta, floor-length gown which featured a fitted bodice and modified Basque waistline. A gently pleated fichu collar treatment lent added beauty to the open neckline. Dainty Schiffl lace appliques, embellished with seed pearls and crystal sequins, adorned the bodice front. Pearl and crystal teardrops formed a dangling accent point at the bodice center front. The full, ballgown skirt was caught up with jeweled lace appliques, repeating the elegant bodice motif. A flounced ruffle encircled the skirt with delicate scalloped Schiffl lace edging at the hemline. She carried a bouquet of salmon-colored roses and white miniature carnations bordered by baby's breath and fern greenery. Strings of pearls were interlaced among the flowers.

Susan Howard-Yvon of St. Augustine served the bride as matron of honor. She wore a tea-length, emerald green taffeta dress with fitted bodice. The portrait collar was accented with a bow. Her flowers were white and salmon colored carnations with baby's breath and fern greenery. Strings of pearls were interlaced among the flowers and the bouquet handle was accented with emerald green and pink ribbon.

Mr. and Mrs. David Robinson

Susan Schrard Gladman, Baton Rouge, La.; Linda Hobbs Rogero, Green Cove Springs; Ann Nesbitt Robinson, Gainesville served as bridesmaids. Their dresses and flowers were identical to the honor attendants.

Tom Carlyle of Gainesville served the bridegroom as best man. Ushers were Chris Scoher, Dale Martin and Robbie Robinson, all of Gainesville.

Following the ceremony, a reception was held at the Gainesville Garden Club.

After a wedding trip to Orlando and Cedar Key, the newlyweds are making their home in Gainesville. The bridegroom is currently attending Santa Fe Community College. He will be transferring to the College of Building Construction in the fall. The bride is a student at the University of Florida College of Dentistry.

The large puffed sleeves were embellished with pearls and lace applique and fitted to the wrist. The back of the gown descended to a heavily ruffled chapel-length train. The bride's fingertip illusion veil was held by a headband of beaded flowers and white baby's breath. to pick up the kids," she says. When I got home, I received a call from one of the coaches at the field saying my daughter, Bear, was waiting for me. I told him I'd be right there. I felt so bad and Bear said when I came, 'Mommy, you forgot about me.'"

It is her devotion that keeps her bustling. Robare has nine grandchildren. By invitation of the school, she rotated amongst all nine children to join them for lunch hour. This labor of love spanned three days. Two other children at school often asked Robare to be their grandma, Robare says.

Robare loves children and Foster says her mom has the knack for creative fun and discipline.

"On Friday, Daddy would bring the paycheck and Mom would cash the check and have this saying, 'Friday is Friday and Friday is Friday and Friday is yum-yum day.' And we'd all go to the 7-11 for an iced."

Foster remembers.

Then there was one of her creative disciplinary methods. Foster says, "When we would fight, (brothers and sisters), she'd make us all in the center of the room and hold hands for half-an-hour. We'd always end up laughing."

Several years ago, Robare and her husband, Bob, chose to retire early in California. The day they were scheduled to leave, Foster left a note on their car that said, 'Please don't leave me.' Within nine months, Robare developed an ulcer, Robare says her doctor told her, "My dear, go home. You miss your children too much." They returned home.

Foster, at 26, is still the baby of the family to Bobby, 40; Debbie, 37; Tommy, 34; Lori, 31; and Lisa, 27. She is presently engaged to be married but expresses the sentiments, "I'll never leave my mother. I'll always take care of her for all she's done. I want her to know how much I really love her."

grandchildren and great-grandchildren when they needed a place to stay or someone to listen to them and to talk over their problems. Her time was given with love to them all." Brown stated in her letter.

Giving a lot of love and listening to children are two of the most important points Chorpening sees in child-rearing. However, in today's society she said she would be hard-pressed to raise a child.

"I don't know if I could tell anyone how to raise a child today," Chorpening said. "You just give a lot of love and listen to their problems."

While helping to raise her grandson, Chorpening said she let him know she had confidence in him and by doing so, he would talk openly if he had problems or troubles.

One of the great pleasures for the octogenarian "Mother of the Year" is to be remembered by the countless individuals who rode on her bus during her 23 year tenure as a driver for Seminole County schools. She recalled with pleasure seeing a former student and his son who stopped by to say "hello" one day while she was mowing her lawn.

Noting her friend's vitality, Brown commented, "I hope if I get to be 80, I'm just half that spry!"

