

Rural Common Sense
By Syds Johnson

Farm people in Florida, as in all other states, are being asked to discuss the family farm and to review policies affecting family farming in the United States. Agricultural leaders have declared the family farm to be of basic importance to the welfare of this country and the world.

...minds of men in their quest for a better life as nothing communism can possibly do. Family farming is part and parcel of democracy. It is democracy a showcase before the world. We must not only recognize it as such but must strive to make it fit our ideals even better than in the past.

...ranging for the discussions. Declaring that the family farm is of front-rank importance to the United States and to the world, Mr. McCormick cites two potent reasons: "First, we have a big production job to do, now and in the future, not only to feed our own people but to wage peace throughout the world, if we may be spared the waging of war. For this we need efficient, highly productive, flexible, financially strong family farms."

...Pointing out that many farm people often work from before sunrise till after sundown, Mr. McCormick says that people are still under-employed on some family farms, their land is not used to best advantage, their operations are less efficient than they should be. Increasing their productivity will help solve the labor problem, assure production of more of the things the Nation needs, and provide a better standard of living here at home and holds out hope to the world.

MARCH OF EVENTS

Quiet on Labor Front Not Expected to Last
More Inflation Means Major Strikes Coming

WASHINGTON—For a comparatively long time the labor front has been quiet. But Washington officials admit that this state of affairs won't continue indefinitely. If inflation surges forward again, there's a possibility of crippling nationwide strikes. Some experts think the only way to prevent such a development is to abandon any effort at wage controls. A strong feeling exists in official circles that Congress has laid the groundwork for industrial strife in its handling of controls legislation. The whole tendency has been to weaken price controls, but to continue the old wage curbs as they are.

...Labor has been complaining that the only thing actually being held down is wages—that price controls are largely a farce. Under the new law, which is sure to be weaker on price controls than the old, this complaint is bound to be intensified—especially if a serious attempt is made to pin down pay checks.

...There's a definite possibility that labor will decide to go it alone, either ignoring the stabilization program or boycotting it outright. If that happens, any effort to control wages would mean trouble.

...CLOAK AND DAGGER—The Un-American Activities committee is planning to trot out a whole series of former FBI undercover agents who infiltrated the Communist party at the local level as part of its new series of city-by-city investigations.

...First on the list was shapely brunet Mary Stalcup Markward, the sometime beautician who has retired to the less hectic status of a Virginia housewife. Mrs. Markward gave the Red hunters the low-down about Communist shenanigans in the Washington-Baltimore area.

...Other former G-Men, or G-Women, as the case may be, are to tell what they found out by cavorting with the Reds in such major defense areas as Boston, Detroit, Chicago, Denver, New Orleans, San Francisco, Oakland and Seattle.

...The committee hopes to bring out this vital manufacturing, shipping and military areas. This phase of the committee's work is aimed deliberately at finding out how the Reds operate in the lower echelons of the party in an attempt to hamper the United States defense effort.

...OIL FOR THE FLAMES—Washington officials are losing much sleep over the mounting unrest in the critical Middle East and are watching each succeeding incident as a possible pilot blast to a general explosion. The problem encompasses much more than Iran where, of course, the oil nationalization embargo is one of the current prime threats to world peace.

...The assassinations of King Abdullah of Jordan and Lebanese Premier Riad Es-Sohl are considered in Washington to be symptomatic of the clash of political interests in the region.

...United States officials are fearful that any outbreak of new violence in the Holy Land and its surrounding area might involve Iran, which has troubles enough of her own with dissident elements.

...HIGH DIPLOMACY—It might be that many a true word is said in jest, but the old saw doesn't usually apply to the careful statements and correct manners of Washington's diplomatic set.

...Their language is rarely humorous, and almost never blunt, but diplomatic circles buzzed recently with this tale of a—sham—Embassy level session.

...It seems that several ambassadors, ministers and lesser lights were discussing the qualifications of the ideal diplomat. The argument was batted back and forth between the cocktails and the canapes, and eventually the gentlemen agreed on one essential—absolute honesty in personal and international relations.

...One of the group sat silent through the spirited discussion, but finally he could take no more.

Newsprint Prices Hit By Congress: U. S. Is Powerless

WASHINGTON, Aug. 2—(AP)—Senator Edwin C. Johnson (D-Colo.) said today that United States newspaper producers have boosted prices $10 a ton "in defiance of law." Johnson, chairman of the Senate Commerce Committee, made public a letter to Michael V. DiSalle, Director of Price Stabilization, saying the newspaper producers "are putting on the squeeze play" and asking: "Are you going to get them away with this open violation of the law?" The Senator called attention to a $10 a ton price increase announcement to newspaper customers of Crown Zellerbach Corp., sent from San Francisco, Calif.

July 30. Johnson appealed to DiSalle several weeks ago to see what could be done about blocking a newspaper price increase by Canadian producers.

Because of those increases, Johnson said, "several important newspapers quit and many others have had to curtail their services."

He told DiSalle that the price official's "authority with respect to Canadian producers was limited, and that if Canadian government authorities would cooperate with our price control officials there was little you could do about it."

Johnson said that the U. S. newspaper producers "are contemptuous about" the increase and were quoted as saying: "We will not take the matter up with the Office of Price Administration."

