Scientists will be turning Lake Jesup red.

On Oct. 7 the St. Johns River Management District will be conducting a dye study of the lake to evaluate water circulation and its interaction with the St. Johns River, according to Regina Lovings, project manager for the Lake Jesup restoration project.

Lovings said researchers will use a water-based dye to callbrate the flow pattern computer model being developed for the lake. She said the dye, which will dissipate within a few days, will not create any pollution problems.

Engineers had conducted studies of the lake in April and June gathering information with flow meters. Additional information will be collected next week from the sale flow meter. Loving anid.

Hector Herrera, an engineer on the project, said his group has developed a computerized circulation model of Lake Jesup. Photographs of the dye flow will be compared to readings from the flow meter to check for accuracy. Herrera in addition, the circulation model will allow scientists to understand how nutrient-based pollution affects algae growth and muck accumulation in the acdimenta. Once the model is calibrated, Loving said scientiats will be able to predict the effect of any hydraulic change in the lake such as the reopening of the river channels between Lake Jesup and the St. Johns River, which are currently closed by the State Road

What a weekend!

Have you looked around the Sanford Lake Mary area this weekend?

Sure, there's plenty to do, but think about the reason behind that: Northern Seminole County is the perfect backdrop for organizers of arts festivals, historic tours, top notch theater and autumn carnivals. And those organizers had the good sense to recognize this.

The Ritz Theatre production of Steel Magnolias continues Saturday and Sunday with an 8 p.m. performance Saturday, and a 2 p.m. showing Sunday. The old Touchton's Drug Store in historic downtown Sanford is serving as the theater until the Ritz is restored, which is currently under Before or after the play, you might mosey along the Sanford lakefront for the Great Fall Exposition '97. Remember the old fashioned carnivals of your youth, with Ferris Wheels and sausage sandwiches smothered in onions? Remember ring toss games and carousels and plenty of entertainment? This 10-day event will take you back to those closing days of summer.

If culture is your passion, a trip to the Lake Mary Heathrow Festival of the Arts is in order. The 11th annual juried event showcases the best works of many talented artists and artisans. And better still, proceeds from the internationally acclaimed festival benefit Seminole County students who will continue their education with help from scholarships provided by the festival.

In your travels, you may notice a group of interested people admiring the downtown Sanford Historic District, which has been on the National Register of Historic Places for several years. About 25 representatives from the Florida Trust for Historic Preservation are observing our unique landmarks and participating in a walking tour of the area this weekend.

Organizers who bring to the area arts, theater, entertainment, and appreciation of our heritage earn our resounding support and appreciation.

Look around this weekend.

Let your voice be heard

Constructive suggestions for learning

A dictionary in every home is not going to solve our educational problems, nor are other reference books that can be purchased for as little as 10 cents to perhaps a whopping 81 from the used book department of the library, thrift stores or garage sales. The fact that these reference books can easily be purchased for so little indicates that the problem is MUCH deeper. Any parent that wanted any of these books in their home could easily find a way to get them!

It boggles my mind that we could even consider that this is the problem with children not being able to learn. The truth is that the problem is much deeper and much more complicated. Why these reference books are not found in some homes has nothing to do with income. It has everything to do with parental attitude and responsibility. But we can help these children.

Not by giving them used reference books, but by changing our educational system to include opportunities for these children to learn despite the failings of their parents.

That is where we are failing as a society because, in truth, we do not really care enough...nor do we have the vision.

I am constantly amazed at the seminars our leaders attend that emphasize VISION as the key to our success not only as individuals, but as a nation. Yet vision constantly cludes them or worse, they don't care,

If we want to see that our children are given every possible opportunity for a good education, then we, as a society have to assume that responsibility. We, as a nation, must reform our educational system to accommodate these children. We can furnish materials until their homes bulge, but that won't change anything because the environment will remain the same.

The answer lies in how much we can do within the confines of our schools. This is the one and only answer for these children. The rest is simply a waste of time and gestures made with little thought given to a much deeper problem. If we want to REALLY help these children and all others, then we would take much bolder steps and reorganize the way we approach education.

At present we have children spending very little time in school. This is the real problem and herein also lies the solution. It is a problem because children are home sometimes as early as 1:45 p.m. and very seldom later then 3:30 p.m., including the bus trip home.

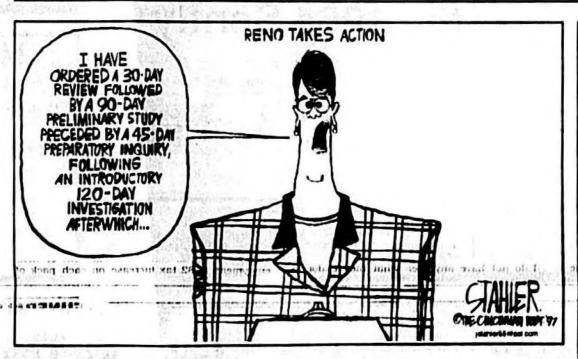

Let's not give away reference books...let's give these children more time in school where reference materials, computers and other educational tools are available to them. The answer to improving our educational system is not a difficult problem. If we arranged for our school hours to be lengthened as I have written before, these children would be in an educational environment longer.

It would not be mysterious to me that they are going to learn more under these conditions. They would also be in a place that is safe for a longer period of time and not in a home where the parents may not be home for hours.

To arrange our school hours to fit more closely to the working hours of parents only makes sense and will improve not only the educational opportunities, but will also serve to take some of the worry off of working parents.

It is my belief that we can produce the best educational system in the world by changing the hours in school and by building first class vocational schools. I also believe that homework is not necessary if our children spend more time in school. The truth is that many parents are simply worn out at the end of the day and although they would like to help their children with homework, there is still a great deal to be done before they can even find the time.

The way that we approach education and the system that we use to teach our children is the future for this nation. We are rapidly falling behind not only in education, but as a society because we have falled to understand that this is a societal and educational problem!

Art's Alive, right here in River City

Art's Alive in Seminole, Yes ma'am, right down here in River City...and in every other part of the county, too! It's not going to take a Music Man to prove it to you, either. You don't have to buy 76 trombones-just a table or a 875 ticket to the black tie gala being thrown November 20th at the AAA Building in Heathrow.

