Now Let There Be Some Big 'Good' News

The Herald earnestly hopes that all Boy Scout troops in Florida, through their directors, are urging immediate action on the part of national Boy Scout executives in behalf of the Scout troops of the storm-stricken area.

This is a time when money should be forthcoming from national headquarters for the rebuilding of the structures owned by the Scouts in South Florida. The Herald understands that nearly every one of the troop quarters, and their equipment, in that sixty mile path of the storm was practically destroyed. It even looks as if the troops must disband unless some outside help is given, and given quickly, for their rehabilitation.

And the Scouts did such wonderful work in the storm area. The Miami News says that they were among the first organizations to offer their services. Before it was really known that the storm would be serious, the Scout Executive had offered the services of the troops to the city manager of Miami, and shortly after the worst of the storm was over Saturday, as many Scouts and Scoutmasters as could be reached were mobilized and set to work.

They served as messengers at the citizens committee headquarters, and at all relief stations they acted as hospital aids; they prepared and dispensed food at relief stations; they acted as traffic officers; they gathered trash; they helped to clear streets of broken glass; they helped to find homes for refugees; they helped people make their homes habitable; they directed strangers and dazed Miamians to places they were seeking; they helped distribute clothing; they assisted at police headquarters; one Scout saved 15,000 units of anti-toxin and a large quantity of ether that were submerged in the basement of a drug store; another Scout so familiarized himself with the stock of medical supplies at the relief station to which he was detailed, he was indispensable; another Scout took charge of a first aid station and treated more than a hundred wounds caused by nails. Another Scout acted as assistant to a surgeon who was treating the seriously wounded.

The list of services rendered by those fine Scouts could be prolonged through many pages. They were not expecting to be praised, either, when they were doing their good turns. They were "prepared" to give wonderful help in those terrible hours, because they are products of Scoutcraft training.

But the boys have lost their troop cabins and halls. They have lost equipment it has taken them years to get together. Surely now is the time for other Scout troops not only in Florida but throughout the United States to send urgent appeals to National Headquarters of the Boy Scouts of America that immediate financial aid, and in sufficient amounts, be sent to the troops that lost property in the storm.

A Clipping Worthy of An Honored Place

If you make a practice of clipping from newspapers and magazines pages that you think are beautiful or useful or out of the ordinary, you likely have the tribute to the dog, delivered some years ago by Senator Vest in the course of a Missouri court trial, where he was acting as counsel for a man whose dog had been shot by a neighbor.

If you don't happen to have a copy of the great speech or would like to get another copy for some one who would appreciate the sentiments so well expressed, you will find them in this space today. The Herald came across them in the Miami News, republished, the News explained, because some one happened to read them in a frame where some one had placed a newspaper clipping of the tribute to do it honor, and asked to see the words of the fine speech published again.

Thinking of the dogs you have known and loved you know that Senator Vest was speaking from his heart when he said to that jury:

"The best friend a man has in the world may turn against him and become his enemy. His son or daughter that he has reared with loving care may prove ungrateful. Those who are nearest and dearest to us, those whom we trust with our happiness and good name may become traitors to their faith. The money that a man has he may lose. It flies away from him, perhaps, when he needs it most. A man's reputation may be sacrificed in a moment of ill-considered action. The people who are prone to fall on their knees to do us honor when success is with us may be the first to throw the stone of malice when failure settles its cloud upon our heads. The one absolutely selfless friend that man can have in this selfish world, the one that never deserts him, the one that never proves ungrateful or treacherous, is his dog. A man's dog stands by him in prosperity and poverty, in health and sickness. He will sleep on the cold ground where the wintry winds blow and the snow drives fiercely, if only he may be near his master's side. He will kiss the hand that has no food to offer; he will lick the wounds and sores that come in encounter with the roughness of the world. He guards the sleep of his pauper master as if he were a prince. When all other friends desert he remains. When riches take wings and reputation falls to pieces, he is as constant in his love as the sun in its journey through the heavens. If fortune drives the master forth an outcast in the world, friendless and homeless, the faithful dog asks no higher privilege than that of accompanying him, to guard against danger, to fight against his enemies, and when the last scene of all comes, and death takes the master in its embrace, and his body is laid away in the cold ground, no matter if all other friends pursue their way, there by the graveside will the noble dog be found, his head between his paws, his eyes sad but open in alert watchfulness, faithful and true even in death."

