Geneva Residents Fume Over Wastewater Plan

Cries of "Geneva's not a cess pool" and "this place will smell like a sewer" marked the angry tone of a gathering at the Geneva Community Center Tuesday night.

Called as a prelude to organized opposition to Sanford's plans for piping millions of gallons of treated sewage daily to a Lake Jesup tract adjacent to the unincorporated community of about 2,200 people, the meeting was filled with protests against what the residents called an attempt by Sanford to ship its sewage problems to Geneva.

"We'll be swimming in it."

Protests from the Geneva area have intensified since Sanford's announcement this week that the 2,200-acre tract on the northeast banks of Lake Jesup likely would have to accommodate about 2.3 million more gallons of sewage a day than had previously been thought. The increase is contemplated because of the Federal Aviation Administration's reduction in the quantity of treated wastewater it will allow the city to disperse through spray irrigation at Sanford Regional Airport.

City officials as recently as last week were saying the property near Geneva would be used only as a last resort and would have to accommodate only small

Zoo Directors To Release Members List

By Ted Carter
Herald Staff Writer

The Central Florida Zoo's board of directors is offering to turn over the list of voting members of the zoological society today to Cheney Mason, an Orlando lawyer who last week filed suit against the board to obtain the membership roll.

The board earlier this month had refused Mason's demand for the names and addresses of voting members, citing concern for the privacy of society members. In the meantime, though, zoo board attorney Mel Martinez advised that the by-laws of the zoo society have no provision for denying release of society membership roll.

Wayne Weinberg, president-elect of the board, said Tuesday the zoo's governing body wanted to ensure it was on sound legal footing before releasing the roll. "We had told him (Mason) at our last meeting that if he can show he is entitled to the list, we would turn it over to him," said Weinberg. "Our attorney did his work for him."

Weinberg added, "He can come by the zoo Wednesday and pick up the list."

Mason is away on vacation and unable to be reached to determine whether he plans to drop the suit he filed on behalf of his wife, Shirley, a former member of the board, and Newman Brock and Gerald Rutberg, both honorary members of the zoo's board of directors.

Weinberg said the offer to release the list made Mason's suit "academic."

Mason had demanded the names and addresses of voting society members to call a special meeting of the society. The meeting would focus on recalling the present board of directors, a step that would require the votes of 51 percent of the voting members, according to Weinberg.

In a compromise, the board agreed to call a special meeting on its own and open the proceedings to a vote on whether to retain the present board. The meeting initially was set for July 30, but requirements for notifying the approximate 250 voting members forced a delay. The meeting is now set for 7 p.m. Aug. 6 at the Sanford Civic

School Custodian's Job On Line Today

A Lake Brantley custodian accused of holding a knife to students' throats during a dispute at the school July 8 denies the allegations, but his job is on the line today.

The case of custodian Richard Bernard Pringle, 29, Sanford, goes before the Seminole County School Board later today and, according to school district officials, they will recommend he be fired. He says if he is, he'll fight it.

Pringle says the entire matter is a misunderstanding, that he was only doing his job when the incident occurred and that it has been "blown way out of proportion." Pringle also claims that it appears to be "common practice for students at Lake Brantley to be discourteous and disrespectful to teachers and other school personnel." He said it's been that way at Lake Brantley "as long as I've been there and I've been there since Aug. 22, 1986, and it seems students can say anything they want to and the administration believes them."

The incident involves a group of cheerleaders who were at the school that afternoon looking for a place to practice, and Pringle, who had just washed the gymnasium floor, said he was unable to authorize them to go into a common area (off the gym) to practice because they were unsupervised. He said his understanding of school policy is that students are not supposed to be allowed indoors without a teacher present. Apparently a dispute evolved between Pringle and the students and that led to his being suspended, first with pay, then without pay pending the school board's decision today.

Pringle said the entire incident occurred when one of the cheerleaders asked him if they could go into the common area to practice. He told them they couldn't because they were unsupervised.

Woman Victim In Murder-Suicide Had Reported Husband's Threat

A 23-year-old Winter Garden man who forced entry to the Altamonte Springs home of his estranged wife and shot her to death at about 5:20 a.m. Tuesday turned the gun on himself after calling Altamonte Springs police to say he had murdered his wife.

The wife had reported to Winter Garden police that her husband had threatened her with a knife Saturday night.

At about 5:30 a.m., when police arrived at the home of Cheryl Rietzke, 21, at #195, 614 Orange Avenue, Sandy Cove Condominiums, they found the bodies of her and her husband, Bruce Rietzke, 23, of Winter Garden, in a bedroom. Both died as the result of gunshot wounds. She had been shot in the chest and head and the man suffered a

Ex-Marine Says North No Hero; Shredding Tale Called Lie

TALLAHASSEE (UPI) — A former Marine who fought in Nicaragua 50 years ago said Monday that Lt. Col. Oliver North betrayed Marine Corps tradition by lying to Congress, and is unworthy of hero worship.

Bill Gandall, 79, is a veteran of the failed 1927-28 Marine campaign to hunt Nicaraguan revolutionary Augustino Sandino, who inspired the Sandinista movement that toppled Nicaraguan President Anastasio Somoza in 1979.

Gandall said in a news conference that North betrayed the tradition of civilian control over the military by misleading Congress about the Iran-Contra scandal. North has admitted lying to Congress in recent testimony before a House-Senate committee, but emerged a hero in public opinion polls.

"He took unto himself authority in the civilian sector, which is against the principles of the Marines. For him to abrogate the whole weight of the Constitution and Congress and tell them all to go to hell is unforgivable for a Marine," Gandall said. "He's a hero in his own mind, if he's not a complete four flusher. But I think he's an actor mainly. He's in a dream world."

Meanwhile in Washington, Assistant Attorney General William Bradford Reynolds, who uncovered the secret Iran-Contra connection, accused Oliver North of lying to Congress when he said he destroyed documents under the noses of investigators.

In a brief interview with United Press International, Reynolds lashed out at the recent testimony that sparked new criticism of him and another top Justice Department official for leading a shoddy initial investigation last fall.

"There was no shredding in my presence," Reynolds declared Tuesday. "His testimony was not credible. I know. I am the one who had firsthand knowledge of that. I knew that was not the case."

Florida's ex-Marine Gandall said he was a

"gung-ho marine ready to kill the gooks" when he was sent to Nicaragua, but later had nightmares over the atrocities he said U.S. forces committed trying to track Sandino. The Marines never found Sandino, but established the National Guard Somoza's father used to control the county.

Gandall said current policy will only strengthen communist influence in Central America.

Gandall said a U.S. invasion of Nicaragua "will be bloody and after that we'll win on the surface. But the revolution will go on. They don't want to live under the thumb of the Yankee giant."

Longwood Set To Fight Sewer Fee Suit

By Jane Casselberry
Herald Staff Writer

On the advice of interim city attorney Ann Colby, the Longwood City Commission has voted unanimously to hire attorney Paul Gougelman, a Longwood resident with law office in Maitland, to represent the city in a suit over sewer capacity fees.

The suit against the city was brought by Gary Massey on behalf of Risa Kay, owner of Fairmont Plaza.

Colby told the commission Monday night she has prepared and filed responsive pleadings in the case, involving a dispute over the fee for sewer capacity for the shopping center at 800 N. U.S. Highway 17-92. The city was served in the suit June 30.

Mayor Ed Myers said he wanted the city to sue Kay for attorneys' fees incurred in defending the suit, which he is sure the city will win. Colby replied, "If possible under the law, we'll do it."

In another legal matter, Colby had good news for the commission. In the case of a police forfeiture suit filed in Seminole County Circuit Court in Sanford, that has been going on for more than a year, Colby said an agreement was reached that should net the city $34,000. Charles White of Miami, attorney for Patricia Ann Ashenoff, agreed to settle in a legal tug-of-war over money seized in a drug raid.

"The other side gave up rather than risk going to court," Colby said.

The suit was brought by the city to get possession of $35,000 seized from Ashenoff in an April 1986 Drug Enforcement Agency Task Force drug raid in Altamonte Springs. Colby said Longwood agents participated in the raid. The seven sister cities in Seminole County have a cooperative agreement and all moneys and properties seized are combined and they take turns filing for forfeiture.

The Fairmont Plaza suit was filed after the commission twice rejected a compromise suggested by Kay and proposed by Colby and City Administrator Ron Waller that the city allow Fairmont Plaza to purchase needed sewer capacity for $4.50 for each gallon capacity — a price called for in a contract, which Kay says she was forced to sign in May 1985 by then city manager David Chacey.

Colby had advised the city commission to try to settle with Kay because the price the city could

Justice's Scam's Tragic Results

The government's destructive power to tax is being matched these days by its destructive power to prosecute.

Two major cases of wrongful prosecution, each with a vast train of tragic consequences, have arisen this spring to trouble American jurisprudence. Although the defendants were exonerated, they paid a staggering price in money, worry, ruined careers and ravaged reputations.

Former Labor Secretary Raymond Donovan was acquitted in May on fraud and grand larceny charges in New York City contracting. But only after an enormously expensive nine-month trial and two years of pretrial legal maneuvering. And only after being forced from the Cabinet.

The jury foreman in the Donovan trial said the prosecution's case was so full of holes that indictments never should have been filed. "Where do I go to get my reputation back?" Donovan asked afterward. Where indeed?

Last month, a parallel judicial tragedy unfolded in the exoneration of James M. Beggs, former administrator of the National Aeronautics and Space Administration and former vice president of General Dynamics Corporation.

Beggs was forced to depart from NASA in December 1985 when he and three other top executives of General Dynamics were indicted for perpetrating fraudulent defense contracts with the U.S. government.

