HAUSER IS ON BOARD TANKER AFTER RESCUE

Fiber Exhausted From Exposure And Hunger As Result Of Drifting Many Days

S. S. CIRCLE SHELL, 600 MILES OFF PORTUGAL, JUNE 13.—(A.P.)—This small British tanker was enroute last night to New Orleans with Stanislaus Felix Hauser, young New York to Warsaw filer, aboard after picking him up Saturday in an exhausted condition.

Captain Wilson of the Circle Shell said his unexpected passenger was too ill, apparently from exposure and starvation, to give a coherent account of his experiences.

Captain Wilson, however, allayed any fears that Hauser was in critical condition, with the statement that with treatment he was progressing favorably.

The Circle Shell, three weeks out of Hamburg on a trip to New Orleans, decided last night to abandon Hauser's red monoplane in approximately 62.41.18 north latitude and 59.04 west longitude because darkness soon closed in after the pilot had been taken aboard.

The plane was drifting southward at about a knot an hour and any vessel whose position was known, was asked to salvage him. When last seen his tail was showing high out of the waves, about 100 miles off the coast of Portugal.

Through the master the Polish-American firm thanked the Associated Press for its message of congratulations on the rescue and thought the organization asked to disseminate the information.

The latest, showing account of the rescue of Stanislaus Felix Hauser by the British tanker Circle Shell left much to the imagination Sunday night. 24 hours after the first word of his safety was passed out by the radio operator aboard the vessel.

It was reported, however, that Hauser had undergone trying ordeals during the six or seven days he drifted aboard his 230-horsepower, Italian, monoplane. The statement of Captain Wilson, of the Circle Shell, that Hauser was unable to give a coherent account of his flight against the sun made it apparent the 21-year-old New York, N. Y., motion picture operator and amateur pilot had been tossed by his wife's and to remain aboard his plane.

The forecast he showed in taking more than the usual supply of food when he lifted the plane, loaded with 600 gallons of gasoline and 25 gallons of oil from the runway of Floyd Bennett field six days ago probably saved the pilot from even more trying experiences.

National Flag Day Will Be Observed

Tuesday, National Flag Day, will be observed by the United Spanish-American War Veterans Association of Sanford engaged in a flag sale on downtown streets, according to Mrs. E. C. Shearer, secretary of the auxiliary.

They will be raising money to purchase the flag to be presented to the veterans by the Auxiliary. All funds realized from the sale of the flags will be used in relief and patriotic work by the local Auxiliary.

Mrs. Shearer declared that the Auxiliary will be duplicated throughout Florida by members of the Auxiliary, and that in speaking out words of its annual meeting, membership of any Auxiliary which serves to make American citizens of their own.

LEADER TO MEET

Members of Campbell-Lanning Club of the American Legion are scheduled by Post Commander W. H. Shearer that there will be a meeting of the Post at the Legion building at 6:30 o'clock. National officers will be present and will be discussed by the Post and the Auxiliary. Mr. Shearer is expected for a large attendance.

Texas Growers Will Intervene On Rates

WASHINGTON, June 13.—(A.P.)—Four Texas fruit growers associations today were authorized by the Interstate Commerce Commission to intervene in the application of the Growers and Shippers League of Florida for a revision of citrus fruit rates. The Lower Rio Grande Valley Shippers Association, the McAllen Citrus Association, the Rio Grande Valley Citrus Growers Association, and the Texas Citrus Growers Association told the commission they felt they had an interest in any action affecting fruit rates and asked permission to intervene. They did not take a stand in the petition.

SPRING TERM OF CIRCUIT COURT IS RESUMED TODAY

Three Murder Cases Slated For Trial Before Judge Smith

Interrupted for one week in order to give various attorneys time to properly prepare their cases, Spring term of Judge Millard B. Smith's circuit court was resumed this morning at 9:30 o'clock when the case of Rudolph Sawyer alias Howard Williams, charged with uttering a forged instrument, was called for trial and prosecution by State's Attorney Lloyd F. Boye.

The trial continued until about noon, when a jury composed of Euben Marier, W. D. Stine, Joe Silver, H. E. Russell, O. Burnett, and W. L. Stuedemann, found the negro not guilty of the charge placed against him.

The afternoon, Attorney Boye presented the case of Joe Knight, charged with breaking and entering the J. C. Kell, alias at Orlando with intent to commit a felony. This breaking and entering charge culminated the robbery of the Kell place on Dec. 19, 1931, and Knight has been in jail since his arrest shortly after.

The Knight case was to have been concluded late this afternoon, after which Attorney Boye will present for trial nine other cases, three of them for murder, and two for assault with intent to commit murder.

