

Z-P Board Asks Halt In Building

LONGWOOD — For the second time in three months, the city's zoning board Wednesday unanimously recommended that a 60-day moratorium on all further annexations and rezoning be called and that the city council adopt a comprehensive land use plan and a new zoning ordinance.

Zoning Chairman James Brown urged the action, noting the lack of city planning and outdated zoning ordinance are compounding problems with land use in the city.

He said although the zoning board nearly a year ago recommended a new zoning ordinance to the city council, no action was taken because a CALMO sponsored zoning ordinance was anticipated.

The board members agreed to review its recommended ordinance at workshop sessions to be called.

Officers included in addition to R. Grant, vice chairman, and James Smith, secretary.

Grand Jury Indicts Woman, Boy

The Seminole County Grand Jury Wednesday returned indictments charging a 20-year-old woman and a 15-year-old boy with armed robbery and aggravated assault.

Assistant State Atty. William Staley identified the suspects as Deborah Jean Kilmer and Christopher John Johnson. Bond for each was set at $22,500.

Ms. Kilmer, originally believed by authorities to be out of the state, turned herself in at the Sheriff's office at noon today, authorities said.

Johnson was scheduled to be transferred today to county jail where he was being held under an agreement with juvenile court authorities.

The Douglas couple now resides in Jacksonville, investigators said.

SANFORD FIRE BURNS 25 ACRES

called. Harriett said. The flames jumped above the tree tops, but the area was surrounded by streams so there was little danger, Harriett said.

The assessment has been reconsidered. Officials now say the repository, called the Z-9 trench, is not so ominously plagued as they thought and that the company's updated thinking is "it could not credibly undergo a nuclear reaction."

The public therefore is left with two opinions: the previous and the latter, bad news and good. In a sense, this is the dilemma the citizenry is forever facing in the nuclear argument.

Hanford's storage facilities — primarily 152 landfills of waste buried on 14 "farm" sites — are springing periodic and sometimes shocking leaks.

The first one was in 1958 and there have since been 15 others. The most recent tank leak, last spring, was perhaps the most terrible of all.

The question of faith well placed is especially difficult in the accelerating controversy concerning atomic waste.

Hanford people do very little that is more important than stalling such leaks, say they do everything possible to prevent accidents.

The American Cancer Society's 1974 fund-raising crusade in Seminole County will be held April 15-30 with Robert E. Daehn of Sanford as chairman.

Serving with Daehn on the crusade committee are Lawrence Carroll, South Seminole attorney, chairman; Don Knight, business community chairman; John Carl, industry; and Lyle Saffield, residential.

What Price Nuclear Power? Examine Pact With The 'Devil Power'

There's no debating the necessity to do something with the radioactive wastes which contain such toxic elements as plutonium and cesium must be sealed and stored for at least 600 years.

Some nuclear trash contains radiation which if not kept in check is absolutely deadly even in quantities as small as 25,000 years.

Right now the Hanford reservation is the largest and most experienced nuclear waste graveyard in the world.

Local safety precautions are excellent, technology second to none. Yet the nuclear wastes here — witness the Z-9 trench situation — are still restless and even threatening.

There are at least 2,300 cubic feet of nuclear waste in the nation by the year 2000 there will be 47,000 cubic feet of it and no one in or out of authority knows precisely what to do with it.

Sanford Presents Its Defense In Traffic Death Trial

The City of Sanford was scheduled to begin presenting defense witnesses this afternoon in the trial of a million dollar lawsuit stemming from the June 2 traffic death of off-duty policeman Hirschel Gilbert.

Sanford police patrolman Tom Bernosky was negligent in a high speed chase of a Pontiac Trans Am driven by Sidney E. Terrell, 21, of Winter Springs.

Terrell, Gilbert, 40, and his 36-year-old wife Yvonne were killed when Terrell's car, which witnesses have said was traveling south on U.S. 17-92 at speeds in excess of 100 miles per hour, collided with the Gilbert car at SR 427 at Five Points.