TEAPOT DOME TUMBLES

ORLANDO REPORTER-STAR

All the legal defenses brought to the support of the Teapot Dome oil lease taken by the Sinclair oil interests could not have it from the charge of fraud.

Although a federal judge in Wyoming could find nothing wrong with the lease made by Albert Fall when he was secretary of the interior, to the Sinclair Oil Company, the United States Circuit Court of Appeals holds that the lease was obtained by fraud. An order is made for the immediate cancellation of the lease and the oil company is enjoined from further trespassing upon government grounds.

Albert Fall may be too hardened to appreciate the full purport of the language of the court in the following opinion which goes into the records of the courts and into the newspapers of the world:

"A trail of deceit, falsehood, subterfuge, bad faith and corruption runs through the entire transaction. The lease was procured through fraud and collusion and should not have the sanction of the courts."

It is noted that Albert Fall was a member of the Liberty League, a group of men who were known as the 'Teapot Dome' group.

Europe, Having Recovered

From its war debauch, acts like a drunkard waking up next morning on the sidewalk of the bar-room floor. He looks reproachfully at the bartender and says: "You got all my money, now take care of me."

The bartender in the eyes of awakening Europe is Old Uncle Sam. France and Germany are friends again. England and Germany are friends, but how they all hate this country.

H. G. WELLS' new book presents Englishmen of the Wells type trying in vain to solve the mystery of the American character, and "the goodness of the grayish-faced, slow-spoken Americans in gray, who watch your face as they talk to you. They talk about themselves as we never do, etc."

THEN HEAR D'Annunzio always charming, replying to an American publisher who offered real money for the D'Annunzio autobiography.

First D'Annunzio tells how "the purgatory of myself existed, tortures my soul," then says he couldn't accept "an offer of gold, dazzling gold, jingling vile gold, your American employers have authorized you to offer me in payment for the soul of a poet."

"I say, never."

"Never will my writings be defiled by American gold."

"That settles that, for the present."

IT REVEALS a startling change from the other D'Annunzio, not the poet, as he sat before the war at a table in Durand's opposite the Madeleine, eating strawberries out of season at a franc apiece, paid for by an American, and eating them as rapidly as a chick picking up grains of corn.

THEY ALL came here to borrow money, and most polite they were about it, their spines as pliable as any willow branch.

We sent out men, and our money, fools that we were to muddle in their fight, and now we get what we deserve. Japan watched, struck not a blow in Europe, lent not a yen, and is respected.

WE NEED not take seriously a poet who says, "All Alpine peaks belong to me," while standing just now on the peak of foolishness.

But President Coolidge and others responsible for the welfare of the United States should know that the feeling of Europe generally is expressed accurately enough by D'Annunzio in these words: "If I could interpret my feeling of hatred for America in terms of fire and flame, it would rise higher above even the burning crater of the Vesuvius."

THE SUGGESTION that this nation should enter the world court, and submit important questions, or any question whatever to European judges filled with hatred of the United States, is so preposterous, you wouldn't expect even a chipmunk to entertain it.

WHAT THE United States needs is no league of nations or world court nonsense, but 5,000 airplanes, the best and the fastest that can be built, trained pilots, plenty of submarines.

Nations recovering from a war drunk can not be expected to appreciate kindness or generosity, but they do remember their war headache. The necessary thing is to be ready to give them another one, on a bigger scale, in case it should be necessary.

WE COULD afford to build an adequate flying fleet. Secretary Mellon's management of the treasury makes anything possible. Three months income for the first quarter of the present fiscal year is one billion, five millions and a half of dollars, eighty-five millions more than last year. Why not spend a few of those millions, even two or three billions if necessary, to make this country absolutely safe, with such a fleet of submarines and airplanes, adequately manned, as would inspire in European nations the respect they always pay to superior force.

PROFESSOR JEROME Davis of Yale, reports an interesting talk with Stalin, the real ruler in Russia. Stalin says Russia is willing to pay the money that Jewish American bankers lent to Kerensky. Stalin really should do nothing of the kind. Those childish bankers grabbing at usurious interest rates and discounts ought to digest that lesson.

They are now lending billions of the American people's money to various concerns in Europe. Many of those billions will never come back.

