

Spring Here (Sigh)

By Ward Cannel
Newspaper Enterprise Assn.

When tulips bloom in Union Square
And timid breaths of vernal air
Go wandering down the dusty town
Like children lost in Vanity Fair . . .

So begins Henry Van Dyke's description of spring. It is probably an awful poem and really not worth anybody's time. It not only rhymes, but is also filled with all the cliches usually associated with the season such as birds, brooks and flowers.

We only set the lines down because some tributes must be paid to spring. And there is a great deal to be said for using cliches as they are so clear and readily understood.

Consequently, we would like to borrow a few more of Mr. Van Dyke's words for the occasion. They were written in 1894, not far from where we live, and are titled, "When Tulips Bloom In Union Square."

But we must confess that for all the springs we have lived here in New York, we have never actually seen a tulip bloom in Union Square. Or any place else in this dusty town.

When every long lovely row
Of westward houses stands aglow
And leads the eyes to sunset skies
Beyond the hills where green trees grow . . .

Now, that is a curious thing. We have covered this city on foot many times, and have never yet seen a sunset. And just what green hills he is talking about we cannot say, although we have looked for them many times. However, to continue:

I guess the pussy willows now
Are creeping out on every bow
Along the brook; the robins look
For early worms behind the plow.

As to whether that is so, we cannot say. The florist at the corner sells pussy willows all year long, so you do not have to wait for spring for them. And about the robins and the plow—well, it is quite possible although we have never seen a plow. But, to go on:

I think the meadow lark's clear sound
Leaps upward slowly from the ground;
While on the wing the bluebirds ring
Their wedding bells to woods around.

That is something we know quite a bit about, having been a science reporter for several years. And we have it on excellent authority that the meadowlark's disappearance is no real loss as new insecticides do his work four times as efficiently.

As to the bluebirds, they are still around. We have a tree in our neighborhood and saw a bluebird there last year. Or was it the year before?

The flocks of young anemones
Are dancing round the budding trees.
Who can help wishing to go fishing
In days as full of joy as these?

We do not know precisely what anemones are. But there is doubtless some sort of repellent you can use. Or, as we prefer to do, keep the windows closed and use the air conditioner until the first frost. And now to conclude:

'Tis not a proud desire of mine;
I ask for nothing superfine . . .
Only a trout or two to dart
From foaming pools, and try my art.

'Tis all I'm wishing—old-fashioned fishing
And just a day on Nature's heart.

We agree, and have discussed the matter with several close friends. But unfortunately, it is out of the question as it would take you a day and a half of hard driving just to get there. And then you cannot be sure it is still there, what with all the housing developments going up.

Not that we feel the season went out with the 19th century. We are sure the bounds of spring are fast on winter's traces. Somewhere a barrel organ's carolling across a golden street, and somewhere the voice of the turtle is heard in the land.

We would bet on the fact. It is just that we cannot prove it.

Sponsor Against Foreign Aid Bill

WASHINGTON (UPI)—Sen. Wayne L. Morse (D-Ore.) introduced the administration's $3.4 billion foreign aid bill in the Senate.

But he made it clear he did not support the measure. Morse, one of the Senate's most outspoken critics of foreign aid, said he took the step to set the stage for a clear-cut test in the Senate foreign relations committee as to just what form aid should follow.

FUC Okay To Be Sought For County 'Phone Service

Strong Support For Proposal, Touhy Avers

By Paul Brookshire
A petition is being prepared and will be presented to the Florida Utilities Commission within a short time seeking toll-free county-wide telephone service.

The Metro Telephone Committee of the Seminole County Chamber of Commerce Thursday voted to take immediate steps to have legal counsel prepare a proper petition to present to the utilities commission.

George Touhy, chairman of the committee, said approximately 12 resolutions and letters from various county governmental bodies, clubs and civic organizations have been given to the Chamber strongly supporting the metro phone plan.

"The preponderance of comment received by the committee has been enthusiastically favorable," Touhy said.

Resolutions and letters supporting the area phone service plan came from the city of Sanford, Seminole County, Seminole County Jaycees, Seminole County Republican Executive Committee, Weatherfield Civic Association, Bear Lake Community Club, Sanford Lions Club and many others.

Representatives of the Winter Park Telephone Company and Southern Bell attended Thursday's meeting. They voiced no objections to the metro plan and said they would be willing to abide by the wishes of their customers.

Wounded Youth Pleads Innocent

Thomas Wilson Jr., 17-year-old Cromis High School football player, entered a plea of not guilty and was bound over to circuit court Thursday on a charge of "resisting arrest with violence."

Wilson was shot in the stomach during his arrest Feb. 20 in Ovida by Chief of Police George Kelsey. He was recently released from the hospital.

A preliminary hearing on the charge against Wilson was held before Justice of the Peace B. A. Johnson. Five witnesses were heard, including three persons said to be eyewitnesses to the shooting. Kelsey testified that he did not draw his pistol at the time Wilson was shot.

Reds End Flight, Yanks Ready

Cosmonauts Land After 16th Orbit

MOSCOW (UPI) — The Soviet Union announced its two-man spaceship landed safely today after an epochal flight in which a cosmonaut left his vehicle and returned for the first time.

The official Tass news agency said Col. Pavel Belyayev, 39, commander of Voskhod (Sunrise) II, and Lt. Col. Alexei A. Leonov, 29, who braved the hazards of absolute zero to walk in space, landed safely after a flight of 26 hours and two minutes.

The announcement ended hours of silence by the Kremlin and growing feeling of uneasiness. The Russians had not given any progress reports on the flight of the space bus since 9:30 p.m. (EST) Thursday after Voskhod II had completed its 13th orbit.

Perm, once called Molotov, is about 700 miles northeast of Moscow.

Tass said Colonel Belyayev used manual controls to land the space craft.

It said both he and Leonov "landed well" and that the scientific program which gave the Soviet Union a giant lead in the space race had been "fully accomplished."

The two cosmonauts were blasted into orbit—the highest yet achieved by man—at 10 a.m. (EST) Thursday from the Hakhoron cosmodrome in Kirgizia, about 800 miles southeast of Moscow in Central Asia.

The spaceship soared to an altitude of 307 miles above the earth and then moved in an elliptical, or egg-shaped, orbit, down to 167.9 miles.

The time of the landing in the Soviet Union had been decided the Russians had orbited the earth 16 or 17 times. Soviet cosmonauts had done this before but this flight made history when Leonov crawled through an air chamber to the outside of the craft and returned safely.

He clung to a handrail for about 10 minutes, testing the effects of the 459 degree temperature and the effect of weightlessness on his well-being. Then, dangling at the end of a 16-foot lifeline, he performed somersaults and other maneuvers to demonstrate his control.

Automobile Show Plans Finalized

Automobile show scheduled for downtown Sanford April 7-8 is expected to attract 15,000 persons, the Sanford Automobile Dealers' Association said today.

Between 125 and 150 cars will be displayed during the three-day event.

The Greater Sanford Board of Commerce voted today to contribute a stereo, color TV and portable TV to be awarded during the show.

Tickets for the prizes will be available in downtown stores during the event.

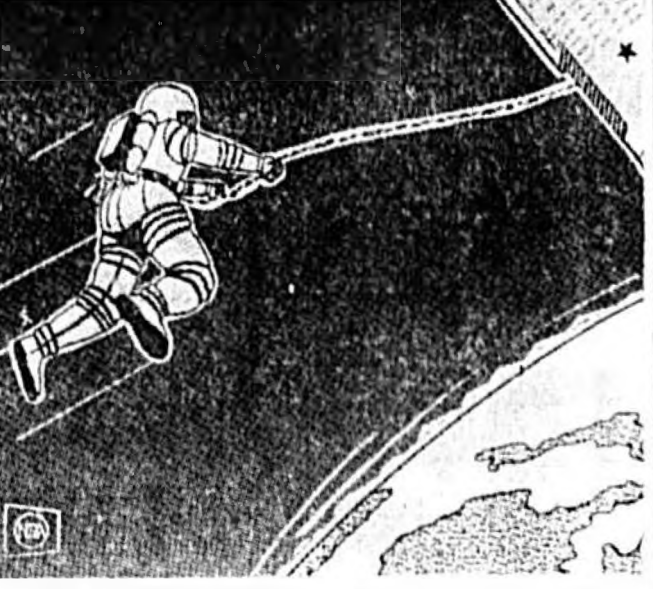

First Street from Park Avenue to Palmetto Avenue will be blocked off for the automobile display, with the exception of a center lane which will be designated a fire lane.

The cars will be on display all day and evening but the various exhibits will be manned and the cars unlocked during the hours 11 a. m. to 5 p. m. Downtown stores will stay open until 9 for the three nights.

The Glen Reeves TV show will perform each night at 7 and 8:30.

By Jane Casselberry
Town of Casselberry will hold open house from 1 until 4 p.m. Saturday in the new municipal offices located at 23 Highway 1732 in Casselberry Plaza.

The public is invited to inspect the new annex which houses the mayor's office, clerk's office, council chamber and public works department and will provide more room for transacting town business.

DREAM COME TRUE — Man has long yearned to fly under his own power, unhampered by a machine. This was achieved in a sense, by Russian Cosmonaut Alexei Leonov when he left his spaceship Thursday. He was in orbit at the same speed as his ship. Had the tether which held him broken, he would have drifted away, helpless, because there was nothing to push against to change his course.

President, At Ranch, Awaits Wallace Reply

JOHNSON CITY, Tenn. (UPI) — President Johnson flew to his ranch early on Friday to await a reply from Gov. Wallace.

The President, accompanied by staff members, then directly to his LBI ranch landing strip aboard an airplane. He landed at 2:26 a.m. (EST).

Just four hours before, the President called newsmen to his White House office to read his reply to a telegram from Wallace.

The governor asked the President for thousands of federal marshals to protect Negro and white demonstrators on a five-day march from Selma to Montgomery, Ala.

In a telegram to Wallace, Johnson said there were not enough marshals for such a march.

Wirtz Supported
WASHINGTON (UPI) — Labor Secretary W. Willard Wirtz got church backing for his stand against allowing a federal imposition of foreign laborers to harvest crops.

Longwood Dedication Set Sunday

Dr. Donna Estes
Jack Bushor was hired as an additional part-time patrolman for the Longwood Police Department on recommendation of Police Chief Claude Lajo during a continued session of the City Council Thursday.

Chief Lajo stated that Bushor had been highly recommended and had been a member of the fire department and police reserve.

Mayor David Wentworth announced that dedication ceremonies for the new outdoor American flag at the city hall will be held at 2:30 p.m. Sunday. Mayor A. R. Longman will be guest of honor for the occasion and members of the city government, fire and police departments also will be present.

