TODAY

BRIEFS

P&Z meeting

SANFORD — The Sanford Planning and Zoning Commission meets tonight beginning at 7 p.m. in the commission chambers of Sanford City Hall.

Only two items were listed on the agenda, a public hearing for a conditional use and a site plan consideration.

The public hearing will be for alcoholic beverage sales regardless of alcoholic content, for consumption on premises, in conjunction with Cactus Bob's, at 1566 French Avenue.

The site plan consideration is for a proposed office/warehouse building at 125 Coastline Road and 101 Tech Drive, at Sanford Central Park.

Sanford City Hall is located at 300 N. Park Avenue in Sanford.

Buddy makes it big

TALLAHASSEE — State Senator Buddy Dyer, (D) Orlando, has been unanimously elected as Democratic Senate President-Designate by the Democratic members of the Florida Senate. His term of office begins after the next election in November, 1998. Elected to the Florida Senate in 1992, he represents District 14, which includes Seminole and Orange counties.

Black Family Health Fair

SANFORD — Kappa Sigma Omega Chapter of Alpha Kappa Alpha Sorority is presenting a community health fair this Saturday, Feb. 8, from noon until 3 p.m., at the Greater Sanford Chamber of Commerce, 400 E. First Street in Sanford.

Doctors will be available to answer questions on family health as well as offer information on immunizations for children, blood pressure checks, and free consultations for children and adults of all ages.

Doctors expected to be on hand include Dr. Ronald Lynch, (family practice), Dr. Ann Gilbert (OB/GYN), and Central Florida Black Nurses Association members.

First aid classes

LONGWOOD — The American Red Cross will hold another in its series of community first aid and safety classes on Saturday, Feb. 8 and Tuesday, Feb. 11. Interested local residents can learn a variety of life-saving skills for adults, children and infants, including CPR, rescue breathing and first aid for choking, poisonings, heat illness and shock.

Cost for the course is $40. The course will be held from 8 a.m. until 4 p.m. Saturday and 6 p.m. until 9 p.m. Tuesday, at the Seminole Service Center, 05 W. SR-434, Longwood.

For additional information or registration, phone 332-8200.

Gypsies strike again

LONGWOOD — The Seminole County sheriff's office is looking into a burglary in the Estates of Springs subdivision of Longwood yesterday in which a residence was burglarized by a woman claiming to have lost a dog.

This is the second time this week a burglary using the same modus operandi has occurred.

According to the sheriff's office, the occupant of the home returned home to find a woman running out of the house. While the homeowner speaks little English, officials said, she understood the woman to say that she had lost a dog and was looking for it.

When the homeowner went back inside, she found "a considerable amount of jewelry missing."

She described the suspect as 35 years old, short and heavy set with black hair. No vehicle was spotted in the area.

Car plunges 75 feet off St. Johns bridge

By VICKI DeBORNER
Herald Senior Staff Writer

SANFORD — To everyone's surprise, the driver of a car was only slightly injured in an accident on Wednesday night which sent his car sailing off Interstate 4 into the St. Johns River.

According to Inv. M.P. Kuczynski of the Florida Highway Patrol, Richard R. Dawkins Sr. was rescued from his 1986 Chevrolet after he plunged more than 75 feet into the river. FHP reports indicate that he was wearing a seatbelt at the time of the accident.

Kuczynski said Dawkins' car was struck by a 1977 Dodge van driven by Wesley J. Dillon of Deltona. According to the FHP investigation, Dillon was driving in the inside lane when he made an illegal lane change and crashed into the left side of the car, causing it to spin into the guard rail.

The guard rail gave way and the car careened into the water below.

"Dawkins remained conscious through the whole thing," Kuczynski said.

He was rescued by representatives of the Seminole County and the Sanford fire departments and transported to Columbia Medical Center-Sanford where he was treated for undisclosed minor injuries and held overnight for observation.

The van driven by Dillon flipped onto its side, but remained on the highway, FHP reports said.

Traffic was stopped eastbound for nearly two hours while investigators studied the accident scene and rescue workers removed Dawkins from the water. This is the second time this week that stretch of road was closed by an accident, Kuczynski noted.

Investigators charged Dillon with making an illegal lane change and then determined that he had been drinking. The charge of Driving Under the Influence (DUI) was added. Kuczynski said the investigation is continuing and other charges are pending as well, but

1997 Seminole County School-Related Employees of the Year

Top honors: Sanford Middle School's Carol Ahlstrand

By VICKI DeBORNER
Herald Senior Staff Writer

SANFORD — Sanford Middle School has done it again.

The school which produced the 1996 Seminole County Teacher of the Year in Madeline Zimmerman, has now given the county this year's School Related Employee of the Year.

Carol Ahlstrand is an instructional assistant in a class for emotionally disturbed students. She was selected from among 55 entrants representing each of the schools, the district office and the transportation department.

A staff meeting called for after school on Wednesday provided the forum for surprising Ahlstrand with red roses and congratulations from principal Bill Moore, Supt. Paul Hagerty and school board chairman Sandy Robinson.

Sanford train wreck passengers believed unhurt

By NICK PFEIFFAU
Herald Staff Writer

Amtrak's Silver Meteor, en route from Miami to New York, stopping in Sanford and other Central Florida cities, came to a crashing halt at approximately 5 p.m. Wednesday.

The train, with 187 passengers and 16 crew members, hit a tractor-trailer truck about 13 miles north of Jacksonville.

Amtrak spokesman Marci Larson at the Jacksonville office said there were two persons listed as having boarded the train when it passed through Sanford. Their names were not immediately known, although it is believed neither of them was among those injured.

"I was on the scene until about 3:30 this morning," Larson told the Sanford Herald. "And while it really looked like a bad wreck at first, I was surprised at how quickly they were able to right the cars, replace the tracks and make arrangements for the passengers to continue their trip."

Larson said almost all of the people were once again on their way north by early morning. "Only a few decided to stay in the area," she said, "and of course we have several crewmen who are being checked over at a hospital to be certain they didn't suffer severe injuries."

Cops discover wounded man is murder suspect

By ROGER HARNACK
Herald Correspondent

NEW SMYRNA BEACH, Fla. — A car theft suspect shot and seriously wounded by a police officer turned out to be a paroled killer suspected of another murder in Washington state.

A fingerprint check Wednesday revealed the man wounded in a shopping center parking lot confrontation was Dennis Smith, 34.

He is wanted on a first-degree murder warrant in the disappearance of a woman from a steakhouse bar near Vancouver, Wash., more than a year ago while on parole from a life term in his sister's killing.