It's going to be a blast-literally!

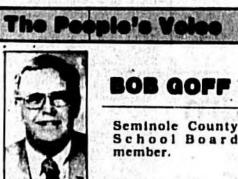

Last May, a few of the School Board members were at a formal event honoring the release of an employee's second CD. You know me and my big mouth, I suggested that we ought to do something similar honoring our outstanding artists--performance and graphic--in the school system. Dr. Hagerty agreed. Chairman Sandy Robinson, recognizing someone dumb enough not to keep his mouth shut, volunteered me to do it. About that time, Fran Kemp, the director of Arts for the school system, walked in. Realizing that I was way in over my head, I immediately recruited her--and the next day--Dede Schaffner from Community Affairs, who is the ultimate party thrower.

Affairs, who is the ultimate party thrower.

If ever there was an unholy trio--it's ual Fran is the creative dreamer. Dede is the nuts and bolts organizer, I'm just a concept person. To say that discussions are lively would be an understatement. Creativity and Concept team are torpedoed by Nuts and Bolts. Concept is overruled by Creativity. Creativity is told that we cannot block off 1-4 for parking because it just isn't practical and while we may consider Sky-Tracker, sky writing by airplanes is out. And all the time, staff members in both the Art Department and Community Affairs keep all of us in line and provide the very necessary backup to make this creative, work-in-progress a success.

What has evolved is a black tie fund-raiser for both the Midway Elementary School Magnet Art Program and for The Foundation, whose generosity towards all of the performing and graphic art programs in Seminole County School System is both long-standing and well known. Lockheed-Martin won the bid to be the event's Sponsor--at $15,000. The event will start out with a special performance at 6 p.m.-and don't you dare be late! Performers have been auditioned for either one of two ait down shows in the large auditorium, a special continuous show in the Blue Room, or as small groups who will perform troubadour style in areas located throughout the AAA Building. Food courts will be interspersed with graphic art displays, creating a sort of stroll and munch atmosphere when you are not in the auditorium.

No one will be able to see the entire show in this fast paced assault on your senses showcasing the very best of Seminole County's students and staff. Over 450 pieces of artwork have been submitted for selection from such locations as all of the Advancer! Placement art programs. Some have been donated for a silent auction in which half of the winning bid will be given back to the artist as encouragement to continue to create. 111 acts participated in a Broadway style audition at Winter Springs High School last month. Paul Chiaravalle, Walt Disney World; Richard Ryan, a former Broadway star, and Dr. Ed LeRoy of the Rollins School of Music assisted in the evaluation. Barbara Riggins, Southern Ballet; Rene Barnes and Danielle Stevenson, local dancers; assisted staff member Carolyn Hevey in the evaluation of the Dance section.

If you are one of the fortunate 400 who are lucky enough to pur hase a table or a ticket, you will never regret the donation to the Arts in Seminole County Public Schools. While we haven't selected the artwork yet, I can promise you will be amazed and overwhelmed by the performance talent found in the atudents and staff of your public school system. I'll lift the edge of the curtain a little and tell you about a couple of the performers who were selected.

We've got an assistant principal who has CD's on the market, a principal who plays jazz sax and his assistant principal accomplished cruise ship entertainer. There is a custodian who dusted off his performance from his earlier Broadway show days 40 years ago--he's awesome. From Sabal Point Elementary we have not one, but two young students with big league voices. From Lake Howell there is a male Korean dance group and a female barbershop quartet. From all over the system students and staff sang, played, danced, acted, performed, clowned and mimed to get into this show. The decisions about who to select were not just difficult--they were almost impossible to make. In Dance there were 33 auditions--the judges selected 26 for the first cut. We combined slots to showense a little of each talent, rather then keep great talent out of the show.

Corporate tables at $1,000 a piece are going fast. Don't be late--you'll miss the show. Call Dede Schaffner at 320-0176 to reserve your space.

Special People

TONY

Tony Tizzio is an advocate for the disabled.

A history of Special People

For those of you who were unfamiliar with either myself. Tony Tizzio, or "Special People" before you started reading this column, we will review some of the history behind what Special People is and how it came to be.

It all started in 1981 when a young man, me, had an idea. The idea was to have a forum where the disabled, and hopefully everyone else, can find news and information about the disabled. That forum first started out as a talk show called "Special People".

That show lasted for six years locally on Public Access Television, ending prematurely in 1987. It featured many local people, services and non-profit organizations. It broke new ground for the disabled, both on TV, and in life. It was the first show that brought the disabled right into the public in a non condescending sort of way. At that time, even national shows did not do this.

In 1984, I was asked to start a Jaycee Chapter solely dedicated to disability causes. Since I was already in the Jaycees as a director in one chapter and active in others, I knew the workings of the Jaycees. This was a civic organization dedicated to developing the strength and character of young people. Sadly though, this chapter only lasted a couple of years.

In 1991, I got with a new TV station that was then new and independent, WKCF-TV 18, and participated in a series of locally produced specials called "Fifth Sunday". It aired in any month that had five Sundays in it. Our part was called "Special Segment," and was mainly a shortened version of my previous show.

In between all of the activities I mentioned, I continued to volunteer in other civic groups and organizations as with all of my activities described in this article. That leads us to where we are now, at the Sanford Herald, the worlds greatest newspaper.

It's here at the Herald that I feel more at home then I've ever been because I get to give you all a little more insight into the world of the disabled. I also get to hear about your problems and concerns when you write to me about them.

My goal for writing about some of my adventures today is to inspire you. Also, I'm always asked why I use the title "Special People". In many of my activities since 1981, "Special People" not only has stood for the disabled person, but for anyone who tries harder to achieve something, in spite of great odds against them. That's why both the disabled and not so disabled can get something out of reading this column.

That's why I do it.

If you have a non-profit group or organization relating to the disabled and have a fund-raiser or special event coming up, let us know about it. Please include the name, address and phone number of the group or organization, as well as, the time, place and contact person for the event.

woman who will tell you what is popular, even though it may not be true, while a statesman will tell you the truth even though it may not be popular. It would appear to me, that at least three out of the five County Commissioners in Seminole County possess all the characteristics of a politician.

