Breakfast Vote Delayed Until Board Present

By LEONARD KRANDORF
Herald Staff Writer

After almost two hours of discussion the Seminole County School Board minus two of its members decided Wednesday night to table the proposal for a school breakfast program until all five members can be present at the January meeting.

Board chairman Robert Feather and member Pat Tyson were not present.

Board members Alan Keith, Roland Williams and William Kraft listened as members of the audience stepped up to the podium to express their thoughts on the program.

First to speak on behalf of the program was Louise Crawford, representing Seminole Community Action (SCA).

Citing a recent nutrition report by the Children's Foundation she noted the report " blames officials at all levels of government for failing to realize the potential of a breakfast program." She added the report also says "the school breakfast program is a kind of capsule of the fears, prejudices and misunderstandings which have made public commitment to the next generation so faltering."

After quoting from the report Mrs. Crawford said, "We have needy children in middle income families because the way our lives are structured, in these times of inflation to meet family needs, it is almost mandatory that both parents work."

"And with everyone getting up and dashing in different directions trying to catch a bus whether intentionally or otherwise our children are going to school hungry and it is certainly not due to lazy parents, it is due to lack of food in the house, or lack of time in which to prepare a meal," she said.

Next to address the board was Willie Fossett, president of the Midway Elementary PTA. "I urge all of you to look around to see what would be beneficial," he said, "and if you look at the Midway area you will see it is a heavy migrant area and so many parents get up early and have to be on the job at 7 in the morning."

He also presented the school board with a petition signed by 100 parents who "are very interested in getting this much needed program."

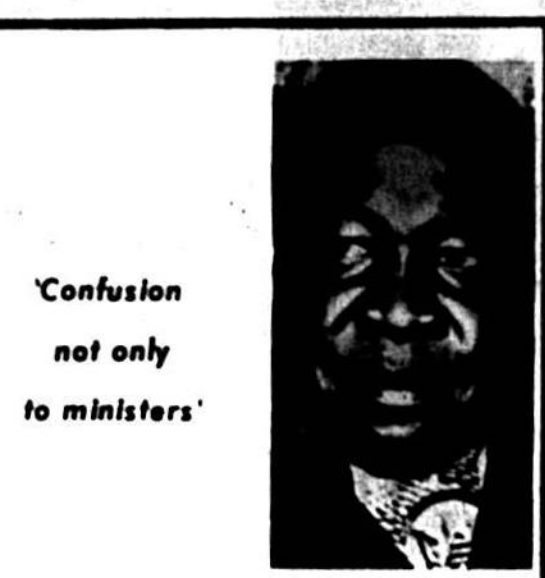

"The government is giving us the money so why don't we take advantage of it?" he asked.

"Under the law which established the breakfast program, the federal government would pay for the food and supplies needed for the program."

Next to speak was Becky Coxon, representing the displaced homemakers of Seminole County. "I feel I had something to say here," she said, "and although I do not have a prepared speech I would like to say that it is a myth to believe that the breakfast program would alter the family structure."

"It is a chore now just to pull the children out of bed to get them to eat breakfast at home and I can tell you they resist," said Mrs. Coxon, the mother of two.

"I'm sure this program would be against... he's for

Too Much Loving In Uganda?

"If Egypt and Israel can sit down and move toward working out their differences, some open, honest sharing and discussion of the problem of the courthouses here might lead to a solution," Circuit Court Judge Demetrius Salfi said today of the county commission policy of denying keys to the county facility in Sanford to all but its own members, its staff and maintenance personnel.

The majority of the county commission — Chairman Bob French and Commissioners Dick Williams and Bill Kirchhoff — again this week denied a request from Clerk of the Circuit Court Arthur H. Beckwith Jr. a key to the courthouses.

"The key is only the symbol of a much larger problem that needs to be openly worked on in Seminole County," Judge Salfi said.

"I know the frustration Art Beckwith is contending with in not having a key," said Salfi today, noting that he, too, had to wait more than 20 minutes the Friday after Thanksgiving to gain the situation of the security guard and get into the courthouses.

Meanwhile, Bud Dixon, clerk of the circuit court in Polk County and president of the Florida Association of Circuit Court Clerks, said today he knows of no other county in the state where the clerk of the circuit court is denied a key to the courthouses.

"It is very difficult for me to comprehend this," Dixon said. "No other clerk in the state, being played by some women," the radio said.

