People who golf together...

ORANGE CITY — Four retired couples who enjoy golfing and playing Florida Lotto together in Orange City, packed into a van and drove to Tallahassee Monday.

At Lottery headquarters, they presented a winning Lotto Jackpot ticket which was purchased at Publix, 2556 Enterprise Road in Orange City.

They will receive 20 annual installments of 6689,500 with the total payments amounting to 013.79 million.

At Lottery headquarters, officials said the couples asked that payment be made to the "NBCF Trust." They said NBCF stands for "No Bloody Chance of Failing."

One of the couples retired and moved to Orange City from California. Another is originally from Scotland, and two couples are seasonal residents from Johannesburg, South Africa. The ages range from the mid 50s to upper 70s.

All of them live in the same neighborhood.

Senior and junior students and their parents are invited to attend.

Lucrative regatta could sail away

By MICK PPEIFAUF Herald Staff Writer

SANFORD — Without improvements to Sanford's lakefront, the city may lose the lucrative Satifest event.

Sailfest organizers want to return to Sanford again this year. The event, once known as the Red Lobster Regatta and Tangerine Bowl races, has been staged in the waters of Lake Monroe off Sanford's shore for 17 of its 24 years. The matter was brought up for discussion during Monday afternoon's work session of the Sanford City Commission.

City Manager Bill Simmons said Bob Roth, owner and executive director of Sailfest had approached him and asked if the city would upgrade the area along the Lake Monroe shore for the sailing regatta. "In the past we brought in sand to upgrade the shoreline," he said. "but last year with the high water, we had some large pleces of concrete brought in to prevent the water from washing out the shore."

Simmons admitted the large pieces would be difficult to handle for people walking in the shallow area of the lake in the process of working on boats to be entered in the race.

He suggested that someone, perhaps a sheriff's department work crew, could be obtained to break up the large concrete chunks and make the lake bottom smoother.

SANFORD — Controversy continues over a borrow pit located along Marquette Road, south of the Orlando Sanford Airport.

Citizens in the surrounding neighborhood, who had flocked to county commission meetings to protest the pit early this year, say stipulations for the continued operation have not been met.

Seminole County officials however, say their hands are tied at the present time, but efforts are under way to bring it back for further determination.

The borrow pit consists of 11.9 acres. In mid-February, pit owners Sid Vihlen Jr. and Ben Benham had requested approval to expand it to 27 acres. Citizens objected The commission not only defeated the request unanimously, but an associated request to have a four-year extension of the pit operation permit was trimmed down to two years. The move was made when the commission provided for time to allow for the removal of dirt which was still available in the original pit, estimated at 650,000 cubic yards.

School to Work program explained

By VICKI DeBORMIER Herald Senior Staff Writer

HEATHROW — While most people have at least heard about the School to Work initiatives being planned and implemented by the Seminole County school district, businesses are being asked to get more involved in the preparation of students for the work world.

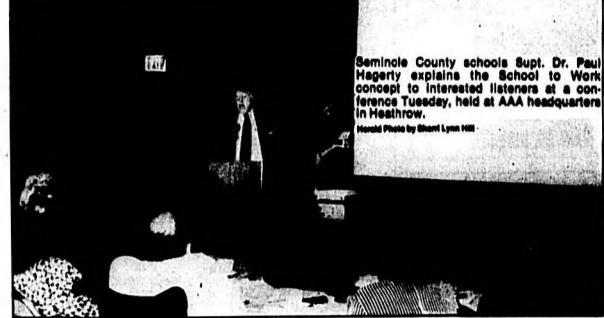

On Tuesday, a leadership conference on the matter took place at AAA headquarters in Heathrow, coordinated by school board member Larry Strickler, the state chairman of School to Work programs, and Tim Giannoni, the county School to Work coordinator.

"It was time to start the process of setting up a local School to Work committee," Strickler said. "We invited local businesses to come and be a part of it."