However that's another story. The important point made by Stalin is that it might pay the United States to be friendly with Russia. Stalin said that "Russia now needs the United States, possibly the United States might need Russia's friendship."

THAT STATEMENT interests President Coolidge more than any other American. He can't help knowing how Europe hates this country and he is responsible for the country's welfare, as President and as head of the army and navy.

Why not make a friend of Russia, a great country standing between Europe and Asia, the one that has always been friendly with the United States, until the child-like bankers tried their usury game and our provincial statesmen consented to give them billions of dollars?

Tom Sims Says

Even though you hear a lot about self-made men, you can't think of any men who are not that.

Friday is unlucky. It usually comes the day before pay day when you are broke.

Every man is entitled to a living wage, but this doesn't seem to apply to the women.

It is noted that Albert Fall was a member of the Liberty League, a group of men who were known as the 'Teapot Dome' group.

CRIME

TAMPA TIMES

J. Henry Johnson is the name of one of the circuit court judges in South Carolina. Judge Johnson presided at a recent term of the court of general sessions for Orangeburg county, that state. He is reported as having listed 10 causes of crime, according to his observation of the situation, in the charge given by him to the grand jury serving during that court term. This list is interesting. It is more - it is worthy of study. Read it for yourself:

"First, the carrying of concealed weapons.

"Second, the persistent violation of the prohibition law.

"Third, illiteracy and ignorance. Eighty per cent of the criminals are those who never reached third grade in school. Fifteen per cent were high school men, and 5 per cent wore college men.

"Fourth, the tendency to confuse license with liberty.

"Fifth, the failure of petit jurors to do their duty.

"Sixth, the failure of judges to do their duty.

"Seventh, delay in the administration of justice. Lawyers are to blame for the law's delay. The practice of law in a great many instances has degenerated from a profession to a game.

"Eighth, operating under antiquated criminal law and laws and procedure, which need reformation.

"Ninth, failure of the parents to rule their homes. The breaking of the home is the failure of parents. Dances begin now at 12 o'clock.

"Tenth, failure to carry the tenets of our Sunday School religion into the week days."

Judge Johnson has covered the matter concisely and completely. Anyone who is not a fool is aware of the fact that the things which he has set are the causes for the exceedingly unhealthy situation in which this country finds itself in regard to crime. It can be safely said that if the condition in regard to the tenth one of the causes of crime which he has listed was reversed from what it is the whole problem would come so nearly being settled that it would no longer amount to a problem. A few among us do carry the tenets of their Sunday school religion into the week days. They do not indulge in criminal practices. But the day when all will do so will likely never come, nor is the pity.

All of the other things mentioned by Judge Johnson are contributing factors to the situation, however. This indicates that if we are to be through with the crime wave there must be a clean-up and a change all up and down the line - beginning in the homes. After all, anything for the real good of the country must have its inception in the homes of the country. All the other things are merely contributory to the general results, either for good or bad.

THEY WILL REBUILD

MONTGOMERY ADVERTISER

As this is written nobody knows the full extent of the Florida disaster, which was shared by Alabama and Mississippi. The deadliest blow struck Miami, Hollywood, Fort Lauderdale and possibly Pensacola, although as this is written the dispatches had not given us much information as to the fate of Pensacola. In all probability, Pensacola fared very much better than Miami, and would have fared better even if the wind velocity had been as high in Pensacola as it was in Miami. Buildings in these gulf cities have a way of resisting the most furious storms that the West Indies can send against them. These houses if less beautiful, were built very much more leisurely and with greater care.

Miami and Hollywood grew too fast. Many of their attractive houses must have been rather poorly constructed, many of them, indeed, were mere eggshells - hundreds of them too tight to stand their ground in the face of a terrible hurricane.

Be that as it may, Miami, Hollywood and Fort Lauderdale will probably rebuild as rapidly as Galveston, Santa Barbara, San Francisco, Yokohama and Tokyo rebuilt. In September, 1923, two great Japanese cities were more completely ruined than Miami is, and Hollywood is no greater sufferer than either of the Japanese cities that were laid low by the earthquake. Writers predicted that it would take Japan 25 years to recover from the effects of the earthquake disaster, and so it may, for the rebuilding of cities is bound to involve the builder in debt, while thousands whose property was destroyed may be ruined for life. But so far as the Japanese cities themselves are concerned, they have recovered.