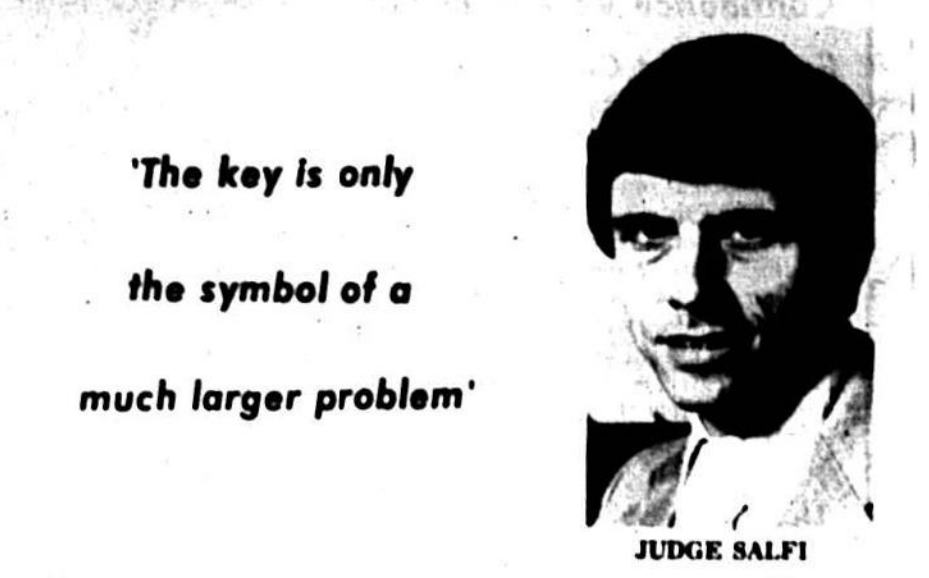

He gave them a "serious warning," it said, because he has received "numerous complaints of this nature which, in some cases, have led to men killing their wives."

Amin told wives their husbands often work for 10 years to pay their dowry, and then they go with "big people in the government who are fat and wealthy."

He said if such men are found out — whether they be ministers or top government officials — "they will be put in jail and dealt with according to the law."

He said he does not want people in government to play with other people's lives.

He said he has received about this double game

The Key: Clerk Chief 'Appalled'

County Administrator Roger Newswender said today he has been told that locks on the courthouses doors were changed several years ago — after several mysterious disappearances of both personal and county property.

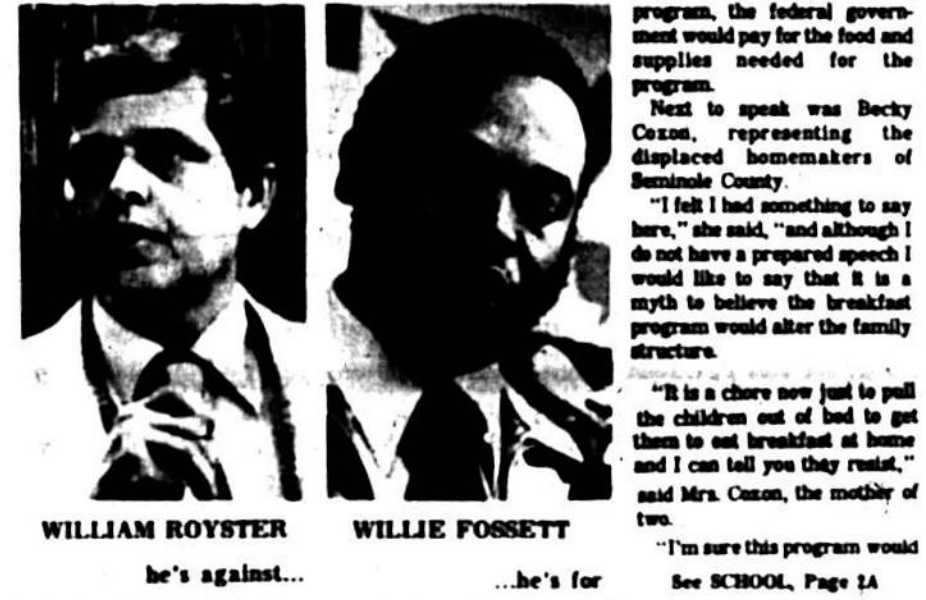

"I am appalled that the board of county commissioners of any county would deny a fellow elected constitutional officer keys that he needs to perform his duties. I'm not certain they can legally do that. It is incumbent on the county commission not only to provide the clerk with space but also certainly access to that space," Dixon said.

Saturday Bus Service Beginning For Christmas

By MAX ERKLETTIAN
Herald Staff Writer

The service started in Sanford last week will be extended to Saturdays this weekend and next to accommodate Christmas shoppers.

The Saturday service, which will run Dec. 16 and Dec. 23 only, will begin as the result of rider requests, according to Pat Hamrick, Orange, Seminole, Osceola Transportation Authority (OSOTA). The added service will amount to an added cost of $90 for each Saturday. That expense will be paid by Seminole County and through revenues from ridership, according to Laura Fritel, county planner.

"Normally, when you start a service," said Hamrick, "you begin during the week and add weekend service later. This is not the beginning of a permanent weekend service, but it will give us an opportunity to see how much interest and ridership we would have on Saturdays."

