Brain Cells Can't Heal

Dr. Lamb

DEAR DR. LAMB — My son, now 57, was injured 18 years ago. He was in a coma for twelve weeks then developed convulsions and spasms for which he had two brain operations within a year. This left him with bad double vision and right side paralysis. He works with handicapped persons, and does well, but his only locomotion is his wheelchair. He thinks hypnosis could help him, but how? By whom? Where? Is it possible?

DEAR DR. LAMB — In driving a car impossible following cataract surgery? I can't find a definite answer to my question and would appreciate straight answers.

DEAR DR. LAMB — Lots of people who have had cataract surgery do drive a car without any difficulty at all. It depends entirely on how good the individual's total vision is after surgery.

Some people with cataracts have other eye problems as well. This may limit their results from surgery. The use of contact lenses after surgery has helped to limit the amount of distortion of vision that occurs. So if a person's eyes are otherwise normal and with the aid of contact lenses, most patients should be able to drive without any real problems after surgery. I suppose I should add that I am assuming the person could drive before surgery.

DEAR DR. LAMB — How do some of the so-called miracle workers? You need to look into the background of these to see what the facts really are. Sometimes these are not related to brain damage at all but are examples of hysterical paralysis, or a disease that does not kill the cells and they recover eventually like a "miracle."

DEAR READER — Your son needs to understand exactly what his problem is. The nervous system is constructed like an electrical system. Our muscles move because impulses, like electrical current, pass through nerve fibers which carry much like the wires for an electrical circuit. The central area where all these circuits come together and are integrated is in the brain. If you destroy certain brain cells the effect is the same as if you broke a wire in an electrical circuit.

Your son's brain damage has destroyed cells that affect vision and his right side. These cells will not regenerate. Using hypnosis is a bit like trying to get an electrical current to move across a broken wire. It won't happen.

This same problem occurs in many stroke victims. The difference here is that in the early days of the stroke the cells don't work because they are injured but not totally destroyed. This is usually caused by local swelling. If these cells recover rather than die the function recovers to those

It Seems That Way The Welcome Lawn?

By BOB LLOYD Herald Staff Writer

Mrs. Angie Figgatt came home Monday afternoon to find her front yard littered with a couple of headlights, brake shoes, pieces of chrome and other auto parts.

It wasn't exactly something new. Mrs. Figgatt lives at 2001 S. Sanford Ave., on the corner of 20th Street — two of the city's busiest traffic arteries.

Through the years numerous accidents have occurred at the intersection, despite repeated efforts to alert motorists with traffic control measures.

Monday was the first time since she moved into the white house in August 1975 that smashed autos have ripped up Mrs. Figgatt's lawn. But attorney Kirby Moncrief, who owned the house for several years prior, notes that there were lots of "fender-bender" accidents at the corner and occasionally cars came into his lawn.

On one occasion a collision involved a fire truck. There was a blinking traffic signal at the intersection. There was also a school bus stop at the corner and children waiting for the bus stood in Moncrief's front yard.

Concerned because of frequent traffic accidents, Moncrief talked to school board officials and city officials. The bus stop was moved a block and the city installed a new traffic signal, plus rumble strips on the streets and signs to warn approaching motorists.

In past years at least two persons have died in accidents at the intersection. Mrs. Figgatt, Moncrief and Police Chief Ben E. Butler all point out that many of the accidents seem to be caused by careless motorists.

"Evidently people don't pay attention to the traffic light," says Mrs. Figgatt. Moncrief notes that motorists, in many cases, apparently are speeding and Butler says "it's just pure carelessness by motorists who aren't cautious."

"It's a dangerous corner," says Butler, "but no more than the intersections at Sanford Ave. and French Avenue on 26th Street."

In the Monday collision three persons were treated and released at Seminole Memorial Hospital after receiving facial and head cuts. Police identified them as Sandra B. Lowery, 20, and her three-year-old son, Jason Lowery, both of 1000 S. Park Ave., and Jan L. Stokes, 20, of the same address. They were in the car driven by Mrs. Lowery. Accident investigator Lewis Coombs identified the other driver involved in the collision as Andelesa Martinez Mendoza, 18, of 1909 Magnolia Ave. She was treated for minor injuries, police said.

$130,000 Requested For Sanford's Uplift; Council 'Needs Time'

By DONNA ESTES Herald Staff Writer

Action on a request from the Greater Sanford Development Corp. (SDC) that $130,000 be allocated in the city's budget for the 1977-78 fiscal year for the city's share of improvements to the proposed downtown Sanford renovation and redevelopment project was tabled by the Sanford City Commission Monday night until Aug. 22.

Also tabled was consideration of placing the creation of a special taxing district for the downtown area, as permitted by special legislation sponsored by SDC, to provide administrative funding for the corporation composed of downtown business people.

Tom McDonald, an officer of the corporation, requested that the commission cooperate in implementing improvements to the public right-of-way in the "model area" of the downtown section; that city crews be committed to the work project; that $130,000 be entered into the fiscal 1978 budget for this purpose and that implementation of the public right-of-way occur simultaneously to the actual improvements to private properties by at least six property owners.

The organization also asked that a traffic flow map including a one-way system between French and Sanford Avenues, to proceed eastbound on Second Street and westbound on Commercial and Fulton Streets be approved and that the city approve the concept of creating municipal parking lots between Park and Palmetto, south side of Commercial and between Park and Palmetto, south side of Second Street.

McDonald, on behalf of the SDC, asked that two city commissioners be named to serve on a committee working with the SDC to determine proper methods of financing and timely phasing schedules.

The commissioners were told that the requests had been unanimously voted by the board of directors of SDC and approved for presentation by members. The subject area said a letter written by Sara Jacobson, consultant to the SDC, extends from Park Avenue to Palmetto on First Street and from Second to First Street on Magnolia.

McDonald said, "I believe our town can be the finest of any town in Florida. We are ready to go."

McDonald said that the "bankers committee" composed of Sanford area bankers has orally pledged $1 million in a bankers pool to lend to downtown business for renovations. To Mayor Lee P. Moore said the project "should not get hung up on" whether there should be diagonal or parallel parking downtown or whether one-way streets should be created.

He noted that on a petition presented by the organization 24 spaces for the names of property owners were blank and that only 19 signatures appeared.