Potential business partners, who may work with the school district in organizing the program that begins preparing youngsters for careers in the primary grades, were on hand to hear how the program works. Forms were distributed to those wishing to serve on the committee.

Supt. Paul Hagerty explained that the School to Work program prepares students for work by showing them how what they are learning can be applied in the real world.

"(School to Work is) an educational reform strategy where all students learn high level mathematics, science, communication and thinking skills by solving real life problems." he said.

The program, organizers said, is a "carear bound" education system where students make a commitment to life-long learning.

Strickler said it is the first market-driven educational program. Public and private employers, he explained, will constantly update the curriculum by making sure the classes are tailored to the needs of business. Students, he said, are ready to enter the workplace in higher level positions when they graduate.

School to Work, employers were told, are taught the Five Ra throughout school. In addition to the traditional "Reading, 'Riting and 'Rithmetic," the youngsters are taught "Relevance and Responsibility," values needed in the Disc School, Page SA

Talking trash

As evidenced by the extensive discussion undertaken by the Sanford City Commission at a work session Monday afternoon, the problem of trash piles is getting worse.

Single family residence owners are allowed four free pickups per year for items which fall outside the normal pickups, such as old sofas, byoken cabinets, lamps, refrigerators and other items.

All it takes is a phone call to the Solid Waste Division and everything can be arranged. But people are not doing that. They are just toosing their junk wherever they see fit.

People move out of their homes, tossing out everything they don't want to take with them. resulting in piles of trash heaped up next to our city streets.

Some people put their leftovers right out in front. Others go to some unoccupied house or empty lot for their dumping. They believe the law can't find out who they are if they put their trach elsewhere.

What's going to happen? It's simple. The city has decided to try sending out crews on Saturday, (paying overtime wages), in order to have these piles eliminated. But they will continue appearing and we don't believe the limited equipment and personnel we presently have, even working on overtime hours, can keep up with it.

As a result, the city will eventually have to the former of the more vehicles with ting an ingures or more, which has not talkin been budgeted.

That will raise the city's expenses and as a result, take more money from the operating budget. Other projects, some which may be extremely important, may have to be trimmed in order to meet this requirement, or perhaps the city will be forced to raise taxes in order to pay for it.

Politics: Don't snicker at SNC

It is now being said, tut-tut, that Bob Dole's campaign will "go negative." The new Dole campaign team, it is explained, actually has experience in going negative. If so, it's about damn time, and perhaps too late. As this is written, it is only eight weeks to Election Day, pretty close to the edge of where it can be said it is 'a lifetime in politics.''

I approve of serious negative campaigning (SNC). It is hard to get anything done in this country if you don't have a seriously negative election. How can voter's appraise what's seriously wrong if no one suggests what's seriously wrong and offers no serious plans to change what's wrong? Contrary to popular belief, it may be harder to run a smart negative belief, it may be harder to run a smart negative campaign than a smart positive campaign. The essence of a positive campaign was sketched out many years ago: "Spend, spend, spend, elect, elect, elect." Today's politics demand a baloney balanced budget to go along with spending. Negative campaigning operates in a more difficult climate. Voters hate it. Too often negativism has degenerated into name-calling and scandal-mondering. Sometimes, also, that and scandal-mongering. Sometimes, alas, that succeeds, but it does no honor to democracy.

SNC operates from a different premise: It deals with big ideas first and small personalities last. opponent, establishing credibility.

It's liberaliam, dummkopfi it's harmed Americal That's why more voters say social issues and morality are more important than economics and paychecks. Voters sense that anti-liberal toughness on crime, and now welfare, has begun to help. Is Clinton still an "L-Word" Democrat? The only way we'll ever find out (they should say) is for him to get 270 electoral votes on Nov. 5. Rest assured, such an attack will be declared "diversionary" by the Clinton campaign. It will be assaulted in much of the mainstream media as harsh, negative, unfair, racist and so forth.

HIS NOULD BY A GREAT SCANGAL IF MORRIS HAD ADDRENONED

HOUSTON -- Mexico's most notorious alleged drug trafficker prefers boxer shorts over briefs, wears religious pendants for good luck, and likes to have his enemies executed on the 17th day of the month in memory of his late brother.