All routes will run their normal through-the-week schedules with Saturdays from 6:30 a.m. to 6:30 p.m., according to Hamrick.

In addition county crews began erecting signs for bus stops today. Crews are expected to finish posting the signs today or tomorrow, according to county officials.

Even though the signs are being put up today, they will likely be changed according to rider needs, said Hamrick.

The signs will be erected at intervals according to population

Final Talks, Vance Leaves Empty-Handed

United Press International Secretary of State Cyrus Vance held a final round of talks with Israeli leaders in Jerusalem today but failed to get agreement on a peace treaty he sought to achieve by the Camp David target deadline of Sunday.

In Washington, a White House official said late Wednesday night "Egyptian President Anwar Sadat has gone as far as he can go." Sadat said Wednesday he was ready to sign the next even before the Camp David deadline of Dec. 17, Israel, he said, was holding up the pact.

In Paris, King Hussein of Jordan reiterated his opposition today to the Camp David agreements and the Egyptian-Israeli peace talks and called now for a general Middle East peace process that would encompass the entire Middle East. "Peace should be based on different premises than those of Camp David," Hussein said at the end of a four-day visit to France.

Prime Minister Menachem Begin said after meeting with Vance for 90 minutes that "certain agreements" remain in the Egyptian and Israeli positions. He called a special session of his cabinet for Friday, the Sabbath eve.

Vance will now return to Cairo and then go on to Washington on a return from President Carter, who instructed the secretary to return Friday — with or without the treaty.

The continuing disagreements, which Vance tackled in Israel, included an Israeli rejection of U.S. ideas approved by Sadat earlier in the Vance shuttle.

The disagreement appeared to make it impossible for a treaty to be concluded by Sunday's deadline as set in the Camp David peace accord.

Carter's decision to cut short Vance's mission and his abrupt remarks to date on Israel's negotiating stand also appeared to be a final attempt to pressure the Jewish nation to sign a treaty by the Sunday deadline. Vance said today he returns to Washington on Saturday.

Washington was unrelated to the Middle East question, but added: "We will continue, as the prime minister said, in pursuit of peace. This is our common goal and we are determined that goal will be achieved."

After his talk with Begin, Vance went on an unscheduled drive to Bethlehem and on the road to Hebron in the occupied West Bank of Jordan.

He later told reporters he wanted to see the Church of the Nativity in Bethlehem, the town where Jesus Christ was born. He said he did not drive all the way to Hebron and his spokesman, George Sheehan, said he did not make with West Bank setbacks.

WORLD IN BRIEF

Confidence Vote in Britain Could Oust Callaghan

LONDON (UPI)—A cautious House of Commons has dashed the government's "winning defense" on its anti-inflation program, prompting Prime Minister James Callaghan to call a confidence vote today that could force an immediate general election. Callaghan challenged Parliament to continue his minority Labor government or face elections after the combined opposition and a handful of his own extreme left-wingers united Wednesday to defeat the cornerstone of his anti-inflation package.

U.S.: Africa Role Hurts Cuba

WASHINGTON (UPI)—Relations between Cuba and the United States have little chance of improving as long as the Castro government maintains more than 40,000 soldiers and advisers in Africa. The State Department made it clear that despite Fidel Castro's decision to release thousands of political prisoners, Cuba's military role in Africa continues to cloud relations between Washington and Havana.

Quake, Shocks Rock Iran

STOCKHOLM, Sweden (UPI)—Southern Iran was rocked by a strong earthquake with several aftershocks today, the Defense Department observatory at Hagfors said. There was no immediate word on damages or casualties.

'Last Chance' For Shah

TEHRAN, Iran (UPI)—Prominent Iranian politicians today presented Shah Mohammed Reza Pahlavi with a "last chance" plan that would make the shah a nominal figurehead and turn all power over to a crown council. The shah met to discuss the plan with former Prime Minister Ali Akbar, who has been serving as a go-between in talks between the shah and his political opposition.

Vietnams Attack into China

HONG KONG (UPI)—Armed Vietnamese intruders today shelled a border outpost, seriously wounding a Chinese security guard, Peking charged today. The reported attack came after China's Vice Premier Li Hsien-nien accused Vietnam of serious provocations and sternly warned that "China's forbearance has its limit."

Dollar Gauge For OPEC

ABU DHABI, United Arab Emirates (UPI)—The Organization of Petroleum Exporting Countries will increase oil prices for 1979 and keep the dollar as its yardstick for prices, Qatar's oil minister said today.

