Senkovich noted if the residents are still displeased, they can petition for a public hearing which could be held within 45 days.

Deficits: Like Snow Piling On Mountain

When Washington announces new Consumer Price Index jumps and new trade deficits from time to time, foreign financiers and traders are reminded that inflation in the United States is unchecked. These dealers see us as a nation spending more money than we take in, buying more abroad than we sell, and covering the deficits by borrowing and the printing press. Although tied to the dollar that represents our massive economy. they get nervous about holding too many of them wand so they begin to unload. At such times, the Europeans often exchange their sinking dollars for West German marks. which represents one of the world's strongest

It is ironic that the money of a nation destroyed and defeated only a generation ago would be more valuable than that of the victor. Aside from the ability and high productivity of the German people, there is another compelling reason for this. As no other nation in modern times, Germany has known the devastation of inflation. The awful memory of this has commanded sound fiscal policies.

Indeed, it is instructive for Americans to contemplate, and perhaps profit, from the shocking, runaway inflation that rocked Germany to its foundations shortly after World War I. Faced with budgetary deficits, the German government followed the practice begun during the war of issuing more paper money to cover expenses. During the year 1922, the value of the mark in terms of the U.S. dollar - which had been 4.20 before 1914 - fell from 162 to more than 7,000. By July, 1923, the mark had fallen to 160,000 to the u dollar! Workers, the middle class, and pensioners were wiped out; barter replaced commercial a dealings and food riots broke out.

Several million marks were required to buy one egg and large insurance settlements were worth less than the cost of the stamp that delivered them. The economic catastrophe gave rise to an even greater one: the rise to power of the Nazis and Adolf Hitler.

Inflation has aptly been likened to an avalanche, which come in various sizes and speeds k - depending on the mountain slope angle, the amount of snow, and weather conditions. We all know that, under the right conditions, a big avalanche once started overwhelms everything in its path and stops only when it bottoms out. Obviously, this was the case with the inflation that devastated Germany 55 years ago.

The U.S. economy is too strong and other conditions are not comparable to those that existed in Germany during the early 1920s — at least not yet. But the cumulative effect of $60 billion deficits each year is like snow piling up on a steep mountainside. It can't go on without terrible con-

Services Lacking, Petitioners Claim

Tuscawilla Wants Out Of Winter Springs

Petitioners led by former City Councilman Don Sines were going door-to-door in the Tuscawilla planned unit development loday seeking signatures on a petition to remove the 3,500 acres from the city of Winter Springs. The Tuscawilla area encompasses 3,500 acres or 30 percent of tax base and will continue to provide a tax base for the city. We feel we can stabilize our taxes by getting out of the city," said Sines, adding that the Tuscawilla residents may be called upon to help pay for a water system in the future which doesn't serve their

Sines said in addition to the water system, Mayor Troy Piland also has suggested that the city purchase a golf course. "We don't want to buy a golf course," said the former councilman, who esigned from office earlier this year.

Sines said that the petition group which includes Sines, his wife, Sheila, Robert O. Williams of 1039 Elk Court North, Herber, G. Monson of 1209 Deer Run and Stanley J. Obarski of 1106 Gator Lane, plan to have sufficient signatures on the petition to present for deannexing the area by the Tuesday night regular city council

He said the Tuscawilla area currently has 362 registered voters and that state law requires a petition signed by 15 percent of the registered voters, or about 50. "We plan to have 100 signatures on the petition," said Sines He said state law provides this method for "contracting" the Sines said while the petition committee for the boundary cor traction has not contacted either of the Tuscawilla resident councilmen, John Daniels and Thomas Craven, "I think they will support it. But I have no assurance," he said.

Daniels currently is subject to a recall drive organized Charles Mort, a former city employee. Petitions containing I percent of the signatures of voters of the entire city were certified by Mrs. Bruce this week. The petition charges Daniels with malfeasance, misfeasance and neglect of duty in office. Daniel current term expires in November.

Sines also is a prime mover in a petition effort to recall Piland from office. He said today that a petition committee for the recall will be formulated at a Saturday meeting and a list of charges against Piland will be firmed up at that time.

Sobik Is Swapped For Calmer Female

By JANE CASSELBERRY

Sobik-Central Florida Zoo's nine-year-old behavior has been known to put his keepers in the hospital on occasions, is leaving the zoo early this month.

The Central Florida Zoological Society will be sending the popular pachyderm to Grand Prairie, Texas, to be traded for a six-foot high young female elephant.

One of the reasons given by zoo officials for the trade is that Sobik is becoming more aggressive towards his keepers and less manageable as a result of his temperament. Dr. John Athey, the 200's consulting veterinarian says bull elephants just naturally tend to be more aggressive.

Sobik was in the news seven months ago when he was given a root canal for a broken tusk by Maitland dentist Dr. Charles H. Schmitt. For this king-size job, Schmitt had to make special instruments. Sobik is thought to be the only living elephant that has had this particular procedure done to his tusk.

Judge Rules Ex-CIA Man Broke Oath

WASHINGTON (UPI) - A federal judge today ruled that former CIA agent Frank Snepp violated his secrecy oath by writing an unauthorized - and highly critical - book about the agency and ordered all of Snepp's "ill-gotten gains" from sales of his work be given to the government

"The CIA cannot protect its intelligence sources and methods if its agents are allowed to determine what intelligence ought to be made public," said U.S. District Judge Oren Lewis, in a 14-page ruling released by the court clerk.

Snepp was prohibited "from other violations of his secrecy agreement, by requiring him to submit to the CIA for prepublication review any manuscript which the defendant authors which concerns the Central Intelligence Agency, its activities or intelligence activities generally which the defendant gained during the course of, or as a result of, his employment.

If the ruling is not overturned on an expected appeal, Snepr stands to lose some $60,000 he has already earned from book sales "One who breaches his trust and secrecy agreements with the agency of the United States charged with the responsibility for protecting intelligence sources and methods ought not to be permitted to retain his ill-gotten gains," Lewis ruled. "Anything less will not suffice to prevent unauthorized disclosure of such information," the judge said.
