Sanford Man Interested In First Successful Effort For Canning Irish Potatoes

Florida, which in recent years has demonstrated the feasibility of canning numerous agricultural products, has added one more to the list with canned Irish potatoes. A factory at Sanford, in the heart of the Florida potato belt, is now turning out 250 cases a day making preparations to increase that output to supply an unmet demand.

Edward J. Trotter, Secretary of the Sanford Chamber of Commerce.

TROTTER RESIGNS AS SECRETARY OF LOCAL CHAMBER

Resignation of Edward J. Trotter, for two and a half years secretary of the Sanford Chamber of Commerce, was announced today by the board of governors. The resignation, tendered several weeks ago, has already taken effect although Mr. Trotter said he would remain in the office for the next 30 days or two weeks getting the affairs in shape to turn over to the organization.

Organization Not To Appoint Successor For Indefinite Time

Mr. Trotter had no announcement to make regarding his future plans but said that if all probability he would continue to reside here since general propositions, which he has under advisement, are with local interests.

Florida, which in recent years has demonstrated the feasibility of canning numerous agricultural products, has added one more to the list with canned Irish potatoes. A factory at Sanford, in the heart of the Florida potato belt, is now turning out 250 cases a day making preparations to increase that output to supply an unmet demand.

Though advocated for some time, no satisfactory method of canning Irish potatoes has been evolved until now. The present effort was the result of 18 months of extensive experimentation by D. W. Tugate, of California.

The Rummel plant is owned and operated by the Southern Potato Products Company, whose president is A. D. Zachary of Sanford, crate manufacturer who mills here and in Palatka. Mr. Tugate is vice president of the company and general manager. The plant was opened April 15. The canning of Irish potatoes by a process that makes them available for numerous table uses offers unlimited possibilities. Mr. Zachary thinks he is becoming interested in Mr. Tugate's efforts more than a year ago, and offered financial backing to carry on the work of preparing a formula for packing the potatoes. Mr. Tugate's subject of the potatoes to all kinds of tests, in an effort to derive a product that would stand the canning process and at the same time preserve all of the natural flavor and food value.

All of the canning process is done by machinery. A special device removes the skins without bruising or oxidizing, which are next moved to a vat for cleaning and bleaching. The potatoes are then shot into a hopper and exhausted for further preservation, proceeding before being placed in the cooler. They are subjected to a steam cooking process and then are packed in cans. The whole process requires about 28 minutes. Ten cans are packed every minute, making 6,000 for a 10-hour day, or 250 cases.

The cost of canning the potatoes is so small that they can be sold at a nominal price. Mr. Zachary said. The cost is greatly reduced by the fact that the potatoes which are so small they have no market value, and therefore have been culled and have been destroyed by the growers. In utilizing the smaller potatoes, the new packing venture not only puts more money in the farmers' pockets but also permits the product to be sold cheaply enough to compete in price with other canned vegetables.

The Rummel plant will be operated between two and three months each year. It is the intention of Mr. Zachary and Mr. Tugate to establish factories in other potato belts so that eventually the canning operations may be carried on throughout the year. A plant in South Carolina is to be constructed shortly and requests for the establishment of factories in North Carolina and Virginia have been received. It was announced.

PARTY HOPES OF DEMOCRATS RECEIVE BOOST

WASHINGTON, May 1.—(INS)—Dreaping Democratic spirits, at low ebb since the great rout in November, had a shot of Spring tonic today.

The announcement that permanent Democratic national headquarters are to be established in the Capital, to function militantly and aggressively 365 days in the year, was greeted with applause and enthusiasm by all factions of the party.

Chairman John J. Raskob made the announcement. In doing so he left the impression that his resignation may not be far distant perhaps when the present deficit is cleared up. It at least, which totalled $1,550,000 last November, has now been reduced to some $800,000 with excellent prospects, he said, that it would be under $500,000 by June 1.

Whether Raskob retires or not, the spearhead of Democratic activity in Washington is to be Joseph Shouse, 57-year-old and Kansas-born, one of the original McAdams men, and long experienced in the game of national politics. Shouse is to give up his business affairs in Kansas City and Missouri and devote all his time to building for the future with Washington as his headquarters, and the whole country for his range.

Democratic fortunes are to be directed by the executive committee, and not the national committee itself. The executive committee is to be kept small, its members including such stalwarts as Franklin D. Roosevelt of New York, Senator Roy Pittman of Nevada, Senator Pat Harrison of Mississippi, ex-Senator Peter G. Gerry of Rhode Island and a few others, with Shouse functioning as its director.

Chairman Raskob will continue to take part in its deliberations but in the rather apparent self-effacement of the millionaire. (Continued On Page Four)

DAVIS DEPICTS JOYOUS STATE OF U. S. LABOR

WASHINGTON, May 1.—(INS)—A day of happiness and rejoicing for American laborers, when the next census has been completed, America will find the industry of the liberal wage. Those employers who stand out against that policy, merely put a spike in the wheel of American prosperity.

Employment this year has so far shown reassuring improvement over the corresponding period of last year. Payroll totals are decidedly improved. Earnings are higher, while unemployment has been reduced.

Business conditions in general are such as to offer some guarantee that labor may continue to enjoy its improved state. Steel, however, the business world, stands in prospect of an unusually active year, while unemployment has been reduced.

Relations between employer and worker are generally harmonious. No big is in sight in industry. The one cloud on the horizon is the continued extension of automatic machinery with a tendency to displace workers for a temporary period. This is not a new thing, but it is being done every day, and the hands of employers as well as by labor and by governmental agencies. The fact is that the Y. M. C. A. is doing its best to help the unemployed, but as results from the introduction of machinery is only temporary, in the long run, employers have to be patient for the business. May Day Demonstrations Throughout World Result In Fights And Uneasiness

By Otto H. Johnson, Staff Correspondent

BERLIN, May 1.—(INS)—A Communist was killed, five persons were seriously injured, and scores were slightly wounded and 300 arrested as the result of five serious and numerous May Day clashes between the police and German Communists. There was shooting on both sides.

An attempt by a mob of 1,000 to storm police headquarters failed. The police dispersed the mob, and by mid-afternoon were complete masters of the situation. More than 13,000 police were on duty here. They patrolled the streets and prevented large assemblages of Reds. It is feared, however, there will be further clashes.

NEW YORK, May 1.—(INS)—New York City is to witness its first May Day parade since 1916 today. Thousands of workers, both pale and pink and fiery red, and representatives of hundreds of labor unions were scheduled to assemble in Union Square at 1 P. M. and start a long march through the principal thoroughfares.

The procession was to be led by a brass band of negro musicians and five striking textile workers from Gasonia, N. C. Thousands of placards and flags bearing the legends "organize the unemployed," "Defend the Soviet Union," "United Front," and "Solidarity" were to be carried. (Continued On Page Four)

SENATE KILLS RESOLUTION OF TOM J. HEFLIN

Declines To Condemn Attack Made On Alabama During Anti-Catholic Discourse

WASHINGTON, May 1.—(INS)—The Senate this afternoon refused to condemn the attack upon Senator J. Thomas Hefflin (D) of Alabama by Brockton, Mass., last month.

