McCray Given Parole From Federal Jail

Former Indiana Governor Is Released After Serving One Third Of Sentence
Hopes To Return Money He Lost
As Sentenced To 10 Years For Use Of Mails To Defraud

ATLANTA, Ga., Aug. 31.—62 years deeply etched into his face, his steel-gray hair turned a bit more white, old, bent and tottery man, former prisoner 17,746, emerged from the United States penitentiary this afternoon from the restraint and gloom of prison walls against which he has protested time and time.

Prisoner 17,746, again became Paul McCray, former governor of Indiana, once leading figure in the nation's politics, multi-millionaire farmer and dairyman and Hoover state's leading citizen. McCray had served three years and four months of a ten-year sentence imposed upon him when he was convicted on charges of using the mails to defraud. His wish now is to live long enough to repay everyone who lost money through his operations. Although without capital, he hopes to re-enter the grain and cattle business, his first love.

McCray entered the federal prison on the first of May, three years ago, he was in the heat of a walk with a brick strike maintained his suave and polished manner. He was lost to the world for over a year as his own request, members of his family did not visit him. He later heard of parole as a reward for his prison paper, "Good Words," a weekly paper for the "Sunday" class and as the federal penitentiary's ideal prisoner.

McCray was not the man who once wore his blue-blooded Jerseys as the pride of the show productions and who walked off with the blue ribbons, silver medals and honors as the millionaire farmer and dairyman of Indiana. He was an aged and broken man—an ex-convict.

When a telegram notifying the warden of McCray's parole and ordering his release was received, McCray was taken to the office, where a new $5 bill, for which he had a receipt, a suit of prison clothes and a ticket to Indianapolis.

As he walked into the warden's office, he remarked that the future was hopeful. "I'm 62," he mused, his voice a feeble, "but I've got a good deal of life still."

He looked ahead, and added: "I want to see those grandchildren of mine—to have them on my knees."

Nanking Holds Five Citizens For Ransom

HONGKONG, China, Aug. 31.—(INS)—Holding five prominent citizens in virtual imprisonment, the government, at the insistence of Nanking, has demanded a cash payment of $10,000,000 from the Chamber of Commerce, reports from Canton disclosed today. The prisoners will not be freed, it was said, till the huge demand is met. The reports also told of the Bolshevik occupation of Pingyuan, on the Kiangsi-Kwangtung border. The rebels are also said to be threatening a coup at Kaifung.

Explorer Wants To Lead Party In Rescue Redfern

Expedition Would Be Under Joint Auspices Of Smithsonian Institution, American Museum & Rochester U.

ROCHESTER, N. Y., Aug. 31.—(INS)—An expedition to rescue Paul Redfern, missing Georgia-Brazil flyer, is expected to start for South America from here next Saturday, it was announced today by Richard Marsh, explorer and discoverer of the "White Indians" of Panama.

The expedition, headed by Marsh, will be under the joint auspices of the Smithsonian Institution, of Washington, D. C., the American Museum of Natural History, New York City, and the University of Rochester, according to the announcement.

Preparations were underway today for equipping the searching party following receipt of telegrams consenting to accompany the expedition from J. T. Harrington Smithsonian Institute, Dr. Charles B. Breder, American Museum of Natural History, and Lieut. Louis R. Rosebush, U. S. A.

Paul Varner, backer of the Redfern flight, informed Marsh that five South American countries had promised to conduct a short search for Redfern along the east coast. It is expected a report on their search will be made before the Marsh rescue expedition starts.

RIO DE JANEIRO, Aug. 31.—(INS)—An intensive search was in progress by South American officials today for traces of Paul Redfern, missing Georgia-Brazil flyer, in the northern part of the continent near Guayana, to search for Redfern and report immediately if any traces of the missing aviator are found.

The Governor immediately issued the desired orders. The foreign office has informed American Ambassador Morgan here that the Brazilian government will co-operate to the fullest extent in the search for Redfern. No news has been received here of Redfern's whereabouts.

BRUNSWICK, Ga., Aug. 31.—(INS)—Further evidence that Paul Redfern, missing Brunswick to Brazil flyer, is somewhere in the northern jungles of South America was received in Brunswick by the flight committee today in the form of a report from the government of Kingdon Jamaica, that seen the plans of the Venezuelan coast.

BOCHE WATER STAR LEADS IN $50,000 SWIM

Vierkotter Takes Lead Away From George Young At Five Miles Point In Twenty-One Mile Wrigley Marathon Race

German Is Still In Lead At Eight Miles Starts Second Lap At Noon After Covering First 8 In Four Hours And 20 Seconds

TORONTO, Aug. 31. (INS)—Four miles of the course of the 21-mile $50,000 Wrigley swimming marathon on Lake Ontario, Ernest Vierkotter, German water star, today wrestled the lead away from George Young, Canadian swimming star.