Still actively involved in the community, Chorpening is chairperson of the Women's Society Church Circle at the First United Methodist Church on Park Avenue and has volunteered 7,000 hours over the past 33 years at Central Florida Regional Hospital.

Although caring for her invalid husband, Carl, she still finds time to volunteer with the help of neighbors and friends who stay with him while she is gone.

rest of our family." Barbara is a church volunteer and presently works as assistant to the director of religious education.

"It's amazing to me that even though she is so busy, she is always there cooking, working in the yard with us and all sorts of other things," Shawn said.

Vickie, her daughter, will be confirmed in the church shortly and her other son, Paul III, lives away from home while attending Embury Riddle University.

"My husband, Paul, is also very thoughtful. I have a loving, caring family. One of the most important things that families can do for each other is to keep the lines of communication open on both ends. Parents should listen to their kids," Murphy advised.

Shawn ended his entry with his tribute to "the world's greatest Mom." He stated, "Nothing will change the way that I feel about her. Thanks mom!"

ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

Adoption can be a sign of compassion

DEAR ABBY: Everyone in the adoption triangle — the adoptee, his or her biological parents and his or her adoptive parents — has rights and interests to be protected. Adopted people, at least as adults, have a right to know the facts of their birth, medical history and biological heritage. Adoptive parents have a right to feel secure in their relationship with the children they choose to raise. Birth mothers* and fathers have a privacy right to respect.

Colorado found a way recently to balance these interests. In 1989, I successfully sponsored House Bill 1177 to create a "confidential intermediary" appointed by the district court to review formerly "closed" adoption records for adult adoptees. The confidential intermediary then acts as a go-between in contacting the birth parents

By Bernice Bede Cool YOUR BIRTHDAY May 13, 1991

More opportunities than usual could be available to you in the year ahead. This is well and good, provided you don't scatter your efforts so thin that not one opportunity is realized.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20) Opinions you feel strongly about might not be received equally as well by those with whom you'll be involved today. Don't put yourself in a position where you're a minority.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20) If things don't work out for you today, there's a chance it's because you've overestimated your position and underestimated the size of a problem. Be realistic.

CANCER (June 21-July 20) Financial involvements with friends may not work out too well today. This is one of those peculiar times when you might be better off doing business with strangers.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22) Don't count too heavily on your luck and good looks to get you by today. In regard to achieving objectives, if you're going to beat another, you've got to be smarter.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22) You may have to handle a situation today similar to one you didn't deal too effectively with recently. To save yourself new lumps, review your playbooks.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 23) Friends might not be in the mood to go out of their way to do you favors today, especially a pal you had a chance to help and didn't. Go it alone.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24-Nov. 22) If the whole world but you appears to be out of step today, it might be wise to take a hard look at your own behavior. Perhaps it's your cadences that's not in sync.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23-Dec. 21) You could be luckier than usual today where your material affairs are concerned, but your personal relationships might not be up to par. You'll have to decide which is more important.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19) You may be inclined to be a risk-taker today, so it's impera-

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22) There are indications you may revive an old friendship that has lain dormant for some time. It's with a proven pal who no longer resides in your locale.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 19) You are in a better position to finalize a matter of importance, to your satisfaction, than you may realize. It's time to stop perceiving yourself as the underdog.

PISCES (Feb. 20-March 20) If you've been thinking about making inroads into a new social circle, now is the time to gain the acceptance for which you've been hoping. Make your play.

ARIES (March 21-April 19) Conditions look encouraging where your material interests are concerned, but you can't wait for things to come to you. Gains are indicated — if you use your initiative and make things happen.

Sometimes one defender will see how to administer the killing blow. But usually defeating a contract requires careful cooperation between the defenders. And that cooperation requires good understandings, plus of course paying careful attention to the cards played by partner.

then, that the defenders are in a position to cash four heart tricks immediately.

But is the position so clear to East? After winning with the ace of hearts, will he definitely return a heart? Maybe West started with A-7-6-5-4 in diamonds, so the killing defense would be to push the jack of diamonds through South's queen. How does East know?

The answer depends on the size of the heart spot West leads. If he leads a low spot, he is expressing the desire to have that suit returned, whereas if he leads a high spot, he is indicating no interest in that suit and a preference for his original suit to be returned.

Here West switches to the two of hearts, and East should return a heart. However, with A-7-6-5-4 of diamonds, West would lead a high heart and East should know to switch to the jack of

Awards, votes and tests top LMHS week

LAKE MARY — This week many Lake Mary students had to go through a modern form of torture: Advanced Placement exams.