New Smyrna Beach police suspected him in a car theft Monday, and two officers stopped him when they saw him again riding in a car Tuesday night.

"He was out of the car. They were standing there talking to him and trying to determine who he was, and he just took off running," said David Donaway of the Florida Department of Law Enforcement, which is investigating the shooting.

The officers caught him, but Smith was not easily subdued.

Double wreck

Charles Wallace Hall, 36, of Altamonte Springs, was arrested by Sanford police Tuesday. According to the arrest report, he had become involved in a rear-end collision at the intersection of Park Drive and U.S. Highway 17-92, and had driven off. The driver of the vehicle he is said to have struck, gave chase, along with a Sanford police officer.

Hall's vehicle however, came to a halt when it collided with a second vehicle, described as a large truck, at the intersection of 25th Street and Sanford Avenue.

In connection with the first collision, he was charged with driving under the influence and leaving the scene of an accident with property damage. For the second collision he was charged with driving under the influence and careless driving.

Stolen/recovered vehicles

• A 1977 Chevrolet, reported stolen in Sanford on Jan. 20, was found abandoned Tuesday, in a vacant lot, in the 2500 block of bungalow Avenue in Sanford.

• A white 1987 Nissan, license number KCD-46T was reported stolen Tuesday in the 2700 block of Ridgewood Avenue in Sanford.

Sanford police reports

• An estimated $190 items were reported stolen Tuesday from a trailer park residence in the 200 block of Pathway Court.

• A $450 mountain bike was reported stolen from the yard of a residence Tuesday in the 2500 block of Poinsettia Avenue in Sanford.

• Approximately 10 gunshots were reportedly fired at an Autotrain locomotive Tuesday, in the train wash area in the 600 block of Persimmon Avenue. Although two men were reportedly in the locomotive at the time, no injuries were reported.

• Approximately $600 in scrap aluminum was reported stolen Tuesday from a business in the 2500 block of Jewett Lane in Sanford.

• A TV, VCR and numerous items with a total estimated value of $970 were reported stolen Tuesday from a business in the 200 block of S. Oak Avenue.

• Two persons reportedly jumped a 50-year old man Tuesday in the 1100 block of Florida Avenue. They were said to have taken $20 in cash from their victim before fleeing.

• Super Nintendo games, 30 CDs and other items with a total value of $490 were reported stolen Tuesday from a residence in the 100 block of Bedford Court in Sanford.

• A 24-year old man reported to police that he was approached by a man on a bike Monday, near the intersection of Fourth Street and Elm Avenue in Sanford. He said the man grabbed him around the neck and threatened him, before taking two $20 bills and fleeing from the area on his bike.

• A blue 1977 Chevrolet, license number E-6330, was reported stolen early Tuesday in the 1100 block of Florida Avenue.

• An $800 wedding band was reported stolen Monday from a residence in the 600 block of Wilner Circle in Sanford.

• A TV set and VCR with a combined value of $1,000 were reported stolen Monday from an apartment in the 1200 block of Orangeview Way in Sanford.

Fair opens and the Babe remembered

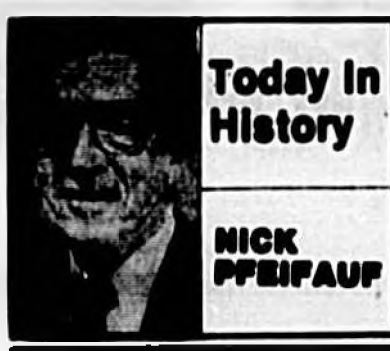

George Herman "Babe" Ruth was born on this date in 1895. In his lifetime, he is credited with 714 home runs in 22 major league seasons and played in 10 world series.

Local connection? The "Babe" visited Sanford a number of times back in his hey days. There are some photos of the Babe in existence standing next to the late Julian Stenstrom at the Sanford Memorial Stadium.

The Babe may have visited other establishments in Sanford, (places he was known to frequent) but we were unable to find any proof of this.

Today is also the big day for the opening of the annual Florida State Fair at the state fair grounds in Tampa. The event will run through Feb. 17th.

This year it will be featuring the best art, crafts, competitive exhibits, equestrian shows, livestock, entertainment and

Today In History

food available in the entire state.

Of special note is the "Cracker Country" exhibit where cultural and architectural history has been preserved.

Each day at the fair has been declared for a special purpose. Today for example, is "Egg and Poultry Day" at the fair.

As far as is known, there will be no booth set up to represent Seminole County. The county has not had a booth representing its products and/or businesses for approximately three years

Officials expect as many as 1.2 million people will attend the fair this year.

The 20th Amendment to the U.S. Constitution was adopted on this date in 1933. The amendment fixed the date of the presidential inauguration as January 20th instead of the previous date, March 4th. The article specifies that if the president-elect dies between election time and swearing-in time, the person selected as vice president will be sworn in on that date.

On this date in 1966, a military air transport plane crashed into the rear of a restaurant and hotel in Evansville, Indiana. Sixteen people were killed including the five crew members.

In addition to Babe Ruth, (mentioned above), today's historical birthdays include Ronald Reagan, the 14th president of the United States, born in 1911. Aaron Burr, the third vice president of the United States was born on this day in 1756. While in office, he challenged Alexander Hamilton to a duel, and mortally wounded him. Indicted for murder, he fled the country. He was not convicted however, and returned to Washington, D.C. to serve out the remainder of his term. In 1807 he was tried for treason, but managed to beat that rap as well. No doubt our government leaders were more able to forgive and forget then they may be in this day and age.

Today's birthdays: Journalist Tom Brokaw turns 57, singer Natalie Cole is 47, singer Fabian, is 54. MASH star Mike Farrell is 58; and while she won't admit it, Zoo Zee Gabor is 78.

Cheer up. Today is "Pay-a-Compliment Day. Practice this simple act of kindness and pay a compliment to co-workers, family members, or strangers. Make someone feel a little happier today.

Bomb scare empties courthouse, Volusia County deputies testify

By The Associated Press

DELAND, Fla. — A bomb scare delayed testimony in a trial on whether ballot fraud affected absentee votes in the Volusia County sheriff's race.

Gus Beckstrom, who lost the race to incumbent Sheriff Bob Vogel after absentee ballots were counted, is claiming someone tampered with the ballots to tip the election. The bomb threat came Wednesday.

If Circuit Judge John Doyle agrees, he could toss out the absentee returns, remove Vogel from office and hand the election to Beckstrom.

At the direction of elections officials, Lt. Alan Osowski, who worked for Vogel's campaign, hired three deputies — all Vogel supporters — to provide security for the absentee boxes.