Johnson said he and Senator O'Mahoney (D-Wyo.), chairman

Kidney Slow-Down May Bring Restless Nights

When kidney function slows down, many folks complain of nagging backache, headache, dizziness and loss of pep and energy. Don't suffer restless nights with these discomforts if reduced kidney function is getting you down—due to such common causes as stress and strain, over-exertion or exposure to cold. Minor bladder irritation due to cold or wrong diet may cause getting up nights or frequent passages. Don't neglect your kidneys if these conditions bother you. Try Doan's Pills—a mild diuretic. Used successfully by millions for over 50 years. It's amazing how many times Doan's gives happy relief from these discomforts. Help the 10 million of kidney tubes and filters flush out waste. Poles Escape

Twelve of the 10 came ashore and asked for Swedish asylum. The four others sailed back with their ship last night, deciding they wanted no more of the mutiny and would face whatever fate awaited them in their homeland.

This was the second mutiny aboard a Communist ship in the Baltic in two weeks. Three Lithuanians locked the other crew members of the Russian trawler Samsun July 19 and these incidents followed the escape to Sweden.

Declaration of Marshal Tito of Yugoslavia last week that Russia fears a revolt is brewing in Poland. Tito said it was this fear which prompted Soviet Deputy Prime Minister V. M. Molotov and an unusual array of East European satellite leaders to appear on the platform at Warsaw recently on the seventh anniversary of the founding of the Polish National Liberation Committee, forerunner of the present Polish Communist government.

A big show was made of the occasion and Molotov publicly warned that Tito's attitude toward government would not last long.

Cadets Cashiered

The Army said the names of the discharged cadets will not be released "so that no undue criticism of the individuals concerned will result."

The Military Academy has an enrollment of about 2,400. Most of the discharged cadets are appointed to it upon congressional recommendations. They must, however, pass examinations and meet rigid physical and mental qualifications.

The dismissal action followed investigations and recommendations made by two groups, one composed of West Point officers and the other by the group headed by Justice Hand.

Irving said the action taken is "stern and uncompromising, but after weighing all factors most carefully, and the responsible heads of the Army, are convinced that there could be no compromise solution that would preserve the vital honor system of West Point which is the very heart of the Academy."

Face said of the action: "I feel that there can be no compromise in the maintenance of the high standards of conduct on which West Point was founded."

Roger Tubby, assistant White-House press secretary, said President Truman knew of the action and approved it. "Naturally he is very much concerned," Tubby said.

An Army spokesman said the Academy began discharging the cadets today. He explained that any cadet involved still has a right to demand a court martial.

Face, however, said they do not expect many such demands since a court martial would reveal the names of the men involved.

The spokesman said the sponsors of the affected cadets have been notified. Most are named by congressmen, but the President also can nominate candidates for "the point."

The action against the cadets was described as a "general discharge" rather than an "expulsion."

The Army definition of a general discharge is "a form of discharge under honorable (sic) conditions, service satisfactory, given to a soldier not qualifying for honorable (sic) discharge."

The Army uses five forms of discharge—honorable, general, undesirable, bad conduct, and dishonorable.

The spokesman said the men involved are not all athletes and he added that sports other than football may be involved.

He cautioned against trying to identify any of the men merely by noting absence in the football lineup next fall. He noted that during an academic year there are a number of cadets who leave the academy for various reasons, including ordinary in-house ousted war cadets who had been prominent in various activities, including "varsity football."

General Frederick A. Irving, Academy superintendent, said in a statement from West

Point that the ability to follow the rigid courses at the academy. He said no faculty members were involved.

Did the cases involve some instances of classmen giving help instead of receiving it, the spokesman asked. "Yes," he replied.

Would this mean any change in sports policy at West Point? "No."

What constitutes "improper assistance?" "Improper assistance is any direct or written assistance concerning daily recitation or tests which would indicate answers for or during tests. The giver of the improper assistance is equally as guilty as the person receiving the assistance."

The spokesman said the investigations resulted from information and action first initiated by the cadets' own honor committee. It began in the spring, he said.

Unlike most other schools, the military academy is in session the year around.

Wage Increase

(Continued From Page One) existed at the time the last contract was made. Taylor said the 18 members of the board had participated in the decision, although only 12 voted. He would not predict whether Johnston would okay it, but said it represented the unanimous opinion of the labor, management and public representatives on the wage board.

A decision based on the new policy will also be submitted to Johnston to cover the northern cotton-rayon textile industry, seeking a seven percent wage hike for more than 100,000 workers. That case has been pending before the board since April.

Pending action by Johnston, the regulation allowing automatic approval to 10 percent increases stands for the time being.

The board had no figures on how many workers might be included in the classes not having four million workers are covered by such arrangements, the bureau of labor statistics has estimated.

Taylor said he would guess that about 25 percent of workers have not received a 10 percent increase over January, 1950, pay.

Cease-Fire

This was the first announced reference in cease-fire talks to the guarantee Allies have said they would demand that the Reds do not take advantage of an armistice to reinforce their ground troops, or run in now non-existent air and naval forces.

Joy went on to emphasize that ground forces alone do not constitute the complete balance of power. Naval and air power must be taken into consideration, too.

