Storm Center Is Moving Northwest

Barometer Reported Down In Titusville And St. Augustine

(By The Associated Press) A moderate tropical storm a short distance north of Titusville at 3:00 P. M. was apparently moving toward the west. It appears that the center will pass inland not far north of Titusville shortly. It will be attended by squalls of moderate gale force from Titusville to Jacksonville the remainder of the afternoon and early tonight.

A moderate tropical storm was centered a short distance east of Daytona Beach and Titusville at 3 P. M. E. K. T. Moving rapidly northward at about 15 to 20 miles per hour. The highest winds so far reported are about 40 miles an hour. Present indications are that the center will cross the coast near or a short distance south of Jacksonville within a few hours, attended by moderate gales. Storm warnings are now displayed from Fort Pierce northward to Charleston, S. C.

Jacksonville, Aug. 21

(AP)—The Weather Bureau today ordered storm warnings hoisted along Atlantic seaboard from Fort Pierce to Charleston, S. C., as a tropical disturbance of moderate but increasing intensity moved northwestward about 150 miles off shore. The center of the storm was placed east of Melbourne in the 9:30 A. M. advisory. The storm was said to be attended by strong winds and heavy squalls over a wide area. Caution was advised along the coast in the area of the warning display against heavy squalls and tides above normal and very dangerous conditions. It was said, however, to develop some distance off the coast. Barometer readings taken at Titusville at 2:00 P. M. showed that the pressure had fallen 7 points in one hour. St. Augustine reports increasingly squally weather with brisk northeast winds. The barometer was reported at 29.92. No reports of high wind have so far been received anywhere along the coast.

Townsend Urges Followers To Be Non Partisan

Founder Says Support Those Supporting Pension Plan

"The Townsend Organization was created for only one purpose," says Dr. F. E. Townsend, founder of the Townsend Pension Plan, in the current issue of the Townsend weekly, "to secure the enactment of the Townsend Recovery Plan into law. The Townsend Organization is not a political organization; it is not a political party; it has not endorsed the Democratic Party, the Republican Party, the United Party, the Socialist Party, the Communist Party. It is not interested in partisan politics. I repeat, its only purpose is to secure the enactment of the Townsend Recovery Program into law. Personally, I am going to vote for candidates for national office who are pledged to the enactment of the Townsend Plan into law. I may vote for a Democrat for the Senate or a Republican for congressman. "I doing this, and in making this statement, I am carrying out the non-partisan policy of the Townsend organization. I am not endorsing any party. I am acting strictly as a non-partisan—with only one purpose in mind, which should be the purpose of every loyal Townsendite, to elect men to national office who will support and work for the enactment of the Townsend Plan. "To accomplish this we must secure the approval of the Senate, the House of Representatives and the president of the United States. It is true that we can accomplish our purpose without the approval of the President, but in the Soldiers' Bonus fight we have seen how a hostile president can hold up for years, as in the payment of the bonus to the soldier boys, meritorious legislation through the power of the veto. "I want to urge all Townsendites to support the Townsend Plan." (Continued on page five)

War Department Says River Needs No Improvement Now

Allocation of funds for maintenance dredging in the channel of the St. Johns River to Sanford will be made whenever it is found necessary to restore project dimensions, Senator William L. Hill of Florida has been notified by Brigadier General C. B. Pillsbury, acting chief of engineers for the United States War Department. However, the river is now in excellent condition and no dredging appears to be necessary during the present fiscal year, General Pillsbury said. A number of shoals were removed from it between Palatka and Sanford during the Department's fiscal year ending June 30, 1936, at a cost of approximately $10,000. The location providing for the St. Johns River work in 1936 was slashed to nothing for 1937, and the Seminole County Chamber of Commerce has been taking steps toward securing maintenance funds. Assurances were made that it will be taken care of, but that at present no work is necessary. The Chamber of Commerce sent telegrams to both of Florida's senators and all representatives in the national capital urging that arrangements be made for an allocation for a dredging project. It is customary for Congress to allot a lump sum for the waterways of the nation each year. Later, Army engineers divide the appropriated sum among various sections of the country as it is needed. Slightly less than $1,000,000 was said to be the amount allocated for work in the St. Johns River between Jacksonville and the Atlantic ocean.