In a furious sprint, Vierkotter plunged to the front of Young and pulled 50 yards ahead. Young continued swimming at a steady pace but the German appeared to be getting more power from his strokes.

Young had covered about five miles when he was seized with cramps and forced to drop out. Vierkotter still was in the lead at the end of seven miles. He held an advantage of two minutes over Edward Keating of New York, in second place, who in turn was followed by Roy Summers of San Francisco.

Vierkotter was still leading at the eight-mile mark, his time for twenty seconds. One of the race officials, who had predicted that George Young would only last a few miles today, explained that the Canadian swimmer had taken off 22 pounds in six weeks training, and did not appear to have his old stamina.

Vierkotter started the second lap at 12:35 having covered the first eight miles in four hours, 20 minutes and 20 seconds. Summers at this point had taken four hours and thirty eight minutes.

Next to pass the mark and start around again was Mendell Burdick of Toronto, who had been in the water five hours and eight minutes behind him was Ethel Hertel of New York and six minutes behind her swam John O'Halloran.

At 2:50 P. M. Vierkotter continued to send the field, Burdick of Toronto had moved up into second place, Ethel Hertel, of New York was third, Michael, the Frenchman, fourth, Chaffee, of Ventura, Cal., fifth George Clayton of Chicago, was lapped and dropped out.

Canadian Government Has Promised To Co-Operate In Stopping Rum-Runners

WASHINGTON, Aug. 31.—(INS)—A federal drive to close the Canadian border to smugglers, bootleggers and rum-runners was under way today with the Canadian government promising to co-operate with the American authorities.

An army of customs agents, many of them the government's star prohibition agents, were being directed to posts along the border between Buffalo and Lake Huron to halt all smuggling across the line. This re-enforcement will double the normal border patrol and concentrate approximately 400 government agents on the task of "drying up the border."

The decision to strengthen the border patrol followed a personal inspection tour of the border country by Frank Dow, assistant commissioner of customs. Dow recommended a campaign to "dry up" the border, although technically the customs authorities will be engaged in preventing smuggling. As the chief commodity smuggled across the Canadian border is liquor, the principle activity of the patrol will be to halt bootlegging.

The Royal Customs Commission of Canada meanwhile concluded a conference here with state, justice and treasury officials. The Dominion's commission came here to negotiate a new agreement with the United States for halting all kinds of smuggling along the border. The Canadian authorities, probably will reduce the number of ports of entry to Canada, a program calculated to release a large number of Canadian customs agents for a drive against smugglers on the far side of the border.

Kin of Benjamin Franklin Visits City For A Rest

Professor W. A. Franklin, Only Living Direct Descendant Of Famous American, Comes Here With Wife For Sojourn

Sanford has as its guest for the next three weeks a chemist of wide reputation and a son of one of the most distinguished families in all America. He is Professor W. A. Franklin of New York, great-great grandson of Benjamin Franklin, that famous figure in American history whose deeds have become immortal and whose philosophy and scientific discoveries have been none the less important in their influence upon the world today.

Professor Franklin, accompanied by his wife, came to Sanford last week from Daytona Beach where they had spent a short time. They are here for a rest and are stopping at the Hotel Valdes. At the age of 83, Professor Franklin is unusually active for a man of his years. This fact he attributes to a clean life, long and regular hour of sleep and a carefully regulated diet.

Professor Franklin is founder and head of the Franklin Chemical Company of New York and in addition to a large plant in New York his company maintains an extensive laboratory in Rochester. The professor has retired from active work after spending nearly 70 years in his chosen profession.

Like all business heads who have been in harness for so many years, Professor Franklin retired with some reluctance, and then only with the intention of giving more time to the pursuit of his chosen hobby—that of collecting curios and antiques. So far the past several years the Professor with his wife has travelled extensively in quest of treasured antiques. His search has been rewarded and today he possesses one of the largest collections of curios ever assembled in the United States.

63 Year Old Princess Begins Ocean Flight; Levine Awaits Result

Trans-Atlantic Flier Has Engaged Hinchcliffe To Fly Columbia To New York
Wishes St. Raphael The Best Of Luck
If Princess Is Unsuccessful Levine Will Hop Off At Once

LONDON, Aug. 31. (INS)—The sudden start of Captain Leslie Hamilton and Col. E. F. Minchin on a trans-Atlantic flight has changed the plans of Charles D. Levine to return to America by air.

The New York-to-Germany flier, who had planned to hop off tomorrow from the royal air force, said this morning that he would not attempt the trans-Atlantic flight if Minchin and Hamilton and their titled passenger, the Princess Lowenstein-Wertheim, were successful.

"I wanted to be the first to cross from this side," Levine said, "but there's no point in going if Minchin succeeds. Anyway, I have other flights in mind."

"I wish Minchin and Hamilton the best of luck. They are fine air men and their machine is all right. But weather reports seem unfavorable, also we would have started this morning."

