HUSBAND RESCUED DESPAIRING WIFE

After Four Years of Discouraging Conditions, Mrs. Bullock Gave Up in Despair. Husband Came to Rescue.

Catron, Ky.—In an interesting letter from this place, Mrs. Bettie Bullock writes as follows: "I suffered for four years, with womanly troubles, and during this time, I could only sit up for a little while, and could not walk anywhere at all. At times, I would have severe pains in my left side.

The doctor was called in, and his treatment relieved me for a while, but I was soon confined to my bed again. After that, nothing seemed to do me any good.

I had gotten so weak I could not stand, and I gave up in despair.

At last, my husband got me a bottle of Cardui, the woman's tonic, and I commenced taking it. From the very first dose, I could tell it was helping me. I can now walk two miles without tiring me, and am doing all my work."

If you are all run down from womanly troubles, don't give up in despair. Try Cardui, the woman's tonic. It has helped more than a million women, in its 50 years of continuous success, and should surely help you, too. Your druggist has sold Cardui for years. He knows what it will do. Ask him. He will recommend it. Begin taking Cardui today.

Typhoid And The Fly

State Board Of Health Gives Some Important Facts For Florida People

In the millennium, that ideal state of earthly existence to which Utopians have been looking forward from the beginning of time, with anticipations of a life of ease and pleasure, the all-disease will be banished and the air will be so pure that the most delicate will be able to breathe it without any harm. Nevertheless, the doctors of this time, and those of the future, are to be troubled with a pest which is to hasten its coming. Medical science has never been so active in its search for the cause of disease as it is now. It has discovered that the germs of typhoid fever are carried by the fly. The fly, it is known, has the habit of landing on the nose and mouth of its victims, and depositing the germs of typhoid fever in their system. The fly, it is known, has the habit of landing on the nose and mouth of its victims, and depositing the germs of typhoid fever in their system. quired by law to be screened. The screening of food is required in the home by common sense and by law. The possibility of a fly landing on the food is a serious one, and it is said that since the state's pure food laws have been amended to require them to conform to the laws of the national government, there will be a coming industrial era opened in the state that will put Florida at least in the list of those noticed for this industry.

Every man owes it to himself that he shall be always at his highest efficiency of health and productive strength. If he owes it also to the community and the state. But he owes more than this. It is a moral obligation that he shall not through his own intent or negligence become a menace to society. If it be by intention, established law regards him as guilty of offence against society and may inflict a penalty of fine or imprisonment. If it be through neglect, society pays the penalty and often a penalty of suffering or death.

FLORIDA LEADS IN ROSIN

There are no Canning Factories To Put Up Products. Florida leads all states in the production of rosin and turpentine by five million dollars, according to the figures of the last census, the figures being Florida $11,937,518, and the next nearest, Georgia, $6,918,000.

Of the eight states engaged in this industry, the Carolina and Texas are the only ones which produce less than a million dollars worth.

The total exports of these naval stores for the year 1910 amounted to $18,344,224.

Florida however does not follow well in the production of turpentine. The only one which produces less than a million dollars worth.

With typhoid it is their large capacity for carrying germs that makes them so dangerous. They are able to visitation of Providence. Science has discovered the conditions that favor it, it has published them so widely, that the world may read and understand and prevent it. The other side of the coin is that the fly is a pest which is to hasten its coming. Medical science has never been so active in its search for the cause of disease as it is now. It has discovered that the germs of typhoid fever are carried by the fly. The fly, it is known, has the habit of landing on the nose and mouth of its victims, and depositing the germs of typhoid fever in their system. The fly, it is known, has the habit of landing on the nose and mouth of its victims, and depositing the germs of typhoid fever in their system. The fly, it is known, has the habit of landing on the nose and mouth of its victims, and depositing the germs of typhoid fever in their system.

Quoting from an article on this subject that appeared in the Florida state press in March, 1913: "The disease is spread by flies that carry the germs of infection. These germs come from persons who have or have had the disease. They are developed in the intestinal tracts and become available for distribution from the excreta of such individuals. Flies alighting from such evacuations carry the germs on their feet and leave them upon food, to be taken into the digestive systems of other and new victims. It's hard to think of anything more disgusting.

"The germs increase rapidly in their new lodgings and the doctors soon have another case of typhoid and a new source of infection is started. Recent bacteriological investigations have shown that the conditions most favorable for the breeding of flies exist in the excreta of horses. The next most favorable are in the stools of human beings. Where such evacuations are from typhoid patients the maggot of the fly becomes infected with germs and remains through its natural life a source of danger.