Two cases were to follow the Knight case if it was completed early this afternoon. One is against Raymond Perkins, charged with breaking and entering city property and taking away a Chevrolet cylinder head and other parts of an automobile. Perkins is charged with committing this crime on Apr. 24.

Sholtz Club Will Be Formed Tonight By Local Backers

A "Sholtz-for-Governor" club will be organized tonight at a meeting to be held in the Bell Cafe on First Street at 7:00 o'clock, according to several local backers of Mr. Sholtz's candidacy.

It will be addressed by a Dayton speaker who has been appointed on the state-wide "Sholtz-for-Governor" committee. This speaker will explain the plan of campaign that will be followed all over Florida in an effort to get the Daytonian in the governor's chair, and all persons interested in the movement are invited.

The Bell Cafe has been rented as the permanent headquarters of the Seminole County "Sholtz-for-Governor" club, and within a few days it will become a hot-bed of activity. Tonight's meeting is more of an organization meeting than a first rally, backers declared today before they left for various county towns to line up leading citizens for Mr. Sholtz. They also announced that four Sanford men prominent in civic and political affairs have been approached and asked to head a county committee.

Announcement of the leader will be made tonight.

Mr. Sholtz himself is expected to be in Sanford near the end of next week, it was announced, and local workers hope to have a county organization well laid that his appearance here will be attended by the largest gathering of persons ever to hear a political candidate in this county.

LATEST KIDNAP PROBE FAILS AT SOLUTION

Investigation of Police Handling of Entire Case Assured By State Senator

TRENTON, June 13.—(A.P.)—A bulletin issued by police today indicated the investigation of the kidnaping and murder of the Lindbergh baby again has reached a dead end after the collapse of the police theory that "guilty knowledge" caused the suicide of Violet Sharpe, Morrow servant.

Ernest Brinkert, ex-convict, named by Miss Sharpe before she took poison as her partner on the night of the kidnaping, continued to work on his written statement. His alibi has been corroborated.

Meantime Senator Richards, Republican leader, asserted an investigation of the entire police handling of the kidnaping case was virtually a certainty. "The Lindbergh case has been slaughtered to make a Democratic holiday," he said. Adding that several blunders had been made by the police.

The immediate reaction to the corroborated alibi of Ernest Brinkert and the establishment that another man was Miss Sharpe's companion on the night of the kidnaping was expressed in two questions to Superintendent Schwarkopf, of New Jersey state police.

"In view of Ernest Miller's statement and Brinkert's alibi, do you still believe Violet Sharpe had guilty knowledge of the crime? Will you publicly exonerate her?" he was asked.

"This is a matter of opinion," Miller, located at the investigation of Miss Sharpe's loyal friend, Septimus Banks, the Morrow butler, gave a convincing account of an ex-convict's trip on the night of the crime with the servant woman.

The police statement was further emphasized in their response to another question.

"Are you now looking for any definite person or persons in connection with the crime?" Schwarkopf was asked.

"Still looking for John," answered the superintendent.

"John" was the name by which Dr. John F. Condon, aged intermediary, knew the man to whom he paid a $100,000 ransom for the Lindbergh baby's return.

The remainder of official answers to questions during the day served to reflect the puzzling situation developed by the collapse of the latest police inquiry. Brinkert still was detained "of his volition" on the bare chance his examination still might furnish useful information.

In addition Miller was described officially as "still under investigation" although he was permitted to return to his Closter, N. J., home after being questioned Saturday.

Papworth Elected Vice-President Of Committee Of 50

H. M. Papworth, president of the Seminole County Chamber of Commerce, was elected as vice-president of the Committee of Fifty of the Florida Citrus Growers' Clearing House Association at the annual election meeting held in Cocoa Friday.

S. F. Haines, of Altamonte Springs, was also added to the Executive Committee of the Committee.

The Committee of Fifty is now headed by Norman H. Vissering, of Hudson Park, who was elected chairman. It is composed of members chosen by the growers in the seven districts of the state, and it is the contact point between the growers and the Clearing House, and is the advisory committee to the board of directors.

During the meeting there developed an overwhelming sentiment against the use of arsenic in the treatment of green fruit. Some growers voiced the opinion that in the event arsenic is used, that fact should be printed on the box before shipping.

CLEAN-UP DRIVE TO BE STRESSED DURING SUMMER

Trade Body Sponsoring Campaign To Aid During Dull Months

The newest endeavor of the Seminole County Chamber of Commerce gets under way Wednesday morning in the form of a "Better Summer" Campaign in which the importance of painting, repairing, remodeling and building will be stressed for the next several weeks.