"If Minchin turns back today or tonight, we'll start tomorrow if the weather is favorable."

Captain Hinchcliffe, whom Levine has contracted to pilot his plane the "Columbia," on the projected return flight to the United States, is regarded as one of the world's finest civilian pilots. He is the only British pilot who has been granted permission to hold a full license after losing the sight of one eye. Hinchcliffe suffered this injury in the World War.

Flying Squirrel And Five Bull Pups Are Presented To Zoo
Today was a red letter day at the Municipal Zoo. Police authorities reported six additions to the city's menagerie, one of them a baby flying squirrel presented by Ernest Gormley and the other five comprising a litter of bulldog puppies presented by Bess, official mascot of the police department and general pet of all the officials.

The squirrel was caught by Mr. Gormley in front of his home, 1404 Magnolia Avenue. It was so young that it was unable to escape as Mr. Gormley spied it and advanced toward the squirrel. It is believed to be only a few days old. The squirrel was placed in the cage with other members of his family but he beat a hasty retreat and in a minute was hid behind a board partition.

American Exports to China Increase Over Previous Year

WASHINGTON, Aug. 31.—(INS)—America's "kid glove" policy toward China in the recent factional warfare there, has a sour business basis, according to trade reports issued here today Tuesday by the Department of Commerce.

America's commerce with China in the last fiscal year totaled $301,410,000. The Department announced an increasing increase of $18,500,000, over the preceding year. Exports to the Oriental republic, under unsettled conditions, totaled $125,582,000, an increase of $8,153,000 over American sales in the preceding year. At the same time American firms imported $272,828,000 worth of Chinese goods at an increase of $12,105,000 over 1925 imports.

The increase of the United States exports to China were well distributed, the department announced, during the period surveyed. China brought approximately 50,000 bales of raw cotton, the increase in this one item representing the largest relative advance among the export items. Further goods of American products to China included 5,167,000 barrels of mineral oils, gas and fuel oil alone showing an increase.

GLOBE CIRCLERS ARRIVE SAFELY IN CONSTANTINOPLE

Finding Perfect Weather Conditions Brock And Schlee Hop Off From Belgrade For Constantinople On 4th Leg

CONSTANTINOPLE, Aug. 31.—(INS)—The American "Pride of Detroit" arrived here at 11:45 o'clock, Aviator Edward F. Schlee and William Brock, the pilots plan to resume their flight tomorrow morning, weather conditions permitting. The fliers, Brock and Schlee, were both well. They plan to hop off tomorrow for Aleppo.

BELGRADE, Aug. 31. (INS)—The "Pride of Detroit," round-the-world airplane piloted by Edward F. Schlee and William S. Brock, hopped off from the Beasnik aerodrome at 8:30 o'clock this morning for Constantinople.

The distance to Constantinople is 500 miles. The fliers hope to arrive in the Turkish capital before noon today.

Brock and Schlee arrived here at 11:45 yesterday morning from Munich. They had originally planned to proceed directly to Constantinople, but reports of adverse weather conditions near Sofia caused them to stop here. The storm would continue throughout the afternoon, so the round-the-world fliers decided to stay over until this morning.

During their stay in this city, the fliers were the guests of the American legation, and last night attended a banquet given in their honor by the Yugoslav Aero Club. The Detroit airmen said they were intensely disappointed over the delay, but expressed the belief they would be able to make up for lost time within the next two or three days. Brock and Schlee are out to break the present record of 28 and one-half days for a trip around the world.

Negro In Jail Here Facing Charge Of Embezzling $1,600
Sheriff C. M. Hand has returned from Gainesville where he went to get J. E. Morris, negro, arrested in that city on charges of embezzlement referred by the Florida Negro Finance Company of this city. Morris is charged with misappropriating $1,600 of his company's money to his own use. The negro is now in jail with his bond set by Judge Sharon at $2,000.

According to local authorities, Morris' operations have been questionable for some time. He is said to be wanted elsewhere over the state for violation of the state's "plus sky" laws affecting the sale of stocks. The negro is also said to have swindled a St. Petersburg negro woman out of $2,000 and to have secured a deed to her home.

St. Raphael Takes To Air This Morning Piloted By Col. Minchin With Passenger

Captain Hamilton Acts As Navigator This Is Third Attempt At Westward Flight; Both Others Failed

UPAVON, WILTSHIRE, Eng., Aug. 31.—(INS)—With the Princess Lowenstein-Wertheim as a passenger, Captain Leslie Hamilton and Col. E. F. Minchin of the Royal Air Force took off from here at 7:35 this morning in a new attempt to span the Atlantic by air.

Using the Fokker monoplane St. Raphael, owned by the Princess, the fliers headed for Ottawa, Canada. The Princess Lowenstein, an English woman is 61 years old. She was born Lady Anne Savile. In 1897 she was married to Prince Ludwig Karl Zu Lowenstein-Wertheim-Freudenberg, a member of the German nobility. She has been a widow since 1899.

