Winter Springs Police arrest two Sanford men for burglary

WINTER SPRINGS — Two Sanford men were arrested Wednesday for burglary, grand theft, and trespassing on a construction site.

Jeffrey Cardell Butler, 37, and Stanley Douglas McKinney, 37, were observed in a rental truck at about 11 p.m. by Winter Springs police leaving the Parkstone Subdivision located at State Road 434 and Parkstone Boulevard. The rental truck was operating without its headlights on and committed another traffic violation.

Lt. Chris Deisler stopped the rental truck, and discovered items in the truck that matched the description missing items from homes under construction in Parkstone.

Police found that the homes had been entered and property had been removed fitting the description of the property that was located in the rental truck. A representative from the contractor building the homes in Parkstone responded and identified the property.

Cop gave sex, drugs to dealer

By Bill Kerna
Staff Writer

Federal agent testifies against officer Darlene Ladoczky

ORLANDO — A Sanford police officer accused of supplying cocaine to a drug dealer also provided him something else — sex.

A federal agent testified Thursday during a detention hearing that Darlene Ladoczky, a 12-year veteran of the Sanford Police Department, was so infatuated with convicted drug dealer Antonio Holley that she once stated she would "do anything" for him.

According to the agent, Lee Masleam of the U.S. Drug Enforcement Agency, anything included performing oral sex in Ladoczky's patrol car, supplying Holley crack cocaine for resale, and warning him of impending police investigations.

In return, Holley told investigators he provided money to Ladoczky on five occasions, ranging from $35 to $500. The $500 was to cover a mistake that was made in Ladoczky's checking account, and the smaller amounts for work on her hair and nails, Masleam testified. Ladoczky admitted to receiving money from Holley, Masleam said.

Ladoczky, 34, is charged with one count of conspiracy to distribute crack cocaine and two counts of lying to federal drug agents. The charges carry a 10-year minimum, mandatory sentence. She was granted a $50,000 bond.

Thursday by U.S. Magistrate David Baker during a detention hearing at Federal District Court in Orlando.

Ladoczky, who is pleading not guilty, was placed on home detention at her parents' Sanford residence.

She will be unable to stay in her Lake Mary home because her husband, 31-year-old Longwood police officer Robert Ladoczky, is licensed to carry a firearm. A trial date has not been set. Ladoczky is suspended without pay from the Sanford Police Department.

The key testimony during the detention hearing came from Special Agent

Raines retires from baseball

Sanford native ends 20 career in the Major Leagues

By Dean Smith
Sports Editor

It didn't take long for the rumors to become reality. Word started floating through the New York media on Tuesday that Sanford's Tim Raines would not be a part of the Yankees' 40-man roster, and after a meeting with manager Joe Torre, was considering retirement.

On Wednesday Raines said that New York was the only place he wanted to be and if he didn't make the Yankees he would not go elsewhere, that "There would be no more tries." On Thursday morning, the 1977 Seminole High School graduate made it official, announcing his retirement from the dugout at Tampa's Legends Field.

Raines ends his career in the top 100 all-time in just about every offensive category.

He hit 295 for his career and finished with 808 stolen bases, fourth on the all-time list behind only Ricky Henderson and Hall of Famer Ty Cobb and Lou Brock.

Raines, who is the all-time leader in stolen base percentage, stole 634 bases in 12 seasons with the Montreal Expos, leading the National League in steals four straight seasons from 1981 (his first full year in the majors) through 1984. He also had a streak of seven straight years (including 1980 at Class AAA Denver) of 70-plus stolen bases, including a career high 90 in 1983, while playing for Montreal.

In his career he played in 2,340 games and had 2,563 hits in 8,681 at bats. He scored 1,545 runs, had 418 doubles, 112 triples and 167 home runs, and drove in 959 runs.

School board considers changes to out-of-school suspensions

By Bill Kerna
Staff Writer

SANFORD — For some students, an out-of-school suspension can seem like an opportunity to spend time at the beach.

The Seminole County school district is looking into alternatives to giving students out-of-school suspensions, in order to provide increased supervision and educational programs.

The Seminole County School Board and the Seminole County Sheriff's Office are holding discussions regarding the formation of an out-of-school suspension program.

