Lake Mary's newest restaurant

LAKE MARY — Another new business will officially open tomorrow morning in Lake Mary's I-4 corridor area. Bob Evans Restaurant will begin operations tomorrow morning.

The restaurant is located in front of the recently opened Builders Square, near the southwest corner of Lake Mary Boulevard and Lake Emma Road. The street address is 3860 Flagg Lane.

Jeff Burrell, one of the assistant managers at Bob Evans Restaurant commented, "We have hired nearly 100 employees from Lake Mary, with a number of others from Sanford and several outlying areas."

"The majority of our people are from Lake Mary itself," he said. "After all, we are a Lake Mary business, and we intend to be as much a part of the community as possible."

The restaurant will be open Sunday through Thursday from 6 a.m. until 10 p.m., and Fridays and Saturdays from 6 a.m. until 11:30 p.m.

Burrell said the new Lake Mary location is one of about 300 restaurants located in 16 states across the nation.

Hundreds duped in hoax

SAN DIEGO — Hundreds of people were made April Fools by a radio station that reported a space shuttle was going to do the impossible — land at Montgomery Field.

The gullible headed to the airport Thursday morning to watch what they thought would be Discovery's landing, tying up traffic for hours. Neither Discovery, nor any other shuttle, is currently in orbit.

Dave Rickards, a deejay on KGB-FM, told listeners that the shuttle was being diverted from Edwards Air Force Base for an 8:30 a.m. landing at the airport, in a crowded residential-commercial neighborhood.

Airport manager Tom Raines was furious.

"Hundreds of people were late to work. Hundreds of kids were kept out of school or were late to school," he said. "I had to shoo parents away with their video cameras, and a lot of them got really mad."

Clarification

Due to a writing error, the definition of "Part 1" crimes mentioned in a Wednesday Sanford Herald story about local crime statistics was omitted. Those crimes are defined by the Florida Department of Law Enforcement as murder, rape, robbery, assault, burglary, theft and auto theft.

Correction

SANFORD — Due to a reporting error, the date for road closings on South Sanford Avenue were incorrect in Thursday's Sanford Herald.

The road will be closed between 9:30 a.m. and 3:30 p.m. this Thursday and Friday to allow construction of an expressway bridge. Motorists are urged to detour to County Road 427 by way of Myrtle Avenue and Hester Avenue.

Crowd packs airshow in Sanford

SANFORD — In a carnival atmosphere, amid giant Kraft "Cheeseasaures" and tents of bottled water, soda, ice cream, hamburgers and hot dogs, biplanes and jets roared into the sky over Sanford on Saturday.

"I'm here for the food," said Mandi Lorrell of Jacksonville who, along with thousands of other spectators, had come to Airshow Orlando at the Central Florida Regional Airport. "But my husband and my daughters are here for the planes."

Scattered white puffy clouds dotted the clear blue sky. A strong sun pounded down on the runways of the former Naval base where the show is being held through this afternoon.

"God, it's good to have the Navy back in Sanford," said Don Dinkle of Sanford who said he was "heartbroken" when the Navy left Sanford in the 1960s. "I moved here when I retired to be close to the Navy and then they left. The sound of those Blue Angels over the last few days has been SANFORD — Safety is a major consideration at the air show this weekend at the Central Florida Regional Airport. Law enforcement will be out in large numbers while firefighters are standing ready.

Extra help from firefighters and ambulance services will be available in case any emergency occurs.

Although the airport has its own security force and firefighters, an additional 36 officers from the Sanford police department have been assigned to the airport for the weekend, as well as members of the Police Explorers.

Police Capt. Ralph Russell explained, "Our men will be out there to help control traffic and maintain security. The Explorers will be assisting in some of the special detail work."

Seminole County Sheriff's department spokesman George Prochell said four motorcycle deputies will be on the airport property assisting in traffic control.

Although neither the Sanford nor Seminole County fire departments have been asked directly

Abortion foes lose court battle

SANFORD — The Women's Medical Clinic in Winter Springs, the only abortion clinic in Seminole County, will not be affected by Circuit Court Robert B. McGregor's decision this week to expand an earlier injunction against anti-abortion activities in front of clinics in Brevard and Seminole Counties.

McGregor did say Friday there was "sufficient evidence" given during three days of testimony to clarify and further define a Sept. 30, 1992 injunction by Circuit Judge Wallace H. Hall prohibiting obstruction of access to abortion clinics and intimidation of clinic employees and patients.

McGregor said he expected to release his decision Tuesday morning.

"We hope this court order will stop the terrorism," said Kathy Spillar, national coordinator of the Feminist Majority Foundation.

The Central Florida clinics sought the decision little more than a week after the murder of clinic

The story of Douglas Jobe

Part 1 of 2

 carpenter in Nazareth. At the age of 30 he became an itinerant preacher, rabbi and prophet. He never had a family of his own, never married, never owned a home, never went to college and never traveled but a few miles from his hometown. Yet at age 33 the public turned against him, his friends ran away, he went through a mockery of a trial and was nailed to a cross between two thieves. While dying his executioners gambled for the only thing he owned, his robe.

He was laid in a borrowed tomb. Almost 20 centuries have come and gone. Yet, this Galilean is still the central figure of the human race.

Today, Palm Sunday, marks his entrance into Jerusalem for the final time. Friday of this week tens of millions known as Christians around the world will remember his crucifixion. Next Sunday these same Christians will observe His resurrection from that tomb.

Billions upon billions of words have been written about this man. Today I want to share with you a story that took place in Sanford and Zellwood. Many people are involved in this but there are only five main players. They are Will, Charlie, Everett, Douglas and Della.

It was a few minutes after midnight. The phone at the First Baptist Church parsonage at 1100 Park Avenue rang. Dr. W.P. Brooke answered. "Will," the voice said, "this is Charlie. I've got a patient out here. I've done everything I know to do for him. He now needs the kind of help you can provide."

"Will" was the pastor of Sanford's First Baptist Church. "Charlie" was Dr. Charles L. Park Sr., a long-time highly admired and respected Sanford physician. When Dr. Brooke told me this story years ago he explained that Dr. Park was one of the few folks who ever called him "Will." And Dr. Brooke was one of the few Sanford people who ever referred to Dr. Park as "Charlie."

Dr. Park Jr. told me recently that he remembered that possibly Dr. Park and Dr. Brooke may have been cousins. Years ago the poet laureate of Georgia was Sydney Lanier. And "Lanier" is the middle name of both Dr. Park Jr. and Dr. Brooke.

While Brooke dressed and then drove his little black Ford two-door to the hospital let me explain that when the Navy closed the Sanford Naval Air Station right after World War II, the Fernald-Laughton Memorial Hospital moved from Fifth and Oak and occupied the hospital the Navy left.

Brooke arrived and made his way to the room where Park was observing his patient. Douglas Jobe. When I was a teenager I knew this fellow — not by name but by his actions. Many a time I'd seen him staggering on downtown streets. To tell you the truth I was afraid of him. If I were approaching him I'd cross the street to avoid him. Also, when he was drunk he was one of the meanest looking fellows I'd ever seen.

Dr. Park told Dr. Brooke Jobe was so intoxicated he wasn't sure he would survive. Dr. Brooke told me that he and Dr. Park, a longtime Baptist himself, prayed Jobe's life could be spared.

Finally, Jobe came "around" and was able to understand the seriousness of his situation. And, as Baptists say, these two men tried to "lead Jobe to the Lord." Jobe promised he would try to turn his life around.

Sanford's First Baptist Church has been blessed during its 109-year history by an unusually large number of downright good laymen. But I don't believe there was one more outstanding than one of its deacons, owner of the Sanford Electric Company, Everett C. Harper Sr.

Harper was a "giant" among laymen. He was a civic leader and an avid outdoor sportsman despite a fall from a ladder in September 1921, causing an injury that plagued him the rest of his life.

Sadness came to the Harper family when "Pearl," his wife and mother of his two children, Jean Harper Jacoby, and E.C. Jr., died. Harper later married Pearl's sister, Bessie, who still resides in the Harper home on Sanford Avenue.

When the 124th Infantry of the Florida National Guard came into existence, Harper became a master sergeant and sergeant-major of the regiment's First Battalion headquarters unit. By the way, he was inducted into the Guard unit by J.C. Hutchison, then a major but later a lieutenant general who accepted the Japanese surrender of the Philippines enabling General Douglas MacArthur to make his promised return.

Meanwhile, Jobe settled down somewhat and Harper kept him on the payroll. But from time to time Jobe would take a drink and get "out of line." E.C. Jr. told me it didn't take but one to send him reeling down the street.

Not too long after that, Douglas Jobe, as the country boy would say, "got religion."

Next Sunday, I'll tell you how he got it and what effect it had on just about every member of the First Baptist Church and members of many other local churches. It's the story of how that one solitary life of a Nazarene had on another individual almost 2,000 years later. It's the rest of a story you will never forget.

 music to my ears."

Sandraddella Martin of Lake Mary was not as thrilled with the melodies they had been playing in the skies over her house.

"Those dang things nearly busted out the windows at my house," she complained. "They are special to watch, but they make too darn much noise for my taste."

Jean Jones of Kissimmee said she had trouble finding the show, but she was glad she had made the extra effort to make it.

"I went to the executive airport in Orlando...I thought that was the Central Florida Airport. I should have known they couldn't fly those planes over downtown Orlando," she said. "I don't think the ads said anything about it being in Sanford."

Jones was not alone in having been mistaken about the location of the show.

"I got into my car and realized I had no idea where the Central Florida airport was," said Glenda Phillipon of Orlando. "I knew it wasn't in Orlando, but the ads all said Orlando Airshow, so I didn't know."

Justin King, 7, of Orlando loved the excitement of acrobatic aviators screaming overhead and the paratroopers dropping gracefully to the ground.

"It's very, very cool," he said. "Totally cool."

His 3-year-old brother Brett was not as impressed.

"Too much noise," he said, holding his ears.

While thousands endured long lines at the Airport Boulevard entrance and paid $12 admission fees, there were some who preferred to be a little farther away from the action.

The parking lots at several businesses along Sanford Avenue were full, though most of the businesses were closed for the day.

"I think I can see just as well out here as I could in there. And I save 40 bucks getting all of us in," said Lloyd Kincaid of Deltona, pointing at his wife and two children. "And that's not counting the money we saved by bringing our own lunches."

The Kincaids spread lawn chairs, beach towels and coolers around their car and looked skyward for the show.

His 9-year-old son Jason was a little perturbed that they couldn't see the plane taking off or landing, but he was enjoying seeing the show.

"I've never seen nothing like this before," he said. "This is great. I want to be a pilot."

The airshow continues through this afternoon at the Central Florida Regional Airport in Sanford.

Tickets are $12 for adults, $7 for children 7 to 12 years old and free for younger children. Parking is $2.

Donnie Harrison and Shawana Montgomery talk. Angels, a Navy Flight Demonstration Squadron will be performing at the airshow in Sanford.

Onlookers Saturday watched aerobatics at Airshow Orlando.

The colorful biplane of the Red Baron Stearman Squadron breezed through a practice run before the show this weekend. The Stearman A-75 was conceived as a trainer to prepare the pilots of the U.S. Army and Navy.

 to participate, the county is standing at ready.

"This show is being put on by a profit making organization and sponsors," said Battalion Chief Mike Millard, "so we have not been asked to participate."

"We are however, making contingency plans that could be put into place at a moment's notice, if we are needed," he added.

The county handles deput-ching needs for the entire public safety operation. "If a call goes out about an emergency," Millard said, "We will know about it just as quickly as anyone else, and we are ready to respond and put our plan into motion."

Millard and many county firemen and emergency patrols will be on duty for the entire weekend. "We also have identified a number of people who could be contacted immediately in the event of some major disaster," the chief added.

None of the city firefighters have been asked to be involved in the air show, but do plan to be on call as will all other public safety departments of the city and county.

"It is always our hope that nothing will go wrong," Millard said, "but if it does, we have our plan and will be ready to respond."

Man arrested for hitting dad

James Alvin Piatt, 30, 118 Country Club Cir., Sanford, was charged with battery and domestic violence when he was arrested by Sanford Police on Thursday.

Police said they responded to the house where he was involved in a domestic dispute with his father twice in a ten-minute period.

Police said he had shoved his father during the fight.

He was taken to the John E. Polk Correctional Facility and held on $1,000 bond.

False names given to police

Anthony Williams, 32, 2560 Bird Ave., Sanford, was charged with resisting arrest without violence by Sanford Police on Thursday.

Police said they were investigating the sale of some fraudulent merchandise when Williams told them his name was Anthony Sipoliu and Anthony Mathews.

Police also charged him with driving with a suspended license.

He was taken to the John E. Polk Correctional Facility where he was held on $600 bond.

Credit card fraud alleged

David Matthew Wilson, 21, 1904 French Ave., Sanford, was charged with offenses against computer users, the fraudulent use of a credit card, burglary and grand theft by Sanford Police on Thursday.

Police said he used a stolen credit card to remove $1,000 from the account of Eoghan K. Kelley at the Sunbank on First St., Sanford.

Another of the victim's credit cards had been reported stolen and had been reportedly been used at a 7-11 store in Kissimmee.

Police used film from the ATM machine to identify Wilson. They said his employer (Kelley) positively identified him.

Kelley told police that he had not given Wilson permission to use his card.

Wilson told police that he had taken the money to buy alcohol and to repair his car.

Wilson said he got the credit cards from Kelley's office by dialing the company's security system and taking a money box, which also contained approximately $863 in cash, from a locked file cabinet.

He was arrested near his home Thursday and taken to the John E. Polk Correctional Facility, where he was held on $3,000 bond.

Unknown solution thrown

Pleasure Sutton, 20, 16 Seminole Garden Apartments, was charged with aggravated battery by Sanford Police on Thursday.