Juan Garcia Abrego goes on trial here this month on drug and money laundering charges, and it promises to be a colorful and revealing affair. Though his lawyers claim he is innocent. Garcia Abrego was long reputed to be the No. 1 drug trafficker in Mexico -- a man who pioneered Mexico's highly profitable role in the distribution of Colombian coasine in the United States. At his peak, he was believed by Drug Enforcement Administration officials to be personally responsible for 70 percent of the cocaine entering the United States.

At his peak, he was believed to be personally responsible for 70 percent of the cocaine entering the United States.

'That's a shame. Who would have to pay more taxes? The people with homes valued at over $25,000, who are not exempt because of homestead exemption. As we all know, it is seldom people who own more costly homes who put these trash piles along the curb.

As people who work in this field will tell you, it is mostly the rental units where the problems often appear.

Call the Solid Waste Division at 330-5679. and let the city know you have an unusual pile of trash to be picked up. Or take it upon yourself to get rid of your own junk.

You may be leaving our community, but you are certainly not helping anyone by leaving it in such a mess. Would you want a neighbor to do it to you?

WASHINGTON .- Some unsolicited advice for high school teachers: Have your youngsters read Susanne Chasin's article, "Teen Pregnancy, Let's Get Real," in the current Reader's Digest.

WILLIAM RASPBERRY

While I'm at it. it couldn't be a bad idea if our policy-makers took a look, too.

For the youngsters, Chazin's piece might help strip away some of the romantic myths-"We'll get married," "My baby and I don't need a man," 'I can still get an education and a good job"--that more often than not turn out to be false.

The policy-makers already know how seidom these youthful dreams work out for children who have children. They also know that the trend of teenage, unwed childbearing is up: from 16.7 per 1,000 teens (aged 15 to 19) in 1965 to 46.4 per 1,000 in 1984--some 350,000 new unmarried teen mothers every year.

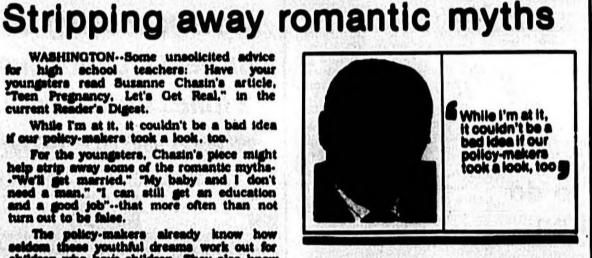

What they may not understand sufficiently is that this is not solely a phenomenon involving low-income black youngsters from America's inner cities. Chasin's article looks at three white middle-class girls to make just this point.

And she offers sexually active youngsters some sobering statistics: "More than half of teen-age mothers are not living with their child's father by the time the child reaches grade school. More than a quarter have never lived with the father ... Only 30 percent of never-married mothers receive formal child support." Pewer than half of unwed teenage mothers marry within the next few years, and those who do are twice as likely to divorce within five years as women who marry in their 20's.

The dismal numbers call to mind what William A. Galston, a former White House policy adviser, used to call his favorite statistic, Americans who finish high school, reach age 30 and get married before they have their first child have only an 8 percent chance that the child will grow up in poverty. For these who don't do these three things before having their first child, the odds that that child will live in poverty rise to 79 The dismal numbers call to mind what

As Chasin's piece makes clear, it's hard for children to foresee the consequences of presentive sex, or to imagine that their delightful little babies can turn into anothere that hold them in poverty. That's why I urgs high school teachers to have their children read and discuss the article.

read and discuss the article. The reason I unje it on policy-matters is a little more difficult to state. Talk of welfare reform used to conjure up a picture of lasy women, mostly black or Hispanic, turning out veritable litters of children to be cared for by hard-pressed tampayers. That picture never was the whole truth, and even to the degree that it reflected any truth, it was difficult to think of realistic solutions.