Miss Jacobson said that 61 per cent of the property owners in the "model area" had signed the petition, representing 10 parcels of land committed of the 18 parcels involved.

McClanahan said that the question of whether the taxing district should be created should be placed on a ballot in an election this year along with questions of districting for city commissioners.

He said that the SDC was asking the city to "speculate" with all the taxpayers money to commit to the downtown.

Shirley Moak of the SDC said that after gaining the legislation last year it was found that the organization could gain more money in gifts from "donor-owners" and other supporters than through the taxing district to fund the administration of the SDC. She said that $30,000 is the total amount that could be received from the taxing.

McDonald said it would be fine to permit the proposal on the penditures.

He added that the city spent $30,000 for a traffic report which recommended the creation of one-way streets in the city, but that the recommendations were discarded after citizen protest.

Kids must make own hats, then vote on winners. Sanford Shuns Warning Disputed Tract Annexed

The Sanford City Commission Monday night, despite a contention from Asst. County Atty. Gary Siegel that it was acting "illegally," adopted an ordinance which would annex a tract adjacent to Idylwild subdivision.

After a brief recess, however, the city commission voted to change the legal description of the parcel and annex the tract in three separate actions that the county would accept.

The original action took place after builder-developer A. K. Shoemaker Jr. said he wanted the tract adjacent to Idylwild annexed because he wanted his property within the city.

He outlined problems developers have in gaining inspections from the county and of having to deal with "the bureaucracy across the street"

(in the courthouse), Shoemaker claimed it can take days to gain a building inspection from the county, while the city is more cooperative and helpful and gives the same service in hours.

"I'm happy to be in the city," Shoemaker said. "I still have to live with those people (the county) over there. If they sue (to contest the annexation) what are they going to prove. They will only accomplish putting 30-odd people, who work for me, out of work."

Shoemaker said he needed connection to the city's water and sewer systems to develop the land, located east of Upsala Road, north of C4A and bordering the northeast corner of Idylwild.

Siegel said that while the county has no objection to the property being connected to the city's utility service, that for the city to annex the property would be "absolutely improper and illegal."

The attorney said the property because its main portion was separated from other city lands by an undeveloped 160 feet by 750 feet strip does not touch other city lands to a large enough degree to comply with the state law annexed lands to be contiguous.

Mayor Lee P. Moore said he had always thought that government was involved in providing services that persons could not provide for themselves.

Commissioner John Morris said many governments forget the rights of the individual and that he was ready to go for the annexation as proposed and to let "the county do as it will."

Although the annexation ordinance was adopted on final reading, the document as approved did not include the legal description because of the deletion of part of the property and City Attorney Vernon Mize warned that he might have difficulty defending the annexation in court.

After a recess, during which Mize and Siegel conferred, Mize announced that the annexation would be "less objectionable" to the county if it were accomplished in three separate ordinances, adopted in succession over a period of weeks.

Shoemaker added that "Siegel thinks the county will buy that way."

Color Longwood Council Pink...Orange...Take Your Pick

When is a city councilman not sure whom he represents? Why, when several councilmen try redistricting a city... but each, making a wrong choice, discusses the matter while they all look at different maps.

That's what happened in Longwood Monday night as councilmen discussed redistricting, then voted on the matter.

City council voted unanimously to approve a map designating new district boundaries for city council seats, but after the meeting it was discovered that maps given each Annex Bid Dropped, Page 2A councilman were not only all different, but did not match the master map on the wall.

District 2, now represented by Mrs. June Lormann, was colored shocking pink and the southeast corner of its boundaries between Market Street and Pleasure Street varied from map to map, with the master map colored orange designating the area in question as part of District 1.

The District 1 seat is now held by Larry Goldberg, who is up for re-election this year, as are Mrs. Lormann and Parker Anderson, District 4.

Confused as to just what map they had actually approved, following adjournment, Councilman Chairman J.R. Grant's version was determined to be the one officially approved and he asked Council members to sign it.

His map designated the whole area north of Pleasance and the railroad in District 2. The only question now is whether all of property there is actually in the city limits.

Removed from District 5, represented by Stephen Barton, was the Moorings subdivision, which was given to District 1. The city was redistricted on the basis of population shift determined by the counting of city water meters and houses in subdivisions.

District 1 was given 813, District 2, 535; District 3, 821; District 4, 289 and District 5, 515, according to the map.

NATION IN BRIEF

Drug Ordered Off Market; Could Kill Hundreds Of Users

WASHINGTON (AP) — Phenformin, a prescription drug used by some 360,000 American diabetics, is being removed quickly from the marketplace in an unprecedented government regulatory action. HEW Secretary Joseph A. Califano Jr., making the first use of authority granted to his department by Congress 15 years ago, ordered a halt to sales of the drug on Wednesday. Califano said the drug is so dangerous hundreds of users could die if it remains on the market for another year.

Welfare Cut Proposed

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Carter administration reportedly still is considering reducing welfare payments to tenants of housing subsidized by taxpayer dollars, even though a cabinet officer says otherwise. A high government source told The Associated Press the proposal is one of three options that HEW Secretary Joseph A. Califano Jr. will send to President Carter for possible inclusion in a welfare reform package.

Too Dry, Too Cold, Too Much

TOPEKA, Kan. (AP) — Kansas wheat farmers who faced predictions of a disastrous winter wheat crop because there was too much dry weather in the winter and too much rain in the spring, now face the prospect of too much wheat. Elevators are full, prices are low and the wheat carryover nationally from previous years is estimated at more than 1 billion bushels.

Suspects Withdraw Pleas

OAKLAND, Calif. (AP) — Three young men pleaded guilty to the ransom kidnap of 26 Chowchilla school children and their bus driver but will fight other charges in connection with the kidnaping to avoid life in prison without parole. James Schoenfeld, 25, his brother, Richard, 24, and Frederick N. Woods, 25, ended a year-long mystery Monday and withdrew their innocent pleas.

WORLD IN BRIEF

Mediators Continue Efforts To Solve Egyptian-Libyan Row

CAIRO (AP) — A military spokesman says a cease-fire has taken hold on Egypt's western frontier and denies a Libyan ambassador's claim that his countrymen were still battling Egyptian invaders. Algerian and Palestinian mediators, meanwhile, continued efforts to resolve the long-standing Egyptian-Libyan dispute, which broke out into major border clashes one week ago.

