Priest plans reunion for couples

PITTSBURGH - A priest perplexed by the divorce rate has invited all the couples he married over the past 47 year to a special Mass Sunday - just to see how they're doing.

The Rev. Charles Ceradini, 88, invited about

1,000 couples. More than 200 have accepted, he

"I'll congratulate them for holding to the indissolubility of marriage." he said. "I'll tell them that it is good that they are still together and still love each other."

Ceradini was pastor of the Mother of Good Counsel Roman Catholic Church from 1940 until his retirement in 1973. He still presides over an occasional wedding, the last in 1987.

The priest said he doesn't know how many of the couples he married still are together. The nation's divorce rate puzzles him. "I guess it's the times," he said.

Carl and Teresa DePietro, who married in 1958, plan to attend Sunday's Mass.

"When Father Chuck married us, he told us there would be hard times and good times, that you had to take them both," Depletro said. "You can't pack your bags every time there's a disagreement. We hung in there."

It was a mooooving ceremony

PAINESVILLE, Ohio - The beauty queen wore leather. All over.

A five-member panel of judges on Wednesday selected 5-year-old dairy cow "Miss Montville," known to her companions on the Rettger Dairy Farm as "Lazy," as Miss Lake Cownty Fair 1991.

"She's got a cowsmetic look," said owner Dave Foy, whose animal was one of four entries in the bovine beauty contest in northern Ohio.

The tan-colored Miss Montville, a Jersey, was up against three black-and-white Holsteins (Dolly, Alena and Brittany) in the first-ever Miss Lake Cownty competition.

The idea for the competition grew out of the county fair logo, which features a cow's countenance encircled by a blue ribbon, fair spokeswoman Christine Krause sald.

Student grading system protested

Herald Staff Writer

Some parents of third graders in Seminole County are not happy with the grading system that the school board has proposed for use this school year.

Several of those parents took up placards and marched in front of Winter Springs Elementary School this morning.

Perhaps even more disturbing than the grading system changes. they say, is the school district's failure to inform parents about the changes the board will vote to finalize during Tuesday's board meeting.

instead of number or letter grades, the new pupil progression plan requires only an "S" (for satisfactory work) or an "N" (for work that is not satisfactory).

"That is not enough to give our children an indication of where they stand," said Debbie Haile, the parent of a third grader at Winter Springs Elementary School.

During presentations to the school board, instructional coordinators have said that the system will allow teachers to keep portfolios of their students' work, which will make parent-teacher conferences more informative.

"Teachers will not be required by board policy to back up their S's and N's with number grades," Haile said. "Some principals may require it at the school level, but it won't be required by the county."

Thomas offers name change for 13th Street

Herald Staff Writer

SANFORD — City Commissioner Bob Thomas wants to rename 13th Street. He has suggested calling it Martin Luther King Boulevard.

Thomas submitted a brief memorandum Thursday to Mayor Bettye Smith and his fellow commission members. He wrote, "The vast legacy that Dr. Martin Luther King. Jr. left to his nation, and the world. deems it most fitting and proper to make the above request a reality. Hence, it is my prayer, that you will approve same, and join all in the celebration of this most worthy

The proposal is not scheduled for Monday night's city commission meeting, as the memo was submitted after the agenda items were determined. Thomas said however, he would bring the matter up for discussion near the conclusion of the meeting at the time allocated for comments and suggestions from members of the commission. He indicated he will seek the commission's support to have an ordinance prepared that would officially rename the street.

Although Congress has officially designated the third Monday in January as Dr. Martin Luther King Day. Thomas said he would request that the name change become effective hopefully on the anniversary of Dr. King's assassination in Memphis. Tenn., which occurred April 4, 1968.

Thomas is suggesting a renaming of the entire length of 13th Street. It presently extends from Sanford Avenue in the eastern section of the city, to slightly beyond the Crooms School of Choice near Dixie Way, on the western side. While there are a

In addition to changing street signs and maps, the renaming of a street would also require changes in printed material such as advertising, stationery and business cards. One of the major businesses is Rich Plan of Florida, located at 401 W. 13th St. Thomas said, "I have already discussed the idea with Duke Adamson, president of Rich Plan."

The company's vice president, Brent Adamson, said he would prefer to continue calling it 13th Street. "It's easier to give directions," he said. "It might be confusing to explain to someone that 13th street is Martin Luther King Boulevard, while the 12th and 14th

Marine Patrol criticized for ethnic bias

MIAMI — A state senator and sport fishing group in Miami blasted the Florida Marine Patrol for issuing citations that ask violators to mark down whether they are Hispanic.

The citation, which is like a traffic ticket for boaters, asks defendants their vital statistic and then asks them to check a box indicating whether he or she is of "Hispanic ethnicity."

The citation does not mention any other ethnic group.
"That is discrimination if they only ask if you are Hispanic," said Felix Hernandez, president of the Miami Sport Fishing Association during a press conference Thursday with Sen. Lincoln Diaz-Balart, R-Miami.

"Whether you're Hispanic, black or Chinese, it doesn't matter at all. The infraction is the same," said Hernandes.

"That question is a vestige of a segregationist past that has to change," said Diaz-Balart. "It would be something else if there were several boxes for different ethnic groups."

Maj. Kenneth Clark, the Marine Patrol's district supervisor in Dade and Broward counties, said the question was for a means of identification.

Fiorida Power cleanup will be coetly

CRYSTAL RIVER — It will cost an estimated $1.5 million to clean up a massive bed of sea grass and algae that shut down two Florida Power Corp. plants last week, company officials

The sea grass and algae forced the shutdown of a coal-fueled plant and a nuclear power plant, posing a threat of brownouts throughout the utility's 32-county service area in West Central and North Florida.

The $1.5 million represents labor equipment costs for cleaning up the mess but not the cost of purchasing power to meet energy demand. Florida power spokesman Mark Jacobs said Wednesday, a week after the plants were returned to Jacobs said the figures on the purchased power were not available.

He said the cleanup costs and the 3,400-megawatt hours the utility purchased from other utilities represent a very small part of Florida Power's expenses and will not dramatically impact customers' bills.