Earlier in the week-long civil trial witnesses gave conflicting testimony as to the operation of the siren on Bernosky's patrol car. Bernosky said both blue lights and siren were operating when he passed Sunday Estates nearly a mile behind Terrell's speeding car.

Board Adopts School Zones After Nixing 4-Day Plan

The board agreed to call a meeting next week for the additional zoning decisions. There can be no elementary decision until the issue of the Altamonte school is solved. A report is expected on Feb. 21.
Should plans go as intended the Altamonte school will be moved to another site and precluded the need to construct a replacement school.
If the board is assured the Altamonte elementary school is consummated according to the already twice extended deadline then the next meeting will be Feb. 21.
Prior to the zoning decision Wednesday the board heard several citizens speak.
The Rev. John Connelly of the Chapel Church in Sanford said he was greatly opposed to the four-day plan. He said it would be detrimental to the community. Connelly ended his opinion with a request that the board look at the guidelines proposed by the Department of Health, Education and Welfare and consider hiring an equal opportunity advisor. Layer said he would look into the matter.

Phil Stevens said he favored the four-day plan, but he was against the "double punch" if the plan meant adopting another measure such as busing.
Tom Embry, chairman of the Casselberry City Council, said the community was opposed to having the city divided into three school zones.
As Keeth put it earlier, "I just don't see how we can help but aggravate somebody with our decision because we do not have enough room in the present schools to house the students we have. Add up the numbers. Some one will have to be on double sessions or have an equivalent inconvenience."

Most of the market indexes showed minimal changes Wednesday as Big Board volume slowed to 10.99 million shares, the lowest total since last Aug. 31. The Dow Jones industrial average edged up .24 to 92.57.

Food Fair Announces 2 Divisions

As part of the corporate structure realignment of Food Fair Stores Inc., the establishment of separate construction and real estate divisions was announced by President Jack Friedland.
The new divisions will be responsible for all company construction and real estate activities, including Food Fair and Pantry Pride supermarkets and J.M. Fishers discount department stores.
Construction, engineering, design and maintenance of all company facilities will be carried out under the newly-designated Tulip Construction Division.
All real estate activities, including property acquisition and sale, property management and leasing of facilities, have been grouped under the Tulip Real Estate Division.
In his announcement, Friedland named two company "veterans" to the top post of each division: Marvin Kushner, divisional vice president, Tulip Construction, and Sidney Tucker, divisional vice president, Tulip Real Estate.

Tax Cut Reduces Phone Bills

Your total average telephone bill will be a little smaller this year because of a 1 per cent reduction in the Federal Excise or "luxury" tax which all telephone companies are required to collect for the government.
This tax is being removed at a rate of 1 per cent annually over a ten-year period so that the Federal pocketbook will not feel the drastic impact of a sudden loss of revenue.
The 10 per cent Federal Excise Tax was instituted shortly after the start of World War I in order to conserve critical war material and to help the war effort and, although the telephone industry has attempted to have it removed numerous times, the Federal Government's will prevailed until last year when Congress passed legislation to eliminate the 10 per cent levy by 1 per cent decrease annually. If all goes according to plan, the Excise Tax will be totally removed on January 1, 1982.

W. P. Alt, General Commercial Manager of the Winter Park Telephone Company, said that until recently, the Company's subscribers were being taxed at a rate of from 14 to 24 per cent because of various federal, state and city taxes. He said that there was the 10 per cent Federal Excise Tax (which is gradually being eliminated); a 4 per cent state sales tax (which has been eliminated from residential bills); and a tax assessed by the various municipal governments (usually 10 per cent).
Alt said the lower 8 per cent Excise tax rate will be reflected on all bills and will apply to local and long distance service unless the calls were made prior to November 1, 1973.

Autos, Airline, Steel And Rails 4 Industries Worth Watching

NEW YORK (AP) — Four industries—automotive, airline, steel and rail—are worth watching during the next few months because of the role they play as bellwethers, although reluctant ones.
If they can successfully adjust to the brave new world of shortages, rising prices and changing demand, then there is hope for other, less critically involved industries. Nobody knows if they can do so.
Will the automotive industry that persisted in turning out big cars for big profits be able to work down to a world of miniscars and still maintain its profits? The attempt is under way.
General Motors, for example, is said to be considering an economy Cadillac, and is weighing the merits of turning out small cars at Buick, Pontiac and Oldsmobile plants.
Small cars are expected to take more than 60 per cent of the market this year. Despite rising prices, these cars sell at much lower figures than their big mates—and consequently, at less profit to the maker.