Demanding that a confidence-less, skill-less, never-employed, unmarried mother of six children go out and find a job is more exasperation than policy. For most such women, the prospects of self-sufficiency are so dim as to hardly be worth discussing.

But today's welfare-reform discussion proceeds from a different mental image: not of 35-year-olds whose chances have pretty much passed them by but of teenagers about to begin that diamal journey. The pressing welfare question today is how to induce teenagers into making decisions that will keep them from becoming unwed teenage mothers.

And whatever the unfairness of that formulation, it is the young women that our efforts need, at least at the outset, to address. Of course it's true that boys as well as girls need to be taught sexual responsibility, need to understand the dismaying consequences of too-early sex, need to recognise that children do need both parents in their lives.

But it is also true, as Chasin's article reminds, that the direct consequences of sexual imprudence fail most directly on girls. We used to acknowledge that fact and gas ar advice to accommediate it. Then we decided it was unbit to put the burden of sexual respensibility principally on the girls, and our public discussions changed to accommodate our new non-sexist altitude. The results have not been encouraging.

Maybe it's time to take Chasin's advice:

The second se

Espousing family values

PUEBLO, Colo. - Using words of compassion and trust, President Clinton and Republican nominee Bob Dole locked swords in a long-distance confrontation over which of them is the real family values candidate.

Today the issue was drugs - again - as Clinton planned to urge states to test inmates and parolees for narcotics and offer rehabilitation. Aides, speaking on condition of anonymity, said he will warn states they could lose their share of 88 billion in prison construction funds if they refuse.

Clinton also planned to pass out $27 million for fighting drugs and offer legislation to Congress that would tie drug tests to jail funds.

On Tuesday, Dole accused Clinton of being soft on drugs. telling a rally in Murfreesboro. Tenn., that a casual attitude toward narcotic use permeates Clinton's administration.

Choate joins Perot on ticket

DALLAS - Economist Pat Choate joined Ross Perot on his Reform Party ticket, melding similar views on core issues such as trade and government power and a distaste for the "razzmatazz" of the campaign trail.

Rather than just do razzmatazz and sort of the old traditional political campaign, we're going to do talk shows where people can talk with us," Choate said Tuesday night in a bit of must-see TV for Perot watchers.

Although he's a campaign novice and a second-string pick. Choste knows how Washington - and Perot's mind - works. But can the bearded addition to the Reform Party ticket attract new voters to the new party?

Bruce Buchanan, a University of Texas political scientist who has studied Perot, said it's too soon to say whether Choate was a good pick, but people might not forget Perot sought other established politicians first.

Double blow to gay-rights activists

WASHINGTON - Stung by the Senate's one-vote rejection of a bill to prohibit job discrimination against homosexuals. gay rights activists say they'll try to get it reintroduced before Congress adjourns this fall. But another bill placing federal curbs on same-sex marriages is going to President Clinton for his signature.

In a double blow to gay-rights activists Tuesday, the Senate voted 50-49 to kill the anti-discrimination bill and to reject same-sex marriage in federal law, 85-14.

Twenty-six of the Senate's 47 Democrats joined Republicans in voting for the marriage bill but also voted for the job discrimination measure - underscoring the political predicament faced by senators who have supported gay rights.

Fewer Americans get health care coverage

By LAURA MEOKLER Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON - American work life has changed, but health insurance hasn't changed with it, the American Hospital Association charged in releasing a new report.

The report shows that 73.9 percent of Americans had health insurance from their employers in 1995, down from a high of 77.7 percent in 1990. The percentage is likely to keep dropping, the study concluded.

The decline can be traced to a fundamental change in American work life, with more Americans working part time, working in service industries, working for more than one employer and changing jobs more frequently, said Carmela Coyle, the association's vice president for policy.

This makes them less likely to have insurance, she explained. "Work structure in America has changed, but health care coverage hasn't changed to keep pace with it," she said. Consequently, fewer people had health insurance, the study concluded. "I think these are trends that were going on during the na-tional health care debate" in 1993, when Congress failed to pass any health care reform bill. Coyle said.

