Rosalynn Carter To Inspect Cambodian Refugee Camps

WASHINGTON (UPI)—First lady Rosalynn Carter will fly to Thailand Wednesday to inspect the Cambodian refugee camps, the White House said today. Mrs. Carter, the first lady's press secretary, said that while House meetings were being held today to make arrangements with refugee officials for Mrs. Carter's trip. The first lady was expected to be accompanied by Surgeon Gen. Julius Richardson.

Strauss Leaves Mid-East

WASHINGTON (UPI)—President Carter has asked Middle East peace negotiator Robert Strauss to become chairman of his re-election campaign committee, White House officials said today. They said that diplomatic troubleshooter Sen. M. Lincoln, who helped negotiate the Panama Canal treaty, is to be asked to replace Strauss in the Middle East assignment.

Strauss, 61, former chairman of the Democratic National Committee, has been one of Carter's strongest and most loyal supporters. He has said on several occasions he is convinced Carter can beat Sen. Edward Kennedy.

Earthquake Shakes Greece

ATHENS, Greece (UPI)—A strong earthquake shook northwestern Greece today, killing at least one person and damaging houses and utilities on the vacation island of Corfu and around the port of Igoumenika. A spokesman for the Athens observatory said the quake, measuring 5.5 on the open-ended Richter scale, had its epicenter 22 miles northwest of Athens. The tremor occurred at 7:27 a.m., 12:27 a.m. EDT, the spokesman said.

Pope Gathers Cardinals

VATICAN CITY (UPI)—The largest gathering of cardinals ever assembled began examining the church's role in the modern world today, midway through an extraordinary four-day congress called by Pope John Paul II. French Cardinal Gabriel-Marie Garrone began the debates by reading a position paper on the church's role in the modern world, a theme he said he would return to in his closing address. He called it "to further the reform of the Second Vatican Council."

They've never needed to be rescued from a flood. The county never saw a dime out there, but everyone I want to do something I have to go to court and argue for a permit. The citizens also said they did not like the burden of providing water on an island to show that their land is not flood-prone, at their expense. Allowed under the plan, proposed regulations would require property owners, dam operators, other agricultural uses and raising of floodwalls. "The kind of being laid out to get run over," said one area real estate broker. She added she did not think the proposed "floodwall" would stand up under the Constitution.

The proposed land use amendments to the county's comprehensive plan are being reviewed, however. County officials pointed out that they are a statement of intent, not a final decision. They would not have the force of law until they are approved by the county commission. "I don't see how you can say that you're not going to do it," said one area real estate broker. "I don't see how you can say that you're not going to do it," said one area real estate broker. "I don't see how you can say that you're not going to do it," said one area real estate broker.

SEEDCO Okay Seen Despite Complaints

Heated debate is expected tonight when the Seminole County Board of Commissioners holds a second public hearing on the proposed SEEDCO industrial park. The Seminole Employment Economic Development Corporation (SEEDCO) is proposing to develop an industrial park on property bordering U.S. 1 and Beaver Road. If a zoning change from A-1 agricultural to M-1 industrial is sanctioned, County Commissioner Bill Kirchoff, in whose district the area lies, said SEEDCO must present evidence that the city of Sanford will serve the property with water and sewer or the request for rezoning would be considered premature.

"Our main objection is because our groundwater seepage is very poor," said Patrick A. Tully, 70 Beaver Road. "Even the slightest rain results in standing water. If we get a lot of very heavy rain, it will be a disaster." "I'm sure we can answer all the questions and objections of the residents satisfactorily," Orr said. Water retention ponds have been mentioned as a possible remedy to the increased flooding hazard. But area resident Jim Crowe, 117 Beaver Road, said he will tell the commissioners the following tonight: "Nothing has been brought out as to what the proposed holding ponds will be used for. Will they be used to take care of run off (rain) or will the water from the manufacturers be dumped in them with the possibility of contaminating our water supply?" "Nor has it been brought out what kind of plastics plant is proposed to be built there. Will it manufacture plastics with the consumption of enhanced fire and explosion danger?" "Unless better fire protection than is presently available is provided, this will present an additional threat to the safety of our homes."