Police said that she threw an "unknown liquid solution" into the eyes of Chirita Burke. They said Burke was sitting on the steps of the apartment at 12 Seminole Gardens.

Sutton was taken to the John E. Polk Correctional Facility and held on $2,000 bond.

1993 Florida Legislature

Winners: Health care, nursing moms

By BILL KACZOR
Associated Press Writer

TALLAHASSEE — Florida lawmakers passed landmark health care reform, struck blows for nursing mothers and gender neutrality, got tougher on drunken driving and took aim at dishonest auto repair shops in their regular 1993 session.

Those are among an eclectic collection of bills that passed both chambers and went to Gov. Lawton Chiles during the session scheduled to end in overtime Sunday with final action on a $35.2 billion budget.

Chiles already has signed a bill guaranteeing a mother's right to breast-feed in public, the first of its kind in the nation.

"It is not a shameful act that must be hidden behind closed doors," Chiles said as he signed the bill ensuring no woman can be charged with any violation of nudity or lewdness laws.

Another national first is the health care bill passed early Saturday. It would set up regional alliances to pool the purchasing power of public and private employers in a bid to reduce skyrocketing medical costs and expand coverage to all Floridians. Other features include insurance reform, treatment guidelines and a Medicaid-like program for the working poor.

Chiles called it a model for the nation.

Under another bill, it will take less drinking to be charged with drunken driving under another bill that went to the governor. The legal limit for operating a motor vehicle or boat would change from a blood alcohol level of 0.1 percent to 0.08 percent.

Wading into sex-based issues, the Legislature decided a man or woman will be a person in Florida laws under a gender-neutrality bill, while another measure would balance government boards and commissions according to gender by 2004.

An 11-member task force would be set up to determine how schools and colleges should ensure equal opportunity for women in sports, including scholarship.

Restaurants that hold fewer than 100 people would be exempted from last year's "potty parity" law mandating three women's toilets for every two toilets or urinals for men. Even those establishments, however, would have to provide equal numbers of fixtures for men and women.

The state's Division of Consumer Affairs receives more complaints about auto repairs than any other subject, and lawmakers passed a bill to do something about it.

Losers: Lawmakers just said no to taxes

By BILL KACZOR
Associated Press Writer

TALLAHASSEE — State legislators just said no to taxes, making revenue enhancement the big-ticket item on a laundry list of losing issues during the year's regular session.

Lawmakers are planning to end the session Sunday with a vote on a no-new-taxes budget, but Gov. Lawton Chiles has said he would call them back into special session on at least two issues that failed to pass: workers compensation reform and prison construction.

Chiles' Safe Streets legislation included a proposed 25-cent-per-pack increase in the state cigarette tax to raise $220 million a year and pay for 21,000 new prison beds over five years.

The Legislature allocated money to build 7,000 beds but without the tax, which was blocked by Senate President Ander Crenshaw.

The Jacksonville Republican, a prospective gubernatorial challenger to Chiles, started the session with a no-taxes promise, and he kept it. Chiles initially proposed more than $600 million in new taxes but scaled it back during the 60-day session and finally dropped it entirely.

An improving economy that will generate more taxes and a $175 million Medicaid computer error made most of Chiles' original tax requests unnecessary.

The governor, however, said he is still looking for a viable tax increase alternative to the cigarette levy to increase prison construction. He insisted that dropping his other tax demands was not a victory for Crenshaw.

Among the dead tax proposals was a statewide increase of 10 cents a gallon in the gasoline tax, although lawmakers passed a bill allowing counties to raise taxes by 5 cents a gallon.

Other measures that failed would have:

- Allowed Lotto winners to get a lump sum (instead of 30 years of payments).
- Lowered the age of adulthood from 18 to 14 so younger lawbreakers could be prosecuted as adults.
- Imposed a statewide 11 p.m. curfew of children 14 and under.
- Outlawed spanking in schools.
- Expanded to hospitals last year's ban against doctors referring their patients to labs and clinics in which they have a financial interest.
- Allowed cable television to expand to some highly profitable data transmission services now reserved for phone companies, one of the most intensely lobbied issues of the session.
- Let school districts spend tax dollars to contract with private and parochial schools to teach children. Proponents said it would let more children have the same opportunity as President Clinton's daughter, Chelsea, who would private schools, would ruin the public schools and violate the constitutional separate of church and state.

● Barred teachers from ordering students to write letters to politicians in support of their viewpoint. The bill was a reaction to a teacher's campaign for a school tax increase last year.

● Penalized young people under 18 for buying or possessing cigarettes or other tobacco products. Proposed penalties included community service, fines, curfew and driver's license suspension.

● Moved up the effective date of the tax cap on residential property, which voters approved last year, by one year to 1994.

● Prohibited EDS Federal Corp., which programmed a problem-plagued computer at the Department of Health and Rehabilitative Services, from obtaining a $30 million contract with the Education Department because it is using HRB over the amount it should be paid.

● Prohibited legislators from accepting campaign contributions during regular legislative sessions.

● Mandated reapportionment to an independent commission if approved by voters through a constitutional amendment. Opponents said lawmakers should first be able to attempt to redraw legislative and congressional districts before turning it over to such a panel.

● Repealed the state law that bans homosexual acts.

● Permitted "any" state-licensed center to supervise infants at state-licensed centers. One proposal would have allowed one worker to supervise five infants, instead of the one-to-four ratio in current law.

● Increased the distance people must keep away from polling places to hand out campaign literature and take petition signatures from 50 to 100 feet. Opponents said it may have put some people out in the hot sun and cause them to faint.

● Ended reviews by the governor and Cabinet of permit rulings by the Department of Environmental Regulation and the state's water management districts.

● Created a law school at predominantly black Florida A&M University in Tallahassee. It was opposed by Hispanic lawmakers who said if a new law school is created it should be at Florida International University in Miami.

● Gave farm workers the right to know what pesticides they're exposed to at work. They are exempt from an existing right-to-know law that requires other employers to tell workers about chemical exposure.

● Permitted county commissioners and school board members to set their own salaries and be held accountable for them. Salaries are now set by state law based on population.

● Tied, if adopted by voters as a constitutional amendment, annual government spending increases to the average growth in Floridians' personal income.

● Required a person who files an ethics complaint to have personal knowledge about the alleged violation, not just read about it in a newspaper.

● Granted tax breaks to two South Florida hotels damaged by Hurricane Andrew, a Sheraton at Key Biscayne and the landmark Diplomat in Hollywood, which has been closed since 1991.

City must disuss employee pay cut

The Sanford City Commission decision not to continue the two percent add-on pay for the next quarter of this fiscal year is causing conflict.

Many employees are angry. They want to know why the increases were not granted. The city has found itself on the defensive, trying to explain why the salaries had to be reduced.

As in many situations, there are two sides to the coin.

Last December, the commission voted to give approximately 400 employees an added bonus with a two percent pay increase. The stipulation was that the matter would be reviewed at the end of each quarter, to determine if finances were available to continue for the following quarter.

Incoming revenues to the city are presently low. Taxes from alcohol and tobacco sales from the state are down. Other city income is lower than expected.

Unless additional revenue is obtained, the city would probably be required to dig into reserve funds in order to continue paying the higher salaries. That would be dangerous, as it would eliminate money that must be kept to handle any unexpected emergencies.

As a result, the extra money was dropped from the paychecks as of April 1.

Employees see a different picture. Many consider it a pay cut.

The city increased the amount on the paychecks, and families were better able to pay their bills and purchase groceries. While the matter was an "add-on," it is still an amount that has been available on a regular basis.

Giving employees a pay increase subject to cancellation is not a good move. Getting them angry because of what appears to be a pay cut is not in the best interests of the city and its citizens.

The problem must now be brought up for more serious consideration at the commission level.

Think about the animals

I know that oil is a big producer of energy in our country. My concern is the safety of the transportation of the oil. We all know that oil is a big part of the country's energy resource, but don't you think the safety of animals should come before the shipping of unsafe oil?

Let's take, for instance, the spill from the Exxon Valdez off the coast of Alaska. That terrible accident occurred because of the careless captain. The Exxon Valdez killed a lot of defenseless fish and birds. They did not need oil to produce energy, all they wanted was clean, non-polluted water.

I have some good ideas to make better oil tankers. First, I would improve them by making the tankers with double hulls so if they crash into the rocks the oil would not spill. Second, I would keep the tankers under good maintenance by making the crew train harder. Third, I would tell the crew and captain to take their time and be safe.

I wish everything that I said here would make a little difference in the world to make it safer and non-polluted. One day there might not be any more fish or birds on this green earth. All some people think about is the money they can get; they do not think about the harmless animals such as fish and birds.

Reverse the trend toward violence

The print media, the broadcast media constantly remind us how violent our society has become. Many times the victims of violence are the vulnerable, the oldest and youngest members of our society. Those who are physically less able to defend and protect themselves.

Whenever there is a particularly vicious crime communities will come together and meet with law enforcement officials. Then the community generally returns to complacency, not because people don't care but because of the hectic pace of life today and the utilization of energies in other areas.

Combating violence starts with each of us. We must learn to live defensively and be supportive of one another. We must be aware of the potential for crime and violence in the environments we frequent and devise our own strategies for protecting ourselves.

Security systems for homes are not very expensive and should be an option that people should employ. Children must be taught not to open doors and adults should be very careful about opening doors to strangers.

The automobile is no longer just a source of transportation but has become a source of danger with car jacking. Therefore, driving with car doors locked is a must. Thoughtful parking is also required. Parking in well-lighted areas is critical. When out late or in a deserted area one should be accompanied to their car.

SEMINOLE OPINION

LURLENE SWEETING

The most challenging facet of combating violence deals with training our youth to be non-violent and caring. The ages of persons involved in crimes against people and property is declining. An ever increasing number of children are being charged with crimes, some as serious as murder.

Why is violence so rampant in American society? What are the underlying causes of this penchant for violence? Is there a relationship between our child-rearing practices and our current dilemma? Are children growing up with no social conscience and no remorse for what they do?

Focusing upon children is really an examination of the family. The family is the initial source of socialization. Children are not born socialized. They have to be taught what is acceptable behavior. Respect for people and property needs to be internalized. Adults by their words and example should guide children through their developmental processes to a state where children care about others and do not destroy property. Life today is not easy for adults. Earning income for the family is the number one priority that often requires long hours away from children. In single parent families the parent has so many demands on his/her time that support is needed. Consequently, good child care facilities become a necessity that should be readily available to all children. Research reveals that children's adjustment is facilitated in good child care environments.

Research also indicates that Americans spend many hours viewing television. The impact of television upon children has been debated pro and con. Young children have fertile imaginations and sometimes have difficulty differentiating between fact and fantasy. Therefore, hours of unsupervised television may be very confusing, particularly with the amount of violence and sexual activity displayed.

The trend toward more and more violence needs to be reversed. Children are our hope for the future that they will grow up to be caring, non-violent adults. For the present we must be vigilant as we go about our daily tasks and be alert to the possibility of becoming a victim of violence.

P.L.O. weakened by more militant group

WASHINGTON — Yasir Arafat sounded deeply troubled to his Palestinian-American visitor, who was making one of his regular treks to Tunis, Tunisia, to brief the chairman of the Palestinian Liberation Organization about the political situation in the United States.

It was early last December and Arafat was bemoaning the defeat of George Bush the month before. Everything Arafat knew about Bill Clinton and Al Gore augured poorly for Palestinians: The Democrats were staunchly pro-Israel while Bush pursued a more even-handed American policy toward the Middle East.

But eating at Arafat this particular day was what he viewed as the American and Israeli flirtation with Hamas, a militant fundamentalist Palestinian organization with strong ties to Iran. Arafat believed the two allies were colluding to pit Hamas against the P.L.O. in a divide and conquer strategy. Though Islamic fundamentalism was anathema to both countries' foreign policy agendas, Hamas was a handy counterweight to the P.L.O. hegemony. Decades of armed struggle by the P.L.O. for the mantle of "sole representative" of the Palestinians were jeopardized by militants who took their marching orders from Tehran, not Tunis.

Arafat found Hamas' Israeli and American bedfellows bewildering in the extreme. Hamas was a sworn enemy of the peace process, and had secretly issued death decrees against Palestinians who participated. Arafat and the P.L.O. support the talks — directing the Palestinian negotiators — and sent a phalanx of P.L.O. security forces to protect peace talk participants.

"I have to fight the Americans as well because these fundamentalists (Hamas) who are fighting the peace talks are living in America — and you know and we know," Arafat argued. "I'm aware of those people in New York and New Jersey. They are sitting out there in the mosque, drumming up foment against the peace talks, against the P.L.O. If (the U.S.) didn't want them there to oppose us, they wouldn't be there."

And then Arafat tossed out a comment that would return to haunt his Palestinian-American adviser in the months ahead: "You want the fundamentalists? Take them. You'll find out just how reasonable we are compared to them." Arafat then exploded in laughter.

On Feb. 26, about two months after the Tunis meeting, a bomb ripped through the parking garage of the World Trade Center. The FBI is pursuing a trail of men and money that appears to lead to militant Muslim groups, including some Hamas supporters in New York and New Jersey. Even before the conclusion of the FBI's investigation, the evidence supporting Arafat's alarming assessment of Hamas is overpowering.

No matter what clues the World Trade Center bomb debris yield, the diplomatic trail leads to Jerusalem and to a lesser degree Washington. A decade ago Israel acquiesced to the Hamas buildup as a way of neutralizing the P.L.O. The movements of Palestinians with connections to the P.L.O. were severely restricted by the Israeli military — yet the Islamic movement was allowed to multiply. In the United States, while diplomats are barred from contacts with the P.L.O., only recently did they cut off contacts with Hamas.