Giving Hefflin the vote he demanded for the past week, Republican leaders killed his resolution on a record roll call. Their original intention was to pass the resolution when Hefflin renewed his frequent attack on the Catholic Church and declared that "between Roman Catholicism and Americanism."

The opposition was strengthened, but by the impassioned speech by Senator William E. Borah (R) of Idaho for religious tolerance. Borah said he deplored the attack on Hefflin but as the Senate is to take no action on the resolution, he would not vote against it. The rejected resolution would have declared the Senate "regretted and condemned" the attack, in which a policeman was injured while defending Hefflin. The vote was 41 to 64 for adoption of the resolution, marking the worst defeat ever undergone by Hefflin in 43 Senate sessions. Two Republicans and 12 Democrats supported Hefflin's resolution while 49 Republicans and 20 Democrats voted against him.

The vote follows: For Hefflin: (41) Republicans: (2) Robinson, (1) and Sackett. Democrats: (12) Black, Blaine, Fetter, George, Harris, Hefflin, McCall, Sheppard, Simmons, Thomas, (Oklahoma), Trammell and Tyson. Against Resolution (60). Republicans (49) Allen, Bingham, Blaine, Borah, Brookhart, Burton, Carter, Cozens, Cutting, Deeney, Edge, Fess, Frazier, Glenn, Go, Giddings, Goff, Greene, Hale, Hastings, Hatfield, Herbert, Howell, Johnson, Jones, Keen, Keyes, LaFollette, McMaster, McNary, Metcalf, Moses, Norbeck, Norris, Nye, Odell, Patterson, Phipps, Reed, Shortridge, Smart, Steiwer, Tamm, (Idaho), Townsend, Vandenberg, Walcott, Warren, Waterman and Watson.

Against Hefflin: Democrats (23): Ashurst, Barkley, Bratton, Broussard, Caraway, Connolly, Bill, Harrison, Harless, Hayden, King, Pittman, Rowland, Tamm, (Arkansas), Stock, Tydings, Wagner, Walsh (Mass.), Walsh (Montana), and Wheeler.

Controversy Over Immigration Laws Flares Forth Anew

WASHINGTON, May 1.—The year-old controversy over the immigration law, which was proposed a split between President Hoover and Republican leaders in Congress, flared forth anew today.

MORE DONATIONS INCREASE Y. FUND ALMOST TO GOAL

Less Than $300 To Be Collected By Several Unreported Teams

A checkup today of available reports showed that $6,511 has been added toward the Y. M. C. A. fund of $6,500 with which to operate the organization for the next 12 months. Several committees have not yet reported the results of their final efforts.

With less than $300 to be raised before the goal is reached H. C. Dillrose, county chairman, expressed the belief that reports yet to be received would bring the total to the desired amount. He was optimistic about the outcome, as the results bore out his previous campaign forecast, and expressed appreciation for the assistance of a group of workers and for the support of those who subscribed. In a short statement, he said: "We have subscribed $6,511, with every assurance that the full amount will be raised by the time we have had reports from all of the teams. This is very gratifying, especially because it was accomplished under the most adverse conditions, and is therefore a strong indication of the public-spiritedness of our citizens."

Members of the governing board of the Y. M. C. A. are proud of the success of the campaign and of the public response. They are very appreciative of the support that has been accorded this most worthwhile effort, and feel that, with such hearty endorsement by the Y. M. C. A. district, they are to thank them publicly for the most successful year.

The results were obtained through the volunteer services of a number of leading business men of the city, and the organization would like to thank them for giving their credit for the success of the appeal."

Another Tornado In Georgia Takes Toll

LAGRANGE, Ga., May 1.—(INS)—One dead, another injured, a number of buildings destroyed and heavy damage to property and crops was the toll today of another Georgia tornado which swept a 20-mile area between this city and Woodbury, Ga., last night.

An unidentified negro woman was crushed to death here by a falling tree. Five houses on the outskirts of the city were demolished and half, accompanying the high wind, shattered glass windows over the entire city.

LOVE AFFAIRS OF VICTIM SEEN AS MURDER MOTIVE

White Plains, N. Y., May 1.—(INS)—Indecent love affairs of Mrs. Dorothy Peacor, was revealed today as the most logical motive for her murder and subsequent cremation by Earle Peacor, jealousy-crazed husband, whose killing young wife used to greet radio audiences with a "penial" hello folks.

A romantic letter from a mysterious suitor, known only as "Gene from Baltimore," was revealed today by Peacor. But Peacor, too, essayed the role of a duped Don Juan, police said, as they held Miss Frances Newman in a material witness charge.

"I still love Dorothy, even though she is dead," Peacor cried in a moment of remorse in his cell here where he is held on a first degree murder charge.

The letter from the mysterious Gene is written in college-boy style. It hints of love-letters. In the letter, Gene prais Mrs. Peacor as a "wonderful little goddess and homemaker," and speaks of his joy at being near her over a weekend.

The letter refers to a fraternalism on which the writer says he has smuggled "against my heart" it was so handsome. The other letters noticed it also, but said nothing, of course.

Meanwhile, Peacor enjoyed a comfortable night's sleep, his mind apparently at ease. Miss Newman is being held under $10,000 bail while authorities check up her story that although the arrested Peacor in the same apartment where he killed his wife, she did not know the wife was dead and did not suspect that stains on the floor were blood and, further, that the apartment reeked did not arouse her. Miss Newman, a slight, smiling blonde told police Peacor told her to tell anybody who questioned her that she had "passed out" in a drinking bout at his apartment. (Continued On Page Four)

DELEGATES ATTEND

NEW ORLEANS, La., May 1.—(INS)—Hundreds of delegates from every state in the country were here for the opening of the annual convention of the Associated Junior Leagues of America today. Welfare work with special emphasis on children promised to be the principal topic of the convention.

Senate Committee Investigates Deal Steered By Mellon

WASHINGTON, May 1.—(INS)—The participation of Andrew W. Mellon in the negotiation of a merger deal between the Aluminum Company of America and Canadian concern, was investigated today by the Senate Judiciary Committee, which again failed to reach a decision on the question of his cabinet eligibility.

The committee summoned Senator Reed (R) of Pennsylvania, with various papers relating to the Canadian deal. It was shown the contract by which the Aluminum Company acquired the Canadian concern was signed by E. B. Mellon, brother of the secretary but not then signed by the Treasury head. Previously it was shown Mellon had participated in a business conference over the Canadian deal.

The committee will meet again tomorrow, still seeking a decision on the legality of Mellon's service as Treasury head while owning a fortune in corporation securities.

Ship Limp Toward Harbor In Constant Danger Of Sinking

SAN FRANCISCO, May 1.—(INS)—With 22 men aboard, the schooner Kadiak was creeping precariously down the coast toward San Francisco harbor this morning and was in constant danger of sinking.

The 116 ton ship sent out distress calls late last night, saying she was sinking 10 miles off Point Reyes. Mystery surrounded the accident to the ship but the belief was expressed that the schooner might have struck on a rock, in rounding the point and then pulled clear.