"In addition, I would point out that more manufacturing in this area will present a distinct hazard to the survival of the Great Piedmont Woodpecker, an endangered species. "There are other places for industrialization if there is a need for it." Kirchoff pointed out that water pressure for fighting fires in the area is "marginal at best." He said increased traffic could be a problem there, but the developers might commit not to use Jewett Lane or Beaver Road as access. They would provide their own road through the center of the property. He also said he did not know whether water retention facilities would work, or whether development would exacerbate the flooding problems of the area. "There are many questions yet to be answered, he said. But to Crowe, there's no question about it: "Development in the area goes right along with the Marxist-Leninist doctrine that says the small property owner is a road block to progress and must be eventually eliminated." — DIANE FETRYK

Space Shuttle Engine Out; Test Flight To Be Delayed

WASHINGTON (UPI)—The drive to launch the space shuttle Columbia on its maiden test flight next year has encountered a potentially serious new problem — an engine test failure in the first of seven critical ground firings. The problem at the space agency's ground test center at Bay St. Louis, Miss., produced what engineers believe is extensive damage to the interior of one of three engines identical to those installed in the Columbia at Cape Canaveral, Fla. The National Aeronautics and Space Administration said it is too early to assess the failure's impact on the shuttle flight schedule. But numerous other engine problems already had delayed the engine test series and officials have said any significant new troubles would cause new timetable setbacks.

Governors Seek Nuke Plan

WASHINGTON (UPI)—The governors of the states harboring the nation's three commercial sites for low-level nuclear waste have been clamoring for some time for a reasoned nationwide plan for disposing of radioactive material. Govs. Dixie Lee Ray of Washington, Dick Riley of South Carolina and Robert Latta of Nevada planned to meet today with Joseph H. Braden, chairman of the Nuclear Regulatory Commission, to press for development of a national policy on nuclear waste. Riley also was scheduled to testify before the House Sub-committee on Science and Technology.

Mississippi Debate Stale

JACKSON, Miss. (UPI)—William Winter and Gil Carmichael found little to disagree about in a joint appearance on public television the day before voters decide which of them will be the state's next governor. Responding to questions from a three-member panel, Democrat Winter and Republican Carmichael voiced similar positions on several issues including nuclear power, disposal of nuclear wastes in Mississippi, appointment of blacks and women, unionization, and neighborhood schools. The format of the program allowed each man to respond briefly to a question from the panel. There was no debate or interchange between the two candidates.

United Drops 200 Routes

CHICAGO (UPI)—United Airlines, the nation's largest domestic passenger carrier, has announced it will cut 200 daily departures from its schedule in 1980 to drop operating costs. The number of "seat miles" flown will remain unchanged, but United's daily departures will be reduced from 1,380 to 1,180, a decrease from the series said. The number of routes will be changed from non-stop to one-stop.

PSC Aids Moving Consumers

TALLAHASSEE (UPI)—The Public Service Commission wants to make moving companies who don't deliver furniture on time pay the food and motel bills of inconvenienced families. The PSC Monday ordered public hearings held on rules requiring household movers to pay expenses created when a family is unable to move into a new home because of late deliveries. Final approval of the proposals, requiring the payment of up to $50 per day per family for lodging and a flat $12 per person per day for food, is expected early next year.

N.Y. Mayor Makes Charge

NEW YORK (UPI)—An angry Mayor Edward Koch has filed charges against two members of a radical group who punched him in the eye and pecked him in the face with eggs. Koch, who sustained minor injuries in the incident Monday, called his assailants "maniacs" and "nuts," and said, "What you can't get by the ballot, you're going to allow you to get by force. This is not true."

Democrats May Dominate Polling

The South has been famous for red and rusty politics and Kentucky is living up to that reputation as it chooses a new governor today. Mississippi, on the other hand, is holding one of its quietest elections in years. Although the two elections are different in tone, political odds makers give the edge to Democratic candidates for governor in both states. Also on the line today are long lists of major and medium-size city mayoral seats. Democrats appear secure in the biggest, although the two elections are different in tone, political odds makers give the edge to Democratic candidates for governor in both states.