Vatican: Pope Never Married

VATICAN CITY (UPI)—The Vatican today said printed reports that Pope John Paul II once was married or engaged are "spurious devoid of any foundation whatsoever." The Vatican spokesman, the Rev. Romeo Panerai, told reporters the rumor was first denied shortly after the pope's election Oct. 26 but has cropped up again in various Italian publications.

approach, more shoppers will probably take the bus. When the service started Dec. 4, 50 percent rode the bus. Ridership increased steadily to 80 the next day, 85 a week ago Wednesday, 111 last Thursday and 123 Friday.
Part of the reason for the high usage Friday was a promotion by Sanford Police which paid half the fare for riders who presented sales slips from a pizza store, according to Hamrick. Of Friday's riders, 20 presented sales slips to get a free ride home, he said.
"Friday is always an excellent day for ridership," said Hamrick, "and the promotion by the merchants helped."
GDOT has had several favorable comments about the service, according to Hamrick. Riders have also been using the information line to get their questions answered.
One of the questions riders frequently ask concerns the reduced rate for the elderly and handicapped. Persons over 65 years of age and persons with physical handicaps ride for 50 cents, according to Hamrick. Standard fare is 80 cents.

SCHOOL PACTS FINALLY INKED

Two more contract signings took place Wednesday night as the Seminole County School Board unanimously ratified the new contracts with the non-instructional personnel (NIPSCO) and the bus drivers. # ...School Breakfasts Shelved help me and other people who feel guilty if we can't give a hot or cold meal to our children," she said.

Representing the Central Florida Legal Services, Tuba Lev, told the board he had contacted several counties throughout the state who have a breakfast program.
Lev said in his contacts with the other counties "they said transportation and supervision were not an obstacle."
At the last school board meeting, the board expressed concern over the added cost of transportation and supervision for such a program.
Superintendent William Layer disputed Lev's comments and presented figures on the school district transportation and supervision costs.
He noted just to change the bus times for the elementary schools for the school year would cost about $100,000 including salaries and wear and tear on the bus.
Currently, the buses first take high school students to school and then pick up the elementary and middle school students.
Under the proposed bus schedule start earlier by taking elementary school students to school early for breakfast and then start on their regular route.
Supervision costs for the school year would be about $11,000 to pay an average teacher to supervise at just the 27 elementary schools, according to Layer.
"I want to speak to the board as Georgia Lovette, representing the Health Systems Agency of Central Florida."
She noted it was a goal of her agency to get a breakfast program for students because various studies had shown that lack of a proper breakfast "does affect the emotional stability and the way a child learns in class."
A similar comment was expressed by Ouida Stacy, a family nurse practitioner with the Central Florida Migrant and Community Health Center in Sanford.
"I think the school board has a unique opportunity here to make sure the children learn better," she said. "I think many times if the parents give the child a dollar for school it will be spent at the local 7-11 on candy bars, and potato chips instead of on something nutritious."
"A different view was expressed by William Rogers of Sanford, a certified public accountant who attended the meeting on another issue.
Citing newspaper articles dealing with the breakfast program proposal he said, "I have some questions that need to be answered."
"I read one quote which said something like just because the government allocated the money that it has to be a good idea," he said, "but I have problems with that statement because that means that we would have to accept any program or budget that was ever presented. We would really have difficulty complaining about something like the school budget if we took the view."
Rogers added that the real problem "is with the parent in not knowing what or how to prepare a nutritious meal. I would suggest we spend our money in educating the parent on how to make a nutritious meal," he said.
He concluded his comments by noting "if parents have love and concern for their kids they would get their priorities in order and think about improving the education system and not getting the schools to take the place of the parent."
Superintendent William Layer expressed disagreement with those who had spoken for the program. "If we weren't feeding one meal a day already (lunch) I would be in favor of providing one meal a day," he said.

He said he disagreed with the idea that not eating breakfast affects a child learning. To support his claim he cited Seminole County students consistently high scores on state achievement tests.
"Also we have to watch out that we don't mistake our role and function as not being an educational agency but instead being a social agency," he said.
"and I really believe that the breakfast program is of marginal value in our efforts to stay an education agency," he said.
School Board member Roland Williams as he has done in the past stated his support for the program.
"To show that support, after the discussion ended he made a motion to start the program on a pilot basis but it was not seconded.
Board member Kroll then mentioned to table the proposal until the next meeting in January hoping all the members will be present. The motion passed 14-0.
After the vote, Kroll noted he was still undecided how he would vote but did believe all five board members should be present to vote on the proposal.
Kroll and Feather indicated another vote would probably be held against the proposal while Mrs. Taylor had said she was undecided but was leaning toward the idea that breakfast was a parental rather than a school district responsibility.