No doubt the devastated Florida communities will learn some valuable lessons from this visitation about the construction of houses. It is to be expected that they will profit by their recent experience, but that their spirit will remain undaunted.

BRAINS AND BRAUN

MIAMI NEWS

When James J. Corbett announced himself a contender for the world's heavyweight championship and said he proposed to use scientific methods to win it the burst of laughter which greeted it in thousand saloons echoed from Corbett's modest shack in Hagen Valley, San Francisco, to "Nigger Mike's" busy third emporium on New York's East Side. Had Corbett said that he proposed to match brains with brawn, they would have understood. But to couple science with pugilism was, to the average fight follower, like dressing up a hog in silk hosiery.

Jim Corbett was not only the championship title but also his contention that the man who uses both his head and his hands, instead of his fists exclusively, is the one to win your money on. It is interesting to note that in Philadelphia the recent fight in Philadelphia was substantiated. Corbett's early argument, for while Dempsey gave a considerable exhibition of strength in the new Encyclopaedia Britannica, issued before the Philadelphia fight, E. B. Osborn, London Post sports authority, discusses this subject most interestingly. He says modern heavyweight adopts a more intensive style than his predecessors, who attempted to obtain a decision from the first, in what the modern heavyweight uses the preliminary rounds to test the opponent's methods and get an insight into his plan of campaign.

Gene Tunney has made boxing a study. To him it is an art. He knows, as every man knows, that the first requirement is strength, and he also realizes that endurance is a necessary asset. But he never permitted himself to believe that the requirements are the only ones needed for the successful boxer. He was quick to accept good old Jim Corbett's line of reasoning, that the man who uses both his head and his hands is the one who depends upon his strength.

LOVELY PARTY GIVEN LAST NIGHT FOR A BRIDE OF THIS MONTH

The lovely new home of F. F. Dutton in Bell Air, with its quaint balcony and Spanish architecture, is an ideal place for entertaining, and was especially attractive Tuesday evening when Mrs. Frances Dutton and Miss Baby Hoyne were joint hostesses, entertaining in honor of Miss Lillian Shindler and Karl E. Jones, whose marriage will be an interesting event of Oct. 28.

Guests of the approaching Halloween season were the decorations of black baccarat fitted with numerous small black and white. The lights were shaded with white, Jack-o'-lanterns, and other shades emblematic of this season and they cast a soft glow over the party scene.

Following the card game, an advertising contest afforded much merriment. The prize for this Halloween novelty being won by Miss Marjorie Dempsey.

The tables for the game of bridge were done in orange and black and after the usual number of progressions, the prize for top honors, a black and white, was won by Miss Marjorie Dempsey. The money top score prize, a smoking set, went to Peter Schaal. For failing to score her points and honors, Miss Fernie Lee Bell received the low score prize, a black cat, tied with a huge bow of orange maline. The cut prize, a deck of cards, was won by Paul Stine.

Following the card game, Mr.

Mrs. Walter Raines Is Hostess at a Shower For Mrs. A. E. Hughes

A very pretty social affair of Tuesday afternoon was the kitchen shower given by Mrs. Walter Raines at her home on Holly Avenue, honoring Mrs. A. E. Hughes who moves on Oct. 18 into her lovely new home on Elm Avenue.

Spanish love vines and bright hued silks combined with ferns were artistically used in decorating for this occasion.

Several unique and interesting contests relative to kitchens were played during the afternoon, the main feature being the Word Contest. Mrs. Herbert Harvey won the first prize, a vanity powder puff, for having made the most words from the words Kitchen Shower. The booby prize, a box of Dixie Cleaners, went to Mrs. G. H. Chapman.

After the games and contests the gifts were presented by the hostess. Mrs. Hughes was the recipient of many useful gifts for her new home.

Refreshments consisting of ice cream and cake were served late in the afternoon. About twenty friends enjoyed this pleasant afternoon.

Mrs. Connelly Hostess At Delightful Party For Members of Club

Entertaining in her usual charming manner, Mrs. A. P. Connelly was hostess Tuesday at her lovely home on Park Avenue, the guests being members of the Duplicate Bridge Club.

Quantities of exquisite pink radiance roses lent their beauty and fragrance in decorating for this affair.

The luncheon table was laid with a handsome lace cloth and centered with a silver bowl filled with pink roses buds and feathery sprigs of asparagus ferns. At either end were silver candlesticks holding unshaded pink tapers. Miniature baskets in the forms of pink ropes held pink mints at each place while the place cards were most original, each card having written on it a question in code.