Area veterans organizations will attend including the Veterans of World War I, Veterans of Foreign Wars and American Legion.

In other business, bids on 1,000 feet of four inch enamel lined cast iron pipe and two fire hydrants were opened from American Cast Iron Pipe Company, Davis Meter and Supply, Inc. and B and H Sales, Inc.

A resolution by Percy White was authorized to obtain further information with power to act.

White urged that a detailed map of the water system showing location of all out-of-date meters be drawn and made available at city hall as soon as possible. This was recommended by Mayor Wentworth at the council reorganizational meeting in January. Company Chairman Carl Essinger will look into the matter.

City Clerk Omie H. Shonette was instructed to obtain a copy of a book of model ordinances from Tallahassee for a study by council, and possible adoption, whereby the city's ordinances would be updated and redeveloped.

A letter was read from Tammam Trail Bus Tours, Inc. stating that it is not possible at this time to provide bus service for Longwood.

Winter Fails To Bow To Spring
United Press International
The tail end of a giant storm lashed the upper Midwest to day on the last full day of winter.

Icy gales swept the Great Lakes and snow was blown in to 25 foot drifts in Minnesota.

The weather bureau said spring officially arrives at 3:05 p.m. (EST) Saturday.

Freezing temperatures extended through the Southland to the Gulf Coast. Citrus fruit growers in the Rio Grande Valley were warned to prepare for frost.

Out on the Great Plains, the mercury dropped below zero. The temperature hovered around six above at Milwaukee, Wis., with brisk 16 mile an hour winds.

Highway crews were fighting a losing battle against high winds and drifting snow in Minnesota.

Drifts 25 feet high were reported at Worthington and St. Cloud, Minn. Fifteen-foot drifts clogged highways north of Minneapolis. Snow plows got stuck in some places.

Hundreds of schools were closed through Iowa, Minnesota and Upper Michigan. Schools in Minneapolis and St. Paul shut down Thursday for the first time in 15 years.

Winds hit 50 mph and reduced visibility to zero in feet. Elsewhere, light snow fell in many areas, even though snow had stopped falling. The snow depth at Duluth, Minn. — not thundershowers occurred along counting drifts — was 14 or 15 inches.

SUNSHINE SPECIALS from New York brought approximately 100 students, coaches and chaperones of the Hackley School for Boys to Sanford Thursday. Athletic teams of the private school will undergo about 10 days of spring training here. The group is staying at the Mayfair Inn. Two chartered buses carrying the students were named "Sunshine Specials."

Usually the old saying that the "girls are smelling the orange blossoms" alludes to June, the month of brides. But just get a whiff of that heady aroma that now fills the delightful air hereabouts. Glorious!

The beautification committee has gone to work to make the approaches to our "City of Splendor" sufficiently appealing to invite passersby to "come 'n see us." This effort is in spite of some expressed misgivings about "who's gonna keep the spots pretty?" Take a look at the tiny plot at 25th Street and Park Avenue, skeptics say, and they add that someone promised to keep the rock garden with its evergreens a real adventure in beauty. So what happens? Scraps of paper, empty bottles, and trash of many descriptions litter the triangle, and you don't have to be a square if you don't want to be "round it, the doubters add. The Clock-winders are sure that the new committee has an answer.

That United Fund thermometer on the east side of One West First Street ought to come down. It now serves only to remind us all of this county's residents' failure to assume a responsibility of concern for others. And the sum established as a goal was a VERY low one for some 74,000 people to contribute to the deserving agencies.

The large increase in aspirin sales no doubt is due to the fact that many who are calculating their income tax now are awaking to the fact that the "withholding" is short, TOO short, to meet the figure that is due. "How come?" Did not the Great Man say we were getting a tax cut—and to go spend the difference? And now—after blowing the bundle (small as it was)—we learn that some tax deductions we USED to have are no longer deductions? So, I'm suffering with the shorts—but had...

Many readers of the March 6 issue of Business Week magazine were happy to read the story of their Sanford friend, Jenio Paulucci, whose delightful home and garden adorns the Washington and Mellonville blocks in Grove Manor. The story mentions some of the personal attributes of Chung King products' head man and the climb in popularity of these packaged Chinese delicacies. Not even some of Jenio's fortune cookies could have foretold this success. And it doesn't mention some of the other firms in which the Duluth-Sanford tycoon has interests, either.

What's with the Waterfront Project? All readings still on "Go and counting." You'll be getting a big eyeful of the proposed development one of these days.

We Can Pull Out

When I was a boy living in Georgia we had an ample supply of very sticky mud and low powered automobiles. If one drove on country roads he found himself very often in mud that could entrap and hold the vehicles of the driver who was not skilled at pulling out of the mess. If getting stuck seemed inevitable a cry would go up from all of the back seat drivers, "pull out of it."

We are not so troubled with sticky mud and "model T" automobiles today, but it seems to me that we have a great need of pulling out of several things far more important and difficult than mud.

A destructive and frustrating trap that many of us find ourselves in is that of despair. Of course, this is no new thing. The Psalmist said a long time ago, "Why art thou cast down, O my soul? and why art thou disquieted within me?" (Psalm 42:5).

Certainly we know that there is much to make us feel cast down if we observe the condition in which we find ourselves. It could be the operation you face, the attack of bills that never seem to decrease, a frustrating job, an employer or employee who is just too much, a domestic problem that must be lived with, or a host of many other things far too numerous to name. The social problems of today disquiet our souls also! Yes, we can be disquieted and stay that way without even trying!

What is the cure? There must be help for man in pulling through the mud hole of despair.

The Psalmist gave the answer in many Psalms, and many other writers of the Bible, including Christ, agreed on the simple but effective way of dispelling despair and living the abundant life. The answer they all gave is to have faith in the God who is infinitely great.

Maybe we do not realize how big God is and even though we have a concept of Him it is an inadequate one.

If God is to meet the problems of our time He must be large, indeed. The fact is that He is great enough to create all that is and at the same time reveal Himself in Jesus Christ that we might understand Him. He is too great for us to fully comprehend with our limited minds, but so are many other facts of far less greatness.

A rather small but extremely helpful book by J. B. Phillips is entitled, "Your God is Too Small." It is extremely helpful in "getting hold" of the greatness of God. For example the introduction says: "Many men and women today are living, often with inner dissatisfaction, without any faith in God at all. This is not because they are particularly wicked or selfish, or as the old-fashioned would say 'godless,' but because they have not found in their adult minds a God big enough to account for life." I would like to suggest that you check with your church library for this book or buy one and think further of the "largeness" of God.

If we are to "pull out" of our predicament we must HAVE FAITH IN THE GOD WHO IS GREATER THAN THE CAUSES OF OUR DESPAIR.

Named to her second consecutive term as president was Mrs. Gene Shannon. Others elected were Mrs. Lenox Fay, vice president; Mrs. Terry Herst, secretary; Mrs. John Stankiewicz, treasurer; and Mrs. Jennie Fox, deanery representative.

Others nominated were Mrs. Elena Shaw for the office of vice president; Mrs. George Sommer for secretary, Mrs. Helen Beam for treasurer and Mrs. Beverly Kreck for deanery representative.

Serving on the nominating committee were Mrs. Pat Quilling, Mrs. Shirley Corkill, Mrs. Thelma Denlea and Mrs. Dorothy Edwards.

No nominations were made from the floor. The officers will be formally installed at a banquet to be held April 26 at the House of Beef in Maitland.

The meeting, conducted by Mrs. Shannon, had 27 members present, including three new ones, Mrs. Laura Repilado, Mrs. Catherine Laird and Mrs. Teresa Ruta. Guests welcomed were Mrs. Cecil Schmidt, Mrs. Gloria Eggleston and Mrs. Loreta Allen.

Mrs. Shannon announced that persons wishing to attend the Spring Deanery Meeting to be held at Blessed Trinity Church in Ocala, March 30, should make their reservations as soon as possible either with Mrs. John Kennedy in Longwood or with her.

Following the business meeting only coffee or tea was served in observance of the Lenten Fast.

College Choir To Give Concert In Casselberry

The Concert Choir of Emory and Henry College, under direction of Charles R. Davis, professor of music, will present a program of sacred and secular music at 7:30 p. m. Tuesday at the Casselberry Community Methodist Church.

Joseph E. Williams, also a member of the music faculty at Emory and Henry, will be accompanist. The 42-voice choir, which is well-known in its own locality, also has sung in New Jersey and New York and last August it appeared by special invitation at Christ Church Methodist in New York City as part of World's Fair festivities. It has been sponsored in more than 100 churches and colleges during the past five years and has appeared professionally on the Community Concert Series in two cities. It also has appeared with the Virginia Symphony Orchestra of four occasions and sang once with the King's Past Symphony Orchestra.

The program to be performed here features music of the "masters" and contemporary composers. Of particular interest will be Mozart's "Laudate Dominum" from his "Vespere solennes de confessor," Brahms' "Selig sind" from the "German Requiem," Wagner's "Pilgrim's Chorus" from "Tannhauser," and "Frolic in Cottage" by Ludwik Mikowski, chairman of the music department at Emory and Henry.

Miss Darlene Shea, member of the Casselberry church and student at Emory and Henry, sings second soprano with the choir.

MIAMI — (NEA) — Life is exceedingly grim for Curt Blefary, age 21, who already has been stripped of his life's ambition—to wear pin-striped flannels with a big "NY" over the heart and play in Yankee Stadium.

He took $35,000 from the New York Yankees three years ago and still is letting them pay for his college education. But on April 29, 1963, while he was an apprentice at Greenboro, N. C., Curt heard that the Yankees had asked waivers on him and that he had been claimed by the Baltimore Orioles.

"Imagine," he muttered, "the only club in the majors that never made me an offer."

He sulked in his hotel room for two days while he decided what he wanted to do with his life.

"At first," he recalled, "I didn't want to play baseball at all any more. I was disgusted. Sick. Then I decided I'd really make 'em pay for it."

This is the year he can do it. Blefary (bleef-ee) could be just what the Orioles need this year to make up their two-game deficit in the standings at the end of '64. Baltimore blooped when Boog Powell bunched into a wall at Fenway Park and broke his wrist, and there was no one to compensate for the missing power.

If there's one thing Blefary has, it's power. He hit 31 home runs last year at Rochester in Triple-A ball, knocked in 80 and showed a judicious eye for the strike zone by getting walked 102 times. Those walks are the only sign of patience in a brawny, muscled youngster whose aggressions uncoil in casual conversation.

Reality Hit Brumley In Time

By Murray Olderman
POMPANO BEACH (NEA) — Mike Brumley was on the road to hell and damnation, knew it and didn't care. Until an October day in 1963.