The campaign is inspired mainly by the low cost of materials, paints, and other building supplies, and particularly because of the fact that Sanford labor might be well employed during the summer.

In a preliminary statement issued by trade body heads this morning they said, "There of course, is little or no work being done on the farms and groves of Seminole County during the summer months, and hundreds of men usually employed there at other seasons of the year are idle and their families are in want. These men need work, their families need food and if many who can afford to do even a little painting, repairing, remodeling and building this year will do it this summer, the sum total of all this work will aid materially in relieving the present emergency situation."

"Some men have said, 'I can only afford to do a $50 job or spend a few hundred dollars in such work this summer and there is no need for me to sign up with the Chamber of Commerce campaign for this work, is there?'"

The answer is yes. There is a need because if those who are going to do work will sign up for it, the cumulative effect of this enrollment will cause someone who had not thought about it to realize that this really is the right time to do what he can afford.

"Do you realize," trade body officials concluded, "that if only 100 men could each afford to do only $50 worth of work it would mean $5000 to be spent this summer in Sanford, when men need the employment and when material can be bought cheaper than at any time since the World War?"

During the campaign, the trade body hopes to lead a big hand in securing the co-operation of every home and business house owner in the hopes of inspiring a real clean-up, paint-up spirit in this community.

Card Index System Is Adopted In Distribution Of Red Cross Flour

With the bi-monthly distribution of free government flour by local Red Cross officials becoming more and more a complex problem, the installation of a modern card index system of record and identification has been found a vital asset, according to Mrs. Linton E. Allen, who with Mrs. S. O. Chase, Jr., has taken an active part in this relief work for Sanford's needy.

Last Saturday morning, 446 persons living in this county were given flour that is expected to last them until the next distribution, Saturday, June 25. Since the first announcement of the distribution was made, between 700 and 800 requests have reached Red Cross headquarters that flour be distributed. However, not every request has yet been completed with for thorough investigation is made of every case before the flour is given out.

Mrs. Allen today revealed just how each case is handled by means of the card index system in effect. Each card bears the name of the head of the family seeking flour or other assistance; the number of persons in the family; the name of the person reporting the case; the race of the applicant; and has room for the signature of the applicant each time he receives his portion of the flour.

Each case is first investigated by local Red Cross officials, and all requests made at Red Cross headquarters are filed and investigated in the order in which they come in.

Mrs. Allen this morning said that on last Saturday, the usual delegation of county residents who have been co-operating in this connection by carrying flour and vegetables to the needy of the outlying towns, failed to appear.

"We would appreciate it very much if these persons will remember that the next distribution will be made on June 25," Mrs. Allen said, "and that we are depending upon their co-operation in reaching the needy of the towns in which they live."

Mrs. Allen also asked all residents to report to her or any member of the Red Cross, any cases in which persons are known to have received flour under false pretenses. Reports on persons who are in need of flour or vegetables, but who have failed to make a request for obvious reasons, will also be appreciated, Mrs. Allen said.

Considering she appealed to all growers having a surplus of vegetables of any kind that they get in touch with her or Mrs. S. O. Chase, Jr., who will send trucks to the produce at once.

HOUSE VOTES TO CONSIDER BONUS BILL

Vote On Legislation Itself Expected Tomorrow With Senate Still In Path

WASHINGTON, June 13.—(A.P.)—As a motley group of former service men looked down from packed galleries and hundreds more milled the corridors, the House today voted to call up the two billion four hundred million cash bonus payment legislation for formal consideration. The vote for consideration was 226 to 175.

If the House approves the bonus payment on the final vote the legislation must still run the gauntlet of the Senate and White House. What action the Senate will take is problematical but President Hoover has promised a veto. A vote on the legislation itself is expected tomorrow. The vote today was obtained through a petition signed by 140 House members.

Among amendments in the offering is one to pay the veteran's bonus with bonds to be retired by taxes on beer. Legalized beer for tax purposes already has been defeated more than once by the House and Senate.

The veterans, themselves, do not care particularly how the money is raised to fulfill their demands. While cashing of the certificates was their major problem, they had another almost as big. It was rain and lots of it.

Soggy, oozing mud-ankle deep in most places—became their unconquered enemy. The more fortunate minority of the more than 15,000 from all parts of the country huddled together in parked automobiles, crude huts or more permanent shelters.

When these were full, the rest just stood in the rain. "If the simple reason there was nothing else to do.

Slight showers which started in the night became a steady down-pour. Where there had been dust to annoy the 12,000 in the Auxiliary tents receiving camp there was mud. Tents provided from national guard stocks or bought with the veterans' funds were soon sodden, but offered some shelter.