High School Bands Delight 3,000 At Festival

More than 3,000 people packed the stands at Lake Brantley High School Saturday night to watch six high school bands strut their stuff amid pyrotechnics and pagentry of the fifth annual Seminole County Band Festival. Lake Brantley, Lake Howell, Lyman, Oviedo, Seminole and Bishop Moore high school bands participate in the annual musical extravaganza sponsored by the Optimist Club of Sanford and The Evening Herald.

Highlights of the festival were presentations of the matted bands accompanied by special fireworks effects and directed by Lake Brantley Bandmaster Jack Herron. The show got off with a bang with a special arrangement of the "Star-Spangled Banner" complete with "rockets" red glare. After each band had the opportunity to give a seven-minute presentation on its own, the more than 700 young musicians massed again for the "Bugler's Dream" from the 20th Olympiad. Accenting the theme was the fireworks display depicting a gold trumpet with musical notes and rockets coming out of the bell of the instrument.

Incorporated in Oviedo's presentation was the Bahia Shrine Temple's Swinging Scots bagpipe band. The program was closed with the playing of "God Bless America." Presenting trophies to each of the bands were Paul Muenzer, governor of Optimist International Florida District; County School Superintendent William Layer; Wayne Doyle, The Evening Herald's publisher; Bob Howe, Optimist Club president; Darwin Booth, host principal; and Lt. Beau Taylor of the Seminole County Sheriff's Department.

'L'il Abner' Cartoonist Al Capp Dead

CAMBRIDGE, Mass. (UPI)—Cartoonist Al Capp, who turned L'il Abner and his mountain folk friends from Dodgech into one of the world's best-known comic strips, died Monday night. He was 73. Capp was admitted several weeks ago to Mount Auburn Hospital where he died. The cause of death was not immediately disclosed. He is survived by his wife, Catherine, two children and eight grandchildren.

Born Alfred Gerald Caplin in New Haven, Conn., on Sept. 28, 1906, Capp was a skylarking 12-year-old boy when he lost his balance on an ice truck and fell under a trolley. His left leg was so badly injured that it was amputated. L'il Abner made its debut in eight newspapers in 1934, and agreed to by United Features which paid Capp $50 a week and carried it where it is "as is."

Stuffed shirts were Capp's meat and the establishment his potatoes. Liberals gloried in his wild imagination until they woke up one incredible morning in the Vietnam era and found him attacking them. In 1977, Capp retired the comic strip, and gone were those madcap hayseed from poverty-level Dodgech; the hillbilly innocent with the big overalls and big shoes, L'il Abner; his pipe-smoking and righteous Mammy; his Pappy; the amply endowed Datsy Mae; Wolf Gal; Moonbeam McBride; Tobacco Rhoda; Anastasia Von Climax — to name just a handful.

Seminole Needs 6 New Schools To Meet 1984 Levels: Survey

By DAVID M. RAZLER, Herald Staff Writer. Seminole County will need six new schools before 1984, according to the preliminary report of a state educational survey team. The team, made up of educators and administrators from all of Florida, delivered its oral report to school officials Friday. Its recommendations call for four new elementary schools in the southwest corner of the county and a new middle school in the Lake Mary area. The final report will be presented in several weeks. The team also recommended that Hopper Elementary school in Sanford be replaced with a new building, with Hopper school construction from the state education department.

State Rep. Bob Hattaway said it is up to Seminole legislators to pass for construction funds since the county is still growing. "We are going to have to find the necessary funding at the special legislative session in Tallahassee the last week in November," he explained. Dagg said that Seminole is one of only seven counties in the state which is still growing. The student body is increasing by about 1,000 per year, said Superintendent William Layer, adding that this has necessitated the opening of at least one elementary school annually. But new construction will be delayed even if the county receives the full amount of money suggested for construction approved by the state survey team.

set to open in 1981, the county has borrowed against the state capital construction funds said Dagg. "This could delay things," he added. Layer said he does not believe the county will have an excess of classrooms in the foreseeable future. "We are going to have to find the necessary funding at the special legislative session in Tallahassee the last week in November," he explained. Dagg said that Seminole is one of only seven counties in the state which is still growing. The student body is increasing by about 1,000 per year, said Superintendent William Layer, adding that this has necessitated the opening of at least one elementary school annually.