Under the authoritative, but non-official view, Joy was using emphasis on air and sea might to support the Allied demand for an armistice along present battlelines, most of which are north of the 38th Parallel in defensible hill terrain.

In no way did it deviate from accepted practices in such cases." McDermott said the information on which his report was based was the result of an inquiry which the State Department had made to the American Embassy in Mexico City.

Iran Crisis

(Continued From Page One) er, it boils down to this: Iran has two laws nationalizing the country's oil. The first, enacted in March, simply declared the oil industry belonged to the government. The second law, enacted May 1, set out a nine-point plan by which nationalization was to be accomplished.

The talks will open on the heels of the first law. This leaves room for some compromise solution by which the British might act as an agent of the Iranian government in producing, refining and marketing.

Before Harriman intervened, Iran refused to talk with the British government, though it owns more than half the Anglo-Iranian Oil Company. The company sent a mission to Tehran to negotiate, but the talks broke down after 20 minutes.

The company offered an advance cash payment from its revenues since passage of the law, but the Iranians insisted on immediate payment of 75 percent of all the proceeds plus 25 percent to be held aside for eventual compensation to the company for its property. The Iranians said they could agree to no other terms under the nationalization law of May 1.

The big Abadan refinery finally shut down as the result of the deadlock over payments.

Sir Donald Ferguson, permanent undersecretary of the ministry of fuel and power, M. R. Fleet, undersecretary in the Overseas Finance Division of the Treasury, Peter Renwick, of the Foreign Office, and Sir Francis Shepherd, ambassador to Tehran, will accompany Stokes.

Targets on both coasts of North Korea daily while U. N. planes range freely over all North Korea. Withdrawal of these two armies of Allied might from North Korea, under this authoritative view, should be sufficient compensation for the Reds to agree to Allied ground forces remaining in the tactically favorable positions they have won in "hard" fighting.

How impressive such an argument might be, with the Communist negotiators was indicated indirectly by General Nam during Friday's session. He said, in effect: "You insist on strong defensive positions north of the 38th Parallel, deep in our territory."

Since the cease-fire talks started in Kaesong July 10, U. N. naval and air craft have done most of the shooting. Ground forces have not engaged in major offensive operations.

Allied warships shelled targets on both coasts Friday and U. N. planes flew nearly 900 sorties; only three Red planes were sighted.

American Colleges Face New Teaching Problems Military Subjects Now Included in Curriculum

Special to Central Press

WASHINGTON—The military manpower program forced on Uncle Sam by Communist imperialism has created a host of nasty problems for American colleges.

It's the new job of Dr. John R. Richards, special assistant to the secretary of the Army, to help university presidents iron out these difficulties. Forty-two-year-old Dr. Richards, a Navy veteran from the last war, is the executive assistant to the president of the Wayne university in Detroit.

As an alert educator, Dr. Richards knows the problem arising from a fundamental conflict of interests between the Army and the colleges. The Army intends to get most of its officers from the ranks of college men. So naturally the Army wants colleges to offer many courses in military subjects. Colleges, on the other hand, don't want to offer any more military courses at a sacrifice of regular curriculum. When an argument like this comes, Dr. Richards steps in.

SOME PROGRESS—In an interview, Richards already reports progress. Both colleges and the Army have settled on a program under which officer candidate students will devote at least one of their eight semesters to military subjects. The military subjects are spread over the four-year course, but they total approximately one semester. Richards reports this is accepted by almost all colleges—the major exception being engineering schools. The engineering institutions contend their undergraduates must have at least eight semesters worth of scientific courses. If the military subjects are going to total one semester, this overloads a student.

While Congress was debating the selective service and universal military training program, many American universities expressed fears of a shutdown for lack of students. Richards says this won't happen, though he does admit fewer students will be enrolled in the future.

He says the Army will do all it can to maintain the civilian attitudes of citizen soldiers.

HOW IT WORKS—Here's an example of how that's being done: Some 4,000 GI's overseas are taking regular college courses in ordinary times. These courses are offered by the University of Maryland, in the European theater, the University of California in the Far East, and Louisiana State in Panama. All three of these educational institutions have opened up branches overseas. And a soldier who completes any course they offer can receive regular credit towards a degree.

LOOKING AHEAD—Richards, and other Army officials, believe information and education programs will be more important than ever when UMT is a working program. In many areas of the country, a soldier in training is cut off from most daily newspapers and from contact with forces that shaped his civilian attitudes. One function of the information and education program will be to maintain this contact. "After all," Richards observed, "most soldiers don't intend to make the Army their career."

Then too, the American army acts on the assumption an informed soldier is a better soldier. "The man who knows what he's fighting for, fights harder," Richards said.

My New York

By MEL HEIMER
NEW YORK—This is a city full of newspapers with an endless variety of columns, some of which concentrate on publishing the latest bou motis of celebrities.
Experience has taught me there are two disillusioning fallacies to these winetracks: either they are thought up by press agents and credited to show people without uttered by waspish souls whose grags look entertaining in print but who personally are dreadful ones to meet.
My mind is moving along these lines today because I have just read Margaret Case Harriman's book The Vicious Circle, which deals with a coterie of theatrical, literary and artistic citizens whose every word and deed would be filling the columns these days if they weren't dead or 30 years past their deadly prime. These were, roughly, the members of the Round Table, a luncheon crowd which held forth at the Algonquin hotel when Mrs. Harriman's father, Frank Case, owned it.