Martin Club To Be Organized At Meeting Tonight

Representative A. O. Kanner, of Martin county, and Claude Ogilvie, Jacksonville attorney, will be in Sanford tonight, assisting in the organization of a "Martin-for-Governor" Club that will be perfected at a meeting at the Court House at 8:00 o'clock.

The meeting has been called by Dr. Ralph E. Stevens and a group of local supporters of Martin, and the general public is invited to attend. Dr. Stevens will call the meeting to order and introduce the speakers of the evening, after which the election of permanent campaign officers will take place.

Representative Kanner, is a son of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Kanner, of this city, and is a member of the Florida legislature. Mr. Ogilvie is a former member of the faculty of Sanford High School, and is the husband of the former Miss Ethel Henry, daughter of the late C. E. Henry and Mrs. Henry, now residing in Jacksonville.

Trade Body Officials To Attend Meeting

When members of the Central Florida Council of Chamber of Commerce Presidents and Secretaries meet at the Biltmore Hotel at Tavara tomorrow morning in regular monthly session, this county will be represented by H. M. Papworth, B. F. Haines, and Karl Lahnman, of the Seminole County Chamber of Commerce, and Webster Haines, of the Altamonte Springs Chamber of Commerce.

Both Mr. Papworth and Mr. Lahnman are on the program to be presented at the breakfast meeting tendered the group by the Lake County Chamber of Commerce.

PISTOL WIELDING NEGRO ARRESTED BY POLICE CHIEF

Robber Who Terrorized City Was Involved In Gun Fights

A group of small negro children swarming about the person of Joe Riggins, 40-year old Sanford negro cornered in a house in Goldboro early this morning by Chief of Police Roy G. Williams and his men, probably spared the life of the man who admits robbing the Stenstrom Grocery and Rines Filling Station last week, firing shots at police, and upon whom may be fixed a number of robberies some of them at least two years old.

Riggins, one of the most daring and desperate criminals the local police force has contended with for several years, now lies in the County Jail. Bullet wounds he received in shotgun battles with police early Thursday and Friday mornings are being treated, and he will be given a speedy trial. Already he is charged with breaking and entering, an attempt to murder, with Chief Williams declaring that before the negro goes to trial, there may be a number of other charges of a similar nature lodged against him.

The arrest of the negro culminated a several days' search that had members of the sheriff's force, railroad police, and even private citizens who had been deputized, in action. He was last seen early Friday morning after he fled into Goldboro after firing one load of buckshot at a policeman standing in the darkness of the Junior High School on Ninth Street. A bloody trail leading from the school indicated that he had been hit by one of the five loads of buckshot that had been shot at him, but he made an apparently clean get-away shortly before 7:00 o'clock Friday morning.

Chief Williams and his men have been on Riggins' trail since that morning, however, and from several clues, including reports from police informers scattered through the negro section, learned that the negro was at the home of his brother-in-law in Goldboro. Shortly after 8:00 o'clock this morning, Chief Williams and his men approached the Goldboro house where Riggins was reported hiding. The negro was seen sitting on the front porch, several children playing about him. When officers approached he and the children ran into the house, Riggins pulling a .45 automatic from his pocket as he entered the front door.

Realizing that they were dealing with a dangerous man, Chief Williams deployed his men about the house. Chief Williams, ordering the men to close in, stepped on the porch, kicked in the door, and entered the room while at the same time other officers barred windows of the room.

"When I went in, the negro threw the gun on a bed," Chief Williams said, "and surrendered. I believe that if it had not been for the negro children crowding around him that he might have opened fire on us and we on him."

After his arrest and lengthy questioning, the negro admitted that he was the man who had robbed Stenstrom's Grocery both Thursday and Friday mornings and that he had been in both pistol and shotgun battles with police on these mornings. His left elbow had been pierced by a bullet that he said he got in the Thursday morning encounter near the Eckerson canning plant, while his arms and legs were pierced with small holes where buckshot from officers' guns had struck.

Nomination Of Hoover Takes Side Seat For One Great Issue Of Dry Law Platform

CHICAGO, June 13.—(A.P.)—A swiftly rising whirlpool of Republican disension over prohibition completely engulfed the chosen representatives of the party today on the eve of their national convention.

To the general and rear rank private alike what to do about the dry law became the one big question. They are ready to renounce President Hoover and sentiment is turning defiantly to Vice President Curtis for the running mate.