The key to the code was found on the reverse side. The deciphering of these questions afforded much merriment. At 1 o'clock a delicious five-course luncheon was served.

The afternoon hours passed quickly in the exceptionally interesting game of duplicate, the prizes, lovely peach-colored, fan shaped vases, were won by Mrs. Samuel Palcaton and Mrs. F. E. Roumillat.

Church Women Urged To Join Study Class

All women of the Church of the Holy Cross are invited to join the study class conducted by Miss Helen, Miss Edith and Miss Mary. Sessions will be held every Tuesday afternoon beginning Oct. 15 at 8 o'clock in the chapel. These will be most interesting and the work that is being done by the diocese may be carried in this way.

Reinhart and Hoyt May Be Called For Hurling Duty Today

Tarpaulin Is Spread Over Field Despite Weather Forecast of Clear and Warm

Ruth Is Switched In Tuesday Game

Yankees Have Failed So Far to Display Prowess in Hitting

(By Melan Bell) ST. LOUIS, Oct. 6.—(AP)—After playing the first "World" series game on the installment plan, the Yankees winning and taking the second game to one, New York today was looking for a change of pace as they prepared for the fourth game. They wait a disposition in both camps to see what the weather man has to say about what he said when he issued a prediction of fair weather and little change of temperature.

The contrived forecast at game time yesterday was clear and cool. It was not clear, and rain in the fourth inning threatened to wash out the contest. The game was finally completed but not until a 25-minute recess had been declared. The intermission gave the record-breaking crowd of nearly 38,000 each a chance to see some clever juggling of the big field covering tarpaulin in view at Sportsman's Park by a score of ground-keepers.

In spite of the forecast, rain fell in the fourth inning. The tarpaulin is down and will remain so until the sun definitely changes the weather. Fair weather predictions were in evidence for the fourth test of the series. Miller Huggins, who makes no secret of his pitching thoughts, has definitely decided on Ruth Hoyt to serve. Rogers Hornsby, after mentioning Arthur Reinhart as a possible pitcher every day, finally drew the left-hander's name from his bag.

Although only 25 years old, Hoyt has been pitching professionally in baseball for nine years and has played with varying success in three World's series. Reinhart is Hoyt's age, but lacks the New Yorker's experience. He is a left-hander who is able to help in either offense or defense playing.

Ruth is switched in the lineup for St. Louis in the pitching rotation. Miller Huggins, however, made a change yesterday by sending Ruth to left field with Meusel replacing Ruth in right field. The experiment did not give Ruth a chance in left field and after Meusel caught Douthett's fly to start and showed he could play either position.

The faithful fans of St. Louis encouraged by yesterday's clean cut victory, were prepared to cheer 38,000 strong for another victory today. Jesse Haines played wonderfully yesterday, not being content with pitching a shutout game, but hit a home run. He therefore placed himself in the 1930 World's series hall of fame. However, Billy Southworth also did much to capture the game for the Cardinals after having hit a home run in Sunday's game, enabling his team to tie the count for the series in that game.

With a total of 15 hits garnered from Cardinals' pitchers in three games, supporters of the Yankees were wondering if their favorites have made any arrangements to get in some runs. Sherdel, although defeated two to one, permitted only three runs and Alexander was required for four and Haines gave only five. The Cardinals in the last two games have been hitting as all corners and leaving Manager Huggins to call out the reserves including any visiting firemen, as put them out.

Both hurlers are 33 yesterday's game was underway with no advantage to either side in reaching six innings. The Yankees had a lead of three runs in the first three innings, but they were not broken in the fourth. Haines hit a home run and Alexander walked and Meusel struck out. O'Farrell on the new field.

The run was scored but Haines and O'Farrell crossed every base and the Yankees were back in the lead. The Yankees were one run behind in the seventh inning. The Yankees were one run behind in the seventh inning. The Yankees were one run behind in the seventh inning.

EASTERN TEAMS SPECIALIZING ON FORWARD PASSES

Huddle System Has New Converts With Yale, Harvard Taking up Practice Begun By Princeton Tigers

NEW YORK, Oct. 6.—(AP)—Eastern football teams in polishing their offensive for Saturday's game are devoting much time to forward passes. The huddle system is gaining new converts, the group mode of signal barking, introduced to the big three by Bill Roper at Princeton, has now become a part of the new order of things at Harvard, where Arnold Horween is injecting western tactics into reorganized Crimson system. Tad Jones, also won over, is smoothing up the middle with his Yale Bulldogs after watching its success against Boston University.