The names still are familiar to you, although a number of them now appear only on tombstones. Heywood Brown is dead and so is Alexander Woolcott. Robert Benchley is no more and Dorothy Parker has vanished into literature's limbo. Some of them are still around—Robert Sherwood, Harold Ross, George S. Kaufman, Edna Ferber, Marc Connelly—but no longer young, and, obviously, no longer interested in getting their first with the bitterest and most amusing insult.
A QUARTER OF A CENTURY AGO, they were bright young men and women in Manhattan; some of them were beginning to make their marks and others were waiting impatiently to be discovered. The jacket blurb of The Vicious Circle describes them as fascinating personalities, and, as they are unfolded and aired by Mrs. Harriman in a somewhat labored and rosy book they appear to have been just that—but fascinating in the way that a king cobra is fascinating.
Around the time I reluctantly had given up hope of being a street-car conductor and had turned to writing, they all were at the height of their popularity. To me, as to a thousand other young hopefuls, they were gods. I could quote Mrs. Parker's sharpest epigrams by the hour; I listened to Woolcott's radio stories over the mumbled protests of my mother who claimed he sounded like a chorus boy. I read F. P. A.'s newspaper column from top to bottom.

WITH THE YEARS, I lost my appetite for most of them, for several reasons.
I met some of them and was appalled at their lack of personal charm and the enormity of their egotism, especially since I was violently self-centered myself. I discovered that their talents were a bit shorter than I had believed, and their words didn't hold up too well on re-reading. Mainly I was disillusioned, I suppose, because I discovered they figuratively lived their lives in Macy's window. They were bright and gaudy jokers, good for a laugh if you didn't analyze their humor too closely) but only mildly creative and almost completely lacking in warmth. I discovered I wouldn't care to be cast away on a desert island with them. They were thin.
Mrs. Harriman's book, if not brilliantly written, paints them as they were. She seems to have admitted them, liked them some times and studied them closely enough to report on them faithfully. I kept thinking as I read of them, how there is no such collection of wits in New York today. Maybe the writers and actors these days are more emotionally mature and don't have to say "See, look at me!" Whatever the cause, we no longer have a set of Manhattanites who loose shafts of barbed subtlety. The winetracks in the columns now are pretty heavy-handed and childish stuff. I don't know of this turn of events is good or bad, and I must admit that I no longer care.

THE ROUND TABLE DIED AWAY and when people asked Frank Case whatever became of it, he would just say "Whatever because of the city reservoir at Fifth avenue . . . it's just gone." It's gone place to the Public Library. These things do not last forever.
It is unlikely the shafts of wit fired by these feverish souls will last forever. Nobody will remember what they did here. But I must give the devil his due. While they thrived, even if you learned to dislike them as I did, you always knew they were there.

After the slayings, police said Luchie went to the home of his mother, Mrs. Anna Luchie, 50 1/2 . . .
There he made her find out the three bodies, and she tried to kill her and herself. The mother ran out of the house, took a taxi cab home and notified another daughter, Mrs. Rosalia Jurell, who called police.
Before police were able to break into Luchie's locked home, they heard a shot. They found Luchie dead with a bullet wound in his head. The gun he used was reported stolen from a policeman.

Dodging Raindrops

Material progress does not in all cases make for increased happiness. Consider, for instance, human behavior in the rain. We wrap ourselves in non-porous coats which greatly increase the discomfort of a warm day, or take shelter under umbrellas which reduce our visibility nearly to zero and cause us to become walking hazards to all within range of the spokes. If neither measure is available, as so often is the case, we dash madly from cover to cover, squeezing our eyes into mere slits as if by so doing we could keep our faces dry.

Colonial Mystery

History sometimes has a way of being more romantic and mysterious than the writings of the most imaginative authors. One of the strangest and most fascinating historical mysteries concerns the lost colony of Roanoke, founded on July 22, 1587. Adding to the romance of the tale is the fact that the colony was founded by Sir Walter Raleigh, poet, adventurer and court-favorite of Queen Elizabeth. It was in this colony that the first Anglo-American child, Virginia Dare, was born and died.

Free For All

One of our readers has written to suggest that we might serve the public interest if we stopped printing controversial letters in our "From the People" column. The uninhibited expression of vigorous opinions on religion, race, politics, economics, patriotism and the like, she feels, only serves to stir up strife at a time when unity is a pressing need.

We can understand her feeling. It has also occurred to us in recent days that the highest function of an editor might be to restore order at a riot. Certainly there is as much table-pounding and arm-waving going on this season as in any in our history. We are fated to live in an age of raving nerves when the distraught citizen is inclined to "the view that anybody who is not 100 per cent with him must be 100 per cent against him."

THE WORLD TODAY

WASHINGTON, Aug. 2 (AP)—Just an hour or so before President Truman signed the new price control law this week, the Office of Price Administration (OPA) issued an order which may have unseated some people. There was nothing really new about that order. OPA simply was putting into effect an old order which it had issued some time ago to manufacturers and then had suspended.