With the disabled ship was the standard oil tanker Charlie Watson which had raced toward the Kadiak upon receipt of the first radioed SOS calls during the night. The schooner exhausted her supply of rockets in signaling her position to the coast guard cutter Tahoe and the Union oil tanker Otum.

Terse messages exchanged between the distressed vessel and her rescuers at first declared the schooner could remain afloat only a few more hours. She was requested to send up night lights and her position was finally secured from the flares. Later Captain Mattison said that he would proceed south toward San Francisco under his own steam. Still later messages said that all hands were bailing water but there was no immediate danger.

Bank To Address Club Here On Friday Morning

J. W. Meek, agent of the First National Bank of Sanford, who has been assigned to Sanford to direct the local fight to exterminate the drug habit, will be the principal speaker Friday morning before the Sanford Chamber of Commerce (City Hall) the organization has postponed indefinitely a meeting through San Jose, Lake and Orange counties. This was also at the suggestion of Federal authorities who go without the club has playing off its financial resources.

"We realize the gravity of the situation, and the president of the Chamber of Commerce has been authorized to play a part in the fight against the drug habit," said Mr. Meek.

Stock Market Has Another Period Of Wild Speculation

NEW YORK, May 1.—The stock market was again in the grip of a violent and hysterical wave of speculation today, as the price of shares advanced and then fell, as the result of the general buying and selling of shares within a few minutes, followed in over the hour.

Most witnesses of the unusually profitable and operation of the market today, said the wave of speculation was the result of the general buying and selling of shares within a few minutes, followed in over the hour.

Farm Marketing Expert To Address Growers Meeting On Tuesday Night

Willis B. Benedict, farm marketing expert of the Farm Publishing Company of Philadelphia, publisher of the Saturday Evening Post, Ladies Home Journal and Country Gentleman, will address a meeting of Sanford growers at the court house, Tuesday evening, May 7, according to an announcement today by the Seminole County Agricultural Club.

The Farm Publishing Company has been interested in the early marketing situation for some time, officials of the club said. An outstanding marketing expert in the United States, the club would have secured the address of the expert, and a meeting of the club would be held in the district to be presented and hear Mr. Benedict's address, it was announced today.

Flogged Crusader Leaves Florida As He Promised Gang

ST PETERSBURG, Fla., May 1.—(INS)—James F. Bickers, 54, lawyer-crusader, today was enroute by automobile to an unannounced northern destination in accordance with an ultimatum issued by five men who Sunday kidnaped the reformer, severely flogged him and robbed him of $2,000.

Under armed guard, Bickers yesterday left a local hospital where he was recovering from wounds and immediately headed out of the city. Meanwhile authorities continued their investigation into the case.

Bickers, a leader against vice in St. Petersburg, was kidnaped from in front of his home here by his assailants and carried to a secluded spot near the City. There he was badly beaten with a knotted whip, robbed, and warned to leave the state within two days.

The First Law

Medieval historians tell us that shortly after the fall of the Holy Roman Empire there existed in Germany what was known as the "first law era." Every man was a law unto himself, in so far as his own strength permitted him to be. Weaker neighbors were forced to pay tribute to stronger neighbors, and the big barons robbed and pillaged the estates of the little barons. No man was safe unless he had his side arms with him, and not even then he by chance he should be outnumbered by those he met. It was truly a time when might was right.

We content ourselves with the belief that we have progressed measurably since those days. We have written upon the statute books of our country innumerable laws which we like to believe enable us to live in harmony with our fellow man, to acquire property and to possess material things, to worship God as we please and to think as our consciences dictate. We try to think that these laws protect the weak and restrain the strong, limit violence and promote peace and prosperity.

Yet, on Sunday afternoon, which we are taught is a day of rest in the city of St. Petersburg, called the "Sunshine City" advertised as a resort for quiet rest-seeking health-hunting northerners, a man was taken from his home in the middle of the day, whisked away in an automobile to a lonely spot in the woods and there beaten and robbed, because he dared to disagree on such a vital issue as race-track gambling with the law.

Under world which are trying, apparently with some success, to get a foothold in Florida, and to control our politics. This man was a lawyer and last winter succeeded in closing, for a few days at least, a dog track where gambling prevailed. More recently he had exposed a sordid condition of graft in the sheriff's office. Bootleggers, gamblers, confidence men and racketeers formed a conspiracy to rid the community of this attorney so that they could with less inconvenience continue their unlawful activities. There were five of them against one. They were armed, he was not. Brave, weren't they? What heroes for Dumas!

A few months ago a Miami attorney possessed sufficient initiative to call to the attention of the Governor of the State of Florida an unrestrained condition of lawlessness which prevailed in that city. He cited the horse track and four dog tracks where the anti-gambling laws were daily violated. He cited at least one hundred joints where other forms of gambling were readily accessible. He cited innumerable liquor dives and bawdy houses. And for his trouble he was warned by a man, who was later killed in a gambling brawl at the Biltmore Hotel, that he would proceed further at the risk of his own life.

We do not know what law enforcement officers should do about such a situation, but if it continues we believe we know what the people will do. They will arm themselves to the teeth, and like the Pilgrims at Plymouth never venture forth without their guns. They will stop trusting in the "strong arm of the law," and depend solely on the sureness of their own aim. Not pleasant to contemplate. Not so different from medieval times. But sure to come if conditions go on as they are.

Hammer Knocks

With the close of the greatest tourist season Florida ever had and with the last effects of the boom seen as something in the past, despite the arrival in this state of a new pest to bother citrus growers, the echo is resounding from Key West to Pensacola of prosperity and better times ahead. Sounding a note of optimism, the Palm Beach Post only recently said:

"The happiest sound that could make itself audible in the West Palm Beach area is being heard, and its clatter is increasing. It is the sound of hammers ringing against nails, the whine of saws cutting their way through wood and the clash of masons' trowels against brick and tile.

"Indications, expressed by actual facts, are that this will be the record summer in building construction for this section. Already for the first quarter of the year building permits for the three sister cities of the section, West Palm Beach, Palm Beach and Lake Worth, total approximately one million dollars, and much other work is in prospect.

"Architectural firms announce that their offices are busier now than at any time since the boom years. Building contractors are facing a period of activity only equalled by the 1925-26 period. The 'dead years' have passed, and the future looks bright for this entire area. The mourning period for 'things that might have been' has ended, and there is optimism in the air.

"No person of a fair and inquiring mind can examine into the facts and fail to find material for optimism. Homes and buildings are not constructed of thin air. Carpenters and brick masons and plumbers and other workmen are not to be paid by promises. Money comes into circulation with construction activity, with real estate activity, and all benefit; the butcher, the baker and the haberdasher included.

"Here in the center of the east coast's most favored section is opportunity for everyone. It only takes confidence and work to assure the fulfillment of the future that is definitely ours, and there is more than ample reason for confidence and endless inspiration for the work that must go with it."

SANFORD FORUM

There is talk among men in Tallahassee, that the truth included in "Florida's Financial and Fiscal Condition," laid before the Legislature last Monday, has done great damage to Florida over the nation. This cannot be; for the fiscal illness of Florida has been known outside the State long before the present search for the whole truth began.