Troop Withdrawal Plans

SEOUL, South Korea (AP) — Defense Secretary Harold Brown ended talks with South Korean officials on the U.S. troop withdrawal plan and pledged continued U.S. military support and aid for Seoul. A communique issued at the conclusion of two days of talks said the two sides had agreed on formation of a combined military command and described in general terms the planned pullout of 33,000 U.S. ground troops.

Annex Bid Dropped, Move Relieves Longwood Council

With the withdrawal of a request for annexation of 10 acres of property at Longwood Hills and E.E. Williamson Road Monday night, city council members breathed a sigh of relief, having avoided a repetition of the mass protest that packed city hall last week.

Burglars Fly With Message Balloons

By BOB LLOYD Herald Staff Writer

If you happen to know the whereabouts of large numbers of toy balloons with anti-smoking and anti-alcohol messages on them, the Sanford police would appreciate getting the information.

Burglars made off with approximately 1,000 balloons with messages like "To Kill A Mockingbird, Blow Smoke On It," after breaking into the county school board's waste area offices at 315 Maple Ave. Also listed as missing are five cassette-type tape recorders valued at $10.

BURGLAR SUSPECT
In separate cases, Sanford police detectives have jailed Earl Stanley Wilson, 22, of 1810 Southwest Road, Sanford, on two counts each of burglary and petty larceny. Bond was set at $5,000, according to county jail records.

Police said Wilson was charged in connection with burglaries earlier this month at 705 W. 10th St. and at 10th Street and Holly Avenue. Officers said two bathroom medicine cabinets and three packaged closet doors were taken from construction sites.

Rains, Rumors Pose New Perils For Flooded City

JOHNSTOWN, Pa. (AP) — Weary cleanup crews, dogged by foul weather, hard luck and rumors of more flooding, have taken 59 bodies from this flood-ravaged area as their search for victims neared the end of its first week.

Heavy rain pelted the seven-county flood area Monday, bringing warnings from Civil Defense officials for people in low lying areas to seek higher ground.

The request spawned rumors that two dams in southeastern Cambria County were about to give way, and Gov. Milton J. Shapp dispatched state dam safety chief John Eiland to investigate. "He got here before the raindrops stopped but there was not enough water to cause a problem," said Civil Defense spokesman John Conroy.

Small streams ran over their banks and there were reports of minor mud slides and more flooded basements, but the storm subsided by midnight without serious damage.

The National Weather Service said later that warm weather is likely until Thursday when showers are expected.

The American Insurance Association said Monday that insured flood losses are expected to exceed $62.3 million, including $5.3 million for approximately 3,300 automobiles. Total damage has been estimated at more than $200 million.

Dream$ Begin

PLANTATION (AP) — Young Bruce Small dreams of being a millionaire, and the seven-year-old has a head start now that he, his brother and two sisters have won legal custody of a wallet stuffed with $2,334.

Police turned the wallet over to the Small's father after it went unclaimed for six months.

The children found the wallet Jan. 23 while netting for crickets in a yard near their Plantation home. Their parents turned the soggy cash and monogrammed wallet over to police.

Detectives combed the canal for a body or other evidence but found nothing. Under Florida law, they held the wallet and cash for six months.

Mrs. Pat Small said the wallet was a good lesson for the children.

"We thought it would teach them to be good, to phone the police in the first place," she said.

Fiat Exec Kidnap Suspects Nabbed

MADRID, Spain (AP) — The suspected kidnapers of Fiat executive Luchino Revelli-Beaumont have been arrested in Spain and a $2 million ransom has been recovered in Switzerland, officials source here and in Paris said today.

Madrid police sources said the suspects, six Latin Americans, including a woman, were arrested here in the southern city of Malaga. The French sources identified them as Argentines.

Revelli-Beaumont, who headed French operations of the giant Italian automotive firm, was kidnaped by four armed assailants April 13 in front of his home in a wealthy section of Paris. He was released, in good health, July 11 after 89 days of captivity and the payment of the ransom.

The Paris sources said French authorities had already asked for extradition of the alleged kidnap team. The six were to be turned over to Spanish judicial authorities later today, the sources here said.

National Guard members continued to search for bodies in the devastated area, continuing Monday on the city's Solomon Heights, Walnut Grove, Dale and Hornerston sections.

"There are reports that there are up to 60 people missing. We don't know if they are alive or dead," said John Morris, a spokesman for the National Guard.

MADRID, Spain (AP) — The suspected kidnapers of Fiat executive Luchino Revelli-Beaumont have been arrested in Spain and a $2 million ransom has been recovered in Switzerland, officials source here and in Paris said today.

Madrid police sources said the suspects, six Latin Americans, including a woman, were arrested here in the southern city of Malaga. The French sources identified them as Argentines.

Revelli-Beaumont, who headed French operations of the giant Italian automotive firm, was kidnaped by four armed assailants April 13 in front of his home in a wealthy section of Paris. He was released, in good health, July 11 after 89 days of captivity and the payment of the ransom.

MIAMI (AP) — The summer months are normally stormy times for the Caribbean and regions of the southwestern North Atlantic. And the absence of even a single tropical storm so far this season has forecasters at the National Hurricane Center wondering.

"It is a little unusual to not have any depressions or tropical systems this summer," says forecaster Ray Biedinger. "So far nothing has happened."

A depression is a surface low-pressure system that can combine with ocean-warmed air to produce first a tropical storm, then a hurricane.

It becomes a tropical storm and is named when maximum sustained winds reach at least 39 miles per hour. It becomes a hurricane when the winds top 74 m.p.h.

Shields Denies Wrongdoing

TALLAHASSEE (AP) — Natural Resources Director Harmon Shields says sources reporting his $96,000 profit on sale of 240 acres in Levy County have created the impression that he did something wrong.

"I'm an honest man," he said Monday. "I felt like it was a good investment for me and it was."

Shields said his purchase and sale of the land were ordinary business transactions involving no special deals because of his position.

It was reported last week that Shields bought the land for $36,000 in January 1973 and sold it for $132,000 earlier this month.