Contrary to Donovan's prosecution, Beggs was spared the additional expense and indignity of a trial. The Justice Department finally got around to dropping its case against Beggs after subjecting him to a year and a half of humiliation, torture and the huge expense of preparing a defense. The Justice Department now admits its prosecution was based on an erroneous interpretation of contract terms; the contested billing was perfectly legal all along; prosecutors had simply neglected to check with contracting experts or even study the relevant documents before pressing for an indictment. The worst of it is that not one representative of the Justice Department ever spoke with Beggs; he was never given a chance to respond to charges and set the record straight.

In addition to the awful personal suffering inflicted on Beggs and his family, the Justice Department's prosecutors also deprived the U.S. space program of able, seasoned leadership during the period leading up to the space shuttle disaster in late January 1986 — and, even more urgently, during the chaotic, demoralizing months after that national tragedy. Some close observers have speculated that the Challenger explosion might not have happened had Beggs remained at NASA's helm.

Even though Beggs was confident the government lawyers had no case and believed he would be vindicated, he said he could not sleep or eat properly and lost 15 pounds. But "after two or three months of worrying myself to death," he said, "I pulled myself together."

With rare understanding, Beggs has emerged without bitterness. "The Lord has been very good to me and I am financially able to bear the burden," he said.

And, as though to add insult to injury, the withdrawal of the charges against Beggs was simply tacked to a bulletin board in the Federal District Court in Los Angeles late Friday afternoon, June 19. Contrast that sheepish, almost sneaky confession of error with the original indictment of Beggs, made with a great flourish before a televised news conference in Los Angeles.

And what of the Justice Department that prosecuted Beggs as a result of its own stupidity and incompetence? One would assume the department would at least apologize for the suffering and damage it has caused. But no. Thus far, only silence from Attorney General Edwin Meese III and his red-faced prosecutors. Perhaps their reason for this arrogant indifference is that they have so many other things to apologize for.

Chiles: 'My Mama Did Not Raise No Fools'

By Steve Gerstel
WASHINGTON (UPI) — Sen. Lawton Chiles insists "my Mama did not raise no fools," which is true enough, but the collective wise men of the Senate really did a job on her son.

Maybe the deed had to be done, for the health and welfare of the Senate, but Chiles is really much too decent a man to have been made the fall guy in the midnight follies.

It was around the bewitching hour a week ago that Senate Democratic leader Robert Byrd came into the chamber burdened with a thick sheath of papers full of magic promises.

Although the agreement offered the Senate by Byrd had many tenacles, the body assured final passage of the complex trade bill the following Tuesday and sure approval of an amendment repealing the windfall profits tax on oil.

In addition, the compromise guaranteed a vote, if not time for debate, on up to 70 different amendments. Only an amendment by Chiles, the veteran Democrat from Florida, was put in its own, very special category.

This amendment, which would have banned any ship from American ports for six months after docking in Cuba, was very important for Chiles, if for no other reason than he is up for re-election in a state with an increasingly strong Hispanic vote.

The agreement stipulated that if the Senate, after half an hour of debate, could not kill the Chiles amendment with a tabling motion, all the other parts of the compromise would be null and void.

And, Byrd warned, if the agreement collapsed, the Senate could be tied up with the trade bill for next to forever, scrambling the year's schedule, as James Byrd wrote, from here to eternity.

"You know, as I listened to that unanimous consent agreement, my Mama did not raise no fools," Chiles said. "It sounds pretty clear there, what you do, you have got to table that amendment or nothing else goes on on that particular thing."

That left Chiles all alone in the glare of the Senate's bright lights, the complicated agreement dependent on his decision to assent.

But why, Chiles asked, wasn't the "onus" on Sen. Lowell Weicker, R-Conn., who had informed the leadership he would object to the agreement unless Chiles' amendment was killed.

"When one person can do that, that just does not strike my sense of fairness," Chiles said. "That is an inducement to anybody in this body to play that way and I do not think that that is the way we should conduct ourselves."

"What the majority leader is telling me, if you want to be persistent enough, if you say you are going to read a book or you are going to stop this place, eventually you can work your will in this," Chiles said.

The difference between Weicker and Chiles is that Lowell Weicker rarely deals, sees only black and white, disdains compromise and doesn't really care if his colleagues are discomfited.

Senate leaders took the easier way out by letting Weicker dictate the terms of the agreement and putting Chiles on the spot. He finally succumbed to a promise from Byrd with "my honor on it" to let the amendment come up as a bill sometime later this summer.

Policy Power Play

WASHINGTON (NEA) — During the Iran-contra hearings, many GOP members of the joint panels castigated Democrats for attempting to "micro-manage" foreign policy. Similarly, in the case of Robert Bork's controversial nomination to the Supreme Court, GOP members have argued that the president should be able to choose who he wants, subject only to a determination that the person is up to the job.

However, conservative Senate Republicans now seem engaged in their own version of micro-management as they wage an ideological war over the confirmation of another Reagan appointee in a clear attempt to control foreign policy.

Last October, the administration sent the name of Melissa S. Wells to the Senate to be the new U.S. ambassador to Mozambique.

Wells has served in a series of diplomatic posts, including U.S. ambassador to Guinea. Since the late 1970s she has been the U.S. representative to several U.N. organizations dealing with African relief programs. She is now based in Geneva where she heads IMPACT, a major U.N.-sponsored African relief program. She is generally accepted as an expert on the problems of central and southern Africa.

But a group of conservative GOP senators — led by Sen. Jesse Helms of North Carolina and minority leader Robert Dole of Kansas — have blocked her confirmation because they object to current U.S. policy toward Mozambique.

The United States has maintained good relations with Mozambique, which describes itself as a Marxist-Leninist state, since it became independent in 1975.

For years Mozambique has been engaged in a bloody war with a right-wing insurgency called the Mozambique National Resistance or RENAMO.

Conservatives believe the United States should recognize RENAMO and that we should aid the insurgency just as we aid the Contras in Nicaragua and the anti-communist guerrillas in Afghanistan.

The Reagan administration has refused to do so. In fact, until very recently, no U.S. official has met with a representative of RENAMO.

NRC Blows Whistle On Whistleblowers

By Jack Anderson
And Dale Van Atta

WASHINGTON — The Nuclear Regulatory Commission is belatedly drafting new rules to protect workers who blow the whistle on safety problems and incompetence by officials at nuclear power plants.

But the NRC's reputation for blowing the whistle on whistleblowers — exposing them to dismissal or other retaliation by disclosing their identities — is so widely accepted that the commission's latest assurances have not been able to quell suspicion among critics.

In fact, one public interest lawyer, Billie Garde of the Government Accountability Project, is so dubious about the commission's claims of good faith that she refuses to testify about some 500 allegations of deficiencies at the South Texas nuclear power plant near Austin. She is resisting an NRC subpoena to tell what she knows because she's afraid she will be forced to name her informants at the plant, subjecting them to possible reprisal. The Government Accountability Project is a public interest group devoted to protecting whistle blowers.

DICK WEST

Exvitations, Et Al

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Anytime you sing "There Must Be 50 Ways To Leave Your Lover," the lyrics must make you feel like a piker.

Or rather, readers of "Maledicta" magazine must feel that way.

Actually, according to the self-styled "International Journal of Verbal Aggression," there are more than a hundred ways to "sack your lover," and your given name, or nickname, doesn't even have to rhyme with "free."

The authors of an article called "Scram" list 101 insults "that tell an unwanted peer to depart or leave a group."

These insults "may also be used to reject an unwanted lover," they tell us, and I am willing to overlook the fact that most of the put-downs originally were coined by high schoolers.

"Rather than telling the newcomer straightforwardly, 'Please leave, this is none of your business,' a member of the clique may use an insult in asking the newcomer to leave," they say.

You could, of course, be straightforward about it, but that is no way to sell magazines. I recommend telling an unwanted lover to "make like a boy scout and decamp."

That's assuming, of course, it is a male lover you are trying to get rid of. Female lovers, by contrast, are more likely to stick around awhile after being invited to emulate boy scouts.

However, the authors assure us this is no invitation at all. They prefer to call the insults "exvitations, the opposite of invitations." And I'll not argue with that.

One might exvite a female lover to "make like a hotel guest and check out" but one certainly wouldn't suggest that she "make like a hockey player and get the puck out of here."

Very few female lovers play hockey. Besides that, she might make like a hockey player and smite you with a stick.

The magazine says "imperatives of a similar form or structure also exist which make a strong and insulting request for other kinds of actions." It warns that such exvitations as "make like a doctor and operate" might be interpreted as a "request for action."

By "action," though, the authors apparently had more in mind a "strong request to cease speaking" as found in the exvitation to "make like a light bulb and click off."

Be warned, however, that the females I have known were more likely to click on. But then they also were inclined to leave light bulbs burning all over the house.

If your unwanted lovers insist on talking as well, I recommend trying a straightforward approach, such as telling them to "shut up."

Maledicta says the "ultimate request to leave is the request to die," as in imperatives like "make like a mule and kick the bucket," "make like a toad and croak" and "make like a thought and perish."

Yes, and also think twice about exviting unwanted lovers to "make like a banana and peel." They might take you literally.

Prevent Unneeded Surgery

By Jan Ziegler
UPI Science Writer

WASHINGTON (UPI) — A technique that permits diagnosis and treatment of uterine disorders without major surgery could eliminate the need for thousands of hysterectomies annually if it were more widely used, a physician says.

The diagnostic procedure called hysteroscopy has been around since 1970 and is still not widely used, said Dr. Robert Neuwirth, chairman of obstetrics and gynecology at St. Luke's-Roosevelt Hospital Center in New York.

"The hysteroscope is providing a much more accurate diagnosis for the enormous number of problems that women face," Neuwirth said in a telephone interview. "As far as its potential for the future, I think it's going to have a dramatic effect on certain areas of gynecological surgery."

A hysterectomy consists of removal of the uterus and sometimes one or both ovaries as well. The result of dual ovary removal is menopause, which may be premature, depending on the patient's age.

It is a controversial operation. Many medical authorities and women's groups maintain it is still performed unnecessarily in many cases, substituting for careful diagnosis and more specific treatment.