The Home Owners' Loan Corporation, which during the three-year period of its refinancing operations terminating last June has loaned to residents of Seminole County a total of $402,584, has just filed in Circuit Court here its first mortgage foreclosure suit in this county. The corporation's case is against Thomas L. Dean, Mabel P. Dean, Howlett M. Fletcher, and Bernice J. Fletcher to foreclose its $1,300.39 mortgage on property located on the New Upsala Road. The Deans are former residents of Sanford, but now live in DeLand, while the Fletchers are living on the property which the HOLC is seeking to take over for non payment of the loan. The case will come up at the next session of the Court. Fred R. Wilson is attorney for the corporation. Of the 13,419 Florida home owners who borrowed money from the HOLC, 238 of them are residents of this county. Distressed home owners in Florida borrowed a total of $30,677,880 from the corporation with slightly over $3,000,000 going toward the payment of taxes and assessments. Eleven and three-tenths percent of the 119,323 non-farm homes owned in Florida were refinanced by the HOLC.

Wilcox Plans To Visit City In Near Future

Will Address Joint Meet Of River Improvement Group And Kiwanis Club

Representative J. Mark Wilcox will address the semi-annual meeting of the St. Johns River Improvement Association here Wednesday noon, at a joint meeting with the Sanford Kiwanis Club at the Mayfair Hotel. It was announced today by Joseph I. Marcotte, chairman of the Kiwanis committee in charge of the program.

Many other notables of the state have been invited to speak at the meeting, but as yet Representative Wilcox is the only one who has officially accepted the invitation. Among those invited are Congressman R. E. "Lex" Green of Starke, Joe E. Hendricks of DeLand, Democratic nominee for congressman from the new Fifth District, Judge C. O. Andrews, Democratic nominee for the U. S. Senate to fill the unexpired term of the late Senator Park Trammell, Senator Scott M. Loftin of Jacksonville, and Senator George H. Hill of Jacksonville.

George W. Gibbs of Jacksonville, president of the St. Johns River Improvement Association, will preside at the meeting, plans for which were made by Karl Lehmann, secretary of the association. The principal aim of the association is to secure the construction of the St. Johns-Indian River Canal, which it is said would mean better water transportation for the enormous volume of fruits and vegetables produced in the central Florida section, as well as affording an inland waterway from Jacksonville to the East Coast for the citrus industry.

Representative Wilcox has repeatedly expressed himself as favoring the construction of the St. Johns-Indian River canal. Formerly representing this section (Continued on page five)

Nations Say Spain Must Keep Civil War Well In Hand

England, Germany Order Men-Of-War To Retaliate If They Are Fired On

U. S. Determined To Stay Neutral

(By The Associated Press) Stern orders to keep Spain's civil war in bounds were flashed today to the warship bridges of two great powers—Great Britain and Germany.

England, adopting a similar policy to that of the Reich, served notice on Madrid that British warships will fire warning shots, "shot aim" if they are fired upon by Spanish vessels.

Similarly yesterday Germany, enraged by the reported search of a German merchant ship by a loyalist Spanish warship, ordered its men-of-war to answer "force with force."

That drew all the tighter the gathering international lines between Fascism and Socialist-Communist blocs.

Britain, however, made it clear her action, announced today, was independent of the Reich.

Hours of anxiety spurred by reports of revolt in Portugal gave way to relief when rumors fell short of confirmation.

The United States, determined as ever to remain "scrupulously aloof from the chaos on the Iberian peninsula," urged a peace-making in the dispute.

Other large countries in the Americas previously had indicated they desired to take no such action at this time.

Premier Mussolini, his troops in a state of readiness, was reported reliably to have directed his envoys to sound out foreign reaction to an abandonment of the neutrality negotiations in the conflict. It Duce was determined to accept no agreement that did not provide moral as well as practical neutrality.

He was equally determined, informed observers believed, to permit no strong Socialist state to arise from an aftermath of the civil war.

Sundown Stories

By MARY GRAHAM BONNER

The Chicken's Story.
The little chicken felt like a new chicken when morning came and Mrs. Quacko fixed her wings. Before him was sunlight and his feet felt cool and comfortable and the little ducks were bringing seeds to him for breakfast.

"Now you must tell us what happened," requested Mrs. Quacko. "It happened yesterday. I suppose, or maybe the day before—I really don't know. It seems so long ago," the chicken began. "I had scarcely left my mother's side as some of us were following her by the roadside when a great loud noise thing came along. My mother said:

"An automobile! Run! She didn't tell us which way to run, nor when to stop running. So I ran and I ran.