JUDGES OVERTURN FINES LAW
SARASOTA (AP) — Two more Florida judges have declared the stiff new increases in traffic fines unconstitutional.

At least five judges in the state now have ruled all or part of the controversial section in the new auto insurance reform law unconstitutional or invalid.

Retirement At 70? ...Seminoles Has It

By JANE CASSELLBERRY Herald Staff Writer

While Congress is considering changing the mandatory retirement age for federal employees from 65 to 70, a spot check of local employers reveals most already have a flexible policy of allowing an employee to continue working after 65 if in good health and able to do the job.

According to Seminole County Personnel Director Ron Thames, retirement for county employees is not mandatory at 65, but may be extended from year to year up to 70 on recommendation of the department head and approval by county commissioners. County employees are under the state retirement system.

Mrs. Doris Milam, personnel manager of Penney's Sanford Plaza store, said the company has a mandatory retirement age of 65 for employees and 60 for management. She said the firm offers a pension plan, profit sharing and savings plan for employees.

House Tourism and Economic Development Chairman Jerry Melvin unveiled his proposal Monday as the Joint Committee on Economic Policy held its organizational meeting.

Melvin, D-Fort Walton Beach, said he would propose the amendment to the Constitution Revision Commission.

The proposal would allow local governments to forgive up to 100 per cent of the ad valorem taxes on a business that relocates in Florida. Melvin said it would make Florida competitive with other states that allow tax forgiveness.

Give County City Space?

JACKSONVILLE (AP) — Fran Lormand is on her way to England by air to join her husband who sailed alone from Florida to the English Channel island of Sark.

Mrs. Lormand, who waited out her husband Ed's journey from Fernandina Beach, Fla., left her Monday night to fly to England.

In a telephone call after his landing in English waters on Sunday, Lormand told his wife he got a 4,300 mile on his 44-day journey that covered about 6,400 miles.

He said he is having the rudder of his ship, "Lormand's 2nd," repaired on the island of Guernsey before sailing to his original destination, Plymouth, England.

The rudder broke when it struck an underwater object during a gale that drove Lormand away from his planned landing.

"Everywhere there has been kind, and the islands are beautiful."

She and her husband plan to tour England and France before returning to their home in Jacksonville.

Lormand, whose first attempt to sail across the ocean was aborted a year ago, is due back in his music teaching job at DeKalb Community College near Atlanta by mid-September.

City Commissioner Julian Stenstrom said although he doesn't believe in drinking the city out of fairness should allow the Sunday hours for all establishments to permit those owners to compete with county businesses.

Commissioner John Morris joined with Stenstrom in his position.

Ed. Commissioner McClanahan said the "problem was before my time," adding that he did not vote to permit sales of alcohol at establishments able to serve 200 and he would not vote to combat the problem. "I'll go with that," Commissioner Eddie Keith said.

Mayor Moore's deciding vote was to keep the law as it is.

BARGAINING AGENT
If the Orange County Police Benevolent Association (PBA) is to be recognized as the official bargaining agent for the Sanford Police officers and non-sworn personnel, it will have to do more through the lengthy process of state recognition following state guidelines.

Mayor Moore refused to accept a petition from officer Jack Fulwider which the officer said contained the signatures of members of the police force, both sworn (those with arrest powers) and non-sworn (clean, typists etc.), requesting that the PBA be designated the personnel's "exclusive bargaining agent."

Fulwider asked that the PBA be "voluntarily recognized" by the city, saying the police department employees want that organization to represent them in negotiating wages, hours and conditions of employment.

Under the law, the employees may now petition the state Public Relations Employment Commission (PERC) seeking an election within the department to select a bargaining agent.

FP&L Says Big Families Who Will Rates Hurt?

TALLAHASSEE (AP) — Florida Power & Light Co. says big families will be the biggest losers under a new rate system ordered by the Public Service Commission for the state's largest utility.

"There's no reason why our large family users should subsidize our small users, which includes winter vacationers and singles," Miami lawyer William Steel told the FSC Monday. "Approximately one million FP&L customers during the hot summer season are going to be affected by this decision."

Steel, representing FP&L, asked the commission to get rid of the inverted rate structure it mandated last month which granting a 195.5-million rate hike. Under the structure, unit costs are lower for certain smaller users of electricity.

But C. Earl Henderson, associate public counsel, said the new rate structure was designed to conserve energy. He said it would result in long-term savings for utility companies because it would delay the need for expensive new generating plants.

Steel asked the commission to revert to the declining block rate structure that charged users lower per-kilowatt costs as their electricity consumption increases.

For his efforts to promote racial harmony and to help refugees from Cuba. Among his achievements was the Catholic Spanish Center here dedicated to care for the growing Cuban-born population. There are now two in this area. There are two seminaries in the archdiocese.

His most recent crusade concerned a Dade County ordinance that banned discrimination against homosexuals in housing and employment.

Denouncing the ordinance, Archbishop Carroll sent a letter to be read in the county's Catholic churches, appealing for votes to repeal the ordinance in a special election held June 7. The ordinance was repealed.

During that campaign, opponents of the ordinance said it would allow homosexuals to teach school. Archbishop Carroll said he would go to jail before allowing a homosexual teacher in a parochial school in his archdiocese.

Archbishop Carroll, born in Pittsburgh, had two brothers who also joined the priesthood. They were known as the "family of priests." Both his brothers died earlier.

The archbishop was ordained in June, 1930, and began parish work, taking time out for his doctorate of Canon Law at the Catholic University in Washington, D.C.

Later, he taught philosophy and ethics at St. Mary College in Pittsburgh for 10 years. In 1949, he organized St. Maurice Parish in Forest Hills, Pa., and in 1951 was named pastor of Sacred Heart Church in Pittsburgh.

He was named bishop of Pittsburgh in 1953, and then in 1958 became the first bishop of the newly created Miami diocese, formed by splitting America's oldest Catholic diocese — St. Augustine.

In 1968, the South Florida area became an archdiocese, encompassing Dade, Broward, Palm Beach, Hendry, Collier, Glades, Martin and Monroe counties.

Archbishop Carroll attended the second Vatican Council in Rome in October 1962.