Although a hysterectomy may be necessary for uterine cancer, other less serious conditions — including family history of cancer, but no disease in the patient yet — are considered reasons for the operation, depending on the doctor and the patient.

About 750,000 hysterectomies are performed annually, half for non-cancerous causes including fibroid tumors or bleeding. Of those, about 250,000 cases could be diagnosed and treated with the hysteroscope, Neuwirth said. Ten percent of those may require re-treatment, which may include eventual hysterectomy, he said.

Somewhat less certain in his enthusiasm, Dr. Allan DeCherney, professor of obstetrics and gynecology at Yale University School of Medicine, believes "there definitely will be growth in hysteroscopy and the treatment of certain conditions by hysteroscope," but how much is uncertain.

not the officials who were subjects of the investigation.

In another case, the NRC Office of Investigation was accused of identifying two welders at the Comanche Peak plant who had made allegations about problems with the fuel pool, where spent fuel rods are stored. According to the individual who relayed their information to the commission, the two welders expected that they would remain anonymous. But when the Office of Investigation published its report, the two welders were identified by name.

As in the earlier case, the Nuclear Regulatory Commission defended its exposure of the whistle blowers on a technicality. In a letter to Sen. Lloyd Bentsen, D-Texas, the agency explained that it had never entered into a formal agreement with the two welders to withhold their names.

Footnote: NRC officials assured us that current commission policy is that informants' names will be available only on a need-to-know basis. This, they said, means that officials should avoid using the whistle blowers' names in either documents or discussions.

Reflagged Oil Tankers Set Sail, Escorted By 4 Navy Warships

ABOARD THE USS KIDD (UPI) — Two Kuwaiti oil tankers flying the Stars and Stripes entered the volatile Strait of Hormuz today under protection of U.S. Navy warships, shipping officials said.

Shipping officials with the Japan Ocean-going Seamen's Association said the oil supertanker Bridgeton and the smaller Gas Prince were escorted by U.S. naval vessels as they entered the Persian Gulf this afternoon by way of the Strait of Hormuz. They said they had no reports of unusual incidents.

Citing reports from nearby Japanese ships, the officials in Tokyo earlier in the day said the 210,068-gross-ton tanker Bridgeton pulled up anchor off the east coast of the United Arab Emirates at 8:07 a.m. while 47,700-ton Gas Prince raised anchor at 9 a.m.

Escorting the two tankers were the missile-guided destroyer USS Kidd, the cruiser USS Fox, the frigate USS Crommelin and a U.S. Navy supply ship.

France Sends 2 Warships To Gulf

PARIS (UPI) — France has upped the ante in its diplomatic war with Iran, announcing it will deploy two warships in the Persian Gulf to protect its merchant ships from Iranian attack.

The French move coincided with the U.S. re-flagging of Kuwaiti tankers and came 10 days after a gunboat, believed to be Iranian, attacked a French container vessel in the gulf. France severed diplomatic relations with Iran on Friday.

France said Tuesday that two Navy frigates — the Victor Schoelcher and the Protet — would escort two French oil tankers scheduled to enter the waters of the gulf this week.

3 Blast Off For Docking Try

MOSCOW (UPI) — In a burst of orange flame, two Soviet cosmonauts and a Syrian air force officer blasted off from the Baikonur launch site in Soviet Central Asia today for a rendezvous with two cosmonauts now in their 167th day aboard the orbiting Mir space station.

The joint Soviet-Syrian mission, scheduled to last until July 30, is the 12th Soviet flight involving an international crew.

Sanford Decides Against Buying School Property On French Avenue

By Brad Church
Herald Staff Writer
Sanford city commissioners have decided to say "thanks, but no thanks" to the Seminole County School Board's nearly year-long effort to sell to the city property across from the Sanford Middle School on French Avenue.

The city did not close the door on the issue, however. The commission instructed City Manager Frank Faison to notify the school board that it doesn't want to purchase the property but at the same time to inquire if the school district is serious about its wish to obtain title to the municipal stadium on Mellonville Avenue.

If the district is serious about obtaining the stadium, and has some other property the city might be interested in, perhaps a property trade could be worked out involving the French Avenue site, the commission told Faison to inform the school district.

The school board has declared the French Avenue property surplus and has a right to sell it.

However, state law requires that the district offer it to other governmental bodies before putting it on the market. The board offered to sell it to Sanford last year after Sanford refused to rezone the parcel for a potential buyer intending to build a shopping center.

The city commission considered buying part of the parcel for possible use as a site for a new central fire station. However, at a work session this week, the commission decided it did not need the site, and couldn't afford to buy it for a speculative use.

Commissioner A.A. McClanahan said he doesn't think the city could afford to buy the property, and that the property is too valuable for the city to hold on to without a use in mind.

The school board was offered $600,000 for the entire parcel in 1985 contingent on it being rezoned commercial. The lots bordering French Avenue are zoned commercial but three tiers of lots behind those, including the parcel the city was considering buying, are zoned residencial. The commissioners were told by City Engineer Bill Simmons that there is enough city property at the present central fire station site to build a larger station, so additional property is not a necessity for building a new one.

The school district has expressed an interest in obtaining the stadium, but has never made a proposal to buy it, said Mayor Bette Smith.

A stumbling block in the school district's wishes to acquire the stadium property is stadium leaseholder Wes Rinker's insistence on not giving up his lease, which is effective until 1990 and includes options for two five-year extensions.

Winter Springs Makes It More Difficult To Become Candidate

Candidates seeking election to public office in Winter Springs will have to dig a little deeper into their pockets and demonstrate a little more initiative.

Of two ordinances recently passed by the city commission, one raised the filing fee of prospective candidates to $150 from $15. The other established a requirement that persons seeking to run for office must file with the city clerk a petition bearing the signatures of 15 residents as endorsement.

Mayor John V. Torcaso commented that collecting the signatures would provide an "incentive" for a serious candidate "to go out there and get going." Commissioner Phillip Kulbes was the only member opposed to the measure.

The fee hike passed 3-2, with commissioners Cindy Kaehler and Kulbes voting no. They said $150 was excessive.

At least one area resident was in agreement with Kaehler and Kulbes. Lawrence Cerra, 1383 Blue Spruce Court, read a prepared statement saying that "raising the fee makes it difficult for a candidate running on a shoestring while making it easy for an incumbent to remain in office." He reminded the commission that Lake Mary's fee was only $25, also an amount recommended by the city charter review board.

Cerra, 29, twice unsuccessful candidate for a city commission seat, suggested the matter be decided by referendum or that the fee be raised over a period of time.

The mayor, supported by Commissioners Martin Trencher, Bill Jacobs and Art Hoffman, did not feel the fee was unreasonable and cited Sanford's $150 fee. Kaehler and Kulbes held firm that $150 was an excessive amount and $25 was more than "sufficient" to cover processing costs.

"The purpose is not to discourage," said Kaehler, "but to encourage." —Alberta Mason

IN BRIEF

Polindexter Ends Testimony; Receives Grilling, Lecture

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Five days of often tedious testimony from former national security adviser John Polindexter left the congressional Iran-Contra committees with the clear feeling that the main event is over and they may never reach a unanimous decision on exactly what happened in the president's worst crisis.

Polindexter, often grilled over the same points he addressed in four previous days of public questioning, completed his appearance before Congress Tuesday with a fifth round of legally protected testimony and a stern lecture from Rep. Lee Hamilton, D-Ind., chairman of the House committee probing the case.

Hamilton told the Navy rear admiral his obsession with secrecy had set the stage for scandal and his decision to hide from President Reagan the diversion of money to Nicaraguan Contra rebels from secret U.S. arms sales to Iran had locked Reagan out of "probably the most fateful decision of his presidency."

Lonetree Espionage Trial Opens

QUANTICO, Va. (UPI) — Marine Sgt. Clayton Lonetree, as of today the only former guard at the U.S. Embassy in Moscow accused of spying, faces 18 charges at the first court-martial convened in the embassy sex-for-secrets scandal.

The military trial at the Quantico Marine base was ordered to begin today and was to be open to the news media, a corps spokesman said Tuesday. Lonetree, confined to the brig at the base, was to be tried on 18 charges including espionage, three counts of conspiracy to commit espionage and five counts of disclosing the identity of U.S. intelligence operatives to Soviet agents.

Lonetree, 25, of Chicago, was accused of having an affair with a Soviet employee at the embassy and then passing secrets to the KGB at her behest.

House Debates 'Catastrophic' Plan

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Democrats and Republicans are touting the merits of competing catastrophic illness insurance bills — buoyed either by House Speaker Jim Wright's support or President Reagan's veto threat.

Wright stressed the legislation, which was set to be debated today, is "one of the most important components of our legislative agenda for 1987" and would receive bipartisan support toward "speedy passage."

Estimated to protect 31 million elderly Americans by limiting hospital and physician costs and expanding Medicare to cover drugs and other medical costs, Wright said the Democrats "landmark bill" would be the broadest expansion of the Medicare program, and he praised the self-financing aspect of the new benefits.

Postal Workers Get Wage Hike

WASHINGTON (UPI) — A new contract reached by the U.S. Postal Service and its two biggest unions would give workers an estimated 18 percent in wage and cost-of-living hikes over the next 40 months.

Leaders of the American Postal Workers Union and the National Association of Letter Carriers predicted that their members would overwhelmingly approve the settlement, which was hammered out Tuesday after a round-the-clock bargaining session.

In a news conference Tuesday to announce the agreement that affects 570,000 postal workers nationwide, negotiators for the unions and management praised each other for avoiding the impasse of the last contract talks, when outside arbitrators dictated every issue.

Superfund Cleanup List Expanded

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The nation's list of most dangerous hazardous waste dumps has grown by 99, and the sites, except for the 32 federal facilities on the list, will now qualify for special Superfund cleanup money.

The Environmental Protection Agency said Tuesday it is the first time federal facilities have been placed on the final Superfund priority list.