As a protection against the disease two principal precautions are to be observed, and safety demands that both shall be practiced with all the earnestness and care that a regard for the sacredness of human life itself can suggest.

First, keep all food from flies. Second, kill the fly, exterminate the race if such a thing were possible.

It is known that the fly is an extensive traveler. Experiments have proven that he often goes from four to eight city blocks under his own motive power. Aided by a favoring breeze he may go much further. In railroad trains or in other conveyances he may travel hundreds of miles. And the real danger lies in the fact that no one can tell where

FALSE ECONOMY

It often happens that a plan of economy is ranked when there is opposition to the plan of purchase of a piece of land for public use, or to a proposal of improvement of any kind at city cost. The plan is ranked because it is supposed to be a saving of money. It is a saving of money only in the sense that it saves the money of the taxpayer who is to be taxed to pay for the improvement. VAN VALZAH FOR GOVERNOR

Prominent Legislator of Volusia Will Go After Big Job

Dr. J. A. Van Valzah, state senator from Volusia county, in the city today states that he will certainly be a candidate for Governor of Florida, at the next campaign.

His platform will be, he says, the rights of the common people, or, in other words, pure Jeffersonian Democracy, as known to our fathers, and not as interpreted by so many so-called Democrats of today.

"It is too soon yet," he said, "to publish my full platform, but I have one that is a winner. Politics in this state and country is mixed so that it is hard to tell a Democrat from any one else, but I will establish the fact that real Democracy is not dead, and will bring it to the front, to its rightful place."

Dr. Van Valzah made a hard fight for his insurance regulation bill in the last legislature, but lost it in the end. He still believes that with it an issue in his campaign, the people, who after all are the beneficiaries under its provisions, will sustain him and give him the highest honor they can bestow in the state—Jacksonville Metropolis.

New Bicycle Shop

William S. Parker has opened a bicycle store in the room east of the drug store of L. R. Phillips & Co., and in connection with the sale of wheels will have a first class repair department. Frank Parker of St. Augustine has been here this week getting the shop in shape and will send a first class machinist here today to take charge of the repair department.

Mr. Parker will handle such celebrated makes as the Imperial, Raleigh, Pierce Arrow and Pope Daily Service bicycles.

Besides the fully equipped repair shop for wheels they will also carry a full line of motor boat supplies, cylinder oil, Columbian batteries, spark plugs, etc.

One of the best and most complete line of accessories and bicycle tires will be carried at all times and a strong bid will be made for the bicycle trade of this section.

Later on Mr. Parker expects to handle motorcycles and accessories and the new firm will be headquarters for everything on wheels.

Question Of Sewerage Flowing Into Deep Wells

President Of State Board Has Not Granted Permit

Report Of State Geologist Shows That Contamination Is Possible And Proves The Same

Sanford does not intend to have the pure artesian water supply contaminated or even have a hint of contamination on account of Orlando disposing of the sewerage in the deep wells and not only Sanford objecting strenuously but every other city below the limestone sinks in the state is objecting.

Hon. F. J. Fearnside, president of the State Board of Health who resides at Palatka, another city threatened with the same exposure sent the following telegram to the city council:

Asheville, N. C., July 25. City Council, Sanford:

Board has not given any permit for underground sewerage and will enforce law to the letter.

F. J. FEARNSIDE, President State Board of Health.

Sanford is not guessing at this water question, but is taking the opinion of experts and regardless of whether Orlando calls it knocking or kicking the people of this city will not allow the deep wells to be driven unless the State Board of Health can prove conclusively that no trace of contamination can be found.

"The question of possible contamination of the water supply through sewage wells is worthy of careful consideration. As previously stated, most of these wells enter the limestone and depend for efficiency upon reaching a cavity or a porous layer in the limestone. Water for drinking, household and general purposes is in some cases taken from the same limestone formation. Both sewage and water wells are of variable depth. It is the custom in the construction of both water and sewage wells, however, to case the well only to the lime stone, or to the first hard strata in the limestone. Under these conditions a well may receive water from any or all depths below the terminating of the casing. The limestone is traversed by solution cavities, and is for the most part, of porous texture, thus permitting circulation of underground water. The fact is often expressed that the casing, in these wells represent a barrier between underground streams, and that they quickly carry away any and all refuse entering them. If this condition prevailed, the case would be but slightly altered, since the rapid removal of contaminated water from one locality would merely enlarge a neighboring locality that happened to be on the course of the stream. The information obtained, however, fails to already stated p. 11, to give evidence of such rapidly moving streams. On the contrary, the water apparently moves slowly through inter-connecting solution cavities and through the porous rock.