They later helped process thousands of absentee ballots, but did not help touch up ballots rejected by automated voting machines, County Attorney Dan Eckert said in court filings.

In testimony on Tuesday, Lana Hira, assistant Elections Department director, was asked if she knew that the deputies supported Vogel.

"I had no idea what their political persuasions were," she said. "We were paying them $25 per hour. It would have been a disgrace not to have them do something when we had so much work to do."

Beckstrom's attorney, Don Weidner, has attacked the election office's handling of the absentee ballots and used Hira to point out where workers cut corners and broke security rules.

"Our position is, if you find gross negligence, intentional wrongdoing or insubstantial compliance with the law, that's it — you throw out the election. We think we've found that," Weidner said.

Vogel was 4,078 votes behind Beckstrom when the ballots from the regular election were counted. After absentee ballots were counted, he won the election by about 1,100 votes.

Of the 26,268 absentee votes cast in the sheriff's race, Vogel received 15,634 to Beckstrom's 10,366, new totals released Wednesday showed.

Beckstrom is challenging about 9,000 of the absentee ballots, including 5,909 which elections officials darkened with a black pen when they did not register on voting machines.

The trial, which started Monday, is expected to conclude later this week or early next week.

Diplomatic immunity takes a hit in D.C.

WASHINGTON - The government of the republic of Georgia came under intense pressure last month after a fatal auto accident involving a top diplomat and a 16-year old Maryland schoolgirl.

But sources close to the case tell us privately that the pressure came from two directions.

Taking a close look at location

The Orlando-Sanford Airport in Sanford is listed as one of five possible sites for a $50-million spaceflight experience center. It would reportedly produce an estimated 200 jobs.

The company, Casey Aerospace Corporation (CAC), is headed by a number of officials including two former NASA astronauts, Sally Ride and Norm Thagard.

CAC officials say they have been checking possible locations since December.

Other sites being investigated include International airports in Orlando, Tampa, Melbourne and Daytona Beach.

We believe Sanford is the most ideal location, as it appears to meet most of the company's requirements.

CAC wants accessibility. With one arm of the GreeneWay ending at Red Cleveland Boulevard at the Sanford airport, Lake Mary Boulevard and Interstate-4, we certainly have that.

CAC wants the lowest possible operational costs. Compared to Orlando, Tampa and Daytona Beach, (we don't know about Melbourne), the cost of operating in Sanford would probably fulfill their requirements.

CAC wants transportation. With the available highways, rental car agencies, LYNX transportation, Autotrain, Amtrak and others, we have the jump on most of the other possible locations.

CAC wants accommodations. This is the one area in which we fall short, but with possibly six new major motel/hotel complexes coming in the near future in the Lake Mary area and possibly one or two near Interstate-4 in Sanford, this requirement will soon be no problem.

CAC wants "added amenities necessary to successfully launch its program." There is certainly available space at the airport in Sanford, and with support from the cities of Sanford and Lake Mary, there are probably few amenity requirements which couldn't be met.

They also say part of the educational offerings will involve local colleges and universities. We have Seminole Community College and the University of Central Florida, both top-notch facilities, right here within a short distance.

Tampa and Orlando International Airports are much too busy to handle this astronaut training and flight experience operation. Tampa is also too far from the Kennedy Space Center.

Daytona Beach is closer to the coast and has adequate transportation, but during speed weeks it is certainly overcrowded. Daytona Beach also does not have the available space which Sanford has.

Melbourne is close to the space center, has Interstate-95 and the Beeline Expressway for transportation. It also has available space, but as part of the flight experience operation is considered as tourist-connected, we believe the Sanford location would be much more suitable.

We believe the Orlando-Sanford Airport stands a good chance and urge CAC officials to give us a close look. But the project has been under consideration since December, and there has been little indication that any local officials have attempted to make any friendly gestures, if they even were aware of this opportunity.

We meet CAC's requirements, but apparently no one is taking the time or interest to brag about us or persuade CAC to give us a really close look. If Melbourne or some other location gets this $50-million complex, we will have no one but ourselves to blame.

While Americans were calling for Georgian diplomat Guerguili Makharadze to pay for his alleged crime, diplomats and leaders around the world urged Georgian President Eduard Shevardnadze to stand firm.

Briefly, here's the story: Makharadze, his country's No. 2-ranking envoy to the United States, caused a furor in the capital when he sped into a downtown intersection and slammed into a stopped car, killing the girl early on the morning of Jan. 3. The diplomat was allegedly drunk at the time, and it was later reported that he had a string of traffic violations in his home country.

But Makharadze was protected by diplomatic immunity, which meant Georgian officials had every right to simply send their diplomat home, rather than leaving him to face charges in the United States. And that's what probably would have happened if not for the public outrage that followed the crash. Days after the accident, Washington's airwaves were filled with calls for the drunken diplomat to be disciplined in court.

The case quickly became a last-minute headache for Secretary of State Warren Christopher, who wanted the case settled before his successor, Madeleine Albright, was confirmed by the Senate. High-level talks ensued between Christopher and Shevardnadze, the former Soviet foreign minister who played a key role in ending the Cold War.

Georgia's president eventually acquiesced, and said that his government would waive diplomatic immunity. In the days before the announcement, however, sources say that Shevardnadze came under intense pressure from other heads of state, who didn't want him to set a precedent by waiving immunity.

The heads of state were worried, in part, because of what would happen if the situation were reversed. Occasionally, American envoys get caught misbehaving abroad. In those cases, the State Department quickly invokes diplomatic immunity. But if the United States insists on prosecuting crimes by foreign diplomats, then other countries might feel pressure to do the same in the future.

And that's a situation most countries want to avoid.

ATOMIC VETERANS - For Pat Broudy and others like her, the Cold War still rages.

Broudy is the widow of Marine Maj. Charles Broudy, one of nearly a million men who participated in the United States' secret nuclear testing program.

She is convinced that her husband's 1977 death from a rare form of lymphoma was a direct result of his exposure to nuclear radiation during tests conducted during the 1940s and '50s. The government, of course, disagrees.

Fewer than 500 of those who participated in the tests, most of which took place between 1945 and 1962, have been compensated by the federal government for injuries or illness related to radioactive exposure. On a daily basis, Broudy fights the powers in Washington to change that.

As legislative director for the National Association of Atomic Veterans, she's testified numerous times before Congress, relating the stories of dead or dying atomic veterans. She speaks of the women like herself who have lost husbands prematurely, and of children born with birth defects, which she claims are attributable to their fathers' radiation exposure.