He sat in the living room of his home in Oklahoma City and watched the fourth game of the World Series between the Yankees and Dodgers with the Rev. James McGinley of Lubbock, Tex.

Mike had played seven years in the farm system of the Dodgers. The Rev. McGinley was once a Yankee farmhand. Between innings, the Baptist minister turned to Brumley and asked, "Mike, what do you feel about religion?"

His mother-in-law was afflicted with tuberculosis, a rare brain tumor. His divorce papers were in the works. A kid he had once introduced to drink drove through a stop light and got killed. And only the fact he got in the army and couldn't get any whiskey during basic training kept Mike from being an alcoholic.

"I played one year at Spokane (1963)," said Mike with fervor, "when I saw the sun come up every day. I was a completely promiscuous person."

Something about the question the Rev. McGinley asked turned Mike around. "I was searching for a way to pray," recalled Mike, "but the kind of life I was living, I had no right to."

Since that day, Mike has never tasted alcohol, uttered a word of profanity or yielded to temptation in any way. He is the first-string catcher for the Washington Senators, played in 136 games last year, more than he ever caught in his whole career, and was named to the Rookie All-Star team.

He stood along the third base line at the Senators' little training camp here in the sun and said gratefully, "I never played in the majors until after I was a Christian. My first prayer was answered —to play in the big leagues." There are 12 men on the Dodger-laden Senator roster with whom Mike played in the minors and who know all his foibles. "I lived a far lower life than any of them," admitted Mike. They call him the "Dwain."

His days may be at the ball park, but his nights and mornings are spent addressing 2,500 people at Boca Raton Bible College. The Brumleys and Demeters live next to each other in Oklahoma City.

Today Mike's idea of a good time is discussing his life with Don Demeter. Not baseball, though Mike is still hellfire and brimstone when it comes to getting the other guy out, but his desire to be a full-time evangelist.

Seems to me Billy Sunday got started the same way.

Jim Courier Takes Mound For Oviedo

By Marshall Lingo
Herald Sports Writer

The 1965 baseball season will open for the Oviedo Lions when they meet the Greyhounds of Lyman High School Saturday afternoon at John Courier Field in Oviedo.

Coach Paul Mikler is expecting a good season out of his team this year. This year's team is primarily the same as last year's. The starting nine are all juniors and seniors and seven of the first nine started last year.

Jimmy Courier, Oviedo's powerhouse pitcher who holds the school record with 18 strike-outs in one game, has been limbering up and should be in good shape for the game.

Rez Brooks, a senior, is back as catcher. Tim Colbert, a junior, will start at first base; Kelly Fore, senior, will take second base; Mike Parlin, junior, will hold down third, and Charlie Miller, senior, takes shortstop.

Wayne Jacobs, junior, starts at left field; Billy Mikler, junior, will be in center field, and Bobby Stewart, junior, probably will move out to right field. Stewart plays second base also.

Backing up Courier on the mound will be Walter Beasley and Sonny White. Beasley, a junior, pitched some last year but this is White's first year in varsity play.

Others on the team are Andy Mikler, RF; Alan Jenson, CF; David Evans, LF, and Steve Mello, a third baseman.

Indians' Crack Teams Set For Stetson Relays

Seminole High's two crack relay teams—the 40 and the mile—will see action Saturday in the Stetson Relays at Deland.

The mile relay quartet set a school record in the run Wednesday at Winter Park when they were clocked at 3:31.8. The old Seminole mark was 3:32.0.

Running on the team that set the new school mark were Sterl Weber, Richard Hittell, Paul LeRoy and Eddie Griffith. Expected to run at Deland Saturday are Mike Gray, LeRoy, Weber and Griffith.

Seminole's 400 relay team also turned in the best time for that distance in the state at Winter Park. Timed at 44.0 was a team composed of Bill Frisby, Eddie Griffith, Jeff Whitting and Rick Walstrom.

Nineteen boys from SIS will compete in the Stetson meet. Tom Foreman will be entered in the high hurdles, Walstrom and LeRoy in the 100, Jack Hunt and Danny Leeds in the 2-mile alternating relay, Bill Halback and Charles Mullins in the mile, Richard Littell in the 440, LeRoy and Frisby in the 220, Weber in the 800, and Jack Hum, Danny Lee and Jim Winters in the 800-yard run.

David Noel and Steve Clark will be entered in the shot and discus, Dennis Bates in the high jump and Walstrom and Leroy in the broad jump.

Lyman To NSB Today

By Jim Bacchus
Herald Sports Writer

Coaches Jim Payne and Walt Dzurus will take their Lyman Greyhounds to New Smyrna Beach tonight for a baseball game against the Barracudas.

The Hounds will return to Seminole County action Saturday with a contest against the Oviedo Lions at Oviedo.

Head Coach Payne has named sophomore right-hander Mark Brewer as the likely starting pitcher in the Barracudas game. Brewer will be making his first appearance of the season for the Greyhounds. Either Charles Newell or Steve Simpkins will get the starting assignment in the Oviedo affair.

Both southpaws registered impressive victories in their appearances. Newell downed Winter Park 3-1 and Simpkins beat Wildwood 10-3. Both struck out three men and Simpkins struck out eight. Neither boy issued a walk.

Sophomore Larry Lott, who is leading the club with three doubles, and a .571 batting average will once again start behind the plate. Russ Brandes is the other Lyman receiver. Junior Larry Miller, hitting a solid .400, will be at first base tonight.

Mike Sterling will perform at second base and Brent Helms will shortstop. Leadoff batter Larry Baker rounds out the infield at third.

Mike Lucas, Ricky Miller and Brian Bury are the other infielders. The outfielders for tonight will be composed of Marvin Cook, Allen Currens at center and Don Paulsen at right.

John Tipple will be most likely be the rightfielder against Oviedo and Dickie Clarke may see action in the field.

Cook is leading the Greyhounds with five runs batted in. He slammed a home run against Wildwood on Tuesday. Currens scored three runs against Wildwood and Paulsen is hitting .400. Coach Payne has been extremely pleased with team's performance in its two games.

Marilyn Smith Tops St. Pete Woman's Open

ST. PETERSBURG (UPI)—Holding a two-stroke lead in the $10,000 St. Petersburg Women's Open golf tournament may not be an auspicious thing at all to Marilyn Smith. The last time she started out that way, she wound up losing.

Marilyn played a tight, steady game in Thursday's opening round, holding herself in line despite a strong, gusty wind that had some of the 100 other pro and amateur entrants fighting through the rough.

Miss Smith, who plays now out of Runaway Bay, Jamaica, had two 34s and a three-under-par 68 total over the 6,394 yards of the Sunset Country Club course. She dropped a 60-footer on the seventh hole for an eagle 3, and picked up another stroke on par on the back nine.

Tied at 70 behind her were Ruth Jensen of Bonnal, Calif., Sandra Haynie, Fort Worth, Tex., and Kathy Whitworth, San Antonio, Tex.

Dickinson, Hunt Lead Jax Open

ATLANTIC BEACH (UPI)—Gardner Dickinson and Bernard Hunt headed the field today going into the second round of the Greater Jacksonville Open golf tournament.

Dickinson, of Jupiter, and Hunt, a husky blond from Buoy Health, England, shot 68s Thursday on the windy and rain-soaked Selva Marina course to tie for the opening round lead.

Four golfers, Bob Charles, Jim Ferres, Dick Ryan, and Bruce Devlin, fired 60s, and Charles Sifford, Billy Farrell and Mason Rudolph were one stroke behind them.

Tempests Take Second Spot

The "mighty" Tempests won a four game decision over the Skyarks and vaulted themselves into the No. 2 spot in the Bill Hemphill Motorettes League at Jet Lanes. Harriet Gail was the "bomber" for the Tempests with a 172/461 followed by Mabel Duggan with a 164/451.

Marilyn Warnick shot a 160 game and the Skyarks. Linda Post won high game and series honors with her 188/520 that put the skills to the Riviera although she did have extra help from her other Starchief teammates, Marion Harris with a 160 game and Evelyn Mills with a 174 game. The Electras swept all four points from the Invictas in another league match.

It was Lix Graham all the way as she "bombed" the pins for a 176/452 while setting the pace for the Le Sabres in a three game romp over the Pontlars. Pennes Schaffer rolled a 160/462 that showed the way for the Bonnevilles to take a three game win from the Catalinas despite good games provided by Betty Bowes with a 160 and a 101 by June Gasman.

'Those Calloways' On Ritz Screen Weekends Can Be Fun

POWERFUL drama is enacted by Brian Keith and Vera Miles, who portray a proud, independent outdoorsman and his wife in Walt Disney's "Those Calloways," now showing at the Ritz Theatre.

Walt Disney's long-awaited feature production, "Those Calloways," brings to the screen a hearty slice of life in New England during the 1930's with warmth, rustic humor, great natural beauty, and a top talented cast. "Those Calloways" presently is showing at the Ritz Theatre and will continue through Wednesday.

Brian Keith, Vera Miles, Brandon de Wilde, Walter Brennan and Ed Wynn bring to life the backwoods Calloway family, and the small town folks in Swiftwater, Vermont. The stirring drama about a man of the woods and his family who fight greed and poverty to establish a lake sanctuary for the great geese flocks was filmed in Vermont; first in winter when the snow-covered vil-

WHAT DO YOU KNOW? It's Friday again—and it's also Lent. What better idea for dinner tonight than one of those famous all-you-can-eat fish dinners at the PINECREST INN? This delightful comedy and vocal team are wonderfully talented and have been a smash hit everywhere. Gina, Rock At Drive-In Gina Lollobrigida and Rock Hudson star in the color-film comedy, "Strange Bedfellows," featured Sunday through Tuesday at the Movieland Drive-In Theatre.

Co-featured will be "Fate Is the Hunter," with Glenn Ford and Nancy Kwan.

The double bill for Wednesday only will be a true story of World War II, "No Man Is An Island," starring Jeffrey Hunter, and "The Hustler," with Paul Newman and Jackie Gleason.

Triple feature, all in color, for Thursday, Friday and Saturday, March 25-27, will be "Goodbye, Charlie," with Debbie Reynolds and Tony Curtis; "Invitation to a Gunfight," super-western starring Yul Brynner in his first Sanford showing, and "Golden Arrow," with Tab Hunter.

"Bedfellows" is a brilliant tribute to the fact that Hollywood, through the years, has lost none of its incomparable knack for blending the ingredients that produce entertainment with a capital "E." For Melvin Frank, who collaborated on the original screenplay with Norman Panama and Michael Partwee, then produced and directed the shimmering Technicolor extravaganza, this comedy is truly a brightly-burning giant candle on the frosty cake that heralds the silver anniversary of Panama and Frank as laughmaking kings of the cinema world.