Chairman Flynt Failing His Job

So House Majority Leader Thomas P. O'Neill now promises a speedier House investigation of the alleged Korean scandal. Oh? One recalls that last fall Mr. O'Neill promised a speedy investigation. This session of Congress is now six months old, rumors of congressmen baited and bribed merely increase, and what is Mr. O'Neill saying? Mr. O'Neill is saying that the House will more quickly investigate itself.

One has a sense of deja vu about all this, as Mr. O'Neill, himself the latest rumored to have been on the South Korean take, promises much but does virtually nothing. Mr. O'Neill met with House Ethics Committee Chairman John Flynt on July 18, for an hour or less, but Mr. O'Neill failed to do the one thing now so obviously necessary to the House effort. He failed to call for the removal of Rep. Flynt as chairman.

We are talking about, in Mr. Flynt, a chairman who has convened his committee only a dozen times since Feb. 8, who has yet to say when public hearings will be held, and who apologizes for his committee's inactivity by saying he himself has lots to do with the federal budget. Under Mr. Flynt the committee's most notable accomplishment has been to excuse itself from having to find the truth about "gifts" of $25 or more from any South Koreans to congressmen. Mr. Flynt nevertheless insists that his committee is doing a "fine job."

The committee, of course, is doing a terrible job and one would suppose Mr. Flynt now would be employed elsewhere in the House — say, full time on the federal budget. But Mr. O'Neill keeps expressing "full confidence" in the man's "abilities." Meanwhile, Mr. O'Neill also sends out side signals like: the new chief counsel will be independent.

Being for an independent chief counsel to the ethics committee is like being for apple pie. Who would want a "dependent" chief counsel? The committee's only chief counsel so far, Philip A. Lacovara, was certainly independent. Indeed, Mr. Lacovara had the spine to admonish Mr. Flynt to get to work. Mr. Flynt cheerfully replied that Mr. Lacovara was having a temper tantrum, so Mr. Lacovara, obviously at loggerheads, resigned.

Is one to believe that Mr. Lacovara's successor will fare any better? Isn't the problem not the chief counsel's inactivity but the committee chairman's reluctance to investigate? Isn't the problem, therefore, John Flynt?

Mr. O'Neill should consider Mr. Flynt's abysmal record as committee chairman. Most was a speedier investigation, but we despair of its accomplishment so long as Mr. Flynt continues as chairman.

Familiar Story

Congress, when earlier sessions of the United Nations Law of the Sea Conference failed to resolve the issue of fishing rights, approved a 200-mile U.S. jurisdiction over the waters that lap at either coast.

And there is pressure within Congress to authorize U.S. exploration and mining of the mineral wealth believed locked in the ocean floor. The effort will be intensified now that the sixth session of the conference has broken up with no agreement on a formula for sharing the treasure among the nations.

Delegates from 145 countries fled New York after failing to agree on a treaty to control exploitation of ocean resources, a concern of landlocked nations as well as those without the financial or technological resources to enter the mining competition.

There is hope, however. Conference officials will endeavor to sort out and put into a comprehensive report the areas of progress for further deliberation at Geneva next March.

WASHINGTON — While the Federal Energy Administration has struggled to cope with the energy crisis, many of its staff members have been more interested in padding their pockets at the taxpayers' expense.

For the past year, we can now reveal, the agency's gunshoes have been prowling secretly through the backrooms. They have found evidence of a massive ripoff of government funds. Several employees, according to the allegations, have padded their salaries, junketed around the country on personal business and violated government regulations.

All told, these employees may have taken the agency's information and policy section. He recruited a number of thousands of dollars. Many employees also took junkets and worked irregular hours, claiming much of their work was done late at night in their homes. Eventually, some of their more scrupulous colleagues complained to Zauser's successor, John Christie. He fired off a series of memos laying down strict guidelines on overtime pay, working hours, and travel reimbursement.

The agency launched a haphazard effort to hire professionals who could develop and analyze energy data.

Carter Wants To Forget

WASHINGTON — Remember the Humphrey-Hawkins bill, that ultimate Democratic Party solution to the economic woes of the nation? Sure you do. Who could forget a program so bold in conception and sweeping in reach?

Jimmy Carter could, that's who. Or to be more accurate, he would like to forget it — once and for all. But there are those on Capitol Hill and elsewhere who keep reminding him of his campaign endorsement of the most comprehensive economic planning measure since the New Deal.

The Humphrey-Hawkins bill is impossible to summarize in a single sentence or two. It is a complex and all-encompassing prescription for government guidance of the economy which is designed to achieve and maintain full employment, even if that means making the government itself the employer of last resort.

Yet in the first six months of his administration, the president has done his level best to ignore the Humphrey-Hawkins bill. Although Carter did so only belatedly after he had been substantially modified to place greater emphasis on the importance of the private sector.

The goals and concepts of the legislation were written into the very first plank of the Democratic Party platform by the national convention. And Carter's own compilation of campaign pledges, the "Promises, Promises" document released by the White House early this year list support of the bill as a key element of his economic package.

At least 35 applications have been received from over the country by the City of Sanford for the police chief's post, including 4 from present members of the police department. City commissioners are expected to narrow the field to areas of finalists and to select the new chief by the middle of September.

The post will come open with the shift of present Police Chief Ben E. Butler to the job of Sanford's first full-time Public Safety Administrator, handling police and fire department administrative duties under City Manager Warren E. Knowles.

Meanwhile, some things will be changing at the police department if city commissioners approve Knowles' recommendations on the police budget for the fiscal year starting Oct. 1. Knowles is on vacation, but according to the proposed budget and comments to commissioners he wants to eliminate budgeting of city arrestees at the police department, a function that is duplicated when the prisoners are taken to county jail for confinement.

Other recommendations include turning over all major city crime scene investigations over to the sheriff's department, cutting the patrol division's motorcycle squad from five to three men, and possibly exploring possibilities of leasing instead of buying new police cars.

It is proposed to transfer the police crime scene investigator from the Investigation Division and the four confinement (booking) officers to the records and identification section where the crime scene investigator would become section supervisor and the booking officers would become records clerks.

The big hassle during budget review sessions may center on the police airplane. Purchased with $34,000 in federal LEAA grant funds, the plane got into service late in this fiscal year because it took five months to purchase due to city bid procedures. The aircraft has had limited use so far, mainly because of delays in getting it equipped, police say.