...Keys

"I was not involved in it," said Nosenander.
Beckwith has been requesting a new key periodically since then — "whenever I encounter a new problem."
"I intend to go back to the board and ask again every time I have a problem. The only way the commissioners can be apprised of the fact we have a problem is to bring it to their attention," said Beckwith, adding, however, he has problems on an almost daily basis of getting his employees into the Sanford facility.
"Chert work goes on seven days a week. Personnel from my office cover court in Casselberry, Alhambra Springs and Oviedo. They are carrying public money back to the courthouses and have to get it at night to place it in safekeeping."
"Sheriff John Pelt has been very nice to me and has a deputy accompany my girls and walk with them at the courthouse door until they can get into the building," Beckwith said.
"Apparently, commissioners recognize there is a problem gaining entrance to the facility since they each have a key and have given their staff members keys," the clerk said.
Judge Hall said today, currently there is a case before the Florida Supreme Court concerning the powers of the judiciary and the county is the evidence locker.
"A decision should clarify the situation and then each will know what his powers are," said the judge. In response to a question, Hall said that Beckwith could file a petition in the circuit court asking for an appropriate order under the circumstances.
French said he has received no reaction from anyone to the commissioner's latest denial of a Beckwith request. He said he could not personally consider giving Beckwith a key without considering giving every department a key.
"The bottom line is who is responsible if there is a commotion in the courthouse. That is the county commissioner," French said.
French added that certain county staff had offered Beckwith a key in the past and Beckwith has refused. Beckwith said he does not want to be given a key in that fashion — that he wants to be officially given a key to the facility.
"The clerks are custodians of not only the official records, but also most keys large and heavy articles of evidence that may include marriage, copies of births or currency in evidence vaults."
"If the board of county commissioners are the 'keepers of the keys' while the clerk has the prime responsibility of protection and safeguarding of those records and evidence, it is certainly, to say the least, an unusual situation," said Dixon.
Beckwith said today, although the commissioners have master keys to the offices where the public records are kept and even to his personal office, they do not have the keys to the evidence locker.
Beckwith also said members of the public who have called him are "incompetent" that the county does have keys to the office, yet he has not been permitted to have a key to the front door of the courthouse.

Lake Mary Hearing
The first of two planned public hearings on a proposal to build a $207,000 federal Community Health Center to improve health care in the area from 10:30 a.m. to 12:30 p.m. Tuesday at the Lake Mary City Hall.
The hearing will be the first one on the city council's agenda.

'Coming Out Of The Cults'

FLORIDA IN BRIEF

Military Waits Sign Satellites In Orbit

CAPE CANAVERAL (UPI) — Air Force scientists awaited signals from space early today to determine if a pair of '777' military communications satellites successfully made it into orbit.

New Trial For Coppolino?

FORT LAUDERDALE (UPI) — Three laboratory physicians say Dr. Carl A. Coppolino, sentenced to life in prison 11 years ago for killing his wife, was convicted on "atrocious" and "exaggerated" testimony.

Body Identifications Sought

DAYTONA BEACH (UPI) — Volusia County medical examiners labored over dental records today to try to confirm that two bodies found in the woods along Indian Lake Road are those of young Michigan men missing since Aug. 12.

They were last seen in Daytona Beach with John Carter Cox Jr., of Tampa. Cox was arrested Monday in Tampa on eight counts of forging money orders.

'Only Necessary Force'

TALLAHASSEE (UPI) — State prison officials, following an investigation, have said that guards applied "only that force necessary" during a scuffle to control condemned murderer John Spenselink.

Struggling To Readjust To World

The murders and mass suicides of the People's Temple in Guyana have focused attention on two questions: Why does a person join a cult? What is the aftermath for those who have left?

Many people fear they will never return to full functioning after leaving a cult. Of course, leaving any restricted community can pose problems.

They regret being out of step and behind their peers in life pursuits new friends in an uncomprehending or suspicious world.

Depression: With their 30-hour regime of ritual, work, worship and community, the cults provide members with a sense of purpose.

Others simply panic and avoid dating altogether. One man remarked: "I had been pretty active sexually before I joined. Now it's as if I'd never lived those experiences, because I'm more inhibited than I was in my high school days."

Freedom is great, but it takes a lot of work leaving the cult, said: "I come in and can't decide whether to clean the place, make the bed, cook, sleep or what. I just can't decide about anything and sleep instead."

in which they must plan and execute all their tomorrow on their own.

Certain individuals cannot put together any organized plan for taking care of themselves, whether problems involve a job, school or social life.

Cancer: Progress And Problems

Research Takes New Directions

By ALTON BLAKESLEE

The Herald Staff

NEW YORK — Harsh pills taken daily may one day prevent some major human cancers.

This hope, based on initial successes in animals, is being put to test in people using synthetic forms of vitamin A, known as retinoids.

In mice and rats, the special retinoids have prevented cancers of the bladder and breast, and there are some indications they might also be helpful in preventing cancers of the lung, esophagus and pancreas gland, says Dr. Michael B. Sporn of the National Cancer Institute.

The initial human tests are with people who have had low grade cancers of the bladder and so face a high risk of recurrence.

Dr. George R. Frost Jr., of Massachusetts General Hospital and Harvard Medical School is directing this study, just starting, with patients at five institutions.

Time will tell whether retinoids are effective in humans, and are completely safe.