An analogy may help to a proper understanding of things as they are. What happens first at any modern hospital? Tests of various kinds, use of the microscope, count of blood cells or harmful germs, X-ray pictures. This is not the work of the doctor who is to pass a verdict or to attempt a cure. It is called "diagnosis" which means a complete record of conditions, so that the doctor may judge as to a disease, or the surgeon may know how or at what to operate, if necessary. Patients may refuse to believe a diagnosis, but that does not influence the doctor or the surgeon.

Many scores of the various districts and counties of Florida are financially ill. The extent of this illness has not been known within Florida as affecting the body of our State; just as we have not men whose faces showed that they were ill, and yet who were unaware of their true condition. By nearly nine months of continuous travel, by interview with thoughtful men in various counties by telegrams and letters the summary of conditions so far as figures are concerned is completely known, there are, however, worse figures, and since these were given in confidence only the doctor shall know them.

Who is the doctor? The doctor is the Legislature, made up of men selected by the voters in counties and senatorial districts. The doctor has the diagnosis. The responsibility for judgment and breadth of patriotism in dealing with the financial illness that is threatening the very existence of government in Florida is on the doctor of 1929. Could the Commission in 1917 say to President Woodrow Wilson, "Special Peace" when there is no peace?

What should we think of a doctor who would give his whole attention to an ingrowing toe-nail when there was gangrene in the foot? What should we think of a doctor who would give his whole attention to a broken tooth when there is a deadly hemorrhage in

"Lady Clara Vere De Vere, I know you proud to bear your name..."

In P. E. B's Tampa Tribune column appears a communication from one who conditionally signs herself "Lady Clara Vere De Vere of Oak Beach, Palm Beach" taking issue with our recent remark that even the comess of Elderly J. Catta will find no joy in the spectacle of an ex-governor of Florida indicted by a counter-felting charge.

About 60,000 supporters of another candidate are quarrelling with the idea of it, says Lady Clara. "I have heard them. However, I'll bet Queen Victoria's signet ring... that Governor Catta will be exonerated of this latest charge also." We hope so—which reduces the number of charters-with-glee to 56,899. We don't care a hang what happens to Catta but we care a lot about what happens to the dignity of the highest office in the gift of Florida.

Incidentally we care too about knowing just who this Lady Clara is. Her name appears in the paper under this non de plume are too witty and was for the frivolous cloak she wears.

Frank Lowden, who might have been president if things had been different, joins the ranks of Florida patriots. "What did you have for breakfast?" he was asked by a New York reporter on the morning of his recent return from Europe. "Why, a fine grape-fruit," was the utterly statesman-like reply. "Something you very rarely get on the continent or anywhere else outside of the United States."

Al Smith, whose "New Tammany" has been beaten by the "Old Tammany" in the selection of John F. Curry for leadership, knows how to damn with faint praise. Pressed for a statement, Governor Smith said: "I have read of the election of John F. Curry. I have known him twenty-five years. He is a man of courage and ability I wish him success."

The Apopka Chief wants a shorter name for the Mediterranean fruit fly. If the theory is correct that the fly was brought into Florida in the bundles of straw used by rum smugglers to keep liquor bottles from breaking "Baccharis blight" might be a good name.

A "nude colony" whose members only coats of tan has been established on an island in the Seine by French "Back-to-Nature" fanatics. A similar colony on the seacoast near Naples, Italy, was once complained against by a high born lady whose estate adjoined the colony. The police ordered the colony to move further up the beach again that the could "still see them through the spy glasses."

Alexander the Great sighing for more worlds to conquer at the age of thirty, had nothing on Robert Maynard Hutchins who at the same age has already been elected of the Yale law school and will become next July president of the great University of Chicago. But John J. Tierney was president of Kentucky Wesleyan college at the age of twenty-seven.

Who chews cavity? If chlored is not shown by the doctor.—The Legislature—Florida will be still further imperiled.

Those who prepare a diagnosis have no responsibility for the cure. I suspect what has often been stated over Florida: "I am not the doctor; offer no cure, assume no responsibility nor CREDIT for any cure that may be worked out."

As a citizen, I want to see a cure effected by the men responsible. Very truly yours, Governor Davenport and General Research, Tallahassee.

MEDITERRANEAN FRUIT FLY

Imported from Hawaii to the United States in 1926, the Mediterranean fruit fly, known as the "fruit fly," has become a pest of citrus fruits in Florida. It is a small, winged insect, about the size of a house fly, with a reddish-brown body and dark wings. It is a voracious eater of citrus fruits, and its larvae are particularly destructive.

Ornamental Serving As Hosts. Not only does the Mediterranean fruit fly attack the ordinary cultivated fruits, but in Hawaii it has shown a preference for the fruits of many ornamental trees and shrubs. Thus the nuts of the winged holly, the ball holly, the red apple, damson plum, star apple, Brazilian plum or Spanish cherry, the Surinam and French cherries, the berries of the mock orange and elonci tree, the fruits of the Natal plum, and the mature fruits of the beehive are all usually well infested. Even the fruits of certain palms and the beach sandalwood may harbor the fly. Ornamentals are subject to attack may be found in the foregoing complete list.

Host Fruits Of Commercial Value (Honeyapples). Many experiments have been carried on to determine whether the Mediterranean fruit fly can live in the pineapple. It has been found that even under forced laboratory conditions the fly can not live or mature in green or ripe pineapples. No person has ever found a pineapple infested by this pest in Hawaii.

Papaya. The papaya is one of the commonest plants about Honolulu. Its fruit is the universal breakfast fruit. Probably not one person in a thousand in Honolulu, however, knows that papaya become infested. Unless the fruit is allowed to remain upon the tree until over-ripe, the fruit fly can not mature in them. The milky juice, which exudes copiously from breaks in the skin of the fruits up to the time when the fruits can be cut for ripening in the house, contains a digestive principle that is fatal to the eggs and larvae of the fly. This juice protects the fruits from infestation when immature. But as the fruits become over-ripe, and also unfit for the table, the juice flows less abundantly from breaks in the skin made by the fly when she attempts to lay her eggs, and the eggs which she then lays can mature. As many as 205 flies have been reared from single over-ripe fruits. So while the papaya is a host fruit, it is practically never infested until too ripe or otherwise unfit for the table.

Avocado. With the exception of one or two early varieties, the infestation of the avocado is so obscure that the general belief prevails in Honolulu that this fruit is free from attack. The Guatemalan, or nutmeg, variety is the only one free from attack when growing uninjured. The skin of all other varieties, whether thin or of usual thickness, can be punctured by the adult fly, as proved by many examinations of fruits. The avocado, like the ordinary pear, is best when picked while still hard, though mature, and allowed to soften in storage. With most varieties it is not until the fruits are mature enough for gathering or dropping that adults lay eggs in them. Many fruits upon the market are not in the least affected. While avocados are not usually a favorite host for the fly, they are sufficiently infested to warrant the quarantine prohibiting the shipment of them to the mainland.