TEMPESTUOUS and fiery Gina Lollobrigida matches Rock Hudson word for word in a family quarrel in the zany comedy, "Strange Bedfellows," at the Movieland Drive-In Theatre.

FATEFUL MEETING of Anthony Perkins and Janet Leigh has chilling consequences in Alfred Hitchcock's "Psycho," the master mystery maker's newest Paramount production which opened Thursday at the Seminole Cinema.

Highlights

10-11 p.m. CBS. Slattery's People. "Question: What's New In Timbuctoo?" Pat O'Brien plays an old politician who slowly begins to realize his own party is stabbing him in the back. His worst shock comes when he learns his own daughter is plotting with her married lover to make him lose his office. Slattery, too, joins those who'd like to see the old man out of the picture, but his motives are those of a true friend. Excellent story of behind-the-scenes political skulduggery.

7:30-8:30 p.m. CBS. Rawhide. "Prairie Fire." Another good western, this one a sentimental show of affection for Wishbone as the men fight to save his life. Wishbone goes to take over a dead friend's herd with the intention of giving the proceeds to the friend's daughter. But he falls into the hands of greedy herders who torture him to try to get the herd's ownership papers for themselves. In the struggle, Wishbone teaches one of them a lesson on becoming a man.

7:30-8:30 p.m. NBC. International Showtime. "The Giant Caravan Circus." And it's still another visit to Sweden's circus. As this series has obviously run out of circuses and out of gas. The acts are good ones, if you enjoy this sort of entertainment, and you'll be treated to the expected display of clowns, acrobats and horsemanship.

8:30 p.m. ABC. The Farmer's Daughter. "Katy's New Job." Once again, Glen almost loses Katy to a rich man who won't take no for an answer. But Katy astounds him by asking for time to think over his offer of $500 a week, plus a wardrobe, a maid and a chauffeur. He's even more astounded (though we shouldn't be) at her decision.

8:30-9:30 p.m. CBS. The Great Adventure. "Rodger Young." (Re-run) The legend of Rodger Young, one of the most publicized heroes of World War II who posthumously received the Congressional Medal of Honor, is here reduced to actual facts and the result we see the youth as warm, courageous human rather than a superhero. Excellent in the title role is James MacArthur. In fine support are Geoffrey Horne, Ted Bessell and George Kennedy.

8:30-9 p.m. ABC. The Addams Family. "Lurch And His Harpsichord." The picture of Lurch, eyes lowered and lips trembling, playing fugues on his harpsichord is an incongruous one. And he almost dies inside when his beloved instrument nearly gets sold to a museum. He's so miserable he can't even get laughs

Churchwomen Make Plans For Confirmation

By Donna Estes

Plans were made at the regular meeting of the Episcopal Churchwomen of Longwood's Christ Episcopal Church Monday evening for a breakfast to be served April 4 to the Confirmation Class.

Guest of honor at the breakfast and officiating at the Confirmation Service will be Bishop Henry I. Louttit, bishop of South Florida.

In other business at the meeting, the women voted to donate $100 toward the purchase of a new organ for the church. Mrs. Jo-Ann Hammond, secretary of Christian Social Relations, reported on the activities of her committee.

Presiding at the meeting was Mrs. Virginia Bowersox, president, and Rev. Charles Stewart Jr., vicar, conducted an informal discussion on the meaning of Lent.

No refreshments were served following the meeting in accordance with the Lenten Fast.

Castle Farms Stores Expanding In Sanford

By Donna Estes

Castle Farms Dairy Stores are expanding to Sanford.

The self-service dairy store to begin operations Saturday at 2619 South French Avenue will be the 11th opening in recent months.

Specializing in milk and dairy products, the Castle Farms Dairy Store will be open seven days a week from 9 a.m. to 9 p.m.

The Sanford store as well as the other ten in the area will all be supplied from the Castle Farms new production plant which is to open in Deland in April. The milk farm is located in Waldo and the present plant is at Holly Hill.

George S. Coble, president, and Don Stoffel, general manager, said they plan to expand their operations throughout Central Florida within a 100-mile radius of the Deland central plant.

To celebrate the opening of the new location in Sanford, Castle Farms Dairy Store will hold a drawing with first prize winner receiving a year's supply of ice cream, half a gallon a week for 52 weeks, free.

The second, third, fourth and fifth prizes will all receive a six months supply, or half a gallon a week for 26 weeks, Stoffel announced.

In addition to the milk and ice cream the Castle Farms feature butter and eggs, cheeses, cottage cheese, orange juice, bacon, cookies, crackers, bread, chocolate milk, buttermilk and skimmed milk.

The Bermuda Islands were named for Juan de Bermudez, a 16th century Spanish navigator.

Health Director Warns: Beware Of 'Medicine Man'

"The old - time medicine shows, promoting cure-all elixirs and youth restoring tonics are gone but the medicine man is still with us," Dr. Frank Leone, director of the Seminole County Health Department, warned today.

"Today this man is a pseudoscientific salesman who adroitly dances on a thin line between fact and fiction," Dr. Leone said.

The modern medicine man wears many masks, according to the Seminole health officer, and may hide behind the cloak of impressive-looking titles or quasi medical degrees and diplomas.

Frequently he uses an electrically operated device for diagnosis and treatment. Such devices often resemble legitimate medical apparatus such as X-ray or electrocardiograph machines.

Dr. Leone said a recently exposed example was called the "Radioscope." Investigation by the U. S. Food and Drug Administration revealed it to be a complete fraud that could not distinguish blood from colored water.

Many of the medical quacks use mail-order advertising with convincing testimonials. Usually they make claims that are just evasive enough to sidestep postal laws and avoid prosecution. Other quacks go from door-to-door to carry their message of cures directly into homes.

Dr. Leone urges six guidelines from the American Medical Association to spot a quack. He asks that people beware of the "Sales-man" if:

- 1) He uses a special or "secret" formula or machine that he claims can cure diseases;
- 2) He promises a quick or easy cure;
- 3) He advertises, using "case histories" or testimonials to impress people;
- 4) He clamors constantly for medical investigation and recognition;
- 5) He claims medical men are persecuting him or that they are afraid of his competition;
- 6) He tells you that his method of treatment is better than surgery, X-rays or drugs.

Animated Magazine Program Presented By Sanford Woman's Club

The Woman's Club of Sanford was lavishly decorated in a St. Patrick's Day theme Wednesday when members and guests assembled for the annual "Animated Magazine" program with the Fine Arts Department serving as hostesses.

Guests were greeted at the door by Mrs. Roy Tillis, Mrs. C. M. Flowers and Mrs. Irving Pryor, who decorated the club house.

The program was dedicated to Mrs. L. E. Spencer, with the devotional program given by Mrs. Durwood Walker.

Mrs. Tillis, editor-in-chief of the magazine, was general chairman with Mrs. Don Flamm turning the pages of the huge magazine on an easel, relating the activities of the club.

Mrs. J. P. Cullen, program chairman, arranged a colorful program for the members and guests entertainment.

Miss Anna Lea Herman, talented vocalist, accompanied by a combo composed of Larry Williams, Mickey McClannahan and Johnny Cullum, presented a delightful musical program.

Mrs. Fred Ganas gave three demonstrations on flower arranging and showed an interesting "futuristic arrangement," which will be exhibited in Miami later this season. The modern design was lighted with batteries creating a vivid fluorescent effect. Gerald Covington of the Orange Blossom Playhouse presented a brief history of folk music and entertained the audience with several numbers, accompanied at the piano by Mrs. Covington.

Following a most enjoyable program, cookies, sandwiches, minis and nuts were served by Mrs. Harkey, Mrs. Fry, Mrs. Flowers, Mrs. Tillis and Mrs. Al Hunt.

PARTICIPATING IN THE "ANIMATED MAGAZINE" program at the Sanford Woman's Club were from the left, Mrs. Roy Tillis, editor in chief; Mrs. Don Flamm, who turned the pages as events were related; Mrs. Fred Ganas, who gave demonstrations in the art of flower arranging with Mrs. Durwood Walker giving the devotional program.

GERALD COVINGTON, left, entertained the Sanford Woman's Club magazine program with a brief history of Folk Music, followed by his singing several folk tunes. Miss Anna Lea Herman, vocalist, Johnny Cullum and Mickey McClannahan, standing, and Larry Williams, at the piano, all Seminole High students, provided additional musical entertainment.

Dr. P. H. Westgate Conducts Displays For Azalea Club

Mrs. Robert Steele and Mrs. Fred Pope were hostesses to Azalea Club at dinner Thursday evening at the Steele home, Beardsall Avenue.

Dinner was served buffet style in the dining room with small tables set up in the living room and adjoining sun porch. All tables were overlaid in white adorned with freshly cut Formosa Azalea blossoms, green Shamrocks and green top hats.

After dinner three card tables were pushed together to display some 43 specimens from the gardens of Dr. P. H. Westgate, Mrs. C. P. Harkey, program chairman, introduced Dr. Westgate to the group now assembled in the charming living room.

Dr. Westgate proceeded to place numbered markers in each container. At the same time Mrs. Harkey saw that each guest was supplied with pencil and card.

Dr. Westgate then invited the group to examine, touch, smell or taste and then identify by many plants as they could and write the name with the corresponding number. Members applied themselves enthusiastically to guessing or misguessing the names of the various plants displayed.

When scores were tallied, Mrs. Dempsey Carnes held high score with 19 correct names. Mrs. Stinson and Mrs. Pope tied for second high with 15 correct answers. Dr. Westgate presented each with a packet of fresh "Sweet Pod Pea." The pods as well as peas are cooked of this unusual vegetable used widely in fine Chinese restaurants. They are thriving in Dr. Westgate's garden but are native to Formosa.

A packet of fresh rhubarb was awarded Mrs. J. L. Clark who correctly identified 12 plants. Boobie prize, one sugar beet (which she called "turnip") was awarded Mrs. Henry McLaughlin with a score of six. The "thing" was delicious just boiled, skinned, sliced and buttered.

Reserving a potted Vanilla Orchid (native to Hawaii) and a potted rhubarb, the other specimens were distributed to members to plant either in pots or kitchen garden.

Azalea Club members were deeply impressed by the many exotic plants and Dr. Westgate's vast store of knowledge, but most of all by his fabulous enthusiasm for his chosen work.

Enjoying the interesting program and delightful dinner were the Meses. Dempsey Carnes, J. M. Moye, H. R. Ervin, Lee A. Wheeler, Frank Thomas, Clyde Stinson, Henry Russell and Porter Lansing. Also the Meses. C. P. Harkey, J. D. Callahan, J. L. Clark, Henry McLaughlin, Fred Pope, R. F. Steele and Dr. Westgate.