LONDON, July 25 (Special)—Eastbourne House stands almost alone on a bopped-out block in the middle of Bethnal Green. It is not what you would call a friendly looking building. It is a dark, bare, unimpressive structure. Its windows are meshed against stray flying balls and rocks, and its main door, bearing over it a freshly painted sign of the star's head of Eastbourne College, one of the sponsors of the House, is closed.

HOLLYWOOD

HOLLYWOOD, Aug. 3.—(AP)—Danny Thomas is the modern version of the oldtime spellbinder. By the sheer force of his vocal power, he can charm an English girl in the moonlight or a room full of drunkies in a smoky night club. When Danny speaks, no one can compete. So Doris Day, his leading lady in "I'll See You in My Dreams" and I mostly live in a smoky night club. It went something like this: "It all started when Joe Pasternak, the MGM producer, caught my wailing Syrian act at the Club Harem in Chicago. 'That's nice!' he said. 'I've got to have that face!'"

"So he brought me out to Hollywood to appear in 'The Unfinished Dance' with Margaret O'Brien. I was the only man in the picture and even I was on the screen only about 15 minutes. I played a Greek cobbler, and for my efforts I received $120,000, which is no small amount."

"Louis B. Mayer said to me after seeing the picture, 'You are David Warfield in his prime! Me, a comedian! Now they said they can't bear to part with me, but they have to picture for me and would I stay signed for $50,000. But my agent said, 'He can play the Chezy Parea for five weeks and make $50,000 and be under contract to no one!'"

"So I left, but then Pasternak brought me back to play a Jewish Cantor in 'The Big City,' again with Margaret O'Brien. I went to his office and he said, 'If only you would fix that big nose!'"

Miss Eubanks Weds Kenneth Hickson

A wedding of beautiful simplicity was performed Wednesday evening at 8:00 o'clock in the Lake Mary Community Church, when Miss Barbara Eubanks, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Haden Eubanks of Lake Mary, became the bride of Kenneth Hickson, son of Mr. and Mrs. W. B. Hickson of Sanford.

The Rev. Dr. J. B. Root, pastor of the Congregational Church of Sanford, performed the ceremony amid a setting of white gladioli, greenery and burning tapers.

A program of musical music was given by organist Everitt Phillips of High Springs, cousin of the bride, Stanley Brunley, soloist, rendered two selections, "Because" and "The Lord's Prayer."

Given in marriage by her father, the bride was lovely in a gown of white shawl organza, fashioned with a fitted bodice and a ballerina length skirt. Her finger tip length veil fell from a Juliet cap of imported hand-made Belgium lace. She carried a satin covered Bible topped with white roses, orange blossoms, and satin streamers.

Marijane Eubanks, maid of honor for her sister and Peggy Howell, bridesmaid, were crowned in dresses fashioned after that of the bride in soft shades of green and pink with matching half-hat headresses trimmed with lily of the valley. They carried colorful bouquets of roses, asters and daisies tied with matching ribbons.

Mrs. Eubanks chose for her daughter's wedding a gray silk print dress with white accessories and wore a corsage of yellow roses. Mrs. Hickson, mother of the groom, wore a gray and yellow print dress with white accessories and wore a corsage of white roses and asters.

Following the wedding Mr. and Mrs. Eubanks entertained with a reception in the Lake Mary Community Chamber of Commerce. The large room was decorated with multicolored ribbons, burning tapers, and white gladioli in tall baskets. The punch table was overlaid with an imported linen cloth centered with a miniature bridal couple, around which were candles, white hibiscus, and fern.

At each end of the table were silver-dishes holding pastel-colored mints. The crystal punch bowls were placed at the far end of each table and presided over by Mrs. Wallace Tyre, Miss Jane Ford, Miss Mary Jane Dobson, and Miss Nellie Bowen. The three-tiered wedding cake, topped with a miniature bride and groom, and two wedding bells were placed on an imported work cloth. The cake was cut and served by Mrs. E. E. True and Mrs. Opal Campbell. Mrs. Richard Keogh greeted the guests at the door and presented them to Miss Ann Whitaker, cousin of the bride, who presided over the bride's book.

Others assisting in serving were Mrs. H. M. Gleason, Mrs. Clarence Milstead, Mrs. Walter Weiderhold, and Mrs. George Maybury. Everitt Phillips played piano selections during the reception.

Out of town guests for the wedding included Mrs. J. E. Phillips, Miss Louise Phillips, and Everett Phillips of High Springs and Bobby Einstein of Leesburg.

The couple will be home after Aug. 5 at 508 West 8th Street, Sanford.

Childhood Hints

By DAVID TAYLOR MARKE AP Newfeatures Writer

A troubled parent makes for a troubled child. For children are like mirrors. What we are like is reflected in our children. How then, can a troubled parent rear an untroubled child? How can we avoid the vexations, irritations, and tensions that are likely to affect our youngsters?

Dr. O. Spurgeon English, practicing psychiatrist and head of the department of psychiatry at Temple University, Philadelphia, gives several solutions in the article published in Parent-Teacher Magazine. Says Dr. English:

"First, we must admit a rather painful fact. Somewhere along the line many of us have failed to do everything necessary to make contented, cooperative human beings of our offspring. And having acknowledged this fact, we must mend our ways and work hard, extremely hard, to undo the damage we have done."