Bananas. Experimentation during the past four years in Hawaii has proved that the Chinese banana and the Bluefields banana are practically immune from attack if harvested and shipped to the coast in accordance with the demands of the trade and the Federal Horticultural Board. Persons wishing the regular of careful experimental work used as a basis for these conclusions may obtain them in printed form by applying to the Bureau of Entomology. The immunity of commercial varieties of bananas has been shown to be due to the fact that neither the eggs nor the newly-hatched larvae can survive in the tannin-laden peel of the green though mature fruit. Indeed, the copious and sudden flow of sap from egg punctures made by the female fly in unripe bananas renders the successful placing of eggs in such fruits difficult and rare.

No fruits of the Chinese variety ripening prematurely on bunches in plantations have been found infested. But of the cooking bananas, files have been reared from the ripe and yellowish variety growing in the field, and from the well-grown though green-colored fruit of the Mac variety, the peel of which had become cracked, thus causing a break in nature's normal protection to the pulp. Adults have been reared also from another variety of cooking bananas.

Because files have been reared from cooking bananas, it is not considered safe to permit their export to the coast, and they have been placed on the list of quarantined fruits by the Federal Horticultural Board. The Chinese and Bluefields bananas may still be exported from Hawaii, provided they are grown and inspected before shipment in accordance with Federal regulations. So far as is known, the "apple" and the "ice-cream" bananas common in Hawaii are not infested.

Coffee. Coffee cherries as they ripen are favorite hosts of the Mediterranean fruit fly. Fortunately, the larvae attack only the pulp surrounding the bean or seed, and in no way affect the value of the latter.

Chemical analyses of beans from infested and uninfested cherries, tasting tests of coffee made from similar roasted beans and weighings made of dried beans have failed to reveal any ill effect to the beans themselves due to fruit-fly attack.

The uninfested development of larvae within coffee cherries, however, does bring about certain losses to the grower and miller. When cherries become infested as soon as they begin to turn white from green in the final ripening process, and the larvae, numbering from 2 to 8, were able to become nearly full grown by the time the cherries had turned red. The pulp surrounding the beans varies from two to seven sixteenths of an inch in thickness, or is scarcely thicker than the well-grown larva of the fruit fly. Therefore, by the time the cherry is ordinarily ready for harvesting, the larvae have devoured practically all the pulp, leaving the seeds hanging more or less loosely within a sack comprised of the thin skin of the cherry. If the weather happens to be dry, the skin shrivels and hardens about the beans and the cherry remains on the branch indefinitely and resembles those killed by disease. However, should the harvesting season be rainy, the skin decays rapidly, and under the weight of the beans the cherry falls to the ground. A slight jar may at such times cause many cherries to fall to the ground, where they are lost. This type of loss necessitates extra pickings and greater cost for labor. Since the successful introduction of parasites the fruit fly has been so reduced in the coffee field that the infestation of cherries occurs so late in the ripening process that extra pickings are not necessary, and the cherries on reaching the pulping mills during the height of the harvesting season contain chiefly eggs or young larvae which have not had an opportunity to reduce the pulp.

Badly infested cherries do not pulp as readily when run through the pulping mill, and naturally weigh much less than sound cherries.

The loss in number of cherries in a given weight of badly infested fruit has been found to vary at times from 27 to 59 per cent. This loss in weight, which varies place only in the western part of the island, is in no way affects the value, but it is of commercial value, brought about a financial loss to growers who sold their fruit by weight according to prices obtained before the fruit fly was introduced. This has been appreciated and has caused a readjustment of prices paid for coffee "in the cherry" and has been responsible for the erection of many small pulping mills throughout the Kona coffee district.

It seems reasonable to believe that the remarkable success of introduced parasites in checking the infestation of coffee will free the coffee grower from further worry so far as the Mediterranean fruit fly is concerned.

Citrus Fruits. While all citrus fruits are favorite hosts of the Mediterranean fruit fly, certain of them are found to contain larvae more often than others. No citrus fruits are too acid for fruit-fly development. Larvae have been reared from the sourest lemons. Adult flies are fond of laying eggs in large numbers in all citrus fruits. Thus 13 punctures in one grapefruit contained 76, 153, 32, 25, 19, 8, 46, 113, and 9 eggs, respectively. Thirty-nine oranges, either yellow or orange in color, contained an average of 22 egg punctures, with a maximum of 108 and a minimum of 7 punctures. In 80 ripe lemons 1,422 eggs were laid in 185 punctures. Yet no adult flies developed from this grapefruit or from the oranges and lemons. On the other hand, well ripened Chinese oranges, thin-skinned lemons, kumquats, and tangerines are so generally infested with larvae in the pulp, before they become well ripened that they are always regarded with suspicion.

Although many eggs are laid in lemons, it is rare that immatures are found with maggots in the pulp even when the fruits are so ripe that they fall to the ground. Why, then, are Chinese oranges and tangerines readily infested with larvae in the pulp whereas lemons, grapefruit, and oranges ward off fatal attack either entirely or until after they are over-ripe? The reason is that a great num-

DEKIE'S WEALTH

Figures given the Southern Trust conference in Atlanta by Eugene Black, governor of the Atlanta Federal Reserve bank, relative to the south's rise in wealth call a remarkable picture in mind.

The south's manufactured products were in 1927 valued at $12,000,000,000 its agricultural production at $5,000,000,000 and its mineral production at $3,000,000,000. Mr. Black, making a total production that year of $20,000,000,000—one fourth of the country's total production. Twenty billion dollars.

The production of the south today is as great as the production of the entire nation in 1900. Yet in 1900 the south was just beginning to wake up. A speaker in Asheville, N. C. not so long ago told of being at the Atlanta exposition in 1898. He was looking at a beautiful picture which had been loaned for the occasion. The women were standing next him.

"Isn't it too lovely for words," asked one. "Yes," answered another, "but it hurts me to look at it when I think that here in the south we can't have things like this for our very own."

Well, the south is getting to the point where it can afford beautiful pictures if it really wants them. The resources of the banks in the south, Mr. Black, "amounted to $10,000,000 at the end of 1927—one of the total resources of all the national banks in the United States."

Dir's land is no longer a land of poverty. As Mr. Black says it is fast becoming potentially independent. It is amazing wealth on a prodigious scale and where one stops to reflect on what has been accomplished in three short decades it is easy to believe the prophesy of 1898, that the south would be standing next him.

NEWSPAPER REPORTS OF CRIME

The Savannah News says that there are people, honest ones at that, who evidently believe that newspapers are doing wrong when publishing anything at all about crimes and criminals. "They think that a policy of silence would prevent the general public from knowing that there is anything in the world except sweetness and light." From this the inference is that sweetness and light being considered popular and universal it would be the rule, and the naughty people who try to get other people's money or their goats or whatever they have would at once reform. That the objection to publication of criminal news has not really studied the matter carefully is certain. "They haven't thought much on the subject," declares the News, "else they would form a different opinion. Newspapers are crime deterrents."

Judge Phillips of the municipal court of Philadelphia is then quoted as saying: "Public opinion acts as the greatest possible restraint upon unlawful tendencies. The judge must consider not only the individual case before him; he must administer punishment in such a way that it will act as a deterrent. And how can that effect be assured except through publicity?"