1/2 cup chopped peanuts or walnuts
1 1/2 cups crisp cornflakes
Beat egg whites and salt until just stiff enough to hold moist peaks; then add sugar gradually about 1 heaping tablespoon at a time, continuing to beat after each addition until whites are stiff. Mix in peanuts, using fork, then fold in cornflakes. Drop by teaspoonfuls onto ungreased unglazed brown paper on a cookie sheet. Bake in slow oven 300 degrees for 30 minutes. Remove from paper to cake racks immediately. Makes about 3 dozen cookies.

Salome - How Depraved?

By Joan Crosby
Newspaper Enterprise Assn.
NEW YORK — (NEA) — The so-called dirt being dished out by the theater and movies also shows up in, of all things, an occasional operatic production. The arts have "moved past health to perversity," according to beautiful soprano Phyllis Curtin.

A noted interpreter of "Salome," the "shocking" Richard Strauss opera, Miss Curtin was teed-off over a new production of the opera, mounted by the Metropolitan Opera, and hailed by all the critics for its portrayal of horror and depravity. When Ilirgit Nilsson sang the lead, critics praised her musical interpretation. When she was followed in the role by Austrian Maria Kouba, critics were reserved about her singing, but high in their praise of Miss Kouba's undraped figure.

"We are living in a day of pseudo-intellectual, dime-store Freud. It is absolutely impossible to portray a strong, direct passion. Everything has to be perverted. To find a good, strong motive for an action is not considered sexy enough," Miss Curtin says.

"Salome" is not depraved, Miss Curtin says. "She is a spoiled girl. She asks for a man's head, but in those days it was not unusual to behold a man. If you pay attention to the words written by Oscar Wilde, you'll learn Salome says she is proud of her chastity. She also says John made her love him. What's wrong with that? She wants him to look at her. When she gets his head, she says 'If you had only looked at me.' All of this is in the opera. She admires the moon which is 'cool and chaste' and she despises the sickness around her.

"No one pays any attention to this. They all focus on the dance, which is sensational, but immaterial. The idea seems to be to make it dirty and disgusting, which is not true to the story."

Miss Curtin, who last sang "Salome" at the new Los Angeles Music Pavilion, was once taken to task for not being depraved enough in her portrayal. But then a national magazine reviewed her performance and called it "a grinding, squirming portrait of disheveled depravity."

"I guess you see what you bring to the theater," Miss Curtin says.

Dear Abby: By Abigail Van Buren

DEAR ABBY: I just read "NO SALES" letter in the Philadelphia Bulletin and I almost died laughing. She complains because all the salespeople in Baltimore "pounce" on her and offer to help her the minute she enters a store. But she doesn't want to be helped. So what is she doing in the store anyway?

If she really wants to be ignored, tell her to come to Philadelphia. She will have to hunt up the item she wants to buy, then go looking for a salesperson to sell it to her. And if she's lucky, she will find one whom she must beg to take her money and wrap up her purchase.

IGNORED IN PHILADELPHIA

DEAR ABBY: Where has "NO SALE IN BALTIMORE" been shopping? I live in Baltimore, too, and believe me, I have never been bombarded with clerks offering to help me when I shop in town.

That's the reason I now do most of my shopping on the telephone.

PREFERS THE PHONE

DEAR ABBY: Please tell "NO SALE" in Baltimore that I would appreciate one of its aggressive sales clerks for a change. Most of the stores here in Huntville, Alabama need to have their clerks trained by the Baltimore department store. When you get a clerk to wait on you in Huntville, she acts like she is doing nobody bothers you. And when you finally make a decision, you just put it in a basket and wheel it over to the counter where the cashier takes your money and wraps it for you. That's for me!

NO PROBLEM IN SAN MATEO

DEAR ABBY: I have been a saleslady in a large department store in Chicago for over 40 years, and I think I know what "NO SALE IN BALTIMORE" means.

Some salespeople approach customers in a very arrogant manner and the way they say, "MAY I ASSIST YOU" makes the shopper feel that if she doesn't make up her mind to buy something within the next sixty seconds she had better move along. I always let the customer browse around for a while first, and then if she appears to want a salesperson's help, I approach her in a friendly way and let HER ask ME to assist her.

Family 'Food Code'

By Polly Cramer
Newspaper Enterprise Assn.
DEAR POLLY—When we have company my family uses the initials "M.I.K." and "F.H.B." to save embarrassment on serving seconds at mealtime. For example, we will say "Will you have some more of the M.I.K. chicken?" or "Will you have some more of the F.H.B. chicken?" If anyone asks we say these initials are the cook's magic formula. "M.I.K." actually stands for "more in the kitchen" and "F.H.B." says "family hold back."—MRS. T. D. P.

DEAR POLLY—I read your column regularly but have never been so moved to write as now. I want to strongly advise Mrs. W.J.R. not to do anything about the black spot on her beautiful antique mirror. She may ruin the value of it completely. If you, Mrs. W.J.R., could live to be 100 years old or more, don't you think a few wrinkles would make you more interesting? If you merely wanted a reproduction of an antique, why didn't you buy one? Consult someone knowledgeable if the mirror really does need rejuvenation and make it subtle. Don't let it turn out looking like a painted up old lady.—F.S.V., an interior decorator.

DEAR POLLY—Before putting empty fruit jars away, after they have been washed, I always place half of a clean paper napkin in each jar. The napkin absorbs any moisture and helps keep the lid from rusting.—MRS. G. G.

DEAR POLLY—I am sure many of the readers have vegetable gardens, so here is a hint for them. Use long-handled tongs from a barbecue set to drop seed potatoes as you remain standing and avoid a backache.—MRS. G. F. G.

DEAR POLLY—My husband works in a khaki uniform and its back seam always comes out after several washings. Other wives I know have had the same problem. Repeated sewing only tends to tear the material. When I was ironing on some iron-on tape, I discovered that if I took half inch strips of this and put them on the seams of the khaki and then sewed over that they do not pull out. It seems to work well on other clothes, too. Believe this is going to save me quite a lot of money so, I hope someone else can profit by it, too. Just look that column, it is like my morning coffee. I can't do without it.—LOIS

Thanks Lois, and the column could not do without all of you.—POLLY

How To Click With Camera

... with Aileen

Bitten by the shutter bug? If you are, you can save yourself time, money and aggravation by following the sound advice of an executive with a camera import firm.

Arthur Young of Allied Impex Corp. recommends you shop for a camera that can grow as your interest in photography grows. Automatic features of today's still cameras do almost everything except pose your subject. However, over-simplification of a camera is not good for a truly interested photographer. For this reason he suggests an automatic camera that can be switched to manual. You lose money when trading in a camera to buy a more complex kit, he says.

Before dashing off to a photo shop or department store, ask yourself what type of photos you want to take. Read up on the variety of still cameras on the market. Once you decide what camera will meet your needs, check publications that analyze good and bad features of different models before you buy.

Young also gives these warnings:

—Steer away from bargain operations. You can get stuck with a camera with poor optics and mechanical flaws.

—Stick to recognized brand names to avoid marginal or promotional equipment or a self-timer?

"A common mistake of most who buy cameras," he says, "is not going through the mechanical operations in the store." Most reputable dealers offer a trial period of perhaps 10 days for you to shoot some rolls. Take advantage of this.

Young points out that a good product is thought out step-by-step from the packaging to the end product. If there is skimping on the packaging, then the manufacturer may be cutting corners on the quality of his equipment, too.

You may select a plain camera with range finder coating $50 to $150 or a single lens reflex for $100 to $500 but you can save money by buying a camera that eliminates features you won't use, he says. For example, do you need an interchangeable lens or a self-timer?

The basic consideration, he emphasizes, is in the end use or utilization of the camera you buy. Remember that the more automated a camera is, the more subject it is to breaking down. Is your dealer equipped to repair it or is there a definite manufacturer's guarantee for replacement and repairs?

You May Have To Patch

By Mr. Fix
Newspaper Enterprise Assn.
If you plan to paint or paper a wall or ceiling, but the surface has cracks, holes, or large broken areas, you'll have to do some plaster patching before you can proceed.

You can easily complete a small patching job if you use the right tools and materials. But if the area to be patched is larger than two feet square you'd be wise to call in a professional.

For most repair jobs, you need only these tools: wide-bladed knife, trowel, chisel, beaman opener, small paint brush, sponge and sandpaper.

Two different types of materials will be adequate for most of the jobs you'll encounter. The first is a putty for filling small cracks, such as spackling compound; the second is patching plaster. This is used on large holes, or on cracks wider than one-eighth inch.

Handy Can Opener

The first step in preparing a small plaster crack for repair is to scrape it. An old pocketknife or a hand opener will do the job effectively. After the crack is scraped, brush it with a wet brush to remove dust.

Next, apply a thin coat of the spackling putty, using a putty knife, or better yet, a wide-bladed knife. The wider blade makes possible a feathered edge which promotes adhesion. Let the putty dry for a few hours, then sand smooth. If the spackling shrinks slightly after drying, apply a second light coat, then sand again.

For repairing hairline cracks, apply dry spackling putty with a dry sponge. Follow the directions on the package, then point in the usual manner.

Patching larger areas, calls for a different approach. Scrape or chip away all the loose pieces of old plaster around the spot to be fixed.

If your patching area is large, break the plaster back in the nearest stud and nail a piece of thin plasterboard or gypsum lath over the old lath. Undercut the solid edge of the old plaster, if possible, to assure greater support for the new plaster.

For Larger Areas
Patching plaster is the repair material used for large areas. Mix only a small amount and avoid excessive stirring.

Use a trowel to apply the plaster. If the holes or cracks are deep, fill them in two steps. Use your trowel to apply the second coat. Allow for shrinkage by filling the area slightly above the surface.

After the area has been patched, let it dry for at least 12 hours. When you're sure it's completely dry, sand it with fine paper to remove rough spots. A priming coat of shellac may be applied before painting or papering.

Jacoby On Bridge By Oswald Jacoby

South went up with dummy's king of spades at trick one. Then he proceeded to run off his five club tricks in hope that his opponents would let some hearts go.

Unfortunately for South, that didn't happen. West's four diamonds were the six of spades and the deuce, four and six of diamonds while East got rid of his own low diamonds.

Then, South led a diamond to dummy's king. East was in with the ace and had no trouble finding the winning double. He played his ace of hearts. This dropped South's heart whereupon East led a heart of his partner's jack. West continued the suit and the defense had their five tricks.

South had played the hand with all the delicacy of a hydrogen bomb. If he had simply led a club to his king at trick two and a diamond toward dummy at trick three he would have had a far better chance of getting East to return his partner's suit.