"We have been talking with the Sheriff's Office about forming a program," said Sandra Robinson, chair of the Seminole County School Board. "There are still many details to work out, such as whether to have a central location or many locations and how to transport the students."

The school-district is seeking to form a program for students who are dismissed from school for 10 days or less, which may take effect by next school year.

The program would likely involve addressing the needs of at-risk students in academic performance, decision-making, and conflict resolution, said Jim Dawson, director of school safety and student alternative placement for Seminole County.

Mentor programs and Compact classes are in place for students with low grades, and the Excel Alternatives program is designed to serve students who face expulsion. However, there is no classroom program in the school-district designed for students with out-of-school suspensions.

During the 1998-99 school year, the school-district issued 4,966 out-of-school suspensions, for an average of 27 suspensions per day, according to district records.

"We need to perform more research on how many students would be served on a day-to-day basis," Dawson said. "We also need to determine if this will be a mandatory program or voluntary."

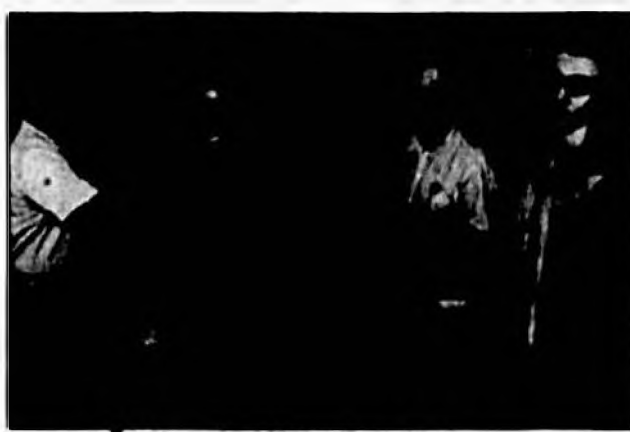

The possibility of providing a place for students to attend classes while serving out-of-school suspensions has been discussed by the School Board and Sheriff's Office for two years in an effort to decrease the number of crimes committed by suspended students.

Former employees of Dynatronics hold reunion

By Horace E. Paul
Special to the Herald

SANFORD — For some it will be over 40 years, for others, 10 to 20 years when former employees of Dynatronics and General Dynamics meet again for a memorable reunion.

A small dedicated group has put together a reunion for Friday and Saturday, April 14 and 15, 2000 at the Marina Hotel on Sanford's lakefront. Festivities will include a pool side cocktail party on Friday, and a dinner-dance Saturday evening.

Over 250 former employees have been identified and many more contacted by the reunion committee. It is expected that about 150 persons will attend the reunion, although more are still being sought.

It all began in 1957 when five engineers from Radiation, Inc.

founded a small electronics company called Dynatronics, located on U.S. Highway 17-92 in Longwood. Dynatronics prospered during the early days of an expanding national space program by supplying satellite electronics, ground support equipment and ground training gear. NASA was the main customer of most of the contracts.

After ten years of rapid growth, the company was bought out by General Dynamics and became the Dynatronics Operation of Those who feed are not the enemy

This hasn't been a good news week in Seminole County. Our kids have serious drug problems and apparently so does one of Sanford's cops.

Bad kids, bad cop provided most but not all of the bad news.

On Tuesday, Jean Metts was told she had to stop serving meals to the needy for at least 90 days.

From the tone of Sanford City Manager Tony VanDerworp's memo to Metts, you would have suspected she was a bigger threat to society than bad kids or a bad cop.

"Cease serving meals," VanDerworp said. "Failure to comply with a court order will result in a civil enforcement action with fines up to $250.00 per day and possible lien on the property" (407 West 4th St.)

Reluctantly, Metts posted signs. "No meals will be served until further notice."

If you've followed the Sanford soup kitchen fiasco, you are probably aware that seven of the city's Historic District citizens have sued the city for allowing Metts a special variance waiving the off-street parking requirement for the 4th Street facility.

The suit — and the intriguingly situation — isn't at all about parking spaces or about soup. It isn't something that is happening only in Sanford — it's happening all over America. If you don't like what's going on in your neighborhood, you sue someone.

It has been said that only the poor are forbidden to beg. This seems to be true about Sanford's poor. The town's mayor often has said he regrets there are so many pockets of poverty in Sanford. Pockets of prosperity would be more Larry Dale's bowl of soup.