It is contended that the main point of crime and punishment will eventually have to be revamped in a scientific manner. But never could the full object of justice be accomplished unless the newspapers told the stories of crime and of the punishment meted out to offenders. There are no doubt some daring talkers who without doing any thinking on the subject at all would suggest that punishment is intended as retribution. That the criminal if he happens to be caught, tried, sentenced and punished, is a man-handled as he deserves as a means of revenge. The judge and jury are vested with the offender and give him "the works" to get even. But that is not the intent of law or courts and jails and scaffolds and electric chairs. Punishment is intended to deter the criminal from further outrageous conduct; sometimes the offense against the country or individual is so great as to merit permanent removal from society, a death sentence or a life sentence to prison; means simply that the offender has been proved unworthy of further communication with his fellow men. The extreme penalty is not imposed except in most unusual cases. And where a person is removed away to a distant land, the shame and disgrace, are perhaps unnecessary adjuncts to the sentence—it is enough to be deemed unfit and denied a restoration to the world, regardless of future conduct.

Fear of publicity has halted thousands no doubt on the very threshold of crime. The weight of truth and the finger of scorn have frightened many who were weak and vicious, but not quite willing to brave the possibility of seeing their names in print, accused of crime. The plea that are made for those who offend, "excuse me, I was drunk," "excuse me, I was misled," "excuse me, I was misled," are as numerous as words in the newspaper offices of the world. Everywhere when there is the impending publicity of crime, relatives, acquaintances to their utmost to "keep him name out of the papers." But the appeal is generally without success. The newspapers, concerned about the public interest, are able to reach the pulp of grapefruit and orange in astonishingly small numbers because of the imperiousness of the rag. It is the persistent attack of successive families of larvae hatching from different batches of eggs laid in the same puncture that finally breaks down the barrier between the young larvae and the pulp. A fuller discussion of the infestation of all citrus fruits may be had on application to the Bureau of Entomology.

Regardless of what has just been stated concerning the great mortality that occurs among the eggs and young larvae in the rind of grapefruit, orange, and lemons, adult flies have been reared from them all. Lemons, however, have never been known to be infested in the pulp unless the rind has first become broken by thorn pricks, decay, or in some other mechanical manner. And in spite of the fact that oranges and grapefruit may become very wormy, they are usually uninfested in the pulp, and are fit for use if they are gathered as soon as they ripen. But if citrus fruits were grown commercially in Hawaii in large orchards as they are in Florida and California, and were severely attacked as they are in Hawaii to-day, they could not be shipped profitably, for, although they might not contain larvae with a pulp, the many breaks in the rind made by the flies while laying eggs would make possible the entry of vast numbers that would cause unprecedented losses while the shipments were on route to market.

The reason is that a great number of people, honest ones at that, who evidently believe that newspapers are doing wrong when publishing anything at all about crimes and criminals. "They think that a policy of silence would prevent the general public from knowing that there is anything in the world except sweetness and light." Mrs. Ralph Smith entertained 400 members of her club and a number of other friends with a bridge party on Tuesday afternoon at her home, 600 East Fourteenth Street, San Lanta. Mrs. George Davis Hart held high score among the club members and was given a Chinese leather telephone book cover, while Mrs. E. J. Trotter, who had high score among the guests, was presented with a handkerchief.

A color scheme of pink and green was developed by the Spring flowers and fern which adorned the rooms and by the tallies and other bridge accessories which were used. The refreshments, which were served late in the afternoon by the hostess, also emphasized the color note.
Those present were: Mrs. C. E. Myers, Mrs. H. W. Rucker, Mrs. C. E. Rawson, Mrs. John Smith, Mrs. E. D. Highleyman, Mrs. T. C. Bolt and Mrs. E. J. Trotter.

LINDY QUIT OVATION

WASHINGTON, May 1—(INS)—Col. Charles A. Lindbergh, conqueror of the Atlantic and American's outstanding aviator, was given an ovation yesterday afternoon by the Senate. Lindbergh was taken to the Capitol to testify before a joint congressional committee on a petition of a Washington airport. He left the witness stand to go to the floor of the Senate, which took a recess to honor him.

Seminole P. T. A. Has Last-Meet Of Year

The Seminole Parent Teachers' Association held its last meeting of the year on Friday afternoon, Apr. 26, at the Wilson School at Paola. It was stated that the reports of the year's work were read at this time, and that an interesting program was arranged for the entertainment of those present.
After the regular business was completed Mrs. Holmes, state president of "Mother Craft," gave a talk for the parents and teachers in the auditorium after which Mrs. Vogt rode with the P. T. A. in the principal's room for the study of "Mother Craft."
Refreshments were then served by the members of the Paola P. T. A. and the meeting adjourned.

Miss Dighton Honors Club Monday Evening

The members of the "Board of Education" club were honored with a bridge party given on Monday evening by Miss Mary Dighton at the home of her parents on West Twentieth Street. High score prize, a crepe paper bridge set, was awarded Miss Ella Spencer, while cut prize was awarded to Miss Frances Pearson.
At the supper hour an ice course was served by the hostess assisted by Miss Jean Laney to the following who were present: Misses Camilla Deas, Mary Maxwell, Frances Pearson, Frances Wilson, Helen Wilson, Jean Martin Laney, Ella Spencer, Rosalie Pope, Margaret Britz, Henrietta Herschowitz and Billie Wight.

Mrs. Bolz Entertains Her Church Circle

The members of Circle Number Five of the First Baptist Church met on Monday afternoon at the home of Mrs. Francis F. Bolz, 1205 Park Avenue. Mrs. F. W. Stanley led in prayer and conducted the devotional after which Mrs. Bolz gave a short talk with "The Tread of World Events" as her subject.
Mrs. B. F. Young of Nashville, Tenn., was then introduced and gave a short discourse on the Presbyterian work in the mountains of Tennessee, after which the mission study course was conducted by Mrs. J. T. Newby and Mrs. F. W. Stanley.
During the social hour several piano selections were played by Miss Lucella Mahoney and a salad course was served by the hostess.
Those present were: Mrs. J. T. Newby, Mrs. F. W. Stanley, Mrs. Robert Meriwether, Mrs. B. F. Young of Nashville, Tenn. and Mrs. F. E. Bolz.

Circle Number One Has Meeting Monday

The members of Circle Number One of the First Baptist Church met on Monday afternoon at 3 o'clock with the chairman, Mrs. W. A. Hyes, 210 West Third Street. During the short business session when Mrs. Hayes presided, matters of importance to the circle members were discussed. Mrs. Lillian Vickery read a letter of thanks from a student at the Bible Training School at New Orleans whom the circle had helped.
After the study course in Bible questions in which each member took part, a social hour was enjoyed and refreshments were served by the hostess. The rooms were adorned with tallies of pink and white oleanders arranged in vases and bowls.
Those present were: Mrs. Lillian Vickery, Mrs. J. T. Hardy, Mrs. Charles McMahon, Mrs. E. L. Garrison, Mrs. Boston Steeles, Mrs. H. L. Leonard, Mrs. T. A. Stiles, Mrs. F. D. King, and Mrs. A. D. Rozier.