The Crimson, struggling upward after disastrous seasons, saw a tornado of golden gifts from Geneva pass their way last week to a 16 to 7 victory when assaults on the Harvard forward wall failed at critical moments. Both Geneva touchdowns were direct results of air assaults.

Pale, in piling up 51 points on Boston University, exhibited a versatile overhead attack that came as a surprise after the rather close plays of the 1925 season. Princeton has a short passing game and the brilliant broken field running of Slagle, Prendergast and Williams to thank for the conquest of Amherst.

The Dartmouth flood that swept over Hobart for fifty points was aided materially by five successful forward passes of eleven tries. Pennsylvania State can attribute two of six touchdowns against John Hopkins directly to the overhead game. Georgetown passed for the only touchdown in tying Pittsburg.

Air offense throw fear into large camps as small rivals suddenly took to the air. The Army for instance, survived several Detroit sorties that drove the Cadets' back almost to the last chalk line.

Both teams have reputations for speed but not a stellar base has yet been registered. Severald and O'Farrell have cut down what few attempts have been made at stealing.

NEW YORK, Oct. 6.—(AP)—The State Boxing Commission has ruled that Jimmy Murphy, Cleveland heavyweight who was to have opposed Munn of Nebraska, at Madison Square Garden Friday night, is not sufficiently formidable. Matchmaker McMahon agreed to find a new opponent for Munn.

ATHLETE FALLS DEAD DENTON, Tex., Oct. 6.—(AP)—Oran Roberts, 18, of Hows, a freshman at the North Texas State Teachers College here, fell dead while running at the college athletic field yesterday. Heart disease was declared the cause.

The diplomatic corps in Washington is made up of responsible folk, in the main. Shawkey. He saved what was left from the wreck but in turn, retired to let Ben Paschal walk for him. Myles Thomas was permitted to finish the game, then on its last leg. It had been over to all intents and purposes since the fourth inning.

As was the case in the previous game of the series only one fielding play was conspicuous in an afternoon of defensive work, well, but not flashily done. Dugan contributed this to rob Hafey, who needed it.

Short—But She's Husky

Miss Irma Ward, 18, is only four feet three inches tall—but she claims to be the strongest girl in America. Note the muscular development of her arms and shoulders in these pictures. She lives in Los Angeles.

Southern Gridiron Teams Hold Heavy Workouts In Preparing For Contests

(By Associated Press) General weather over the South now spirited practice this week among Southern conference football eleven, and critics were unanimous in the opinion that the various contenders for the 1926 gridiron title were fast approaching mid-season form.

Tulane's Green Wave and the Golden Tornado of Georgia Tech were working hard for the clash Saturday in Atlanta which has been conceded the feature conference contest of the week. North Carolina meets South Carolina and Alabama's championship Crimson Tide plays the Mississippi Aggies in the other championship games within the circuit.

In addition, Clemson College meets North Carolina State, Florida plays Mississippi University and Louisiana State encounters Tennessee. A supplementary feature to the championship games within the conference will be the sixth inter-conference contests in which six Southern teams will participate. Georgia goes to New Haven to take on Yale, Indiana University entertains the University of Kentucky, Maryland plays on Chicago's mid-week gridiron, the Texas Aggies will be hosts to Sewanee, Virginia Tech plays Dartmouth and Washington and Lee goes to Princeton.

Four conference teams go outside the conference for games. Virginia Military Institute plays Roanoke College, the University of Virginia meets Lynchburg, Auburn has an encounter with Howard scheduled, and Vanderbilt clashes with Henderson-Brown.

Movie Rosters Include Many Sidetracked Hopes HOLLYWOOD, Oct. 6.—(AP)—The roster of famous names at many motion picture studios is in reality a catalogue of sidetracked ambitions. And, which generally is unusual in cases where one has failed in ambition, most of the great artists are happy in the success they did not expect.

In the Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer studio it was found that Lon Chaney, as a boy, dreamed of wearing the mantle of a Richard Mansfield, and, uncting, on the stage, the works of Shakespeare. Instead, he became a stage comedian and dancer—then, by a trick of fate, king of character actors of the screen.