A member of a British family that dates back to the time of Richard III, the princess has long been prominent in society of England and the continent. Of late years, she became interested in aviation. The International News Service announced last week that the Princess was contemplating this flight with Minchin and Hamilton, and it was decided by Hamilton at the time.

Until late last night, it was not known that they intended to leave this morning, and their announcement that they would brave the dangers of a trans-oceanic hop today came as a complete surprise. The aviators and their female companion almost met with tragedy at the very outset, the heavy plane sped across the field for almost three-quarters of a mile before it rose into the air, and then narrowly missed a clump of trees as it cleared the field.

A tremendous cheer went up from the large crowd which had assembled. The spectators gasped as the plane wobbled uncertainly over the turf. Ever gaining momentum but yawing still, hugging the ground when for a moment it seemed to be about to leave the ground, it came to a complete stop. The aviators and their female companion almost met with tragedy at the very outset, the heavy plane sped across the field for almost three-quarters of a mile before it rose into the air, and then narrowly missed a clump of trees as it cleared the field.

The plane was heavily loaded. Besides the regular complement of gasoline necessary for a trip of this length, the fuselage of the "St. Raphael" was fitted with a wicker armchair and an army cot for the use of the princess during the arduous journey.

The Princess Lowenstein, overcoming the protestations of relatives who objected to her making the flight, waited at her London home in Belgrave Square, London, word that the aviators were ready for the start. When notified of the time of the hop-off, she was approaching when she journeyed to the airport by motor.

The fliers were in confident mood before the start. The princess' eyes sparkling in anticipation of the venture, discussed her flying plans with International News Service.

"I am looking forward to this trip," she said, "and I am sure that my pilot and my mechanic will be the first to see the world from the air."

She said she was not at all nervous, but she was sure that she would be able to hold her own in the air. She said she was not at all nervous, but she was sure that she would be able to hold her own in the air.

"Handsome Dan" the New York cop who shot a friendly paymaster to get money to entertain the girls with, will be hurried through the courts if present plans are carried out. He will be brought to trial within three weeks.

The members of the Anti-Saloon League are delighted with the resignation of the White House. The roof cost four hundred thousand dollars and they figure that certainly ought to be enough to keep the President dry.

We have been asked to endorse this man or that one for receiver of the Seminole County Bank, and we understand various petitions have been dispatched to Mr. Amos in behalf of certain "candidates." As far as the Herald is concerned, it is not espousing the cause of any individual, and as long as the receiver appointed is an impartial and honest man, with sufficient "spine" to look after the interests of the depositors, we will be satisfied.

A suggestion has come from the Chamber of Commerce that a central Florida amateur Golf Championship tournament be fostered to take the place of the annual professional matches. Inasmuch as the professionals have cost the City a considerable sum in the past and as the City is not at present in a mood to spend money on non-essentials, we think the suggestion for the amateur tournament is a sound one.

Personal Messages To Northern Friends

Fort Myers and Winter Park have inaugurated an advertising and publicity scheme which should receive the consideration of Sanford and other cities of Florida. The plan is to conduct a campaign to attract new people by personal letters. Already Fort Myers reports that its efforts are beginning to bear fruit. The personal message plan of advertising a city may not be as far reaching as a campaign through the newspapers, but its results will be beneficial because of the individuality of the appeal.

A personal invitation to visit a city automatically establishes a tie between the sender and recipient. Persons in the North who receive such letters are immediately conscious of a certain amount of interest in their welfare and accordingly their attention is focused more intently upon the city from which the message has come.

It seems to The Herald that this plan is especially timely because of existing conditions over the state. This is a retrenchment period when prosperity is temporarily halted and dollars are worth more because of their scarcity. Of necessity the situation has compelled chambers of commerce and boards of trade to reduce their operating expenses and cut out large appropriations that were meant to advertise the cities of Florida. The personal message plan of advertising costs very little in comparison with other schemes, and it gives everyone a certain civic responsibility that he has not shouldered heretofore.

The Sanford Chamber of Commerce has done splendid work in bringing new people to this city. It has sent out thousands of booklets and it has expended thousands of dollars in newspaper advertising. But now there is no money available to carry out such ambitious programs. In the emergency why not adopt the personal message plan? Inaugurate a post card week campaign and then follow it with a second campaign of sending letters to our northern friends.

The Princess Lowenstein-Wertheim

The Trans-Atlantic flight of the "St. Raphael" is of more interest to us than its being merely a trans-Atlantic flight. It is the first trans-Atlantic flight from east to west; it is the first trans-Atlantic flight in which a woman has participated; it is the first long distance flight of any kind in which a woman of the Princess Lowenstein-Wertheim's character and romance has played a part.