Most inexplicable is how Sheik Omar Abdel Rahman, who is regarded as the spiritual leader of the World Trade Center bombers, ever was allowed entry into the United States back in 1990 on a tourist visa.

Women's roles in the movies

BOSTON — There were more than a few inauspicious moments in the designated year-of-the-woman Oscars. The opening tribute to Hollywood's women began, after all, with a chorus of "Some Day My Prince Will Come."

Billy Crystal then remarked on a dismal lack of decent women's roles, adding his equally dismal assessment. "Some of the most-talked-about women's parts, are Sharon Stone's in 'Basic Instinct.'"

The Academy itself gave the award for Best Actress to Emma Thompson for her portrait of a strong woman of her time. Her time was 1910.

And nobody even remarked on the fact that the best female role of the year had gone to Jaye Davidson of "The Crying Game."

No, this was most certainly not the year of the woman in Hollywood. It was, however, the year of the "new man." The year of men under the influence of women. Or maybe the year of the woman — the woman's movement, the woman's message — behind the man.

By now, the movie that walked away with the big Oscar, "Unforgiven," has been called a revisionist Western so often that the words should appear on the screen as a subtitle. But all four movies that garnered the most attention — "Unforgiven," "The Crying Game," "A Few Good Men" and "Scent of a Woman" — are equally revisionist.

They feature an anti-gunfighter who takes up bounty hunting to support his kids. An Irish no-longer-terrorist struggling with tenderness. A Lone Rambo of a military man taken down for his outlaw code. A blind, self-hating veteran hell-bent on self-destruction.

In one way or another, they tell stories about men mastering out of violence. In short, they tell stories about manhood in the '80s, an era of military conversion that's not only economic but psychological.

Of all these, "Unforgiven" is the most obvious. It's as if the movie itself were a mea culpa, as if Eastwood were asking for forgiveness in "Unforgiven," for Hollywood's glorification of violence.

The script was first written in 1975, long before Eastwood began making Ronald Reagan's day. But he only decided to make the film last year, after and because of the Los Angeles riots. Indeed, talking backstage Monday night, he sounded rather like a new man at 62: "The story preaches that it isn't glamorous to take a gun. It isn't glamorous to kill people. It isn't pretty."

"Scent of a Woman" is more subtle but it's no less a tribute to the times. The outline reads like a chapter of John Bly. It's about old men and new, hard men and soft. It's about "fathers" and "sons," and needing each other.

The older man's strength and the younger man's sensitivity eventually combine to make a whole. They save each other from the crippling effects of their institutions — the rigid regulations of military and prep school.

The messages in these post-Ollie North, post-Cold War movies are closely identified with the messages that women have been conveying for a generation. They say that superheroes are fine...in outer space. "That justice isn't something to be decided by a Terminator.

That there's more than us and them, winners and losers. That life on Earth is complicated, often painful and, in the end, relationships may matter the most.

In each one of these Oscar winners men turn their backs on significant pieces of male history. At times, watching them is like looking in the recent election year mirror and seeing a young man win against an elder stuck in that history. The president and cinematic winners alike ran on a domestic — truly domestic — agenda.

The odd thing is that women's messages are heard more than women are seen on the screen. The issues raised by women in our culture are now the stuff of buddy movies. Indeed, as Ethel Klein, who has tracked both politics and the Oscars for her polling firm, says with some irony, "Bill Clinton won on a women's agenda and these men are winning Oscars on our agenda."

Make no mistake. I am delighted by these cinematic messages and new images. But I cannot help wondering why these questions of life are most important, given star billing, when they happen to men?

In "A Few Good Men," a younger generation reforms the military...a man's job. In "The Crying Game," a terrorist learns the power of commitment...from other men.

Where in the darkened theater are the complex, meaty roles for women who are changing our beliefs, our institutions, our country? Still waiting for someday, for their Prince to come?

Abortion

physician Dr. David Gunn in Pensacola, Fla. An anti-abortionist has been charged in the shooting.

Clinic attorneys sought a quick decision from McGregor, fearing an escalation of anti-abortion protests this week because of the religious observances.

McGregor's decision came at the end of three days of testimony against anti-abortion activities primarily targeting a Melbourne, Fla. clinic. The clinics sought to jail and fine Bruce Cadle of Palm Bay, Fla., southeastern United States regional director of Operation Rescue National, and Rev. Ed Martin of Ocala, director of Rescue America, for violating the Sept. 30 order.

But the clinic attorneys agreed to suspend the request in the light of the expected order. During testimony Friday, anti-abortionist Paula Wimer of Palm Bay stated she would disobey man's laws if they conflicted with "God's laws."

"If God's law called on you to violate the court order, would you?" asked clinic attorney Kathy Patrick.

"Yes, I would," responded Wimer.

Wimer also testified she had prayed for the Melbourne clinic to go out of business and that God would pass judgment on the clinic owners.

Cadle sought Friday morning to have McGregor remove himself from the case, saying he was prejudiced. McGregor refused to accept the motion, saying it was not filed in a timely manner. Cadle refused to say whether he would appeal.

Patrick said she anticipated the order will be crafted to fit the grounds of the Aware Woman Center for Choice in Melbourne, but it will not affect the Women's Medical Clinic in Winter Springs.

"But it sends the clear message that the courts in Florida are willing to protect the clinics," said Patrick.

Clinic attorneys Patrick and Talbot D'Alemberte, former president of the America Bar Association, sought a 50-foot "bubble zone" around the Melbourne clinic where no anti-abortion activities could occur. They further sought a 30-foot distance between protesters and clinic employees and clients driving to the facility on U.S. Highway 1.

They also sought a prohibition against picketing within 500 feet of clinic employee or patient residences and a prohibition against the use of bullhorns within 2,500 feet of those residences. They also sought to allow patients to remove their auto tags before arriving at the clinic and to allow the clinic operators to trace telephone numbers of callers.

Testimony was given that anti-abortion protesters obtained tag numbers and used them to approach clinic employees and their children at their homes. The clinic attorneys also alleged that more than 5,400 telephone calls have "flooded" the Melbourne clinic "800" line in February.

The clinic attorneys agreed to reduce the clinic zone to 37 feet to accommodate the narrow side street leading to the clinic parking lot.

Bruce Cadle, southern regional director of Operation Rescue National, said he was "outraged" by the decision. "I think anything in the second motion that is agreed to, to any degree, is an outrage," said Cadle Friday. "When I first read it, I laughed. I said 'They can't seriously be asking to let people take license plates off of cars.'" the rail service and government on this.

Although labeled as a preliminary feasibility study, the document pertains to Sanford's potential of becoming a major transportation hub for the area.

According to the report, "The North Seminole County-Sanford area offers the potential for a future multi-modal facility, to serve transportation needs on a local as well as regional basis."

The study has examined facilities and services including the Port of Sanford, Central Florida Regional Airport, Amtrak/AutoTrain, Commuter Rail, bus routes, CSX railroad, trucking and local development.

One of the factors in determining the transportation study was the business and economy of the area. The report says, "The Sanford area consists of several locations which hold great promise for City of Sanford economic development, specifically the W. S.R. 46 area targeted as a high intensity development area."

The area referred to is the location for the proposed Seminole Towne Center Mall development, which will also include other commercial business buildings and possibly a number of hotels.

Mass transit is recognized by Seminole County as a key in the future transportation planning. The county states that, "It shall require high speed rail stations and auxiliary facilities to be sited only within high intensity mixed-use development areas in the I-4 corridor, which are interconnected by an operational exclusive rail corridor."

The preliminary feasibility study was presented publicly for the first time at the welcoming ceremony at the Amtrak train terminal Friday morning, when the Sunset Limited made its first arrival. The coast-to-coast Amtrak train will be operating between Miami and Los Angeles, with regular stops in Sanford.

Complaint—Explosion

Seminole County Courthouse Friday afternoon.

Brent Cadle of Palm Bay, Fla., said he was standing in front of the courthouse at about 1 p.m. when Raungsoomboon drove up in a yellow Mercedes Benz, yelled something, and struck him on the shoulders with balled fists. Cadle said he fell to the ground and Raungsoomboon left. Cadle said he had never met Raungsoomboon, but identified him from photographs.

Cadle was awaiting the resumption of an emergency hearing before Circuit Judge Robert B. McGregor Friday. Cadle's father is Bruce Cadle, southeastern director of Operation Rescue National. Bruce Cadle faced fines and possible imprisonment for allegedly violating a Sept. 30, 1992 order prohibiting obstruction of abortion clinics. The action was delayed indefinitely.

Raungsoomboon, who attended the afternoon hearing, had no comment on the allegation.

Brent Cadle gave a statement to a Sanford policeman at the courthouse. His mother, Valerie Cadle, said she would press charges.

the conclusion of the countywide middle school band festival activities at the school Friday night. It could have been fatal.

According to Lt. Laurie Whitlock of the Longwood Fire Department, the homemade pipe bomb exploded when Schmaus picked a string off the floor which triggered the mechanism.

A commode was destroyed, but Schmaus was not injured.

The battery operated device was triggered by a taut string attached to the bomb which was, in turn, attached to the lavatory.

Damage was confined to one stall, investigators believe, because block walls rather than metal dividers separate the toilets.

Investigators do not believe the dangerous prank was aimed specifically at the teacher, but they said that they are looking at all possibilities.

"He's shaken by this," Schmaus' wife Kay said Saturday morning. "Nothing like this has ever happened to him."

She said he had porcelain from the commode in his clothing, hair and mouth when he returned home after the incident. Fire officials said he appeared shaken, but uninjured by the incident and refused treatment.

The band director, who has been teaching since 1958, returned to Lyman on Saturday morning to continue as host of the band festival.

"He's not the kind of teacher who's ever come out to find damage to his car or anything like that," his wife said.

Principal Carlton Henley said Schmaus is well-liked by the students. He does not believe the bomb-maker had any intention of hurting the teacher.

Nonetheless, he said, the school administration is doing whatever they can to help investigators find the perpetrators. "And we will prosecute," he said.

According to Whitlock, the Seminole County bomb squad thoroughly checked the rest of the school, but found no other explosive devices.

She added that there had been reports of a second explosion on Dog Track Road, to the south of the campus, but investigators had found no evidence of any explosion.

Investigators said they are continuing to look into the matter, though they do not have any suspects at this time.

morning to greet well-wishers of the train's maiden voyage that reestablishes coast-to-coast Amtrak passenger service.

On behalf of Sanford, Smith presented the key to the city to Bob Gall, vice president for marketing and sales with Amtrak. "In honor of this occasion," he said, "I am officially declaring this as Sunset Limited Day in Sanford."

Smith had boarded the train during a stop in Palatka, and departed as it arrived in Sanford. She was greeted by a number of city department heads, county officials and over 100 interested citizens.

In accepting the key, Gall commented, "I want you to know, Sanford is a mighty important place to Amtrak. We have been with you for a long time, and we look forward to being a part of your community for many years in the future."

Gall projected the new train service would be handling an estimated 100,000 passengers to and from Florida each year.

The Sunset Limited made stops at depots across the nation as well as in Florida. Most of the stops were only 5 to 10 minutes in length.

Sanford greeted the train and Amtrak officials with a huge banner. "Welcome to Sanford, Northern Gateway to Central Florida."

Seminole County Commissioner Daryl McLain was also on board the train, and joined in the welcome festivities. "I'm pleased to have the Sunset Limited coming to Sanford," he said. "I feel certain it will bring an improvement to the economic development of the North Seminole County corridor."

McLain used the occasion to announce the kick-off of the official transportation organization involving the county and city, which will combine all types of surface, water and air transportation into a regional multi-modal transportation hub.

DEATHS

CLINTON DANIEL BYRD

Clinton Daniel Byrd, 16, of Fort Florida Road, DeBary, died Thursday, April 1, in Volusia County, born Oct. 29, 1976, in Orlando, he moved to DeBary in 1990. He was a student at Daytona Beach Community College.

NATIONAL BRIEFS

Mother sentenced in child's murder

SANTA ANA, Calif. — A woman was sentenced to six years in prison for helping her husband drown their 5-year-old daughter who she believed was possessed by demons.

"I'm starting to realize and truly face all the wrong that I did, not doing what a mother should have done," Beatriz Morales, 47, said at her sentencing Friday.

She was convicted in October of murder in the 1978 killing of Lisa Morales and had faced up to 15 years in prison.

Lisa's body was never found. The killing came to light in 1991 when another of the Morales' children, Beatriz Quintero, told a therapist about it.

Prosecutors said Marcos Morales suspected Lisa was not his child and used the exorcism as a pretext to kill her, convincing his wife the girl was possessed by demons. He was sentenced in January to 25 years to life.

Woman Maces movie patron

WEST PALM BEACH — A woman refused to be quiet during a showing of the movie "A Face in the Sky" and sprayed Mace in the face of a patron who asked her to shut up.

The assailant fled after the incident Wednesday. The maced woman was treated at the theater by paramedics.

Authorities said the woman told the other theater goer to be quiet three times during the movie. The third time brought the Mace.

The theater's general manager, Joseph Jervis, said the theater enforces a silence policy "pretty vigorously."

Child molester sentenced to 1,325 years

BROOKSVILLE — A judge sentenced a convicted child molester to 1,325 years in prison, saying he wanted to ensure that the man never went free.

"It's my hope this would amount to a life sentence, and he would never ever step out of a prison system again and prey on innocent children," Circuit Judge Jack Springstead said Friday.

Eljahi Angle DeZion was convicted in February of 64 counts of sexual molestation on a teen-ager. He also was found guilty of witness tampering for phoning the victim and urging him to recant.

The crimes covered a four-year period starting in 1987 when the boy was 13. Prosecutor Rita Battista told the judge the long sentence was necessary because DeZion would strike again.