Dr. Sporn emphasizes that retinoids are chemical cousins of vitamin A, and that no one should try taking lots of that vitamin itself. This wouldn't protect, and high doses of vitamin A can seriously damage the liver.

The retinoid study is one of numerous new directions in cancer research aimed at cure and prevention, with a ferment of activity now leading researchers, in interviews, point up some of them.

Very encouraging results are being obtained in Italy and the United States in treating some breast cancers with a combination of drugs following surgery.

My parents say I'm too picky. Ron says if I don't make up my mind by next summer, he'll start dating other girls.

I don't want to lose him and I don't want to marry him. I know good men are hard to find, but I don't want to marry him unless I'm rid of this hang-up about his size. Can you help me?

Better care, and quicker spread of new advances are possible today.

Here, a Computerized Axial Tomography (CAT) scanner takes X-rays at different angles for a cross-section picture of unparalleled clarity. The use of the CAT scanner, at first confined to the brain, now is being expanded to such organs as the lung, liver and pancreas. The patient is positioned in the CAT unit and remains motionless as the X-ray tube is rotated around the body for a series of exposures.

Cancer Center in New York. "We all feel the mortality rate in breast cancer is falling," says Dr. C. Gordon Zelen, director of the Florida Comprehensive Cancer Center in Miami. "There are indications good things are happening, but it won't be reflected in the statistics for some years. Women treated with drugs and surgery seem to have a lower death rate, but we can't quite prove it yet."

Breast cancers, and some others, are being found to have "markers" or specific factors that can guide treatment — for example, whether the female sex hormone, estrogen, would be good or bad treatment for an individual. These make it possible to do a better job of tailoring chemical treatment for the individual.

The strategy of a team approach to treatment is increasing survival, too. Instead of having the surgeon, radiologist and physician who prescribe drugs take their turns one by one, the trend now is for the three to plan the patient's total treatment together.

"This should have tremendous impact on survival statistics in five years," says Dr. Frank J. Rauscher, senior vice president for research of the American Cancer Society.

Further, cancer research now is attracting more bright young investigators, who no longer regard it as a hopeless cause. There are all kinds of possibilities now of approaching cancer. Now the idea is that we can get handle on it," says Dr. Thomas.

Better care, and quicker spread of new advances out into nearby communities, are being achieved by comprehensive cancer centers across the country. 20 of them are bringing the best available prevention, treatment, diagnosis and follow-up.

One finding can stimulate another. Cancers that are growing and dividing rapidly are particularly susceptible to attack by combinations of drugs, each of which can act at a different stage of cell division. So scientists are investigating the possibility of making other cancers, such as those of the lung, colon or breast, grow more rapidly, so they also can be attacked more effectively.

Animal studies are scheduled to investigate this proposal, Dr. Rauscher reports.

The outlook in one form of lung cancer, called oat cell cancer, "has changed from the worst to the best" because it grows rapidly and is vulnerable to drugs, says Dr. Gerald Body of the University of Texas Cancer Research System.

Much research is aimed at reinforcing a person's own immune system, enabling that defense to overcome an invading cancer.

One severe problem, says Dr. Rauscher, is that in 65 percent of patients the cancers have already spread or metastasized when they are first detected. Another is that it may take 10 to 15 years from the time a new treatment is conceived until it is widely accepted. It takes time to plan and organize the experiment, five years to demonstrate its value in a small number of patients, then perhaps another five years of experience with larger numbers of patients to prove the results are significant.

And "we know now that tumors are more varied or heterogeneous than we had first thought," says Dr. Zelen. "Instead of there being 100 different morphological entities, there may be 100 subsets of cancers, even though they may look alike superficially.

"But," he adds, "with the progress made to date, we can go on and refine the questions. I'm optimistic that the questions can be answered."

All agree on the essential need for basic research, learning how nature works. What switches genes on or off? Exactly what happens in cell division? Can new techniques of gene splicing give insights for cancer control?

Baldy Protests Tab To Get 'Trimmed'

DEAR ABBY: This is to protest that a bald-headed man has to pay the same price for a haircut as a man with a full head of hair.

It isn't fair. I think the barber should charge the baldheaded man half-price for a haircut. Awaiting your reply.

MR. L.P.B.: So what should a barber charge the man whose hair is long and thick and requires twice as much time for a haircut? Sorry, it all evens out. Anyone who feels that the trimming he's getting isn't worth the trimming he's getting should stay out of barber shops.

DEAR ABBY: My son is living with a woman who is not at all fond of him. On Christmas Eve the family gathers at my home for an exchange of gifts and I know my son will bring her a gift.

DEAR MR. B.: So what should a barber charge the man whose hair is long and thick and requires twice as much time for a haircut? Sorry, it all evens out. Anyone who feels that the trimming he's getting isn't worth the trimming he's getting should stay out of barber shops.