Busing kids: Change proposed

TALLAHASSEE - Children should not have to walk to school through high-crime areas, a state lawmaker said, proposing a change in a limit on state funding for transportation.

The state now requires school districts to bus all children living two miles or more from school and provides about 60 percent of the money for that service.

But the state provides no money to bus students who live less than two miles from school unless they must travel through areas deemed hazardous because of high traffic or high speed limits. High-crime areas are not considered

Parents vow support of school district during budget crunch

The PTA met recently with the school board and members of the Seminole County legislative delegation to discuss the financial situation.

Most of the 70 or so people who were in attendance at last nights meeting said that they were new learning about the budget and how it was financed by Tallahassee, but they also expressed a frustration with the way the money was allocated.

"The funding formula has been worked, massaged and changed in Tallahassee," Smith said. "And it's not bad. It just doesn't help Seminole County too much."

Of the 67 school districts in Florida, Seminole ranks 65th in the amount of financial assistance it receives from the state. The district is one of top 10 in the state in terms of the number of students enrolled in the schools here.

Lottery meeting on hiring, contracts brings complaint

PENSACOLA - The Florida Lottery Commission will hold a special meeting to discuss Lottery Department hiring and contract controversies, but one member said the session sounds political.

Lottery Secretary Marcia Mann also accused the three-member majority appointed by former Republican Gov. Bob Martinez of politicizing the issues after a regular meeting in Pensacola Thursday.

Mann. who was appointed by Democratic Gov. Lawton Chiles. to try to put the matters to rest. said she will ask the governor to replace them when their terms expire.

Newspapers have reported that Chiles may have influenced a decision to extend a lottery contract with a computer company that has ties to the governor and that Mann has put former Chiles campaign workers on her payroll. The commission scheduled a special meeting Sept. 4 or 6 in Tallahassee on the issues. Chairman Bob Morrison, a Martinez appointee from Tampa. said the meeting was necessary

Bob Hattaway of Altamonte Springs, one of two commissioners appointed by Chiles, said

lottery staffers already have allegations and that the meeting would only result in bad publicity. 'You continue to hammer away at these kinds of things, it's negative press. And you don't need negative press," Hattaway said. "It looks like politics, and that's something we always stay away from." Mann earlier this year approved the three-year contract extension for Control Data Corp. for a main computer and 7,500 terminals in retail outlets across the state.

She claimed the extension would save the state $53 million. Commissioner James Stelling. a Martinez appointee from Orlando, questioned her figure, saying there's no way to tell if money has been saved because the contract wasn't put out for competitive bidding.

City to discuss bond promotion

By Mail Preshau Herald Staff Writer

SANFORD — The Sanford City Commission will discuss methods by which the $3 million recreation program bond can be promoted. The measure will be on a public referendum to be voted on Oct. 8.

The three major facilities recommended in the bond referendum have a total construction fund requirement of $3 million. The total dollar value of the bond issue to produce that amount is estimated at approximately $3.3 million, depending on the period of time selected for repayment.

the period of time selected for repayment.

Approximate amounts of the money scheduled for each of the projects include $1.9 million for construction of a large recreational center and sports complex at athletic complex near Seminole High School, and $600,000, or half the cost of a swimming pool, also to be constructed at the high school. The pool will be used by the school during regular school hours, and be open for public use during off-hours, weekends and vacation periods. An additional $600,000 will be paid for by the tional $600,000 will be paid for by the Seminole County School Board.

City Manager Bill Simmons indicated the discussion Monday night, will center on the best approaches the city might take to be certain the public is adequately informed about the total project. "We also want to be certain to supress any misinformation that may be circulated about it." Simmons said.

The city is expected to mail information about the total bond issue to all in-city utility customers, as well as participate in a number of speaking engagements before clubs, groups and organizations.

Stimmons said plans call for possibly one polling place for the voters, rather than four separate district sites. "The city commission still has to agree on all of this," Simmons said, "but this is the tentative plan as they will be presented."

The discussion will be held during a workshop meeting of the Sanford City Commission, beginning at 4:30 p.m. Monday afternoon. The regular city commission meeting is scheduled for 7 p.m., in the commission chambers at the Sanford City

Environmentalists support smaller wetland protection J. HANK BARFIELD

erald Staff Writer

SANFORD - Local environmentalists support a recommendation by Seminole County planners to regulate smaller wetland areas, but all say even more protection is needed.

"We need to preserve whole systems," said Pat Harden, a member of the St. Johns River Water Management District gov-erning board and past president of the Friends of the Wekiva River Inc., "not just isolated wetlands and large wetlands and uplands if we are to preserve (plant and animal) species."

"It is something that should have been done a long time ago," said Sharon Carveth, chairman of the Central Florida chapter of the Sierra Club. "Too many wetlands have fallen through the cracks that are too valuable to lose." "In general, the staff has done a good job with this plan," said Mary Ostrander, president of the Seminole County League of Women Voters. "But I agree with (league natural resources chairman) Polly Miller, the county should not allow 10 percent disruption."

Last month, the Florida Department of Community Affairs criticized portions of the county comprehensive development plan dealing with natural land protection. DCA reviewers said the county policy to allow up to 10 percent district may require even the of wetlands on a construction small wetlands to be replaced if alte to be altered did not offer they are found to be environ-ronment. It also criticized the county's policy not to protect wetlands smaller than five acres

County planners will recommend to commissioners Monday that the county should regulate wetland areas as small as onehalf acre in size. Planners would still allow disruption of up to 10 percent of the wetlands at a development site if those areas are not considered "significant."

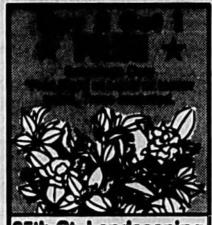

County natural resources officer Tim Clabaugh said he had encouraged county officials to protect wetlands a hald-acre in size in 1967 when the county adopted its award-winning wetlands protection ordinance. Clabaugh said the water district did not regulate wetlands smaller than five acres in size at the time, so county officials decided to be consistent with the

The district recently complied with a state order and lowered its protection "threshhold" to one-half acre.