East might well have played his ace of hearts anyway since East could have figured out that South surely would hold other the queen-jack or ace of spades for his opening bid and that the only hope of beating the hand would lie in the heart suit.

Then, North and South might have bid the hand a trifle better. South was unlucky to go down at three trump, but there would have been no way to beat him at five clubs and somehow or other both North and South had opportunity to shy away from the unsatisfactory no-trump into the winning club hand.

We The Women: By Ruth Millett

It was after the cheating scandal at the Air Force Academy made headlines nationwide that a television interviewer lined up a group of young, bright-eyed university students to ask them how they felt about cheating on examination.

One young man said, without batting an eye, "Oh, I'm sure everyone has cheated on an examination at one time or another."

A pretty young coed said, "I'd be afraid to cheat because I might get caught." And so it went—as the young pondered the question of cheating and came forth with their views on the subject.

The shocking thing was that out of all those interviewed not one indicated that to cheat or not to cheat was a question of character.

Not one said he wouldn't cheat because it would hurt his conscience. Not one pointed out there would be no satisfaction in a good grade gained by dishonesty. Why?

It is because parents and schools lay far more stress on grades than on character? Is it because our young hear nothing from the time they enter high school but "You must compete?"

Is it that the young are not told by their parents, "Do the best you honestly can with the brains and ability and talent you have and we'll be proud of you whether you are at the top, middle or bottom of your class?"

Parents and teachers had better stop right now and ask themselves, "Are we emphasizing grades instead of learning for its own sake?"

We have forgotten to ask, "What did you get out of that course?" In our eagerness to ask, "What grade did you make?"

In stressing competition in today's world, have we neglected to make our young realize that being able to live comfortably with one's self is even more important than to get ahead of others?

Your Dental Health

Gnash And Grind Teeth?

By William Lawrence, D.D.S.
Do you gnash and grind your teeth at night? Or when you are under stress? Or when your wife has dentured a fender on the new car? That grinding, gnashing and chomping is called bruxism. If you do it habitually you have a name: you are a bruxomaniac. Of course there are lots worse things people do because of their daily frustrations and stresses and strains. During a final exam once, a student I knew plucked his eyebrows bare with his fingers!

Many dentists now think this eccentric grinding results from upper and lower teeth not coming together properly. If in biting, we strike a tooth or group of teeth before all our teeth meet, there is a tendency to deliberately grind this area.

One experimenter proved this by adding extra amounts of filling material to the biting surfaces of a few teeth; grinding and gnashing of bruxism was consistently produced.

Continual grinding puts teeth under abnormal pressure and it's this constant pressure that breaks down supporting bone causing it to shrink or absorb. With less bone support, teeth become loose.

Gums are affected too. They lose their normal pink color and become swollen and bleed easily. Pyorrhea or periodontal pockets form around necks of teeth and food collects in these areas to further irritate the gums.

The hinge that controls the movements of the jaw becomes involved too. Cracking and snapping, and not infrequently discomfort and pain are symptomatic.

Fortunately the dental side of the problem of bruxism is now better understood and can be effectively treated. This is done by curdette and planing of root surfaces; and by selective grinding of the offending biting surfaces so that teeth come together evenly and the bite is "balanced."

This treatment doesn't restore bone to its original position, but gums can be cleared of infection and teeth made more firm.

School and You

Additional Help Needed

By Susan Light
Parents of a child with problems in school generally feel that the teacher should be willing and able to do something about them. And rightfully so. Any teacher worth his salt will go the second mile to help a pupil get on the right track.

Many teachers give up their free time before school, during the noon hour, and after dismissal to help children who have fallen behind in their school work. They also give these same children an extra measure of time and attention during class periods, and often prepare special remedial assignments for them to do at home.

When the problem is a matter of discipline, a teacher may stop everything several times a day to deal with the culprit. Since many discipline problems stem from the home, he will probably confer frequently with the parents—or, in more extreme cases, the school psychologist.

Added to these, of course, are the temporary problems of helping a new pupil get accustomed to school routine. There comes a point, however, at which parents expect too much of a teacher and the school. They need to do some honest soul-searching on this question: In a public school system where every student is supposedly given equal opportunity, how much attention is one child entitled to?

Granted that child is DIFFERENT! And a good teacher caters to individual differences. But what about all the other "different" children?

It might be considered in terms of simple arithmetic. Roughly speaking, a classroom teacher spends five hours a day, or 300 minutes, instructing his class. At least a third of this time may be spent in presenting material, giving directions, explaining assignments, and the like—to the entire class. This leaves 200 minutes for more individual instruction. Assuming there are 30 children in the class, each child is entitled to not quite 7 minutes of the teacher's time and attention. Naturally, this figure is purely hypothetical, but provides food for thought. When one child consistently requires more minutes of individual attention during the school day, someone else is deprived of his rightful share.

If your child needs more than a public school can, or should, offer, private tutoring, better discipline at home, professional counseling, or a private school may be your answer.

Please send your school problems to Susan Light in care of The Sanford Herald. While she cannot answer each letter personally, letters of general interest will be answered in this column.

'Healing Music' Helps

Wayne G. Brandstadt, M.D.
Anyone who would live in a world without music is sick. Many persons have been helped by music.

Even the witch doctors of Africa use primitive music to work their cures. Although the healing effects of music have been known since ancient times, the scientific approach to the therapeutic value of music started with the writings of Dr. Edward Podolsky, a New York physician, in 1919.

Just as there are different kinds of drugs, there are also different kinds of healing music. But certain sounds, from healing, can act as poison to some persons.

One of the earliest contacts any of us had with music was the lullaby used to send us off to peaceful sleep as babies. Perhaps that is why lullabies seem to appeal to persons of all ages.

Scientists have shown that music increases the flow of blood to the brain and stimulates some of the glands of internal secretion. Marches and martial music increase muscular energy and music with meals is an aid to digestion.

William Congreve, 17th century poet, wrote that "music hath charms to soothe the savage breast." What he did not know was that music played in a hen house increases not only egg production but also helps to fatten the chickens. In the dairy barn it increases the flow of milk. It has even been found to increase the growth of plants both in the greenhouse and in the field.

Music has been called a universal language. What Tchaikovsky has to say is not Russian and what Sibelius has to say is not Finnish. Not only do the composers surmount the language barrier—they also speak to us from past centuries in terms we readily understand.

Although the most spectacular results of music therapy have been seen in mental patients, you don't have to be insane to benefit from music. Music in the hospital delivery room eases the pain of childbirth. In the dentist's office, it takes the terror out of drilling. In the anaesthetic room, it smooths the induction of anaesthesia. In the wards, an earphone on the pillow helps the patient through periods of pain and worry.

Music is not for listening only. Patients with shoulder disorders get well faster when they are given graduated exercises on the trombone, drums or accordion. Patients with speech defects are helped by taking up singing. Music, maestro, please!

K Of Cs Receive Dinner Service

By Donna Estes
Mrs. Donald LeFils, president of Las Columbitas, presented a service for 48 of dinnerware and stainless steel flatware in the name of her organization to the Knights of Columbus, St. Richard's Council 5357, at its regular meeting last week.

The Las Columbitas group had purchased the table service with funds raised from various projects sponsored over the past several months. Grand Knight Theodore Michels, on accepting the gift, thanked the women for their hard work and assistance to the Council.

He announced that the items would be used for the first time this Saturday when the Knights sponsor a steak dinner at 8:30 p.m. in the Council Hall on Oak Avenue in Sanford.

George DeMatteo, in charge of the event, has reported that French fries, tossed salad and coffee will be served with the steak.

Boy Celebrates St. Patrick's Day

WEST COVINA, Calif. (UPI) — Jeffrey Famlano, 12, complained to his parents of "nausea" Wednesday and told them he was "dead on my feet."

The younger also said he had picked a weed from the Alvarado school yard as a St. Patrick's Day decoration for his shirt pocket and nibbled at the roots.

The alarmed parents took the boy to Queen of the Valley Hospital in nearby West Covina where attendants pumped his stomach and kept him overnight for observation.

Later, feeling somewhat better, Jeffrey confessed all. He said his original story was all blarney — he'd been nipping at the bottle with other boys celebrating the wearing of the green.

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Sen. Frank J. Lausche (D-Ohio) is setting up a scholarship fund for deserving students with his $7,500 pay increase Congress voted itself this year.

His office said that Lausche had not decided which school will receive the fund. Lausche opposed the pay raise when it was enacted last year.

Fowler Heads Treasury Dept.

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Henry H. Fowler, who quit as No. 2 man at the Treasury only last year, returned today as President Johnson's choice for the No. 1 job now held by retiring Secretary C. Douglas Dillon.

The 56-year-old former Treasury undersecretary, a Democrat and a native Virginian, seemed assured of speedy Senate confirmation for the key cabinet post.

The Senate finance committee, headed by fellow Virginian Harry F. Byrd, was called into closed session today to act on Fowler's appointment. Johnson asked Byrd to hold the meeting.

Farouk was 45 years old and weighed more than 280 pounds. Accompanied by an unidentified woman companion, the last thing he did was to finish a lavish dinner of oysters and lamb in the luxurious restaurant Ile de France.

Lynda Bird, 21, Sets Example

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Lynda Bird Johnson, 21 years old today, compares the much-publicized life of a President's daughter with that of the minister's child whom everyone expects "to be so perfect."

But President Johnson's older daughter, in a session with newswomen, stressed that she was not complaining or rebelling at being in the showcase of White House life.

She said she feels that it is up to the President's daughters to be an example to other young Americans "of the good things," and added, "I think having the spotlight on you really matures you."

Lynda Bird met with reporters at a tea as part of the public notice her birthday has attracted.

She was to attend her normal classes at George Washington University during the day, and in the early evening will go to a reception in honor of her sister, Luci, 17, who will be queen of an Azalea Festival in Norfolk, Va., next month.

Reds Have Headaches

Despite ringing testimonials of support for Communists everywhere and dire warnings to the United States, the Soviet leadership team of Kossygin and Brezhnev has yet to make any tangible progress toward remedying the disrepair in which Nikita Khrushchev left the international Communist movement.

Khrushchev's grand design for a summit meeting of Communist parties, which was intended to establish—or re-establish—the Soviet Union's supremacy among world Communists and virtually read the Red Chinese out of the Communist community, seems less and less likely ever to come off.

Originally announced as an important planning session for the great conference, the latest meeting in Moscow was down-graded to a mere "consultative" gathering under pressure from reluctant national party representatives. Not only was Soviet prestige not raised thereby, but the low ebb of Russian influence was made glaringly evident.