The week the plane was reported in Georgia being outfitted with alarm, public address system and a high-intensity search light that police say will project "a daylight beam from 2,000 feet up." Yet to be installed are police and sheriff's radios and an observer's position.

WASHINGTON — In Mainland China, according to the Communist Chinese magazine "China Reconstructs," the railroads have moved from disorder to order. They are "back on smooth, safe, on-time schedules, and are hauling more freight faster, contributing much toward a leap forward in the national economy."

All of this has been accomplished, we are told, as a result of Chairman Hua's "strategic policy of grasping the key link — exposure and criticism of the 'Gang of Four.' The handful of 'bad people' it is said, 'there' been dealt with severely, those persecuted by them have been liberated, the rights and wrongs have been clarified, the confusion in people's thinking has been cleared up."

Thus, full of drive, the "people" have ejected the "Gang of Four" and the railroads will get going. "We'll make up for the losses!" But, alas, here in the U.S. of A., the railroads are still in a state of disorder.

Commenting on the railroad industry's initial bargaining stand, which has been put forward by the National Railway Labor Conference, J. Chester — president of the United Transport Union, says that it constitutes "the most regressive, antiquated, and inhumane demand ever served on labor union in the history of labor relations." Mr. Chester is so fed up with railroad management's "ineptness" that he says his union will ask Congress to consider nationalizing the railroads.

Mr. Phillips, coach of the Houston Oilers, says he would love to be in the Oilers. The Oilers have been hurt because quarterback Dan Fouts has doubled as the team's punter. He averaged 38.7 yards last season, compared to Wilson's career mark of 43.8.

Pete Roselle, commissioner of the NFL, has served as a catalyst in similar situations before. "There have been cases where Pete has helped work out a deal to accommodate the player," an NFL spokesman said Monday. "Pete would be willing to talk to both sides in this case."

Both sides say they would welcome the assistance, and a respected, impartial voice might be needed to resolve this human problem in the team-oriented world of pro football.

WASHINGTON — At 3:15 p.m. on Saturday, July 9, Moscow radio broadcast an unusual program: a concert of protest songs by Johnny Cash, Joan Baez, Judy Collins and other American folk singers.

The Russian listener should know that human rights are regularly violated in the United States. So who is President Carter to lecture the Soviet Union on human rights? That was the idea, at least.

"If you are poor, you have no freedom, no happiness, your spirit is broken," said the disc jockey introducing Johnny Cash's "San Quentin," a song recorded at the California prison, adding that in America big criminals get away with it because they have the money to pay good lawyers. And even if they do go to jail, they land in a special prison where there are no bars on the windows and where they can play golf or baseball in the open air.

The "society of trampled rights" is what the United States was called by Moscow radio recently, a violent, unjust society where the bully sets his way with the weak and the powerful. And that goes particularly for the minorities.

"If you are colored, you are guilty — that is the way it is here," said the disc jockey.

Eric Zauser, now a lobbyist with the Booz-Allen research firm, was placed in charge of the agency's information and policy section. He recruited a number of thousands of dollars. For the past year, we can now reveal, the agency's gunshoes have been prowling secretly through the backrooms.

The police budget, as submitted to commissioners by Knowles, estimates airplane operating expenses for next year at $5,000, based on the original request for 30 hours a month-use. This year police only asked for $4,800, based on a projected need of 10 hours a month use.

Knowles says he can't justify any of this expense "since similar planes are available at the local airport, for rent, at $15 an hour."

It should be noted, however, that rental planes won't be equipped with the facilities that the police plane would have.

The police airplane was furnished by the federal grant as a courtesy project, with Sanford administering the grant. A number of other law enforcement agencies have used the airplane so far.

If city commissioners turn thumbs down on the police plane in the budget the police department could turn the aircraft over to another area law enforcement agency with the approval of LEAA, police officials say.

Thus, full of drive, the "people" have ejected the "Gang of Four" and the railroads will get going. "We'll make up for the losses!" But, alas, here in the U.S. of A., the railroads are still in a state of disorder.

Commenting on the railroad industry's initial bargaining stand, which has been put forward by the National Railway Labor Conference, J. Chester — president of the United Transport Union, says that it constitutes "the most regressive, antiquated, and inhumane demand ever served on labor union in the history of labor relations." Mr. Chester is so fed up with railroad management's "ineptness" that he says his union will ask Congress to consider nationalizing the railroads.

Mr. Phillips, coach of the Houston Oilers, says he would love to be in the Oilers. The Oilers have been hurt because quarterback Dan Fouts has doubled as the team's punter. He averaged 38.7 yards last season, compared to Wilson's career mark of 43.8.

Pete Roselle, commissioner of the NFL, has served as a catalyst in similar situations before. "There have been cases where Pete has helped work out a deal to accommodate the player," an NFL spokesman said Monday. "Pete would be willing to talk to both sides in this case."

Both sides say they would welcome the assistance, and a respected, impartial voice might be needed to resolve this human problem in the team-oriented world of pro football.

WASHINGTON — At 3:15 p.m. on Saturday, July 9, Moscow radio broadcast an unusual program: a concert of protest songs by Johnny Cash, Joan Baez, Judy Collins and other American folk singers.

The Russian listener should know that human rights are regularly violated in the United States. So who is President Carter to lecture the Soviet Union on human rights? That was the idea, at least.

"If you are poor, you have no freedom, no happiness, your spirit is broken," said the disc jockey introducing Johnny Cash's "San Quentin," a song recorded at the California prison, adding that in America big criminals get away with it because they have the money to pay good lawyers. And even if they do go to jail, they land in a special prison where there are no bars on the windows and where they can play golf or baseball in the open air.

The "society of trampled rights" is what the United States was called by Moscow radio recently, a violent, unjust society where the bully sets his way with the weak and the powerful. And that goes particularly for the minorities.

"If you are colored, you are guilty — that is the way it is here," said the disc jockey.

Eric Zauser, now a lobbyist with the Booz-Allen research firm, was placed in charge of the agency's information and policy section. He recruited a number of thousands of dollars. For the past year, we can now reveal, the agency's gunshoes have been prowling secretly through the backrooms.