Like it or not, there always will be haves and have nots in any city. Because the haves have so much, their most satisfying function in life should be to exercise their generosity to the have nots. This hasn't happened in Sanford — and we all lose.

Perhaps, in the next week before a mediation meeting someone will solve a dispute that should never have begun. If the people of Sanford need this much time to resolve a matter of conscience, how little will be left to protect and educate our children.

The headlines this week are alarming. High School students using and selling drugs. A Sanford police veteran of 12 years selling drugs and lying about it. Surely, Jean Metts and the volunteers who are feeding the needy, are not the same — nor the enemy.

Events honor author 'whose words changed the world'

LONGWOOD — In celebration of National Women's History Month and this year's theme "An Extraordinary Century for Women — Now, Imagine the Future," noted speaker Mary Ridgway, of Garland, Texas, will discuss the inspiring life of one of the 20th century's most remarkable women, Mary Baker Eddy, a pioneer in mind/body medicine.

Two talks will take place at area bookstores. The stores and times include Borders Books located at 880 W. State Road 436 in Altamonte Springs 7 p.m. Thursday, March 30, and Books-A-Million located at Seminole Towne Center in Sanford 7:30 p.m. Friday, March 31.

Ridgway is an authority on best-selling author Eddy and her trailblazing book, Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures.

Ridgway recently commented, "Mary

Baker Eddy's life is a source of inspiration to me as a woman. She challenged traditional thinking by providing a radical view of life itself — a view that supplied ultimate freedom and rights for everyone — freedom from sickness, sin and all the limitations placed on women and men."

Eddy emerged from feminine frailty to become a powerful force for reform, successfully making a lasting mark in such patriarchal strongholds as medicine, theology, and publishing. The ideas presented in Science and Health grew out of Eddy's own lifelong search for peace of mind and lasting wellness.

Undaunted by the strictures which confined 19th century women and having few of the basic rights that were reserved for men, she persevered despite illness, limited resources and a lack of formal education.

The talks will provide an insightful look at her life and enduring contributions to society, which are receiving acknowledgment today from those in the fields of healthcare, women's studies, journalism and business, and from the public at large.

Like many women today, Mary Baker Eddy triumphed over adversity. As a widowed young mother, she suffered chronic illness that left her with little hope for a purposeful and satisfying life. Yet by the time of her death in 1910, she had written Science and Health as well as 15 other works, developed weekly and monthly magazines that are still being published today, and founded the Pulitzer Prize-winning newspaper, The Christian Science Monitor. She built a publishing company and established a church to carry her message of the healing power of prayer throughout the world.

During the 150th Anniversary of the First Woman's Rights Convention in Seneca Falls, N.Y., Eddy was the focus of a one-woman exhibit at the Women's Rights National Historic Park.

Mary Ellen Snyder, chief interpreter of visitors services at the park, commented, "American women and men are learning that the stories of women's rights are not limited to the contributions of Susan B. Anthony and Elizabeth Cady Stanton. Other women, like Mary Baker Eddy, expanded women's rights in other ways, vitally important ways. We've found the story of Mary Baker Eddy is one that people are eager to discover."

Contemporary tributes honoring Eddy's pioneering work continue. In 1995, she was inducted into the National Women's Hall of Fame. The Women's National Book Association recognized her as author of "one of 75 books by women whose words have changed the world." The National Foundation for Women Legislators honored her with a 1994 Media Award for her contribution to journalism. TBS' Religion and Ethics Newsweekly named Eddy one of the 25 "most significant religious figures for Americans in the 20th Century." Most recently, Larry King, host of CNN's Larry King Live, held a one-hour exclusive interview with the publisher of Science and Health, Virginia S. Harris, for a fresh perspective on Eddy's prayer-based system of healing.

Science and Health has sold over 9 million copies and is published in 17 languages. For more information about this book and talks, call Borders (407) 772-0411, Books-A-Million (407) 328-4700, or the Christian Science Reading Room (407) 869-1490. A special display on Eddy will be at the Seminole Community College Library in Sanford during the entire month of March.