Several weeks ago, I addressed the County Commission and encouraged them to do what I had asked the commission years ago to do. That was, to strengthen the Adult Entertainment Ordinance in order to not only prohibit any further proliferation of these provocative establishments, but to effectively restrict the nude, rude, and crude forms of entertainment that have been operating for years. The formula that I have been advocating has been tried, tested and upheld by the Supreme Court.

The Supreme Court has stated that total nudity (in an establishment of entertainment), is not a Constitutional Right. The Supreme Court has also stated that it is the Right of the People to establish community standards. A few months ago, the County Commission unanimously expressed concern about the proliferation of adult entertainment in Seminole County, I detected what I thought was insincerity on the part of three of the commissioners, and I say that for the following reasons.

The chairman at the close of one of the meetings recommended that they hire Shutts and Bowen, a Miami law firm, to represent the county against adult entertainment. Chairman Randy Morris, you would have though was the engineer and conductor on a fast moving train. Anyone who would have attempted to sidetrack Anyone who would have attempted to sidetrack this highball express, was told where to get off. Even Commissioner Adams supported Commissioner Morris' proposal. What is so strange, is that Commissioner Adams linked this law firm as having ties with adult entertainment. When he discovered that they had given financial support to Mr. Adams' political opponent. Andrea Dennison, Commissioner Daryt McLain also jumped on board, when he should have waved a red flag and disqualified himself. Mr. Wright and Mr. McLain are members of a for-profit Florida McLain are members of a for-profit Florida corporation that owns a houseboat on the St. Johns River, truly a conflict of interest. the county 860,000. And where are we? Mr. McLain is considering grandfathering the existing business which means that we are back at square one. Now the door is open for chain store operation of adult entertainment with the possibility of 23 new sites for nude, lewd, and crude businesses to flourish.

Rachel's, Club Juana, and Circus Circus could not be happier. They will comply with some cosmetic changes on the outside, while business continues as usual on the inside. In speaking with a member of the Metropolitan Bureau of Investigation, it was disclosed to me that Orange County makes no provision in their ordinance on how many adult entertainment establishments they will allow.

One can only wonder if it is not the weasel who is in charge of the security of the chicken hatchery. It would appear that like the Airport Authority, cronylam is alive and well with Seminole County Commission. I predicted the outcome more than three months ago.

Join in objections

I join the homeowners of the Hills of Lake Mary and Kaywood in their objections regarding the Twin Lakes Apartment project. In May of 1996 the City of Lake Mary commissioned a hydrologic study of the Crystal Lake Basin. The study noted that "the sand hills in and around Lake Mary form a thick aquifer unit which provides significant recharge to the Plo-ridian squifer." Recharge through much of the area is 4 plus inches per year, but in the area of Rinehart Road and County Road 46A the recharge is estimated to be 12 inches or more per year. Lake Mary's best water quality corresponds with these areas of higher elevation.

What will be the consequences of both Lake Mary's and Sanford's decision to permit high density apartment complexes along this corridor of recharge? And why the lack of concern from state environmental and water management governing bodies regarding potable wa-

A further consideration is drainage in an area that was impacted by high ground and surface water two years ago. The above men-tioned study suggested that future development retain the entire runoff volume to contain the 25 year - 96 hr. storm event. Do local building codes now adhere to this directive? Will adja-cent neighborhoods be affected by Twin Lakes project paving? Thus far we have heard complaints about high density housing being inconsistent with the community at large. Perhaps the issues at hand are more complex?

Sincerely, Elisabeth Canal Lake Mary

Resent park invasion

I resent very strongly the fact that the mayor and commission have chosen to allow some third rate carnival to desecrate our beautiful City Park located on the lakefront by allowing them to use it for a period of, I am told, 10 days. This City Park has been a source of beauty and a lot of enjoyment for many of the youth and adults alike in the City of Sanford. By the time this carnival leaves there will be no beauty left and I am sure all of the grass and shrubbery will have been destroyed.

I can't believe the city is allowing this to take place when there are other areas available, such as the old abandoned drive- in movie theater, to mention just one.

I do not have any idea what the vendor is paying the City for its use, but I am positive that it will only be a drop in the bucket as to what it will cost the taxpayers to refurbish it to its state prior to their arrival.

Thomas L. Largen, MD, F.A.C.S.

Regulating vices
I said to you after the announced deal between the Attorneys General and Big Tobacco that tobacco could not be trusted and would immediately start trying to cheat. Well, guess what? Before the ink was dry, tobacco was in the midnight offices of their purchased politicians writing themselves a 850 billion gift to be paid for by the taxpayers.

I also proposed that smokers pay for their own medical expenses by increasing the tax on tobacco and reserving it only for Medicare and Medicaid. Now comes Bill Clinton envirsing a tax increase on cigarettes to reduce teen smoking, which no one can be against.

But we can certainly be against selfappointed regulators of adults choosing to poison themselves, as long as we are not expected to pay for it. It is no proper function of government to regulate the peoples' vices, only the harmful conduct arising out of their enjoyment. A $2 tax increase on each pack of cigarettes, cigars, or can of snuff would pay each smoker's cost of dying. William Sheffield

Sanford needs a beach

Sanford is very fortunate to be on a beautiful lake with miles of lakefront. However, there is no beach and no way to take a little boat out on the lake to fish or to go for a boat ride.

As far back as 1969, when we organized SISTER, Inc. we were trying to get the city commissioners to take advantage of the lakefront. I was involved in organizing the Sanford Yacht Club. We had to put it about 15 miles out in the country because the city would not let us put a building on the lakefront where it should have been.

Now they have lost the Sattlest because they will not spend a penny to build a beach. There should be a nice beach there - not only for Sailfest, but for the people of Sanford and the whole area. Also the city and county should cut down all trash that is growing around the lake and hiding the view of a beautiful lake. This is one of our greatest assets. Let's use

Chief Parker returns

Chief T. E. Parker (PHC) had returned for another tour at SNAS. His first tour lasted only one week and it was 15 years earlier in 1949.