While as a nation we've decided that perhaps this isn't something we can handle in one comprehensive chunk, that doesn't mean this is going to go away." she said.

The study estimated that 39.6 million Americana are without health insurance and predicted the number will grow to 45.6 million by 2002.

It also noted that only 18 percent of Americana who leave jobs take advantage of the federal law program that allows them to keep their insurance if they pay its full cost.

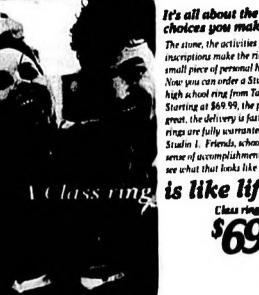

"Most can't afford the premiums." which average 9464 per monthly for a family policy. the study said.

The insurance industry agrees that universal coverage is needed to prevent gaps in coverage, said Richard P. insurance.'

Coorsh, spokesman for the Health Insurance Association of America.

Absent that, he said, the key is to keep health care costs low.

"The industry is pushing for cost containment, including the apread of managed care." Coorsh said. "If health care cost less, more employers would offer it. You can't have high-cost health care and low-cost health

SHS girls wake up 'Ghosts', Pats can't beat Tribe

From Staff Reports

SANFORD — Did anybody see Patrick Swayse in Sanford on Tuesday night? Playing its first home match of the season, the Seminole girls' volleyball team hardly looked like the same team that had finished second in the Lake Mary Invitational over the weekend, promining Tribs hard seaso Beth Corres to make prompting Tribe head coach Beth Corso to make a reference to a popular film.

"I felt like I was in the movie 'Chost'," said Corso. "I turned to my assistant during the first game an told her I didn't know what was going es, no matter who I put in or what changes we made, nothing seemed to change. It was weird."

But despite their 'mysterious' play at the beginning of the match, the Fighting Seminoles came on strong to pull out the win in three games, 8-15, 15-10, 15-4, over Lake Brantley in Beminole Athletic Conference action at Bill Fleming Memorial Gymnasium.

"Lake Brantley is greatly improved and they're setting better in every game." said Corso. "They came in here ready to play and they were on. They were pounding the ball and when we did dig it out the ball would fail to the floor between two or three people. "The lights went out in the gym during the junior varsity game and I think that's when the ghosts got in. They could have beat us, we were ugly tonight, but in the end we got it done." As the scores suggest, the Tribe did not really start playing until midway in the second game, then played very well to win going away.

"We seemed to click on and they clicked off at about the same time," said Corso. "We came in here really wanting to play well in our first home game, but I think there was still a little let down from losing in the finals of the Lake Mary Tournament, we really felt like we should have won the trophy."

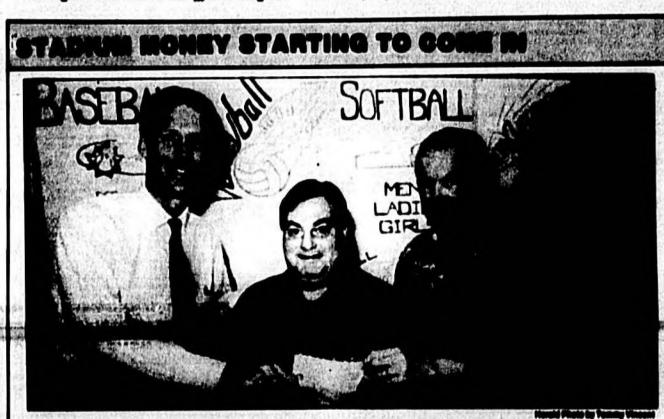

Multi-sport star Sabreena Sapp (volleyball, soccer, football) had a huge third game, getting two solo blocks, four kills and three assists.

"Sabreena's placement of the ball was excel-lent, she was very flashy in that last game," and Corso. "But all of the ladies played well all the way through the last game."