"We tried to excuse ourselves with the belief heretofore that something to do with discipline. It doesn't, he says. If a child is stubborn or bad tempered it's not because Grandma Nellie Bowen. The child was born so. He inherited it from his home environment. 'The child with a temper is an unhappy, neglected child who has not been given enough of the right kind of love, consideration and discipline. He frequently loses his temper to get attention or something else he wants, or else he loses his temper because he has seen his parents do the same thing. If we have no other solution for solving a problem other than to lose our tempers and scream for what we want, we can be assured our children will do the same.'"

"If we are in a bad humor or annoyed, it is important to admit it. We can be honest with our child, too, and say to him, 'Johnny, Mommy's in a bad humor. I know I shouldn't be. So if I didn't seem nice to you just now, please forgive me. It's not your fault, and I love you just the same.'"

Children can understand this sort of talk, he says. They can

Oviedo Couple Give Plans For Marriage

OVIEDO (Special)—Mr. and Mrs. R. O. Simmons are announcing the engagement and approaching marriage of their daughter, Miss Annie Lee Nettles, to Richard F. Sheldon, S. N., son of Mr. and Mrs. F. H. Sheldon, also of Oviedo.

The wedding will take place in the chapel at the Naval Air Station in Sanford on Sept. 1, at 7:00 o'clock in the evening.

Miss Nettles attended the Oviedo School. Mr. Sheldon also attended the schools in Oviedo prior to his enlistment in the Navy with which he served during World War II. Formerly stationed at Green Cove Springs, he is at present connected with the Sanford Naval Air Station.

Mrs. David Has Party For Young Daughter

Games were enjoyed on the lawn after which the guests assembled in the living room where the honoree opened her many lovely gifts.

Refreshments of ice cream and a large Cindirella cake were served to each of Brenda Kay's little friends.

Mrs. John Carroll Busby, whose marriage to Lieut. Busby was an event of June 10 in the Church of the Saviour, New York City, is the former Helen Adelaide McGill, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Walter Raymond McGill of Geneva.

Miss Helen McGill Weds John C. Busby

Miss Helen Adelaide McGill, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Walter Raymond McGill of Geneva, and Lieut. John Carroll Busby, USN, son of Mrs. L. A. Corrier of Landis, South Carolina, were married June 10 in the Church of the Saviour in New York City.

The bride, who was given in marriage by her brother, Mr. W. R. McGill, had as her only attendant her sister-in-law, Mrs. R. O. McGill of New York City. Lieut. R. J. Alexander, USN, of Patterson, N. J. served as best man. Only members of the immediate families were present.

Mrs. Busby, prior to her marriage, was secretary for the past three years to Rear Admiral Stephen R. Eison in New York City. Lieut. Busby attended the University of North Carolina and Lowell Textile Institute and has been connected with the Navy's textile research program for the past six years.

After a motor trip through the western states, the couple will make their home in San Francisco, Calif. where Lieut. Busby is stationed at the Naval Radiological Defense Laboratory.

Dictatorial Paris Fashion Houses Have Final Say On American Style Trends

By DOROTHY ROE

Associated Press Fashion Editor Christian Dior is a little Frenchman who looks like a book-keeper and delights in upsetting the best-laid plans of the vast U. S. dress industry.

The first time he did it was back in 1947, when his sensational "New Look" converted women overnight from the pared, short-skirted silhouette of the war years to long, full skirts, nipped waists and padded hips.

Now he has done it again, and cries of pain are echoing through New York's garment district.

You see, the New York fall fashion showings have just closed, with the big news for the next season being full skirts over taffeta and crinoline petticoats—much the same as the late implemented "New Look," only shorter.

Now comes the word from Paris that Dior has upset the applecart by presenting new "look line" silhouettes, consisting of much longer skirts, a straight silhouette flaring only slightly toward the hemline, and the abolition of trimmings.

The cables from Paris say that the audience of press and buyers went wild with enthusiasm over the new silhouette and shook the chaotic rafters of the Dior salon with cries of "bravo!"

A few practical souls looked worried and started muttering: "Now we'll all have to let down our hems again."

Others, representing New York manufacturers, turned pale and rushed out to cable their bosses.

Now the question of the length and cut of women's skirts may not seem a world-shaking matter at first glance, if you're concerned with such things as the fate of our boys in Korea and the future of the atom bomb.

But even when the world stands on the brink of oblivion, business must go on. And fashion in the United States is an $11 billion a year business.

You might also think what happens in one small salon in Paris is of little concern to the population of the U. S. A.

But there again you're wrong. Whether or not it makes sense, the decisions of this one mild little Frenchman have more effect on the U. S. garment industry than J. P. Morgan used to have on the stock market.

No matter how talented and competent an American fashion designer may be, usually she still looks to Paris for the final nod on what's what.

U. S. buyers attend the New York fashion openings and then rush off to Paris in a body, to find out if their selections were right.

If Paris reverses the U. S. style trend, you can bet on hysterics in Seventh Avenue. And you can also bet that a lot of the new silhouettes will be accepted in favor of the newer Paris decrees.

This means loss of money to stores who already have placed their orders and to manufacturers who already have started production on their lines.

It means general confusion to the ultimate customer who first reads that full short skirts are the thing, my dear, and then a few weeks later learns that they are to be long and straight.