The victim's mother, an investigator in the case and a social worker all joined prosecutors in urging the judge to lock DeZion up for life. Defense lawyers planned to appeal.

Widow hit with $9 million tax bill

BOCA RATON — A widow hit with a $9 million bill for back taxes says she knew nothing of her late husband's shady business dealings and shouldn't owe the government a penny.

Sheila Weinstein for years was listed on a joint tax return with her husband, Michael Weinstein, who last year was convicted in a money-laundering operation that cost investors more than $150 million.

His wife was not charged in the case and she says the U.S. Tax Court should leave her alone because she is an "innocent spouse." Even if a judge decides she has to pay up, she says she can't.

"They've taken everything I have," Mrs. Weinstein said.

Her husband pleaded guilty last year to federal racketeering and money laundering charges and was sentenced in U.S. District Court in New Jersey to 57 months in prison. He died of a heart attack Aug. 2, two weeks before he was supposed to begin his sentence.

Woman gets max in baby kidnapping

DALLAS — A woman who kidnapped a newborn girl from a hospital has been sentenced to 10 years in prison and fined $10,000.

Sherri Owens, 38, wept, apologized and agreed to seek counseling before being sentenced Friday.

"I wasn't thinking clearly," she told state District Judge Mark Tolle.

The judge gave Mrs. Owens the maximum sentence. The Dallas woman, who used to work as a housekeeper at Parkland Memorial Hospital, will be eligible for parole in about 10 months.

Mrs. Owens had posed as a nurse at Parkland and tricked 19-year Shretta Lister into giving her the child, Sheretha, on the pretense that blood tests needed to be taken.

The baby was found 17 hours after the kidnapping and Mrs. Owens was arrested.

Clinton's week

A hand for Yeltsin, back of the hand for Perot

By MIKE FEINSLBER
 Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON — President Clinton worked only a partial week. Still, he managed to close the sale on his economic priorities, set out to show that the environment and the economy can be good neighbors, offer a helping hand to Boris Yeltsin — and pick a quarrel with Ross Perot.

He plunged into two summits, one bringing him face to face with antagonists with one thing in common — a distrust of the federal government — and the other with the leader of an old enemy, now a friend in need and in trouble.

Away from center stage, Clinton offered, for those who watched closely, a glimpse of the political presidency at work. He showed a willingness to crimp his proposals to save them.

He abandoned — only momentarily, he claimed — a plan to get Congress to raise fees on mining, grazing and timber activity on federal lands, levies now so low that they amount, in environmentalists' eyes, to giveaways.

The purpose was to keep the loyalty of Western senators.

And, through the Treasury Department, Clinton announced a series of exemptions and modifications of his proposed new tax on the energy content of different fuels.

The purpose here was to placate some industries and regions and make the tax more likely to survive congressional scrutiny.

Congress completed action, a speedy five weeks after he proposed it, on Clinton's long-range economic plan. It calls for reordering federal spending away from defense and toward domestic priorities and smaller deficits.

Clinton called that "remarkable," and asked voters to prod Republican senators to drop their delaying tactics against his short-term stimulus package. "This is 43 votes for paralysis, for gridlock," he said of the unanimous Republican opposition.

... In the 1980s, Europe had at least two significant economic recoveries and generated no jobs, and that's the thing that's bothering me now," Clinton told the American Society of Newspaper Editors, making the argument that stimulus is still needed.

As if to help make his case, the government reported that unemployment in March stubbornly stayed at 7 percent.

It was before the editors that Clinton also apparently gave up his attempt to bring Ross Perot, winner of 19 million votes, into the Clinton camp. He said he couldn't understand why Perot wouldn't embrace the Clinton economic plan, "which is 85 percent what Ross Perot recommended in the campaign."

And Clinton said Perot ought to be ashamed of himself for rumormongering.

Commission cites Ag Department for safety violations

By ROBERT GREENE
 AP Farm Writer

WASHINGTON — The Agriculture Department has violated guidelines for radiation safety at laboratories and other facilities around the country, the Nuclear Regulatory Commission said.

The commission Friday proposed fining the department $10,000 for violations at more than 20 locations. Many were repeat violations for which the department paid $5,000 in fines in 1990.

None of the incidents exposed any department workers or the public to radiation, said commission spokesman Karl Abraham.

But a letter from the commission said the number and repetition of violations show "a continued lack of management control and oversight of your radiation safety program."

"We take this very seriously," said Robert Norton, spokesman for the Agricultural Research Service, which holds the licenses used by it and other agencies in the department.

The department uses radiation in animal, food and soil research such as gene mapping; tracing the progress of nutrients in humans; sterilizing insects for pest control; measuring soil moisture and density; and measuring the density of construction materials. It also uses radiation in gas chromatographs and other laboratory instruments.

Norton said the department has been working with the commission since mid-January to correct the violations. He said the department will soon contract with an outside expert to see how the radiation safety program can be overhauled.

The five alleged repeat violations resulted from failure by the department's radiation safety staff to inspect facilities as often as required; failure to test for leakage; failure to check incinerator ash and keep records of material disposed of by incineration; failure to keep material securely stored at some locations; and failure to post required documents.

Other alleged violations included failure to train certain workers, letting unauthorized people handle the material, and violation of inventory and paperwork requirements intended to keep track of materials.

Get to know ED BAKER

"Used Business", yes, the used car business, no more black hat top lot with a dumpy building and slightly above junk yard cars. Mincer Motors have evolved the used car site to blend with nature, using modern business practices and late model clean, ready-to-go vehicles. In addition to the impressive inventory as well as cars priced to sell, Gary and Diana Mincer would like to introduce their newest addition, his name is Ed Baker.

A former high school teacher for 11 years, Ed taught auto mechanics in New Jersey. He also has worked for an auto auction for the past 6 years and as a salesman at a new car dealership for 4 years. Ed is currently Asst. Sales Manager at Mincer Motors Too at 1809 S. French Ave. in Sanford.

Ed knows the car business far too well so he can assist customers with their purchase of a car especially with his knowledge of the mechanical make up of an automobile.

Ed believes that a good philosophy to keep in customer service is that everyone should be treated equal and fairly. Keeping that in mind Ed says, should be the very first thing a salesman remembers. "People are buying more used cars it seems because of the economy and you can get better value out of a late-model used car these days," Ed said.

Ed is no stranger to the car business. He has been in the business because he enjoys working with people. "Rewards are to see a smile on a customer's face." Ed said with a grin.

Ed specializes in customers who are hard to finance. For example, people who have bad credit, no credit, or who filed bankruptcy can find a car to fit their needs with Ed's expertise.

Call Ed Baker today and he will match your down payment up to $1500 to be taken off the price of the car, excluding advertised items.

Indians meet in downtown Sanford

By NICK PRIFAUF
Herald Staff Writer

SANFORD — The Indians gather twice a month in downtown Sanford. They meet at the Supreme Lodge Order of the Feather.

The group holds meetings on the second Thursday of each month, at the Odd Fellow Hall, 107 1/2 Magnolia Avenue in Sanford. Sanford resident Chief White Feather is the Supreme Chief.

He explained the organization. "During August, 1957, a group of men were watching a Boy Scout Patrol march by, fully equipped with camping gear. They had a look of eager anticipation."

He continued, "At the same time, an equal number of barefoot, underprivileged children stood by the wayside with a sad look of disappointment."

White Feather said the men asked each other what could be done, and the groundwork was formed for what has now become a large organization complete with an Indian village called "KOOTNIBU."

The Chief said the word is a backward acronym, the opposite of "You are getting a good deal," which he said translates into "You been took. It's backward," he said, "because no one is getting taken."

The Grand Chief for Florida is a Chuluota resident. Other leaders are from elsewhere in Florida, and as far away as Virginia Beach, Va.

The goals of the organization include the study of the origin of Native Americans, their clothing, dance, equipment, arts, language and values. Other aims are the studying and teaching of Indian sign language, the art of survival, and other Indian related endeavors.

Persons interested in learning more about the lodge or becoming a member should contact Chief White Feather, at 322-7680.

Florida tops for true-life movie fare

By DAN SEWELL
Associated Press Writer

MIAMI — While one network began filming last week at a Miami television station for a movie about Hurricane Andrew, another was promoting its Sunday night movie about a Florida boy who "divorced" his parents.

In the current Hollywood feeding frenzy for "reality-based" movies, Florida provides a buffet.

As you read this, there are efforts afoot to move several of yesterday's Florida headlines onto tomorrow's television movie lineups, from the abortion doctor slaying in Pensacola to the Gainesville student slayings to the wrongly imprisoned schizophrenic man in Fort Lauderdale.

Explained in last year's movie "The Player," lampooned in this week's "Doonesbury" comic strip and demonstrated graphically by the networks' recent competing Amy Fisher triplecast, the industry trend toward reality-based or true-life drama may have hit a new high, or low, last week with disclosure that work already has begun to make a movie on the Branch Davidian armed cult standoff in Waco, Texas.

"All you're missing is the ending," said Jerry Blair, a North Florida prosecutor who's among law enforcement and judicial officials who view with concern the mixing of grim fact with Hollywood enhancements.

"I think it has the capability of compromising the whole criminal justice and law enforcement system," said Blair, based in Live Oak.

He points to last December as an example of how TV interfered with criminal justice. A jury was being seated for the penalty phase of the last case against Aileen Wuornos, killer of seven men picked up along Florida highways.

"There were many, many jurors who had seen the movie on TV and had some preconceived notions they probably could not set aside," Blair said. "We lost some jurors."

The jury selection in the last Wuornos case came a month after the CBS movie "Overkill." Wuornos was played by Jean Smart, familiar to many viewers for her role as a good-hearted but naive member of the "Designing Women" situation comedy. She played the highway prostitute, who contends she killed the men after they assaulted her, as a woman haunted by childhood flashbacks.

Blair said some potential witnesses, such as Wuornos' companion Tyria Moore, were tainted because they had cooperated in selling rights to the story and thus weren't called.

IN BRIEF

LOCALLY

Smith earns weekly honor

ATLANTA — Emory University freshman Amy Smith of Altamonte Springs has been named the University Athletic Association "Athlete of the Week" for women's tennis.

Ms. Smith won all four matches she played against two opposing schools. First, the Lyman High School graduate, laying fifth singles, defeated her opponent from Kalamazoo College, 6-4, 6-2. In second doubles, Smith and her partner won a tough, 6-1, 2-6, 6-4 decision as the Eagles cruised to a 7-2 team victory.

The next day, the daughter of David and Susan Smith got stronger, winning her singles match against Luther College, 6-4, 6-0 and her doubles match, 6-2, 6-0 as Emory won 6-3.

The Eagles are currently ranked seventh among NCAA Division III schools by the Intercollegiate Tennis Association.

AROUND THE STATE

Royals trim Marlins

JACKSONVILLE — Brent Mayne drove in two runs with a double and single, leading the Kansas City Royals to a 7-6 victory over the Florida Marlins on Saturday in the final spring training game for both teams.

Jose Lind and Curtis Wilkerson also each went 2-for-3 for Kansas City.

AROUND THE NATION

Lightning grounded

PHILADELPHIA — Greg Hawgood and Mark Rechel each had a goal and two assists as the Philadelphia Flyers broke out of its power-play slump and beat the Tampa Bay Lightning, 6-2.

Philadelphia entered the game with just three goals in its last 54 opportunities with a man advantage. The Flyers connected on four of five chances Saturday.

The victory snapped a three-game losing streak for the Flyers. Tampa Bay is 1-10 in its last 11 games.

Fogler, Chaney honored

NEW ORLEANS — For the second year in a row, Eddie Fogler and Calbert Chaney are The Associated Press College Basketball Coach of the Year, an award Smith never has won.

Eddie Fogler of Vanderbilt, who was Smith's assistant at North Carolina for 15 years, followed Roy Williams of Kansas, another ex-Smith assistant, in capturing the award.

Calbert Chaney of Indiana, the Big Ten's career scoring leader, won the Adolph F. Rupp Trophy as Player of the Year.

Both Fogler and Chaney were easy winners. Fogler received 56 first-place votes in the coach balloting, beating Indiana's Bob Knight, who had 31.

In the player balloting, Chaney had 83 firsts, beating Bobby Hurley of Duke, who had 25.

Fogler off to South Carolina

COLUMBIA, S.C. — A wisecracking Eddie Fogler took over the South Carolina basketball program Saturday, trying to convince Gamecock fans that being jilted by Bobby Cremins could be considered funny.

Fogler left Vanderbilt a day after being named AP coach of the year and was welcomed to Columbia by about 200 fans.

The news conference was held exactly a week after Georgia Tech's Cremins reneged on a deal to come back to South Carolina, his alma mater.

South Carolina will pay Fogler a base salary of $106,928, plus income from a shoe contract, a summer camp, and radio and television shows. Fogler reportedly will make at least $250,000 annually from the radio and TV shows. The contract runs for five years.

Wallace on Food City pole

BRISTOL, Tenn. — Rusty Wallace, like other drivers still thinking about the loss of Alan Kulwicki, will start from the pole today in the Food City 500 at Bristol International Raceway.

He hopes he'll have more success keeping his mind on his business than he did Friday.

"When I was in the car I had to say to myself, 'Hey, let's concentrate on driving,'" Wallace said. "Nobody can get into it. Alan was a friend of all ours."

Kulwicki, the reigning NASCAR Winston Cup champion and winner of this race one year ago, was among four people killed Thursday night when their plane crashed while preparing to land at the nearby airport.

Alongside Wallace's Pontiac in the front row will be Brett Bodine in a Ford.

Ernie Irvan qualified third in a Chevrolet, followed by Morgan Shepherd in a Ford, Dale Earnhardt in a Chevy, Ken Schrader in a Chevy, Mark Martin in a Ford, Ricky Rudd in a Chevy and Davey Allison in a Ford.