Holy Cross Lutheran continues expansion

Holy Cross Lutheran Church, located at 760 Sun Drive off Lake Mary Boulevard, was established in Lake Mary 15 years ago as more than just a place for Christian people to worship.

Under the direction and guidance of Pastor Paul Hoyer, the body of believers that make up the Holy Cross family are committed to doing God's work by helping the community. This mindset has brought tremendous blessings over the years as the congregation has grown from a small, core group of 40 people in 1984, to more than 200 baptized members today. A building expansion, completed in 1998, gave a total of more than 26,000 square feet of space for worship, fellowship and classrooms.

The staff now includes four full-time and 20 part-time employees. Currently, about 400 people come together to worship each weekend, and the current preschool program has 200 children enrolled.

Concerned for the whole family, Holy Cross has purchased a 5-acre site on Highway 46. This site will house a full day-care program, with infant care and before and after school care. A Christian school is also being developed on this site which will have first- and second-grade classes during the next academic year and expand through eighth grade in the following years. The Gospel will be emphasized from the stories and artwork to chapel services. The program will be unique, with a high level of parental involvement.

Another community-minded project that is being finalized is adult day care for the elders of the community. Pastor Hoyer said he believes this is a much needed service that has not been available before now.

The current youth ministry at Holy Cross exceeds 220 young people who participate in various group activities from music to scouting.

Recently, a group of the high school aged youth went on a 30-hour fast to raise money for food for the starving children around the world.

Holy Cross understands that the traditional Lutheran style of worship is not for everyone. While there is a traditional worship service at 8 a.m. Sunday, informal praise worship services at 5:30 p.m. Saturday and 9:30 a.m. Sunday are also offered.

There is even a family focused worship service that includes "Chancel Time", children's music, puppets and family ushers at 11 a.m. Sunday.

If women cannot be fathers, make them bishops

As a child, I never imagined there would be a shortage of Catholic priests or the slightest possibility that women might become priests.

If there was a need for more priests, I told myself I'd give it a try.

I remember using my mother's marble-top dresser as an altar. I'd light candles and stand at the altar saying Mass in Latin.

At Gonzaga High School in Washington, I later idolized several of my Jesuit teachers. They were Scholastics at the time, preparing for the priest hood. Mr. Hermy was one. Mr. Bourbon another.

Both were role models. They were intelligent young men, they were fair and they were determined to teach and serve well as priests.

I still see their faces, their white collars. And I hear them praying.

Any call I may have had faded once I went off in the Navy. One day at sea, a chaplain asked me if I were Catholic.

"How did you know?" I asked.

"Heard you," he said, laughing.

Yeah, I was talking like a Catholic sailor and that's not exactly what the Jesuits or many other orders were looking for in those days. Besides that, the seminaries were full of the proud to be pious.

You probably know, that's not the case anymore. They might even accept a clunk like me today. Boys not only don't want to be priests — priests don't want to be priests. There are more priests dropping out then dropping in.

Many Catholics believe it is time for the pope to make some changes — to allow priests to marry and to accept women as priests.

Not yet, John Paul II says. Not yet.

Yet — if this pope had his way — may last another century.

I would suspect that if the Roman Catholic Church is to survive in America, there must be new rules and qualifications concerning priests.

If a woman is allowed to become a priest, it may confuse her. "Father" wouldn't seem appropriate.

Perhaps, women could skip the priesthood and start out as bishops. They'll get to wear neater garb as bishops.

Reunion

General Dynamics Continued expansion saw the construction of the Lake Mary plant on Rinehart Road. This was first used for electronics manufacturing, then later turned over to Stromberg-Carlson, at that time, a wholly owned subsidiary of General Dynamics, for the manufacturing of telephone equipment. The plant is now owned and operated by Seimans.

The Dynatronics Operation also had a manufacturing plant and warehouse in Sanford, at 25th Street and Old Lake Mary Road. During this time, Dynatronics-General Dynamics set up and operated another plant for the off shore manufacturing of electronic circuit boards in the West Indies Island country of Barbados. At the peak of operation, Dynatronics-General Dynamics employed over 500 people composed of electronics engineers and technicians, manufacturing workers and staff personnel. After 22 years, General Dynamics shut down the Dynatronics Operation with some employees transferring to other divisions but many remaining in the Sanford and Central Florida area.