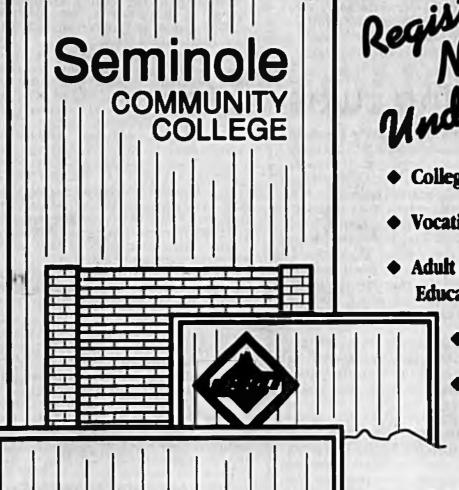

Clabaugh said larger wetlands would go undisturbed under the policy by regulating smaller wetlands. Since the county allows disrpution of a portion of the total wetlands on a site. he said a developer's 10 percent might be used up in the small nreas, leaving the larger ones untouched.

Harden agreed, but said the adequate protection of the envi- mentally significant.

Quayle's prey

The vice president's job is seldom a giorious one. Dan Quayle goes to funerals, visits bases, raises funds and comforts conservatives. He rarely speaks on policy or gives press

Recently, the Bush administration made an exception. Quayle went to Atlanta to tell the American Bar Association that America has too many lawyers. The lawyers greeted his speech with stony silence and watched as their president, in an extraordinary breach of etiquette, challenged the vice president before he had even left the podium.

But Quayle is right. America does have to many lawyers. And if it is not the administration's job to point out the economic and social costs of excessive litigation, whose job is it? The presidency should be a bully pulpit. With President Bush on vacation, let Quayle do it. The historical explanation for the lawyer phenomenon is that the United States is a nation of individual rights. The Bill of Rights was meant to guarantee that government did not trample on the governed. As the nation expanded, diversified, industrialized, it needed more lawyers to defend against encroachments by the system. Result: 70 percent of the world's lawyers today are Americans.

Quayle's job was to say officially what many Americans have said unofficially for years: that the balance has swung too far toward the individual; that the victim of excessive litigation today often is society itself. That in pursuit of his own self-interest. the individual, through his lawyer makes everybody pay.

The excessive cost of doing business in America hurts the economy, the motor of society. We pay higher costs for medicinc, insurance, education and government. Our economic productivity is lower because legal fees, a non-productive expense, are higher. The Japanese and Germans outcompete us because their sharpest minds are busy trying to create wealth, not take somebody else's.

Quayle's speech deserved to be given. It's symptomatic of the problem that John J. Curtin Jr., the ABA president, preferred to argue than to listen. Yes, Curtin and others can justifiably point to the progress made through litigation in civil liberties, product liability and personal injury law.

But it's time to take stock. Excessive litigation is a societal problem and requires a national debate. Should legal costs be shifted to the losers? Should legal contingency fees be eliminated? Should limits on punitive damages be imposed? Should the fixing of damages be transferred from juries to judges?

Tightening rules

To virtually no one's surprise, the House of Representatives has approved a $23,200 pay raise for senators, thus bringing their salaries to the same $125,100 that House members have been paid since the start of the year.

The trade-off is tighter ethics rules that will. among other things, prevent senators from receiving speaking fees and other payments from special interest groups. But senators still can pocket up to $23,068 in such outside income this year until the new law is signed. House members applied the same rules to themselves earlier when they voted for their pay raise.

Because of the House action, however, the rules on gifts for both chambers will be far less restrictive than before. In fact, the public disclosure requirement on gifts has essentially been climinated.

Current House rules require the public disclosure of gifts in excess of $100 per year from anyone doing business before Congress. The new rules raise the disclosure threshold to $250. But the rules also prohibit the acceptance of gifts exceeding $250. That means lawmakers will be required to disclose gifts only in cases where they already have violated the $250 limit.

The new rules also enable lawmakers to accept gifts worth up to $100, without any limit on the number of gifts accepted. This means lawmakers could accept goods and services worth thousands of dollars so long as they are divvied up in small amounts.

There is nothing wrong with lawmakers' voting themselves a pay raise, provided they do so in the open and shut the door on outside income and expensive gifts. But the manner in which lawmakers have cut this deal fails on both counts. The Senate has an opportunity to do the right thing by passing a companion bill that would scrap the liberalization of the gift rules and tighten them instead. This should include a public disclosure requirement that is enforceable.

Soviet spasms mark long goodbye

The historic events triggered by the coup of the hard-liners in Moscow are simply the latest developments in the ongoing drama of the Soviet Union's disintegration. Far from delaying that disintegration, their ultimate effect will be to accelerate it.

accelerate it.

As I have pointed out repeatedly in this space, there has never been the slightest chance that Mikhail Gorbachev, or anybody else, could by a series of judicious "reforms" convert the Soviet state into a peaceful democracy with a market-driven economy. The Soviet Union is the world's oldest and shrewdest totalitarian regime, entrenched in control of a society that has never known freedom and dominating a population educated for 73 years to fear and distrust individual initiative.

The only possible way forward for the Russian

The only possible way forward for the Russian people is to demolish the regime in toto and then, slowly and painfully, build on its ruins a brand-new society. The process of demolition will necessarily be long and hard, proceeding by fits and starts. What we are seeing now is simply

To put it another way, when a society begins to disintegrate, there are only two things its leaders can do: loosen up or crack down. Usually both are tried — first one and then, as it proves ineffective, the other. In his six years in power,

Gorbachev managed to push Soviet acciety through a truly remarkable series of irreversible changes. But today the economy to in far worse shape than it was under his predecessors, and he himself is sensationally unpopular. It was clearly time for a change, and the hard-liners not un-reasonably decided it was their turn.

But there is no chance whatever that they can put Boviet society back on the track (such as it was). Too many poppie have tasted freedom: too many statues of Lenin have been toppied. Any effort to reconstruct

the Soviet economy along the old command lines will be met with strikes, riots and even deadlier forms of (quiet)

Nor can the Soviet Union resume its pose as a superpower. The Warsaw Pact is officially defunct; the satellite nations of Eastern Europe are free; East Germany has been absorbed into the Federal Republic. True, the Soviet nuclear missiles are still poised, and must be watched lly. But their only serious function now is to scare our Democratic Congress into appropriating more money for the Strategic Defense initiative.