He came then on a photographic assignment to help justify the reopening of NAS Sanford. He recalled such things as cotton growing between the runways, a mail order house in the old A and R Building, the New York Glants residing in the old BOQ and a family living in the tower.

Parker, TAD to RVAH-3 at the Fleet Air Photo Lab, was a qualified camera repairmen with 18 years active Naval service. He was graduated from Dixie County High School, Cross City, FL and several US Navy Schools.

It was announced that winter working hours for the station would begin October 1 at 0800 hours.

Chiefs and Officers were re-minded that blouses must be worn at all times except when on board the station or enroute to and from work. A blouse must be worn when stop offs were made while enroute.

VAH-7 to return

The Sanford Naval Air Station was to roll out the red carpet on October 3, 1964 when its Heavy Attack Squadron Seven (VAH-7) returned from a world cruise with his-tory's first all nuclear powered task force.

The returning airmen were to launch their A-5A Vigilante attack bombers from the USS Enterprise as the carrier approached Norfolk, VA and were expected to land in Sanford sometime after 2:30 p.m.

During the first six months of the eight months deployment, VAH-7 and the Enterprise were in the Mediterranean where the carrier logged some 50,000 miles on patrol with the US Sixth Fleet. On July 1, the Enterprise combined with several other ships to form Nuclear Task Force One for an around the world cruise.

The 30,000 mile journey took the Sanford squadron through three oceans, around both the Cape of Good Hope and Cape Horn and across the Equator four times. Ports of call in-cluded Karachi, Pakistani Sydney, Australia; and Rio de Janelro, Brazil.

VAH-7's vigilantes formed the long range all weather core of the Enterprise's 100 plane air strike group. The squadron was commanded by Cmdr B. B. Brown.

That was a bad situation and a bad location," Cooke said. "Although the air traffic controllers were good, the equipment was outdated and the location was bad.

Heart shows through as Lake Brantley finds winning touch again

SANFORD Sometimes you can't measure a team's heart by its won-loss record.

After Thursday's 27-21 win over undefeated Seminole, the Lake Brantley Patriots showed that a 2-3 record doesn't mean anything when you have the biggest hearts in the

It would have been easy for the Patriots to have given up two weeks ago. They had suf-fered every kind of loss imaginable. A bitter rivalry loss to next-door neighbor and mortal enemy Apopka. A district loss to DeLand. A brutal beating by Sarasota. Even a pounding by Lake Mary in the Kickoff Clas-

Finally, with the season on the line, the Patriots pounded a resurgent Lyman team in the rain last weekend, but had to face an undefeated and fired up Seminole team on its own turf Thursday.

For the first time in years, no one gave Lake Brantley much of a chance as kickoff loomed. Maybe the Patriots patented and precious Wing-T was outdated. Maybe the team hadn't gotten over the loss of longtime coach Fred Almon, who had to leave Brantley after health problems. George Clayton, a fixture both the Letter Brantley stocked to over the reins and the losses started to mount at a school where losing is unacceptable.

The Patriot fans may not see the most exciting football on the planet: shy ninth-grade boys with some problems make more passes than the Lake Brantley offense. As long as they win, however, everything is okay.

After three games, however, it wasn't looking like that at all. Quarterback Brian Criswell was following in the tradition of Lake Brantley quarterbacks who rank at the bottom of the league in passing and at the top of the rushing charts, and Ryan Pagan was turning Story Field into Pagan's Place.

But there was still a lot going wrong and, with an 0-3 start staring them in the face, Brantley decided it was time to remember how to win.

Sure, the spirits must have sagged after the huge loss to Sarasota and the embarrassment of Apopka, but, remember, this is a team that surprised a lot of people last season when it made it to the second round of the state playoffs.

A lot of people showed up at Seminole last night expecting the 'Noles to move to 5-0 and bury Lake Brantley's hopes in the Seminole Athletic Conference race.

What the crowd didn't expect was the Brantley heart.

As the Patriots blew leads of 14-0 and 21-7. it would have been easy to look back at the 0-3 start and try to find Fred Almon roaming the sidelines.

Lake Mary ready for break after loss to Dr. Phillips

By JEFF BERLINICKE Herald Staff Writer

It can't get any worse for Lake Mary next week.

They're off. The nightmare that was Septem-ber and rolled into October last week, continued for the Rams as they dropped a 32-7 decision to Dr. Phillips Friday night in a game that wasn't even that close.

The Panthers jumped out to a 32-O lead early in the third quarter and coasted from that point as the Rams fell to 0.5 on the season facing an off week.

We need an off week right now." a belenguered Peters said after the game. "We have a lot of skilled players who need some work."

They didn't get much of a chance Friday night. The Panthers (5-0) took charge from the start. Actually, they took charge two weeks ago with a win over West Orange, one week after West Orange knocked off Evans. 12th-ranked in the nation.

Last season, Dr. Phillips fell to the Rams, 3-0, but Friday night was a different story. Dr. Phillips started off with a long run from tailback d.B. Witt, which was fol-lowed by a personal foul on the mans. Two plays later, Witt carried it into the end sone and the beat-ing was on.

Lake Mary went three plays and out on its next possession and quarterback Cory Cooper stepped back to punt. The snap went far over his head and Cooper, after chasing it down, attempted to See Rams, Page 3B

WINTER GARDEN Sometimes you wish they would just forget halftime and let you keep on playing.
For the first half Friday night, the Lake Howell football team was playing as well as it had all season, holding a pretty good West Orange team to only 34 total yards and two first downs, while building a 10-0 lead at intermission.

But unfortunately, you do have to stop for an intermission and the Warriors found their offense during the break and railied for 21 unanswered second half points to defeat the Silver Hawks 21-10 in a non-district Homecoming contest at Ray Screws Memorial Field.

Lake Howell Junior quarterback Jesse Hannon had given Lake Howell a 6-0 lead in the first quarter on a one-yard sneak and Victor Nespeca added the extra point to make the score 7.0.