Regarding the inter-connection of solution passages in the limestone, Mr. M. L. Fuller states that "The intimate connection of the passages, making to all practical purposes a network, has been brought out at several points in this country by the experiments made for the United States Geological Survey by S. W. McCallie at Quitman, Georgia; by H. H. Sellards at Ocala, Florida, and by G. C. Matson at Georgetown, S. C., at each of which localities salt injected into sinks or borings found entrance into wells some distance away. In none of the instances, however, was the movement direct from the point of insertion to the well, for the salinity instead of increasing enormously, as it would have done if such had been the case, showed only relatively moderate fluctuations. The three limestones, although of widely different types, showed the same phenomena in each case, suggesting that it is a normal characteristic of this class of rocks."

In addition to these direct tests, it has been found that in the Florida limestone the water in the sewage wells and that of the water wells of approximately equal depth is under the same static head. This fact, while not of itself proving inter-connection, lends support to that conclusion.

The cesspools in use with most of the sewage wells serve as septic tanks. The efficiency of the septic tank for removing the greater part of the solids from sewage has been abundantly demonstrated. It is also known that the bacteria originally present in the sewage are also reduced in number during the process of fermentation in the cesspool. It has not been shown, however, to what extent the disease producing bacteria, and particularly Bacillus typhosus, the germ of typhoid fever, is reduced in this process. On this point Professor L. P. Kinnecutt, head of the Department of Chemistry of the Worcester Polytechnic Institute, and Consulting Chemist of the Connecticut Sewage Commission, stated that "very little work has been done with reference to the septic tank on bacterial life. The second report of the royal commission on sewage disposal of Great Britain quotes experiments made in Manchester, England, showing that the Bacillus coli communis diminishes during the septic period, and the same effect must be felt by the similar and more delicate bacteria such as that of typhoid fever. Similar results are shown at Leeds. The witness's opinion was that the septic tank reduces the number of B. coli and the more delicate pathogenic germs, and that the total number of bacteria is diminished by 10 or 15 per cent."

In addition to the reduction of disease germs which may be assumed to take place in the receiving chambers in use connection with most of the sewage wells, it is apparent that the quantity of water contained in the limestone is large, and that the inter-connection between the wells is indirect. The result is that polluted water introduced through a sewage well is enormously diluted before reaching a water well. One would scarcely maintain, however, that partial reduction of the number of disease germs, together with great dilution of sewage, is a sufficient guarantee against the transmission of disease.

New Amusement Park

Some of our citizens are arranging to organize a company and build an amusement park on the west side of town and within the city limits. A fine tract of land has been secured with a splendid sulphur spring bubbling up sufficiently strong to fill a pool in short order. It is proposed to build a cement pool of goodly size, dancing pavilion properly sheltered, bath houses, refreshment stands, sheds for carriages and automobiles and such shelters as will be necessary to give the maximum of pleasure with the minimum of exertion. The park will be within three minutes' run of the business center of Sanford and the company operating it will put out automobiles to carry the crowds and the late will be only five cents. With such attractions as outlined, this will easily be the best place of its kind in this section of Florida. —Bates in Times-Union.

Every Week Bridge Club

Mrs. Grace Barnes was the charming hostess of the Every Week Bridge Club at her pretty home on South Florida Tuesday afternoon. A few tables of bridge were played. The highest score was made by Mrs. Forrest Lake, who won the pretty prize a dainty cup and saucer. After the conclusion of the interesting games of cards a delicious salad course with iced tea was served by the hostess, whose guests were Mrs. C. M. Vorce, Mrs. W. R. Anno, Mrs. W. D. Holden, Mrs. Forrest Lake, Mrs. A. P. Connelly, Mrs. E. L. Miller, Mrs. T. A. Neal.

Clean Advertising

A printer said to us last week that if another paper started in Inverness and carried whiskey advertisements it would succeed. Otherwise it would not, because the Chronicle had the cinch on legal ads for the next three years. If an avowed whiskey sheet starts in Inverness, it would not last as long as a snowball in hades. The citizenship of Citrus county is far above the average. One may be a confirmed drinker, but he would not put the temptation before the rising generation under any circumstances. No, a whiskey sheet would not pay here, and the man who tries it would have more money than brains. —Inverness Chronicle.