Going for the gold

Seminole girls strut stuff in Optimist romp

By TONY DeBONNIE
 Herald Sports Editor

SANFORD — It's taken a while, but they finally got here.

After something of an off-season last year, the members of the Seminole High School girls' track team served notice Friday night at the Sanford Optimist Invitational that they fully intend to return to their accustomed position among the state elite this season.

Led by double winner Katrina Perry, Seminole romped to the Optimist title with a team score of 111, outscoring second-place Lyman (66½) and Hernando (42) combined.

The Seminole boys completed the sweep, finishing first (53) in a high-powered field that included Winter Haven (48), Lake Howell (40), Oak Ridge (36), and Hernando (35½).

"Once you've won a state championship, nothing else is satisfying," said Seminole girls' coach Nate Perkins. "These girls don't know how that feels, but after last year, they want to. And the group we have this season is capable of reaching that stage."

Seminole's girls won four consecutive state championships in track and field from 1988 through 1988. Last year, a very young Seminole team won district and regional titles but finished tied for ninth at the state meet.

Perry led the Tribe on Friday, winning the discus (103 feet, 2 inches) and shot put (40 feet, 2 inches).

Also winning their events for Seminole were Belinder Morgan (triple jump, 36 feet, 7 inches), Nicole Banks (110-yard high hurdles, 18.0 seconds), Kanika Whitehead (100-meter dash, 12.96 seconds), Keisha Lawrence (330-yard low hurdles, 47.59 seconds), and Mindy Hampton (220-yard dash, 28.6 seconds).

Banks, Whitehead, Brown, and Shawna Montgomery combined to win the 4 x 110-yard relay in 51.51 seconds.

Lyman was paced by event winners Rita

Greenberg (880-yard run, 2:29.0), Ktanh Branick (two-mile run, 12:01.98) and the 4 x 440-yard relay team of Greenberg, Danielle Garrett, Loretta Keith, and Kelly Hudson (4:11.11).

Other Seminole County winners were Oviedo's Lisa Liljenquist (high jump, 5 feet) and Lake Mary's Shawn Barkley (440-yard dash, 1:00.0).

Andre Scott and Bernard Sparrow led the Tribe boys in impressive fashion. Scott broke the meet record in the triple jump with his winning leap of 50 feet, 9½ inches while Sparrow, in his first meet after regaining his academic eligibility, recorded the state's best shot put throw with a heave of 60 feet, 11½ inches.

Seminole's other victories were recorded by Brent Deese (440-yard dash, 50.1 seconds) and the 4 x 440-yard relay of Kamili Hitchman.

Lyman's upset opens up SAC race

LONGWOOD — Despite being all but eliminated from the Seminole Athletic Conference baseball chase, the Lyman Greyhounds stepped in and threw the race into disarray Friday night.

Rallying from a six-run deficit in the bottom of the fourth inning, the Greyhounds shocked front-running Seminole 8-7.

Seminole (13-4, 5-2 in the SAC) now leads second-place Lake Howell (4-2 in the SAC) by a half-game. Lake Brantley (3-2 in the conference) by one game, and Lake Mary (2-2 in the SAC) by 1½ games.

Lyman improves to 8-5, 2-4 in the SAC. "I think the key was that we never gave up," said Lyman coach Bob McCullough. "We were six runs down. A lot of times, a young team will fold in situations like that, but we kept coming back."

"We got to their middle pitchers and they didn't have a stopper in the middle. When they did send in their stopper, we were up close and the game could have gone either way for whoever got an opportunity. And that's baseball, you either win, lose, or draw."

The Greyhounds capitalized on Seminole starter Deon Daniels' lack of control, loading the bases with one out in the fourth inning on three consecutive walks on 14 pitches. Mark Thielen then singled to right field, scoring two runs. Daniels walked the next batter, loading the bases yet again.

Ryan Ortiz then came into pitch for Seminole, but picked up where Daniels left off, walking in a run. An out later, Chad Beland followed with a

Silver Hawks one win back

WINTER PARK — Lake Howell moved into second place in the Seminole Athletic Conference baseball standings Friday afternoon with a 9-1 victory over the Lake Mary Rams.

"We're right in the middle of the conference race," Lake Howell coach Birtio Benjamin said. "We hold our destiny in our hands. We need to go out and win the rest of our games and see what happens."

With the win, Lake Howell (9-8 overall, 4-2 in the SAC) moves one-half game back of front-running Seminole (5-2 in the conference after losing to Lyman Friday). Lake Mary (11-4 overall, 2-2 SAC) is 1½ games off Seminole's pace.

John Cromwell pitched a complete game for Lake Howell, striking out nine, walking two while giving up one run on four hits.

"Our pitcher did a heck of a job. I have no beefs with our pitchers," Benjamin said. "We got some timely hits with people on base and that was the key. This is the team I've been looking for all year and it was a well-played game on our part."

Cromwell was helped offensively in the bottom of the fourth inning when the Silver Hawks scored five runs, all with two out.

After the first two Lake Howell hitters were retired, Mike Hernandez and Kyle Feldman drew walks before Mike Ganci reached on an error, loading the bases. Chris Tolliver then singled in Hernandez and Feldman, Ganci moving to third.

Ganci then scored on a wild pitch and Paul Giambalvo drove in Tolliver with a double off of

The Silver Hawks scored three runs in the fifth inning and one in the sixth.

Brian Morotta was the starting pitcher for the Rams, striking out three and walking five while giving up six hits in 3½ innings of work. Mike Carr relieved Morotta in the fourth and struck out three, walked one, and gave up six hits.

Lake Mary's lone score came in the top of the seventh inning when Scott Johnson walked, was advanced to third on a double by Dan Story, and scored on a wild throw to third.

DiTore led Lake Howell with two singles, a double, and an RBI. Tolliver had two singles, three RBI, and a run. Giambalvo doubled, singled, had two RBI, and scored a run.

Mike Knorst singled and scored a run. Feldman hit two singles. Ganci had an RBI single and a run scored. Joel Reed pinch hit in the bottom of the sixth and hit an RBI double.

For Lake Mary, Rene Perez hit two singles, Story doubled, and Jason Rasmussen singled.

The Silver Hawks will play in the Apopka Invitational the week of April 9 before resuming conference play on Wednesday, April 21, against the Seminole Fighting Seminoles. The Rams will host the Oviedo Lions in a non-conference game next Friday, April 9.

Mike Knorst singled and scored a run Friday to help Lake Howell knock off Lake Mary and move into second place in the SAC standings.

Westminster roughes up Seminole

By DEAN SMITH
 Herald Sports Writer

SANFORD — If you can play, it doesn't matter what classification you play in.

Friday afternoon at Seminole High School, the Westminster Academy softball team from Ft. Lauderdale looked like anything other than a Class 1A team, beating the Tribe 14-2.

"We're not bad for a Class 1A team," said Westminster head coach Bruce Butt of his now 16-2 squad. "Our only two losses were in the finals to Lake Worth Christian in their tournament and to Jacksonville-Englewood in the Division II finals of last week's Slam Jam Tournament."

The Lions broke a 2-2 tie with three-run third inning, then added three more in the fourth, two in the fifth and four in the seventh to collect the victory.

Seminole, which fell to 2-10 on the season, had a good day at the plate pounding out 11 hits, but just could not get the big hit to drive in runs.

"I don't know what's wrong," said Seminole first year head coach Kelly Bloomer. "We just haven't been scoring any runs lately. It's been something different every game. Either we don't hit, or we make too many errors or we have one bad inning."

"But we're young and building for the future and we'll get better. With all of the experienced teams in the county and us only having two seniors, I look at it like we're playing with a junior varsity team."

Friday's game was part of a yearly trip that Westminster takes on money earned from putting on the 65-team Slam Jam.

"We put on the tournament so we can take the girl somewhere," said Butt. "Last year we came up and played Lake Highland and Bishop Moore, two years ago we went to Ocala and before that to Key West. Tomorrow (Saturday) we're going to Disney World."

Providing the offense for the Lions were winning pitcher Dawn Schultz (double, two singles, three runs, two RBI), Jamie Kornmeter (three singles, run, four RBI), Aaryn Reed (three singles, two RBI), Dee Skuda (two singles, run, RBI) and Becky Brucker (two singles, RBI).

Also contributing were Tara Michel (single, three runs, RBI), Patty Travaas (single, two runs), Amy McKinnon (single, run), Aubrey Jominy (single), Regan Danziger (run, RBI) and Lori Friedel (two runs).

Doing the damage for the Tribe were Kelly Richards (three singles, run), Tina Rathbun (three singles), Via Wilks (double, run), Lisa Richards, Sam Lively, Courtney Kuhn and Christiana Wilbur (one single each) and Lara Richards (RBI).

Seminole will now be off until after the Spring Break, when it will return to play Oviedo on April 13th in a Seminole Athletic Conference contest at the Oviedo Sports Complex starting at 7 p.m. The game will be the start of busy week that will also see the Tribe play New Smyrna Beach and Lake Mary, all on consecutive days.

Chiles gets sports bill

Associated Press

TALLAHASSEE — The state Senate sent Gov. Lawton Chiles a bill Friday intended to offer women equal sports opportunities in schools and colleges.

The vote was 36-0 in favor of the bill (HB 899) which had passed the House Thursday.

The legislation contained a House-passed amendment to ensure schools can continue women's slow-pitch softball even if they don't have a fast-pitch team. The original bill could have eliminated slow-pitch.

The amendment would require schools to offer fast-pitch softball for women if they offer softball at all, but they wouldn't have to drop slow-pitch if a fast-pitch team couldn't be fielded.

two-run double and Kiley Calapa hit a two-run single that gave Lyman a 7-6 lead. Calapa later was caught trying to steal second, ending the inning.

Seminole came back to tie the score in the top of the fifth when Tony Duncan was hit by a pitch, stole second, and came in on David Eckstein's single.

Calapa put Lyman ahead to stay when he singled home Chad Seimer in the bottom of the sixth. Seimer had led off with a single, moved to second on a ground out and, after Kevin Stuckey walked, went to third on the front end of a double steal.

Mike Lyons was the starting pitcher for the Greyhounds, striking out two, walking two, and giving up six hits over three innings. Dickey took the mound in the fifth and struck out two and hit a batter. Beland came in with two out in the sixth inning and struck out three to earn the win.

For Lyman, Calapa drove in three runs with two singles. Seimer hit two singles and scored a run. Beland had a two-run double. Mark Thiesen hit two singles with two RBI.

Seminole was led by Eckstein (two singles, RBI, one run), Scott Ferguson (two singles, two runs), Matt Diemer (two singles, RBI, one run), Matt Freeman (two singles, three RBI), and Jeremy Chanut, John Luggering and Phillip King (one single each).

The Greyhounds will host the Spruce Creek Hawks next Thursday, April 8. The Seminole will play in the Zephyr Hills tournament this week.

Howard, Mugg Shots pull away

Special to the Herald

Debbie Howard had the range this week, winning all seven of her games to help M.T. Muggs' Mugg Shots extend their lead in the Playtime Darts Ladies League.

Also making this week's Hot Shot list were Debbie Stephenson and Jolyan Moreland, both of Lake Mary Pub's Good Answer, and Lessa Rhoden from M.T. Mugg's Mugg Shots, all with four wins apiece.

Among the men, Mike Beblent of Bamboo Cafe's Black Magic and Don Fisher and Rob Morrow, both of Lake Mary Pub's Cathy and Kids, each had five wins last week.

Ray Cisneros, who throws for Bamboo Cafe's Eliminators, collected four wins, one bull, and a nine-throw dart out. Todd Mancial also had four wins and a nine-throw dart out for Lake Mary Pub's Hell of a Group.

Bamboo Cafe's Eliminators used a 10-3 week to close to within one game, 68-67, of front-running Blind Darts II from Lake Mary Pub in the Men's A League. Bad Company, also from the Bamboo Cafe, is just six games back in third place (61 wins).

The three leaders are followed by Team No. 2 from Bamboo Cafe (52 wins); Uncle Nick's Bulls Eyes (51 wins); the Heavyweights out of M.T. Muggs (50 wins); Lake Mary Pub's Dead Red Eyes (48 wins); Weezer's Boys, also from Lake Mary Pub (45 wins); Uncle Nick's Nick's Nuts (44 wins); and the Big Sharks of Sharky's (35 wins).

In the Men's B League, Lake Mary Pub's Big Men continued to open up some distance between themselves and the rest of the field, using a 10-3 outing last week to take a 77-68 lead over Bamboo Cafe's Shoot, who went 8-5 to move from third to second in the team standings.

Dropping from second to third were the Hit Men of Bamboo Cafe (64 wins). Bamboo Cafe's Brew Crew climbed from fifth to fourth (60 wins) as M.T. Muggs' Under Dogs dropped from fourth to fifth (59 wins).

Rounding out the seven-team circuit are Buss's Roosters from Nice & Easy (42 wins) and the Bone Yard's No. 6 Team (22 wins).

Making the biggest move last week was M.T. Muggs' Mugg Shots, going 11-2 last week to open up a 14-game lead (80-66) over second-place Robbies Girls from the Lake Mary Pub in the Ladies League. Good Answer, also from the Lake Mary Pub, is a close third with 65 wins.

Completing the standings are Lake Mary Pub's Watch Your Back (56 wins); Rick's Wolves of Bamboo Cafe (37 wins); and Lake Mary Pub's Real Bitches and B.Y.B. of the Bone Yard, both with 33 wins.

In the Mixed A League, Lake Mary Pub's Blind Darts I lost three games to second-place Who Cares Part II from the Bamboo Cafe and now lead by 13 games, 74-61. The Bad Team from M.T. Muggs moved into third with 56 wins.