So whenever you feel low in mind, bored with your job or tired of your rat, you can cheer up just by reflecting that anyway, thank goodness, you're not a dress manufacturer.

If you're planning to clean your toaster, do so after the toaster has been disconnected and has cooled.

Ward Throttles Orlando Senators 5-3 In Pitching Duel

McBride And Jackson Star For Giants As Local Club Continues Upset Role

The Sanford Giants will play two consecutive home games here over the weekend, as the Orlando Senators were tonight and the Cocoa Indians Saturday. Both will be single games. Manager Richie Klaus was undecided on his starters, but Bob Callahan seemed likely to take the mound against Stan Zedalis here tonight if a bruised arm received in batting practice against the Daytona Beach Islanders held Al Neville in tentatively slated to hurl against Cocoa.

ORLANDO, Aug. 3.—(AP)—The Sanford Giants won their second straight game over the Orlando Senators 5-3 last night behind the superlative clutch hitting of Bill Ward as the seventh place Giants again exhibited their ability to beat the Florida club while losing to the fallers.

Five costly Senator errors added to the carnage as the Giants chased Orlando pitcher Dean Currier in the second with three runs. An error, a rare occurrence by Orlando Manager Ed Levy started off the big frame allowing Richie Klaus to reach first Ed Jackson had walked. Both moved up on a wild pitch and Ward's sacrifice bunt scored Klaus as the Giants worked the squeeze with superb success for the second straight day. Therina pushed Jackson across on a sharp single and Mickey McBride doubled to account for the final tally of the frame.

Orlando came back for one in the bottom half of the inning when Ward loaded the bases and walked Oravetz to force in Ford, but the big right hander was soon out of trouble.

The Giants climbed on John Tennant in the third for two more runs when Ed Jackson, a defensive star in the game, lashed out a towering triple with two mates aboard.

Jackson's perfect peg to the plate cut down Shores in the sixth making a similar game-saving play in Sanford Wednesday.

The Senators got two more off Ward in the seventh on a pair of doubles, an infield out and a long fly, but the happy Sanford curveball perfectionist bore down hard in the clutch to throttle several other rallies.

Mickey McBride, Sanford third sacker, took hitting honors for the evening with a double and two singles.

Freshman Manager Marty Marion Is Given Boost By Club Owner

ST. LOUIS, Aug. 3.—(AP)—Marty Marion, freshman manager of the skidding St. Louis Cardinals, has been given a vote of confidence by owner Fred Saigh.

Saigh isn't saying, though, whether Marion will be retained as manager next season.

With the team tottering on the brink of the second division, actually much closer to last place than first, Saigh called a special clubhouse meeting of the team members before last night's game.

Newsmen were not permitted to attend the meeting, but Saigh said later he told the players he had complete confidence in Marion and was satisfied with his work.

The owner also told the players he hoped they would play harder and start winning a few games. The club has lost seven of its last eight complete games.

Only a time limit placed on last night's contest kept the Cardinals from falling into the second division. They were trailing the Boston Braves 7-3 when the game was suspended, with one out and two Cardinals on base in the last of the ninth, to permit the Braves to catch a train for Chicago.

The Cardinals have been working out every morning this week and skipping their usual batting practice before games.

In explaining this arrangement, the usually good-humored Marion observed sarcastically:

"I think they get so tired in batting practice they just can't hit in the games that follow."

Saigh took another swipe at arrangements made for the sale of world series TV rights for the next six years for $6,000,000.

Patrick Field To Open Season With Stetson Hatters

DELAND, Aug. 3.—(Special)—Patrick Field, at Cocoa, a newcomer in Florida football circles this year, will open the 1951 Stetson University football season with a game in the local Municipal Stadium at 8 P. M., Saturday, September 22, according to Head Coach Joe McMullen.

The Hatters have an open date on October 6 and would like to have a home game on that date to round out an eleven-game season—five road games and six at home.

In addition to Patrick Field, the present home games are Tampa on October 20; University of Richmond, November 10; Livingston State, November 24; and Eastern Kentucky, December 1.

Coach McMullen is expecting a nucleus of 5 men to report September 1 for early practice. Most of these men were on the 1950 squad. While Coach McMullen has been in Pennsylvania during the summer taking graduate work, he has been in contact with prospective players in this month. It will not be known just what material, probably will be an aerial game if any, he has found.

The Hatter offense this year has been coached by J. Leathers, Jr., Stetson's All-American honorable mention. On the receiving end will be Dave Laude, who caught 28 passes last season for seven touchdowns; Don Martin, who caught 12 and scored 12 points; All-State basketball center who saw a limited amount of service last year.

Key of the defense will be the Hatter Little All-America honorable mention guard, J. Leathers. Several of last year's big linemen will be back, but more depth is needed in this department, McMullen said.

Club Owners Still In Dark Over New Baseball Prexy

NEW YORK, Aug. 3.—(AP)—If the major league club owners are going to elect a new baseball commissioner here next Tuesday when they meet in a top-level session, nobody is talking about it.

But there is plenty of speculation making the rounds. Such names as General Douglas MacArthur and Jim Farley have been mentioned frequently as being the No. 1 candidates.