Of those remaining, some retired, others were employed by other area companies, and notably, many are still at the old General Dynamics plant in Lake Mary, working for the Seimans Operation.

Former Dynatronics-General Dynamics employees from places near and far are expected to attend the reunion. The committee has been in touch with ex-employees from around the nation, and has reserved a block of rooms at the Marina Hotel for all out of towners.

In the ensuing years, many former employees have passed away. The names of those have been identified and inscribed on a large board that will be displayed at the reunion. Appropriate prayers will be offered in their remembrance.

Deadline for notifying the reunion committee and the hotel for dinner reservations is April 7. Phone 407-814-8690 for additional information.

Educators to discuss character curriculum

By Bill Korns
Staff Writer

SANFORD — Reading, writing and arithmetic are not the only subjects taught in school.

The Seminole County School District will host its third annual Florida Character Education Conference from April 9 through April 11 at the Altamonte Springs Hilton Hotel. Representatives from the state Department of Education will also participate.

Key to the conference will be discussion of one-year-old requirements to include character development within elementary school courses. However, the school district already meets the new state requirements.

"We're very comfortable with it," said Dee Schumacker, director of curriculum for the school district.

The 1999 Florida Legislature passed a bill requiring that a character development program be provided in the elementary schools, similar to Character First or Character Counts.

The program must be secular in nature, and stress qualities such as attentiveness, patience, and initiative. In addition, school districts are able to offer ethics as subject matter.

The Legislature also required that all dropout prevention and academic intervention programs provide character development and law education.

Seminole County's Character Education Program is a district based K-12 curriculum. The program is designed to be voluntary in the sense that teachers decide if, when and how they present it within their curriculum.

"The importance of it is that it's an opportunity for children to explore issues such as caring, fairness, honesty, courage and respect," Schumacker said.

The Keys to Your Character program assigns a value or character trait each month. The value is matched with a month on the basis of any national observances. For instance, Patriotism was assigned for May, when Memorial Day is celebrated.

Each month teachers, guidance counselors, administrators and school support personnel receive the Key Poster and activity sheet for that month. The keys are shaped similar to an old-fashioned house key, with the Value of the Month printed on it.

The keys can be cut out and laminated. Teachers use the posters to make key chain and bulletin board displays.

 Madam. The DEA and Sanford Police Department investigated the actions of Ladozky for six months before she was arrested Wednesday.

Madam said his testimony was primarily based upon statements made by Holley, 26, of Sanford, as well as evidence and interviews with several associates of Holley.

Ladozky may have had a relationship with Holley that lasted three years, beginning in 1996, Madam testified. At first Holley was suspicious of Ladozky, but that suspicion eased when she performed oral sex on him in her patrol car on Sanford's waterfront, according to Madam.

Holley told investigators that early in the relationship, Ladozky tipped him off to a wiretap that had been placed on his phone. The tap did shut down two days later, Madam said.

In July, 1998, Holley's house was searched by police. After the search, Holley told investigators he met with Ladozky at a Winn-Dixie store, according to the testimony.

"She related that there were drugs found and that he was in trouble," Madam said. He added that "she would not let him be arrested," (Holley) made that clear."

Madam said that Ladozky continued calling Holley at his business, Jam Land Music, located at 1207 Park Avenue, which sells boot-leg compact discs and tapes as a drug front.

Holley told investigators that in September of 1999, Ladozky warned him that federal agents were going to arrest him, and expressed concern for her own career. Records indicate that from Aug. 1 to Sept. 30 of 1999, Ladozky placed 250 phone calls from her home phone to Holley's cellular phone. Holley then spent Oct. 14 through Oct. 28 in Jamaica to "cool out," Madam said.

However, undercover officers had already videotaped purchases of crack cocaine from Holley on Aug. 25, Sept. 2, Sept. 9, and Sept. 17.

Ultimately, 72 grams of crack were seized. He was arrested Nov. 22, and agreed to cooperate with agents in the investigation of Ladozky's actions in the hope of a more lenient sentence. Madam said that no promises were made to Holley about how his cooperation would impact his sentence.

Holley pleaded guilty on Jan. 26 to two counts of possession with intent to distribute cocaine, and will be sentenced in April.