Absent, of course, were Red China and its minions of Albania, North Korea, Japan and Indonesia. But so was Romania, a Russian satellite that shows increasing signs of falling out of orbit.

Disarray in the ranks is not a problem known only in the West.

Thought For Today

So Jesus again said to them. Truly, truly, I say to you, I am the door of the sheep.—John 10:7.

Day by day we should weigh what we have granted to the spirit of the world against what we have denied to the spirit of Jesus, in thought and especially in deed.—Dr. Schweitzer.

Political Notebook

PHILADELPHIA (NEA) — In a small hotel dining room with a faded pink ceiling, some 35 Republican leaders gathered here, took a deep, fresh breath, and looked ahead.

If the Republican party should hereafter get back on an upward track and move toward majority status, or at least a more powerful minority position, this meeting more than any other event may mark the true beginning.

The assembled Republicans talked about attacking problems—huge problems flowing unchecked across the three states and 10 counties involved in the Philadelphia metropolitan area.

In nearly two hours of discussion, the words "conservative" and "liberal" were never uttered. There were no sneering jokes about President Johnson. None of the battered party clichés was heard.

The leaders on hand were all business—constructive business. Before they left the room in midafternoon on that cold February day, they agreed to set up something called a "metro-political council," with members to be chosen soon. Its purpose: to break across the lines of Pennsylvania, New Jersey and Delaware, and of the counties and cities falling within the Philadelphia radius, to permit broad assault on the area's common problems—housing, mass transit, community facilities, education, race relations, economic development, and others.

At the strictly local level, much of the area is in Democratic hands. So the Republicans were talking mostly about recommending programs, of establishing an area-wide party voice to speak with impressive strength and unmistakable concern for the citizens affected.

The participating leaders were all from the Philadelphia area. Some, like the party chiefs from Philadelphia and neighboring Camden across the Delaware river, were meeting for the first time.

The man who pulled them together for this unique meeting was Pennsylvania Chairman Craig Truax, a bit of a wire who's been discharging electricity in Republican circles coast to coast.

Philadelphia was a logical starting point for his effort in the urban field. But Truax is thinking nationally. Listen to him:

"America today is 69.9 per cent urbanized, and the trend is accelerating. A glance at where the people live brings the problem into sharp focus.

"Forty per cent of all Americans live in three small strips of land. These 'strip cities' are found between Washington and Boston, along the California coastal line, and along the Great Lakes waterfront.

"During recent decades the Republican party's fortunes in urban areas have followed a downward curve. This plunge came at the very time the American people were creating supercities such as were never before known."

The Truax argument, then, is simple. To become a majority party, to win at all levels, the Republicans must work with new heart and spirit in the massive urban clusters "where the ducks are."

And must, above all, earn city and suburban votes by showing an eagerness and a capacity to solve the great urban problems.

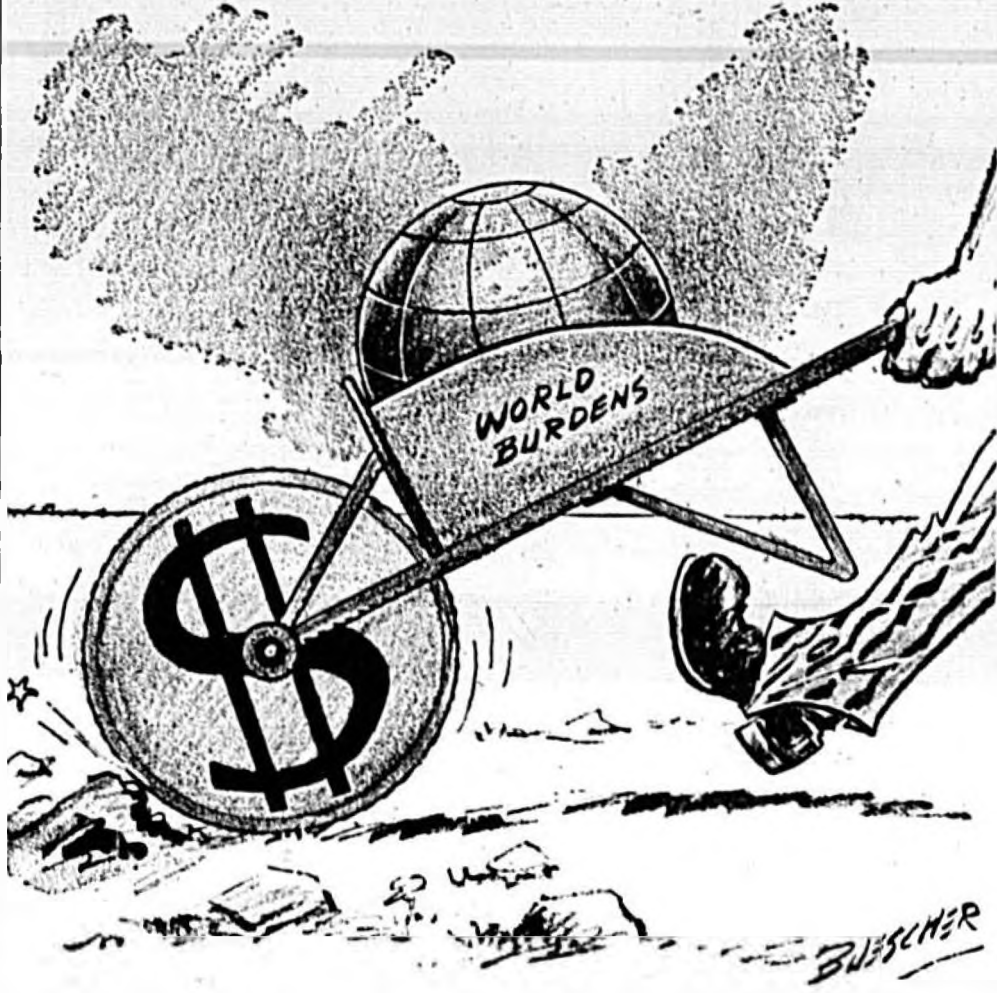

Truax thinks the "metro-political council" is an idea adaptable to all the big clusters. Philadelphia could thus be an important prototype.

There is more to it. If the plan catches on, it could be a way of restructuring the Republican party, of altering its focus away from the time-honored state and local units and toward the sprawling problem zones where the nation is in ferment. New area-wide structures would eventually become centers of party power.

Those gathered in that little hotel dining room knew what they were doing was only a shaky beginning. But they liked what they did. It had about it the air of real promise.

GOOD OLD "CARTWHEEL"

Phil Newsom Says

Clear Mandate

Throughout the election campaign, Chilean President Eduardo Frei Montalva's Christian Democratic supporters had pleaded with the voters to give him a "parliament for the people."

In presidential elections last September, Frei, himself, had won by a majority never before accorded a presidential candidate in Chile. But his platform designed to eliminate Chile's traditional social and economic evils had bogged down in a lame duck congress.

In the March 7 elections, the people gave Frei his answer—an absolute majority in the Chambers of Deputies for the first time in this century and the election of all 12 Christian Democratic candidates for the Senate.

A Christian Democratic sweep of the Senate apparently was prevented only by the number of candidates and the fact that only 21 of the 45 Senate seats were up for election.

Frei's candidates took nearly 400,000 votes from the Communist-supported left, but the real losers were the Radical, Liberal and Conservative parties of the political center and right.

Altogether in the 117 seat Chamber of Deputies Frei candidates won 82.

The election results gave Frei a clear mandate for sweeping reforms, and where there might be trouble his split opposition on the extreme right and left were particularly vulnerable to bargaining.

Communists had opposed Frei's laboriously negotiated agreement with American copper companies because it stopped short of nationalization.

The agreement gives the government majority control of the Braden Copper Company, a subsidiary of Kennecott, and an important voice in Anaconda and Cerro de Pasco mines.

The Radical party, in the political center opposed his plan for administrative reforms because its members occupy a dominant position in the grossly inflated civil service.

Moneyed interests tacked on so many amendments to his slum clearance bill that Frei finally withdrew it.

Opposed from all sides was a proposed constitutional reform which would permit the president to take disputed proposals to a popular vote in the form of a plebiscite. It meant surrender of congressional authority and in the hands of a popular president could short-circuit the government system of checks and balances. It is a system which frequently has been used by President de Gaulle of France.

Dr. Crane's Worry Clinic

Men, be sure you study this case with great care for Clara's dread of a knock on the door when she is all alone, is proof that her husband needs the sex booklet offered below. Many virtuous wives trick themselves and mollify their conscience by the methods Clara has adopted. It is moral penance for a secret sex urge!

CASE V-44: Clara T., aged 39, is the fearful wife mentioned yesterday.

"Dr. Crane," she began, "I'll admit that I have been vaguely alarmed at the prospect of reaching 40 on my birthday.

"But just why should that fear make me so jittery about being in the house alone?" "Furthermore, I have a phobia about hearing a knock on the back door, so how does that fit into your diagnosis?"

Perhaps you readers are familiar with the statement that a spinster's fear of finding a man under the bed is a disguised or camouflaged urge to have her fear become a reality!

In psychiatry, we find that many patients will thus express a chronic fear of something which they subconsciously wish would occur!

At the menopause, one of the common symptoms of wives is this fear of being alone.

For their "all-alone" situations symbolizes a basic dread that their husband will desert them.

But it also has another interpretation that is often correct.

Their conscience makes them protest terror at being all alone because they may feel themselves somewhat vulnerable to masculine wooing if a stranger should knock on the door.

In a nutshell, here is their unvoiced idea:

"I wonder if I am still attractive to men. If another male should knock on the door and try to make love to me, that would prove I am not on the shelf.

"Therefore, I secretly wish another man would appear."

Then the usual morally trained wife will recoil in shock at such a vague thought.

Her conscience immediately shows itself via her excessive locking off all doors when her husband is away from home.

And the abnormal dread of a knock on the door!

"Dr. Crane," many of you innocent readers may protest, "aren't you placing an undue stress on sex?"

To the layman, that often appears the case and we psychiatrists are chronically berated for overly emphasizing sex.

But we don't over-emphasize it!

You laymen do that! All we do is show you how you have been trying to trick yourselves by various disguised fears and worries.

Actually, Clara confessed that an attractive delivery man had knocked on her back door recently.

He was jolly and complimentary, so she offered him a cup of coffee.

But before he left, he seized her and gave her a movie-type of kiss.

She slapped his face and reacted with conscious horror, due to the effect of her strict moral upbringing and conscience.

But her primitive hunger for male attention is apparent in her phobia of being all alone in the house and her dread of another knock on the door.

This is a classical symptom of menopausal wives.

Husbands, nip this problem in the bud by sending for my booklet "Sex Problems in Marriage," enclosing a long stamped, return envelope plus 20 cents.