Space Station Project Takes Off; NASA Gets Contract Proposals

CAPE CANAVERAL (UPI) — In a major milestone for the space station project, NASA accepted contract proposals from aerospace giants competing for construction contracts worth billions of dollars and thousands of jobs.

"A program like this represents to ourselves and our team members somewhere between 3,000 to 4,000 jobs at peak," said S.Z. Rubenstein, president of Rockwell International's space station systems division in Houston.

The space station, which will cost at least $24.5 billion in 1988 dollars, is scheduled to be operational in 1996.

President Reagan gave NASA the go-ahead in April to proceed with the first phase of the station, a scaled-down version that will provide fewer facilities and less electrical power than the initial design.

Safety Checked On Park Rides

TAMPA (UPI) — State and federal safety investigations are under way at the city's Lowry Park and the Busch Gardens tourist attraction following accidents involving rides there in the past two weeks.

Four people suffered minor injuries — two toddlers and their mothers — when a small roller coaster car at the park came loose from its track Saturday and was hurled over a fence, landing on the ground four feet below.

At Busch Gardens, the front car of the monorail that carries tourists over free-roaming wild animals derailed near its station twice in the past two weeks. There were no injuries in Saturday's or the July 10 incident, but passengers were left stranded in the disabled cars for some time.

Advertisers To Cool Tax Rhetoric

TALLAHASSEE (UPI) — Advertising industry officials and state leaders are looking for a compromise in their bitter dispute over Florida's new advertising tax, but top lawmakers doubt the tax will be repealed.

Spokesmen for the Association of National Advertisers promised to cool their rhetoric against the tax during a peace conference Tuesday. They also agreed with House Finance and Tax Chairman Bud Gardner, Senate staff and representatives of Gov. Bob Martinez to seek an alternate levy for advertisers if possible.

Park Planned For Groveview Area

A $543,000 park is planned for the Groveview Village subdivision in the far southwest part of Sanford.

The Sanford City Commission is expected to soon approve application for a $181,000 grant from the Florida Department of Natural Resources to help pay for the park.

Jim Jernigan, city parks director, said the park will be developed on seven acres of vacant land between Old Lake Mary Road and the Seaboard Coast Railway lines, and Springview Drive. The city received title to the property through the city ordinance which requires developers to reserve open spaces in their development.

Jernigan said there are no recreation facilities in that part of the city. The development of the park is part of the Recreation Department's long range plan to provide recreational facilities in what Jernigan calls all the "fringe areas" of the city where residents, particularly children, don't have the means to get to facilities closer to the heart of the city.

Jernigan said the city has had a lot of success with state grants to develop parks, pointing out that Stark, McKilben and under-construction Lee P. Moore Park were partially paid for by such funds.

The grant, if approved, will be matched by $65,000 in city appropriations from the park development fund. Another $110,000 in matching money will be provided in-kind through the value of the land and for labor and materials required for the development.

Jernigan says the work at Lee P. Moore Park should be complete by the end of the year and he anticipates work on Groveview Park beginning by mid-February.

The facilities to be developed at the park were developed with the help of comments received from citizens of the area in three public hearings last February and March.

Included will be two lighted racketball courts, a 30' by 60' picnic shelter, a 50' by 100' basketball court, 2,000 feet of paved trails, a vita course, three lighted tennis courts, a parking lot and rest rooms.

Other costs will be involved in landscaping, lighting of walkways, signs, perimeter fencing and grills, benches and playground equipment.

Jernigan says.

College Cancels Paramedic Training

Seminole Community College is dropping its paramedic training program, at least temporarily.

The program, which graduated about 15 new paramedics a year, will be cancelled as of fall due to lack of enrollment over the last few years. A two year probation period failed to see an increase in students participating.

Dr. J. A. Sawyer, Vice President of Student and Information Services, said once a program is "flagged" for probation by the college it will be terminated if the situation does not change. That is "basically what happened with the paramedic program at SCC," he said.

Students already enrolled in the program last year were given warning. "I don't believe we affected any students in midstream though," Sawyer said.

Similar programs at both Daytona Beach and Sumter Community Colleges are also having difficulty keeping enrollment up, he said. "Maybe those other programs will be stronger if we don't have one."

"Any health program is very expensive to run," said SCC Dean of Vocational Instruction Suzanne Tesinsky. "That, capped with low enrollment has led the paramedic program to this point." She said the other health programs offered by SCC are still doing very well in the area of enrollment.

"People are getting a little bit hesitant to go into the health field," Tesinsky said, suggesting concerns over money and legal responsibility in recent years were contributing factors.

"There's no doubt about the fact the county and city need paramedics," Tesinsky said, "they're screaming for people." She said most of the Seminole county firemen who've become paramedics were trained at SCC. Tesinsky said she feels low enrollment may also have hit the program because most of the county firemen who are interested in becoming paramedics have already been through the SCC training.

Tesinsky said the school's Emergency Medical Technician training was still very popular with students, normally filling up on the first day of registration. She said Seminole County demands its firefighters be trained EMT's and ambulance drivers need the certification to get jobs.

"We have a very good program," Tesinsky said. "The ending of the program is not of matter of its quality, but more of a numbers game. The program is not being terminated, she explained. "If students become interested in the paramedic program again we will consider reopening it," she said.

Impact Fees Moratorium Set

An ordinance declaring a one-year moratorium on impact fees has been enacted by the Winter Springs City Commission.

Passage of the moratorium hinged on the signing of an interlocal agreement between the city and Seminole County, which wants to collect the fees on new development in the unincorporated county and within its municipalities. Due to numerous revisions, signing of the pact was tabled until the city commission's July 28 meeting. Mayor John V. Torcaso told the commission at a recent meeting that the moratorium "would have been dropped" had the agreement been signed. The commission vote was unanimous.

Impact fees are used to help pay for growth-related needs such as new roads, schools, police and fire protection.

Ditka Vows To Pull Plug On Overweight 'Fridge'

United Press International
CHICAGO (UPI) — Mike Ditka says he expects to coach the Chicago Bears this season and next. But he warns he will not negotiate a new contract once this season starts.

The coach also reiterated that if defensive tackle William "Refrigerator" Perry is overweight, he will not stay with the club.

Ditka, whose contract expires after the season, said his cutoff date for negotiations with club president Michael McCaskey is Sept. 7.

"If anything's going to happen, it would happen either before then or it would happen after the football season," Ditka said. "Once the football season starts for me, I'm not negotiating anything. You can't be sitting in and negotiating and talking about things. I don't use an agent. All I want to do is coach football when the football season's on. I don't want to worry about other things."

Ditka said Perry will have to come into camp by Aug. 1 at less than 325 pounds.

"You can book this: If his weight is not under 325, he will not be at Platteville (Wis., the training camp)," Ditka said. "He can go back to South Carolina and do whatever the hell he wants to do and we will go on without him. He said he was running twice a day. He runs from the refrigerator to the bathroom."

THOUSAND OAKS, Calif. (UPI) — The Dallas Cowboys' top two draft picks missed the first workout for rookies and free agents, but team president Tex Schramm said the contract offers remain.

The two holdouts are Danny Noonan of Nebraska, the team's No. 1 choice, and defensive back Ron Francis of Baylor.

MIAMI (UPI) — The Miami Dolphins said Tuesday they are considering signing Johnny Lynn, the defensive back released by the New York Jets.

Lynn was to be tested by the coaching staff provided he passed a physical. Lynn, who played all 16 games last year, has had knee problems throughout his career and the Jets believed his leg could not endure another season. He was released May 18 after failing a physical.

The Dolphins practiced twice at St. Thomas University Tuesday, the second day of their special three-day camp.

FOXBORO, Mass. (UPI) — The New England Patriots signed one of their first-round draft choices, Northern Arizona defensive end Tom Gibson.

Running back Elgin Davis of the University of Central Florida was the first.

KANSAS CITY, Mo. (UPI) — Nigerian-born running back Christian Okoye, the Kansas City Chiefs' second-round draft choice this year, signed a series of three one-year contracts with the team. Financial terms were not released.

6 Unearned Runs Sabotage Juniors

By Chris Pister

ROLLING HILLS — The Altamonte Junior League All-Stars managed only two hits and gave up six unearned runs Tuesday night in a 7-1 loss to Windermere in the Little League Baseball District 14 Tournament before 151 fans at the Rolling Hills Complex.

"We didn't do much right tonight," Altamonte manager Gil Vogler said. "This is the fewest hits we've ever had and the defense has never given up that many runs before."

The loss snapped a four-game Altamonte unbeaten streak and was the fifth victory in a row for Windermere. Altamonte and Windermere will meet again Thursday night at 7 at Rolling Hills. Windermere can wrap up the District 14 title with a victory while Altamonte must win two in a row to advance to the sectional.

About the only bright spot for Altamonte Tuesday was the pitching of Kevin Morro who allowed eight hits, but only one earned run over six innings. Morro struck out six and walked four.