In addition to providing Holley with information about investigations, Madam said Ladozky also supplied Holley with about an ounce of crack cocaine on one occasion.

In the early fall 1999, Madam said that Ladozky met Holley at his aunt's house at 105 Country Club Circle and gave him about one ounce of crack cocaine which had been seized at Lake Monroe Terrace, a public housing project in Sanford. Holley told investigators he re-sold the cocaine.

Police have no physical evidence that Ladozky provided Holley with cocaine, and she denies the charge. After his arrest, Holley told investigators the exchange took place, Madam said.

Ladozky's lawyer contends that without physical evidence to prove his client supplied Holley with crack cocaine, the conspiracy charge is weak.

"There is a good chance that charge can be defeated," said Charles Greene, who is representing Ladozky.

The most devastating portion of the hearing came when the prosecution played an audiotaped conversation that took place Jan. 28, in which Darlene Ladozky told Wonda Grooms, the mother of Holley's two children and his current girlfriend, how to avoid being stopped by undercover police officers following her. She told Grooms that she could call 911 and have the cars pulled over.

"If they're sneaking around, that's the chance they take of being pulled over by a police car," Ladozky said on the tape.

Madam said that the sport-utility vehicles following Grooms were, in fact, undercover police cars. The call was a set-up. Grooms had agreed to work with investigators in the hope of helping Holley.

At the time the call was placed, Ladozky was responding to an emergency regarding a home invasion and possible shooting, Madam said.

During the conversation, Ladozky told Grooms that "chances are it's probably DEA or CCIB (City-County Investigative Bureau)."

She agreed to check the tag numbers of the vehicles as provided by Grooms. In addition, she warned Grooms to be careful.

"Just because Tony (Holley) was arrested doesn't mean the heat is off," Ladozky said on tape. "They're going to keep on going."

Madam said that on two occasions when later interviewed by federal agents, Ladozky denied police vehicles had been mentioned during her conversation with Grooms.

During the hearing, Assistant U.S. Attorney Matthew Perry argued that Ladozky poses a flight risk and a danger to the community.

"This woman took an oath as an officer and violated that oath to the extent that she put the safety of her fellow officers in jeopardy," Perry said.

Ladozky was a member of the Special Investigations Unit housed at the Seminole County Sheriff's Office, which handles drug investigations in the Goldsboro area of Sanford.

Defense attorney Greene countered that this is Ladozky's first arrest, and she has a long record of service to the community. She is close to her parents, and will be wearing an electronic monitoring device, Greene said.

Shackled at the ankles and wearing blue jeans and a red T-shirt, Ladozky remained silent throughout the hearing. She burst into tears when her husband was called to the witness stand, and mouthed the words "I love you." She shook her head "no" during Madam's testimony about the sexual encounters that Holley claims took place between the two.

Robert and Darlene Ladozky have been married for 10 years. The 12-year veteran Longwood police officer testified that he has never known his wife to use drugs or associate with drug dealers, insisting that the charges against her have yet to be proven.

Meanwhile, Robert Ladozky said under questioning by the prosecution that he did not know his wife had taken money from Holley, or that she placed more than 200 phone calls to him from their home. Perry then asked him if he knows his wife as well as he thinks he does.

"I do know my wife," an irritated Robert Ladozky said. Following the hearing, Perry declined to comment on whether Robert Ladozky is under investigation.

Darlene Ladozky's father, Robert Sears, testified that he sees his daughter several times each week and that they have a close family. When the prosecution asked if he had any knowledge of the activities that his daughter is charged with, he said he was "shocked and dismayed" by recent events.

"I find it hard to believe, to be honest," Sears said.

 "The big problem is how to transport them," Dawson said. "We need to decide whether to provide busing or have the transportation be through the parents."

Volusia County and Hillsborough County both offer alternative programs to out-of-school suspensions. However, the programs are relatively small. Volusia County has two programs serving four schools.

The school district will also need to find a facility large enough to house the students from across the district, or find multiple regional sites. The number of suspensions changes on a day-to-day basis.

The Sanford Housing Authority and Boys Town currently operate out-of-school suspension alternative programs.

The program through the Housing Authority operates at the Harbor and provides supervision and educational services for part of the regular school day. Participating schools refer students directly to the program, and personnel work with families.