Some juniors and seniors take AP classes ranging from the French language to Calculus to English for the year and then take the exams in May for college credit.

"Thank goodness my AP English exam is over," said Shellie Olaszewski, a junior who completed the AP English Language and Composition class and exam.

Also this week were student government elections and the walls of the multi-purpose room were covered with colorful posters asking students to cast their votes.

On Tuesday, candidates gave their speeches. Voting was done voluntarily in the school auditorium on Thursday and Friday.

On Wednesday, May 8, a select group of students were honored by the faculty and staff at the annual Awards Convocation. Over 150 students were given awards and scholarships, were inducted into the academic hall of fame or were introduced as honor graduates.

Some of the winners were Staci Ferguson, a senior who won the Walt Disney World Scholarship and will attend the University of Florida; Jennifer Moore who got the first Don T. Reynolds Aces Scholarship and will attend Florida State University and Katie Gilliam, who was chosen by teacher of the year Boyd Karnea as the 1991 LMHS student of the 90s.

Football, powder puffs and the killer instinct

SANFORD — Football is in the air. On May 1, the Fighting 'Noles football team began spring training.

Every day the team spends two hours working on techniques and plays. Practice sessions are designed to prepare for next year and a May 30 jamboree that will be held at Seminole High School.

Several Seminole County high schools will play one quarter of football in the jamboree at SHS.

The Oviedo Lions will play the Deland Bulldogs in the first quarter; the 'Noles will play the Lake Howell Silverhawks in the second.

The first half losers will face off in the third quarter while the winners will play in the last quarter.

"We will surprise a lot of people, not with our size, but with our speed," said running back Bruce McClary.

McClary will be a senior leader next year.

While the boys are holding their practices, the junior and senior girls are preparing for the annual Powder Puff game in which the girls face off in a spirited game of flag football on May 24 at 6 p.m. in Thomas E. Whigham Stadium for the event.

The senior members of the boys' football team are acting as coaches for the senior Powder Puffers in daily practices. Juniors boys are likewise coaching their female counterparts.

The girls are all developing a killer instinct to play football. The Powder Puff football game promises to be a game to remember.

Instead of drugs, kids do Zoo

By VICKI BOGGS
Herald Staff Writer

SANFORD — The students in the HIP (Healthily Involved Peers) program at Sanford Middle School is trying to help out the Central Florida Zoo in Sanford and get their message out to the public at the same time.

On Friday about three dozen sixth, seventh and eighth graders from the school, which is located at 1700 French Ave. in Sanford, boarded a bus to the zoo to have some fun with the animals and to present a $50 check to the zoo to help out with the construction of the facility's boardwalk.

"We had heard that they were looking for some assistance with the boardwalk," said Steve White, a math teacher who coordinates the HIP program at the school. "We also wanted to get the Just Say No to Drugs message out there."

White said that the students in HIP decided that the boardwalk at the Central Florida Zoo was a good place to place their anti-drug message because a lot of elementary school children visit the park and walk across the boardwalk.

"They felt the message should be out there for even the very young kids to see," he noted.

The HIP program at Sanford Middle School is relatively young, having only been active for about a year.

According to White, the idea behind the program is to "let the kids know there are things to do in Sanford besides sitting on a street corner and smoking a joint."

White and his adult assistants have organized a number of activities for the students, including dances, trips to the movies and roller skating parties.

There are about 40 active members in the group and a few more who come to the meetings from time to time.

"The kids who participate in the program really have a fun time," White said, noting that many of the activities take place on the weekend and in the evenings when students are most likely to get into trouble because they are bored.

"We try to instill a sense of community in them as well," he said.

The students recently participated in the Walk America walk-a-thon for the March of Dimes.

"We got the whole group together and walked the course," White said.

While White lives in Apopka, he said that the Sanford community has been very helpful in keeping him apprised of activities in the area that the group might be interested in helping with or participating in.

"There are plenty of activities to keep the kids active and away from drugs," White said, "but we could always use more."

The organizers of the Sanford Middle School feel that the 40 or so active members are a good core group, but they would like to have more participation in the group.

"We want to get the word out," White said. "We have a lot to offer in this group."

Sanford Middle School HIP sponsor Steve Wright looks on as group representative Jeff Merline presents a $50 check to John Hughes, the development coordinator at the Central Florida Zoo.