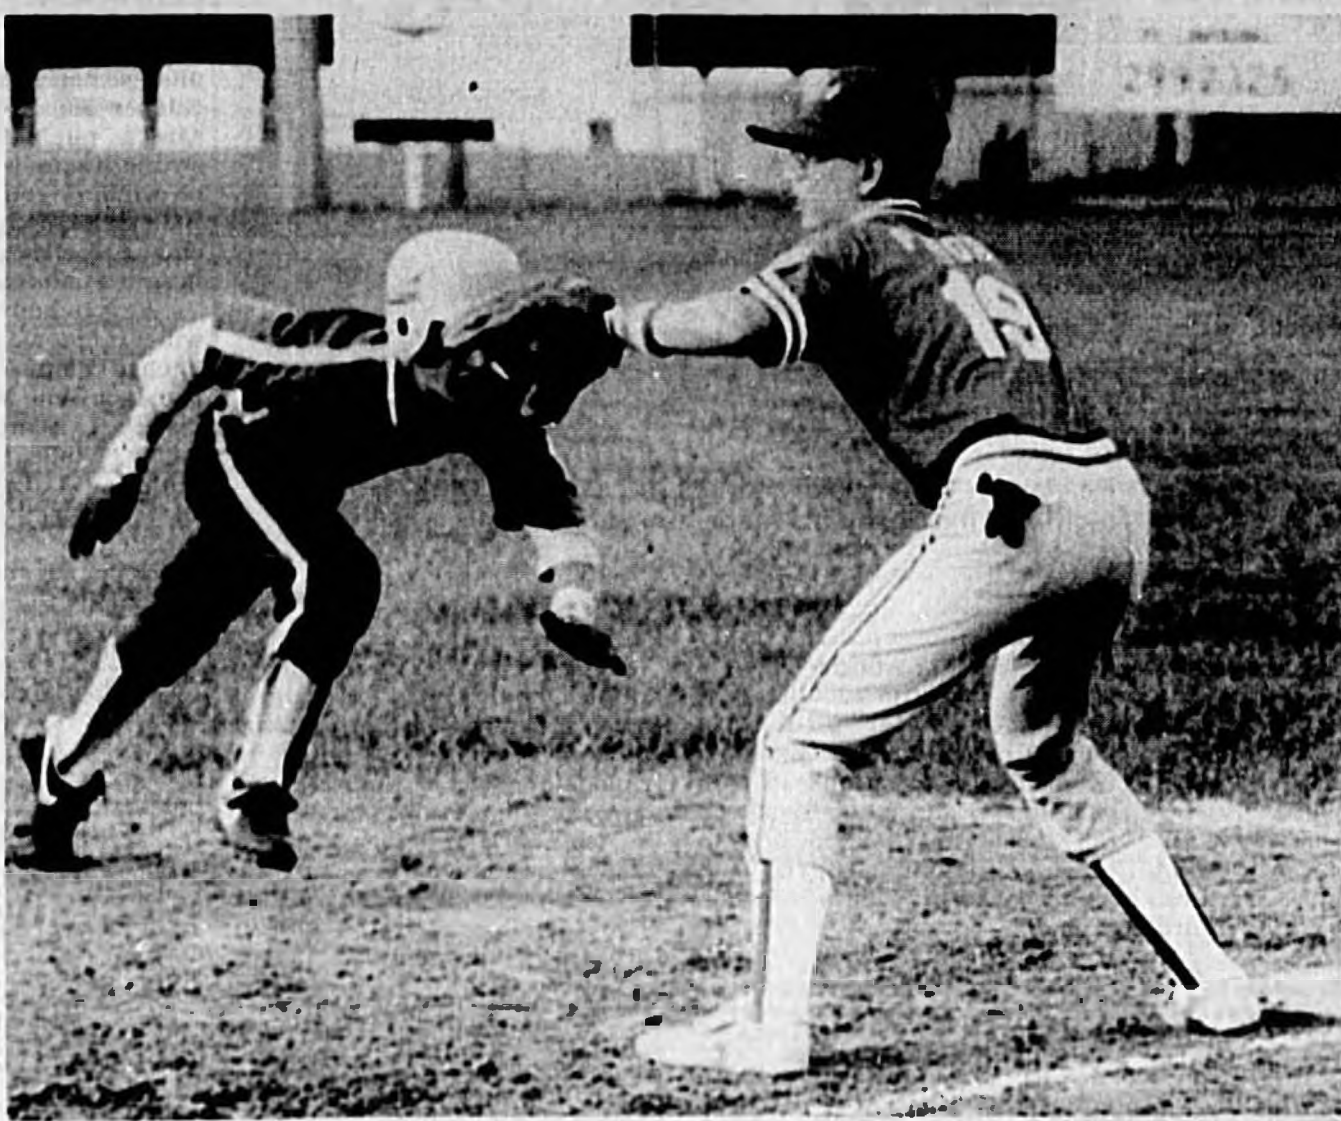

Kevin Chabot pitched a strong game for Windermere as he allowed only two hits, struck out four and walked two.

After Morro set Windermere down in order in the top of the first, Altamonte took a 1-0 lead in the bottom half. Shane Odom led off with a walk, stole second, took third on Chris Barfield's grounder and scored when T.J. Hamilton reached on a two-out error.

Windermere got its first run in the top of the third to tie the score at 1-1. With one out, Bryan Bruce reached on the first Altamonte error of the game, stole second and scored on John Hubbard's two-out single, the first hit off Morro.

Altamonte got its first hit in the bottom of the third when Odom rapped a one-out single to left. He then stole second but was stranded there when the next two hitters grounded out.

Morro worked his way out of jam in the top of the fourth to keep the score tied. Reston Grosch led off the frame with a single, stole second and took third on Kent Pistel's grounder. Barfield, playing second base, then made a nice over-the-shoulder catch of Bryant Purdin's bottom of the fifth and Windermere broke the game open with five runs in the sixth. All five of the runs were unearned as Altamonte committed three errors in the inning.

After Altamonte went down without a threat in the fourth, Windermere broke the tie with its only earned run of the game in the top of the fifth. With one out, Will Bland walked, stole second and later scored on a two-out single up the middle by Matt Flips.

Dana Dearth's single to center with one out in the bottom of the sixth was the only other hit in the game for Altamonte. Chabot came back in the bottom of the seventh to set down the side in order.

Nationals Get Wish: Rematch With NW Volusia

By Scott Sander
Herald Sports Writer

ORANGE CITY — The Altamonte National League All-Star team will have an opportunity to avenge Monday's 10-3 loss to Northwest Volusia tonight at 7 in the Little League Baseball District 14 Major All-Star Tournament.

The rematch was made possible thanks to Windermere's exciting 3-2 triumph over Northwest Volusia Tuesday night before 125 fans at Wally Hancock Field. Windermere will await the winner of tonight's game. The winner will have to beat unbeaten Windermere twice to advance to the sectional.

Baseball

"This was a tough loss to swallow," Northwest manager Jimmy Braddock said after the game. "We were just plain flat tonight."

"I'll tell you one thing," Braddock continued. "I feel that Altamonte is a better team than Windermere is."

Altamonte manager Tom Reclar said that he is looking forward to meeting Northwest again. "I'm kind of glad that we will be facing them again," Reclar said. "I'm hoping that the loss will work to our advantage. Hopefully, it will motivate us."

In Monday's game, Northwest pitcher Richie Dennard used a wicked curve-ball to keep the Altamonte bats in check. Dennard fanned 15 Nationals as he tossed a four-hitter.

Braddock said that he will send Dennard to the mound again.

Reclar said that his club practiced at length against the curveball Tuesday. "We spent a lot of time trying to discipline them," Reclar said. "The kids have shown a lot of character and good judgment from day one, and I'm hoping that it will continue. That kid (Dennard) does have a great curve, and we are going to have to be patient up there."

Reclar said that he will be sending Frank Harmer to the hill tonight.

With the score tied at 2-2 in the top of the second inning, Windermere's Ryan Reynolds singled. Steve Spickerman followed with a single to left. Reynolds and Spickerman took third and second when Northwest left-fielder Jamie Robinson booted the ball.

Reynolds scored what amounted to be the winning run when loser Troy Dampier uncorked a wild pitch.

Whigham Tops Perce In All-Sanford Finale

The Bayhead Junior Championships were held this past weekend and to say the least this state-sanctioned event was very successful.

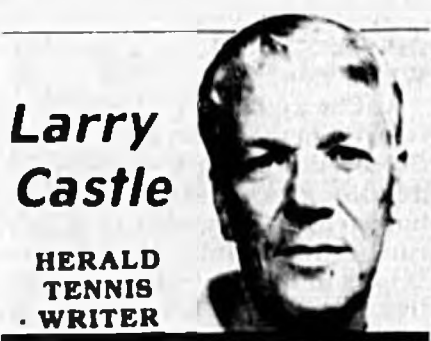

Players from all around the state came to participate in this important event and even the intermittent rains could not put a damper on the enthusiastic play.

Tournament play was held in the girls and boys 12 and under age bracket and the girls and boys 14 and under age bracket. More than 50 players, some from as far away as Tallahassee and Jacksonville, participated in the event.

Bayhead Pros Steve and Simone Pellitri said that the level of play was outstanding and the large crowds on Saturday and Sunday were treated to some very good tennis.

In the boys 12 and under championship match it was an all-Sanford final. Bayhead's own Jack Whigham and Shawn Perce met in the finals. Whigham (who by the way is destined for stardom in this game) won the match in convincing style 6-1, 6-0.

It's great to see two bright and up-and-coming tennis players right here in our own backyard. Perce and Whigham, if they continue to develop, could be the best players to ever come out of the Sanford-Lake Mary area.

Larry Castle

HERALD TENNIS WRITER

In the 12 and under consolation match, Marcus Sonntag defeated Lee Johnson in a marathon match. The scores in this one were 6-7, 7-5, 6-3. The match lasted two and one-half hours.

In the boys 14 and under finals, Donnie Brown defeated Joey Quinlivan 6-1, 6-4. In the boys 14 and under consolation finals Shawn Grady won over Donnie Meurlot 6-3, 6-1.

In the girls 12 and under championship match, Lori Junker defeated Brandi Brodgon 6-4, 7-5. In the 12 and under consolation match, Kelly Koch defeated Wendy Zlatovhal 6-3, 6-1.

Kennedy in the finals. The scores were 6-1, 6-3. In the girls 14 and under consolation match Taina Wyndle defeated Stephanie Sokolowski 6-2, 6-3.

A tip of the tennis hat to Steve and Simone for organizing and running this fine junior event.

It is very important that the Sanford area get involved in this type of sanctioned event. There is simply no way for our young players to ever develop without quality sanctioned tournaments in which to participate.

It is a significant step in the right direction for our own local club to be hosting this event each year. It will probably be the catalyst that will finally produce some quality tennis players in this area.

Broncos Break Through With Winner's Intensity

By Mike Dame
Special to the Herald

Prior to its 19-3 whipping of the National League Sunday for the Pony Bronco District All-Star title, manager Jim Withrow's American League had played very inconsistently during five previous meetings with its arch rival.