But, for the most part, her pleas have fallen on deaf ears. "It's a long, sad story," Broudy told our associate Aaron Karp. "They (members of Congress) have us coming and going. You can't win."

What bothers Broudy the most is that the truth about the nuclear testing program has been kept a secret for so long. The Departments of Energy and Defense just began declassifying information on these long-ago tests in recent years - and much of the data is still kept a secret.

"I can't even talk to my kids about this," Broudy said. "They don't understand. They've never been taught. Their schooling never provided information about nuclear testing. It was erased from the textbooks. Never happened! Younger people have never heard of it before. They think that we're making this all up, we're dramatizing it. Well, we aren't."

O.J. saga continues

SANTA MONICA, Calif. - The O.J. Simpson civil trial shifts today to the punitive damages phase, when the jury decides whether to heap more money on top of the $6.5 million it already awarded.

The plaintiffs intend to argue for millions more to punish Simpson for the 1994 slaying deaths of ex-wife Nicole Brown Simpson and her friend Ronald Goldman. The defense was expected to plead for monetary mercy.

This part of the trial will combine soaring rhetoric about justice with dry testimony about assets and liabilities. At least four lawyers and two financial witnesses will speak to jurors; testimony was expected to last up to three days.

Among the most important issues is how much money Simpson actually has left after 2 1/2 costly years of litigation and a precipitous drop in his earning power.

Double jeopardy?

WASHINGTON - A criminal trial jury decided not to find O.J. Simpson guilty of committing two murders, but a civil trial panel later decided he was responsible. Some may consider that unfair, but legal experts say it's perfectly constitutional.

"The whole concept of any modern-day criminal case leaves out the victims, who are on the sidelines," said George Washington University law professor Mary Cheh. "But they still get their day in private causes of action."

"The Fifth Amendment's protection against double jeopardy applies only to criminal sanctions and only against the government, not private lawsuits," she said.

Should that be?

"If we step outside this case and into an everyday setting, it's easier to see the fairness," Cheh said. "A drunk driver hits and injures someone. Whether or not the government decides to prosecute, no one would argue that the victim's family shouldn't be entitled to sue and recover damages."

Whitewater

WASHINGTON - Prosecutor Kenneth Starr's staff has compiled a memo of several hundred pages summarizing the evidence involving President Clinton and his wife in the three-year Whitewater investigation, lawyers familiar with the probe say.

The document will provide the framework for an upcoming meeting in which Starr's lawyers in Washington and Little Rock, Ark., will weigh whether indictments or other actions are warranted, the lawyers said.

Whitewater prosecutors said for the first time Wednesday that one of their cooperating witnesses, Jim McDougal, has provided "new and important information" and requested a postponement of his scheduled Feb. 24 sentencing. The prosecutors said they have needed to review a "voluminous" amount of information to corroborate McDougal's story.

Most of the prosecutors' memo details material involving Hillary Rodham Clinton, according to the lawyers, who spoke only on condition of anonymity. Mrs. Clinton's work for a failed Arkansas savings and loan has been one of the most intensely investigated aspects of Whitewater.

Trouble at ABC

NEW YORK - ABC News is losing in the ratings, losing in the courts and losing some key correspondents. Will it also be losing its leader?

Troubles at ABC, the longtime king of network news divisions, have led to the beginning of questions about the future of news chief Roone Arledge, a legendary TV executive.

Arledge, 65, says he has no retirement plans, but the string of bad news would make a permanent trip to the golf course tempting. According to Fortune magazine, a provision in his contract would allow his bosses to kick him upstairs in June and leave day-to-day management of the news division to someone else.

Neither Arledge nor ABC President David Westin responded to inquiries about the situation.

Arledge's headaches, in a nutshell: NBC has overtaken "World News Tonight" in the ratings; several defections have followed ABC's decision to shelve an all-news cable channel; "Good Morning America" has slipped into a regular No. 2 slot behind NBC's "Today;" and a jury's order that ABC pay Food Lion more than $6.5 million has triggered a national debate about undercover reporting.

Toxic atmosphere of cynicism

WASHINGTON - Returning to a theme of his two major second-term addresses, President Clinton urged political leaders today to "rid ourselves of this toxic atmosphere" and work together for the poor and oppressed.

In a reflective address to the National Prayer Breakfast, the president said, "This town is gripped with people who are self-righteous, sanctimonious, and hypocritical."

"I plead guilty from time to time," he said.

The annual prayer breakfast drew nearly 4,000 people representing a cross-section of the public - Republicans and Democrats, governors, judges, diplomats, bureaucrats, foreign leaders and soldiers.

House Speaker Newt Gingrich, R-Ga., who has often clashed with Clinton, gave a reading from the Bible shortly before Clinton spoke. In a moment of conciliation, Clinton thanked Gingrich for supporting the administration's financial bailout of Mexico.

In past prayer breakfasts, Clinton has condemned hateful language, called for more humility in politics and urged Americans to pray for their president.

In this year's inaugural and State of the Union addresses, the president called for racial, ethnic and political harmony - "We must be repairers of the breach," he said in both speeches, quoting from scripture.

He returned to the phrase today, saying too many people are falling between the cracks: the poor, downtrodden people of the world's troubled spots.

Calling his bluff

QUITO, Ecuador - After six months of the extroverted, jocular president they nicknamed "El Loco," or "the crazy one," Ecuadorians are ready to call his bluff - with an impeachment.

President Abdala Bucaram, whose antics include recording a CD called "A Crazy Man in Love" and inviting Lorena Bobbitt to the national palace, is being accused of incompetence and corruption by opposition parties and workers who say he has become a national embarrassment.

His frustration spilled over during a nationwide strike Wednesday observed by an estimated 2 million people. Workers, some wearing Bucaram masks, ridiculed their president and said the country's honor was in tatters.

Congress announced it would hold an emergency session today to consider calls for Bucaram's impeachment.

Clinton's budget

By MARTIN SCHWARTZ
AP Economics Writer

WASHINGTON - President Clinton sent Congress today a $1.69 trillion spending plan that cuts taxes for the middle class, provides billions of dollars to upgrade education and still claims balance in 2002. A key Republican said it wasn't a bold step, but perhaps a first step toward a balanced budget.

Balancing the budget after three decades of red ink is the top priority of Clinton's second term, and he portrayed his plan as a good faith offer to Republicans to achieve that.

"I urge Congress to help me finish the job and balance the budget by 2002 - giving the American people the balanced budget they deserve," the president said in his budget message.