"After I had stopped running I couldn't find my sisters or brothers, my mother, or our barnyard. I began to walk and walk and I couldn't see anything that looked like my home. I saw a field and I knew there was a field near my barnyard so I walked across it, but when I came out to the place where I thought our barnyard should be, it wasn't there at all. I tried to find the road again, and I think I found another road.

"Then my feet began to feel as though they were on fire. I couldn't see any flames coming from them as I had seen the week before coming from a bonfire. But I was sure they would burn out any minute. It looked cooler between the trees and I thought I would stop in the woods. The rest you know."

Agricultural Notes

Special drought news bulletins from the Department of Agriculture show that the central west has caused deterioration of vegetation to continue at a rapid rate in the 11th week since the drought began in Missouri and other leading corn states. A total of 920 counties in 22 states are now designated as drought territory.

The drought over shadows everything else as it did in 1934. What was merely a threat a month ago is now a grim reality. The devastation has gone on from wheat to potatoes and other food crops and to the feed crops—corn, oats, pastures and ranges. Thousands of acres of new seedling have been killed, the effect of which will not be apparent until next year, when there will be a reduced supply of canned goods, pork, beef, chicken and dairy products. The effect will not be so great this season as next.

Food prices will be higher. The wise farmer will produce a home garden to supply present needs and a planned surplus for conservation. The Spanish Board of County Commissioners have furnished the facilities for canning surplus products by establishing three canning kitchens located at Sanford, Orinda and Geneva, which are under the direction of a trained supervisor. Bulletin on food conservation are available at the office of the Home Demonstration agent in the Court House. The housewife can cooperate with the local dairymen in keeping the price of milk down by seeing that milk bottles do not get lost or broken, and are returned to the dairymen. The milk bottle is one of the larger items of expense in the milk business and the consumer has to pay for all lost and broken bottles in the long run.

Mrs. Anne McNeill returned to this city Tuesday from New York where she has been for the past two weeks on an extensive buying trip, purchasing new fall stock for The Yowell Company.

Mrs. McNeill brought back to Sanford with her a beautiful collection of dresses and coats of the new fall styles which may be seen on display at The Yowell Company store located on First Street. Along with the new style dresses and coats she purchased a large variety of the latest in children's wear, which may also be seen at the store.

Nations Say Spain Must Keep Civil War Well In Hand

(Continued from Page One) spite the expressed willingness of Great Britain and France to meet any demands she makes has aroused suspicion in the British Foreign Office that Premier Benito Mussolini is exploiting the situation for his own ends. There is even talk here that Italy, by delaying or refusing to co-operate in the neutrality plan, may be able to cause the fall of the People's Front government of Premier Leon Blum in France.

Such a repercussion is considered quite possible because the Leftist People's Front in France has been straining at its leash to help the Spanish People's Front and is reported to be growing more impatient hourly with the moderation tactics of Blum. Some believe that Italy is playing the Machiavellian game of trying to bring into power in France a government even more radical than the present one.

Italy's motive in this, it is suggested, would be to cause Great Britain to withdraw from France and look more favorably upon an Italo-German alliance. Assuming that all this should work out according to theory, there is considered a good chance that France might get into a civil war of her own, with the Right battling the Left just as in Spain.

Oliver Baldwin, the well-informed son of Prime Minister Stanley Baldwin, has predicted that the French Fascist Croix de Feu (Fire Cross) is planning to revolt against the present Leftist government within a few months. If France should go Bolshevik after such a revolt, it would remain to be seen whether advantages accruing to Italy and Germany would outweigh the disadvantages. It is thought certain, however, that French supplies for the Madrid government would pour over the Pyrenees as soon as the impatient French radicals overtook or upset the Blum government.

The minute this happened, Germany and Italy probably would counter with supplies for the Spanish rebels, and a crisis dangerous to European peace would develop. The Spanish rebels might flip on a French convoy, or the Spanish Loyalists might seize a German or Italian ship, and war would be on.