In due course, soon or late, the counterrevolution by the hard-liners will run its course. Then the initiative will shift to those who demand greater freedom, and the next stage of the drame greater freedom, and the next stage of the drama will supervene. Quite possibly that will be followed by another crackdown, and that by another hosening-up; and so on, until the whole blackboard has been crased.

Meanwhile, a reminder on a trivial but annoying point. The media are almost univer-sally referring to the Soviet hard-liners as "the conservatives." (I even heard one Cable News Network anchorman call them extreme rightists.") America's liberals have long spoken of the hard-liners in Soviet crises in this way, and the media are amiably going along, as usual. It reinforces the impression that "conservatives." the world over, are the guys wearing black hats.

Utility tax: something's wrong

The Seminole County Commission is determined to force the utility tax down the taxpayers throats regardless of apparent majority opposition.

According to the County Commission as reported by Herald articles, this utility tax is to be used to raise $2.3 million annually for road maintenance and repair.

The county needs, according to the Commission, $450,000 for repaying and repair of Sipes, Beardall, Upsala Road, and Celery Avenue. The Herald reported on July 29, that $230,507 is the county's "share" of the Heathrow Beautification project. On July 18, it was reported that $579,250, collected via the tourist tax, is to be spent on "tourist development." This includes $180,000 for a boardwalk at the zoo, $50,000 for midge control, $50,000 to develop Lake Mary Central Pond, $20,000 each for the Hydroplane race and the Red Lobster sailing regatta and $10,000 to promote Golden Age games.

The Commission also decided to spend $5,000 for judges suite draperies.

Channel 9 reported the groundbreaking of the $2 million Central Winds tark in Winter Springs. Where did that money come from?

Something is wrong when over $230,000 is spent on "beautification," $180,000 for a boardwalk, and $5,000 for drapes but $40,000 can't be found to pave a road.

Ron Rabun, the county manager, wants to lend $640,000 to a development review board. whatever that is. He also can't do the job he was hired to do without two deputies at a cost of $132,000 per year plus perks, plus his salary. And he was hired to do what we elected the commission to do.

These items add up to over $3,586,757 taxpayer dollars, and who knows what else is hidden in the proposed budget.

It appears there are some serious priority problems at the Seminole County Commission. especially during these tight money times. There seems to be enough taxpayer funds to run the county if it's done the way most of us have to budget just to get by. H.D. Hood Sanford

Property appraiser insensitive

Let's see if I understand Seminole County Property Appraiser Bill Suber correctly: Furnished with irrefutable proof of widespread tax inequities, he not only fails to state that he will check for errors, but does not see the need. i.e. "let them eat cake."

Citizens of countles unfortunate enough to have insensitive appraisers with the mind-set of Bill Suber will be forced to either work to have an amendment placed on the ballot for both a tax and amendment cap, or appeal to the state legislative body to address the inequities.

Taxes making us poor

Every time I pick up the paper, I read the same item over and over. Fed taxes up, county taxes, school taxes, utility tax, road tax, property taxes. My salary after taxes has dropped to a two-year loss.

The County Commissioners cannot find money, but yet (County Manager Ron) Rabun gave the Sheriff's Department everything it wanted. They would like 23 positions so they ask for 30, and they get 23.

The cost of living is up 5 percent but yet our teachers with 4 to 8 years of college are told by the School Board (who received 4 percent) there is no money for raises. Why? Because Mr. Chiles needs it to raise his staff from 30 to 80 thousand a year.

Lawmakers tour paid by big oil

WASHINGTON - Ten members of Congress and their entourage just got back from Alaska where they were supposed to take an impartial look at a wildlife refuge to decide whether it should be opened up for oil drilling. But the hosts for that impartial look were oil companies. Eight of the lawmakers who made the full tour stayed at an oil company lodge, flew in oil company helicoptern and were led around by oil company tour

In the one instance when the travelers used taxpayers' money to get around, they managed to squander the money. The delegation flew to Alaska in a military C-9 at a cost of $67.774. Commercial air fare for the members of Congress would have been a fraction of that, but then they wouldn't have been able to take along six spouses and a bevy of staffers.

The hospitality of the oil companies was thinly disguised lobbying, and it may stack the deck against the Arctic National Wildlife Refuge where the Bush administration wants to put out a welcome mat to oil drilling. The congressional delegation spent two nights at plush corporate lodg-ings owned by British Petroleum in Prudhoe Bay. And they toured the wildlife refuge in helicopters owned by the Alaska Oil and Gas Association with tour guides from British Petroleum who tried to convince the lawmakers that oil drilling would leave only a small footprint on the wilderness wonderland. A spokesman for the House Merchant Marine and Fisheries subcommittee, the group that made the tour, disagreed with environmentalists who said the trip was manipulated by oil companies. He noted that Rep. Gerry Studds, D-Mass., the chairman of the subcommittee and the leader of the delegation, is opposed to the drilling. And the spokesman said, "We were very careful to make sure the members were getting a balanced presentation."

But not careful enough to stay away from oil company favors. Our associate Jim Lynch asked why the delegation didn't pick a hotel without any strings attached, and the subcommittee spokesman said there was nowhere else to stay in Prudhoe Bay.

How about the Prudhoe Bay Hotel or the North Star Inn, only a short drive from the British Petroleum digs? They have about 800 rooms between them and both had vacancies. The apokesman said the corporate lodge was more convenient and claimed that all congressional delegations stay there. A clerk at the Prudhoe Bay Hotel had a better explanation: "We're not as fancy as what they have at British Petroleum.'

The subcommittee has indicated that it will reimburse British Petroleum if it gets a bill, but it's not clear whether that bill will ever come. A British Petroleum spokesman told us that catering to the needs of Congress was simply "an opportunity to show with pride how we do our business up here.'