Many employees also took junkets and worked irregular hours, claiming much of their work was done late at night in their homes. Eventually, some of their more scrupulous colleagues complained to Zauser's successor, John Christie. He fired off a series of memos laying down strict guidelines on overtime pay, working hours, and travel reimbursement.

The agency launched a haphazard effort to hire professionals who could develop and analyze energy data.

WASHINGTON — While the Federal Energy Administration has struggled to cope with the energy crisis, many of its staff members have been more interested in padding their pockets at the taxpayers' expense.

For the past year, we can now reveal, the agency's gunshoes have been prowling secretly through the backrooms. They have found evidence of a massive ripoff of government funds. Several employees, according to the allegations, have padded their salaries, junketed around the country on personal business and violated government regulations.

All told, these employees may have taken the agency's information and policy section. He recruited a number of thousands of dollars. For the past year, we can now reveal, the agency's gunshoes have been prowling secretly through the backrooms.

Seminole Broncos Win, On To State

Seminole Pony Baseball's going into Monday's district final. All-Stars qualified for the state tournament in Tampa with a 7-3 victory over Gainesville Monday morning. Coach Jim Withrow's all-star aggregate had defeated three teams and lost to Gainesville.

John Kerr pitched a fine game, said Withrow. "He pitched a fine game, but that's not what we're pitching for. We're pitching for the state tournament. We'll go with Todd Mariotti, Jim McElmurry and Kevin Wick. Bill Lang and Ronnie Clippard.

Kerr and Kessinger had two hits each for Seminole Monday. "It has been a team effort," said Withrow. "No individual will carry this ball club. Oh, a player will get hot for a couple of games, but when he cools off, someone else is there to pick up the slack.

This is a fine ball club, and balance is the key. The competition is getting very keen." Seminole's only loss in district was to Gainesville. Kerr pitched a 3-hitter in the Monday victory.

By The Associated Press
The sports world of the sixties and seventies expanded into the realm of briefcases and big business, but lest we forget, the games are still played by human beings, the kind of animal that laughs when he's happy and cries when he's sad.

Pro football players, perhaps because their emotions are hidden by helmets and their bodies shielded by plastic and cushions, are sometimes pictured as violent creatures, devoid of human feeling. That, of course, isn't the case, and if anyone needs confirmation that the image won't wash, he should listen to Jerry Wilson, adopted son of Alan and Douglas Wilson and veteran punter for the Kansas City Chiefs.

Wilson wants out from the National Football League team that he served so well for 14 seasons, not because he wants more money or better hours, but because he wants to be near his ailing parents.

"20 years they gave me the most wonderful life I could have ever hoped to imagine," said Wilson, who wants to be traded to Houston, a soft upland from his parents' ranch near Hutto, Texas. "They weren't rich by any means, but they always made sure I got to practice, had football shoes and I had everything I wanted.

"I owe them everything and it's because of them that I'm in football now." "The thing is that they are both so close to each other that I'm afraid that if one of them goes the other will follow shortly thereafter. They are not old people, but very sick."

Nan Wilson underwent cancer surgery last winter and a few days later Douglas Wilson suffered a heart attack and died. "If one of them goes, then I'm gone (to Texas)," the 36-year-old punter said. "I've got to go and coach (Paul) Wiggin is fully aware of fully understanding and willing."

Wiggin, a strong, sensitive man, is in the middle of a difficult situation. He, too, feels family comes ahead of first downs. "I told (Lamar) Hunt when he hired me that if my wife or children were in the hospital, the Super Bowl wouldn't mean very much to me."

But Wiggin says he also has a responsibility as the coach of the Chiefs. "Jerryel knows his job is a fight for survival for me," he said. "I feel very strongly for Jerryel." Wiggin said by phone from the NFL training camp in Kansas City. "I want what's right for him. It's his possible for this thing to be worked out, then we'll do it. But we have to cover ourselves."

Bum Phillips, coach of the Houston Oilers, says he would love to be in the Oilers. The Oilers have been hurt because quarterback Dan Fouts has doubled as the team's punter. He averaged 38.7 yards last season, compared to Wilson's career mark of 43.8.

By Lyman High Grads
Class Of '57 Reunion

Attention all former Lyman High School students who attended the school from 1947 to 1957!

The Class of '57 will be hosting a Reunion Weekend on July 29-31, for any former Lyman Students in the 20-year span. Beginning at 7 p.m. on Friday, July 29, there will be a tour of the new Lyman facility, followed by a tour of the old Lyman campus, now Milw Middle School. A dance at Milw will round out the evening's entertainment, beginning at 8:30 p.m.

According to Donna Pratt, class of '57, several hundred former students will be attending the festivities. "We are inviting anyone who attended Lyman during those years, even if they moved away before graduation to attend other schools," she said.

On Saturday night, July 30, the group has been invited to Redwine's Ranch, Sanford, for a big cookout. A family picnic will also be held at Redwine's on Sunday, July 31.

Former Lyman teachers and principals will be the guests of honor during the celebration.

"Our goal is to be able to organize an Alumni Association for Lyman, and continue to work for the school," said Donna.

Carter's Private War

WASHINGTON (AP) - President Carter is fighting a private war against some of his closest advisers, both men and women, over the issue of abortion. And his advisers are convinced that, because Carter believes he has both God and morality on his side, he won't give in.

The abortion issue is an ugly one. In fact, it's so controversial that it's really a no-win situation.

Carter's advisers believe this is one instance in which the President's old political enemy, Ben Fortson, was right when he said, "Carter is as stubborn as a south Georgia turtle."

And Carter himself admits, "I don't know how to compromise on any principle I believe is right."

Carter's position is that abortion is wrong. He will tolerate it for cases of incest, rape or when the mother's life is in danger. He says the Supreme Court was "reasonably fair" when it ruled in favor of abortion.

-States have no constitutional duty to provide free abortions to poor women.

-Publicly owned hospitals have no constitutional duty to provide free abortions to poor women.

-State agencies have no constitutional right to use welfare funds to finance abortions for poor women.

-Carter's abortion opponents say the court's decision leaves poor, pregnant women with three choices:

-Self-induced or back-alley abortions that are dangerous and often fatal.

