Mihailovic

Draja Mihailovic has been executed. The man who organized the guerillas of Yugoslavia to resist the Germans in 1941 and delayed the German attack on Russia was convicted of treason and collaboration and shot in Belgrade.

Before he was captured, Mihailovic wrote a letter to friends in Switzerland which may become one of the historic documents of the war. In the letter, released by the Committee for a Fair Trial for Draja Mihailovic, the Chetnik leader wrote:

"I have always told you that the Allies must some day realize the mistake they had made in giving Yugoslavia into the hands of Tito and his terroristic Communists. Inside the country the terror grows worse from day to day. In our free mountains there are today over 100,000 againg men, divided into groups of from 10 to 100.

You may know my strategic purpose: To maintain myself at all costs for the great thak which lies ahead. It may be that I shall fail in our sacroid cause. But you all know well that this would not mean that the righteous cause for which our nation is tighting would fall with me. For I am only carrying out the will of the people-that is why I commenced the struggle against the occupying forces and later against the Communists."

Mihailovic fell, but if he could know the public indigna-tion in America at the way in which his trial was conducted, he would know that this country is aware more than ever before of the importance of his cause, and of the heroism of a man who never gave up fighting for his people.

New Ventures

Some of the new businesses springing up are not at all unusual or remarkable. They fill an obvious need which a particular town has been aware of for years, but nobody has done anything about.

In Wilmar, Minnesotar for exemple, a group of reterans got together and decided it was about time the place had bus service. They raised some money, bought three second-hand busses, dug through the usual red tape and got the permission of the town council.

The Willmar bus service started to roll the other day. Schedules were a little strange, and Selby Ogren, the mannger, worried about whether be could break the citizens of their habit of walking everywhere, but the vehicles kept moving, approximately one every half hour. One good indication that the bus line will make its way is that from the first morning there have been complaints, mostly about the routes picked.

Veterans with persistence and imagination can think up a good many schemes like this to perform a real service to their own communities. Moreover, the ventures are likely to be profitable for the men who have business sense and are willing to work hard.

DANGEROUS ROOM

The kitchen is the busiest room | Mr. and Mrs. Enmet V. | the home-especially during summer canning season-and also the most dangerous room, according to safety advisers of the U. S. Department of Agriculture. This week, while National Farm Safety Week is being observed. housewives may well give earnest consideration to kitchen accident figures and ways to make their kitchens safer.

Almost one out of every five home accidents causing injuries serious enough to juquire hospital care occurs in the kitchen, according to National Safety Council estimates. These accidents include falls, burns and scalds, collisions and bumps, cuts, bruises and poisoning.

Mote than a fourth of these kitchen accidents are burns and scalds, with burns by steam and hot liquids the most frequent. Carelessness more often is the cause of these burns than poor kitchen equipment. Simple pre-cautions that will prevent many burns are: lifting the lid of kettles so that the steam escapes away from rather than toward the worker; turning pot handles so that they do not extend over the edge of the stove; using pot holders that are thick and dry.

Children as well as housewives are among the chief sufferers from kitchen scalds and burns. Safety advisers agree that the kitchen is not a safe place for young children to play unless a young children to play unless a far corner, away from the stove, is fenced off for them.

About one in ten of the falls causing death or injury takes place in the kitchen. Hazards causing falls are highly polished linoleum or floors made slippery by spilled grease, water or fruit peelings; also the use of chairs, stools or tables instead of safe kitchen ladders for reaching high shelves. Avoid much waxing of kitchen floors, however attractive it may be, say safety advisers, and wipe up anything spilled on and wipe up anything spilled on the floor immediately. Arrange adequate and orderly storage places so that no articles are left on the floor as tripping hazards. Keep knives and matches stored out of the way of children.

JOHNNESBURG — A recent drive for non-European maternity nurses resulted in 15 native girls volunteering for one hospital. The authorities were very satisfied with their intelligence and keenness. After some months of training they were transferred to a maternity hospital for practical work. Here they showed even more promise and the matron was lelighted. After a few weeks the ecret of their keenness was recaled. The native nurses liked heir work so much that they and all decided to become mothers hemselves.

