The nation's interstate highways are cracking under the strain of heavy truck traffic. Some $200 million has been spent so far just to repair, as well as possible, the cracking undergone by the superhighways due to the tons of truck weight which passes over them daily. That may only be the beginning of the repair bills needed to keep the super roadways in some semblance of good shape. The price tag on repairs could go much, much higher before A report from the General Accounting Office. Congress' watchdog, said the cracks came from improper design of roads due to misjudgment of such factors as bad weather, underlying soil and truck weights. Now they tell us, After spending millions and millions and milfions just to get the system built, a misjudgment or several misjudgments, cause the roads

Concerning truck weights, there had been much talk at one time about allowing trucks to use only non-primary highways, such as the abandoned federal highways which usually run in directions similar to interstates. In this way, the heavier traffic would have been kept off the expensive roads and placed onto secondary highways which would lead to the same destina

CITIZENS' COMMITTEE OPPOSED TO COUNTY-WIDE TRUCKING AND DUMPING AT

OSCEOLA AIRFIELD This potentially valuable property should be preserved as an airfield for industrial and other purposes, because of its close proximity to the proposed new Sanford-Titusville Canal. The lease purchase of new equipment for the purpose of trucking refuse to the Osceola Airfield at a cost to the County of $158,751 per year could be saved by letting contracts to private individuals to collect and dispose of refuse at the existing dump areas. The total budget for these areas and their supervision for 1970 was $76,271,00

The present dump areas should be expanded to solve the problem for a period of five years. A Citizens' Committee should be organized to determine the feasibility of a centrally located incinerator to be used jointly by the Cities and

The third and final game was a real pitcher's duel. Bernosky fired a one-hit shutout and fanned four batters, while allowing only four base runners No Ormond Beach runner got past second base. Jeff Anderson reached on an error by the short stop in the fifth inning, but two were out. Then O'Brien played the role of a hero as he slammed a double off the fence to score Anderson. That was the only run Sanford needed and the only run they got.

The team will rely on the strong pitching of the likes of Bernosky, Miller, Frank and Dennis Scott during the tournament. This is the second consecutive year that Sanford has had a berth in the tournament. Last year they lost in their opener to Fort Walton Beach in a 12-inning battle.

Sanford will open the tournament today at 2 p.m. n Niceville as they take on District One. This is a single elimination tournament.

Met's Singleton Shines

Incentive Drives Rookie

At least Mike Jorgensen thinks so, Jorgy is another Met rookie. He, too, is quize fortunate because his family lives in Bayside, less than a gallon of gas away from Shea Stadium. Jorgy is white and 22 (on Aug. 16), a native of Passaic, N. J. Singleton is dark and a handsome 23, a New York native who lives in Mt. Vernon, N. Y. Joregnsen thinks so much of Singleton that he asked him to be his roommate and when the Mets go out of town they share the same room secretary Lou Niss lists for the two-men-in-a-

to the nearby convenience store Monday afternoon when his sharp eyes spotted the wallet.

Matt's a nice looking kid, with neatly combed blond hair (and a cowlick), blue eyes, and a shiner on his forehead ("where I fell off my bike and hit a wall") and a shy smile that'll be a real hit with the girls in a few years.

He's one of eight children. Matt will enter the fourth grade at Lake Mary later this month. He is a member of the First Baptist Church of Sanford.

"Boy was Mr. Jenkins glad to get his wallet back!" exclaimed Matt. "He was out looking for it when I called him to tell him I had found it." Jenkins had no idea where he had lost his wallet, but says he was nowhere near the Garden Center that weekend,