Williams Was a Veteran

A. C. Williams, who died last week was a veteran of the Civil and Indian wars and the following history has been compiled by one of his comrades. He enlisted at the beginning of the Civil war in the 11th Kentucky Cavalry serving out his first term. He then enlisted in the 9th Ohio Cavalry and served during the war and afterward in the Indian wars in the west being discharged from the army in 1866.

He was post commander of Gen. Harney Post No. 16, Department of Florida, G. A. R. and was loved and respected by all his comrades.

Enthusiastic Meeting Of Sanford Growers

Florida Growers And Shippers League Discussed

Branch League Will Be Established Here In A Few Weeks Of Seminole Growers

It begins to appear as if the growers of this section of Florida will at least get together for their own protection. On Saturday last B. F. Hamner, secretary of the Florida Shippers and Growers League addressed a meeting in the Star Theatre called for the purpose of organizing a branch here and was well attended. Many present paid their membership fee and signified their willingness to form a branch of the association here.

Mr. Hamner addressed the meeting and in a clear and forceful manner explained that the farmers of Florida were the only class of men today who were not organized for their own protection. That the railroads and commission men and every other agency through whose hands the products of the soil were forced to go where organized and knew as much about the farmer's business as he does himself. That the time had come for the Florida farmer to organize or quit raising fruits and vegetables.

He explained the idea and working plans of the Growers and Shippers League. That it was not made up of only the grower but of the shipper as well and that all parties concerned in the growing and shipping of Florida products would work together for the common weal of all and that this organization was entirely different from any other organization proposed. The Florida Growers and Shippers League will not attempt to market the crops of the members as an organization but will assist in every way the better growing, packing and shipping of same and will have market wires available for the members. The League will protect the members in all phases of the growing and shipping. The processing system, better refrigeration, better cars, better freight rates, better distribution and better markets will be some of the features striven for and obtained through concerted action of the League and that could never be obtained by individuals. The stumbling block of many organizations heretofore has been the engaging members of the organization to pay dues. The League will have features, better than any other, which members dissatisfied in any way followed. If the Florida farmers can get together on the better growing, diversity of crops, better packs, better rates and service and better distribution by the "blanket" rates now in vogue in all normal the question of selling will be reduced to a science and the growers themselves can be depended upon to do their own selling. There will be no intermediaries among the members of the League to sell to certain firms. Through the plans of the organization the growers can almost be guaranteed good prices through reliable firms who at their end of the market can be guaranteed good stuff, rightly packed, properly refrigerated and shipped by fast trains direct from field to market.

Under these conditions there will be no chance for dissatisfaction among the members. There should be no charges of graft or buncombe for the members will be independent at the selling end and will owe allegiance to no one. The League ought to solve the question for the Florida farmer. Much depends upon the personnel of the officers and the members. Every farmer in Florida realizes the need of organization and that in organization alone will the future of Florida truck and fruit growing depend.

The idea of the new League looks good to The Herald and like every idea that has ever been advanced for organization this paper will lend its support. It would be well for every grower in Seminole county to read the circulars and plans of the new organization and join the branch to be established here.

Hammond Case Settled

Tried three times within the past six years the celebrated Hammond case is now a settled affair, the case having been twice appealed and remanded for a new trial, the last trial being appealed by formal notice of intention but the appeal being finally abandoned.

The case was brought to its final close yesterday when judgment in the matter of J. T. Hammond vs. the Consolidated Grocery Company et al was satisfied of record, all papers being signed by the attorneys while in the office of clerk of the United States district court, Southern District of Florida.

The amount of the judgment was: Damages and interest, $10,093.33; attorney's fees allowed by the court, $7,500; court costs, $679.54.

John T. Hammond sued the Consolidated Grocery Company, et al, for damages, alleging that defendants were an unlawful combination in restraint of trade, and that it had wrongfully put him out of business as a merchant in Orlando.

The first verdict obtained by the plaintiff was for $25,000. The second was for $1, while the last, for $10,000, is said to have been a compromise verdict, some jurors, it is alleged, standing out for $100,000 damages for the plaintiff. —Times-Union.

Welfare Department Notes

The Welfare Department of the Woman's Club held its regular meeting at the club room on Thursday afternoon at 4 o'clock, July 24th.

The heat of the summer seems in no wise to have lessened the interest nor vivacity of the members who were present, and the time was spent in earnest discussion of subjects and plans whereby this may become a literal Welfare Department to be relied upon by our city as its efficient and willing helpmeet in every effort for its moral and material benefit.