What They Wanted To Be Ramon Navarro wanted to be an opera singer—and instead he became the hero of "Bon Hur." Antonio Moreno would have been a priest—if fate had not turned him instead toward the screen. Norman Kerry's ambition was to be an engineer—and he graduated from an engineering college before he was sidetracked to the fame in the movies.

Conrad Nagel wanted to be a lawyer and in college studied law. The stage claimed him, however. Carmel Myers sought a career as a writer. She was taken from newspaper local room to the screen. Eleanor Boardman studied art. Her ambition was to rival Rosa Bogheur. She still paints little things—but for her friends and not for fame.

William Haines wanted to be a policeman. "Later in life I thought I'd be a great banker, but a job in a bank cured that," he says. Gilbert A. Business Man John Gilbert was to be a business man. Born of stage parents, he sought commercial work. He quit as a salesman, returned to the stage and then came pictures.

LOCAL GRIDDERS BEGIN WORK FOR GAME IN PALATKA

Only Three of Players Are Nursing Injuries Received In Saturday's Game; Walker Back After Lay-off

By BILL DUBOSE Sanford High's football team has started a hard week of practice in preparation for its second game of the season in Palatka Saturday. The squad is in good condition and there are very few injuries from the game last Saturday.

Notwithstanding the good showing the team made in defeating the Leesburg eleven there were a number of faults that were apparent during the game and Coach Wheelchel is trying to correct these before facing Palatka. Palatka is expected to have a heavy team and the contest is expected to be one of the hardest on the schedule.

Lanier, a promising candidate for tackle, who was unable to play Saturday on account of an injured wrist was in uniform Monday and is expected to put up a hard fight for the first team. Captain Thompson, Maxwell and Edonfield, all of whom sustained slight injuries in the Leesburg game, are expected to be out of the lineup for two days but will be in shape for the game next Saturday.

Coach Wheelchel, while pleased with the way the team played against Leesburg, is working hard on the weak points in the line against Palatka. The aerial game of the team was practically a failure last week and some hard work is being done on new pass formations.

Gordon Walker has again donned a uniform, reporting for practice Tuesday. He may be used against Palatka. Walker, although very light, is one of the best broken field runners on the squad and if his work continues as it has in his last few workouts it is certain that he will make a regular berth on the eleven.

The line, which was the big surprise in last Saturday's game, continues to improve and the expectation that the boys received in last week's game is doing them a lot of good.

It is estimated, it would take a million men, working day and night, for the last time resulting from industrial accidents in this country.

Tire Firms Set New Record Last Quarter

NEW YORK, Oct. 6.—(AP)—Private disatchers to Wall Street say that production of automobile tires and tubes by Akron rubber firms established a new high record for the third quarter. The output in the Akron district is said to be more than fifty per cent of the country's tire output. Conservative estimates placed the total tire production for the quarter in excess of 9,000,000 in the Akron district, where daily production has been around 130,000 casings and 160,000 tubes, and at present is only 5 to 10 per cent below these figures.

We Spend 10% more To Make Hupmobile Worth 25% more

The premium of 10% that Hupmobile spends to insure better materials, more thorough inspection and closer, more accurate measurements, pays handsome returns to the Hupmobile Six owner.

For as the direct result of such scrupulous attention to engineering and manufacturing detail, the Hupmobile owner may expect an addition of at least 25% to the useful life of his car.

That Hupmobile actually delivers this extra value is proved by the number of Hupmobiles driven longer after the majority of moderately priced cars are traded in.

Hupmobile today maintains the same high standards in building its Six that it has rigidly adhered to in 18 years of quality manufacture.

The Six is not merely outstanding in smoothness, in power and in acceleration, but it is built to retain those characteristics through the years.

You will note on the Hupmobile Six advanced features that you would expect only on cars of much higher price, such as thermostat control of the cooling system, vibration damper, four-wheel brakes, cooling system filter, etc.

But you will find such features added, not as afterthoughts but engineered into and part of the thorough quality that makes up the value-appeal of this car. A telephone call will bring the Six model you wish to inspect to your door—the roomy, fully equipped passenger Sedan, or the attractive two-passenger touring car with handy rumble seat for two extra people. And the Hupmobile Six by all means before investing your money in any car.