Trailing the top trio are Bamboo Cafe's Bamboo Bullets (55 wins); Ron's Kids from Uncle Nick's and Lake Mary Pub's Hell of a Group (both with 50 wins); Team No. 3 from Nice & Easy (48 wins); and the Touchdown Pub's A Bombers (24 wins).

In the Mixed B League, Bamboo Cafe's Black Magic continues to hold an eight-game edge, 70-62, except that it's now over Lake Mary Pub's Cathy & Kids, who moved past Family Feed, also from the Lake Mary Pub, into second place.

Completing the seven-team standings are Mom's Muggers of M.T. Muggs (58 wins); Tee Seay! out of Nice & Easy (45 wins); Lite Brewski's, also from Nice & Easy (42 wins); and Crazy Wings' Crazy Wingers (34 wins).

Cane poles best for young anglers

Taking children fishing for the first time can be a challenge for even an experienced angler, not to mention someone who doesn't do much fishing.

Today's world of complex fishing equipment can add frustration to a fishing trip that — to children, at least — is not complete without catching lots of fish.

Cane poles will help reduce problems associated with more complex tackle while allowing children to catch plenty of fish that will make them want to go fishing again.

Here are a few tips on outfitting first-time anglers. All supplies can be purchased at fishing tackle stores.

Cane poles are generally quite long when purchased. They can be tailored for children by cutting a few feet off the base to make them a little easier for kids to handle.

Use as much line as your cane pole is long, or perhaps a foot more. Six-to-14 pounds test monofilament line works well.

Add just enough weight to keep your float or bobber in position. Place a single sinker or split shot on the line about six inches from the hook.

Attach a float to your line at whatever depth you want to suspend your bait, but only use a bobber large enough to "work" a bait well. A fish should be able to tug it under easily. Although larger floats may help children detect bites, smaller ones encourage fish to hold bait longer, since they can't feel any resistance.

FISHING

Tie on a long-shank hook. No 6 through No. 10 hook sizes work best. Don't add swivels or snaps; use well-tied knots. An easy knot for children to learn to tie is an improved clinch knot.

Use live bait such as worms, grubs, crickets, or minnows.

Once children have mastered using cane poles, they may want to try their hand at spin-casting or spinning reel outfits. These require more skill, but, with a little practice, youngsters usually can learn how to use them in a short time.

Children less than 16 years of age are not required to have a fishing license in Florida. Anglers using cane poles with live or natural baits also are not required to have a freshwater fishing license if they are fishing in their home counties. There is one exception. All persons fishing in the state's fish management areas are required to have a fishing license.

For more information on license requirements, call the Game and Fresh Water Fish Commission.

SHUPE'S SCOOP

Cane poles are great for adults, too. They're especially effective on bream, speckled perch, and sheepshead.

FISHING FORECAST

Another cold front is predicted to hit and may result in some more breezy weather this weekend.

Sebastian Inlet has been slow for snook, but bluefish, flounder, jack crevalle, ladyfish, and a few redfish are keeping anglers busy. Live shrimp fished on the bottom with the least amount of weight is the best offering, but one-ounce jigs also work great on most of these species.

Captain Jack at Port Canaveral reports that the water is still dirty out to around 180 feet. Bottom fishing for grouper and snapper has been good in extra deep water — 180 feet on out. Trolling has been slow, and may not improve until the water cleans up.

WHY BUY A PERFORMANCE TIRE?

Because performance tires offer important advantages over standard radial tires. A vehicle equipped with performance tires handles corners and curves more smoothly and is less likely to lose traction on a wet surface. That's because the shorter sidewall and all-season treads give you more tire hugging the road. Your vehicle can respond quickly to sudden stops, which means a higher degree of control.

Manufacturing: Sanford ranks high

By NICK PFEIFAU

SANFORD — Following what could be a recession recovery trend, Florida's manufacturing community expanded by almost six percent in the past twelve months. The report was released by the newly published 1993 Florida Manufacturers Register.

The Register lists the top 25 Florida industrial cities. Sanford joined the list as an industrial city beginning in 1990, and is presently ranked 24th. Gainesville is 25th.

Dave Farr, executive director of the Greater Sanford Chamber of Commerce commented, "Sanford is presently ranked as the 100th largest city in the state, and to be ranked 24th in industry is saying a great deal about our city."

He continued, "Being close to Orlando, Sanford is sort of an outlying community very suitable for new industry. It's the ideal location for many companies and I expect to see these figures growing in the years to come."

Florida presently has 15,542 plants listed in the 1993 register in the industrial classification. The number of plants actually increased over the previous year by 1,843, but 969 plants closed during the same time period, showing an overall gain of 874.

Last year showed the first drop since 1989. The number of industries had been climbing by approximately 300 per year through 1991. Then, the total numbers dropped by approximately 400 in one year. This year the increase is higher than the past five years.

In 1989, only 98 manufacturing facilities were listed for Sanford. The number grew to 114 for 1990 then began a slow drop. 112 were reported in 1991 and 111 in 1992.

This year, 120 industries are listed in the register for Sanford.

The only other Seminole County city in the top 25 is Longwood. Statistics show it ranked number 21. Growth during the past year was listed as going from 135 in 1992 to 141 in 1993.

Among the top numbers of industry/manufacturing firms, printing and publishing ranked number one. The list is then followed by non-electrical machinery, metal fabricating, lumber & wood products, and apparel & fabric products.

The city of Orlando, with 721 industrial firms, gained 43 plants in the past year, but lost 75 for a net loss of 32 plants or 4.4 percent. Of the top 25 cities, only Orlando and Ocala showed a loss in industry.

According to Howard S. Durbin, president of Manufacturers' News, which publishes the register, "Florida's performance was rather typical of southeastern states. Small start-up companies with small employee counts took up some of the slack of large plant closings."

The top five cities on this year's list are Miami, Tampa, Jacksonville, Orlando, and Fort Lauderdale.

Manufacturers' News is headquartered in Evanston, Ill. and has been operating since 1912. Along with Florida, the company publishes industrial information for 18 other states.

SANFORD — Two businessmen came into town recently and made their pitch. The venture did not only promote sales, but will be helping local organizations as well.

Steven Zimmerman, president of Our Town Graphics, Inc., headquartered in Maitland, and Joe Benincontri, have been promoting sales of cartoon designs of a city map of Sanford. Business owners signing up for the publication will have their building shown in cartoon form on a large city map in full color.

In addition to arrangements made with various businesses in the Sanford area, they will also be donating copies of the maps to the Greater Sanford Chamber of Commerce and the First Street Gallery. These will be used in various ways by the two organizations.

Chamber Executive Director Dave Farr said Our Town Graphics will be donating several thousand color posters to the Chamber for sale and distribution. "We are delighted to have this opportunity to share these colorful posters with the business community," he said.

Zimmerman has had a number of successful projects of this kind in the past. He has done similar maps for the cities of Jacksonville, Mandarin, and Orange Park. Others are planned for San Marco, Arlington and Fernandina Beach.

The full color maps are generally two by three feet in size and display 150 area business buildings complete with company logos and business phone numbers.

Young leaders

Mark Story, left, of Florida Power / Light, was one of several guest speakers at the Youth Leadership Seminar held March 26, at the Greater Sanford Chamber of Commerce. The seminar involved students from all Seminole County high schools and was an instructional program involving leadership training and problem solving. The seminar was sponsored by the chamber, FPL, Walt Disney World and the Woman's Club of Sanford.

Curtain Call

Dancer, turned director, back on her toes for show

By ED KORBAN
Herald Correspondent

Sanford's other half of the dynamic duo dance directors from Lake Mary and Seminole High are all set to dance together as partners in the 25th anniversary of Ballet Guild of Sanford-Seminole.

Holley Ricker, dance director of the Lake Mary Marionettes, is looking forward to her second debut as a dancer with Ballet Guild. Her first debut was 25 years ago when she was the youngest company member ever and one of the charter members of the guild, which was organized that year.

She is a graduate of Seminole High School and is the daughter of Betty and Joe Kurimal of Sanford.

Holley danced in many roles with the guild the first 18 years of its existence.

She remembers her very first part on stage. "It was in the 'Blue and the Gray' and I was one of the dead soldiers. That was all. That was my whole part. They dragged me in on the floor, laid me down and dragged me off. That was all I did," she said.

"As the years went by and we did it again and again and again, and I became, not just a dead soldier, but I got to drag somebody. Then I got to do many of the intricate dance movements and the turns and all the bigger parts. So for me that was sweet to do because I learned every single part in that ballet," Holley added.

To do this performance, her time between her family, work and the guild is now stretched. After being out of dancing for seven years Holley felt that she could not continue with the guild unless she took the regular classes to bring her muscles and movements back into synch.

Holley Ricker rehearses for performance.

"My legs felt like Jello the first couple of weeks," she continued. "You know you have to retrain the whole body. None of the muscles you use to have, you have anymore. Especially those deep down under ones that you work for so long that you never knew you had. Well, all of a sudden you can't figure out why your leg won't turn out any more. Well, that's because you haven't been turning out. You don't have those muscles anymore, and some of them are real low and real deep down and in."

The choreography for all this dancing is another concern for her. Few people realize that as the dance director, she is responsible for the work done by the Marionettes. This spring the high school puts on a review for the Marionettes and she has 23 different numbers to worry about. With the guild coming up this year and the recital in June, she is now up to her head in choreography. She is dancing in approximately seven numbers in the guild performance and as a dancer the work then gets twice as hard. She is basically learning dances she has never done before but are favorites of everyone and will be in the show.

Her biggest concern is that of missing the rehearsal classes. She realizes that her work with the Marionettes comes first and she has to prepare and attend all the competitions and events that are scheduled because they benefit the dance team. When she gets to the guild she has to start playing catch-up.

She said, "Once you have been in Ballet Guild you can't help but to have this guilty feeling that goes when you miss a rehearsal. You know that you had better be on a stretcher at the hospital or at the morgue if you think that you are going to miss."

"Being in my position now, as a choreographer, I know what it is like to have to work with a

In July of last year, Wells relocated to Nashville where she is pursuing a career as a vocal artist in the Contemporary Christian field. Railroading

Fireman climbed from 842 to numero uno in 47 years

By ED KORBAN
Herald Correspondent

SANFORD — Climbing from 842 to number one on the Atlantic Coast Line Railroad engineers' seniority list in 47 years is exactly what he did.

Joe W. Jarrell got his start as a fireman for the Atlantic Coast Line Railroad in Sanford on Dec. 31, 1925. His love for the railroad had been nourished when he was growing up on a railroad spur in Georgia, 20 minutes out of Savannah.

His dad owned a sawmill out in the country and used the railroads to ship the lumber cut there. When the family moved to the Sanford area Jarrell began looking around for a job on the railroad.

A healthy man at 19 years old, he heard that the railroad was looking for firemen. A fireman on the old steam engines was the person who shoveled the coal into the firebox and had to pass a strict physical to get the job. At 147 pounds he was actually short of the weight requirement of 150 pounds but when he took his physical, on the morning of Dec. 31, 1925, he was cleared to start work.

His excitement drove him directly from the doctor's office to the administrative office looking for his first run. He was assigned to work on Engine No. 1622 as a fireman leaving Sanford at 7 p.m. that evening. It was a pick-up engine going to Jacksonville on a 16-hour run.

Little did he know that 68 years later these events would remain so clearly in his mind. He recalled, "My salary started at $5.24 per eight hours work or 100 miles travel. At that time we worked seven days a week unless we were sick or on vacation."

Railroading became his life's work. To become an engineer, applicants had to pass three tough examinations. The first one was given after 30,000 miles of firing, the second, 60,000 miles, and the third 60,000 miles. In 12 years he passed his examinations and was waiting for his promotion to an engineer. During this period of time, he went through firing by hand, firing with the automatic stoker and finally the oil-burning steam engine which the Atlantic Coast Line purchased in the late '30s. He was promoted to engineer, Nov. 17, 1942.

Local dancers strut their stuff in Disney's Easter Parade

It's not everyday that local folk make national television, but that's what's happening to several dancers from the School of Dance Arts.

The young dancers are all primed to strut their stuff in the Disney Easter Parade and are they ever excited!

Not only were the dancers carefully hand-picked, but so were their instructors, Miriam Doktor and Valerie Weld, who were selected to do the choreography for the children's unit. Valerie said the format includes "happy dances to 'Winnie the Pooh' with new Easter lyrics."

The dancers will wear Winnie the Pooh play togs, a complete new line, Valerie said. She added that this is the very first time in Disney history that children, ages 7 to 12, have participated in the parade capacity. Previously children of Disney executives rode on floats, smiled and waved.

The children are very excited, Val said, about the Friday rehearsal. The doors will be open especially to them at 5 a.m. and they will have the entire theme park to themselves.

SANFORD

DORIS DIETRICH

Since the rehearsals started one of the 12 dancers, Sara Twilleager, has broken her foot, and is being replaced by alternate dancer, Kristen Merrifield.

Don't miss it. The big Easter Parade is set for 12:30 p.m. Easter Sunday, on ABC Television.

Girls galore

It's a good thing Kristy and Brett Marshall love little girls. They have an adorable little daughter, Kayla, age 3. And then when Kristy was expecting again, they hoped for a boy. However, it didn't really matter. Really, it didn't. But guess what? Kristy is carrying twin girls! They are due in May, but the family expects them to be delivered early.

After the family got over the initial shock, they are infant-icipating in awe. "It was a big surprise to say the least," Kristy said. "But we are very excited and ready for them (the twins, of course)."

Recently, Kristy was honored at a stork shower at the Loch Arbor home of Margie Adcock, her aunt. Margie held the shower on the huge porch in an incredibly feminine setting of pink streamers, pink balloons and other appropriate decorations in the pink. She served a variety of superbly delicious party fare including pink bootie cupcakes she made which were embossed with coconut and little ties.