MRS. HIGHLEYMAN ENTERTAINS WITH BRIDGE PARTY MONDAY AFTERNOON

Honoring a large number of her friends, Mrs. E. D. Highleyman entertained with a bridge party on Monday afternoon at her home, 555 Valencia Drive, San Lanta. Mrs. John W. Sneed received the guests at the door while Mrs. E. D. Hoy distributed the tallies and Mrs. C. E. Myers escorted the guests to their places.
Several progressions of bridge were enjoyed during the afternoon, at the conclusion of which, Miss James Mathers, Mrs. Roland Reed and Mrs. F. W. Bender collected scores and awarded prizes to Mrs. R. J. Holly, Mrs. E. P. Ashcraft, Mrs. John W. Sneed, Miss Carrie L. Jones and Miss Ollie Johnson. Mrs. Holly was given an embroidered pillow for having high score. Mrs. Ashcraft a handsome handkerchief for holding high score and Mrs. Sneed a beautiful crystal beads for high score. Miss Jones cut high score and was the recipient of a gorgeous dance handkerchief, while Miss Johnson held the lucky tally and received a bridge set.
A color scheme, which was emphasized by the guests, was chosen for all decorations and party appointments. Quantities of gladioli and roses were arranged with fern in vases and bowls about the rooms where the guests were entertained, while tallies and other bridge accessories repeated the color note. Tables from which refreshments were served conveyed with handmade containers filled with candies in pastel shades. The hostess was assisted in serving by Mrs. John W. Sneed, Mrs. Ralph Smith, Mrs. H. W. Rucker and Mrs. L. I. Hoy.

Those invited included: Mrs. E. H. Ashcraft, Mrs. F. W. Bender, Mrs. T. C. Bolt, Mrs. L. P. Boyle, Mrs. J. C. Bills, Mrs. J. C. Bennett, Mrs. C. M. Boyd, Mrs. Endor Curle, Mrs. B. D. Caswell, Mrs. Walter S. Coleman, Mrs. E. Compton, Mrs. Walter R. Campbell, Mrs. P. J. Felner, Mrs. A. T. White, Mrs. C. Gibbs, Mrs. R. J. Holly, Mrs. E. I. Hoy, Mrs. N. C. Parvorth, Mrs. George Davis Hart and Mrs. A. C. Fort.
Also Mrs. O. P. Herndon, Mrs. D. D. Caldwell, Mrs. W. C. Hill, Mrs. C. S. Jernigan, Miss Ollie Johnson, Mrs. A. W. Knox, Mrs. Little, Mrs. J. O. Laney, Mrs. W. P. Baird, Miss Calvin Traylor, Mrs. G. F. Loucka, Mrs. Hugh Torrance, Mrs. Townsend-Tatterton, Mrs. Larric Love Jones, Mrs. John Joisch, Mrs. John Melach, Jr., Mrs. Edmund Meisch, Mrs. C. E. Myers, Mrs. James Mathers, Mrs. A. K. Powers, Mrs. H. B. Purdon, Mrs. Roland Reed, Mrs. H. W. Rucker, and Mrs. John W. Sneed, Mrs. W. M. Scott, Mrs. Ralph Smith, Mrs. J. C. Smith, Mrs. Roy F. Syme, Mrs. F. E. Stein, Mrs. W. S. Thigpen, Mrs. Wallace Wright, Mrs. Fred T. Williams, Mrs. M. S. Wiggins, Mrs. C. E. Rawson, Mrs. Mary Powell and Mrs. W. T. Langley.

Musical Program Is Presented On Friday

The pupils of Mrs. C. W. Shiraholz presented a program of piano and music last Friday evening at the home of Mrs. Shiholholz on Oak Avenue. A large number of friends of the pupils were present and other music was furnished by Mrs. Arthur Branan, who sang several selections, and her daughter, Miss Lillian Branan, who played some violin numbers.
The program was as follows:

13. "Venezienne" by Godard—Helen Wilson.

Evening Bridge Club Is Honored Monday

Mr. and Mrs. J. D. Woodruff complimented the members of the Evening Bridge Club with a bridge party on Monday evening at their home, 1820 Sanford Avenue. After several progressions of bridge, high score prize among the ladies, a leather beach bag, was presented to Mrs. B. D. Caswell, while high score prize for the men, a pair of socks, was presented to W. W. Potter.
At the supper hour a salad and sweet course was served by the hostess. Quantities of spring and garden flowers were used for decorations while the tallies were designed as flowers.
Those present were: Mr. and Mrs. W. W. Potter, Dr. and Mrs. B. D. Caswell, Mr. and Mrs. H. C. Connelly, Mr. and Mrs. W. C. Hill, Mr. and Mrs. Emmet, McCall and Frank Woodruff, Jr.
Mr. and Mrs. John W. Mussen announce the birth of a son, George Edward, recently at their home in New Smyrna.

Farm Relief Scheme Abandoned For While

WASHINGTON, May 1—(INS)—Plans for supplemental farm relief legislation in the special session were temporarily abandoned by House leaders today under threat of the Senate to force the session into consideration of general legislation if any more bills are presented. Rep. Haugen of Iowa, chairman of the House Agriculture Committee, announced that he would not call up supplemental farm relief bills reported by his committee until after the tariff bill is passed, and indicated they would likely all go over until the regular session in December.
Mrs. A. Zelmenovitz and son, Julius Zelmenovitz, of Brunswick, Ga., are visiting the former's daughter Mrs. S. S. Baumel, 2001 Sanford Avenue.

LAKE MONROE

Mr. and Mrs. S. E. Norwood and children were called to Plant City Monday morning because of the critical illness of Mr. and Mrs. Norwood's daughter, Mrs. Lorena Tindel.
Mr. and Mrs. E. H. Webb had as their guests for dinner Sunday evening Miss Georgia Bright and Fred Ball.
Mr. and Mrs. James A. Johnson announce the birth of a daughter recently at their home.
Mr. and Mrs. Cecil Bales were the dinner guests Wednesday evening of the former's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Bales.
Mr. and Mrs. Frank Wright spent Sunday afternoon and evening with the latter's sister, Mrs. J. C. Bales, and Mrs. Will Ogley.
Mr. and Mrs. Livingston announce the birth of a daughter on Sunday, Apr. 28.
Mr. Linberg of Chicago, who has been spending some time here with his son, the Linbergs, left Monday morning for his home.
Mrs. W. B. Price and Mrs. Walter Price spent last Friday with Mrs. Martha Webb.
PROGRAM ARRANGED
Complimenting Mrs. G. E. McKay, who was elected associate grand conductress of the grand chapter of the Florida O. E. S. last week in Jacksonville, a special program has been arranged for the meeting of Seminole Chapter Number Two O. E. S. which will be held on Thursday evening at 7:30 o'clock at the Masonic Hall.

POWER CONCERN CONTINUE ITS STOCK PURCHASE

President Of Company Says It Will Add To Its Press Holdings

WASHINGTON, May 1.—(INS)—The powerful International Power and Light Company, which has bought into a dozen news newspapers to the extent of more than $10,000,000, plans to increase its stockholding in the daily publishing field whenever it seems desirable to do so.

This statement was made to the press by the company's president, J. Edgar Hoover, who is expected to leave Washington for New York to obtain additional data requested by the Federal Trade Commission in its investigation of the so-called power trust and the trust's propaganda activities against public ownership of utilities.