All the lesser disputes over platform and procedure seemed headed for a harmonious decision but no one any longer expected harmony on prohibition. The prediction of a plank "acceptable to all of us" has gone up in the smoke of the most furious platform battle any Republican convention has seen since the League of Nations row in 1920. It will be Wednesday before any sort of plank comes out of the committee.

Tomorrow's opening session will be short and devoted to the first formalities and the keynote of Senator Dickinson, Iowa, Wednesday will see nominations completed. If all goes smoothly, and the final adjournment.

The closer comes the time for the Republicans to convene, the more decided is the expectation among the delegates that a knock-down, drag-out combat over prohibition is ahead.

That and relatively little else was the topic yesterday while key men of the party secluded themselves in an attempt to formulate a harmony program. True, there still was speculation on shelving Vice President Curtis; but the odds for his being renominated along with President Hoover still favored him by far.

Between now and the opening pound of the gavel on Tuesday, these two ascendant perplexities are due for much more mulling over. In the lobbies and hotel rooms one hears both that Curtis is needed on the ticket as a lure to hold the drys if the platform proposes recommitment, and that he should be replaced by a wet to counteract the Hoover reputation among the drys as their friend.

It may be, in fact Representative E. M. of New York predicted yesterday that a common ground will be found to end the dry-wet dispute by the time Wednesday brings the platform before the convention. But the signs are definitely to the contrary.

The man who more than any other might be able to give an inkling of what's in store here is not yesterday. He is James H. Garfield, chairman-to-be of the resolutions committee. He sought seclusion and quiet conferences with strong men of the party, soon after getting in yesterday morning.

TREASURY BALANCE DROPS

TALLAHASSEE, June 13.—(A.P.)—Florida's state treasury balance decreased more than $100,000 in May. The balance on May 31 was $4,415,531. Comptroller Amos reported today, compared with $4,571,572 on April 30. May receipts amounted to $2,281,200 and disbursements $2,190,000.

Spurling Property Sold By Colclough

J. M. Colclough, of the Colclough Realty Co., has reported the sale of the Spurling property on Melville Avenue to L. I. Frazier, Sanford grower who is also the operator of a large celery wash house on the East Side.

This property comprises eleven acres of land a portion of which is set out in oranges, and one of the largest private homes in the city. It is one of several real estate transactions reported by Mr. Colclough during the past few weeks.

MONDAY, JUNE 12, 1933

It doesn't take a mathematician to multiply trouble.

We gather from some folks that it isn't crime that's objected to so much; it's crime news.

And then there was the woman who went in a "Pick the Winner" ballot two days after the election.

John D. Rockefeller has come out against prohibition. Well, it's an old saying that oil and water don't mix.

The primary took care of the politicians just in time to give the mosquitoes a chance to do some buzzing around.

The candidates who really deserve sympathy are the ones who get into the second primary and are then defeated.

Another way to get rid of the bonus army is to make them raise the money with which to pay off the bonus certificates.

A good many newspapers during the past few days have been asking the question, "Who is this man Sholtz?" See most any voter, he can tell you.

A South American newspaper declares that things are so bad "you" there that they are now offering three birds in the bush for one in the hand.

"Our Dave" is going to need a much longer band wagon almost immediately to provide seats for the thousands who are already trying to climb on. Ocala Star. Dave is going to need all the voters on his bandwagon that he can get.

The most powerful appeal for votes during the recent campaign is quoted by the Ocala Star as follows: A local candidate has about the most pertinent appeal to voters we have heard. "When you go to the polls to cast your ballot" he says, "nobody knows how you vote except God and yourself, and God knows I need your vote."

They say that with the rising cost of transportation and particularly gasoline taxes, the horse is coming back. There are fifty-five thousand horses daily plodding the streets of New York City, and no telling how many in use in other parts of the country. We breathelessly await the enactment of a tax on oats just as soon as Congress finds this out.

The defeat of Mrs. Ruth Bryan Owen in her race for re-election to Congress is a pity, but we must admire her courage in announcing that she will not serve in the "lame duck" session after advocating its abolishment. As has been remarked, "consistency is a jewel," and a rare one at that. - St. Petersburg Independent. A prophet is not without honor save in her own district.

Ballot markers of last Tuesday recall a strange name at the top of a long list of candidates. His was Chassee, an L. J. Chassee. We doubt if anyone in this county had ever heard of him before. Yet he received 25 votes for president of the United States. It is to laugh! Mr. Chassee is a school teacher who lives in Milwaukee, Wis. He had one claim to notoriety; he is the champion of the athletic games in America.