Travelers Hold To Three Game Lead In Southern Loop

By ASSOCIATED PRESS

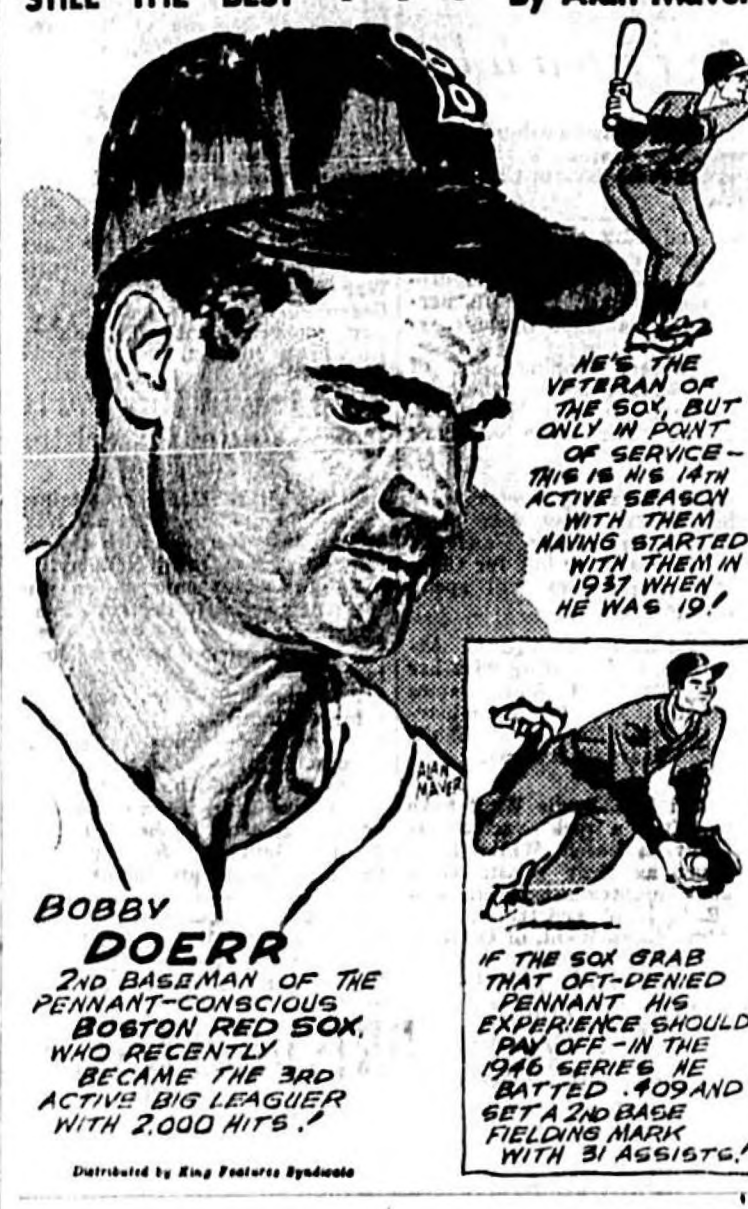

Stunning Birmingham with sensational pitching, the aroused Little Rock Travelers grabbed the last three games of their grinding six-game set with the contenders and finished with a three-length lead—the same margin they had when the Barons came to town.

Verne Williamson tossed the Southern Association's third no-hitter of 1951 in the seven-inning opener to cool off the invader. 2-0. Lefty Dutch McCall stopped them on three hits for a 7-2 decision in the nightcap, McCall, who posted his 13th victory, had a one-hit shutout until the ninth when the Barons scored a pair, on a double by Wally Rogers, a walk, a single, an error and a fly. Jim Simpson belted two homers for the Pels.

Williamson, a tiny right-hander who weighs 140 pounds soaking wet, faced only 21 men in hurling his nearly perfect game. He walked Rogers, the first batter, and then forced Larry DiPippo to ground into a double-play. The next 19 batters were retired in order.

Atlanta nipped the Memphis Chickies in 10 innings, 6-4; Chattanooga trounced Mobile, 6-3; and Nashville downed New Orleans, 5-3.

Veteran Women Golfers Square Off Against Newcomers In Western Open

By HARRY STAPLER

DETROIT, Aug. 3.—(AP)—Two newcomers and two veterans squared off today in the semifinals of the 51st Women's Western Amateur Golf championship—and after what happened yesterday anything might pop.

Marjorie Lindsay of Decatur, Ill., calm veteran of eight western tournaments, faced blonde Bonnie Randolph of Columbus, O., the meet's biggest surprise.

Grace Lenczyk of Newton, Conn., who two summers ago topped the USGA amateur, Canadian and U. S. collegiate women's titles, tackled Mary Ann Downey, Baltimore, Md., newcomer.

Spectators were treated to two upsets and two sudden-death extra long duels.

Miss Lindsay eliminated Miss Riley 3 and 2 by out-driving and out-putting the Little Texan.

Miss Downey upset Miss Dawson 1 up—but it took 21 holes. Miss Dawson lost when she took a par while Bonnie birdied the deciding hole.

In another overtime marathon Miss Lenczyk ousted Miss Doran 1 up on the 20th green when the Cleveland school teacher missed a 12 foot putt. It stopped five inches short.

Pat took a 3 up lead after five holes but Mary Ann won seven and the next nine and Pat couldn't whittle the margin down enough.
