BIBLE VERSE FOR TODAY

WE CAN CHEAT OURSELVES, BUT NOT GOD: He that despiseth the gain of fraud, that smothereth his hands from holding a bribe, he shall dwell on high, his bread shall be given him.—Isa. 33:16, 18.

Winston Churchill is reported in Germany. Couldn't be looking for Hitler, could he?

Part of Governor Caldwell's tax program has been enacted anyway. Henceforth, beer drinkers will pay three cents a bottle to the support of state government, and like it. To a man with a third three cents will not put him on the wagon, and not many beer industries in this state will be ruined, despite their howls of protest, but the six million dollars produced will help put state institutions in better condition.

When German Field Marshal von Rundstedt surrendered the other day, he gave up his sword, if he had one, to a Florida boy, Lieut. Joseph H. Burke, who made the greatest capture so far in this war, was born in Jacksonville, educated in Tampa schools and the University of Florida and was employed in St. Petersburg before the war. There are, of course, men from other states participating in this war, but it remained for Florida boys to win it.

The House has passed a bill requiring any publisher to put his name on any newspaper or handbill which tends to expose to hatred, contempt, ridicule or obloquy any individual or religious group. But it should be amended to include any publication of any anonymous letter or communication or any subject. It is by this means—chiefly as a result of individuals who furnish purported information to newspapers, but don't use my name—that most of the misinformation these days gets into the newspapers. Any thing that a man is not willing to support with his own name is not worth printing, and should not be printed.

The world moves fast. So much is happening these days that it is virtually impossible for one man to keep up with all of it. Time was when such a conference as is now taking place at San Francisco would occupy practically all of one's reading time, but now we merely glance at the headlines, go on to read of Hitler's death, the German surrender in Italy, the fall of Berlin, something which does not happen twice in a thousand years. And then, if that were not enough to keep a person busy, the OPA slaps a ceiling on Sanford rents and one is expected to listen to all the complicated understandings and why's and wherefores give satisfactory explanations about that.

Senator Claude Pepper, with whom we find ourselves in continual agreement on most matters pertaining to foreign affairs, advocates an amendment to the Constitution of the United States to provide that treaties can be ratified by a majority vote of the Senate, instead of the two-thirds vote which kept us out of the League of Nations. It may seem fair enough to say that a bare majority should rule in such matters, that is, a majority of one vote, but we say that if the treaty is approved by such a vote and will not be worth having. Such a vote would have brought us into the League in 1919.

Victory In View

The war in Europe is over. The official announcement of the final unconditional surrender may not have been received by the time this goes to press, but the great continent of Europe has been in its death throes for days. It is dying slowly but the death rattle can be distinctly heard. And perhaps what little action there is left, may be more in the nature of rigor mortis. A few firing squads can take care of the rest.

Why did the Germans choose to die in this manner? Why didn't they acknowledge their defeat when the Rhine was crossed? Why did they persist in this hopeless struggle which has been costing two thousand American lives a day in addition to countless British, Russian and German? Why have they insisted the fight should go on until the great city of Berlin with all its historic monuments and beautiful buildings, and scores of other cities, had been reduced to dust and smoke?

They are already preparing for the next war. Twenty years from now they can tell a new generation that the German people never gave up. There were isolated Army units which surrendered, yes. There were generals who were captured; there were government officials driven into exile; and the great Adolf died at his post; but the German nation, no never, has it been conquered. "The old guard dies but it never surrenders."

Keeping an eye on Germany, as well as Japan, and lesser aggressors, will be the great task of all civilized peoples for many years to come. It is the paramount objective of the world security organization now in the process of formation at San Francisco. The job will be greatly facilitated if a strong organization, with power to act quickly, can actually be formed among all peace loving nations.

But while the war in Europe is over, there remains the necessity of dealing with Japan. We are not among those who believe that this will be a long and costly struggle. We believe that Japanese warlords know they're whipped already and cannot fail to see the light of day when the full power and resources of Britain and America, now scattered all over the world, are brought to bear on their tiny islands. And in this the Allies will have the not inconsiderable help of Russia.