The Princess at the age of sixty-three is fostering trans-Atlantic flights when others of her immediate generation are content to sit by the fireside and read of the exploits of younger individuals with bones less brittle. She learned to fly herself at an age which inspired the saying regarding people in general that "You can't teach an old dog new tricks." She may be the exception which proves the rule.

Such experiences as the one now entertaining her are not new. In 1922 she flew her own plane in an "All-around Britain aerial classic" in which, while not winning, she made a splendid showing. And long before that, when airplanes were not much more than fish poles and bed linen, she made her first flight on a hurry call across the English Channel in an attempt to keep a social engagement.

In spite of her ultra-modern ideas in regard to flying, the Princess socially is not a high flier. She is strangely old-fashioned in regard to moral conduct. When the tango and the turkey trot made their appearance in 1913, she is said to have remarked "No good can come to American girls with all this frenzied seeking after pleasure," and since that time she is reported not to have changed her mind.

Good luck to the Princess in this latest adventure. We all wish her success.

Truck Drivers Et Al

Animosity toward the truck driver is felt by almost every individual who drives a lighter-than-a-truck car. We do not know that this sentiment is deserved, but the impression prevails that all truck drivers are road hogs and traffic scalawags, that they never stop at "Stop" streets and will run over you if you do not.

Be that as it may, is not the average motorist who never fails to take a parting shot, "Get the Hell out of the way," after he has already passed a truck and is safely on his way where the twenty miles an hour governor on the truck will prevent his being overtaken, just as bad? Is it any more refined for a sedate and comely driver in a big blue Packard to cuss and swear than it is for an unshaven open-throated truck driver to do so?

Parke Cummings, a poet, who gives vent to his feelings in The Forum, suggests this:

Hardy, toiler, how I hate you! —For I always imitate you, And befool myself conversing In a flood of oaths and cursing. It's a most distressing thing, O That I imitate your lingo. For this feeble-minded mocking Shows a lack of poise that's shocking. And my futile, hard boiled yearning Can't prevent you from discerning That I'm just attempting smugly To pretend I'm rough and ugly.

THEN AND NOW TAMPA TIMES

Loath to direct the attention of Eli Witt and his friends to the time 20 years ago, when that gentleman was a defendant in the municipal court, though we are, we still cannot refrain reference to that event. Probably you noticed the item in the Looking Backward column, Saturday. It read: "Eli Witt appeared before Judge M. Henry Cohen this morning to face charges of speeding in his automobile. Patrolman Beagle, who followed Mr. Witt on his bicycle, on which he has been trailing speeders lately, declared that Mr. Witt was making at least 15 an hour."

Fifteen miles an hour—and arrested for speeding. It is probable that were Eli Witt to climb into his car this afternoon and get on the streets when traffic is heavy, maintaining a high speed of 15 miles an hour, he would be told to "tell it to the judge" for blocking traffic. Yet it was but 20 years ago that the incident referred to occurred. These 20 years have made great differences. Not many, those days really thought that Tampa would ever become what she is today.

As Brisbane Sees It

Need Of Airships. Fifty-Fifty. Vaccination Necessary? Rust Costs Millions. BY ARTHUR BRISBANE Copyright 1927 by Star Co.

THE CHINESE SITUATION should demonstrate, even to the government of the United States, the importance of the flying machine in war.

Hand to hand fighting, and long distance cannon fighting on the ground would be childish foolish in China. You might kill one million or five million Chinese, that wouldn't make much difference.

But war from the air would make a difference. And it would make unimportant the great numbers that might be put into a Chinese army. Half a dozen eagles in the air would have nothing to fear from fifty million sheep on the ground. A few hundred flying machines, equipped with explosive bombs and poison gas, could bring to reason even a country as great in area and population as China.

THAT'S ANOTHER REASON why the United States should keep out of any Chinese war! We haven't any flying machines. And Russia, which could quickly fly to China's assistance has plenty of flying machines. Japan has them also, knows how to use them, keeps on building them, hires the best European fliers and buys the finest European machines in addition to building her own. She knows she must rule in there if she wishes to continue the ruling power in Asia.

We in America don't know much of anything, except that we would like to keep prosperity and get a little more money if possible.

One of these days, President Coolidge and his magnificent army and navy another country may change our program suddenly.

THE HEAD OF the last Russian czar, killed by order of the bolsheviks. The crown that he wore, worth many millions decorated by diamonds and pearls, of enormous size, recently was offered for sale with others of the Romanoff jewels in the United States.

A few years ago when the czar was murdered the thought of buying his jewelry would have been crilled sacrilege, compromising with murder. Several years make a difference.