Then it decided to break on through to the other side.

Before Sunday, the Americans had blown huge leads against the Nationals in two games, one coming in the second game of the best-of-three district series. In that contest, American built an early 9-2 lead only to drop the game, 16-11.

"We've been through some adversity," Withrow said. "We can put a lead on the board but then we back off on intensity and desire."

"(On Sunday) when we got a five- or six-run lead, we reminded them of what had happened before. We kept the heat on."

That they did, and the squad now hopes it can carry that "Killer Instinct" into the state tournament which begins on Wednesday at the West Seminole Pony Complex. Three teams — Seminole American, Miami District and host West Seminole's A team — will participate in the tournament. Pairings will be made during a coaches' meeting at 2:30 Wednesday afternoon.

One of the players Withrow will be relying on in the state tourney is Matt Freeman, a 5-foot-8, 135-pound 12-year-old who carries both a strong bat and a powerful pitching arm. Freeman slammed a three-run homer in Sunday's game to help lead his team and picked up the first-game victory.

"He had a great series both on the mound and with the bat," Withrow said of Freeman, who will be on the mound for Seminole plays Wednesday's opener.

American also has another potent pitcher in Paul Giambalvo, who hurled a three-hitter and fanned nine to key Sunday's victory.

"Paul did a good job," Withrow said. "He kept them off balance all night. He's been that kind of leader all season. Paul ate Nationals lunch."

To compete at state, however, Withrow feels that you can't do it with only one or two pitchers.

Rotarian Of The Year

Jim Jernigan, immediate past president of the Sanford Breakfast Rotary Club, presents the club's "Rotarian of the Year" award to Fred Bussey for outstanding club involvement during the 1966-67 season. The honor was presented to Bussey at the club's recent installation of officers and awards night banquet.

Look, Mom! No Calories In Mushrooms

Mushrooms are available all year and are very reasonably priced in our area because they are grown in Zellwood and little if any shipping costs are included in the price. In some areas to the north there is as much as $2.00 per pound difference. For this reason we can use this no calorie food stuff in many of our snacks and meals without breaking the budget.

Mushrooms give off a great deal of liquid when cooked. In some recipes this liquid may need to be drained, in others it can be used to enhance the flavor of sauces or gravies.

Small mushrooms can be left whole, larger ones sliced or used for stuffing.

Select firm, clean, tightly closed caps. Do not wash until ready to use. Store in the refrigerator for 2-3 days.

A favorite way to prepare small mushrooms is to pickle them and use on a relish tray or as an appetizer.

PICKLED MUSHROOMS

12 ounces small mushrooms
1 small onion, thinly sliced
1 clove garlic, minced
1/2 cup wine vinegar
3 tablespoons olive oil
1/4 cup salad olives
1 teaspoon parsley flakes
1/2 teaspoon salt
1/4 teaspoon pepper
1/2 teaspoon thyme
1 bay leaf
Combine all ingredients in a 2-quart casserole; cover. Microwave on 100% power 5-7 minutes or until vegetables are tender crisp, stirring after half the time. Refrigerate 6-8 hours. Drain before serving.

Mushrooms combine so well with many other meats and vegetables. This casserole is a good choice for a summer meal. Not too heavy!

EGGPLANT AND MUSHROOM CASSEROLE

1 medium-size eggplant, cut into uniform sized cubes
1 cup finely chopped onion
4 tablespoons butter
4 eggs, beaten
1 cup mayonnaise
1 cup finely chopped fresh mushrooms
1/2 teaspoon salt
1/4 teaspoon pepper
3 ounces cream cheese
1/2 cup finely chopped parsley
1/2 teaspoon thyme
1/2 cup grated Swiss cheese
1/4 cup fine white bread crumbs, toasted
2 tablespoons melted butter
Peel eggplant and cut into 1-inch square cubes. Place in an 8-inch square glass casserole with 2 tablespoons water. Cover tightly with plastic wrap and microwave on 100% power 5-7 minutes. Allow to stand 2-3 minutes, then drain off water and press eggplant to remove excess moisture. In a glass measure melt 4 tablespoons butter for 45 seconds. Stir in onion and mushrooms. Microwave on 100% power 3-4 minutes. Stir after 2 minutes. Allow to stand 2-3 minutes, then drain of liquid. Thoroughly mix eggs and mayonnaise and pour into an 8x11 glass casserole. Stir in onions and mushrooms, then eggplant, mixing evenly. Using a blender or food processor mix cream cheese, parsley, thyme, Swiss cheese, bread crumbs, salt, and pepper into a paste. Crumble or spread this paste mixture over the casserole. Pour 2 tablespoons melted butter over this. Microwave the casserole on 85% power 10-12 minutes or until heated through.

Quiche is an easy lunch or supper dish. The quiche crust in the recipe will surprise you. Serve with a crisp green salad and fresh fruit for dessert.

MUSHROOM QUICHE

4 slices firm white bread
1 tablespoon margarine
2-3 tablespoons cold water
1 1/2 cups sliced fresh mushrooms
3 eggs, slightly beaten
1/2 cup evaporated milk

Cook Of The Week

Businesswoman Recalls Good Old Days With Fond Memories

By Dorothy Greene
Herald Correspondent
Remember when?
Bertha Ellis Dobson, our Cook of the Week, sure does.

Mrs. Dobson can tell you when trolley cars paraded up and down First Street in Sanford, and when the old ferry used to transport folks across the St. Johns River between Volusia County and Seminole. "That was a long time ago," she exclaims, "at least 68 years! The keeper of the boat line was on call 24 hours a day."

This spritely septuagenarian is as active as ever and to this day serves a hearty noontime meal to her family. On any given day, "there are anywhere from seven to ten of us at the table at lunchtime," she says.

With a steaming pot of her delicious pork and rice dish simmering in the background, she continues to recall that a road is named after her father, Reed Ellis, who was a cattleman and a citrus grower. "When I was about three years old," she says, "my father surveyed that shortcut road from S.R. 415 to Enterprise, and it's always been called Reed Ellis Road." With her sister, Anna Mae Chapman, and her brother, J.R. Ellis, both of Sanford, our cook spent lots of happy hours riding horseback and helping with chores in their father's citrus groves in Osteen.

"I remember that my father used to pen his cattle in the orange groves to fertilize the citrus trees," she says. "And when my sister got big enough to ride, she and I rode horses and helped pen the cows. We thought that was big doings," she laughs. When her family moved to Sanford, Mrs. Dobson was in the third grade. "About 1923," she adds, "my father opened up a meat market on Sanford and Celery Avenue and he furnished all his own meat."

Her mother, she says, "was a fine country cook. That's where I learned most of my cooking. Like the chicken and dumplings recipe I have, and the pork and rice. Of course, that's common. Anybody knows how to cook that, but anyway, we always had that. My father taught me how to make hoecake biscuits. On cattle drives sometimes back then, they would make their biscuits and fry them in an iron skillet. Always use an iron skillet because it doesn't burn as fast."

When our cook was about 13 years old, she met a young man, Steady Nix, who was to become her husband of 45 years until his death in 1969. "Alma Dobson, who was his sister, and her husband, Cleble, came into the meat market to buy meat and he was with them, and I thought he was the most handsome fellow I had ever seen," relates Mrs. Dobson. "And a year later, in 1926, we were married." Seven years after her husband's death, in 1976, Mrs. Dobson married Cleble, who was also widowed at that time. "So I really married my brother-in-law," she says with a chuckle. "I had known Mr. Dobson all through the years, and I knew what a nice man he was, so when his wife died, we just got together," she adds. Combining forces was an Ideal solution for these two lovely people whose families are an important ingredient in their lives.

Mrs. Dobson's oldest daughter, Marie Colley, and her husband, Joseph, are the parents of Linda Cohen, whose children, Corey and Troy, are her great-grandchildren. Another daughter, Kitty Corley, and her husband, Joe, have two children, Kirk and Rachel. And Cleble's daughter, Lois Ann Dropehuk, and her husband, Paul, and three grandchildren, Paul, Rosemary and Timothy, and come holiday time, a crowd of 23 around the dinner table is not unusual.

"It's at least three times a year that we all get together," says Mrs. Dobson. "At Christmas time, Thanksgiving and Easter.

When they're all here, it's about 23. That's why we have a big dining room table." But every day there's a small gathering at the table as Mrs. Dobson prepares lunch. "Everybody comes to Mom's house," she says. Daughters, sons-in-law, grandchildren and whoever happens to be there, all enjoy Mrs. Dobson's home cooking.

Continuing with the business that she and her husband started many years ago, Mrs. Dobson still puts in a good day's work at Nix's Bedding and Upholstery in Sanford, supplying quality merchandise to the area. "When we first started in 1954," she recalls, "I was the only one in the shop who sewed. We started very small. I did the sewing and the cutting for a long time and then, as we grew, I had to get someone to help me sew. Then my daughter came to work with us about 15 years ago and she took my place with the cutting and sewing." Among the services provided by Nix's are custom made draperies, slipcovers, bedspreads and upholstered furniture. "My granddaughter, Karen, joined us about five years ago," says Mrs. Dobson, "and she's an interior decorator. She does the slipcovers, bedspreads and takes care of all the window treatments. She does a lot of the sewing herself, including draperies and cornices."

Mrs. Dobson recalls the days when she'd come home from work and sew clothing for her children and for herself, "but I haven't sewed for myself in a good while now. Of course, they took home economics in high school and they learned to sew so they started to make things for themselves, too. Back then you had to do it. It wasn't a matter of wanting to, you had to do it."