The Error Was Human In Nature

The president's Commission on the Accident at Three Mile Island has called for "fundamental changes" in the supervision and operation of nuclear power plants. As much could have been predicted from what has come to light about the circumstances leading to last spring's nightmare in Pennsylvania.

Significantly, the 12-member commission could not muster a majority to recommend a moratorium on the construction of new nuclear plants, as some critics of nuclear power have demanded. But we can see why the weight of opinion came down against such a step.

A moratorium would imply that it is necessary to wait and see whether the problems with nuclear power identified by the commission can be overcome. It is obvious, however, that nuclear problems are solvable because they do not lie in the realm of technology or equipment but in the way the government has been regulating the nuclear industry and the way utilities have been running their plants.

The commission, headed by the president of Dartmouth College, found nothing to warrant a conclusion "that nuclear power is inherently too dangerous to permit it to continue and expand as a form of power generation." Further, the commission agrees that the release of radiation at Three Mile Island last March will have a "negligible effect" on human health, perhaps none at all.

Those findings should put to rest the notion that Three Mile Island was some kind of disaster, either for the people living nearby or for the future of nuclear power. It remains, however, for the president and Congress, the nuclear industry and utilities to close the gap between intention and practice in the operational safety of nuclear plants.

It is that gap which the president's commission has illuminated, and which its recommendations are designed to close. Three Mile Island can be traced to human error in the broadest sense of the term. The error begins in the structure of the Nuclear Regulatory Commission, extends through a licensing procedure which leaves too much discretion to utility companies in the way they operate nuclear plants, and turns up finally in shortcomings in the professional standards and training for operating crews.

At bottom is the erroneous presumption that when engineers design safety features into nuclear plants — features which reduce the risk of accidents to a tolerable level — there is nothing more to worry about. As the commission found, there is plenty to worry about if the people building and using power reactors are anything but meticulous in following safety requirements to the letter and are not adequately schooled in how to react to unexpected events.

The recommendations of the president's commission should go on to the national agenda with a high priority. The 13 years it now takes to get a nuclear plant from the planning stage into operation is enough of a "moratorium" on nuclear power.

There is no reason why that costly lead-time cannot be shortened in the process of overhauling the regulatory process which lost much of its credibility at Three Mile Island. Nuclear power can and must remain in our energy inventory if we are to escape our crippling dependence on imported oil and avoid the environmental degradation that goes with burning coal.

More Legal Hassle

WASHINGTON (NEA) — With a talent for disaster that borders on sheer genius, Congress and two federal regulatory agencies have managed to severely jeopardize prospects for televised debates between presidential candidates in 1980.

Without such donations, the League can't afford to stage the debates. And without a go-ahead from the FEC and Congress, unions and corporations are forbidden by law from spending any money in connection with federal elections.

The Senate, mildly confused by the effect of the regulations, decided it could order the FEC to start over this to sort out the confusion.

An NBC News-United Press poll conducted last month among 1,000 Americans and other dramatic evidence of the distance other GOP presidential candidates must travel to overtake the incumbent Ronald Reagan by the time the debate related to the election gets under way at Jan. 31 next January.

FOREIGN COMMENTARY

Message To Americans

NEW YORK (UPI) — A group of Nicaraguan businessmen have a message for the American people and government: nothing is as effective against Marxism as the word of capitalism.

The Nicaraguan Development Institute, referring to deposed President Anastasio Somoza, now in Paraguay, said "We did not jump on the bandwagon when the music was very nice on the 19th of July."

The group, including representatives of professional, agricultural and industrial sectors, also expressed their concern for the future of the country. They said the government is aware of the need to reform the economy and to attract foreign investment.