Seminole will open district play tonight, hosting St. Cloud in a junior varsity-varsity doubleheader starting at 5 p.m. at Bill Fleming and then the Tribe will get back to BAC action on Thursday with a same against Lake Howell at the new Winter Springs campus. That frosh-JV-varsity tripleheader starts at 4:30 p.m.

Sebreens Sepp, who kicked an extra point for the football team Friday night, starred for the girls volleyball team on Tuesday night.

Koncak may be finished

Leaselated Press

ORLANDO - Orlando Magic center Jon Koncak's career remains uncertain following the third surgery on his troublesome left

After Tuesday's removal of torn cartilage and bone spurs, the 11-year NBA veteran and the decision to rease with rest unit of the decision suited with doctors and Madic, of-ficials, and has weighed the likeliof nurt noos of rurtner injury if he con-tinues to play. "I really want to play one more year. I really want to finish with another season." last year's backup to Shaquille O'Neal told the Orlando Sentinel. "But right now. I don't know if that will be possible." Koncak was hurt during running

Chattanooga 7, Jacksonville 3

JACKSONVILLE - Chattanooga pitcher Curt Lyons pulled out a clutch performance in the Southern League Championship opener Tuesday, striking out 13 batters in seven and a third innings for a 7-3 win over Jacksonville. The Lookouts drove in six unanswered rune in three innings to break a 1-1 tie and held back an eighth-inning Sune rally to take a 1-0 lead in the best-of-5 series.

Marlins 9, Mets 3, 12 innings

NEW YORK - Edgar Renteria's leadoff homer in the 19th started a six-run inning that gave the Florida Martins a 8-3 victory over the New York Mets 8-3 Tuesday night. Renteria, who also had three singles, hit the first pitch from Doug Henry (3-8) over the left field fence for his fourth homer of the season. After walking Gary Sheffield and giving up a single to Jeff Conine, Henry was tagged for a two-run triple by pinch-bitter Jerry Brooks. Alex Arias believed with his South hit of the game, an RBI double. Kurt Abbott then thit a two-run double to cap the scoring. Jay Powell (4-1) pitched two perfect innings for the victory.

for the victory.

Butler Injured

LOS ANGELES - Brett Butler, who made in inspirational return to the Los Angeles lineup last week after missing more than four months because of tonal cancer, broke his left hand and is probably out for the season. Butler, 30, was hit in the hand while trying to bunt in the fourth insting. X-rays revealed a broken fifth metacarpal on his throwing hand, which was to be put in a splint.

Brantley's Ashley Nasser had cruised to a six-second win over Lake Howell's Cally Howell. But at Saturday's first regular season Cross Country meet, the Lake Brantley Open, Howell edged Nasser by two seconds to claim the girls' individual championship. Despite Howell's efforts, however, her Silver Hawks had to settle for third behind the host Patriots and runner-up Winter Park.

Sometimes you just have to wing it

NEA Food Writer

Now everyone knows that, these days, when it comes to chicken, we're supposed to be eating it without its skin. posched or brotled, with maybe a few fresh herbs. So I guess I had better turn myself over to the Nutrition Police when I make the following confusion: I love chicken wings. OK. I'll come clean. I love to est EUFFALO wings, which, as we all know, are FRIED. MY supermarket sells the hottest, greaslest, sells the hottest, greasiest, yummiest Buffalo wings around, and every so often I need a fix. The down side, as far as I'm concerned, is that I have to share them with my kids. Now, I'm sure none of you out there would confees to such a gross, nutritionally incorrect habit. But just in case there are a few fellow reprobates, and just in ches you don't live near a supermarket that sells great greasy wings. I'm offering a few recipes. The rest of you can just avert your eyes, and keep counting those fat grame.