Nespeca then gave the Silver Hawks a 10-0 lead when he booted a 21-yard field goal in the West Orange (3-2), which scrapped its Wing-T offense after being outscored 49-13 the last two weeks. finally got its option attack going behind quarterback Troy Hunter, who replaced regular quarterback David Klebonis.

Running back Reggie Thomas, who finished with 179 yards on 19 carries, got the Warriors on the board on the seventh play of the second half when he took a pitch from Hunter and galloped 34-yards into the end zone to make the score 10-7.

West Orange then took the lead for good mid-way through the third quarter when he ran 51yards into the end zone on a keeper.

Lake Howell had an opportunity to regain the lead, but Hannon had a pass picked off in the end zone on the final play of the third quarter.

Despite the final score, the game was still in doubt all through the fourth quarter. The Silver Hawks drove 87 yards on 12 plays, down to the Warriors 12 with 1:21 to play, but the drive ended there on downs.

West Orange then put the game out of reach as Thomas raced 87 yards into the end zone with 26-seconds remaining.

Lake Howell fell to 1-4 with the loss, but it was just a loss as it was not a district contest and the Silver Hawks remain tied for second at 1-1 in Class 6A-District 3 with a huge game with undefeated district leader DeLand next Thursday night at 7:30 p.m. at Richard Evans Field.

EZ1 Discount led 4-0 after three innings, then broke the game wide open, scoring nine runs in fourth inning and then for good measure scored nine more runs in the seventh inning to win its second game of the season 22-3 over ADAPCO.

Sanford Central Baptist Church did not let last week's loss to All Souls Catholic Church of Sanford affect its play as they scored six runs in the first inning, then followed that up with a pair of seven inning runs before scoring two runs in the fourth inning to end a 22-2 massacre of SEI.

K & L Lawn scored two runs in the first inning and five runs in the second inning to build a 7-0 lead and Ali Souls Catholic Church could get no closer than three runs twice. 7-4 in the fourth inning and 8-5 in the sixth inning, before dropping its first game by a final score of 10-6.

With the loss by All Souls Catholic Church of Sanford, the top of the league standings has gotten very crowded. All Souls Catholic Church of Sanford, K & L Lawn and Sanford Central Baptist Church are all 3-1, while EZI Discount is 2-2. Completing the standings are ADAPCO (1-3) and SEI (0-4).

Now is the time to prepare Top Florida for catching big bass

BANFORD If you are really serious bout catching a wall-hanger base, low is the time to begin your preparaion. First of all, you must not waiver in your quest. Base over the ten pound nark represent only a small-percentage if the overall base population, so you nust remain focused. It is easy to get idetracked when you to for an hour or o without any action, and go back to being antiafied with smaller fish.

Think of big bass as a separate species of flats, for indeed, they are. Big bass prefer different food items and different habitat. In short, they do things differntly then smaller fish. You will rarely atch a big base simply tossing your ure down the bank. That type of stratgy may be all right for small fish, but licavyweight bass do not compete with mailer, more agile fish for food. Look or areas that have cover, an ample ood supply and a deep water escape. lig base do not like to expend a lot of nergy, and they prefer to remain in an irea that has everything in one spot.

The easiest way to target big Bass is to fish with a big balt. My number one shoice is to use the largest shiners ! can get my hands on. I don't want to spend my time catching small bass, so I pick a bait that would choke a small Soh. Shiner Sahing is a real art. It is an casy matter to manipulate an artificial ure, but it takes a great deal of skill to manipulate a live bait that has a mind of its own. The single most effective way of fishing with large shiners is to troll them alowly with an electric motor. Hook them through both lips with a about 50-40 feet of line, and you're in

I use a level-wind reel with the antibacklash device turned down just enough to keep the shiner from taking out line. When a base hits, I turn the boat around, and follow the fish for about thirty accords or so. Smaller base will run into the weeds with the shiner in an attempt to keep it away from other fish. A big base will remain in open water because it is confident,

If you want a big bass, adjust your fishing strategies accordingly and be willing to go for hours without a strike. Using the factics listed above, I actually get tired of catching eight-pound fish, it seems that I have to wade through half-a-dozen eight pound bass before I catch a bass over the ten pound mark.

SHUPE'S SCOOP

LEAVING CLIMBING STANDS IN THE WOODS IS RISKY BUSINESS BECAUSE THEY ARE EASILY STOLEN. EVEN THOUGH I HUNT ON MY OWN LEASE, I LEAVE MY CLIMBERS LICKED UP WITH THICK STRANDED WIRE CABLE AND A HIGH SECURITY 7/0 or 8/0 Weller weedless hook, let out LOCK. I LEAVE THE KEY HIDDEN IN

AN EMPTY PILL CAPSULE UNDER SOME LEAVES BY THE STAND. IT IS THEN A SIMPLE MATTER TO UNLOCK

FISHING FORECAST

Expect base action to slowly improve with cooler temperatures. Soon the biggest problem will be high water levets. I prefer to fish areas with clearly defined boundaries during high water as fish tend to be scattered. "Searching" lures such as topwater baits, spinnerbalts and buszbalts are good choices to locate scattered bass.

Schentian inlet continues to feature top notch snook action with fish to 20 pounds. Large live shrimp or small pin-fish are top batts. One-ounce jigs. Rebels, Rapalas and Bombers are great artificials. The last of the outgoing tide and the first of the incoming is best. Snook and tarpon are hitting in the Schaatinn River.

Captain Jack at Port Canaveral reports fair offshore action when seas permit. King mackerel are on 8 A Reef and Pelican Flats. Dolphin and wahoo are scattered. Inside the Port, expect flounder, sheepshead and a few snook. Trout and redish are rated as good on the flats of the Banana River.

Porice Inlet to hot for sheepshead to five pounds. Live shrimp or fiddler crabs are guaranteed to provide fast action. Drum, redfish, small bluefish, jack crevalle and ladyftsh are also present. Trout and redfish action is good in Mosquito Lagoon.

It wasn't the kind of start a demoralized Lake Mary team needed and the early scores took Lake Mary out of its game plan. Cooper was forced to pass and he ended up spending enough time on the turf that the Lake Mary laundry bill should double this weekend.