Boys Town offers clients the opportunity to have suspended students attend activities at the Boys Town Emergency Shelter location in Sanford. The program operates during normal school hours and is voluntary.

The Excel Alternatives Center, located on Lake Mary Boulevard in Sanford, is the largest facility in the school district for students who are having trouble in school. The program is designed as an alternative to expulsion.

Administrators have the option to decide which students are recommended for the program.

Compact programs, available at the high school level, are designed for students who have fallen behind on class credits.

In addition to out-of-school suspensions and expulsions, the school district also issues in-school suspensions and Saturday school assignments to student who run ahead of school policies.

LAKE MARY - It was business as usual for Fairway Jeep and Nice 'N Easy in the City of Lake Mary Department of Parks and Recreation Men's Friday Night Diner Near Shov Hitch Softball League at the Lake Mary Sports Complex last week.

Unbeaten Fairway Jeep ran its mark to 9-0, scoring early and often in posting a 25-10. Run Riot victory over Hill's Gang.

Nice 'N Easy also had an easy time of it, erasing deficits of 2-0 and 6-3 before scoring seven runs in the bottom of the third inning and coasting to an 18-9 triumph.

Raines announces retirement

By Dean Smith
SPORTS EDITOR

TAMPA - It didn't take long for the rumors to become reality. Wood started flouting through the New York media on Tuesday that Sanford's Tim Raines would not be a part of the Yankees' 2000 40-man roster and after a meeting with manager Joe Torre was considering retirement.

On Wednesday Raines said that New York was the only place he wanted to be and if he didn't make the Yankees he would not go elsewhere, that, "There would be no more ties."

On Thursday morning, the 1977 Seminole High School graduate made it official, announcing his retirement from the dugout at Tampa's Legends Field.

He then concluded his 21-year major league career in the afternoon in a starling ovation by throwing out the first ball prior to the Yankees' game with the Boston Red Sox.

Raines won two World Championship rings in his three years with the Yankees, but left last year to go to Oakland, where his veteran leadership and talent helped a young Athletics squad become a contender in the American League Western Division.

But the 40-year-old outfielder/designated hitter was forced to leave the team after the All-Star break when it was discovered that he had Lupus, which was affecting his immune system and shutting down his kidney function.

After successful treatment for the disease, Raines re-signed with the Yankees and was hitting .203 with two doubles and a stolen base during Spring Training games. But the defending World Series Champions also have a backlog of players who can fill the outfield and designated hitter positions and with one of the highest payrolls in baseball, Raines his chances of making the club very slim at best.

Raines, the son of Sanford's Ned and Florence Raines, was trying to stay in the game long enough to play in the same outfield with his eldest son, Tim Jr., who played in the A ball with the

But now he and wife Virginia will get the time to go watch "Little Rock" play in the minors as well as watch their youngest son, Andre, play football and baseball at Seminole High School. Andre, a sophomore, was the starting quarterback for the 515 junior varsity football team last fall.

Raines ends his career in the top 100 all-time in just about every offensive category.

He hit .295 for his career and finished with 808 stolen bases, fourth on the all-time list behind only Ricky Henderson and Hall of Famers Ty Cobb and Lou Brock.

Raines, who is the all-time leader in stolen base percentage, stole 634 bases in 12 seasons with the Montreal Expos, leading the National League in steal four straight seasons from 1981 (his first full year in the majors) through 1984.

He also had a streak of seven straight years (including 1990 at Class AAA Denver) of 70 plus stolen bases, including a career high 90 in 1983, while playing for Montreal.

In his career he played in 2,340 games and had 2,563 hits in 8,681 at bats. He scored 1,545 runs, had 418 doubles, 112 triples and 187 home runs, and drove in 959 runs.

He also hit .270 in 34 playoff games with the Expos, Chicago White Sox and Yankees.

Other career highlights include making the All-Star team nine straight years and being named the Most Valuable Player in 1989 at Oakland, winning the Louisville Slugger Silver Bat for being the top hitter (.334) in the National League in 1986, being named the Minor League Player of the Year by Topps and The Sports News in 1980, being picked as the starting second baseman for the Southern League All-Star Game in 1979, was named the Rookie Player of the Year by The Sporting News and finishing second in Fernando Valenzuela in the official Rookie of the Year voting in 1981.