But under the president's spending blueprint, the deficit will rise this year. And nearly two-thirds of the $388 billion in deficit savings Clinton envisions will not occur until 2001 and 2002, after he has left office.

The release of the massive five-volume set of budget documents, bound in marbled green, was the first move in what is likely to be months of hard bargaining between the White House and Congress.

The GOP has already let it be known it will insist on tax cuts double Clinton's $98 billion. They also want steeper and quicker reductions in spending and more power shifted from Washington to the states.

"This is not the bold step we were hoping for," said Senate Budget Committee Chairman Pete Domenici, R-N.M. "But if the administration is serious about sitting down and working with Congress, it may be a first step toward a balanced budget."

House Budget Committee Chairman John Kasich, R-Ohio, expressed concerns that Clinton's budget contained so many references to new, although small-bore, government programs.

"The president of the United States, while declaring the era of big government at an end, every day comes up with another program to expand government," Kasich said in a CNN interview.

Though the two sides differ on many points, neither is eager to repeat last year's acrimonious standoff that led to two partial government shutdowns. This has fueled hopes that after years of wrangling, negotiations in 1997 may actually produce a bipartisan pact.

For the 1998 fiscal year, which begins Oct. 1, Clinton proposes spending $1.69 trillion, up 3.5 percent from projected spending of $1.63 trillion this year.

The new budget projects that the deficit, which posted a fourth-straight decline to $107.3 billion in 1996, will rise to $125.6 billion this year before starting to decline again. It would achieve a $17 billion surplus in 2002.

However, those projections are based on economic assumptions significantly more optimistic than those used by Republicans, although neither side is forecasting a recession between now and 2002. Such an event would derail both spending plans.

The biggest chunk of savings in Clinton's plan - $100 billion over five years - would come from Medicare, the big government program that provides health care to the elderly.

Carol Ahlstrand, the Seminole County School Related Employee of the Year, at center with flowers, was congratulated by school board chairman Sandy Robinson, her daughter Ashley, Sanford Middle School Principal Bill Moore and Supt. Paul Hagerty at a surprise announcement on Wednesday afternoon.

"This is wonderful," she said softly, smiling shyly, looking at the roses.

Her daughter, Ashley, a flight attendant with Delta Airlines, based in Chicago, tried unsuccessfully to hide behind a card catalog tower in the media center where the celebration took place.

"I don't want to spoil the surprise," she whispered.

Indeed, the secret was a well kept one. Few of the staff knew anything about it, though assistant principal Fred Tombras almost spilled the beans without ever knowing the secret.

"The day after I found out," Moore said, chucking quietly, "I hadn't told ANYONE when all of a sudden Fred comes up to her and yells, 'Here's Carol Ahlstrand, Seminole County's School Related Employee of the Year.' I had no idea how he could have known. But it turned out that it was just Fred being Fred."

In the year and a half she has been at Sanford Middle, Ahlstrand has worked with three different teachers, who have had to leave due to a variety of unusual circumstances. Ahlstrand has been the rock of stability in that classroom, school officials say.

Moore said Ahlstrand has kept the program focused on academics and has provided transition for students and for their acceptance of their new teachers.

Ahlstrand was recognized for her ability to give the students in her class the thing they most need: unconditional love.

"She really loves those kids," her daughter said. "They are so important to her."

Moore said it isn't uncommon for Ahlstrand to spend free time in the school day to talk with "her children." She volunteers her time to serve breakfast in the lunchroom.

She does whatever she can to make the students' lives better and brighter, she said.

"If I can just touch their lives in a loving way, to quiet their fears, to soothe their anger and hurt, and to add laughter to their lives, I will be successful," she said of her students.

The runners up for the 1997 School Related Employee of the Year were Estelle Guy, a clinic assistant at Midway Elementary School and Euvannah Duncan, the head custodian at Winter Springs Elementary School.

Amtrak

Among the passengers were a group of frightened, sobbing middle school students who hugged and kissed their parents as they told how their Amtrak train had hit the truck, putting a sudden end to a school field trip.

Ten passengers and five crew members suffered minor injuries in the accident, Amtrak said. All 10 passengers and three crew members were treated and released from area hospitals, Amtrak spokesman Marc Magliari said early today. Two crew members were kept for observation.

The locomotive and a baggage car derailed and overturned while three passenger cars derailed but remained upright.

Forty-five students and four teachers from Jacksonville's Fort Caroline Middle School had just boarded the train and were looking forward to a social studies trip to Williamsburg, Va. None were injured when their trip ended about 15 minutes after it began.

The students were in the first passenger car which tilted on the track.

Kristi Malone, 14, wouldn't let go of her mother and father after a bus brought the students and other passengers back to the Jacksonville Amtrak station.

Many of the parents had been waiting at the station for about two hours before the bus pulled into the parking lot, but most of them had already talked to their children on cellular phones provided by other passengers.

"At first, it was fun. Then it started shaking," Kristi said of the short trip. "I saw parts of the train flying by my window."

Melissa Dinger, 13, sobbed and hugged her mother, Kathy Perms.

"I saw smoke and looked out the window and saw parts of the train laying there," she said, tears streaming down her cheeks.

The driver of the tractor-trailer was apparently trying to make a U-turn when he got stuck in the railroad crossing, Duval County Fire Department spokesman Ted Holmes said. The truck driver was out of the vehicle when the crash occurred and was not injured.

Mike Liquori, 24, of Somers Point, N.J., showed off Polaroid prints of the train crash.

"It was the most traumatic experience of my life," he said. "The seats fell forward, the car in front of us was turned sideways. We were told not to leave but I wanted to get out of that train and away from the smoke."

Amtrak said the passengers who wanted to continue their trip boarded the northbound Amtrak Auto Train. It wasn't immediately known how many did so.

Just a reminder: Dream Auction this weekend benefits students

By VICKI BOGOMON
Herald Senior Staff Writer

SANFORD — It's that time of year again.

Once a year, dreams come true for both those people who have some money to spend and for those who have dreams of higher education.

The Seminole Community College Dream Auction will kick off once again on Friday evening, Feb. 7.

The Dream Auction, chaired this year by Randy and Sharon Berridge and Brent and Patricia Adamson, offers those in attendance more than 500 items to choose from and on which to spend their money.

During the 12 years since the gavel was pounded to call the first item to the auction block, the college has been able to award more than 400 scholarships valued at more than $200,000.

The Seminole Community College Foundation, which oversees the scholarships, has established an endowment of over a million dollars to allow the school to continue to offer scholarships as long as there is a need.