This is the specter perturbing the British Foreign Office. Eden, although away from London on his vacation, kept in constant touch with developments, and Germany's qualified acceptance of the neutrality plan is ascribed to efforts made by Sir Robert Vansittart, British Permanent Under Secretary of Foreign Affairs, in Berlin under the guidance of Eden. The fact of Eden's return to London at this time is interpreted in some quarters as a sign that Great Britain has given up hope that Italy will join the neutrality plan. Because of the Ethiopian war, Eden is so unpopular in Italy that Mussolini and the Italian people automatically turn against anything that he proposes. Eden's recent holiday, during which he left the Foreign Office in the hands of Viscount Halifax, Lord Privy Seal, was regarded as a concession to Italian feelings.

The Spanish problem can be solved, the British believe, if Italy is reasonable. She already has ended her insistence that the French and Russian press cease extending moral support to the Spanish Loyalists. The inconsistency of this demand, when the Italian press and people are so strongly in sympathy with the Spanish Fascists, led to its abandonment.

The British are now working with the French to remove the two other obstacles in the way of Italian acceptance of the plan. These are demands that the accord bar the sending of money or volunteers to either Spanish faction.

Refugees Tell Of Horrors Seen In Spain's Rebellion

Families Predicted By English Banker On Return To America

NEW YORK, Aug. 21.—Several Americans and other refugees from Spain arriving on two liners gave eye-witness accounts of brutalities and horrors to be seen daily in streets of Spanish cities, including the looting of churches and the shooting of priests and naked men.

On the Italian liner Vulcania the refugees evacuated from Spain who boarded this liner at Gibraltar included Jaime Acosta, Puerto Rico banker; a Spanish business man with his American wife and daughter, who begged that his name not be used, and the Rev. William F. Sheehan, of Fulton, N. Y. The Red Star liner Pennland brought Miss Edith Lawrence, New York writer, who left Spain on the British warship Repulse.

Sir William Wiseman, member of the banking firm of Kuhn, Loeb and Co., in New York, returning from England on the Concord White Star liner Aquitania, expressed the opinion that Europe "was unsettled and dangerous," but nevertheless he said he was optimistic that there would be no European war. Sir William said that "everybody is worried about the situation in Spain."

"It will be a long drawn-out thing," he said, "and inevitably there will be a famine there, no matter which side wins. It is a civil war and Spain is lost either way it ends. This war has already set Spain back a generation."

Sir William said there was little authentic news in England as to the actual situation in Spain. "Even the commanding generals of the Spanish armies don't seem to know what the others are doing," Sir William continued. "I think it was fortunate that a British officer was on the spot to help take out refugees."

Sir William said he found England cheerful, and that the armament program "is helping industry, for a time."

"I think England will have to float a defense loan to pay for all these armaments. They are too big a thing to be paid for out of the Treasury," he added.

Mr. Acosta, arriving on the Vulcania, told of brutalities he had witnessed recently in Barcelona. "The Communists in Spain are nothing but cowards," said Mr. Acosta. "I saw them shoot people down in the street right in front of my hotel near the Plaza de Castellana. The worst thing of all was the looting and burning of the beautiful churches. The Communists not only stole the sacramental vessels but they were ghoulish enough to open the crypts, and they took out the skeletons of nuns and priests, which they stood upright along the outer walls of the churches."

Father Sheehan, also arriving on the Vulcania, said that he had been caught in the civil war in Madrid and had taken refuge in the American Embassy.

"If you magnify ten times the things you see in the papers here, you won't even approach the horrors of the real troubles in Spain," said Father Sheehan in Spain. "Priests are being killed by the scores, in many cases right in the streets. Nuns are being seized in the convents, taken into the streets, stripped and then shot. The only hope for Spain is the success of the rebels."

The Spanish citizen, who asked to have his name suppressed, said on the Vulcania that his family had lived in constant danger outside of Barcelona for two weeks. He had appealed to the American Consulate, which, in turn, presented his case to the British military representative in Spain. Since he was a Spanish citizen the British

Father And Son In "Piccadilly Jim"

Robert Montgomery and Frank Morgan who recently scored a joint success in "Trouble For Two," are together again, this time in M.G.M.'s film of the hilarious P. G. Wodehouse comedy, "Piccadilly Jim." Cast as father and son in the new picture, each falls in love—Montgomery with pretty Madge Evans; and Morgan with the scintillating Billie Burke. "Piccadilly Jim" plays at The Ritz Sunday and Monday.