A charade-type game was played, using movie titles depicting babies and love. "It was the cutest game." Linda Keeling, mother of the honoree, said.

When it came to the gift-opening, Kristy hit the jackpot. She received two of everything including "about 20 little outfits - just precious," according to Granny Linda. Among the other gifts were a stroller built-for-two, two high chairs, two swings, etc.

About the shower, Kristy was thrilled beyond words. "It was great. It was wonderful!" she extolled.

Among the other 30 guests attending were Kristy's mother-in-law, Mary Jean Cooper, DeLand; Virginia Keeling, Kristen's grandmother, Sanford; three great aunts; and two great, great aunts.

WEDDING

Mr. and Mrs. Wayne Anders Larson

Brittany Rockett, Wayne A Larson exchange vows

LAKE MARY — Brittany Grace Rockett and Wayne Anders Larson were married March 13, at 1 p.m., at Markham Woods Presbyterian Church, Lake Mary, with the Rev. Don DeBevoise officiating at the candle-light double ring ceremony.

The bride is the daughter of Mayor and Mrs. Lowry E. Rockett of Lake Mary. She is the maternal granddaughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. Giles Chapman, formerly of Sanford and the paternal granddaughter of Mrs. Lola Rockett of Sanford and the late Mr. Frank Rockett. She is the paternal great-granddaughter of Mrs. Eva Wynne, former resident of Sanford, who now lives in Virginia Beach, Va.

The groom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. William Larson of Davie. He is the maternal grandson of Mrs. Ruby Richardson of Royal Palm Beach and James Richardson of Miami. He is the paternal grandson of Mrs. Ella Larson of Summit, N.J., and the late Mr. Edolph Larson.

Given in marriage by her parents and escorted by her father, the bride chose for her vows a formal white satin gown accented with a hand-sewn flower brooch and streams of flowing pearls. A row of double pearls flowed along each side of the illusion cut-outs. The satin extensions on the puffed sleeves featured clusters of beaded and sequined appliques. Cascading lace and sparkling appliques flowed down the cathedral-length train. Her headpiece, a circlet of silk flowers embellished with pearls and adorned with a tulle pouf, held her fingertip-length silk illusion veil. The bride carried a cascading bouquet of white miniature carnations, purple statice and purple iris accented with delphiniums, stephanotis and trailing English ivy. The bouquet was attached to a bible held by the bride's mother 25 years ago.

Presiding at the bride's book was Tammie Larson, sister of the groom.

Vocalist was Hazel Perenchief who sang "The Ring" and "The Lord's Prayer" at the service.

Karin Tambert served the bride as matron of honor. She attended school with the bride since the first grade. She wore a full-length purple crepe dress with Sweetheart neckline and shoulder cap sleeves. The dress was gathered to one side enhanced with pearl buttons. She wore a cascading pearl barrette in her hair and carried a cascading composition of exotic foliage defined with purple iris, asteria, freesia, white carnations and trailing ivy.

Bridesmaids were Juli DeCastro, childhood friend, and Felicia Carlton McKenzie, cousin of the bride. Their gowns were identical to the honor attendant's.

The flower girl was Tammie Brenner, cousin of the groom, from Summit N.J. She wore an ankle-length white satin dress with sequins and pearls to match the bride.

The best man was Mike Swinford, friend of the bride and groom. Groomsmen were Justin Rockett, brother of the bride, and Bill Mauger, friend of the groom.

Ring bearer was James Pickney Rabb, cousin of the bride from Atlanta, Ga. The groom and ring bearer wore all-white formal tails with black lapels. The groomsmen and fathers wore white double-breasted tuxedo jackets with black lapels and black slacks.

The mother of the bride wore a flowing, deep violet chiffon, tea-length designer gown draped to one side, adorned with sequins, and sheer sleeves. The mother of the groom wore a formal mauve two-piece silk suit featuring long sleeves which complemented the attire of the wedding party. Both mothers' outfits were accessorized by corsages of white carnations and iris.

Following the ceremony, a reception was held at Heathrow Country Club, Lake Mary. A special toast was given by the brother of the bride, Justin Rockett, wishing them "happiness and love as strong as their Mom and Dad's." The blessing was given by the bride's uncle, Harold Chapman. Following the toasts, the guests enjoyed an elegant assorted array of foods on an expansive buffet. The bride and groom's first dance was "Everything I Do, I Do It For You."

Guests enjoyed dancing throughout the evening. The bride's dance with her father was to the song, "Daddy's Little Girl." Lamotte and Cochran from Tiffany Productions supplied the music followed by a special performance of Hawaiian wedding dancing by the bride's cousins, Kerrie and Kam Nakano, of Kailua, Hawaii.

The four-tiered petal wedding cake was created by Vivian Calhoun. It was delicately decorated with pearls and iris and had a butter cream icing and raspberry filling. A sculpture of a Victorian bride and groom decorated the top.

Following a trip to Aruba, the newlyweds are making their home in St. Cloud. The bride is a fourth grade teacher at Michigan Avenue Elementary School, St. Cloud, and the groom is the special events coordinator for the city of Kissimmee.

Public health nurse retires

Dedication and a love of people were the reasons for a life of devotion she gave to the medical field as a public health nurse. Emma Henry Jackson recently retired from the Seminole County Health Department where she was Public Health Nurse II, Public Health Nurse III, public health nurse supervisor, team leader nurse and Supervisor II and health program specialist during her 25 years of service.

Nurse Jackson's desire to become a nurse began when she was deciding what would be her career in life. She was born in Orlando and graduated from Jones High School. She furthered her studies toward a nursing degree from Florida A&M University, Tallahassee. Her professional experience began as a staff nurse at Orange Memorial Hospital (now called ORMHC). She was staff nurse at Central Florida TB Hospital, instructor at West Orange Vocational School of Practical Nursing, Sunland Training Center as supervisor, and DePugh Nursing Home as lead nurse and supervisor.

A lifetime of dedication to those who need care has by now come to an end said Nurse Jackson. She has begun to volunteer her services in the field of nursing, so a lifetime of dedication to those who need care continues. She is active in many community activities as she is a lifetime member of the NAACP, Florida Nurses, American Nurses, District Nurses Association, member of the Economic and General Welfare Council, legislative delegate for contract negotiations for F.N.A., member of JHB, and Florida A&M University Alumni Association.

Her church activities are centered around the Macedonia Missionary Baptist Church, Eatonville, where she is an active member and a Sunday School teacher for over 20 years, past president of Mission No. Two and Usher Board No. Two.

She is presently president of the Women's Missionary Department, first vice president of Church Women United, Winter Park Chapter. Her beautiful voice can be heard on Sundays as she sings with the Sanctuary Choir. She has also served as treasurer of the choir and Secretary of Mission No. Two of the First South Florida Missionary Baptist Association, Congress No. Two.

Nurse Jackson is married to Armond J. Jackson of Jacksonville and they have one son.

YOUR BIRTHDAY
April 4, 1993

Partners could play important roles in your affairs in the year ahead. They may have the major position while you have a subordinate role. However, this arrangement shouldn't affect the distribution of dividends.

ARIES (March 21-April 19) Give-and-take is essential today in your arrangements with co-workers. You might be required to give a bit more, but it will be something you can live with. Aries, treat yourself to a birthday gift. Send for Aries' Astro-Graph predictions for the year ahead by mailing $1.25 plus a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope to Astro-Graph, c/o this newspaper, P.O. Box 91428, Cleveland, OH 44101-3428. Be sure to state your zodiac sign.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20) Be careful what you say in front of people who tend to repeat what they hear, but seldom do it accurately. The probability of being misquoted is quite high.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20) In order to be successful today, your objectives must be clearly defined to the smallest detail. If you don't have a good game plan, you could veer off course.

CANCER (June 21-July 22) Just because someone has rank and prestige, it doesn't necessarily follow that he or she is the brightest person on the planet. Early in the day you might think so, but later you might not.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22) If you're negotiating a business deal today, you could be in a better position than you think you are. Don't take the first terms offered if they displease you. You can do better.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22) Early in the day there's a chance you might make a serious error in judgment. Don't live by your decision if you realize there is a better alternative available.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 23) Someone who is a better talker than a thinker, might convince you that his or her way of doing things is superior to yours. In actuality, the opposite may be true.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24-Nov. 22) Even if friends of yours are engaged in slandering a pal who isn't present, don't be a contributor to the gossipfest. Who said what will be identified later.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23-Dec. 21) Confusion will reign in your household today if you give family members one set of orders and your mate gives them another. If you don't pull together, you'll pull the house apart.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19) Something annoying pertaining to future plans might occur today. However, don't make a big deal out of it.

YOUR BIRTHDAY
April 8, 1993

Your financial prospects might brighten considerably in the year ahead. If you properly manage the opportunities that should be coming your way, substantial gains are possible.

ARIES (March 21-April 19) If you negotiate an important arrangement with someone else today, don't base it on presumptions. Each must be very explicit, or else misunderstandings could result later.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20) The only person whom you can depend upon today is you. Assignments or responsibilities you delegate to others might be forgotten or ignored if you don't check up on their progress.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20) Your social world and your commercial world will share very few similarities today. People whom you know socially might treat you differently when you are doing business together.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 23) When dealing with others on a one-to-one basis today, strive to be as frank as possible. Don't tell them what you think they want to hear; tell them the truth.

The Senior Life Master was ready to start another class. He paused while a particularly pretty student arrived a few moments late. After she had sat down, he began:

One of my favorite words is "oxymoron." As I'm sure you know, an oxymoron is a figure of speech in which contradictory words are combined - for example, philanthropic miser or active corpse. At other times, we say things that when taken literally are impossible. For example, people who sail under their own steam. Or who, in trying circumstances, smile while gritting their teeth.

On this first deal, you must grit your teeth when playing the cards. If your line works, then you may ungrit them and smile. You get to three no-trump. West leads the spade queen and East encourages with the nine. How do you plan the play?

After giving his students a minute or so to study the cards, the SLM continued:

You have seven top tricks: one spade, two hearts, one diamond and three clubs. Clearly, to make your contract you must win five club tricks.

In that suit, there are two lines of play. You can cash the three top honors, or you can take a first-round finesse of dummy's 10. Which is better?

Well, playing off the three top honors wins whenever the clubs divide 3-3, which is almost a 36 percent chance. Taking the finesse works whenever West has J-x (8 percent), J-x-x (18 percent) or J-x-x-x (16 percent). This gives a total of 42 percent.

So you can see that you should risk a first-round finesse of dummy's 10.

Rams working for Peanuts this Spring

LAKE MARY — With Spring Break lurking just around the corner, we at Lake Mary High School are eager to begin our short vacation.

Since our concentration level is about at "zero," we had an opportunity for some comic relief this past week.

Premiering on Wednesday, April 7, the Lake Mary Drama Club presented their production of "You're a Good Man, Charlie Brown."

In the lead role, as Charlie Brown, is Robert A. Tuttle III, a junior.

Other leading roles are Becky Rodriguez, a freshman, as Peppermint Patty; Maya Jones, a senior, as Snoopy; Todd Eakin, a freshman, as Schroeder; Carrie Williams, a senior, as Lucy and Derek Dubrow, a junior, as Linus.

Mary Cronk, a senior, directed the production.

Teacher Bill Essele and his wife both dedicated their time and their advice to putting the play together, both technically and musically.

The play is based on the comic strip Peanuts, which is written by Charles M. Schultz. The play, however, was actually written by Clark Genser.

"The play was inspired by the comic strip, but it is not a direct depletion for the comic characters," said director Marty Cronk.

"You're a Good Man, Charlie Brown" was designed and written to dispel many of the common misconceptions about young people and youth.

The play is a humorous glimpse into the lives of young children and their dog.

The actors tried very hard to get people away from thinking of the play as the comic strip.

In trying to do this, the actors developed their characters independently from the comic strip; they depended on the script to bring out the hidden qualities of each character.

Each character reveals his or her own life in his or her own child-like manner.

SHS seniors getting ready for college

SANFORD — Many seniors have been filling out applications for college. A privileged few know exactly where they want to go and what they want to do.

Others, on-the-other-hand, send out hundreds of applications in the hope that at least one will accept them.

Competition to receive a post-secondary education is getting tougher.

Not only is getting into a post-secondary school of choice becoming tougher, but the price for that education is steadily rising.

As a result, financial aid, loan, grant and scholarship applications are being mailed out along with the college applications.

What makes this process so frustrating is that with all of the billions of dollars of scholarship money that are around, none of it seems to be coming your way.

Now, this scenario is for the average student who is not outstanding in academics or athletics and who is not well off or considered poor.

This does not mean that these scholarships and grants should not be out there.

As a matter of fact, they are necessary and beneficial. They allow thousands of students to attend college every year.

What makes the average student so outraged is that, often, they are considered "too rich" for a substantial loan or grant.

What the financial aid office needs to realize is that a family has other expenditures and, frequently, other children to be taken care of.

A $40,000 salary, more or less, does not go as far as it may seem to a family.

There are bills, taxes, medical expenses and maybe other children in college.

It should be remembered that, when catering to specialized needs, the basic needs should not be forgotten.

Springfest organizers are getting ready for big event

SANFORD — Supporters of Seminole High School are looking forward to their annual Springfest celebration with great anticipation.

The annual fundraising event brings in thousands of dollars into the school that can be used in the school's general fund for a variety of needs in the school.

"The school benefits greatly from this annual event," said Jeanette Stiffey, one of the primary organizers of the Springfest.

Springfest is a flea market, a bake sale, an arts and crafts show and sale, a barbecue and an auction.

Springfest will be on Saturday, April 24 from 9 a.m. to 5 p.m.

The barbecue chicken dinner will begin at noon and the auction will start promptly at 3 p.m.