Dr. Philips quarterback Cal-vin McCall connected with wideout Mike Bonneville early in the second quarter on a wide-open route and the rout continued. Witt continued to grind out yardage and it was 32-0 before Lake Mary finally accred for the first time in nine quarters.

Robbje Randall scored from 13 yards out to put the Rama on the board, but it was too late. He was one bright spot for the Rams, rushing for over 100 yards for the fifth straight game, but he had only two carries for significant yardage as the Lake Mary offensive line was overpowered.

Five games into the season, Peters is facing one of the worst starts in school history. He admitted he had no idea what to say to his players, but some of it may have went like this:

*Cooper needs to find another receiver besides Spivey. Then again, he also needs time to find one as he has been running behind the line for his life for the past several weeks.

Someone has to step up on defense. Cam Carter and Justin Wright have been stalwarts for the Rama' defense but others have through and the haven't come through and the secondary has been blistered all season. TRIP TO RUSSIA WILD FOR 2 WOMEN

A trip to Russia for Dorothy (Dottie) Anthony and Jean former Bryant, Seminole County School Board member, definitely cannot be defined as Utopia. When the two left their cozy homes in Sanford, little did they realize that such bad luck could befall them.

Upon arriving in Moscow, Jean discovered that she did not have her visa. The rule in Moscow, according to Dottle, is: You have to have a visa in order to get into Russia." She added that the authorities "don't budge on that." About two hours before the American Embassy opened its offices, Jean was escorted to a plane for departure from Russia. At this writing, she is not available for comment. After arriving in Moscow. Dottie's luggage appeared to be misplaced, and she did not recover her possessions until the day after she arrived back home when the luggage was delivered to her door during the wee hours of the morning.

Artist finds adventure in painting

By SUSAN WENNER Herald Staff Writer

Painting has been a part of Dorothea Strosnider's life since 1973. She has developed a love that allows her to transform her daily life into an adventure.

Strosnider noted that she lost her interest in painting after the death of her husband in the 1950's. "I lost interest after my husband died," she said. "After I invited a member of the art association to paint on our deck it rekindled my love of painting."

She elaborated by saying."My friend, Marie Richeter got me interested. She had a studio connected to her antique shop. I took lessons from her. I also took lessons from Helen Hickey, James Coevening, C. Martindale and E.B. Stowe.

Although Strosnider began most of her painting with "river scenes" she added that she now likes to paint people. "I like to paint people doing things," she said. "I painted a picture of my grandmother and two of her cronies. We had a boarding house in the Catskill Moun-

A favorite painting that Stronnider created was of "a lady with her son in her arms and the little boy had a tear in his eye." She added," I love

Once a year. Pack 529 in Lake Mary is fortunate enough to have the Central Florida Zoo bring a few of their changes to a pack meeting. On Monday, Sept. 29, they brought furry ones, seely ones and scary losting ones.

The first visitor of the evening was the emperor scorpion.

He looked very imposing in his cage, but also "kinda neat" according to one scout. The do-willingly answered all the scouts questions. While the emperor scorpion is in the same family as the Florida

scorpion and as spiders, there are marked differences. Florida

scorpions are called vinegaroni scorpions, literally because of vinegar. They do not have the stinger to sting someone the way an emperor does. They shoot a vinegar type solution onto their prey (insects) to dissolve their exo-skeletons. Their favorite food is cockroaches.

One of the smaller pythons.

the ball python lives mostly on the forest floors. Another very interesting looking visitor was the Solomon Islands prehenaile tail skink. A prehensile tail is a tail like most monkeys. It arachnid to have around.

As a member of the Sanford. Seminole Art Association. Stronnider has kept her love alive. She will also participate in November in an art show at the church she attends. Upsala Community Church.

"Painting is so fascinating." also said. The hours just fly by when you're painting. I don't even hear people when they talk to me when I am painting. I just tune them Strosnider and her husband, Charles, have been married for 29 years. They share three children, Bonnie, Roger and Ronnie, six grandchildren and two great grandchildren.

furry visitor was the opossum. There is no shortage of opossums for reasons similar to the decline in kinkajou. In the United States, natural habitat loss has decimated the population of opossums predators, leaving opossums, who will eat anything, plenty of growing

In his debut educational outing was the red billed horn This interesting bird is new to the zoo. He must be kept on a tether at all times because he is fully flighted.

Parrots wings can be clipped to keep them from flying off, but not so any other bird. The horn bill eats insects and fruits and this one is especially fond of being hand fed live crickets.

He is also the only bird that looks like he has cyclashes, although they are actually very small feathers.

OLDE LAKE MARY HOLIDAYS NEED TALENT

The third annual Olde Lake Mary Holidays is still looking for a few good acts. The festival which is sponsored by the City of Lake Mary, the Lake Mary Woman's Club and the Stardust Cirl Scouts of Lake Mary, is scheduled for Saturday, Dec. 6 from 5:30 to 8 p.m. at Lake Mary City Hall. The Lake Mary High Drama Club will be performing excerpts from the holiday play, the Girl Scouts will be singing and so will the choir from Holy Cross Lutheran Church. Several more groups are needed for the entertainment. If you or your group would like to perform, please contact Mary Rowell at 321-

The lighting of the city's tree will be held during the festival. And once again, the Woman's Club will be giving free cookies and a drink to anyone who donates food for Safehouse of Seminole County. The Cirl Scouts will be giving holiday crafts to anyone who donates a toy for Safehouse. This year, for the first time, Holy Cross Lutheran Church will have their Walk Through Bethlehem set up behind City Hall. They will donate a shekel to anyone who donates a toy to Safe-house. If you don't know what a shekel is, you'll just have to come to the festivities to find

Fire-safety plan begins with knowing when to go

DEAR ABBY: Please allow me to give your readers some lifesaving advice about fire: Take it seriously. Every year the National Fire Pro tection Association chooses a special theme for Fire Prevention Week (Oct. 5-11 this year), to focus needed attention on the fire problem. For 1997, it's "Know when to go! React, fast to fire." It's the basis for an educational campaign to get people thinking about fire before it hap-

We selected "Know when to go React fast to fire" because it's vital that people understand that fire and smoke alarms must be taken seriously, wherever you may be. Please ask your readers to take these simple steps:

- When in public buildings, such as restaurants, malls, etc., always locate the two exits nearest you. If you see blocked exits, or doors that are chained, report it immediately to someone in charge. (Call the fire department if it isn't promptly corrected.)