A little while ago we printed some lines showing the queer words one comes across while "wording" around the dictionary. Apropos, a lady in Florida made us the following brief exercise in unusual English. Some of our readers may enjoy translating it into the vernacular:
"No abrogated his pleased with an incumbent of said the abrogation of his pleasure, and was recommended to enjoy it as he pleased."
- Boston Herald.

The Republican Convention

Outstanding in the newspaper headlines of this week will be the Republican convention in Chicago where delegates from all over the country will gather and go through the rather drab process of selecting a nominee for the presidency, for the vice presidency, and deciding what may not prove quite so drab, the Republican position with regard to prohibition.

At the present writing the Chicago show seems to be a three ring circus with Herbert Hoover in the role of a star in each ring. Practically every delegate to the convention has been pledged to President Hoover or instructed for him, while leaders from all factions are praising his every act and commending his leadership. It seems likely not only that Hoover will be nominated on the first ballot, but also that he will control the vice presidential nominee and dictate the platform.

As to who this vice presidential nominee will be there appears to be some doubt. Rumor has it that the President favors the re-nomination of Vice President Curtis. If the rumor is true, there is every probability that Curtis will be the man. However, the Republicans are blest with other men equally as available, and equally as powerful as vote-pullers. Such men as Gen. Dawes, Col. Roosevelt or Patrick Hurley could do the Republican ticket no harm.

With the vice presidency settled, there seems to be but one obstacle to the perfect harmony and accord which is likely to characterize the Republican convention. That is the subject of prohibition. It is a well known fact that President Hoover is a pronounced dry, and it is said that he disapproves any plank of moisture in the Republican platform. It is also probable that he will get his wish in the matter whatever that wish may be.

It would seem advisable, however, not only for the best interests of the Republican party but also for the country as a whole if the Chicago convention adopts a resubmission plank. It goes without saying that regardless of what the Republicans may do, the Democratic party will take some stand against prohibition. If the issue is to be kept free from the passions and prejudices of a presidential campaign, as it properly should be, the Republicans also must agree at least to a referendum.

All in all the Republican convention appears to be as peaceful a gathering as the regular Friday meeting of the Old Ladies Sewing Circle with all of its activities foregone conclusions. When the Democratic party meets later in the month, then we may expect the sparks to fly, the brilliance of whose illumination may be seen on the horizon even from this far distance.

The Fists And The Brain

Jack Sharkey's fists are covered with knots and bumps caused by the hard hammering of many fights. Otherwise Mr. Sharkey shows no signs of his pugilistic engagements. His face is not scarred, his ears are not cauliflowered, and his physique is in perfect trim.

Unfortunately the fighter who has hands that are weak, that will break or get out of joint with a right hand smash or a left hook to the jaw, "Brittle" is the word used in the jargon of the prize ring. The fist is the spearhead of a fighter's attack. His footwork may be good, his wind perfect, his timing and his technique of hitting and defense may be of the highest order, but let his fists give out and all the rest goes to naught. It is like an army that runs out of ammunition, like an airplane that breaks a propeller.

What the fist is to the fighter, the brain is to the average person. Like the hands which get knots and bumps from pounding, the brain also gets knots and bumps from use. But unlike the knobby and bumpy hands, a brain with knots and bumps is an asset. The more we use it the more efficient it becomes.

One doesn't have to worry about injuring the brain from exercising it, and the trials of a prize fighter in protecting his hands should never restrain a person from giving his brain a workout.

SANFORD, TWENTY YEARS AGO

A very quiet wedding and one that was quite a surprise to their many friends was that of Eva Allen and Luther Sharkey which took place Wednesday evening, May 16, at 8:00 o'clock. The bride is the oldest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. T. Allen. The groom is a popular young man of Matthews, N. C. The following Sunday they left on their bridal tour which took them to North Carolina, Chicago, Ill., Kansas, Colorado, Texas, California and a number of other points of interest in the United States and Canada. Mr. and Mrs. Sharkey expect to make their home in Lakeland after Sept. 1.

The Orlando boys came down Wednesday with the intention of winning another game and strange to relate they did just that thing and won it after Sanford had said game gagged and tied to the post.

Ernest Amos Will Make Campaign To Retain His Office

TALLAHASSEE, Fla., June 13. - Ernest Amos candidate for re-election as state comptroller gave the following statement today: "First, I want to thank the people of Florida for the confidence they have shown in me in the past and for the vote which they gave me in the first primary.

"I am not only grateful for this additional and active support in the coming primary which I sincerely appreciate.
"Unfortunately conditions have been such as to make it impossible for me to leave the capital to make the usual campaign. I shall in the coming primary get out among the people as often as is consistent with my official duties which for the past four years have claimed the full measure of my time."
"I am confident that the people upon whose reflection over the unprosperous condition of our state."