counting those fat grams. The first recipe here was de-veloped by Matt Heatley, a student at the New England Culinary Institute in Easer. VI. Culinary Institute in Easex. VL. and I am sorry to say that the wings are based, not fried. But Matt says you COULD fry them (and finish them in the oven), and at least they still have the skin on. And they ARE delicious. The Buffalo Wings recipe is adapted from the one that appears in Jennifer Trainer Thompson's book "Hot Licks": she gives her source as the An-chor Bar in Buffalo, N.Y., where Thereas Bellissimo first made them in 1964 as a snack for her son, serving them with blue choose dip and celery sticks. (Hot sauce fane will find it an interesting coincidence that. according to Thompson. Thereas was married to Frank of Frank's Original RedHot sauce)

Then there's the Wing Ding recipe from "Texas Home Cooking." a recipe which authors Cheryl and Bill Jamison introduce with the words: "The citizens of Buffalo should be begging for chicken wings as wey and eases as the the honey-setame wings: the recipe has been kicking around my kitchen forever. Just think of it as coming from that great fryolater in the sky.

How to cope with vaginitis and a stand of the second stand s

DEAR DR. GOTT: 1 was plagued with vaginitia/cystitis for years. I have tried all the solutions you mentioned, i, too, thought 1 must have an allergy to semen. Finally, my family physician recommended 1 use a product that contains 10 percent uree mixed with vitamin E cil. I apply this solution to the vaginal aree prior to intercourse. Answard, I douche with warm water, clean with a towolette and apply the solution again. I have found relief. Maybe this will help others.

DEAR READER: Perhaps it will.

Since I wrote the original column, in which I debunked the theory that vaginal yeast infections can be caused by oral sex, I received numerous let-ters from readers who believe that such a relation exists.

However, an October 1996 article in the British medical journal The the British medical journal The Practitioner supports my position. The authors concluded that vaginal candidiasis (yeast) is rarely caused by sexual activity, contraceptive hor-mones or vitamin deficiency. I was also called on the carpet by readers who insisted that perfumed feminine-hygiene products and bubble baths can lead to vaginal infections. I stand corrected. It's clear that some — but by no means all — women and

- but by no means all - we young girls are sensitive to these compounds and, if recurring vaginal inflammation is a problem, should not industriantion is a product of the afflic-use them. I advise women who have this afflic-tion to address the issue frankly and openly with their gracelegists.

DEAR DR. GOTT: I'm a 57-year-old female with unwanted facial hair and cannot afford expensive professional treatment. I have seen an ad for per-sonal home electrolysis and want to know if this really works and is safe.

DEAR READER: Unwanted facial DEAR READER: Unwanted facial hair can usually be controlled by using a variety of techniques, includ-ing shaving, plucking, bloaching, was-ing, and electrolysis. This last method is usually performed by professional hygienists and involves the applica-tion of a mild electric current to kill the hair follicle.

Although I am not familiar with the product you mention, I can see no compelling reason not to use it. If you're careful and follow the manufac-turer's directions, home electrolysis should not be harmful.

DEAR DR. GOTT: Please discuss irritable bowel syndrome. My doctor irritable bowel syndrome. My doctor says it results from stress. I was raped as a child, institutionalized seven times, see a psychiatrist and need medication to help me sleep. I'm trying to put my life back together, yet sometimes I have an overwhelming feeling of failure. I suffer from nauses, diarrhes, stem-achaches and an isoing weight. He rulled the next beart, drew trumps and claimed. -Heated, the Greek peet who lived in the eighth century B.C., wrote, "Observe due measure, for right tim-ing is in all things the most important factor." In bridge, it's still true today.

No, this column hasn't turned to cooking. But which ingredient do you think I have in mind for today? In this deal, you are in four spades, the de-fenders beginning with two rounds of hearts. How would you continue? You are sitting in the sest originally occupied by Pedro Paulo Assumption. Known as P.P., he was part of the Brazilian team that wen the 1976 World Team Olympied. He also won the South American Teams for nine consocutive years (1967-1975) and 11 times in 13 years, missing only in 1976. Given the double fit, it is reasonable for fouth to take a shot at four spades. Faced with losers in hearts and Faced with losers in hearts and clubs, P.P. needed to find West with