No one is talking about paying back the Alaska Oil and Gas Association for the helicopters. They were a freebie arranged by Interior Secretary Manuel Lujan. House ethics officials found nothing improper about in an effort to get a balanced presentation. Rep. Studda insisted that British Petroleum allow two environmentalists from the Wilderness Society and the North Alaskan Environmental Center to come to Prudhoe Bay and give a slide show. But the environmentalists were not invited along on the helicopter tours, nor did they bunk in the British Petroleum lodge.

SANFORD - Residents of homes near 31 Seminole County lakes could be in for some good news or some bad news from the county's proposed revised maps of flood-prone areas.

The Army Corps of Engineers, commissioned by the county, found the water from many of the lakes could flood much broader areas during a hurricane than previously believed. But the Corps also found several lakes would not reach flooding heights the county had estimated.

The public and area officials have an opportunity to comment on the proposed levels at hearing 10 a.m. Thursday at the county's Agricultural Auditorium at the Five Points Complex.

Changes in county floodprone area maps can affect insurance rates for new homes, but could also serve to lower the insurance for some existing homes, said Sheila Hill, who reviews flooding areas in the county. She said if an existing home is removed from a floodprone area, its household insurance may be lowered.

But if an existing home is now within a floodprone area, their insurance will stay the

from the center of town

Hill said the county had used best available information to estimate the current flood levels, but using a federal grant, was able to get more accurate levels from the study.

The "100-year" level is the height water might reach during a storm that might occur only once every 100 years. Hurricane Donna, which passed through Sanford in September 1980, was the last

Lake Monroe, Lake Jesup and Lake Mary were not included in the study, Hill said. Detailed information on those lakes are known, she said.

Potential benefactors of the proposed changes are residents living next to or near Twin Lakes and Pearl Lake west of Sanford. The study found the 100-year level would reach much lower levels than previously thought.

But residents near the lakes Markham, Howard,
Ross, Linden and Rice, may find themselves in floodprone areas when they were not under the old county maps. Also mear Geneva, lakes Geneva, Upper Proctor and Buck, were found to have higher flood levels than previously believed.

Hill said the county requires homes to be build at least a foot above the flood level. Homes could be at risk of flooding where the levels were increased by more than a foot, she said.

Ealinger wrote that about 25 percent of the Seminole County manhours are spent in dealing with traffic in a copy of the letter provided by Chiles' press office this morning. Often deputies respond to acccidents and resolve them because no troopers are available, he wrote. Even when a trooper is available, a density has to be on hand to deputy has to be on hand to directo traffic, he wrote.

The highway patrol is re-examining its 10-year-old statewide staffing formula and is due to make recommendations to the Legislature by Nov. 1.

The formula, approved by the governor and Cabinet, was based largely on how many accidents were investigated in each county in 1961, Maj. Mike Boles, PHP spokesman, said Tnumday.

Boles said a task force representing state, county and local orcement authorities is working on a new plan to present to the governor, Cabinet and Legislature.

The patrol is also re-examining staffing in response to a state audit that and troopers were being assigned to some duties civilian employees could do less expensively.

Sumter County Sheriff Jamie Adams complained to Chiles in February, and sent the governor letters from 14 other sheriffs' offices which were using deputies to keep order at traffic accidents. Eslinger's Jan. 7 let-ter was directed to Adams in care of the Florida Sheriff's

15

The Florida Times-Union reported that it obtained copies of the letters, and while some generally praised the patrol, others criticized assignment of troopers to non-patrol duties and vying with sheriff's officers on criminal investigations. Several said population changes have outdated the staffing plan. For example, in 1980, Occeols County had 13 troopers who investigated 1,421 accidents. Last year, the number of troopers had been cut to nine but there were 2,418 accidents in the fast-growing area, Occeois County Sheriff Jon Lane wrote.

"More than half the time we're the first ones on the scene," St. Johns County Sheriff Neil Perry wrote. "Sometimes other crimes have to wait because we have a serious traffic accident."

Information from The Associated Press is unlained in this report.

Events spun madly from Thursday's first minutes when thousands of Russians still locked arms to protect their parliament against military attack, to their climax at 11:28 p.m., when a statue of Felix Dzerzhinsky came

The coup attempt by hardline Communists clearly had failed. But it was equally clear at the end of the day that although Gorbachev was restored to his place, the country could never be the the damp and cool of predawn to late summer sunshine and a moonlit night. Gorbachev returned to Moscow and proceeded to turn his security services and presidential staff upsidedown. He appeared before reporters to reveal how he had been kept isolated at his vacation home.

But all around the man who is both president of his country and chief of the Communist Party swirled a storm over which he had no control:

• The interior minister, coup conspirator Boris Pugo, shot and killed himself rather than face arrest, officials say. The act was reminiscent of the pre-Gorbachev politics of conspiracy and violence that Pugo represented.

 Boris Yeltsin rode a wave of resurgent pride among Russians, the Soviet Union's largest ethnic group, to even greater popularity and political power. His republic formally reverted to the white-red-and-blue flag that once flew over the czar's empire.

• The KGB apparently lost its ability to command obedience through intimidation. Its chief was under arrest and its icon, Dzerzhinsky's statue, was violated.

• Baltic republics, threatened by harsh repression if the coup succeeded, made gains toward their cherished Independence.

In no other day in the frequently dramatic six years since Gorbachev took power had there been a period when events tumbled past each other at such speed.

The biggest winners were the 15 Soviet republics. whose leaders mostly resisted the coup because it would have meant an end to their push for more autonomy. The biggest winner of all was

"Boris Yeltsin is now the center and the symbol of initiative in the Soviet Union," said radical Russian legislator Oleg Rumyantsev. He added he was "absolutely sure" that the Russian president was now more politically powerful than Gorbachev.

In the Baltics, the coup turned out to be an advantage. It seemed to prove to the rest of the world their longstated suspicious about remaining part of the Soviet Union, and it emboldened them to make even stronger declarations of their independence.

More practically, the embarrassed Soviet security forces slunk away from buildings they had seized in a campaign of intimidation. Around dusk, they pulled out of the Lithuanian broadcasting center in Vilnius, site of a bloody assault in January that left 14 people dead.