The airlines industry is facing an equally uncertain year, also because of the energy shortfall. Can they reduce their number of flights, pay higher prices for fuel and still turn a profit?
Some airline executives believe not and forecast serious disruptions. Pan American World Airways lost nearly $20 million in the final three months of the year, partly because of high fuel costs.
That kind of loss can be sustained by a company as large as Pan Am if it doesn't happen too often. But Pan Am and some other airlines had financial difficulties long before the oil crisis. Now, with the future of travel uncertain, and with fuel prices rising, its and other lines' fortunes carry a critical signal for other companies.
If other companies suffer Bethlehem's plight, and there are reasons to believe they will, it could add to the economic woes the country must undergo, and lessen prospects for a return to normalcy.
The steel industry also is confronted by a situation that will put management to the test—again because of fuel shortages and rising prices.
Bethlehem Steel, the second largest producer, has just announced an 8 per cent cut in output because of a shortage of metallurgical coal. Reduced oil supplies have forced some utilities to compete for the same coal.
For years the railroads argued that they couldn't compete with the conveniences and sometimes even the luxuries of travel by car, plane and bus. Now, each of their competitors is to some degree weakened by costs and shortages.

The situation for the railroads is different. In their case a shortage could work to their advantage, enabling them to pick up passengers who deserted other forms of transportation, especially the car.

$300,000 Expansion Program At Barnett Bank Is Announced

A $300,000 expansion program at the Barnett Bank in Altamonte Springs is scheduled to begin shortly after the bank celebrates its third anniversary on Washington's birthday, Feb. 22.
President George W. Foster said the bank has enjoyed three pleasant years of growth and is proud that six of its original nine employees, himself included, are still employed at the bank.
Foster said growth has far exceeded expectations. In the first 10 months the bank had grown beyond the point projected for the end of three years.
Starting in 1971 with nine employees manning the main office and two drive-ins, the bank will boast 52 employees and nine drive-ins by Mar. 1. The installment loan department has overflowed into a lounge trailer, and the bookkeeping department has moved into offices in the Altamonte Square, a half-mile down SR 436 from the bank.
A tract behind the existing building has been cleared, and Foster hopes construction on the new three-story extension will start April 1. Completion is set for the spring of 1975.
A large additional parking area is included in the expansion plan and the road to the drive-ins will skirt the entire building complex.
A new entrance-exit will be constructed to correspond with the entrance to the Altamonte Mall on the opposite side of SR 436.

Penney's Sponsors Consumer Seminar

Some 200 Central Florida women, most of them educators, recently attended a consumer education workshop in the Kahler Plaza, Orlando.
After doing some "Mind Stretching Exercises," the seminar discussed the problem, how they felt about it and how they thought it could be solved.
A film strip featuring views of the problem by Oren Lee Staley, president of a national farmer's group Clancy Adams, president of a national food store association and Sen. Hubert Humphrey was shown.
Then the audience was asked to judge what was said and how their views compared. A lively panel did in which three of the teachers took the parts of the four field representatives from the Educational Relations Department of the Penney Company's New York office.

Energy Savings Are Told

CLEARWATER—It pays to save energy voluntarily. That's what Jack Eckerd Corp. has found out since it began an energy-saving program this past November.
Reporting on the results of the program in Florida, Harry F. Roberts, president, said a sampling among the 170 Eckerd Drug Stores in Florida revealed a reduction of an average of 22.5 percent in the consumption of electricity.
Roberts said the 25-unit department store division of the corporation, J. Byrns, reduced its electrical consumption almost 20 percent.
"Back in November," Roberts said, "many companies announced ambitious plans to conserve electricity voluntarily. We want the public to know Eckerd's plan is working and we are saving kilowatts and dollars—and that means savings for our customers."