DEAR ABBY: I've been seeing Ron (made up name) for seven months. He's everything I like in a boyfriend — intelligent, considerate, good sense of humor and he puts up with my business. My parents are crazy about him and I love his parents. He's 38 and I'm 23. The problem is he wants to marry me and I keep putting him off because I think he's too short for me. I'm 5 feet 5, and Ron is only 5 feet 4. We are exactly the same weight, but my hands and feet are bigger than his.

I feel conspicuous when we're out together. He just doesn't seem masculine enough for me.

My parents say I'm too picky. Ron says if I don't make up my mind by next summer, he'll start dating other girls.

Garden Circles

Hibiscus Magnolia. Hibiscus Circle of Sanford Garden Club held a December meeting at the home of Mrs. J. M. Fabry in Lake Mary. This was the annual Christmas party for Circle members. Mrs. J. A. Edwards was co-hostess. The party rooms were decorated in the traditional manner. The beautiful Christmas tree was made by the hostess.

Mrs. Fabry's daughter Tess greeted the guests at the garden entrance assisted by her faithful dog, Gleaner. Harvest Joy, and the parking of cars. The hostesses served fruit dessert, tea, coffee and juice to the fifteen members present. After a short business meeting there was an exchange of gifts, many of which were handmade articles, followed by an old-time talk.

The next meeting will be Jan. 12, at the home of Miss Gertrude Rose.

Magnolia Circle of the Sanford Garden Club held the December meeting at the home of Mrs. F. L. Elmore. A plant exchange and luncheon followed the business meeting. Mrs. Jerome Kloss entertained members with an organ recital of Christmas music.

The next meeting is Jan. 11 with Mrs. Gordon Chapman of DelRay as hostess.

DON'T LOSE INTEREST IN YOUR CHECKING ACCOUNT.

Your checking account can tie up a lot of money. First, there's your minimum balance. Then there's the amount you have to keep for your monthly bills. And you may be depositing extra money in checking to guard against overdrafts.

Good reasons to keep money in your checking account? Certainly. The problem is, most of that money isn't working for you. It just sits there, not earning a nickel. And that means you've been losing interest in your checking account. Until now.

ATLANTIC BANK BRINGS YOU INTEREST PLUS CHECKING. Atlantic Bank brings you a great new concept in banking. It's called Interest Plus Checking. And it combines the advantages of an interest-earning savings account with a zero balance checking account. So every dollar you deposit works for you. Here's how.

ZERO BALANCE CHECKING LETS ALL YOUR MONEY EARN INTEREST. When you open an Interest Plus Checking account at Atlantic Bank, every dollar you deposit goes directly into a 5% per annum savings account where it will earn interest from the day of deposit to the day of withdrawal. Your checking account has a "zero balance." That's new.

Then, whenever you write a check, Atlantic Bank transfers the necessary amount from your savings account into your checking account. But the rest of your money stays in savings, where it continues to draw interest.

ONE STATEMENT MAKES IT SIMPLE AND CONVENIENT. At the end of each month you will receive a single, simple-to-read statement showing all your transactions. Your deposits, withdrawals, transfers, balances in checking and in savings. You always know your exact balance because you keep track of it just as you do now. In your own checkbook. The difference is, your balance is in your savings account, earning interest.

INTEREST PLUS CHECKING MEANS AUTOMATIC OVERDRAFT PROTECTION. All the while you are automatically protected against overdrafts by the automatic transfer procedure. And the extra money you used to keep in checking to guard against overdraft is earning 5% per annum interest from the day of deposit to the day of withdrawal.

INTEREST PLUS CHECKING IS A GOOD REASON TO KEEP YOUR SAVINGS IN ATLANTIC BANK. Your savings might earn a fraction of a percent more interest somewhere else, but with Interest Plus Checking, all your money is in your savings account earning a full 5% annually. That can mean a big difference to you every day.

ATLANTIC BANK MAKES INTEREST PLUS CHECKING AVAILABLE NOW. Atlantic Bank is offering Interest Plus Checking right now. So stop by any Atlantic Bank and ask about Interest Plus Checking for yourself. It will be well worth your interest.

Atlantic Bank. We bring banking to you.

The Key Saga: Cities' Workers Get, Use Them

By DORNA EYERS Herald Staff Writer

Every employee who needs a key, wants a key or has asked for a key, as a necessity of doing his work, in the city hall of the seven cities of Seminole County has one, according to a survey conducted this morning by The Evening Herald.

The inquiry was sought as County Commissioner William Kirchhoff, official courthouse custodian, contacted today to City Clerk of the County, Arthur H. Beckwith Jr., a key to the County courthouse which Beckwith has said he needs to fulfill the duties of his office after normal office hours.

Currently, Beckwith may gain entrance access to the county facility, after hours and on weekends, through a security guard.

But, Beckwith has said the security guard doesn't always promptly answer the bell at the courthouse door.

"These people who need keys to the building have keys," commented Richard Kirshoff, assistant to the city manager of Sanford. "They have no time hours and we feel it is incumbent upon us to have them be able to reach their places of work."