VIEWPOINT

Hard Thing To Understand

By DON GRAFF

Well, Americans are at it again. It's official now. The presidential campaign is under way, that quadrennial rite that to the rest of the politically civilized world is in large part or wholly incomprehensible.

So why should it have taken the Kennedy candidacy to make it official? That's what we mean — incomprehensible. And there's so much more to come.

Consider the focus of the Kennedy campaign — leadership. The lack of which he accuses the Carter administration's problems. No matter that his own qualifications in this area have yet to be demonstrated convincingly.

But really, it goes deeper than that. Because this was the year America took a long, hard look at its passenger trains. Improve them. And rely on them. Now it's up to us. And we pledge to improve the quality of service and performance.

AMERICA'S GETTING INTO TRAINING.

This year, a lot of you got your travel plans into shape the easy way. You sat back in a plush Amtrak seat. And got into training.

THIS WAS THE YEAR THAT WAS. After a solid year of proposals and counterproposals, hearings and debates — and a summer's worth of energy crises — Congress established guidelines under which trains would be kept. And for the first time gave Amtrak the long-term support we've needed to see those plans through to reality.

But really, it goes deeper than that. Because this was the year America took a long, hard look at its passenger trains. Improve them. And rely on them. Now it's up to us. And we pledge to improve the quality of service and performance.

INTRODUCING A NEW AMTRAK.

Today, there's a new route map. It's more efficient than before: yet, with the changes, Amtrak still serves 503 cities and towns in 44 states, border to border, ocean to ocean. Including yours.

More importantly, it's a passenger rail system that's here to stay. While eliminating some routes, we've added others and are improving the kinds of services on still more. We'll continue to build our system around you, your needs and your interests.

WHY WASTE ENERGY?

Yours or America's. The day when America could depend almost exclusively on the auto is fast disappearing. If it hasn't already. There are a real alternative — at their best when moving people between large cities and smaller ones.

This kind of transportation is exactly what America needs. And it's exactly what we do.

VISIT OUR NEW CAR SHOWROOM.

Come down to your local station. In most areas of the country, you'll find our new Amfleet cars. With wide, reclining seats, wall-to-wall carpeting and drop-down trays, they rival the best in the world. Today, two of every three Amtrak trains operate with Amfleet or equally modern Turboliners and Metroliner equipment. Expect to see more comfortable new cars in the years ahead.

On our Western routes, you'll soon find our new Superliners starting service this month and next. These exciting double-decker long-distance trains bring new coach, dining and sleeping car luxury to some of the most beautiful parts of our country. 284 of these cars will complete the fleet over the next 12 to 18 months.

On other routes, especially long-distance Eastern trains, new cars will be ordered soon. In the meanwhile, we're bringing the best of the West to the East — with a stopover in Beech Grove, Indiana.

IN BEECH GROVE, MINOR MIRACLES PERFORMED WHILE YOU WAIT.

At our service facility there, we're taking these solid cars and rebuilding them from the wheels up. Once stripped to their frames and chassis, we replace antiquated steam systems (that's right, steam!) with reliable electric air conditioning and heating. We put in new interiors — new everything.

Our people innovate as they go, and pass on their knowledge to our other repair facilities through a videotape training program originated and created right there. These people best reflect the growing attitude you'll find among all Amtrak employees — proud, productive and in tune with our bright future.

CARS ARE JUST ONE OF OUR CONCERNS.

When you take a train — or a bus or plane — you should arrive at your destination when the schedule said you would. We agree. We also agree Amtrak's on-time performance could be much better. And we're doing something about it.

Part of the solution is us. Getting reliable equipment. And maintaining it so it won't break down on route.

Some of the solutions are in the hands of others. All of Amtrak's trains outside the Boston-Washington Northeast Corridor, after all, are dispatched and controlled by private railroads over rails owned by them. If the tracks are allowed to deteriorate our trains can't keep their schedules. Clearly, if the railroads don't work together with Amtrak, our trains will be delayed. It's one of our most important challenges.