-Earning approximately $185 to $200 for a legal abortion, perhaps by prostitution or selling drugs.

-Bearing the child, a situation that will inevitably drive welfare costs well above the $50 million the government spent last year for abortions.

She's A Patrolman And Don't Forget It

By ELDA NICHOLS
Herald Correspondent

Elizabeth Hill is a Sanford Patrolman. Don't make a mistake and call her a Meter Maid, because there is a difference.

According to Elizabeth, meter maids are not sworn officers, nor do they carry a gun.

Elizabeth got her present job when, as a clerk with the Sanford Police Department, she learned of an opening in the police ranks. She applied and was hired, after going through the same training given to male officers. "We have to qualify in target practice every two months," she explained.

In three years of handing out traffic tickets, Elizabeth has encountered only one belligerent recipient. "I try to explain the situation and I treat people the way I would like to be treated. I just don't have problems with people."

Her territory includes all streets within the city limits, with the downtown parking areas her main beat. She checks on homes when residents are away, and has spotted a few break-ins.

Her transportation is a three-wheeled Cushman motorcycle with a covered top. "It's been called a lot of things, but I call it a motorcycle," she laughed. "I don't need a helmet because I've covered. I like it better than the old one I had because it doesn't kick back when I start it!"

Speed is kept fairly low because according to Officer Hill, "If I went too fast, and a big truck passed me, I'd be practically airborne!"

Elizabeth is married, with two children, Scott, 13, and Lori, 7. Her husband, Jim, approves of her work and is proud of her. "My son probably gets teased about his Mom being a cop. Lori seems to like the idea, though," she said.

Elizabeth likes to cook, and describes herself as a "plain, old Southern-style cook."

"I enjoy the contact with people I meet. Just taking a few minutes to pass the time of day with local people whom I see every day, gives a good feeling. I guess 90 percent of this job is public relations. I don't mean going out as a speaker, but just on a one-to-one personal basis. It's something I really enjoy," she said, with a smile.

ELIZABETH HILL: 'It's been called a lot of things, but I call it a motorcycle.'

It's Not Gays Who Molest Kids

DEAR READERS: A woman became a homosexual. How important can someone be? I have three sons. The two older boys excelled in football, but the younger boy favored ice skating and ballet. I made sure the two older boys did not ridicule their younger brother because of his interest in ballet.

As for ballet being for artists, I'd like to see a slazy little round ballerina on one hand and hold her over his head. And all those strenuous leaps, turns and jumps take muscle control, coordination and strength the finest athlete would envy.

Ballet does more for a boy's body than football. I'd rather see my son dance than see him carried off a football field on a stretcher with a broken nose or a broken leg!

POMONA MOM

DEAR ABBY: Would you believe that before my son became a Golden Glove boxing champion he was advised to take ballet lessons to improve his footwork? He took them, too. And when he was kidded about it, he laughed harder than anybody because he knew he was as much a man as the manliest manliest.

CHAMP'S MOM

MINNEAPOLIS MOTHER

Dear Abby

I told her that it took a great deal of manly discipline for a boy to excel at ballet, and to go ahead and give the boy ballet lessons.

The reader feedback was interesting. Some samples:

DEAR ABBY: I'll bet BUDDY'S MOTHER lives in Dade County, Fla., where they recently voted to deny homosexuals their constitutional rights because of Anita Bryant's crusade to "Save Our Children." I'd appreciate your comments.

STRAIGHT AND CONCERNED

DEARS, AND C: No straight boy ever became gay because he took ballet lessons. Neither did the younger boy favored ice skating and ballet. I made sure the two older boys did not ridicule their younger brother because of his interest in ballet.

It's a fact that "our children" do not need to be "saved" from homosexuals. (More children are molested by straight than by gays.)

To use "God, the American flag" and the emotionally charged cry to "Save Our Children" in an effort to deny employment, housing and public accommodations to a whole segment of our population because of their personal sexual preference is outrageous!

DEAR ABBY: I was shocked when I read the letter in your column from the mother who was reluctant to allow her son to take ballet lessons because it might encourage him to

Teen : 1st Runnerup

ELDA NICHOLS
Herald Correspondent

Margaret Speranzo, Longwood, who will be 15 years old in August, was the first runner-up in the recent Miss Teen Orlando Contest.

According to Ms. Dorothy Lee, director of the contest, there were approximately 25 girls competing in the 13-17 age group. Preliminaries for the Miss Teen of Florida will begin in Daytona on July 27, moving to St. Augustine and then back to Daytona, through July 31.

"We will model a formal gown and sports wear, as well as a typical Florida costume," said Margaret. Finalists will be judged on poise, personality and answers to questions the judges will ask.

Margaret is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Anthony Speranzo, Longwood, and attends Lyman High School where she will be a sophomore in the Fall. She has a 15-year-old sister, Theresa, and a nine-year-old brother, Michael.

Her hobbies include horse-back riding, swimming and tennis.

ment taking the victim's money. Afterwards, he rapes her. It is believed the man being sought in connection with these rapes has a neatly cut afro and a bushy mustache. According to statistics, only one in five rapes are reported. If you have any information on this, or any other unsolved felony crime in the Central Florida area, call CRIMEWATCH, 849-2482. Pet & Pit Stop A People Place

Pet and Pit Stop owner Jerry Nash and son Dan (behind counter) serve two happy customers from the latest tempting selection at their new delicatessen.

Jerry is the creator of the Pet and Pit Stop idea, and his Casaberry Plaza is one of the few retail outlets for the Wisconsin Brand professional food for pets. Developed by Jerry a few years ago, the food is a complete diet consisting of fresh-frozen meat and dry nutrients. Huet Offers Variety Everyday

Phil Huet, owner of Hawaiian Seafood, Longwood, and Michelle Lehohm admire some of the crabs which are on sale and fresh every day.

Seafood Center for many months now and has become a vital part of the Centers business, whether waiting on customers or packaging fresh fish when a catch is brought in. Next door is a fresh fruit and vegetable stand where all is fresh daily. The stand is operated by H.A. Rhoden, chief of the Cherokee Indians. The Hawaiian Seafood Center and the fruit stand are both open 10 a.m. and closed at 6 p.m. daily, seven days a week. One stop parking will provide top quality eating for your family and guests. ADV.