DROUGHT PLAYS TRICK

WEST POINT, Neb., Aug. 21.—(AP)—Congressman Karl E. Stephens (R) of Norfolk to a farm planting audience here the drought brought a measure of good luck to that county hay farmers, while it brought tough luck to others in northeast Nebraska. More than 100,000 tons of hay in Holt county, worth less than $1 a ton before July 4, now is selling from $7 to $13 a ton, he said.

A certain amount of petting and fondling, even a certain amount of scolding and punishment, are good for children. They feel then that they have a place of their own in the world. The child who does not get these human contacts is like a specimen in a glass case.

Too much attention is bad for them, of course. Sloppy sentimentality disguised as mother-love, nagging and unnecessary correction also masquerading as parental affection, these are to be avoided. They are, however, less harmful than the inhumanity of so-called "scientific methods."

No one can live forever under glass. Just as the child has sooner or later to take his changes with germs and the dangers of accident, so he has to come in contact with real people. Human beings cannot live apart like so many separate intellects.

It is in babyhood and childhood that one first learns the use and value of physical contacts. The baby who is never kissed, never handled, who does not learn to romp and laugh himself, is very apt to grow up shut off from his fellowmen.

Wet-Dry Battle May be Revived Again in Fall

Veteran Of Repeal Fight Lays Plans For Reorganization

By SIGRID ARNE
 WASHINGTON, Aug. 21.—(AP)—Come fall, the public may find the old wet-dry battle revived. That white-haired veteran of the repeal fight, William H. Stayton, is laying plans to reorganize the anti-prohibitionists again this fall under the name of "Repeal Associates." Looking over surveys he has made, he thinks the time has come for reorganization. The figures tell him dry organizations are again successfully active. And before they ask for prohibition again on a national scale, as he fears they may, he wants to be certain that the wets know what is going on.

Stayton walked out of his dollar-a-year war-time job here on Armistice day and opened an office on the door of which he had painted, "The Association Against the Prohibition Amendment." In 1919 that meant he had to endure a great many raised eyebrows, but he has stayed with the fight.

His association was dissolved on Dec. 6, 1933, when the 36th state ratified the repeal amendment. But at the final meeting the members asked the executive committee to keep together in order to acquaint former members of any new hand-writing on the wall.

Stayton has found that the drys are conducting a constant march ahead in local communities, helping to pass local option dry laws. There are, he says: 29 dry counties in Florida; 128 dry towns in Massachusetts; 28 dry counties in Minnesota; 57 dry counties in Missouri; 37 dry towns in New York; 66 dry towns in Ohio, and 140 dry towns in Vermont.

"If those towns and counties are dry because the majority are actually dry, all we'll do and good," he says. "We simply plan to enter such local fights to see that the wets are as well organized as the drys when the votes are cast."

"Repeal Associates," for which he is the executive secretary, has a claimed membership now of 2,000 members: men and women who once belonged to the Association Against the Prohibition Amendment, The Crusaders, and the Women's Organization for National Prohibition Reform.

Their advisory committee includes: Pierre S. Dupont, of the munitions family; Robert K. Cassatt, a Philadelphia banker; Grayson M. P. Murphy, a New York banker; Rep. James W. Wadsworth, of New York; Ralph M. Shaw, Chicago attorney; and Benedict Crowell, assistant secretary of war from 1917 to 1920.

The German Republic was formally established at Weimar on Aug. 11, 1919.

Farm Hand Arrested In Robbery Slaying

EUNICE, La., Aug. 21.—(AP)—A farm hand, Dolesey Guillory, 25, was arrested yesterday for the slaying of Lucien Ledoux, young farmer whose body was found in a wagon by the roadside Monday, a bullet hole in the back of his head.

Ledoux was returning from town where he had sold a bale of cotton for $74.75 when he was slain and robbed. When officers approached Guillory as he worked in a field they saw him try to hide a package that contained $72. A revolver was found in Guillory's room.

Uncle Sam Spends On Recovery More Than Half Billion

WASHINGTON, Aug. 21.—(AP)—An official breakdown of recent treasury figures showed that $557,906,800 had been spent for recovery and relief since July 1, with $377,362,837 of that amount financed by repayments of old government loans.

Figured on the same basis, $706,513,131 was expended in the similar period last year with $227,888,216 coming from repayments. Net recovery and relief disbursements were listed as $190,732,722 this year and $538,624,915 last year.