- If you hear a fire alarm, react immediately. Don't wait to see what others do. In most cases, the safest action is to leave the building. Wait until the fire department gives you clearance before you go back inside.

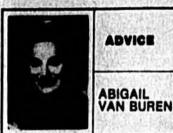

- When staying in hotels, always familiarize yourself with the escape plan posted on the door of your room. Locate the two exits nearest you and check the doors to make sure they're unlocked.

-- Set a good example for your children. In a calm and positive way, point out exits and talk about the safest response in the event of a fire. Have a home fire-escape plan and practice it twice a year. If the alarm does sound, stay calm -- but leave quickly.

Obviously, there is a great deal more information on fire safety. However, these key points will go a long way toward preventing fire injuries and deaths. Thank you, Abby, for sharing them with your readers. With your help, we're working to reduce the fire loss prob-lem in the United States and all over the world.

GEORGE D. MILLER, PRESIDENT, NATIONAL FIRE PROTECTION ASSOCIATION

DEAR MR. MILLER: I'm pleased to help you publicise a message as important as this one. Too often people underesti-mate the speed and growth of a fire. They think there's plenty of time to escape, but in a fire, time is the enemy. It's impor-tant to plan shead for an emergency, to know when to go — and to act immediately. It can make the difference between life and death.

A little bit of Italy in Lake Mary

By KELLIE WERNER Herald Staff Writer

Little Italy in Lake Mary?

Not exactly. But residents can find authentic Italian cuisine and a little help with cooking directions right in their own back yard at MaMa Lou's.

Owned and operated by Randy and Lin Saber, the Italian grocery, located at 118 Middle St. in Lake Mary (next to the post office on Lake Mary Boulevard) creates an atmosphere of walking into a small store in the heart of Rome.

"Our goal was to bring a real corner grocery to Lake Mary," Randy said. "One visit to MaMa Lou's and people will feel like they are entering a 1940 neighborhood market. Right away, our customers realized the difference between super market Italian and real imported Italian."

Sausages. pancetta. ported cheeses and pastas line the walls and fill the coolers of MaMa Lou's. According to Randy, the products are in such high demand, that even the countries that border Italy and have access to the same basic ingredients seek out the higher quality Italian-made products.

Imported pasta, the main ingredient in most Italian dishes, are completely different from the pasta found in supermar-kets, Randy said. The pastas are never gummy and have a different flavor and texture. Even the canned tomatoes that are brought in from Italy taste different from the ones found in American grocery stores.

One taste of any of the imported products and the customer will never go back to the products here in the states."

Setting up the inventory was no easy task. In fact, Lin did most of the work and spent hours contacting distributors. analyzing product lists and formulating what she believed the customers would like to purchase the most.

Inside the shop, all of the products cases displayed on shelyes and in secolers in the same way as the shops are in Little Italy, Chicago, where Randy grew up. Lin is actually from New Orleans, but got the opportunity to experience French-Creole while growing Together, Randy and Lin have put together a unique Italian grocery with an authentic atmosphere and product that puts the customer first.

"I believe that the most important quality of our business is the fact that we are friendly and have a good relationship with our customers." Lin explained. I am a people person and try to make everyone who comes in our door feel welcome and help them in any way that I can. We've had a positive re-

Small business moves to Port of Sanford incubator

As I write this article I am in the process of moving my office off campus to locate full time at the Central Florida Business Incubation Center. While I have been splitting my time be-tween the two offices since January this represents a real change. As an employee of Seminole Community College 1 will experience the special challenge of separation from the main campus. I will still be able to communicate electronically and of course I will still be a frequent visitor.

We will continue to offer the same services of the Small Business Development Center as before. The only change will be that I will be full time at the Port of Sanford Instead of half time at the main campus of This change has caused me to reflect upon how I personally deal with change and how do I advise my clients to respond. First and foremost I must admit that initially I was unsure as to how the move would affect me. But in short order I found myself getting even more excited about the possibilities for better service to our clients. For every negaseemed that two positives also came to mind.

Travel planning made easy on the Internet

Special to the Herald

With the tremendous growth of the Internet's World Wide Web, millions of consumers have a nearly unlimited amount of information at their fingertips. From shopping at on-line "malls" to purchasing stock and making transac-tions, those browsing the Web are finding bargains at every glance.

Ranking second in user popularity, behind only computer goods and services, travel-related companies have boldly tapped new markets in "cyberspace." Savvy travelers were among the first to view the Internet as a convenient source of information, and tour operators, visitor bureaus, ho-tel chains and airlines have responded by creating some of the most interesting sites on the Web today.

Each week, thousands of new pages are being added to the internet, and as many as 100,000 travel-related sites are expected by the year 2000. So companies who pioneered travel planning on the Web are keeping a step ahead of the competition by continually updating their sites to feature the most comprehensive informa-tion on specific destinations and services.

Visitors to the site can print island maps, and can utilise the site's Surround Video to take a "virtual tour" of selected hotels and resorts. Da Bomb hears all...

Talk about lucky kids. Da Bomb hears from high places that there aren't many teachers who are more about their students and reading than Ms. Mil-burn and Ms. Stanchina over at Sterling Park Elementary.

Da Bomb wants to know whassup with eliminating exemptions for student exams based on attendance? So much for incentives. At least the malls should be happy.

Yo, Oviedo cheerlenders: Da Bomb sez quit whinin' about having to try out each week to perform on Fridays. The football team does the same thing if they want to start, don't they?

Way to go Lake Mary High. Even on a horrible night as the rain poured down, making it a bad hair night for every-body, the spirit was alive at the football home opener. Da Bomb stayed pretty dry that night but the cheer-leaders cheered, the band played and everyone had fun. Except the football team.