Fifty years hence no one would object to the sale. The French republic owns magnificent jewels once belonging to Louis Sixteenth, whose head was chopped off by his beloved subjects. No one would question the right of the French to sell those jewels now if they chose. After all, the czar, while he had the power to do as he chose with his subjects, sent them into Siberia, beating them to death with the knout. When they got the chance they did as they chose with him. "Fifty-fifty," as Mr. Abraham Lincoln Erlanger would say.

WHEN SOME GOOD ignomus tells you that it is a shame to vaccinate children, that such action isn't necessary, or effective, you can usually divert his mind by asking whether he would be willing unvaccinated, to spend a week in a smallpox pest house? You will find that he would not.

DR. EGLOFF, SAYS that corrosion, rusting, eating out, etc., of equipment cost the oil companies $200,000,000 a year. That is only part of the national bill for rust which amounts to $500,000,000 a year. If that could be saved, and wisely used the country could soon get rid of the deserts, swamps, and build the canals it needs.

The president of the National Tube Company, subsidiary of the United States Steel Corporation, spends a fortune every year fighting, trying to educate the public studying soil condition, perfecting steel tubes to resist rust and earth's chemicals.

The new process of manufacturing steel direct from the ore by electricity may help solve the problem.

BEWARE OF THE tables of "normal-weight" tells Dr. Leonard Williams of New York. Those tables tell you that a man of a certain height weighs normally 147 pounds at 25, and at 50, 162 pounds. It is a dangerous falsehood. A man should always weigh less at 50 than at 25. If he does not, he will die sooner, than he might die.

One pound or two pounds added to the weight on a horse's back will make him lose a race. Imagine the handicap put on an old heart, old lungs and old kidneys, by adding 20 or 25 pounds of fat at 50.

Dr. Williams says find out what your so called "normal weight" is, then reduce 20 pounds below it. Weight is fat, displacing muscle, which collects on the heart as well as the abdomen.

Men old in years and great intellectual power. Voltaire, Pope, Leo von Moltke, were almost living skeletons, all at least 20 to 30 per cent below what would be called "normal weight."

Every one of us could live well and longer on half of what he eats now.

Film Star Reduces On Scientific Basis In Milane Picture

For the past few years Pauline Starke, who comes today to the Milane Theatre in the Cosmopolitan production "Captain Salvation," made by Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer, has not varied in weight three pounds. In fact, she has been one of the mysteries of Hollywood because she has never needed to reduce.

But when she went on a location trip during the filming of "Captain Salvation," she discovered that she had added five superfluous pounds. She is engaged in removing the extra weight and is taking it off in spots.

"Taking off weight where it should be taken off is the most scientific of all reducing," says the Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer player. Dieting does no good. Only systematic exercise will serve.

"I have put on the extra pounds in the hips and for two weeks I am taking but three exercises. Number one is a repetition of the dancing step known as the arabesque. Place one hand against the wall to steady the body. Keep one foot on the floor and extend the other leg at right angles to the body, keeping the torso straight. Number two is done with both hands against the wall and one foot on the floor, while the other leg is swung back and forth with all muscles released. Number three is an exercise done with the small of the back placed over a high stool. Bend the head as far backwards as possible. These three exercises will positively reduce the hips and will take off weight on no other part of the body."

Lars Hanson plays opposite Miss Starke in this film.

The boat just failed to reach the bottom of her breeches, and two inches of sheer silk stockings were left exposed.

MISS MINA HOWARD ENTERTAINS AT BRIDGE ON TUESDAY EVENING

Exceptionally lovely as well as delightful was the party given Tuesday evening by Miss Mina Howard at her home at members of the Sandspur bridge club and a few extra players.

The rooms of the spacious home were abloom with quantities of cut flowers and ferns with exquisite radiance roses and zinnias predominating.

Hand-painted tallies done in all kinds of pretty flowers were used in keeping scores for the interesting game of bridge and after the stated number of progressions had been played, the prize for top score, a pair of silk hose, was given Miss Sara Warren Easterby. Miss Margaret Cox, who held low score, was consoling with a dainty embroidered handkerchief. For having the lucky card in cutting, Miss Marion Hand was presented a unique score pad bound in rose leather.

When the prizes had been awarded, and the card tables spread with hand made covers, the hostess brought in a large birthday cake frosted in white and topped with tiny pink tapers, honoring those in the club whose birthdays occurred during the month of August.

The cutting of the cake for the various symbols afforded much merriment. Miss Nonie Williams cut the ring, while the thimble was found by Miss Katherine Symes. The dime was cut by Miss Margaret Zachary.

KIN OF BENJAMIN FRANKLIN VISITS CITY FOR A REST

"All work and no play makes Jack a dull boy" and that sums up one of Professor Franklin's views of life. Accordingly, the Professor has made his antique collecting a work since his retirement from business. Incidentally, every piece in a while Professor Franklin returns to his laboratories for a little analysis work just to satisfy a certain inner longing which grips him. He still gets a great deal of enjoyment out of traveling despite the fact that his roamings have taken him all over the world and to practically every city in the United States with a population of 25,000 or over.