SO IS YOUR COMFORT AND CONVENIENCE.

An ill-kept station is no way to begin or end a trip. That's why we're actively renewing or rebuilding stations. We've also expanded our ticketing services, from the reservation agents you speak to on the phone — with their computer consoles that give you accurate information at the touch of a button — to the variety of fares and packages they can offer you to save you money. And because we believe strongly in an intermodal public transportation system, we're making our schedules work harder, so you can connect with buses, for instance, to continue your trip when necessary.

WE'RE GOING TO GET YOU INTO TRAINING.

There are no two ways about it. Amtrak management is going to get you on board and keep you coming back to our trains. And we're going to do it with an aggressive, vital, innovative commitment to you, the riding public. That means everyone, from our reservation and station agents to our on-board service personnel, and private railroad employees like engineers and conductors.

They're proud and dedicated people. Together, we promise to give you the first-class rail system you deserve. And, as we enter a new decade, the system you need. Welcome aboard.

SANFORD. TAKE ONE FOR A TEST RIDE.

Sanford is served daily by Amtrak, with south-bound service to Orlando and St. Petersburg at 7:50 AM and 1:20 PM and to Miami at 7:50 AM. North-bound service through Florida, to Savannah, The Carolinas, Washington and New York departs 2:00 PM and 8:20 PM. Connecting service in Washington and New York. Bowden Decided When Seminoles Trained Cincinnati

TALLAHASSEE, Fla. (UPI) — Florida State football coach Bobby Bowden says he decided to accept a $600,000 five-year contract last Saturday when the Cincinnati Bengals bid him to coach their team.

He said he was in a long time, but he decided to accept the offer. "I thought about it a long time," Bowden said, "but I'm in the business, and I've got to do it."

Bowden is also to be consulted in staffing matters, including the selection of assistant coaches and the selection of the coaching staff.

Mitchell At Crossroads With Atlanta

ATLANTA (UPI) — Jim Mitchell, once ranked one of the top tight ends in the NFL but slowed by the passage of time, doesn't want to admit that he is in the twilight of his pro football career.

Mitchell's go-ahead touchdown in the Falcons' 17-14 win over Tampa Bay Sunday may be the last he scores in his career.

Shula - 'Missed Opportunities'

Oilers Give Boot To Dolphins, 9-6

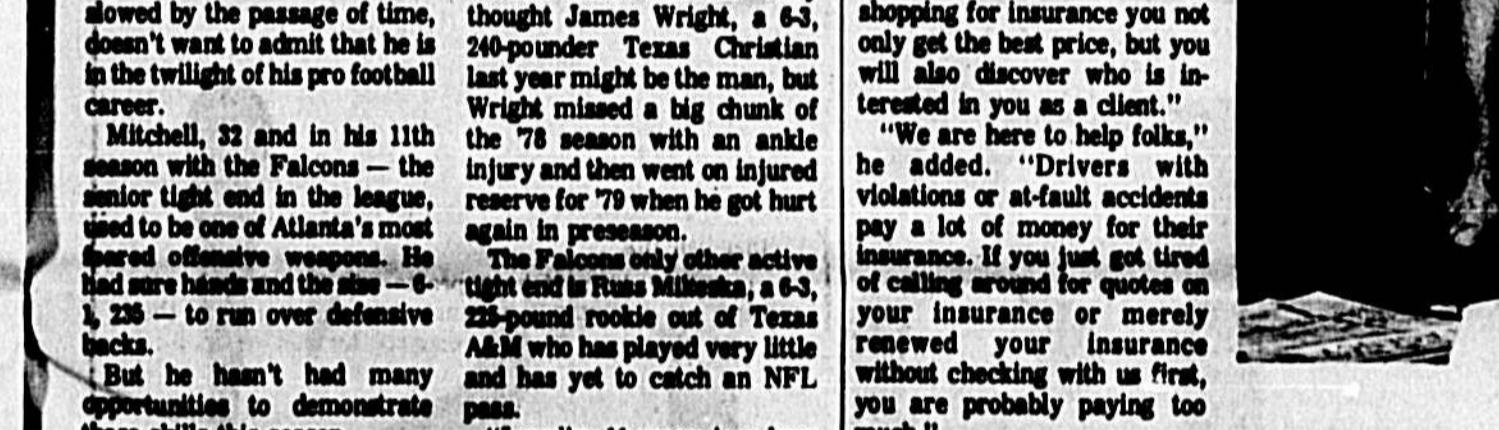

MIAMI (UPI) — What Miami Coach Don Shula calls "a lot of missed opportunities" cost the Dolphins a football game Monday night.