An enviable display of healthy and beautiful African violets dominates an entire wall in Mrs. Dobson's dining room, where she provides extra fluorescent lighting for their growth. Almost all have blooms of various shades. Outside, her garden is abundant with Impatiens, geraniums and a number of other colorful arrangements of roses, salvia and cactii. She is especially proud of her lovely hydrangeas which came from her mother's home and are in full bloom. "My hobby is plants and gardening," she exclaims. "Cleble and I both love to work in the garden. We used to love to go fishing, but our health won't let us do that now, so we just do the gardening." An example of Mrs. Dobson's fishing prowess is mounted on the wall in the form of a large-mouth bass which, she says, "I caught about twelve years ago. I used to do quite a bit of fishing and that was caught from the Geneva bridge."

The Dobsons are members of the First Christian Church of the Disciples of Christ and attend church as often as they can. "Cleble's been a member since 1938," says Mrs. Dobson, "and I joined when we started dating." Occasionally, Mrs. Dobson enjoys having lunch with some friends from church and especially a friend she grew up with back in Osteen. Doing what she is doing for as long as she is able is Mrs. Dobson's only wish for the future. "I hope I'll always be able to keep my plants and work in the garden," she says. Once in a while, a lucky visitor is welcome to take home some clippings from the garden, carefully selected by our cook, for a new beginning in another flower bed.

Mrs. Dobson's trips to the supermarket are planned with expedience in mind. "I try to buy what I need for the week so I don't have to run to the store more often, except for bread or milk or something like that," she says. "When we lived in the country, we were taught to keep what we needed so that we didn't have to run to the store every time we fixed a meal. We always bought in large quantities. I remember Daddy always bought a hundred pounds of rice, and sometimes a barrel of flour, and sugar and a lot of canned stuff like corned beef. Things that you fixed often, but didn't want to run to the store for every time you fixed a meal, and I followed it up pretty much."

Following is a sampling of Mrs. Dobson's good old country cooking:

COUNTRY PORK AND RICE
4 pounds pork back bones
1 teaspoon salt
1/2 teaspoon pepper
Boil pork in 2 quarts water with salt and pepper. Cool and debone pork. Add 2 cups rice to 4 1/2 cups of the broth. Boil rice down and steam for 20 minutes. Serves 6 to 8.

CHICKEN AND DUMPLINGS
1 large hen
1/2 teaspoon salt
1/2 teaspoon pepper
Boil chicken in 2 quarts water until tender. Cool and debone chicken and return to broth.

Dumplings:
2 cups self-rising flour
1 tablespoon Crisco shortening
1/2 cup milk
Place flour in bowl. Add shortening and milk to center of flour and stir. Add water as needed to make dough form a ball.

Sprinkle 1 cup flour onto paper bag or, using a well-floured dough sheet, knead dough several times. Roll out thin. Cut into 2-inch squares. Add dumplings to boiling chicken and broth, stirring for 1 to 2 minutes. Serves 6.

ZUCCHINI SQUASH CASSE ROLE
5 medium squash, washed and cut into small pieces

1/2 cup cracker crumbs
2 eggs
1/2 cup shredded cheese
1/2 teaspoon celery salt
1 stick margarine
1 small onion, chopped
1/2 cup Prestige stuffing mix
Cook squash until tender. Drain. Melt margarine in 9x13-inch baking dish. Mix all ingredients into squash, adding about 1/4 cup milk. Pour into baking dish and bake at 350° for 20 to 30 minutes, or until nicely browned. Serves 6 to 8.

HORCAKE BISCUITS
3 cups self-rising flour
1/4 cup milk
1 teaspoon Crisco shortening
Sift flour into bowl. Add Crisco and milk in center and stir until sticky and dough forms a ball. Knead until dough ball is smooth. Pinch off a good size piece of dough and flatten out. Drop into 1/4 inch of hot fat in iron skillet. Will brown quickly. Turn over to brown other side. Repeat with rest of dough.

Japanese Surimi Fills In For The Real Thing

Cajun cooking often utilizes fresh fish and shellfish from the lower Mississippi bayous. Seafood cakes, especially those made with crab, are favorites along the Eastern and Gulf shores.

No matter where you live, you can make zesty Cajun crab cakes and rich crab bisque inexpensively with surimi-based shellfish. The Japanese pioneered surimi (a processed-fish product), and a West Coast company introduced it to the United States 10 years ago.

CAJUN SEAFOOD CAKES
2 eggs, slightly beaten
1/2 cup mayonnaise
12 ounces Sea Legs salad-style crabmeat
2 green onions, minced
1/4 cup flour
Salt and cayenne pepper to taste vegetable oil for browning
Lemon Dill Sauce (recipe follows)

In a bowl, mix eggs, mayonnaise, crabmeat and green onions. In another bowl, mix flour, salt and cayenne pepper, then sprinkle over crabmeat mixture; stir. Make 12 three-inch patties and refrigerate 1 1/2 hours. Brown in hot oil, about 2 minutes each side. This kitchen-tested recipe makes 4 appetizer servings, or 2 main-course servings. Serve with Lemon Dill Sauce.

Lemon Dill Sauce:
1 tablespoon tomato paste
1/2 teaspoon dill weed
Dash Tabasco pepper sauce
Salt and pepper to taste

1-2-3 CAKE
2 sticks butter or margarine
2 cups sugar
3 cups self-rising flour
1 1/2 teaspoons baking powder
4 eggs
1 cup milk
1 teaspoon vanilla extract
Nuts and raisins
Cream butter, sugar and eggs. Add milk, mixing well. Add vanilla. Sift flour into mixture and blend well. Pour into 2 layer cake pans, greased and floured, or a prepared tube pan. One cup of nuts and/or raisins may be added if using tube pan. Bake at 350° for 35 to 40 minutes for layers, and 45 minutes to 1 hour for tube pan.

BLUEBERRY COBBLER
1 cup sugar
1 cup self-rising flour
1 stick margarine
1 cup milk
2 cans Comstock blueberry pie filling
Melt margarine in 9x13-inch baking dish. Mix together sugar, flour and milk. Pour into dish. Add berries over top and blend 2 or 3 times with spoon. Bake at 350° for 30 to 40 minutes.

5 tablespoons lemon juice
1/2 cup olive oil
Mix all ingredients except olive oil. Slowly whisk in olive oil. This kitchen-tested recipe makes 4 appetizer servings, or 2 main-course servings.

SEA LEGS SEAFOOD BISQUE
2 tablespoons vegetable oil
3 stalks celery, chopped
1 red pepper, chopped
2 carrots, chopped
3 shallots, chopped
1/4 cup sherry or apple juice
1 16-ounce bottle clam juice
1 16-ounce can crushed tomatoes
1 bay leaf
1/2 teaspoon marjoram
1/2 cup heavy cream
12 ounces Sea Legs salad-style crabmeat
Salt and pepper to taste
1 sheet frozen puff pastry, thawed
1 egg, slightly beaten
Saute celery, red pepper, carrots and shallots in oil for 4 minutes. Add sherry, clam juice, tomato and herbs; simmer 15 minutes. Remove bay leaf from soup. Puree soup in blender until smooth; return to pot. Add cream, crabmeat, and salt and pepper; simmer 10 minutes until slightly thickened.

Four bisque into oven-proof terrine or bowl. Roll out puff pastry to cover bowl. Brush edges with egg, and seal dough around edges of bowl. Bake at 425 degrees for 15 minutes.

Serve immediately, topping each serving with pastry pieces.

He Who Teases Wife Just May be A Spouse Abuser

Dear Abby

DEAR ABBY: My husband loves to tease me. He has two favorites he uses all the time. I know he's teasing, and he assures me that everyone else knows he's teasing, but I still feel uncomfortable when he repeats these old "standards." Furthermore, I dislike the implications in his statements.

He often says, "I'd like to die in bed getting shot by a jealous husband." And if another man pays too much attention to me, he'll ask him, "Are you trying to steal my wife, you horse thief?"

Everyone laughs, and I always smile and try to act amused, even though one of his little jokes assumes sexual activity in another woman's bed, and other calls me a "horse."

I've asked him to please stop teasing me that way, but he keeps it up. Should I continue to smile and act like I don't care? Or can you give me a snappy retort I can use to retaliate?

HURT IN HOPATCONG, N.J.

DEAR HURT: Forget the "snappy retort," and don't smile and act amused when he tries to get a laugh at your expense.

When he's in a good mood, and you have plenty of time and his full attention, tell him that he hurts you deeply when he repeats these tasteless putdowns. And unless he retires those tired old jokes, you will know that he is deliberately abusing you.

DEAR ABBY: Today it happened again: The phone rang just as I put my key in the door. You might have been calling to buy something I had advertised in the paper, or you needed my husband to unclog your drain, or perhaps you wanted to hire my son's band for a party you're having next week and you're as desperate as he is. Whatever the reason, you didn't wait for my answering machine to finish its message, and by the time I picked up the phone, you had already hung up. Perhaps it was your loss, perhaps it was mine. But remember, you called me!

Even if you don't leave a message, there may be someone on the other end. If you do leave a message, I promise to get back to you as soon as possible. Please don't just hang up when you hear a recorded message. It's so very frustrating!

MISSING CALLS

DEAR MISSING: I appreciate your frustration, but please understand that some people are intimidated by "machines." Don't sweat it. If it was important, they'll call back.

DEAR ABBY: I am illegitimate. I have known this all my life, but it has taken me 40 years to say it aloud. I grew up in a small town where everyone had two parents but me. I always felt inferior and wondered why I was so different and "incomplete." I used to ask my mother why I had no father, but she never answered me. She would become hysterical, so I never found out.

I am now in the process of getting my head together and need some answers. Do I have the right to ask my mother once and for all to tell me who my words. Should I quit wearing that brand around him, or just stay away and tell him why. If I am asked? Nobody else has ever complained about my perfume.

HURT AND INSULTED

DEAR HURT: Perhaps your father-in-law has an allergy to that fragrance. It's also a possibility that you use more than you should. Try another brand. Don't be hurt. He may have done you a favor.