A letter was read from Dr. Ellen L. Stevens of Jacksonville, chairman of the Health Department of the State Federation of Clubs in reference to the disposal of sewage through dry wells and septic tanks as a possible source of infection of the artesian water supply. Dr. Stevens stated that the State Board of Health has decided to undertake a new series of water examinations in localities where these systems are in use, and the report of which she will report later to the club.

Dr. Stevens also made an earnest appeal to the club for its influence in creating sentiment for the selection of Jacksonville as the site for a tubercular camp, our metropolis being the gateway through which this great danger most menaces the state, and a legislative enactment having already provided for such an institution to be located within the bounds of the state.

This letter was referred to the general committee of the club.

The chairman of the club, Mrs. W. M. Stafford, who has been a member of the club for many years, has been particularly active in the past few weeks, left Wednesday for Williston, Levy county, where he will shortly begin the publication of a weekly paper. Mr. Stafford purchased the plant of the North Starke Printer and has shipped it to Williston, R. O. Daniel, who owned and operated the North Starke Printer, is in Brooklyn, N. Y., to take a course at the factory of the Mergenthaler Linotype Company. When he has completed this course he will return to Starke and be connected with the Telegraph's mechanical department.

Williston in Hazy Paper

The hazy telegraph of W. M. Stafford, who has been a member of the club for many years, has been particularly active in the past few weeks, left Wednesday for Williston, Levy county, where he will shortly begin the publication of a weekly paper. Mr. Stafford purchased the plant of the North Starke Printer and has shipped it to Williston, R. O. Daniel, who owned and operated the North Starke Printer, is in Brooklyn, N. Gold Bricked in DeLand

A couple of weeks ago a law traveling under the name of J. Goldstein hit DeLand and made a thorough canvass of the town. Goldstein wanted junk—old brass, old iron, old auto and bicycle tires. For some he paid cash, while for others he traded even—gave in return "junk" in the shape of drafts on the Florida Junk Company of Pensacola. The drafts are now coming back with "no reason given" for turning them down. Mr. Goldstein will probably change his occupation to gathering crude turpentine when the courts get through with him. —DeLand News.

Sanford's Big Pay Roll

The fact is not generally known that Sanford has a monthly pay roll among the railway employees who reside here amounting to $20,000 per month. One-third of this is paid to the men employed in the shops and round houses and the remainder is paid to the trainmen who change crews at this point, as Sanford is the end of two divisions as well as being the terminal of three branch lines. This makes business good in this town every month in the year.

Sanford Is Boosted In Department Year Book

Florida's Crops More Diversified Than Any Other State

The Average Yield Per Acre On Sanford Land Greatest In United States

The year book of the department of agriculture is the strongest kind of a booster for Florida. If farmers of other states would make a habit of reading it Florida would fill up with people more rapidly than any state ever has before. A few years ago we quoted from the year book of 1911 the statement:

"Florida produces the most delicate fruit and winter crops in the dead of the northern winter."

It should be remembered that this is a clear gain. Other states do not produce any crops at all in the dead of winter. The Florida winter vegetable crops bring enormous prices because they have no competition, are out of the way before the farmers of other states plant, and go the Florida grower after harvesting this highly profitable crop, can compete with the growers of other states for the balance of the year.

We have often mentioned the fact that Florida has been known to produce $1,000, $1,500, $2,000, $2,500 and in one well authenticated instance over three thousand dollars worth of products on one acre. We have always felt that the farmers of other states' farms at getting from $50 to $100 per acre, would doubt this statement if they saw it. Well, here is a statement from the year book of the department of agriculture for 1911, page 316:

"A combination of irrigation and drainage at Sanford, Fla., has transformed worthless lands into those producing crops of heavy value, $2,500 per acre for one crop."

Mark the words "for one crop," for they mean something. Besides the celery, three or four other crops can be grown on the same ground in a year for Florida's growing season is twelve months long.

The year book of the department of agriculture does not furnish tables showing the production by states of small crops such as cabbage, onions, lettuce, celery, tomatoes, nor of fruits and berries. These are Florida's principal products and are of far greater value than any other crops. The fruit and vegetable crops are so much more profitable.