"The defense played its guts out. It kept them (Houston Oilers) from scoring and we got good field position many times," said Shula after Miami's 9-6 loss. "We had all the opportunities in the world to win it and we didn't win it."

Merit Topples High Tars!

Smokers report the taste of low tar MERIT matches that of high tar cigarettes.

Proof: A significant majority of smokers rate MERIT taste as good as—or better than—leading high tar brands. Even cigarettes having twice the tar!

Proof: Of the 95% stating a preference, 3 out of 4 smokers chose the MERIT low tar/good taste combination over high tar leaders when tar levels were revealed.

Smokers rate low tar MERIT satisfying taste alternative to high tar brands.

New national smoker study results prove it.

Proof: The overwhelming majority of MERIT smokers polled sacrifice taste in switching from high tar cigarettes. Proof: 96% of MERIT smokers don't miss former high tar brands.

Proof: 9 out of 10 enjoy smoking as much since switching to MERIT, are glad they switched, and report MERIT is the best tasting low tar they've ever tried.

You've read the results. The conclusion is clearer than ever: MERIT delivers a winning combination of taste and low tar.

A combination that's attracting more and more smokers every day and—more importantly—satisfying them long term.

Guild Gala: Glamorous, Glittering

Words such as "glamorous, glittering guild gala" could best describe the sponsor's and supporter's reception given by the Board of Directors of Ballet Guild of Sanford-Seminole (BGS) Saturday night. And it was just that.

The plush private party room of Buck's Airport Restaurant was glowing with festive decorations, spot lights, beautiful floral arrangements and beautiful people.

Although the lovely engraved invitation read "formal", only a handful of gentlemen showed up in tuxedos and other formal attire—mostly including the BGS male board members and spouses of board members.

And the women arrived on the scene wearing street dresses, pants, disco outfits and the new ankle-length frocks.

But for the most part, gorgeous formal gowns really stole the scene for Millie, the BGS president, Pat Scott, wore a chic black gown, Grecian inspired, with a full skirt and three rows of rhinestones forming the strap over one shoulder.

The Guild Gala chairman, Mary Blair, selected an original white sequin gown fashioned along the slim silhouette with a scooped neckline, deep side slit and long tapered sleeves.

The co-chairmen, Jean Clontz and Gail Stewart, both wore bare black gowns with shoulder straps. Jean's gown was an aurora borealis of black sequins and Gail wore a black gown with gold metallic highlights.

The BGS Board of Directors formed the receiving line and greeted more than 200 guests for dancing, dining and winging lavishly.

Other directors receiving the guests were Eleanor Marone, Bush Galena, Sara Lee Roberts, Debbie Hanson, Joe Moninger and David Wright and the artistic directors and choreographers, Valerie Weld and Miriam Wright.

Mountains of luscious foods were artfully arranged on an sprawling buffet table—all sorts of eye-appealing cold party macs and such hot items as pig in the blanket, chicken fingers and fleas shrimp.

And a large lighted fountain sprouted and fumed like a bubbling Cold Duck—for the sponsors enjoyment during the dancer silhouettes graced the palm-lined entrance—and a variety of lighted plants, including a white wrought iron gazebo added to the festive atmosphere.

Many guild dancers of the alumni were on hand as well as several of this year's dancers.

A lot of new faces were at the gala—and several familiar supporters from years back.

John and Val Colbert seemed thrilled to see Teena and Bill Sharp from DeBerry. They were formerly actors in the Round-dallers, a Sanford Little Theatre group.