In Kissimmee Springs, Wayne Collins, secretary to Mayor Norman Floyd, said all those who need keys are in the city hall. In addition, he said, a key is available at the police station and at the fire department for emergency use.

County City Clerk Mary Hawthorne said in addition to the keys to the front door of city hall which all employees, the mayor and various agencies have, access is available from the police station to those who may have misplaced or lost their keys.

"Our city hall, because the police department is part of it, is never closed. Anyone who has a good reason for getting into city hall can do so," she said.

The same holds true in Longwood, Water Springs and Oviedo.

"Anyone who has a need to get into city hall can do so either with his own key or with the one at the police station," said Longwood City Clerk Cecil R. Shumate.

"Everybody who works in city hall has a key," Oviedo City Clerk Nancy Cox said, "I've made the decision. It's the same one that has been made over the past year," said Kirshoff.

Meanwhile, Broward County County Commissioner Jack Mann, who is president of the state Association of County Commissioners, said today from his 12th courthouse in Ft. Lauderdale that he knows of no situation similar to Seminole County where keys are denied to workers in a courthouse.

"There are probably a hundred keys or more to the Broward County courthouse out to employees. They are not ## Change Bus Routes To Help Commuters?

The county commission has approved and set out to the Orange-Seminole-Osceola Transportation Authority (OSOTA) a suggestion by changing its early morning Sanford bus routes to provide a way for persons to get to their jobs.

County Commissioner Bill Kirchhoff recommended the changes whereby one of the buses rather than two, leaves Sanford Plaza at 6:30 a.m. Monday through Friday to the courthouse to be changed to a run from the Midway area to the industrial area at Pinebrook Egg Processing Plant and Cardinal Industries and then to Sanford Plaza.

"People in the industrial area who work in the industrial area could then catch a bus to work," Kirchhoff said.

In addition to bus riders in the early morning could instead be shifted to the County Club Road area for the Continental Food plant, again to provide a way for employees to ride a bus to work.

Kirchhoff said, "Few commuters are getting on this bus with its stop at the courthouse."

The normal process, the commissioner, who is the county's representative on OSOTA, said is to make a recommendation to the OSOTA staff which will look over the routing recommendation.

Kirchhoff said he expects a response to the suggestion from OSOTA by the first part of the week.

Meanwhile, bus service will be extended Saturday and Dec. 23 to accommodate Christmas shoppers.

All routes will run their normal through-the-week schedules both Saturdays from 6:30 a.m. to 6:30 p.m. Bus stop signs were erected Thursday.

According to Pat Hinchrich of OSOTA, the signs primarily will be changed to meet rider needs.

Israel Rejects Egypt-U.S. Peace Proposals, Raps U.S.

United Press International

Israel today rejected the proposals made by the United States and Egypt for a cease-fire in the Middle East, saying the proposals were "inconsistent with the Camp David frameworks."

Secretary of State Cyrus Vance, who failed in his efforts to get the two nations to sign the pact by Wednesday, U.S. officials said there would be no comment on the Israeli decision until they have seen the full text of the cabinet statement.

The Israeli cabinet decision put Israel on a collision course with the United States because the U.S. has been pushing for a cease-fire since the outbreak of the Yom Kippur war in October.

The cabinet, in a statement read by Prime Minister Menachem Begin, issued Egypt for the inability to accept a treaty with the Arab states.

"These demands are inconsistent with the Camp David frameworks," Begin said.

In its exchange of ambassadors with Israel following a treaty to a date for ending the Palestinian problem.

He also has said Egypt wants a freeze in negotiations of a treaty, which would mean that the U.S. would not be able to help the Arab states.

"The demands are inconsistent with the Camp David frameworks," Begin said.

Begin today continued Israel's opposition to sign a U.S. draft treaty on November 11 and approved Nov. 21.

Israel's rejection of the proposals brought Begin's government to a new crisis. But it meant Begin's government was far from being in a position to sign a peace treaty with Egypt.

"Therefore, they are unacceptable to Israel and rejected by it."

"The government of Israel rejects the attitude and interpretation of the United States government with respect to the Egyptian proposals."

Begin said Israel would like Washington "to keep its objectivity" and later said in reply to a question, "The position is agreed by the (Carter) administration is essential. Any unilateral decision by the United States and us here is not desired."

Carter said Thursday that the rejection of the treaty was "unilateral in the hands of the Israeli."

The negotiations for a pact began Oct. 13 and proceeded in fits and starts, although progress was made in the final days of the month. A deal was struck a month ago, which led to the Yom Kippur war.

Begin today continued Israel's opposition to sign a U.S. draft treaty on November 11 and approved Nov. 21.

Israel's rejection of the proposals brought Begin's government to a new crisis. But it meant Begin's government was far from being in a position to sign a peace treaty with Egypt.