On 676,000 acres of land Florida produced last year 9,250,000 bushels of corn and 4,100,000 bushels of wheat. The United States produced 2,552,000,000 bushels of corn and 1,825,000,000 bushels of wheat. The average yield per acre in Florida was $112 per acre, while that of the whole country averaged 64 cents per bushel or $14.64 per acre. So the average of the United States is only $2.64 more on a crop that must be the only crop grown on an acre, than the Florida grower gets on one of a number of crops.

No little wheat is grown in Florida that this state is not mentioned in the list of what producing states.

On 43,500 acres of land Florida produced 580,000 bushels of oats, worth $435,000. The United States produced 592,298,000 bushels worth $414,663,000 or 37,768,000 bushels. The average value of the produce per acre in Florida was $10.12, and in the United States $10.98 per acre.

Florida produced an average of 90 bushels of potatoes worth $130.50 per acre. Florida beat the average of the country a little more than two to one.

Florida averages 1.3 tons of hay worth $23.67 per acre. The United States averaged 1.1 tons worth $16.15 per acre. In hay Florida averaged nearly 30 per cent more in value per acre than the United States.

Florida produced on an acre an average of 940 pounds of tobacco, worth $293.20, against an average for the United States of 894 pounds worth $84.13. Florida's tobacco yields more than three times as much per pound as that of the country taken as a whole.

Florida grows cotton a little less per acre than those of other states the figures are not given, but it is of the Sea Island variety worth about twice as much per pound as the uplands cotton grown in other states.

The average farmer of the middle west could sell 100 acres of land and with the proceeds buy 300 acres in Florida, which would yield him at least as much value as 600 acres of western land.

could produce and which in a few years will sell for more than western land per acre. Crop by crop Florida will average higher than nearly any other state, and the crop compared is the only one in other states and only one of a number grown on the same land in this state. When these facts become fully known the rush to Florida will be greater than ever was the rush to Oklahoma. —Florida Times-Union.

Music Department

At a meeting of the Music Department of the Woman's Club called by Mrs. Fannie S. Munson, chairman of the department and which was held at the home of Mrs. F. L. Woodruff, Mrs. Munson requested that the department would accept her resignation as chairman, stating that the multiplicity of her engagements with her music pupils for the coming fall and winter season would prevent her attending the regular meetings of the department and giving the necessary attention to the work planned for the coming year.

As there was no other alternative, the representatives of the Music Department who were present were forced with generally expressed regrets to accept Mrs. Munson's resignation.

Mrs. D. L. Thrasher was then unanimously elected chairman of the Music Department of the Woman's Club, who congratulate themselves that they were so very fortunate in prevailing upon so able a musician to accept the chairmanship. Mrs. Thrasher has been identified with the music interests of Sanford for a number of years and will make a fine presiding officer.

Mrs. George Fox, Jr., was appointed on the house committee of the Music Department and Miss Mary McKim on the press committee.

After a general discussion of the new program and other department activities the meeting adjourned.

Frank Clark on Deck

Washington, D. C., July 25. In the face of the strained situation in Mexico, a concurrent resolution strongly reaffirming the Monroe doctrine was introduced in the House today by Representative Clark of Florida. The resolution, which was referred to the foreign affairs committee, was directed particularly against "people whom the Caucasian cannot and will not assimilate."

We heretofore realize what is known as the "Monroe Doctrine" in each and every essential," the resolution read, "and declares our unflinching allegiance thereto."

"In reaffirming the 'Monroe Doctrine,'" concludes the resolution, "we do so with the earnest desire to maintain peace and friendly relations with every nation upon earth, but we cannot permit the further extension of any colonial empire of European nations upon any territory of this hemisphere and particularly shall we object to such colonization by peoples with whom the Caucasian cannot and will not assimilate."

Timber Thieves

Mr. J. O. Fries, county surveyor reports that wholesale thieving of hard wood timber has recently been made near Chuluota, and some of it on government lands. It seems high time that a check should be made upon this practice which has been pursued for many years by timber thieves in Orange county, by placing the guilty party or parties on the chain gang where they belong. —Orlando Sentinel.

Bates' Heavy Artillery

Secretary Bates of the Commercial Club has arranged with the War Department for a gift to Sanford of a cannon which weighs 17,190 pounds and which will fire a 13-inch bullet. It will be placed in the Fifth street park and will be used from time to time to hurl our regards at our admiring friends who reside in Orange county. —Bates in Times-Union.

Card of Thanks

To those who aided and assisted in many ways in ministering to the afflicted and in alleviating our sorrows during the recent illness and death of our husband and father we wish to give our heartfelt thanks. Their kind words and deeds are appreciated to the fullest.