DEAR READERS: Do you have a friend or relative who is anxiously waiting for some tests to come back from his/her physician? (Or maybe you are.) If so, I'd like to share a little prayer with you — written by my friend, Rabbi Bernard Raaskas, Temple Aaron, St. Paul, Minn.:

PATIENCE

God, please give me patience. The doctors do not yet know what is causing my distress. They are making many tests. Over and again, they have taken samples of my blood. They have probed me, listened to my heart, X-rayed me, injected me. And I wait — and wait — and wait! It is very hard to wait hours, even days, for results. I am anxious and sometimes frightened. But, the laboratory technicians and the doctors cannot hurry the process. Every test must be carefully done and evaluated. Why look for the worst and not consider the best? Oh, Lord, please help me to stop worrying — that I may use this time for reflection and to count my blessings.

father was and something about him, even if it upsets her? I need to know in order to become completely healed.

IN THERAPY IN IOWA

DEAR IN THERAPY: Now that you are in therapy, you surely are aware that your mother has not been "healed" — and may never be, unless she chooses to get professional help as you did. Her hysterical reaction to your demanding to know who your father was is evidence that the mere mention of his name is painful to her. Discuss this with your therapist. Even though you have the "right" to know, please be patient with your mother, who unfortunately is still unable to deal with a very tragic part of her life.

DEAR ABBY: I need a family matter settled fast. Yesterday I went to my in-laws wearing a fairly expensive brand of perfume. I might add, I have worn it over these several times in the past. I do not overdo it. I just spray enough on to give off a nice fragrance.

My father-in-law walked up to me and said, "Please do me a small favor and change your brand of perfume; I had to go outside to keep from choking."

Chilled soup, richly flavored with curry, is wonderful in summer. Saute onion, garlic and apple in butter and curry, then simmer with chicken broth, a large baking potato, a slice of ginger and salt and pepper. Puree. Serve with yogurt swirled through.
Keep your microwave oven clean; it cooks faster that way. Wipe up spatters while the oven is still moist and steamy.

1/2 cup chopped green onions
2 tablespoons fresh chopped parsley
1/4 teaspoon dry mustard
1/4 teaspoon pepper
Crust:
Chop bread into fine crumbs using a food processor or blender. Blend in margarine. Add enough water to form moist dough. Press dough into pie plate to form crust. Microwave on 100% power 1 1/2-2 1/2 minutes, or until sides appear dry. Set aside.

Filling:
Place mushrooms in 1 quart casserole. Microwave on 100% power 4-6 minutes. Stir once during this time. Drain well. Sprinkle in the crumb shell, blend eggs and remaining ingredients in 1 quart casserole. Reduce power to 50%. Microwave 1 minute. Stir. Microwave 1-2 minutes, or until hot but not set, stirring every 30 seconds. Pour egg mixture over mushrooms. Reduce power to 30% (LOW). microwave 7-14 minutes, or until soft set. Let stand 5-8 minutes.

Stuffed mushrooms never last long. This hot hors d'oeuvre is a favorite that can be prepared and refrigerated until you're ready to serve. Be sure to allow space between them on the platter and arrange them in a circular pattern for even micro-cooking.

STUFFED MUSHROOMS
1 pound large fresh mushrooms
1/4 stick butter or margarine
1 clove garlic, minced
1/4 cup onion, finely chopped
1 tablespoon parsley, finely chopped
1/4 pound lean ground beef
1 teaspoon Kitchen Bouquet
1/2 teaspoon salt
1/4 cup cream
1/2 cup seasoned bread crumbs
Wash mushrooms, dry and remove stems. Chop stems finely. Melt butter in a 4-cup glass measure (45 seconds). Stir in garlic, onion, parsley, and chopped mushroom stems. Microwave on 100% power 2 minutes. Place beef in a small glass casserole and microwave on 100% power for 3-4 minutes. Stir to break up the chunks. Drain fat from beef, drain butter from the mushroom mixture. Stir beef, onion, mixture. Kitchen Bouquet, salt, sour cream, and bread crumbs together. If more moisture is needed to hold the stuffing together, add more sour cream until the proper consistency is reached. Fill each cap with the meat mixture. Place 12 on a plate in a circular arrangement. Microwave on 80% power for 4-5 minutes or until hot. Repeat with remaining mushrooms.

MR. SILLY HAD A BAD EXPERIENCE AT THE SERVICE STATION THIS MORNING

THE PERSON PUMPING GAS DIDN'T CHECK THE OIL, DIDN'T CLEAN THE WINDSHIELD...

LET THE GAS OVERFLOW AND THEN LOST THE GAS CAP!

THE WORST PART WAS, THE STATION WAS SELF-SERVE!

OH POOR MR. SILLY!

White Or Yellow Gold, Each Causes Problems

DEAR DR. GOTT — I can wear white gold with no problem, but yellow gold turns my fingers black. What in my body chemistry causes this?

DEAR READER — I don't know. Usually the reverse is true, because white gold contains a higher concentration of other metals, such as nickel. Other readers have written me about similar problems with gold. I would appreciate hearing from anyone who can solve this mystery.

DEAR DR. GOTT — I am worried about my sister. She's overweight and has borderline diabetes, gallbladder problems and intermittent high blood pressure. During the last year she's been popping blood vessels in her eyes. They look horrible and cause her pain. Her doctors aren't concerned, but I am.

DEAR READER — So am I. Obesity, diabetes and hypertension often go together. These diseases are a bad combination because they accelerate arteriosclerosis and vascular damage.

Your sister should find a doctor who is concerned about her problems and will help her do something about them. Losing weight would be an appropriate beginning.

To give you and your sister more information, I'm sending you a free copy of my Health Report, CHOOSING A PHYSICIAN: MAKE A DECISION FOR GOOD HEALTH. Other readers who want a copy should send $1 and their name and address to P.O. Box 91428, Cleveland, OH 44101-3428. Be sure to mention the title.

DEAR DR. GOTT — Do you consider the basal temperature test valid for initial diagnosis of low thyroid?

DEAR READER — If taken properly, the basal temperature will be low in patients with hypothyroidism. However, it is a cumbersome method that most people find too difficult to follow precisely.

Blood tests for thyroid disease are quicker and more accurate. By ordering a T4 test, your doctor can tell you with certainty, in a couple of days, if your thyroid gland is underactive. In addition, the basal temperature can be lower than normal in patients with metabolic diseases that are not related to the thyroid. Therefore, even if you take your temperature in the recommended way, you still won't know exactly what the problem is.

In my opinion, blood tests are the way to go. Basal temperatures are best used by women who need to know the time of ovulation so that they can become pregnant.

WIN AT BRIDGE

By James Jacoby

How do you like your chances if you get to six hearts? All you need is both black-suit finesses to work. And even when the club finesses works, East might hold four clubs to the Q-10-7-3, as today's East does. So it's not a very good slam. But the opening lead of the diamond king was fortunate, since it meant that West also held the diamond queen. If the declarer got lucky in the club suit, he could make the contract by means of an elimination play even if West held the spade king. Here was his plan.

He would play his club ace and draw trumps ending in the dummy. Then he would take the club finesse. If that won the trick with West following, he would continue clubs until both defenders were exhausted of that suit. Then he would exit with a diamond. West would win the queen and be forced to lead a spade for declarer. That was a good plan, but it was thwarted when it turned out that East had an eventual club trick even though the queen was onside. But there was still a way.

After West had shown out of clubs on the finesse to the jack, declarer returned to dummy with a trump and played a spade. East played low and so did declarer. Declarer played a spade back to his ace and now played his diamond jack. West had to win the queen, and anything he now returned allowed declarer to discard a losing club in one hand while ruffing in the other. The deal was overbid, but well played.

HOROSCOPE

What The Day Will Bring...

YOUR BIRTHDAY JULY 23, 1987

Things will be perking up for you in your chosen field of endeavor in the year ahead. Seeds which you took great pains in sowing will be harvested in this cycle.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22) It may take you a little time to hit your stride today, but once you get on a roll, you'll get quite a bit done. Don't let early obstacles discourage you. Major changes are ahead for Leos in the coming year. Send for your Astro-Graph predictions today. Mail $1 to Astro-Graph, c/o this newspaper, P.O. Box 91428, Cleveland, OH 44101-3428. Be sure to state your zodiac sign.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22) You may become involved for the first time today with someone who has been getting a bad rap from others. You'll discover for yourself that this person doesn't deserve it.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 23) Use rejection in career situations as your signal to double your efforts. Objectives can be achieved today if you are not faint of heart.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24-Nov. 22) Guard against tendencies today to anticipate negative conditions where they do not exist. It would be a shame to dilute your opportunities by your own thinking.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23-Dec. 21) Avoid involvements today where others trade on your assets while making no real contributions on their own behalf. Equity is essential.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19) Today, you may find yourself in an arrangement that requires you to function in a managerial capacity. If so, be decisive regarding the actions you take.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 19) You may feel you need assistance today, and perhaps some would be helpful. However, in reality, that which needs doing can easily be done on your own.

PISCES (Feb. 20-March 20) Someone who likes to gossip may have some juicy, unfounded comments to make about a friend of yours today. Cut this person down with the facts before any damage is done.

ARIES (March 21-April 19) Most of what you hope to accomplish can be achieved today, provided you're not afraid to make a few mistakes in the process. Proceed boldly.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20) Don't be hesitant to tell an associate what's been peeving you lately. If you get things out in the open, it will clear the air and you'll be able to work better together.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20) A delicate commercial matter must be handled cautiously today. If you don't jump at what is first offered, you will end up making a better deal.

CANCER (June 21-July 22) In a situation where a team effort is required today, don't leave everything up to your mate. The more hands pulling together, the lighter the work.

DEPEND ON US!

We're here to help. Whether having your prescriptions filled accurately or looking for advice on over-the-counter medicines, your pharmacist is qualified to assist you. He will help you keep track of all your prescriptions through our Computerized Prescription Records. Our computerized records are available for tax purposes and you can fill a previous prescription without a bottle or receipt. Ask, and we'll be glad to give you the facts on the quality generic drugs available. Call or come in for all your health needs.