The evening will get under way with a cash bar and silent auction at 6 p.m. Dinner will follow at 7 p.m.

The live auction will take place following dinner.

Tickets are $100 per person. Corporate tables of 10 are available for $1,000. There are five premium corporate tables available for $1,500 each. Ticket prices include dinner.

The Dream Auction will take place at the Orlando North Hilton in Altamonte Springs.

the weapon of one of the officers and was trying to take it out of the holster," Donaway said.

Officer Eugene Griffith yelled to Sgt. K.D. Evans that Smith was trying to get his gun.

Evans "said very clearly to the suspect, 'Give it up, or somebody's going to get hurt,'" said a witness who asked not to be identified. "The next thing we knew, the shot went off and there was blood everywhere."

Evans shot Smith in the neck. He was airlifted to Halifax Medical Center in Daytona Beach, where he remained in critical condition early today.

Investigators who determined where Smith was staying found identifications with more than one name, so they took his fingerprints at the hospital to run them through a national computer.

In addition to his name and the murder warrant, the check turned up a federal warrant for unlawful flight to avoid prosecution and a parole violation, Donaway said.

Police didn't know with whom they were dealing until then, but Smith may have thought they did because he was featured Friday on "Unsolved Mysteries."

Clark County, Wash., Sheriff Garry Lucas and prosecutor Art Curtis learned Smith watched the show and "freaked out" when he saw it.

In the Washington case, Carolyn R. Killaby, 34, was last seen leaving a restaurant with Smith on Nov. 11, 1995. Her body has not been found.

Killaby's husband, Dan, said the couple had a minor disagreement the night before his wife vanished. He thought things were settled, but she left home even though he said she rarely went out alone.

Smith admitted leaving the steakhouse with Mrs. Killaby, but he told detectives they were attacked by a man after he escorted her to her car.

His truck was seized, and a spot of blood found on the truck's steering wheel was sent out for analysis.

But he disappeared, and a murder charge was filed in the Killaby case last July. Smith was free on parole for second-degree murder conviction in the slaying of his sister in 1982.

"Extensive investigation revealed enough evidence to charge him," said Clark County, Wash., sheriff's Sgt. Jack Foyt. "I can't go into the specific nature of the evidence."

did not specify what those charges might be.

Dillon sustained minor injuries to his arm, but was not transported to the hospital. He was, instead, taken to the John E. Polk Correctional Facility.

His brother Michael Pacheco of Swansea, Mass., was a passenger in the car, but was not injured in the accident.

St. Dennis' maturation earns trip to L.M. North

LAKE MARY — No one ever questioned Shaun St. Dennis' arm.

Certainly no Lake Mary football or baseball fans. They've seen St. Dennis rifle long passes, sometimes on a perfect arc for two years as the Rams' quarterback.

They've watched perfect throws from right field on a straight line for the Rams' baseball team.

It was the decisions he made on the football field that made some people question him as the Rams kicked off last football season.

One minute, St. Dennis would escape an oncoming locomotive of a lineman and find his favorite receiver Shane Burke over the middle for a first down.

On the next play, again in fear of his life, St. Dennis would try to make something happen and the result was a dead duck of a pass that would have defenders calling for a fair catch.

Things changed this past fall. After a rocky start, St. Dennis finally learned he didn't have to always be the hero.

Sometimes, it's okay to take a sack or throw an incompleting.

That knowledge earned St. Dennis a football scholarship to the University of Connecticut.

St. Dennis signed yesterday to ensure a future home away from home refuge for Lake Mary players in the arctic climes of Storrs, Conn.

He will join last year's twin terrors from Lake Mary, Ronell and Reollen Jumps who redshirted for Skip Holtz' Huskies this year. It helps that Holtz had a built-in recruiting team with the Jumps.

"I'm really close with Ronell and Reollen," St. Dennis said yesterday before he signed his letter of intent in front of principal Raymond Gaines and his mother, Marlene Fagan. "We were all good friends all through high school."

Holtz, a chip off the old block, had Ronell host St. Dennis during the recruiting trip where it reached a high of three whole degrees above zero.

"I hope you have some long Johns," Gaines laughed. "You'll need them up there."

After seeing a UConn-Kansas basketball game and the built-in value of the Jumps' friendship, his other main suitors - Wake Forest, Northeastern, Syracuse and latecomer Baylor - lost out.

Funny thing is, St. Dennis isn't even sure where he'll play. Probably the most physically gifted quarterback in the SAC last year, St. Dennis will also be offered a shot at tight end.

But on quarterback.

That's what Lake Mary coach Doug Peters did when St. Dennis, a tight end his sophomore year, was searching for a quarterback last season. St. Dennis had the arm, got the job, and won a Rotary Bowl two years after putting on shoulder pads for the first time.

That was the easy part. The hard part was going from a high school quarterback to a college quarterback.

It happened this season. Sure, Lake Mary struggled. Five-and-five was a letdown for a team that was expected to contend for the top spot in the SAC.

St. Dennis wasn't perfect. St. Dennis struggled early but, by the end of the season, he was putting up the numbers and yesterday it all paid off.

This year, St. Dennis will probably redshirt as the other expatriot Rams try to Jump(p) start their college careers.

Next season, what's in Storrs for Lake Mary North?

Lions avoid capture

Oviedo spoils senior night by edging Arrow Force V

By JEFF BERLINICKE
Herald Staff Writer

SANFORD — Unfinished business. That's been the main problem of Arrow Force V all season.

It's been a year of being the best of the Seminole Athletic Conference down to the wire and being given a golden opportunity, only to see it slip away at the end.

Last night, it happened again. With districts only a week away, a win over Class 6A powerhouse Oviedo would have been a nice confidence booster for the Seminoles.

Instead, it turned into another night of missed opportunities and a 65-59 loss.

To make things worse, it came on Senior Night as Arrow Force V members Kenny Edwards, Sean Whitman and Mike Evans played in their final home game. There were also seven cheerleaders - all with grade point averages of 3.0 or higher - honored in pregame ceremonies.

Oviedo played cat-and-mouse basketball with the Seminoles all night. The Lions held the lead from the time Scott Berkey opened the game with a tip-in until the end but never pulled away until the end.

By that time, Seminole had plenty of chances to make Senior Night a success.

Whitman was the main reason. He ended with a game-high 18 including a pair of three-pointers down the stretch that gave Oviedo a scare.

The Lions continued to pound the ball inside and looked about to pull away when the took a 30-21 lead midway through second quarter. Then, an Edwards layup, followed by another from Whitman, cut the deficit to five.