SHOLTZ SUCCESS CAUSE OF TALK IN ALL FLORIDA

Daytona Beach Candidate Is State's Big Political Sensation

By HERBERT DAVIDSON
Editor News-Journal
DAYTONA BEACH, June 13. - All Florida today is talking about Dave Sholtz. Never before in the history of the state has there been a political sensation to equal the one he has created. He has knocked the props from under the prognosticators. He has upset all the odds.

The Daytona Beach News-Journal was the first newspaper in Florida to endorse Dave Sholtz. In the afternoon of Monday, Sept. 28, he announced his candidacy in his home town newspaper. The next day the News-Journal said editorially: "The Dave Sholtz candidacy will be taken seriously. Dave is a fighter and he is out to win."

Today, the News-Journal is still prophesying that Dave Sholtz will be governor of Florida. It bases its belief, not upon the usual criteria for political forecast, but on what it knows of the man.

Sholtz has surprised many of the people of his home county some of whom are busy now climbing on the band wagon. But there are others he hasn't surprised. The man who operates the lunch car where Dave goes for a western sandwich; the barber who used to shave men in the World building, New York, and is a rare judge of men; his law partner; dozens of his close friends who have had faith in him right along.

And then there is Alice Sholtz, his wife. She knew it all the time, with that combination of self-assurance and intuition that goes with a woman who is a daughter of the American Revolution, the Confederacy and of a proud Alabama family but who knows how to call boys on her farm and likes to do it.

Who is this man Sholtz and how did he get it over? Fifty-five thousand Floridians, including nearly 50 percent of the voters of Daytona Beach, went to the polls Tuesday and put him in to a political situation from which, it is freely predicted, he has only to sit still and hold his breath to become governor of Florida.

Sholtz, of course, had not been unknown in legal and in chamber of commerce and in business circles in the state, especially on the east coast. He was also widely known in judge circles. He is a York and Scottish Rite Mason, belonging to Oriental Commandery No. 9, and Kroy West consistory, a national officer of the Elks, a Rotarian and at least half a dozen other such things.

A president of the state chamber of commerce he put new life into that body, absorbed a sense of the state's potentialities, came to understand its strength and its weakness, learned to love every county and every precinct of it.

But to the people of the state he was not generally known. He introduced himself to them in the space of a pair of fortnight—and they were his.

This almost unheard of accomplishment was the result of two things: personality and message. The Sholtz personality is something to reckon with. It throws opposition. It melts hostility. His handshake alone, confidential, irresistible in technique, but the twinkle in his eye is natural. A short, stout man with a twinkle, but one which dissolves into forceful seriousness or gentle sympathy at a moment's notice.

Sholtz is the type of "lover" which all the world loves. That is to say he is a lover of people; a perfect extrovert. His interest in people, however, is no mere theory. He does not go slumming. He honestly likes common, ordinary folk the way he likes his inevitable cigar. He can discuss literature with his partner, Roger West, a cum laude of Harvard. Or he can lead the singing, in a mellow baritone, at a Rotary club luncheon; or suck oysters out of the shell at a cracker roast.

Take a car and drive along a winding unpared road out to the cool green house on the Halifax where Dave and Alice Sholtz bring up their three small children. Smoke one of Dave's best Tampa cigars and ask him how he put it over.

"Honestly," he will say, "I don't know."
But Alice Sholtz will tell you what she thinks—that is, what she thinks he would want her to say. "It was his message," she will say. "He has told the people of Florida what they have waited a long time to hear, some straight, unvarnished truths about the kind of government they have been putting up with."

But of course, you will know all the time that she really believes it is 90 percent just Dave.
But there is, friends agree, a whole lot to the message theory perhaps even more to the simplicity with which it was put. Sholtz early in his campaign realized that Florida politics had been played almost entirely in two ways. One was by hedging; qualifying every statement until the pith of it was drowned. The other was by vituperative abuse. Sholtz figured that the issues at this time are really very simple issues, for the most part revolving around the obligation of a state to do its utmost, to allow the taxpayer to survive. He went out to the people and talked to them in good, simple, concise English colloquial but never ungrammatical about problems in which they and their wives were interested. He brought political and economic problems home to them, in terms of school book costs, and the relation of taxes to rent, and why it cost so much to own land. He exposed what he calls "political racketeering," a term under which he grouped various forms of governmental extravagance. He told them what he would do about these things in the governor's chair.