The Japs might elect, like the Germans, to fight until the last thatched hut on Honshu has been reduced to ashes, and in that event the war might go on for some months, but we do not believe they will. With the final outcome a foregone conclusion, they have everything to gain, nothing to lose, from throwing in the towel now, and making the best deal for themselves they can.

But in any event, whatever Japan does will depend upon the immediate reaction of public opinion in America and other Allied countries. If there is an overwhelming will to prosecute the war with the greatest intensity and to an immediate conclusion, and there is no campaign to bring the boys home for a furlough first, if there is no organized effort to disrupt the home front by strikes and civil strife, victory over Japan cannot be far away.

Happiness At Washington

A rather surprising thing seems to be happening in this country. It is well known that the American tendency in public life is to pick out a political candidate who looks as if he could handle the job, and then sit back contentedly and let him do it. Mostly this seems to work pretty well, because the average officeholder really wants to do a good job. But there are times when it fails, and the incumbent needs help, and doesn't get it. That's bad for everybody. Especially in case of an enormous, complex job like the presidency.

Now it happens that President Truman is not regarded as a superman, and doesn't regard himself as such. And because, unlike some of his predecessors, he is accepted as a "common man," people feel kindly toward him and want to help him in his tough job. So they seem to spend a lot of time trying to figure out ways to do so.

From all appearances, this procedure so far is working very well indeed. So well that the President, who is very likely a much abler man than a lot of his friends give him credit for, finds himself in a pleasant position that might have been expected. Everybody is helping, and so everybody is happy. At least it looks that way now.

SANFORD FORUM

To The Forum.

The Sanford Herald, March 15, being said and written concerning OPA Rent Control, and thus it all the prevailing thoughts related to the confusion has been lost in the shuffle, and only within the last few days has a point been brought forward that more justly places the burden that has been in the field prior to July, 1943.

It is he who has tried to meet the increase of expense thru his lower rentals for labor, material, replacements of items that might have been abused, and added expense on larger bills for plumbing and utilities where they are supplied—having had no idea of the growth they would have.

It must not be lost sight of that it is quite possible for an occasional tenant to show utter disregard for all these attendant houses that go with rentals of today.

Two the landlord that has come into the field since 1943—July—came in with his eyes open and saw his rents accordingly—as high as some instances that they are the Conservative landlord of prior period—and some instances spurred him into making a minor raise.

Since 1943—this has "killed the OPA," that hit the Golden Rule. If an investigation were made of both types of rentals and the adjustments of apartments—includes of bath privies.

legas and heating and cooking facilities—another aspect might be put on the higher rent episode of Sanford, too the use of utilities. This would be the fairest way to usage true rental value, inclusive of improvements made.

It seems fair to concede liberties of just value to Landlords and it is also fair not to always blame the tenant. The evicted man has had a serious problem and the Commissioned man has met his too.

As a group of interested citizens we feel sure the OPA has a wide experience and will make a fair adjustment.

Very truly,
MRS. W. E. WATSON,
"Epohassan."

STRANGE LIGHT

PHILADELPHIA, May 4, (AP)—A mysterious flashlight was reported seen in the middle Atlantic States last night, causing tremors which shook many buildings.

One authority theorized that it was a "blonde," the largest kind of meteor. Several persons were reported thrown from their beds. The whole sky was lit up, it is said.

Nazi Fleeing Germany In Confusion Toward Norway

at Oslo, claimed the British had captured Flensburg without a fight and swept northward. Flensburg is barely four miles from the Danish frontier.

RAF coastal command Beauport fighters sank close to 40 surface vessels and damaged many Volksturmers, some sunken and arrested, but most tired and depressed, were lined up for the long journey eastward.

The Germans were being rounded up in their large numbers—sometimes in companies—units that it was difficult to get an accurate count and it will probably be several days before complete figures will be issued for current captures.

In Berlin, Russian forces were working day and night to restore the German radio, gas, water, light and communications systems to working order.

There was still no further word concerning Adolf Hitler, his propaganda Minister Paul Goebbels or other high-placed Nazis. It was believed that the search for their bodies was being conducted by experts able to identify the high Nazi figures.

Russian troops were still avidly discussing the whereabouts of Hitler and Goebbels. A major source commented that the Nazis were fleeing Germany or were being executed.