If you use its advice, your wife will not be thinking about other men!

Bootleg Liquor Ring Broken

MIAMI (UPI) — Beverage agents said they had cracked a bootleg liquor ring which used boats to carry moonshine from a mangrove island in Apalachicola Bay.

Agents said seven men were arrested at the end of a month-long investigation and that 113 gallons of illegal whiskey and 300 gallons of mash had been destroyed on the island.

They estimated the operation netted $20,000 a month in the Miami area alone.

W. S. Porter, generally known as O. Henry, developed his ability as a writer while serving a penitentiary term.

BALANCE

It is said of a certain friend of ours that he went off the deep end. Strange expression, that! It can mean that a person had a mental breakdown, or that he became a sort of fanatic; or it can mean simply that he got too interested in one thing to the exclusion of other important matters.

And the very fact that our generation has coined such an idiom is indicative of the fact that we see such tragedy every day.

One of the vital contributions of religion to life is its gift of balance. The knowledge of God helps a man see all else in its proper perspective.

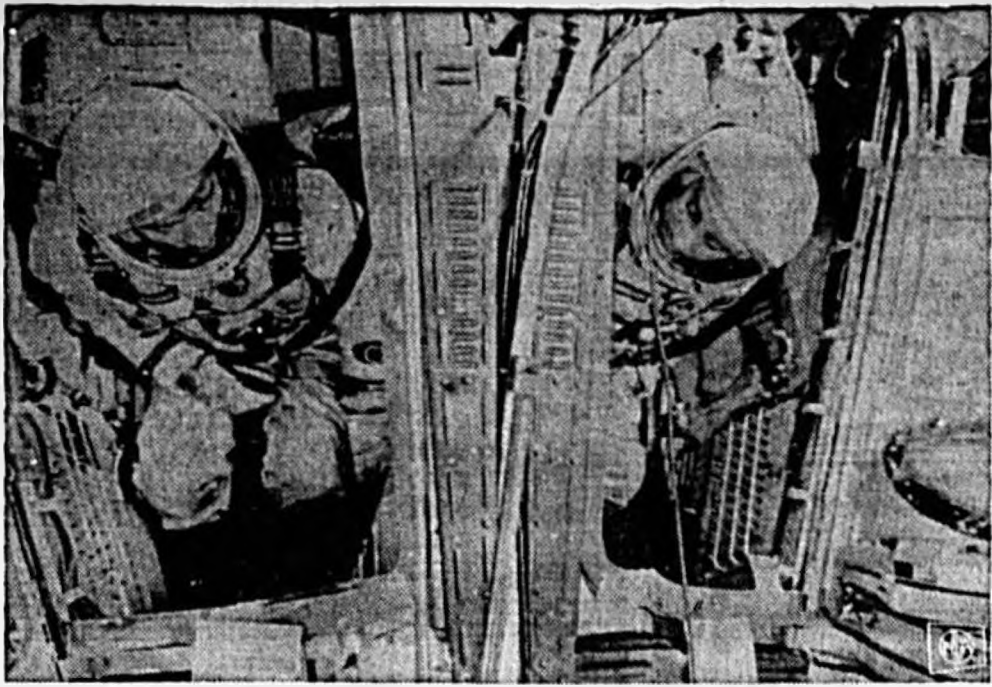

In a day when millions are caught in turbulent crosscurrents, faith points to the true center of existence... worship steadies the mind and heart!

Now Is Time To Apply For Exemptions

New applicants for homestead exemption have been warned to file their applications now in order to avoid lines at the end of the filing period, April 1.

Mrs. Mary Earle Walker, county tax assessor, said today new home owners should bring their recorded deed or agreement for deed into the office for the first application.

In the case of a new resident, Mrs. Walker said, it is necessary for the head of the household to make the application.

Homestead exemption applications were mailed Jan. 1 to those persons who applied for the exemption last year and still owned their property the first of 1965.

Tangible and intangible personal property return forms were also mailed. These should be properly executed and returned to the tax office before April 1, Mrs. Walker said.

The law provides that in order to receive the benefit of the exemptions allowed, application must be filed each year between Jan. 1 and April 1. A penalty is applied after that date.

Development Parley Slated

A discussion with Loomis Leedy, city fiscal agent, on proposed financing of the revised lakefront development project and a formal application for a CATV franchise by Jerrold Electronics Corporation head the agenda at tonight's City Commission.

A. L. Wilson will serve as acting mayor for this session due to the illness of Mayor J. H. Crapps, who still is confined to Seminole Memorial Hospital.

Other items of business include a request for a bus franchise, a sewer service fee complaint, a request for time extension on demolition orders, awarding of bids on a refuse truck and sewer rodding machine, and first reading of a rezoning ordinance.

Weatherman Has Decision For Tuesday

CAPE KENNEDY (UPI) — A sudden reversal in the trend of the whimsical weather today gave America a good chance to launch its first two-man flight into space within 24 hours or so.

A pair of medically certified astronauts named John W. Young and Virgil I. Grissom, a converted war rocket named Titan-2 and a 1965-model spaceship whose name was in dispute awaited an official okay to start the three-orbit voyage at 9 a.m. (EST) Tuesday.

The crucial "go-no-go" decision was in the hands of Christopher C. Kraft Jr., mission director for the inaugural manned flight, already 17 months behind schedule, in the nation's $1.35 billion Project Gemini.

If the word is "go," the seven-hour final countdown will begin at 2 a.m. (EST) Tuesday.

A surprise switch evident in the spacecraft's bad weather behavior startled the U. S. spirits that wilted in the shadow of Russia's upstaging performance by cosmonauts Alexei Leonov and Pavel Belyayev four days ago.

Federal space agency officials said early today a weather forecast called for broken clouds at 8,000 feet at Cape Kennedy Tuesday — a considerable improvement over the gloomy clouds at 3,000 feet predicted just a few hours earlier.

"That would be great . . . it's very good," said one agency spokesman. At 8,000 feet, clouds are acceptable. But if they descend and remain below 5,000 feet, a delay is certain.

Weather in the main and secondary landing areas in the western Atlantic Ocean remained good through late Sunday. But that, too, was subject to instant and often unexpected change.

MOON PROBE
PASADENA, Calif. (UPI) — Scientists today decided to delay for 24 hours until Tuesday morning a planned mid-course maneuver to put America's ninth and last Ranger spacecraft on a more perfect path to the moon.

The scientists made their decision during a pre-dawn study of telemetry data from the spacecraft, which is racing toward the moon to explore one of its mysterious craters for possible astronaut landing sites.

The maneuver changes the pitch and roll in space of Ranger 9.
At 9 a.m. (EST) today Ranger 9 was due to be 99,942 miles from earth. Calculations indicated that at 3 p.m. (EST) Ranger 9 would be 123,515 miles from earth.

March Continues

JOHNSON CITY, Tex. (UPI) — President Johnson, keeping in close touch with progress of the Alabama voting rights march, headed back to Washington today refreshed by a long weekend at his Texas ranch.

The Chief Executive's sojourn away from his White House desk had him in an expansive, jovial mood despite pressures of the Alabama situation.

Early Saturday, he called up guardsmen and assigned military units to protect marchers on the 50-mile route from Selma to Montgomery.

U.S. 80 before beginning their trek.
National Guardsmen and Army military police units were strung along the route.
Today's assignment was a particularly tough one—to cover 17½ miles over narrow, steep-shoudered road through Big Creek Swamp.

March leaders said they must make up the distance lost Sunday because of a late start. The marchers made only eight miles Sunday.

Federal Judge Frank M. Johnson stipulated in his court order permitting the 50-mile march that it must be completed in five days.

Driver Hurt In Mishap, 1 Charged

A Sanford woman was slightly injured in an automobile collision Saturday night. In two other major wrecks in Seminole County over the weekend no injuries were reported.

Mrs. Doris Gandy, 2522 Georgia Avenue, was injured and treated at Seminole Memorial Hospital following a crash at 27th and Sanford Saturday at 7:16 p.m.

Sanford police said Mrs. Gandy's automobile was struck by a car driven by Mrs. Ethel A. Smith, 2628 French Avenue. Damage to Mrs. Smith's car was estimated at $650 and to Mrs. Gandy's auto at $400. Mrs. Smith was charged with driving while under the influence, according to the police report, and was released on bond.

A pickup truck was wrecked when it went out of control and crashed at the intersection of SR 434 and 419 Sunday.

Julius A. Everett, 37, and George J. Perelik, 33, both of Cape Canaveral, escaped being crushed in the cab of the truck.

In another accident, an automobile driven by James L.

Mitchell, 49, of Daytona Beach, went out of control on the exit from I-4 to U. S. 17-92 and turned over. The driver and four passengers were not injured.

Doctor Reports Narcotics Theft

A small amount of narcotics was taken from the office of Dr. Troy E. Overstreet in Casselberry over the weekend.

Dr. Overstreet discovered the theft Sunday when he opened his office.

The physician said the thieves apparently knew what they were looking for as they took the stronger narcotics and left the weaker drugs.

State narcotics agents and the Seminole County sheriff's department are investigating the burglary and theft.

CASSELBERRY ALDERMAN Cliff Overman, Dr. Eugene Ellis and Arthur Lego Jr. are all smiles as they greet well-wishers outside new city offices on Highway 17-92. Open house was held Saturday for the opening of the new administrative offices. (Herald Photo)

Response was "terrific" on the bar-b-q special of hickory smoked ribs for a buck over the weekend, according to Mrs. Hickson at the Pig 'n Whistle . . . only thing, though, she says the ad should have read "$1.50." Same special will run this week but at the latter price.

Civil Defense Director A. B. Peterson Sr., who has been ill, says he will be unable to attend the Florida Civil Defense Council's spring conference in Jacksonville this week.

Osteen Drivers Face Hearing

By Mrs. Clarence Snyder
Hearing is slated for 7 p.m. today before Peace Justice J. E. Peterson of Osteen for Tommy Shavers, 33, and Maxie Richardson, 38, both of Osteen, on charges of reckless driving, willful and wanton, placed Friday night by Constable Irving Veino Jr. after a 100-mile-an-hour chase resulted in accident involving up to $200 damages to Veino's patrol car.

According to Veino, who picked up the two speeding cars just east of Osteen Bridge, drivers attempted to turn off Highway 416 at Lemon Bluff Road. Veino's attempted swerve to miss Richardson's car failed when he met oncoming traffic forcing him off the highway into the ditch, hitting the rear of the other vehicle as he went.

During the investigation, another Osteen man, Ben Joe, was arrested and jailed in DeLand on charges of using profane language, creating a disturbance and attempting to incite a riot.