Mr. Hoover, president of the power corporation, just before he left Washington for New York to obtain additional data requested by the Federal Trade Commission in its investigation of the so-called power trust and the trust's propaganda activities against public ownership of utilities.

Mr. Hoover's statement started the commission by revealing the extent of the corporation's present newspaper holdings. He disclosed that the $500,000,000 concern which he heads has acquired large holdings of stock in such dailies as the Boston Herald, Boston Traveler, Chicago Journal, Chicago News, Brooklyn Eagle, Albany Knickerbocker Press, Albany Evening News, Tampa Tribune and others.

The corporation has helped to finance Frank E. Gannett in the purchase of newspapers. Gannett's string now embraces some 18 newspapers, scattered through New York and New England. Putting acquisition of newspaper properties, Mr. Hoover said, depends upon conditions.

"If it seems to the advantage of the company to purchase other interests it will be done," he said. "About one-tenth of our newspaper output is now purchased by the interests in which we have stock holdings. That shows what we might call the surplus production of the company."

Mr. Hoover admitted, under questioning of the trade commission counsel that the power and utility business of the company was considerably greater than the newspaper business.

He denied, however, that the corporation attempted to influence editorial policies of the newspapers which it bought into. Counsel for the commission frankly asked whether there was any probability of the so-called power trust being adversely affected by these newspapers in which it had heavy stock holdings.

Sen. George W. Norris (R) of Nebraska, who's responsible for the commission's present investigation, declared today that Mr. Hoover's testimony revealed "another gigantic step by the power interests to get control of public opinion."

Destiny Of Man Is Subject Of Sermon At Local Church

Addressing a congregation last evening at the Methodist Church, Dr. W. P. Bohannon last night preached on the subject "Destiny Determined by Man's Decision."

In his discourse, the minister showed the place of intellect and emotion in the matter of religion, warned against "dullness" and its difference to holy things, expressed the responsibility of God's desire for man to "have a heart," and pleaded for men to make a response to the "spirit's call."

Three Short Plays Given Last Night By Little Theater

PARTY HOPES OF DEMOCRATS RECEIVE BOOST

It is no secret that the party's fortunes have been somewhat dimmed by the resignation of Senator McNary last November. The party's fortunes have been somewhat dimmed by the resignation of Senator McNary last November.

Now, by the selection of Senator McNary to the party's ticket in Washington, much of the party's fortunes have been somewhat dimmed by the resignation of Senator McNary last November.

DAVIS DEPICTS JOYOUS STATE OF U. S. LABOR

(Continued From Page One) In general, Mr. Davis said, the picture of the labor situation in the United States is one of joy and contentment. He pointed out that the workers are satisfied with their wages and working conditions, and that there is no serious unemployment problem.

Mr. Davis also pointed out that the labor movement is becoming more organized and more powerful. He said that the workers are now able to bargain for better wages and working conditions, and that they are no longer at the mercy of their employers.

He also pointed out that the labor movement is becoming more responsible. He said that the workers are now taking more responsibility for their own actions, and that they are no longer just passive recipients of the actions of others.

Mr. Davis concluded his speech by saying that he was optimistic about the future of the labor movement in the United States. He said that he believed that the workers would continue to make gains in the years ahead, and that the labor movement would continue to play a vital role in the nation's development.

Love Affairs Of Victim Seen As Murder Motive

(Continued From Page One) The police believe that the victim's love affairs were the motive for the murder. They said that the victim had a long and complicated love life, and that he had recently broken up with his current girlfriend.

The police also believe that the murderer was a man who was jealous of the victim's love affairs. They said that the murderer was a man who was known to the victim, and that he had a grudge against him.

The police are now looking for a man who fits the description of the murderer. They said that the murderer was a man who was about 30 years old, and who was of medium build. They also said that the murderer was a man who was wearing a dark suit and a hat.

PLANT BULLETIN FURNISHES DATA UPON FRUIT FLY

Newell States Situation Serious But Not Sufficient For Panic

In April's issue of The Monthly Bulletin, issued by the state plant board, William C. Newell, plant commissioner of Florida, asks for the active co-operation of all interests and individuals in the eradication of the Mediterranean fruit fly, which he declares has created a situation which is grave, serious, and critical.

At the same time Mr. Newell said that "there is no occasion for panic or undue alarm and excitement" and suggests that "calmness, fortitude and a determination to win" are factors needed to overcome the existing difficulty.

Mr. Newell's article follows in part: "The Mediterranean fruit fly, the most dreaded insect pest attacking fruits and vegetables, has been found in Orange and Seminole Counties, Florida. The discovery was made on April 6 last. The identity of the insect is unquestionable. The severity of the infestation is intense in a limited area. Rapid scout inspections have disclosed up to this date (April 16) 12 properties as infested."

The decision was reached to prosecute a vigorous campaign of eradication. In this effort the authorities will require the active cooperation and support of all interests and individuals. The campaign will undoubtedly require large expenditures of money from both State and Federal sources. Above all, however, the determining factor will be the active support of the citizenry.

The Plant Board passed certain rules and regulations and promulgated a restrictive quarantine on the movement of certain fruits and vegetables in and from the infested area. This quarantine will, with certainty, be so planned as to be a fair and equitable one to all concerned.

Many citizens, however, will be affected by these restrictions on the free movement of fruits and vegetables. We bespeak their patience and forbearance and certainly their cooperation to the fullest degree. While the situation is grave—serious—critical—yet there is no occasion for panic or undue alarm and excitement. The situation is admittedly bad but it must be accepted with calmness, fortitude, and a determination to win. What is required is cooperation on the tremendous effort which confronts us.

ESSEX THE CHALLENGER

these important things CHALLENGE TOO!

ESSEX challenges the performance, the style, the luxuriousness, the comfort of any car at any price, on the basis that no other gives you back so much for every dollar you put in.

That is why the big buying spree is to Essex. That is why motorists by thousands are switching from past favorites, and trading in their old cars for the big values Essex the Challenger gives. Essex challenges:

IN SPEED—challenging anything the road offers up to 100 miles an hour. IN FAST GETAWAY—any car regardless of size or price. IN RELIABILITY—60 miles an hour for hour after hour. IN FINE APPEARANCE, of body, exterior and detail—compare with cars in which high price is paid for just these things. IN ECONOMY—compare with cars best known for low operation cost.

And with its superb chassis quality and fine, large bodies—Essex establishes also an outstanding leadership in proved VALUE. It offers a completeness of fine car equipment formerly identified only with costly cars, and available, when at all, only as "extras," at extra cost on cars of Essex price. Check these items when you buy—they represent easily above $100 additional value. But they do not cost one cent extra.

The performance ability of Essex the Challenger is due in no small part to its Super-Six motor. Thus, while it is a "Six," no one who knows can regard any other "Six" as being comparable in the power it delivers.

Essex is built by Hudson under famous Super-Six patents. No one can copy or match it. The fundamental and exclusive Super-Six principle—developed in one million motors and over 12 years of continuous service, stamps Essex as the unsurpassed "Six" in every particular of performance, smoothness and reliability.