List of candidates narrowed for Seminole principal's job

SANFORD - The list of candidates to replace Wayne Epps as principal at Seminole High School has been narrowed to five. The decision of which one will be presented to the school board for their approval is in the hands of Supt. Robert Hughes. All are assistant principals in Seminole County schoolsatthistime. Bobby Lundquist who is at Seminole: Bill Moore and Dee Schumaker who are at Lake Mary High School: Gretchen Schapker who is at Lyman High School in Longwood and Raymond Gaines, who is presently at Lake Brantley High School in Altamonte Springs, are still in running. The original list of candidates was reduced by a assistant principal at Seminole committee which included Dr. Marion Dailey. assistant superintendent for instruction; Jack Heisler, director of high school education: John Reichert, director of personnel and Lance Abney. a social studies teacher at Seminole. The school board will vote on the superintendent's recommendation next Tuesday's 7 p.m.

Epps has transfered to Oviedo High School to replace Charlie Webb who recently retired.

A story in Thursday's Sanford Herald may have left an erroneous impression about the actions of a Seminole High School teacher in relation to a petition in support of Bobby Lundquist.

Clarification

Lundquist presently is an and the subject of the petition favoring his appointment as principal of that school.

It was reported that Lance Abney, a social studies teacher at the school did not sign the petition that was endorsed by 85 members of the school's staff.

Abney, who is the teacher representative serving on the committee that was charged with reviewing the applicants for the job, was singled out as not having signed the petition only to point out that he had remained unbiased in his the task.

It was not meant to imply that he did not support Lundquist in his current position at the

By J. MARK BARFIELD Heralf Staff Writer

SANFORD — Seminole County Corrections Administrator David Brierton praised the actions of corrections staff Wednesday in responding quickly to bedding fires reportedly started by inmates in two separate incidents.

"One of them could have been a real problem if they didn't act quickly," Brierton said. "You just have days like that sometimes."

The first and potentially most serious fire was reported at about 1:30 p.m. when Corrections Officer Agustin Valentine Jr. reported hearing someone shouting "fire" from the women's holding cells. CO Pam Pettit was summonded and she reported seeing black smoke issuing from a cell. Pettit quickly extinguished the fire and pulled the inmate from the cell.

Brierton said the inmate, Carol Sue Brightwell, 27, 101 Larkspur Drive, Altamonte Springs, was checked by a physician, but did not sustain injuries. Brightwell has been held since Aug. 13 after leading Sanford police on a chase of up to 100 m.p.h. The chases ended when her car veered off State Road 46 into a ditch near Upsala

Jernigan will retire from his job earlier

By NICK PPEIFAUF Herald Staff Writer

SANFORD - The city's Director of Parks, Jim Jernigan, has announced an earlier retirement date than originally planned. He will leave office as of September 30.

When he first planned his retirement. Jernigan had suggested the effective date of February 21. "After I looked at several items, particularly health insurance," he said, "I determined that an earlier retirement would be more practical."

Jernigan had expected to remain in his job until after the Golden Age Games, scheduled for November 3 through 9. He has been chairman of the games since they began 18 years ago. and is considered to be one of the major originators of the annual event as well as one of the driving forces behind its continuing success.

on that project." While he has been a city employee, Jernigan has been allowed to volunteer his services as chairman. The final decision will be in the hands of the directors of the Golden Games Corporation.

He has no immediate plans for his retirment. When he first announced the move he said, "I don't have any definite plans. I lust want to relax and continue to have fun in my life."

Jernigan, who turned 60 in July, has served in his present capacity for the past 31 years in Sanford, with an additional 5 years in similar positions in North and South Carolina.

Sanford City Manager Bill Simmons, who is responsible for finding a replacement for Jernigan's position with the city has not officially advertised for the job yet.

"That's something we'll have ontinuing success. to be doing within the next week While his future connection or two," he said. As of the present time, Simmons reported no one has indicated an interest in applying for the position.

tourist trips still on hold

By MICK PFEIFAUF Herald Staff Writer

SANFORD - A large jet engine passenger aircraft arrived In Sanford yesterday afternoon en route to the Bahamas. It was a temporary stopover however, not a return to regular daily service to the Bahamian island.

Steve Cooke, director of the airport said, "This plane, a commercial 737, belongs to Bahamas Air. It has no connection with the one that was used for the Paradise Island flights." He explained, "This particular flight is a private one, which arrived in Sanford shortly after 6 o'clock, to take on a load of passengers from the Hawaiian Tropic company.'

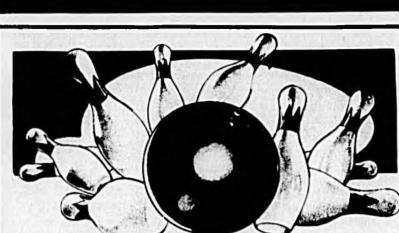

The earlier flights between Sanford and the Bahamas, specifically to Paradise Island, used DeHavilland Dash-7 4-engine aircraft, painted white, blue and yellow. The proposed daily flights started off with great hopes several months ago, but were discontinued after just a few weeks of operation. During that time, the only passengers were travel and tour agents and their representatives, who were to handle sales of the two-day one-night packages which included hotel lodgings, and castno privileges.

The island, casinos and hotels are all owned and operated by Merv Griffin, of television fame. They are continuing under normal operation. The only change was the flight cancellation from Sanford.

The financial backers of the actual aircraft, cancelled the flights, reportedly due to the fact that their investments appeared unlikely to make a desired profit.

Poehl blanks SunRays

ORLANDO - Mike Poehl (5-4) pitched a five-hit shutout Thursday as Memphis had a season-high 21 hits in its 12-0 win over Orlando.

Poehl struck out one and didn't walk any. Memphis had four hits each from Kevin Long and Darryl Robinson. John Toale drove in four runs, and Jim Baxter went 3-for-3.

Orlando had to recruit its second baseman. Carlos Capellan, to throw the ninth inning because the SunRays ran out of pitchers. Pat Bangison (11-10) got the loss for Orlando.