Under the treasury's method of bookkeeping, repayments of old loans are available immediately for new expenditures. The repayments are deducted from the total spent and that difference or net figure is compared with the total of ordinary receipts in computing the deficit.

All net expenditures, from the beginning of the fiscal year July 1 to Aug. 15, were placed at $737,734,171. This compared with $1,061,338,549 in the same period last year. Ordinary receipts were $516,758,897 this year and $475,403,134 last, with the deficit being calculated at $220,976,273 this year and $585,935,415 last year.

The public debt at mid-August totaled $33,418,545,506, or $364,997,968 less than when the fiscal year began. The reduction was due largely to the redemption of bonds issued in payment of the bonus.

As the bonds went out to the former soldiers they were included in the public debt total and, as they were redeemed, deducted. Since July 1 bonds totaling $51,686,832 have been issued to the veterans and $452,260,550 redeemed.

Taxation Issue Toughest In All Political Game

Morgenthau Believes Increase In Taxes Is Not Necessary

By BYRON PRICE
Chief of Bureau, The Associated Press, Washington.

and large, year in and year out there is no more touchy issue in politics than the issue of taxation.

Not only is the pocketbook nerve among the most tender, but talk about taxes always intensifies itself with the general business situation. Heavy taxes at the top of the industrial structure by curtailing the net profits of the big corporations, and at the bottom by restricting the spending of the average citizen. In the current period of depression or of recovery (take your choice), those considerations are bound to apply with special force. The evidence that they do is furnished by the alacrity with which the Republicans raised the cry of "politics" after the Roosevelt tax conference.

Republican Chairman Hamilton greeted this event with a big laugh, but others in his party were both fervent and caustic in their protests. The general Republican reaction quickly established an expectation that Governor London would have something to say, in an early campaign speech, about the fiscal situation of the federal government.

The principal public development emanating from the White House tax confab was a statement by Secretary Morgenthau. It set forth a conclusion, based on current conditions, that no tax increase appeared "necessary."

Ordinarily that might not be regarded as a very startling observation. For one thing, the new fiscal year beginning July 1 was only six weeks old; most of its uncertainties still lay ahead. For another, Congress had just been permitted to quit two months previously without any hint that anyone was thinking new taxes "necessary."

What Mr. Morgenthau had to say was given a setting, however, which could not fail to attract attention. To hear the news Chairman Harrison of the Senate finance committee had been summoned from a busy primary campaign in Mississippi, and Chairman Doughton of the House Ways and Means Committee called suddenly back from North Carolina.

After many mysterious speculations overnight, the two congressional leaders were ushered into the White House at an unusually early morning hour. The stage was set for momentous and possibly historic developments. Then the breathless public was given the Morgenthau statement. New there may have been valid reasons why so much was made of this event. If so, the White House preferred to leave those reasons to the imagination, for it made no comment.

Republican speculation went a long way. It played with the word "necessary," on which so much seemed to hinge. Did Mr. Morgenthau mean the budget could be balanced without new taxes, or did he merely mean increases would be unwise now in spite of the deficit?

Was the White House meeting wholly divorced from politics, and was it a fully legitimate section on the part of a responsible administration to renege on a promise at a time of economic upturn?

Probably the answer to this last question does not matter greatly, as far as the practical consequences are concerned. In a campaign year it is to be expected that political interpretations will be applied to the acts of the candidates, however pure they may be.

It is safe to say at least that what happened at the White

Graziani Discovers Possibilities In Island Of Dumeira

By ANDREW BERDING
ADDIS ABABA, Aug. 21.—(AP)—Vicary Rodolfo Graziani, in taking stock of Italy's new East African empire, has found that probably the smallest portion of it may one day be the most important. This is the island of Dumeira, tiny and barren but of great strategic importance because it lies at the narrow southern entrance to the Red Sea.

Italy got it not as a result of Mussolini's negotiations with French Foreign Minister Pierre Laval in January, 1935. France then ceded a section of French Somaliland, including Dumeira, to Italy.

Dumeira has now been fortified. With a supporting navy it might be able to close the Red Sea in enemy ships.

Fifteen miles to the southeast, however, is Perim, a British fortified area under the protectorate of Aden.

The threshold of the Red Sea is already a troublesome spot for sailors on account of its irregular tides, sudden squalls and narrow channels.

Two navigation lanes in the straits of Bab el Mandeb lead into it. Many wrecks gave this spot the name of "State of Tears."