Professor Franklin has spent several winters in Florida, most of them at Miami. He is a great lover of the Sunshine State and his em-visions of Sanford caused him to predict that it would one day be a large city with extensive commercial and industrial interests.

"You have one of the prettiest towns I have visited in this state," he told a representative of The Herald. "Sanford's location is one of its chief assets and another is its possibilities as a center for water transportation."

Professor Franklin, in addition to being a chemist of note, is also an inventor, his discoveries being in his chosen field. In preparing for his career, the Professor studied eight years in Strasburg, Germany, where he had the benefit of instruction from leading German scientists. In addition he studied under Louis Pasteur, the eminent French scientist and was living with the latter when he gave to the world his celebrated anti-rabies treatment.

Professor Franklin is the author of numerous scientific articles appearing in leading publications of this country and for several years was on the lecture platform. This work he gave up several years ago when the straits began to affect his health. Despite his age the Professor still manifests a great deal of interest in chemistry and reads extensively in books and current periodicals on the progress made in his chosen field.

An Episcopalian by religious creed, Professor Franklin keeps up a regular attendance of services. He attended services last Sunday at the Holy Cross Episcopal Church and manifested keen interest in the message of the Rev. Mortimer Glover, whom he characterized as a very able student of the Bible.

Professor Franklin is a staunch Republican and has never been anything else. He thinks Calvin Coolidge is one of the greatest presidents and regrets that he will not be a candidate next year. The professor would not risk a prediction on who would be the nominee next year, but said that if he were in touch with Wall Street he could answer the question without any hesitation.

The famous New Yorker is not a vegetarian but he seldom eats meat. Once in a great while he partakes of lamb but then only in small portions. He eats no sweets and hasn't had a cup of coffee in 45 years. Professor Franklin doesn't know the taste of any intoxicating beverage but believes in

Do you find any conflict between that theory and the fact? "None whatever," he quickly replied. "Everything in the world is in constant process of evolution."

Asked what he thought about the younger generation, the Professor's terse reply was "they're cutting their lives mighty short." The Professor is glad that his two children are both boys because he said the expense of rearing a girl is "terrible." Incidentally, Mr. Franklin expressed a great deal of pride in the success of his sons, one of whom is a banker and the other an editor of a New York magazine.

Both he described as "Christian gentlemen, neither of whom had ever caused me a minute's worry during their childhood."

The Professor knows that he hasn't much longer to live but that fact doesn't make him sad. On the contrary he is happy with the thoughts of his success in life. "I am just sitting around waiting for my time to come," he said. "You have no fear of death?" he was asked. "None whatever," he answered quickly, "those who have no regrets never fear death," he added.

As he finished the remark, the Professor's eyes lighted anew as he recalled something that is also claiming a great deal of his interest now. As a part of preparing for the hearer, Professor Franklin is having erected at Fort Mitchell, a handsome tomb where the bodies of him and his wife will rest. Work on the mausoleum was started last November and will not be completed for another month. The estimated cost is $50,000. Their final resting place is about two miles from the birthplace of Mrs. Franklin.

"Do you believe in epoptation?" the Professor was asked.

"Being a scientist, how can I believe otherwise?" he answered.

"The famous New Yorker is not a vegetarian but he seldom eats meat. Once in a great while he partakes of lamb but then only in small portions. He eats no sweets and hasn't had a cup of coffee in 45 years. Professor Franklin doesn't know the taste of any intoxicating beverage but believes in

Work on the mausoleum was started last November and will not be completed for another month. The estimated cost is $50,000. Their final resting place is about two miles from the birthplace of Mrs. Franklin.

"Do you believe in epoptation?" the Professor was asked.

"Being a scientist, how can I believe otherwise?" he answered.

"The famous New Yorker is not a vegetarian but he seldom eats meat. Once in a great while he partakes of lamb but then only in small portions. He eats no sweets and hasn't had a cup of coffee in 45 years. Professor Franklin doesn't know the taste of any intoxicating beverage but believes in

Do you find any conflict between that theory and the fact? "None whatever," he quickly replied. "Everything in the world is in constant process of evolution."

Asked what he thought about the younger generation, the Professor's terse reply was "they're cutting their lives mighty short." The Professor is glad that his two children are both boys because he said the expense of rearing a girl is "terrible." Incidentally, Mr. Franklin expressed a great deal of pride in the success of his sons, one of whom is a banker and the other an editor of a New York magazine.

Both he described as "Christian gentlemen, neither of whom had ever caused me a minute's worry during their childhood."

The Professor knows that he hasn't much longer to live but that fact doesn't make him sad. On the contrary he is happy with the thoughts of his success in life. "I am just sitting around waiting for my time to come," he said. "You have no fear of death?" he was asked. "None whatever," he answered quickly, "those who have no regrets never fear death," he added.