The organizers of Seminole High School's Springfest have been working hard for many months to prepare for the fundraising celebration later this month.

Scholarship fundraiser helps future teachers

By VICKI BOGGS

HEATHROW — The Seminole Education Association (SEA) wants to help future teachers achieve their goals and have a little fun at the same time.

The SEA, the union which represents the teachers and other school employees, annually presents scholarships to qualified high school seniors who have expressed an interest in becoming a teacher.

They have, through the yearly golf tournament, raised more than $7,000 for scholarships.

"We are able to help many students who are looking to go to college and to pursue a career in education," said Nancy Wheeler, executive director of the union.

This year's golf tournament will be held on Monday, April 26. Tee time will be 4 p.m. at the Heathrow Country Club, 1200 Bridgewater Dr., Heathrow.

"Teachers can come out after school and others can come after their jobs," Wheeler said.

The tournament will after the change to daylight savings time so that the late afternoon starting time will not mean that players will run out of daylight before the end of the tournament.

The $40 registration fee includes greens fees.

Those who want to register as a foursome may do so. Others will be matched up with other players at random.

Wheeler said that there will be several prize drawings throughout the tournament for those who are registered. Many of the prizes have been donated by local businesses.

Also, the first sixty registrants for the tournament will receive a free golf visor.

The tournament has attracted several hundred players in the past, organizers are hoping for a strong showing this year, so early registration is suggested to ensure a spot.

There will be flights divided according to experience based on one's handicap or the average of the last five rounds played.

Entry forms for the tournament are available at the SEA office, 404 W. 25th St. Sanford; at area golf shops and sporting goods stores and at the Heathrow Country Club.

New advances in hernia surgery

Approximately 500,000 patients have inguinal (groin) hernia operations yearly in the United States. Despite numerous modifications, the operation has not reached perfection. Up to 10 percent of those patients who have the operation will develop another hernia in the same location. In addition, painful neuromas, as a cause for prolonged pain after surgery, can develop. Finally, the conventional operation is painful and is associated with a significant loss of hours from the job, especially when the patient's occupation involves heavy lifting.

Most people are now aware that traditional approaches to the treatment of many surgical illnesses are giving way to a new type of surgery referred to as minimal-invasive or endoscopic surgery. The demand for this by our patients has paved the way for a new generation of surgical instruments and techniques to gain access to a body cavity without the need for outside exposure.

Following the successful introduction of endoscopic gall bladder surgery in 1988, endoscopic inguinal hernia surgery

Most people are now aware that traditional approaches to the treatment of many surgical illnesses are giving way to a new type of surgery referred to as minimal-invasive or endoscopic surgery.

-H. Garrett Dotson, M.D.

was introduced in this country in 1990. Patients have the operation done under a general anesthetic and in an outpatient setting in which they go home a few hours later. Three small tubes are inserted into the abdomen and a piece of mesh screen is stapled over the hole in the abdomen which is the cause for the hernia. The procedure at this time takes slightly longer to do and is slightly more expensive than a standard hernia operation. This is due to the complexity of the instruments and visual equipment needed. Because a large incision is avoided, patients have less pain and swelling after the surgery and can return to normal activity, including lifting and exercising, in one week. Patients having a standard operation must wait 4-8 weeks before lifting because of time needed for healing. Other advantages include avoiding testicular and nerve irritation which can be a source of prolonged pain after surgery.

Patients with redeveloped hernias after previous surgery, and those with hernias on both sides, are considered ideal candidates for the endoscopic approach. Patients that are not considered good candidates include those that cannot tolerate general anesthesia, have had extensive prior lower abdominal surgery, or have extremely large hernias.

In summary the endoscopic approach has distinct advantages — a more rapid and less painful convalescence with faster return to employment, and the ability to treat hernias on both sides without an additional major incision. However, it is clear that some years must pass before the technique can be fully and satisfactorily assessed. It is the patient who will ultimately benefit from these new procedures. As instruments are refined and new technology is developed, increasingly complex operations will be performed with less debilitating effects on the patient.

H. Garrett Dotson, M.D. is a general surgeon with offices at 208 Melienville Ave., Sanford and 78 Fox Ridge Court, DeBary. The health column is provided as a community service by the Seminole County Medical Society. Inquiries may be directed to the medical society.

Cheap cigarettes, ad campaigns halt smoking decline

By LAURAN NEERBAARD
Associated Press Writer

ATLANTA — The percentage of Americans who smoke failed to decline for the first time in a quarter-century, and the rate actually increased among blacks and women, federal health officials reported Thursday.

Wide availability of discount cigarettes and $3.9 billion in tobacco advertising per year are responsible for the reversal, the Centers for Disease Control and Prevention said in calling for more cigarette tax increases to halt the trend.

"We need to look at bold steps because we're not making the progress we need to make," said Dr. Michael Eriksen, director of the CDC's Office of Smoking and Health.

The figures for 1991, the latest for which statistics are available, mark the end of 25 years of steady decreases in smoking. And they mean the United States won't meet a national health objective: only 15 percent of Americans smoking by the year 2000.

"At the current rate, we'll only reach 19 percent," Eriksen said.

Discount cigarettes, which can cost as much as $1 less per pack than national brands, and promotions such as free samples and $5-off coupons for cartons make smoking more affordable, Eriksen said.

The CDC found that 25.7 percent of American adults — 48.3 million people — smoked in 1991. In 1990, 25.5 percent smoked, the lowest level since the CDC began counting in 1955.

Because the difference between the two years is less than half a percentage point, approximately the survey's margin of error, the CDC said the nation's smoking habits leveled off in 1991.

But more blacks — 29.2 percent versus 26.2 percent in 1990 — and more women — 23.5 percent versus 22.8 percent — smoked in 1991, it said.

The CDC couldn't explain the increase among women except to point to advertising targeting women's fears of weight gain if they stop smoking.

Healthy look is in this season

By MARY MARTIN NIEPOLD
NEA Fashion Writer

The new face of the '90s is the natural face. The Cleopatra black eyelid lines of last year have faded to a soft taupe shadow on the lids of this year. And while runway models sometimes pluck away eyebrows for the new walf look, hardly any of us will follow suit in the months ahead. Instead, makeup artists are stressing ways that women can look healthy.

"I don't like women to look like they're wearing makeup," says makeup artist Bobbi Brown, whose faces grace the covers of almost all of the top fashion magazines. "You know how good you look after exercising -- that's how women should look."

Brown, whose own line of cosmetics is a neutral palette of taupes, browns, grays, soft pinks and peaches, says, "Natural doesn't mean very little makeup. It means colors right for the skin."

On the face, that would mean foundation that looks neither too pink nor too orange. "Color depends on the skin tone and personal preference," explains Brown. "Anything with pink makes you look tired. I prefer neutral tones." On the cheeks, Brown says to smile, then gently brush some pink or peach just where the cheek fills out to achieve that just-worked-out flushed effect. On the eyes, it would mean eyelids that have soft shadows of color merging into one another, and it would not mean wearing eyeliner inside the lower lid. "Anytime you see the eye makeup instead of the eye, something's wrong," says Brown. On the lips, she says, well, almost anything goes, except theatrical tones of purple and brown. "The older you are, the brighter the lip."

B.J. Gillian is another top New York City talent who consults to Cover Girl as their official makeup artist. At a recent demonstration utilizing their new line of cosmetics ("Powderalk Blush," "Ultimate Finish Liquid Powder Makeup" and "Remarkable Mascara" are some of the more impressive new entries), Gillian noted that "Cover Girl is getting out of the periwinkle blue phase -- shades are richer, blushes are more modern and we've gotten rid of anything '60s or '70s inspired." Colors are tagged naturally: "Creamy Natural" for foundation, "Morning Glow" for a peachy blush and "Rose/Spice" for a peach/cinnamon eyeshadow duo. Many of the new products are also enriched with Vitamin E and Aloe.

One tip from Gillian is worth remembering. Put a conditioner on your lips, blot it, then use lip pencil. The color will hold.

At M.A.C. cosmetic counters, natural includes helping the environment. M.A.C. is the Canadian import that stresses all natural products that don't rely on animal testing, and the company has a recycling program called "Back to M.A.C.," which urges customers to bring in their containers -- they're finished with them, and for every six containers returned, they are given a free lipstick.

At Chanel, the light touch is achieved through a couple of new products. Their "Tint Essentiel" sheer makeup is a tinted mousse foundation that lightly covers the skin for a sheer, see-through natural effect. Their "Perfecting Powder" is a light-reflecting sheer wisp of powder that softens the entire face.

Playfulness is the theme for coloring eyes at Estee Lauder. Next month, stores will have their new Compact Disc Eyebrows, 80 shades in all, to urge women to contour eyelids by choosing from a wide array of natural shades, plus some greens, blues and violets. "Today's woman is ready to experiment," notes Dominique Szabo, Lauder's senior vice president of product development worldwide. The triple-color palette Szabo recommends for eyelids: a highlighter shade applied from eyelid to brow, lid color applied from the eyelid to the crease of the eye and a darker contour color applied just at the outer corner and at the roots of the lower eyelid.

The play's the thing

Education prevents violence

Students learn conflict resolution, anger management

By SARABECCA ROSIER
Herald Columnist

"March had been designated as 'Violence Free Community Month' by a coalition of Orange and Seminole County drug-free schools. The goal is to prevent violence through education and awareness activities in order to break the cycle of violence within our communities," said Michael Morton, guidance counselor at Lake Mary Elementary.

"I will be visiting classrooms to discuss conflict resolution and anger management, both important social skills," said Morton. "Like other skills these can be taught. Also, like other skills, they consist of a number of separate, yet interdependent sub-skills. We need to help our children develop a variety of alternatives to resolve conflict and manage anger."

Negotiation strategies are a way to resolve conflict so that both sides can win. The aim of negotiation is to resolve the conflict with a compromise or a solution which is mutually satisfying to all parties involved in the conflict. Negotiation is the most positive way to resolve conflict.

S — Stop; T — Tell yourself to "calm down" (count to 10); A — Ask "What's going on? What will happen without self-control? Do I want that to happen?"; R — Relax — use a technique to relax the muscles and the body; T — Tell yourself — "Solve the problem."

Third-graders entertained parents and students with a dance to "My Little Girl."

The audience is delighted by the third graders' show.

Spaghetti dinner promotes goodwill and fellowship

Lake Mary Elementary School held its spaghetti dinner recently in the cafeteria.

"This was not a fund-raiser, but was done to create goodwill and fellowship in our community," said Marie Braddock, co-chairperson for this event.

Buck's Catering did the cooking and the desserts were donated by families of the students. Lois Mahoney was chairperson for this event.

"The spaghetti dinner was great with a really good sauce, and the salad was very nice too," according to Brenda Tackett, a parent.

There were over 300 parents and children who turned out for the dinner and it was a huge success with lots of camaraderie.

Following the spaghetti dinner there was a PTA meeting and entertainment by kindergarten through fifth graders. Students did square dancing and other dances. Kindergarten and first grade did "the Twist." Second graders danced to "No-bie Duke of York," third grade "My Little Girl," fourth grade did the "Ladies Chain" and fifth graders danced the "Grand Square" an intricate, fast-moving square dance.

The food was catered by Doris International Restaurant.

"I was glad to have people back in the bank after it was remodeled and changed to Southern Bank," said Bill Blackburn, general manager of the Lake Mary branch. "Southern Bank is a local, independent community-oriented bank and originally opened in 1988."

There were lots of friendly faces talking, eating and meeting.

Lake Mary AARP Chapter

gears up for a banner year. They are in the final stages to be officially approved by the national AARP organization for chapter authorization.

To do this the Lake Mary chapter has to submit the following information: 1) standing rules for the chapter; 2) lists of all committees and members; 3) list of charter members from July 1992 through December 1992 who are all members of the national AARP organization; 4) the chapter must initiate a community service project.

The success of this chapter relates to the community spirit of members from Lake Mary and Heathrow. However, the Lake Mary chapter has the good fortune of having other outstanding members from Sanford, Lake Monroe, Longwood, Altamonte Springs, Winter Springs and Oviedo.

AARP President DeLores Leah, a long-term community leader, relates that some of the outstanding members are graduates of nationally known universities such as Seton Hall, Alabama, Mississippi State, California, Villanova, Illinois, Auburn, Georgetown, Florida, Michigan, and Adelphi.

GARAGE SALE GUIDELINES

1. Advertise what people want! Children's clothing, dishes, collectibles, tools, books and antiques are the most popular items.
2. Make it convenient to shop at your garage sale! Be sure there is adequate parking space. Post signs with directions to parking areas. Make arrangements with neighbors.
3. Make it easy to pay! Have plenty of change and a system for handling. Make sure one person is on duty at all times at a centralized location preferably with a calculator or adding machine.
4. Provide prices. Do not make every person ask "How much is this?" Prices make for quick, effective sales or a good place for customers to start bargaining.
5. Get an early start. Set up displays the evening before, if possible.
6. Departmentalize. Separate the inexpensive items from the more costly areas. Group furniture, clothing, toys, lawn equipment and other items with similar merchandise.
7. Specialize. Establish one area for "Under $5" another for "Under $1". Consider having a batch of items that are "FREE" with purchase of $3. Remember the youngsters, too. Encourage this with small, low priced items that are appropriate for this purpose.
8. Time your sale carefully! Have it at a time when most people are at home and unconcerned with special events.
9. Combine your efforts! Incorporate your sale with a neighbor for more variety and greater impact.
10. Be specific! When advertising your sale in the newspaper, list individual items. Don't simply say, "several things available." Each time you list an item, you are broadening the list of potential customers.
11. Be generous! If you have items left over, give them to a charitable organization. If you see that some items are not moving well during the sale, mark them down during the last hours. Remember, the prime reason for holding the sale is to turn your unwanted items into cash!