A minute later, with time running down in the half, Zeke Seymore nailed a three-pointer to make it a 34-30 Oviedo lead at the break.

Seminole had a chance to tie early in the third quarter but Seymore had a pass stolen. After a series of turnovers, former Lion Andy Marlette tied the game at 38 with a three-pointer.

Or did he?

Although his feet appeared well beyond the arc, he was only given two despite pleas from Arrow Force V coach Bob Traina, the Seminole team and the home crowd.

Oviedo capitalized and went back up by seven. Still Seminole fought back. Midway through the fourth quarter down by three, Seymore had a chance to tie with a three-pointer but was tied up.

Oviedo had the arrow, the ball and the game as they outscored Seminole 16-10 down the stretch.

The two clubs will now travel to Oviedo to closeout the regular season in the Oviedo Classic on Friday and Saturday.

Seminole senior Sean Whitman goes past Oviedo's Scott Berkey (No. 34) for two of his game-high 18 points Wednesday night.

Raiders fall in Orlando

ORLANDO — The Seminole Community College basketball program took a double hit Wednesday night as the Valencia Matadors prevailed in both the men's and women's contests.

Men's Raider squads saw a good first half effort got for naught as the men trailed 50-48 at intermission but were defeated 98-79, while the women trailed just 29-25 at halftime, but were beaten 65-53.

A pair of Seminole County High School graduates had a hand in both Valencia victo-

Townesley goes out in style

By KELLIE WOODEN
Herald Staff Writer

LAKE MARY — Matt Townesley couldn't have asked for a better ending to his top-notch career at Lake Mary High School.

The leader of the Rams was inspiring both on and off of the court.

On the court, he racked up 28 points in the 65-50 trouncing of non-district foe Atlantic, before being honored with a standing ovation as he left the court with a minute to go in the game.

"I felt comfortable and my playing just seemed to come naturally," Townesley said. "I just relaxed and it all came together. It didn't really hit me until the fourth quarter that this really was the last game I was going to play at Lake Mary."

Off the court, he wiped tears from his eyes as he took a look around and said that it was so hard to leave the court.

"It was great for Matt to end his season at Lake Mary that way," Rams' coach Mike Gaudreau said after the game. "He's such a good player and a good kid. I'm glad he did so well in his last home game."

It's not over for Townesley or his team, though.

As a matter of fact, the hard part is just about to begin.

Last night was a stepping stone for the Rams who are set to head for the district playoffs against Lake Howell next Wednesday at Winter Springs High School.

How does a team stay focused with not much on the line?

"We wanted to play hard in our last games of the season," Townesley said. "We wanted to have something strong to build on. But we're excited and we're ready to play."

They definitely have had strong games.

Last Friday, after trailing for much of the game, an emotional Ram team caught up to, and tied Seminole, forcing the game into overtime before winning 70-67.

Last night, it was much easier, as Lake Mary led the entire evening.

Townesley and Paul Beik combined for 22 of the Rams' 32 first half points. The visiting Sharks were outrun by their hosts and practically ~~knocked~~ every missed shot on a silver platter.

The second half was worse.

The duo of Townesley and Beik continued to sink their teeth into the Sharks. They were everywhere: stealing the ball, making the shots, not allowing any easy passes by the Shark's offense.

Lake Mary outscored Atlantic 17-9 in the third and weren't finished yet.

Ten more points were added to Townesley's

Undefeated tune-up for showdown at Lake Mary

From Staff Reports

LAKE MARY — Nice-N-Easy and Ron's Tire and Muffler Center kept their unbeaten streaks alive as they tuned up for next week's showdown in the City of Lake Mary Department of Parks and Recreation seven-team Men's Wednesday Night Polar Bear Slow Pitch Softball League at the Lake Mary Sports Complex.

Ron's Tire and Muffler Center got off to a slow start, scoring single runs in the first and second innings and two runs in the fourth inning to take a 4-0 lead. But after Don Mealey's Seminole Ford got a run back in the bottom of the fourth inning, Ron's exploded for five runs in the fifth inning and eventually opened a 12-1 lead before Seminole Ford got four runs in the sixth inning.

But that was as close as they would get as Ron's won 13-5.

Nice-N-Easy fell behind early for the second straight week, trailing U.S. Postal Service 7-1 after the top of the third inning, but again got the offense cranking, capping off a 15-0 run over the last three innings with a seven-run sixth to win going away, 16-7.

In the late game, Celeste Industries finally lived up to its potential, taking an early 5-0 lead, then rallying from a 6-5 deficit to knock off a strong Columbia Medical Center squad 11-7.

Nice-N-Easy is now 3-0, while Ron's Tire and Muffler Center is 2-0. Trailing the lead duo are Home Depot (1-1), Columbia Medical Center, U.S. Postal Service and Celeste Industries (all 1-2) and Don Mealey's Seminole Ford (0-2).

Next week, Don Mealey's Seminole Ford takes on Columbia Medical Center at 6:30 p.m.; U.S. Postal Service faces Home Depot at 7:30 p.m.; Nice-N-Easy battles Ron's Tire and Muffler Center at 8:30 p.m.; and Celeste Industries (0-2) has the week off.

Scholz gets official boot from JU

Associated Press

JACKSONVILLE — George Scholz, presumed fired when he was "temporarily reassigned" nearly seven weeks ago, is officially out as Jacksonville's head basketball coach.

Dolphina set out to find a permanent coach.

Scholz, a former assistant with the Orlando Magic, was 33-28 in two seasons and six games of this year. He was removed as head coach on Dec. 20, a day after sophomore Aaron Fox walked out of practice.

The Dolphins are 3-11 under Harvey, a Jacksonville native and former head coach at Florida Community College of Jacksonville. They have made strides in recent weeks as they try to adapt to Harvey's uptempo style.

"As far as we're concerned, from a basketball standpoint Buster is doing a good job," Seltz said. "He'll finish the season and then be in a position to be considered for the job. We're fully confident that we'll get the program back up to a level where we want it to be."

already impressive numbers in the fourth quarter. If Atlantic was given a chance to shoot the ball, it was only given one. Rebounds were harder for these Sharks to get than an invitation to a swim meet.

Lake Mary played like it was ready for some post season activity. The Rams need only play at Leesberg on Thursday and then they can concentrate on their district bout with Lake Howell.

"If we can stay focused, practice and play hard, and keep our defensive intensity," Belk said, "we should do real well. We tend to have lulls in our defense during the game and we'll really need to work to improve that."

Gaudreau believes they have a good chance also.