With these credentials, Raines should be getting a call from the Hall of Fame in Cooperstown, New York when he becomes eligible for induction in five years.

Offensive woes still haunting Raiders softball

By Dean Smith

JACKSONVILLE - The Spring Break didn't do anything to help the Seminole Community College softball team's offensive output as the Raiders were held to two runs on nine hits in a doubleheader loss to Florida Community College at Jacksonville on Wednesday.

The Raiders are now 19-19-1 overall and 2-9-1 in the Mid-Florida Conference. SCC was supposed to have played a conference doubleheader with Daytona Beach Community College on Thursday and travel to Winter Haven for a doubleheader with Polk Community College starting at 5 p.m. today.

The homestanding Stars scored a pair of runs in the Mid-Florida Conference doubleheader in the bottom of the second inning and the score remained 2-0 until FCCJ exploded for three runs in each of the fifth and sixth innings to post an 8-0 victory.

The Stars' offense remained red-hot in the opening innings of the second game, scoring three runs in each of the first and second innings, giving the hosts four innings in a row of scoring three runs, and coasting to a 6-2 triumph.

SCC's only runs of the day came in the top of the second inning of the second game. Lake Mary's Jeannie Manz led off the frame with a single to right and Lake Howell's Jen Gillespie followed with a double. Manz then broke the scoring ice by racing home on an infield single by Orviedo's Lisa Field.

Jodi Wood was then hit by a pitch to load the bases and after a strike out, Gillespie scored when Deanna Osborn drew a walk.

Amy Fazio paced the Raiders' offense in the first game, going 3-for-3 with a double. Kelli See SCC, Page 28

The Patriots made their hosts sweat scoring five runs, chasing Graves and forcing Greyhounds coach Bob McCullough to bring in Jason Wyler to put out the fire and preserve the victory.

Kids have great night as New Smyrna Speedway opens 2000 season

By Hank Sanders
SPECIAL TO THE HERALD

SAMSULA - It could be argued that the kids had the best time as hundreds took advantage of the opportunity to ride around the track in a race car.

The spectator races also seemed popular, and we plan to run them as long as we have drivers!

The Super Stock feature had the best car count and was one of the best races.

Jim Winterstein started the #13 Oldsmobile in last place, but burned through the field to win the race. Ed Zikowski drove a great run, and came up second over Brandon Johnson, Charlie Mires, and GT Maloney the action was fast and furious in the Late Model feature as Tim Laurent and Randy Dye got locked in a fierce battle for the lead.

On lap #13, Dye and Laurent made contact, and both went to the rear. Chad Altman inherited the lead and took the win. Chris Lawrence ran second, Dan Harris, Robbie Smith and Laurent rounded out the top 5 spots.

Bob Andrecheck started up front in the Sportman feature and never looked back on his way to victory lane. John Nisbaum ran a strong second, rookie Bobby Lee Good won the heat and was third at the line. Gibbs and Love were 4th and 5th.

Tim Clark, the 1999 champ held off a hard charging field of 5 to get the Mini Stock trophy. Martin Pierce looked very strong in 2d. Charlie Staats ran third, Engstrom and Stromahl were the balance of the field.

David Rogers did it again as he easily won the Super Late feature with several interruptions for rain. It looked like Travis Kittleton was headed for Victory Lane, but the rain caused him to spin and hit the wall.

Afterwards, Mike Goal looked very smooth in his Chevy and finished a respectable 2nd. Barry Wiloughby, Billy Pratt, and Jeff Emery were the top 5 at the pay window.

Robert Hamm's #52 Modified had no problems winning the feature. Gary Frosh tried hard, but 2d was the best he could get. Mark Vandevender's Phase 2 copers Chevy ran great, and finished behind Frosh. Host and Southard completed the top 5.

The Strictly Stocks were down on cars, but not on excitement as they swapped the lead several times. Joe Williams won it, Tracy Jackson ran a close 2nd. Trammate, Scott Vanalstein was 3d, Chris Kirkgard was 5th.

New Smyrna Speedway this Saturday night in the seven regular FASCAR divisions of Late Model, Limited Late Model, Modified, Sportman, Mini Stock, Super Stock (AKA - Bombers) and Strictly Stock.