Braves edge Jacksonville

JACKSONVILLE - Scan Ross hit a two-run double in a three-run fifth inning to lead Greenville to a 4-3 win Thursday over Jacksonville.

Jeff Wetherby, Rueben Gonzalez and Tony Manahan each had RBIs for the Suns. Ben Rivera (10-7) worked 6 1-3 innings to earn the win while Bill Taylor picked up his 20th save. Marcus Garcia suffered the loss.

COLLEGE FOOT

Miami: Torretta to start

CORAL GABLES - Gino Torretta will be the University of Miami's starting quarterback for the Aug. 31 season opener at Arkansas, Coach Dennis Erickson announced Thursday.

Torretta, a fourth-year junior from Pinole, Calif., beat out Bryan Fortay for the job, but not by much, according to Erickson.

There has been talk of Fortay, a third-year sophomore from East Brunswick, N.J., transferring if he didn't get the starter's job. Erickson said he didn't expect that to happen, but added that Fortay was unhappy about the news.

Florida: Dean beats out Fox

GAINESVILLE - Florida Coach Steve Spurrier named redshirt freshman Terry Dean as his backup quarterback Thursday heading into Saturday's second full-contact scrimmage.

Dean, who had been competing with junior Brian Fox for the backup position behind Shane Matthews, locked up the job in Wednesday's scrimmage when he led the offense to three touchdowns in three possessions.

Fox, meanwhile, hurt his chances for the job Wednesday with two interceptions in the team's first scrimmage. Spurrier has planned another full-contact scrimmage for Saturday and said the things could still change.

Florida State: 'Noles fine tune

TALLAHASSEE - Florida State's offense continued fine-tuning its game Thursday following a disappointing scrimmage the day before.

"I saw that if we don't do better, I don't think we can win the game." said coach Bobby Bowden. "It would be hard for me to think we could win the game executing like we did."

The Seminoles held their final scrimmage of the preseason Wednesday. The offense spent Thursday's practice correcting missed assignments and regaining a measure of intensity.

Harriers in the hunt

Lake Mary senior David Lewis has the seventh best time of those returners who competed in last year's Class 4A cross country state meet.

Rams, Pats ranked; 'Hounds not far off

By TONY Desormien Herald Sports Editor

LAKE MARY - When getting ready for a new season, the best way to get an early handle on who are the teams to beat is look back at what they did last season.

In high school cross country, that means taking last year's state championship meet, eliminating all the seniors who should have graduated and rescoring the meet with the remaining competitors. Following that sequence of logic, defending Class 4A boys cross country state champion Lake Worth-John I. Leonard, which returns four of its top runners from last year's squad, is a solid favorite to repeat with defending Class 3A state champ Gainesville-Buchholz, which moves up to 4A this year, a close second.

The Lake Mary Rams, led by senior David Lewis, is seventh in the preseason poll with the Lake Brantley Patriots coming in 12th.

Filling in the rest of the top 12 are Jacksonville-Middleburg (3rd), Tampa-Gaither (4th), Clearwater (5th), Pensacola-Washington (6th), Melbourne-Palm Bay (8th), Coral Springs (9th), Lauderdale Lakes-Boyd Anderson (10th) and Cooper City (11th).

"The only way to do a preseason poll like this last year," said Lake Mary coach Willie Calloway. who compiled the ranking. "That's what the state ranking is based on, getting to the state

Calloway admitted that basing the state ranking strictly on last year's state meet can exclude a young, developing team that didn't make it to the championship event a year ago but becomes a state force this year.

"Lyman is a perfect example," said Calloway.
"They won the Seminole Athletic Conference championship last year but didn't get to the state meet. They'd definitely be in the top 20 this year and could break into the top 10."

Individually, Lewis is the county's highest ranked runner, his time of 15:44 at last year's state meet the seventh best of those competitors eligible to return to the state meet this year, which will be run on Saturday, Nov. 23, on the north campus of Florida Community College-Jacksonville.

Lake Mary sophomore Toby Ayers is the only other Seminole County runner in the preseason top 20, his 1990 state meet time of 16:37 putting

The complete individual top 10 is, in order, Jaime Fain and Ryan McNally of Leonard, Miami Beach's Luis Prestes, Chris Thomas of Leonard, Buchholz's Randy Hollinger and Jonathan Schol. Lewis of Lake Mary. Tampa-Leto's James Seller. Craig Gillespie of Middleburg and Gaither's Kyle Hoge.

Besides Lewis and Ayers, junior Steve Platt also represented Lake Mary at the state meet last year, finishing 104th. Expected to round out the Rams' lineup this year are seniors Chris Hurd and Eric Hamm and Junior Joshua Smith.

Lake Brantley has four of its runners who competed in last year's state meet back for another shot this year. They are juniors Michael Capelli (59th at last year's state meet) and Wes liler (64th) and sophomores Dan Hilley (73rd) and Hunter Kemper (103rd). Senior Danny Rodriguez also returns for the Patriots.

Capelli's time of 16:58 at the state meet is the 30th best among returning meet competitors. Iller, who ran a 17:06 last year, is 31st with Hilley's time of 17:17 the 38th lowest mark.

Of the seven runners on Lyman's SAC championship team last year, the only one who graduated was Kevin Padgett. The six possible returners are seniors Eric Schmalmaack and Francisco Somarriba and juniors Dan Melvin, Brian Nelsen, Johnny Carrasquillo and Caleb

SANFORD - What if they gave a softball tournament and nobody came? Odds are, they'd reschedule it. At least that's what the Sanford Recreation Department did, cancelling this weekend's scheduled Summer Blowout softball tournament but announcing that it would try again later this fall.

"We only had four teams pay the entry fee," said Sanford Recreation Department supervisor Rocky Ellingsworth Thursday night. "After we cancelled it, we had two more teams say they were interested."

Ellingsworth said that still left them about six teams short of being able to run a quality tournament.

"You need a minimum of 10 to 12 teams to have a good tournament," said Ellingsworth. "If you have 12 teams playing in a double-elimination format, that's a 23-game tournament. That makes things interesting. That way, a team just can't waltz through it. It makes it a little competitive. And that's what tournaments are all

As it turned out, this is a bad time of year for local groups to be planning tournaments. According to Ellingsworth, there are at least two big regional tournaments being played this weekend in Atlanta.