Dumeira, which measures less than a mile in diameter, has an anchorage suitable for small ships on its western side, facing Eritrea and concealed from Perim.

Geologists say that at one time Dumeira and Perim were part of an isthmus joining Arabia with Africa. Fresh water flowed and trees grew there in prehistoric days.

The first power-driven plane to carry postal matter is said to have been designed and flown by Hans Glade, German, in 1929.

slowly. We have every reason to be gratified with our progress. The coming election should be not only the gauge of our progress, but the real measure of necessary achievement to come.

"Even if the Townsend endorsed candidate is defeated in the primaries it should be borne in mind that no man shall finally take a seat in Congress without the sanction of you, the people, as expressed at the polls in November.

"I have no sympathy for a person who professes to be for the Townsend Plan, while at the same time giving utterances and devoting his energy as a Townsdenite to uphold, support and vote for candidates who are known to be against us.

"The Townsend organization will accomplish more if such persons, regardless of who they may be, will sever their allegiance to the old parties and devote their full energy to the promotion of the Townsend Plan, or sever their allegiance with the Townsend organization and give their whole effort and time to partisan politics, which has brought us to the present deplorable situation in America.

"Let me say this to all loyal Townsdenites: You cannot serve two masters.

"You cannot be working for the Townsend Plan and at the same time support the old party candidates—Republicans or Democrats—who are against us," Dr. Townsend concluded.

Wants in Danzig Too Line Before League Servant

Boon Lester, Irish Official, Pays No Road To Threats

FRANK CITY OF DANZIG, Aug. 21.—Boon Lester, who some time ago was thrown out of the city as well as from the platform, have picked on a tough opponent in Boon Lester, the colorful, Irish-American who is the servant of the League of Nations in the Free City.

As league high commissioner, he is constantly calling the dictatorial government to order and is the only man in the city who has been picked on by the League of Nations. He is a former Sinn Féin man and has won his "varisty" in political fighting long before the League council was organized.

Therefore, he is the "Black Book" of the League. But as a former Sinn Féin man he has won his "varisty" in political fighting long before the League council was organized. He is a former Sinn Féin man and has won his "varisty" in political fighting long before the League council was organized.

FLORIDA HIGHLIGHTS

ONE OF THE LARGEST PACKING HOUSES IN THE WORLD IS IN WINTER HAVEN, FLA.

THE HOLLY TREE WAS AT ONE TIME KNOWN AS 'THE HOLLY TREE'

THE FISH CROW

WINTER HAVEN, FLA., claims the distinction of having one of the largest packing houses in the world, known as the Florence Villa. This magnificent combination when laden with the gigantic packing house measures 208 by 308 feet on the main floor. In addition to this there are two mezzanine floors, and a large orange juice freezing plant.

THE FISH CROW feeds on all forms of marine life, both dead and alive. Contrary to general opinion, it does far more good than harm by destroying innumerable insect pests. It frequents the brackish and salt waters of Florida and is occasionally found inland. The Florida Holly is an evergreen pyramidal tree and seldom exceeds 12 inches in diameter and 30 feet in height. Its foliage is of a striking dark green which produces a beautiful combination when laden with the conspicuous red berries.

Strike It Rich

A gold mine bought for $10,000 by Mr. and Mrs. George B. Austin (above) near Jungo, Nev., now is reputedly worth at least $1,000,000. The Austins formerly were sheep-keepers. The "strike" has aroused enthusiasm of prospectors in the area. Ex-President Hoover visited it. (Associated Press Photos)

Simpson, the bridal party stood in water ankle deep. Here the couple is shown as Rev. Mr. Simpson made them man and wife. Their romance started several years ago when Andrews saved Miss Hagner from drowning.

CHURCHES WRECKED IN REVOLT

Spanish churches, noted for their architecture, furnishings and statuary, have not been spared in the bitter revolt now in progress. Statues and crucifixes were shattered and prayer cards scattered about the ruins.

ICKES' FOSTER SON IN COURT

Sergeant Charles J. Herrold (left) of the Winchester, Mass., police force placed a charge of driving while under the influence of intoxicants against Robert M. Ickes (right), foster son of Harold Ickes, secretary of the interior. Young Ickes, who is shown on his way to court, won a continuance of the case until Aug. 25. Secretary Ickes said the boy was being prosecuted for "unfair political reasons." (Associated Press Photo)