As he finished the remark, the Professor's eyes lighted anew as he recalled something that is also claiming a great deal of his interest now. As a part of preparing for the hearer, Professor Franklin is having erected at Fort Mitchell, a handsome tomb where the bodies of him and his wife will rest. Work on the mausoleum was started last November and will not be completed for another month. The estimated cost is $50,000. Rickard Thinks Dempsey Is As Good As Ever And Will Win Bout With Gene Tunney

CHICAGO, Aug. 31.—Mr. T. Rickard flicked quite a few ideas off the end of his cigar for the benefit of the writer this morning and most of them were interesting, if true. Named in the order of their particular interest, they were:

That Jack Sharkey might have licked Gene Tunney the night he, Sharkey, didn't lick Jack Dempsey.

That Dempsey, in his opinion, looks better today than he did at a corresponding period before the Sharkey fight; that, in fact, he hasn't looked so well since his training just before the Firpo fight in 1923.

That Dempsey still is a young fellow and that anyone who says his Dempsey's legs are not all right has a frayed cuff in his family closet.

And, finally, that the expert who tries to "write down" Dempsey at the crest of his popularity might as sensibly send in a blast against Lindbergh.

Mr. Rickard of course, must talk up his challengers in every fight he promotes or the customers are likely to stay away in droves. But, in this case, Dempsey is the west in the hollow of his hand needs no megaphoning. He has and the west will supply the bulk of the customers for this altercation.

Rickard always has admired Dempsey in private. That he would air the thing in public was all the more surprising in view of the fact that, in popping his mind, he had to talk down Mr. Tunney, who cares not for that sort of thing at all. If Mr. Tunney must be "talked" at all, he greatly prefers that the oratory take a distinctly upward trend. It didn't.

"Dempsey licked a really good man the night he beat Sharkey," Rickard said. "Sharkey might have beaten Tunney that night, if he stood off and boxed with him."

HELEN WILLS IS AGAIN WINNER OF NATIONAL CROWN

Young California Star Takes Honors For Fourth Time; Betty Nuthall, 16 Year-Old English Star Wins Gallery

FOREST HILLS, N. Y., Aug. 31. Helen Wills, of California, has captured the national women's lawn tennis championship for the fourth time, but it remained for Miss Betty Nuthall, runner-up to Miss Wills, a clear-eyed, brown-haired sixteen-year-old English miss, to capture the gallery and the hearts of every spectator of one of the most colorful national championship matches since 1919, when the temperamental Suzanne Lenglen made her first and only appearance in an American championship tournament. The scores were 6-1, 6-4.

Miss Nuthall is wholly unlike the French girl. She is just under average height but she is extremely well-knit. She gives one the impression of being tremendously husky and yet her figure is just well rounded, as a healthy child's should be.

"I've had a glorious time, since I've been here," said this prodigy of the lawn tennis courts today. "I'm sorry I can't stay longer, but I'm sailing tonight for England and expect to play at Wimbledon again next week when the closed mixed doubles championships of England will be held. I will play with my brother, who is nearly two years younger than I. Incidentally, I have two brothers and three sisters all younger than I and they all play tennis."

"I think the American girls play desperately hard tennis but I don't believe they get as much fun and sport out of it as we do in England. But from what I have seen I don't think there are as many boys and girls playing here as there are at home and maybe in a few years we will have as many or more players than you have here."

"Miss Willis is truly a wonderful player and by far the best player I have met."

Tagging All Bases

By International News

The Giants play a game at Sing Sing Prison today and several other National League clubs would like to see them detained there indefinitely. The sensational New Yorkers have copied 22 of their 28 starts, and with a record of seven straight victories are burning up the league.

As a result of New York's third consecutive victory over the Cubs, Pittsburgh's even break with the Phillies and the Cardinals' defeat by Brooklyn, the dope this morning runs as follows:

The league leading Cubs are two games in front of the Pirates who lead the Cardinals by half a game. The Giants trail the Cardinals by two points.

The Cubs looked bad against the Giants. They appeared to have lost their spirit and the players ran the bases with no more judgment than a string of box cars. Three pinch hitters were fanned by Grimes yesterday. The Giants plastered Jones and Bush and won easily, 7 to 3.

Pittsburgh sustained a setback when Hub Pruett of the Phils won a 3 to 2 duel from Ray Kremer in 10 innings. The Bucs ran away with the nightcap, 11 to 6, due to the hitting of Joe Harris. Joe made four hits and drove in six runs.

Dazzy Vance of Brooklyn stopped the Cardinals cold, 5 to 3, helping to win his own game with two singles. The strike-out king fanned eight batters.

Hugh McQuillan held the Reds to four hits, three of which were made by his old pal George Kelly, and Boston won 1 to 1.

The American league clubs were idle. Today Ty Cobb begins his twenty-third year in the American League.