Crooms Academy sheds 'problem' reputation

By CARTER GILMARTIN Special to the Herald

The City of Sanford houses three public high schools -Seminole High School, the adult lugh school at Seminole Community Col Crooms Academy College.

Rich with history, the Crooms Academy of today is not widely understood outside education circles

Crooms Academy Is county-wide school serving both middle and high school students, grades 6 through 12

SHS offers two curricula, general and honors Crooms does not offer an honors curriculum. Both the general curriculum and a GED program are available on campus.

A general curriculum diploma is recognized at all universities and colleges. However, many colleges "weigh" honors credits. For example a B in honors biology might be viewed the same as an A in general biology by admissions

Generally, to get into SHS, a student must be zoned there. or apply and be accepted to the Health Academy, or have a parent or guardian employed there.

To get into Crooms, a student must always apply, unless their parent or guardian is employed at Crooms School Board policy allows parents to have their children attend the school where they are employed. Application to Crooms 1s made on behalf of the Seminole County middle or high school student by the student's zoned school. The application is reviewed school Social Worker Bruce VanKirk, He reviews information provided by parents, the sending school and the student's record. If he concludes the student meets established admission criteria, space available, and with principal approval, that student will be admitted.

Crooms Academy admission

* Student has been retained at least once.

Student has 18 or more absences in one school year Fridays and Mondays count as two absences.

Student is one or more years older than the average age for the grade level.

 Student has three or more D's or F's for the current grading period.

Norm Reference test scores are significantly below expectation.

Student has previously served in a dropout prevention program and has been recommended for continued placement.

* Student has a personal or family problem (documented by student services personnel) that interferes with school

Speech/Language is the 'only exceptional student education (EDE) program offered to students, whether middle or high school.

Crooms Academy offers students smaller classrooms than other public high schools, with an approximate 15-1 student-to-teacher ratio.

Principal Brenedette Hardy-Blake, Ph.D., is emphatic in stressing that at Crooms Academy no student can expect the academic bar to be lowered But with smaller classes comes the opportunity for what she calls 'n multitude of strategies" to assist the student in reaching those

Dr. Hardy-Blake notes that "people (in the community) see Crooms as a problem school," adding. "We are not a place that houses kids."

According to Hardy-Blake, Crooms offers "more innovative learning strategies" for students to carn the general currentum diploma offered at every other high school. She continues. There are a multitude of ways to teach, but students will have to be prepared for the SAT, ACT, etcetra.

Two goes into one at Wilson

By COURTNEY LEFFEW Herald Correspondant

Wilson Elementary has a fairly new program that is bringing the school multiple advantages.

For the most part, transferring was an option for this year's 10th graders. The only stipulation was, once you made the commitment, there was no turning back. A school guidance counselor said that only two students have sig-not being able to transfer

Kristie Dedelow said she back to their old schools.

Two years ago the school started a Multi-Age Program. The program combines two grades into one classroom to work and learn together

This program has become so popular that now students have to go through an application progress. However, there is limited room and some students are not accepted.

Parents are responding positively to this new grouping The Multi-Age Classes were not designed for the advanced students or for the challenged children. was formed to bring together every type of student. The children get to study, play. help, and grow from each another.

Cookie Paul is one of the teachers for the multi-age class of kindergartners and graders. She feels strongly about the benefits to this way of teaching.

Just today the children were out on the playground and I saw one of the first graders and one of the kindergartners helping a prekindergarten child across the beam. They've balance learned to be a role model to one another," stated Paul.

Only two years into the program, the advantages are overwhelming. During the day, the children have language and math skills along with their other subjects. The two teachers move throughout the room, individually helping the students that need that extra attention. Along with having two teachers in the room, the classes have anywhere from 10 to 15 volumteers assisting every week. The community and parents are very involved in these children's lives and it is apparent when you walk into the classroom. A lot of parents even come to lunch just to grab some quality time with their children.

This also gives the students another opportunity to be with the same two teachers for two years. The children get to know the teachers and build a bond. The teachers get to observe the students over an extended period of time. This develops into a long-term relationship among the teachers, students, and the parents.

In a single-age class for example, the teachers spend most of the first half of the year getting to know the children and then trying to adapt to that students learning habits and skills. In the multiage program the teachers have the convenience of knowing the child over time and understanding how the child learns the best. Not to mention, the children feel like they have a place to belong to and responsibilities to up hold.

in Paul's and Michelle McGarth's kindergarten and first grade class each student gets a Job to do for the week and then rotates on Monday. The kids have any kind of job from pet duty to the shoe tire. Paul expresses that it makes the children feel important and also gives us a break from stopping every five minutes to do those little things.

On the other hand, Amy Cleveland's and Carol Baker's second and third grade class is quit technology oriented. The students are learning word processing, typing, and different programs on the Both teachers computer. agree this experience will help them in the future This Multi-Age Program is shining a new light on teaching. Have you ever watched the brilliant improvinational comedy program Whose Line is it Anyway?" on Comedy Central? If not, try to catch it. Once, the host, Clive Anderson, when ribbed for being thin on top, promptly replied, "I'm not bald, I just outgrew my hair."

One might lose some hair working out the best line in this grand slam. which was discussed by Jean Besse in the Journal de Geneve, (ignore the auction - anything sane would take Besse says there are four ways to play in seven spades, given that the trumps aren't 2-2 (when everyone would claim). The "palooka" takes his nine black suit tricks, hoping for a diamond discard or 3-3 break. No luck one down.

The "connoisseur" starts the same way as the palooka. However, when West drops the nine and 10 of dismonds under dummy's king queen. PHILLIP ALDER

The "unjucky expert" draws only two rounds of trumps, then tries his three top diamonds. He gets home if diamonds are 3-3 or the player with n trumps diamonds is long Here: one down

The "technician" reverses the dummy, which is like playing standing on one's head. After dummy's spade seven wins trick one, declarer continues thus: heart ruff in hand, trump to dummy, heart ruff, club to the queen, heart ruff, diamond to the queen. heart ruff, club to the king, spade ace and claim.