"There are a lot of big tournaments going on the next couple of weekends," he explained. "I know there's an ASA and a USSSA tournament this weekend in Atlanta. A lot of teams in the area are going to them.

Ellingsworth said the Recreation Department hopes to try to host a tournament in October or November.

Walsh battling for Saints' No. 1 spot

MIAMI - Steve Walsh is in the midst of another quarterback duel, and the outcome will depend a lot on how he does when the New Orleans Saints face the Miami Dolphins Saturday

Walsh is fighting for the starting slot against returning veteran Bobby Hebert as he prepares to do battle against the Dolphin defense in the exhibition finale at Joe Robbie Stadium.

TAMPA - It's only a preseason game, but Steve DeBerg admits he'll probably have a special feeling when he trots onto the field Friday night to lead the Kansas City Chiefs against the Tampa Bay Buccaneers.

DeBerg, who's beginning his 15th NFL season, was traded to Kansas City in 1988 after spending four years with the Bucs, who haven't had a winning record since 1982 and won only 14 games during his stay.

Pats eyeing move to Jacksonville?

Associated Press

JACKSONVILLE - New England Patriots owner Victor Kiam met in May with the head of Barnett Banks and later boasted to some National Football League owners that he had struck a deal to move his team to Jacksonville, a newspaper reported Thursday.

Sources told The Florida Times-Union in Jacksonville that the meeting between Klain and Barnett Chairman Charles Rice temporarily hurt the city's changes to land an expansion team. "Rice met with him in New York to discuss moving the team to Jacksonville. It hurt the city because some owners though Jacksonville was making an effort to get the team. At the time, some thought Jacksonville may have shot itself in the foot there," an NFL source told the newspaper. "Victor came to the league meetings (May 22-23 in Minneapolis) saying he had a deal worked out with Jacksonville. What gave the story some credence was that (Rice) flew to New

DEAR ABBIS I need help and don't know where to turn

My husband and I have been separated for more than two years. I still love him, but there is no chance of our getting back

Abby, how do you stop loving somebody? I've been going to group therapy meetings, but it has not helped to stop the ache in my heart. Misery may love company, but it doesn't make me feel any better.

Our only rule is, try to keep the stomach muscles pulled in while cleaning. It's hard at first. But actually seeing the muscles tightened helps one to keep them taut after the body is clothed.

Most of us have mirrors in every room. As we go from room to room cleaning, we can't help but come face-to-face with ourselves. This may sound crasy, but I promise it works if Excited youngsters disembark to scurry up and down the halls, chattering like squirrels as they search for their classrooms and scrounge through their backpacks for locker combinations, schedules, and book receipts. Scents of chalk dust, lunch preparation, and fresh paint mingle in the air. The bell rings. Lockers slam shut. Three minutes pass and all is quiet. Another school year has begun. . . a year dedicated to guiding young minds. minds...to molding them for our next generation. The ability to learn is a gift from God. As our muscles develop with exercise, so our mind becomes more keen if we continually seek to learn and to grow. Proverbs 18:15 observes, 'The heart of the discerning acquires knowledge; the ears of the wise seek it out." May we exercise our minds and our spirits as we worship God each Sabbath, seeking wisdom for our lives and increasing in knowledge of the "Wonderful Counselor," our greatest teacher. Copyright 1991, Keisler-Williams Newspaper Services, P. O. Box 8005, Charlottesville, VA 22908

'Standing orders of the believer'

Orace to you and peace from God our Patchr and from our Lord and Sevier Jesus Christ.

What's important? Well, many things are, but most importantly is the counsel of our Lord to us. What really matters is how God's Word directs our path. In I Thesealonians 5:16-18, we read these words: "Rejoice always. Pray without ceasing. In every thing give thanks: for this is the will of God in Christ Jesus for These three verses have been called by some "the standing orders of the believer." They are in the imperative mood, forceful commands directing our at-titudes and actions. The very use of the imperative forces us to regard rejoicing, praying and giving thanks as things rather than feelings. We all know that feelings cannot be commanded. Telling your spouse not to feel angry or your child not to feel hadly seldom leads to a happy evening at home. But God has commanded in I These, that we "Rejoice always. Pray without ceasing and in everything give always be a basic joy in our feel happy when I've just smashed my thumb with the hammer, or even when I've just lost a tennis match, etc. Throughout the Bible we are called to joy and rejoicing in our suffering. We must distinguish between joy and happiness. One can't be happy all the time, but I'm convinced that there can

The basis of our joy is Jesus Christ himself. For in Him we are able to distinguish between appearances and reality. Joy is experiences that bring us re-tied to reality, not merely to wards. Please don't ask me to appearances. The reality of life appearances. The reality of life eternal is Jesus in central in our minds and hearts, and because of this we can rejoice even when the earthly moment appears hopeless and unhappy. It really becomes a matter of obedience.

> We need to pray without ceasing. How? Well we ought to be converting unceasing thinking into unceasing prayer. If we think and live in the presence of God, then God is always there and open to us; and we can consciously bring all of our works and deeds into His presence. When, for example, one is is an unceasing awareness of that other person. The bottom line here is practicing the pre-sence of God in everything that

The third command, to give thanks, grows out of the first two. Joy and uncessing prayer flow forth in a constant stream of gratitude. We can give thanks to everything because we are cer-tain that God is at work for good. While we may not be able to give thanks of all of the things that happen, we can give thanks in everything for the confidence that God is always present and at work for good, in our lives. Therefore we read, "this is the will of God to Christ Jesus for

You are encouraged to take this World of God most seriously. Obedience to these commands is difficult. But Christ calls us to a life of joy, prayer, and gratitude. Nothing worthwhile is ever easy, but as we yield to the Holy Spirit to empower us we will grow in His grace. May your tomorrows be ones of rejoicing, unceasing prayer and the giving of thanks! Amen.

The Rev. Frank Ladvinka is poster of Lord of Life Lutteron Church, 306 Tuskanille Rd., Winter Springs.