Last Of Sandy Hook Steamers Toots Thirty

AP Newsfeatures. JERSEY CITY, N. J.—Topside farewell mourner tugged the wheelhouse cord and the respon-sive whistle blast was a farewell

It was the farewell of a sleek teamship that had carried Presidents, the big and little of the great world for half a century. A-feature of New York's trans-portation facilities, the passenger steampship line which began operating in 1860 to the Jersey Highlands was called off during he war because of the aubmarine menace outside the harbor nets. The service now has ben perma-nently cancelled by the Central Railroad of New Jersey. The SS Sandy Hook was the last queen of the 80-year dynasty. Old-timers remember that the Hook and her sister, the Mon-mouth, carried Presidents Grant and Wilson and such greats of finance and seciety as Jay Gould, Bernard Baruch, George F. Baker, Sr., and Cornelius Bliss Rail officials estimate the Hook carried 15,000,000 passengers in the period from 1889 to 1941. During the war, the Hook was

SOBBING WILDLY, Mrs. Ada Jones is comforted in a Chico, Cal., courtroom by a friend after she had pummelled Mrs. Lydia Crandall during the arraignment on murder charges of Albert Jones, 14, her son. The outburst began when Mrs. Crandall, mother of slain Patricia Crandall, 15, asked the youth, "Why did you kill my daughter?". Mrs. Jones forced Mrs. Crandall against a wall and punched her. Nazi U-Boat Pens Defy Destruction In Bergen Harbor

AP Newsfeatures

BERGEN Norway—The Nazis built a "monument" to Nazism in Bergen harbor that probably will remain intact to vex Norwegians for some time to come. It's the massive U-boat shelter which neither allied bombing nor sab-tage could more than shake. Erected strategically near the entrance to one of the two hill-bordered harbors, the massive pens were devised to provide maximum protection to submarines and crews.

Six pens extending out into deep water of the channel are covered with more than 20 feet of reinforced concrete. The heaviest bombs dropped directly on the top did little more than scuff the surface,

Drive Begun To Up Aid To Poorer Areas

Larger Share In Social Security Money Is Sought, As End Of Session Nears

WASHINGTON, July 26 (P)—Southerners opened a drive in the Senate Finance Committee today to gain a larger share of Federal Social Security funds for the lower income states. Com-mittee Chairman Walter George of Georgia told a reporter that he will do the Best he can to win adoption of a system of variable grants.

Benate Claude Pepper of Flor

lda said he will work for a plan whereby all persons sharing in the funds withild get equal amounts of federal cash. The House was approved the con-tinuance of the present formula under which a state must watch dollar-for-Hollar whatever federal funds it gets for aid to the aged, blind persons and dependent nothers and children. Congress, meanwhile, is clean-ing up its unfinished business in time to adjourn some time next week. The congressional reor-ganization bill, atomic energy control legislation, the railroad retirement bill, and other odds and ends remain to be completed. The House passed the reorganization bill in a slightly til ferent form than the Senate Whereas the Senate version gave he lawmakers a boost in pay from $10,000 to $15,000 a year the House voted a salary of $12,500 plus a tax free $2,500 expense account. These differ ences must be trended out, but leaders in both chambers feel sure that the hill will be com pleted before adjournment.

There is not so much certainly that the railroad retirement bill will clear the Sanate in time, however. Numerous amendments have been offered, and Majority Leader Albem Barkley, says hereful more man retirement with the same control of the same

The Senate-House conference committee had agreed to make the control board an allivilian organization, as favored by the Senate. Another measure that may get left by the wayside when Congreas adjourns is the national housing bill, which has passed the Senate but has been bogged weeks. President Truman has asked for action on it, and in obedience to his request, Chairman Brent Spence of the Rouse Banking Committee has called his group together to resume