The Russians were hurrying engineers and technicians of every category to the German capital in an effort to get the German radio to help the Soviet specialists were being landed at the Tempelhof Air-Drome to make repairs of the city's public utilities.

LONDON, May 4, (AP)—Negotiations for German surrender may now be in progress, diplomatic quarters believed tonight as German Propaganda Minister Albert Speer issued a radio speech last night and the war began solely on Allied grounds to a "vanguard" opponent.

Speaking in the name of the German government over the Danish radio, Speer said that German soldiers, Hitler's successors, "must" it necessary not to down arms.

The only meaning of the struggle still being waged at this moment is in our hands not to allow our German compatriots fleeing from the east to die, he said, "for the rest, we agree to which our opponents will concede to the German people peace and the possibility of a negotiated final peace."

He said that the German people were "not" to be "punished" and that they were to be "allowed" to live in their homes.

Berlin in prisoners reached 145,000. The chancellor of Third Reich failed to yield the body of Adolf Hitler and the building is burning. Field Marshal Goebbels' air ministry also is ablaze. Field Marshal Edward von Kluge, who engineered the German 1940 breakthrough in France, has surrendered to the American Third Army.

LONDON, May 4, (AP)—The last German resistance in north central Germany collapsed last night. Premier Stalin announced that Red army troops in a 50-mile dash had linked with British forces on a 65-mile front from the Baltic port of Wismar to the Elbe river at Wittenberge, 62 miles northwest of Berlin.

As the hush of a dead nation settled over the smoldering ruins of Berlin, the Red army set sullen German troops to work clearing up the appalling shambles while Soviet soldiers dug amid the ruins for the bodies of Adolf Hitler and Propaganda Minister Goebbels.

There was no official word on the progress of the search, but one Soviet commentator, Nikolai Tikhonov, wrote in Pravda today: "Hitler is not in Berlin, but we'll find out what actually happened to him. If he has fled, we'll find him no matter where he's found shelter."

German Doctor Admits Killing 21,000 Himself

March, 1942.

The persons "unworthy to live" included epileptics, schizophrenics, Jews, members of foreign races and gypsies, he said.

Each doctor at the institute "processed" about 100 persons a day, but Schuebbe said they worked only about two or three days a week.

Victims were killed by injections of EMM—preparations, Schuebbe said. "EMM stands for morphium tartrate," he explained. "In the beginning injection was tried with five cubic millimeters, but difficulties were encountered and therefore we injected 10 m. m."

Corpses of the dead were "handled by Mongols who were supplied for this purpose by the City Health Department. The corpses were brought to a near-by crematorium," he said.

"Of course, we, the circle of German physicians at Kiev, were aware of the importance of this job," Schuebbe said. "Aside from certain devious side roads of this action, I still maintain the following: that just as one prunes a tree by removing old, undesirable branches in the spring so far its own interest a certain hygienical supervision of the body of a people is necessary from time to time. This also includes sterilization."

miles south of Rangoon. Strong Allied armored forces driving down from Mandalay were last reported approaching the capital from the north after capturing Pegu and probably entered the city with the sea-borne forces.

The Japanese had lost the bulk of their artillery, their air force was completely shot, and their ground troops had been hacked into struggling fragments in the brilliant campaign which began in earnest after the British went over to the offensive on the Imphal plain after the high tide of the Japanese invasion had carried the enemy into British India in March, 1944.

The capture of Rangoon, main supply port for all enemy forces in Burma, will give the British an excellent harbor and control of the entire length of the railroad to Lashio, which was the old Burma Road, terminals to Lashio.  "EVENING SERVICE" is the subject of the Lesson-Sermon which will be read in Church of Christ, Scientist, throughout the world on Sunday, May 6.
 The title: "Have I any grace left that the world should die with the Lord, and not that he should return from his ways, and turn?" (Ezekiel 14:6)

Among the citations which comprise the Lesson-Sermon is the following from the Bible: "Judge not, that ye be not judged. For with what judgment ye judge, ye shall be judged; and with what measure ye mete, it shall be measured to you again" (Matthew 7:1-2).