"The win against Seminole really got us going," Gaudreau said. "The guys turned it on in the fourth quarter of that game and they haven't let it down yet. We just need to make the other team play our style and not get roped into playing theirs. We just need to stay focused and we'll have a fighting chance."

WARRIORS CATCH CRUSADERS

WINTER SPRINGS — Vale Mears scored 18 points and Christina Piza added 13 as Lake Howell upset Seminole 53-50 in overtime in a girls' basketball game Tuesday night.

Seminole (18-3) led 28-24 at halftime, but the Silver Hawks (14-13) battled back to tie the game at 48-48 after regulation.

The Fighting Seminoles were led by Tamara Gilchrist (23 points), Felicia Henderson (12) and Haneefah Miller (10).

WARRIORS CATCH CRUSADERS

ORLANDO — Maj-Britt Michaelsen scored a game-high 34 points, but it was not enough as T. DeWitt Taylor High School from Pierson outscored Luther 17-8 in the fourth quarter to edge the Crusaders 50-47 in a girls' basketball game Tuesday night.

Navy bake sale

Lake Mary High School's Navy Junior ROTC is having a bake sale, Saturday, Feb. 8, in front of Public on Lake Mary Boulevard, from 9 a.m. to 3 p.m.

The proceeds of this bake sale will go for new rifles, braids, dress gloves, ribbons and other various supplies needed for all cadets.

Teen life program presented

"The Facts of Teen Life in Central Florida-What Every Parent Needs to Know," sponsored by Seminole County Public Schools, the County Council of PTAs and the Seminole County Sheriff's Office, will be presented at Seminole High School on Tuesday, Feb. 11, and at Lake Mary High School, on Monday, Feb. 24, beginning at 7 p.m.

Parents and students are urged to attend whichever session is most convenient. The program will provide accurate, up-to-date information on the current drug situation, the gang phenomenon, the relationship of student dress and proper decorum and student safety. It will also let you know which agencies and services are available to help you if you have a concern about any of these areas.

Secretaries meet

The Winter Park Chapter Professional Secretaries International will hold their monthly meeting on Tuesday, Feb. 11 at the Langford Hotel, sixth floor, Winter Park.

The dinner begins at 6 p.m. and the speaker begins at 7. The cost is $14.50.

Sunnyside up

How sweet the roads not taken

Aren't you tickled that the Seminole County Board of Commissioners is getting tough with the folks who clutter our highways with billboard signs?

I believe billboards ought to be abolished in America.

Okay, the ET thingamajig on Interstate 4 is one that could stay, but that's it - the rest need to go.

I certainly don't envy motorists in Chicago who everyday have had to look at a monstrous Dennis Rodman billboard that changes its hair color whenever he does.

And want to talk tacky? How about those South of the Border messages along Interstate 95 in the Carolinas. Sorry, Pedro, no more 40-foot high sombreros for you.

Commentator Charles Kurah used to jot down goofy signs he observed while on the road. Items like:

"Park Here."

"No Trustpassing."

"No Boats Allowed."

I'm all for this type of non sense.

What I don't care for are huge, cigarette company billboards, especially that neon Camel ad off Interstate 4 (Exit 50) into Lake Mary.

James Harbin says he is amused by the cows in the Chick-Fil-A billboards, but Steve Michel says he and his family are offended by the chicks in the Hooters restaurant billboards.

Dan Mulvaney says he nearly flipped over a billboard he saw once while driving near Jacksonville. It pictured a young woman with ample cleavage. The ad said to come meet her at a local Baptist Church which was advertising its singles ministry.

Not only have the Seminole County Board of Commissioners decided to make the billboard sign industry comply to an ordinance that was adopted in 1999 ("These people have had a free ride for seven years," Chairman Randy Morris said) they intend to keep the Greenway free of billboards.

Lake Mary and the county have both seen it that Lake Mary Boulevard stays billboard free.

It's nice to know there are roads not taken with commercialism.

Pay as you go

DEAR ABBY: This is for the woman who says she despises "bumming rides: Did it ever occur to her to put a couple of dollars in an envelope and give it to the driver?

I drive, and I never refuse a ride to anyone from our church who asks, but the cold hard facts are it costs me money to drive my car. My insurance is $600 a year. Last year I spent about $800 on repairs, plus gas, oil and parking. There are a few folks (very few) who will slip a couple of dollars into my purse. These people are picked up at their door, rain or shine, and returned there.

For years, my mother lived in Florida. She didn't drive, but she always gave the driver $2 for gas. Abby, please tell these people to "wake up" - I am living on a limited income.

No name, please. Sign me ... CHICAGO

DEAR CHICAGO: I'm printing your letter with the hope that those people who are given chauffeur service routinely will see themselves, and reward the driver appropriately.

DEAR ABBY: I often hear people misquoting famous sayings. One in particular gets my goat. The classic adage is not "When ignorance is bliss, 'tis folly to be wise." It is "When ignorance is bliss, 'tis folly to be wise."

Would you help me set the record straight?

A READER IN LIBERTYVILLE, ILL. DEAR READER: I'm happy to help set the record straight, but let's make sure it's correct. The quote, "When ignorance is bliss, 'tis folly to be wise," is from a poem titled "Ode on a Distant Prospect of Eton College," by Thomas Gray, who lived from 1726 to 1771.

people your age: benign forgetfulness. This is the sort of situation in which we forget names, sometimes cannot think of a word or have to make lists of things to do.

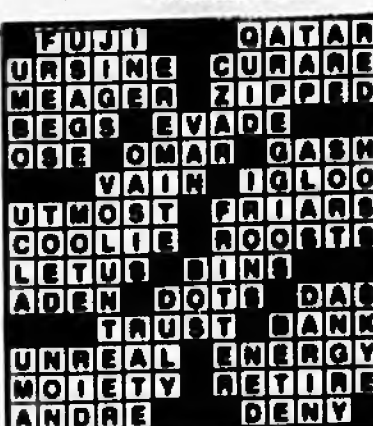

Nevertheless, if your forgetfulness accelerates or is associated with periods of confusion or personality changes, you should immediately bring such symptoms to your doctor's attention.

WIN AT BRIDGE

A student of the game

By Phillip Alder

Yesterday, I mentioned the excitable Patrick Jourdain. He has played internationally for Wales more than 50 times...

Jourdain is a keen analyst who loves complex endings. However, this deal from the 1989 match between Wales and England features a single-suit combination...

missing cards were splitting 3-2, anything would work. But Jourdain produced a beautiful safety play. He led the 10 from hand.

When East contributed the singleton nine, Jourdain leapt from his chair with a cry of triumph!