Because of what he said, the language he told it in, and the personality of the man, they believed him. Everyone believes him who hears him. Such a thing may not happen again in a hundred years, but it has happened now.

struck him Friday morning. He admitted that he was the man who held up the Rines Filling Station and had been fired at early last week. Chief Williams stated today that there is no doubt but that Riggins is the same man who fired two shots at Mr. Rines the same night that his filling station had been robbed, for bullets found at the Rines station were from a .45 pistol, and the negro was armed with a .45 when captured.

The amazing part of the arrest and story told by the negro came after police searched his Pine Street home. There police found more than two large truck loads of clothing, food, pistols, trinkets, jewelry, parts of safes, automobile accessories, and other articles. Many of these articles were reported stolen as long as two years ago, Chief Williams said, as he expressed confidence that in the arrest of Riggins many of the recent robberies here had at last been solved.

The negro told Chief Williams that he had remained in hiding until late Friday when he made his way out of town to have his wounds treated. He did not say where or by what doctor this had been done. He had been at his brother-in-law's home since yesterday afternoon, it was reported.

Because of what he said, the language he told it in, and the personality of the man, they believed him. Everyone believes him who hears him. Such a thing may not happen again in a hundred years, but it has happened now.

His home folks are certain this quality of making people believe in him more than anything else, will elect Dave Sholtz.

Miss Cameron Wed To Henry Russell

Attracting the interest of a wide circle of friends here was the wedding yesterday afternoon at 4:00 o'clock of Miss Eleanor Cameron, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Joe Cameron, to Henry Russell, son of Mr. and Mrs. H. T. Russell. The ceremony was performed by the Rev. E. D. Brownlee, pastor of the First Presbyterian Church of this city, at the home of the bride's brother-in-law and sister, Mr. and Mrs. Robert Meriwether, Kentucky Avenue, in the presence of the immediate families of the couple.

The bride was attended by her niece, Shirley Nan Cameron, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Perry Cameron, who acted as ring-bearer. She wore a rainbow-colored ruffled organza dress and carried the ring in a cellophane bag. The ceremony took place beneath an improvised arch of asparagus fern from which was suspended a large, white wedding bell. Tall floor baskets of Easter lilies were arranged about the various rooms and quantities of fern were banked against the walls.

Following an afternoon of games and contests, the bride was presented with a number of gifts from the guests. Refreshments were then served by the hostess, assisted by Mrs. C. M. Raburn and Mr. John Lutz.

At the conclusion of the ceremony an informal reception was held, when an ice course and punch were served by Mrs. Robert Meriwether, assisted by Mrs. Perry Cameron, and Miss Ellen Meriwether. The refreshment table was centered with a liced cake decorated with a miniature bride and groom. The table was overlaid with a lace cloth. The couple left after the ceremony for a short wedding trip. On their return they will be at home to their friends at 606 Oak Avenue.

Martin, David Sholtz Preparing To Wage Intensive Campaign

(By The Associated Press) To many candidates the primary of last Tuesday was but a memory—sweet or bitter—and to some of those to whom it was sweet, the fight has just begun.

Former Gov. John W. Martin, of Jacksonville, and David Sholtz, Daytona Beach attorney, prepared for what promises to be one of the warmest gubernatorial campaigns in history for the Democratic nomination, while W. J. Howey, Republican opponent, awaited the outcome, ready to take the winner into another heated contest in November.

The most spectacular race developed from the point of view was for Congress at large, a new post in which John T. Alford, Jr., Jacksonville mayor, and W. J. Sears, former congressman from the Fourth District, were running neck and neck for the lead of a field of five.

Another close race developed in the contest for state comptroller, with Ernest Amos, incumbent, and J. M. Lee, Asim Park legislator fighting out for the lead over Van C. Swearingen of Miami. Amos held a lead of 8,000 to 82,528 over Lee in 1296 precincts and Swearingen leading in 100.

WASHINGTON, June 13. (AP)—Secretary of War Burley said today he is not a candidate for the Republican vice-presidential nomination.

Kay Francis Coming To Milane Tuesday

The old French proverb, "cherchez la femme" (look for the woman), has been powerfully translated into terms of Twentieth Century American life in "Street of Women," which Walter Ross, Jr. has produced as Kay Francis' second starring vehicle based on the successful article based on modern New York by Helen Banks, coming to the Milane Theater Tuesday.

In the dedication of the hundred-story skyscraper which towers equally above the drama and the skyline of the metropolis, Lady Baldwin, its builder, sounds the keynote of the story when she declares: "No man builds alone. Always there is a woman beside him. We all have our dreams but it is given to few men to see their dream realized. To the woman whose deep understanding and sound advice are responsible for whatever success I have attained, responsible for the realized dream, this building—I give my heartfelt thanks."