According to Jackie Goodman, chairman, "We had a double ball with over 200 attending."

Herald photo coverage of this dance will be featured later this week.

She Just Wants To Know Sisters

DEAR ABBY: When I was 6, my mother, a widow, died. The state put me in an orphanage and found a family to legally adopt my two little sisters. (They were 3 and 4 at the time.) I want to establish contact with my sisters, but so far I've had no success, even though I was able to contact their adoptive mother. My sisters are 19 and 20 now, and they live with their adoptive parents in another state.

First, I wrote to their mother, explaining who I was, and asking her permission to write to my sisters. My letter was never answered, so I called and asked if she ever received my letter. She said, "Yes, I got it, and why don't you mind your own business and quit trying to mess up my daughters' lives?"

DEAR ABBY: You wrote, concerning men who talk about sex all the time, that "Those who CAN'T talk about it." That sure didn't apply to my late husband. He was a married man, and he had sex several days a week! He always came home for the next hour, then again at 9 p.m. on the day he was home for 20 years! At 57 I could still have sex with a woman who had sex with me.

Inflated Ad Costs Aids Minor Brands

NEW YORK (UPI) — The inflated costs of national advertising may be helping manufacturers and distributors of lesser-known consumer product lines.

Unbranded, minor-brand and private-label merchandise accounts for a huge share of the consumer product market, the biggest share in some lines.

Belvin Friedman, head of Save-Way Industries, Inc., Hialeah, Fla., which designs, manufactures or distributes a variety of personal care products, says these lines are being helped by the rising costs of national advertising and promotion.

"Advertising and sales promotional costs represent a disproportionate part of the price for many nationally-branded products, particularly in cosmetics and personal care products," Friedman said. "Inflation has accelerated these costs and the growing concentration of national advertising emphasis on television has tended to make the cost of national branding prohibitive for many manufacturers."

But it is the retailers who really put on the pressure to get quality unbranded or minor-brand products, Friedman said.

"The markup they get on nationally-branded products often just aren't good enough anymore," he said. "Of course they have to carry nationally-branded goods that are in strong demand but their profit often comes from identical or nearly identical products sold unbranded or under minor-brand names with much better markups for the wholesaler."

The high cost of TV advertising makes the

Electronics Industry Drawn To Arid Deserts Of Arizona

PHOENIX, Ariz. (UPI) — In 1948, Motorola had a small laboratory in downtown Phoenix with five employees.

Today it has three divisions in the metropolitan Phoenix area, is Arizona's largest industrial employer with about 17,000 workers and leads the way in the fastest growing industry in the state.

Its annual payroll is between $160 million and $200 million — not bad for a state of 3.4 million people.

Motorola is just one example of what is happening to industry on the arid deserts of central and southern Arizona.

Honeywell ranks second among manufacturing employers, providing work for about 6,000 people in the Phoenix metropolitan area. It has a $300-million-a-year business.

IBM, Digital Equipment Corp., Intel Corp., Airframe, Inc., Rockwell International, GTE Automatic Electric Laboratories, Hewlett-Packard and the Capital Systems Division of Rogers Corp. have joined Honeywell and Motorola in making electronics firms on a group the largest industrial employer and second to machinery firms in production.

The influx has not been accidental.

"We actively recruit through advertising in professional publications and marketing magazines and with the governor," said Roy Hanson of the state Office of Economic Planning and Development.

"The electronics industry is attractive because it's clean, has a highly technical labor force and provides a high income in electronics. The markets are world-wide, so it makes no big difference to the firms as far as transportation goes. The sun belt states are attractive because of the climate."

Frozen Food Company Predicts Eventual Dime Of Fresh Meat

NEW YORK (UPI) — A major food manufacturer predicts that frozen meat will become the norm as the cost of fresh meat rises to the level of fresh beef.

The meat manufacturer, which has been in the industry for 50 years, says it is now producing more frozen meat than fresh meat. It says that the cost of fresh meat is rising so fast that it is becoming uneconomical to produce.