The Lesson-Sermon also includes the following passage from the Christian Science textbook, "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures" by Mary Baker Eddy: "We will receive the full benefit both for what it is and for what it does. Justice marks the sinner, and teaches mortals not to remove the waymarks of God. To envy's own hell, Justice condemns the lie which to advance itself, breaks God's commandments" (p. 132).

GENE FOR YOUR SCRATCHBOOK
 A life passed among pictures makes a picture-book. The gentleman in the National Gallery, artist—John Brown.

The art which is grand and yet simple is that which presupposes the greatest elevation both in art and in public mind.

Art, unless quickened from above and from within, has in it nothing beyond itself which is visible to the eye.

It is Love which paints the past!

The Civic League held the May meeting on Tuesday with a large number of members and guests attending.

Mrs. Ruth Cutler Nash delivered an intensely interesting address on Seminole Indians as found by her and Mr. Nash, a government director a few years ago when they camped out with a family of Seminoles in the Everglades.

At the Baptist Church on Mother's Sunday, May 13, Dr. Hampton Du Bose of Zailwood Academy with several of his students will furnish the sermon and music for the morning service.

Attending the luncheon of Sanford Women's Club on Wednesday noon from Longwood were Miss Mary Robertson, Mrs. John Wadsworth and Mrs. Menick.

Members of the Civic League are invited to meet with the Sanford Garden Club at their annual meeting on May 11.

Many from the League are planning to attend Federation session on May 10 at Sanford Women's Club.

Service at Christ Church will be observed on Sunday, May 6 at 3:30 in the afternoon. The Rector is Rev. Mark Carpenter of Sanford.

with myriad hues, glances in the warm southern arches the cloud with the blue of beauty, blazes the night with starry gems, and covers earth with loveliness—Mary Baker Eddy.

The beautiful is the most useful in art, but the sublime is the most helpful to mortals, for it elevates the mind. Schubert.

It is the treating of the commonplace with the sublime, the sublime that gives to art its true power.—J. P. Millet

The unconditional surrender of the Nazis in Italy left the retreating Germans with little of the territory they held in this theatre at the high tide of their success. The hatched area represents the German-occupied area at the time of negotiation. Surrender terms were signed at Caserta via the aid of secret negotiations. American 5th Army troops, made up of men who had fought in the mud, and have pushed a front 125 miles north of Berchtesgaden. These forces may make a junction ultimately with British troops that had captured Edme (3) just before the Nazis quit the Italian front (International).

Allies' Policy On Freed Russians
Accuses Britain, U.S. Of 'Intolerable Conditions' And Delay

MOSCOW, May 4 (AP)—General F. I. Golikov, spokesman of the Soviet Reparation Commission, accused Great Britain and the United States today of "intolerable conditions" and "delay" in releasing Soviet prisoners of war held in Germany. Golikov said that in many instances British authorities were not allowing the Allies of the war to liberate Soviet citizens held in camps under "intolerable conditions" and of failing to repatriate them promptly. He said that the Allies were "not doing their duty" in releasing Soviet citizens held in camps under "intolerable conditions" and of failing to repatriate them promptly. He said that the Allies were "not doing their duty" in releasing Soviet citizens held in camps under "intolerable conditions" and of failing to repatriate them promptly.

Golikov said "systematic removal" to America of Soviet citizens was going on without the knowledge of Soviet authorities. "Three hundred Soviet citizens disappeared from England and we are still searching for them," he said. Golikov conceded that not every where are our citizens held under intolerable conditions. However, he charged that Soviet representatives in England recently discovered 1,700 Russians in three camps, the existence of which had not previously been disclosed. "The camps were managed by American military police under intolerable conditions," he said. "In Camp No. 1, the Russians were held together with Germans, under German administration. Camps 35 and 46 were enclosed with barbed wire, with machine guns on watchtowers. The Russians worked underground ten to twelve hours daily and were badly dressed."

"When a Soviet general appeared, the prisoners were joyfully and demanded immediate repatriation." Golikov said "outrageous incidents" took place in Egypt in which "Poli agitators, with the approval of the British, 'spread malicious anti-Soviet propaganda' and tried, with provocations and threats, to dissuade Russian ex-prisoners from returning to the Soviet Union." Russia, Golikov asserted, has observed all obligations under-
