Oviedo Woman Held In Fatal Stabbing

By Susan Loden
Herald Staff Writer

A 36-year-old Oviedo woman charged with first degree murder in the stabbing death of her husband at their home at about 8:25 p.m. Monday was being held today without bond in the Seminole County jail.

Brenda Williams, 430 Franklin St. Oviedo, was arrested at her home at about 8:35 p.m. Monday by Oviedo police. When police were called to the home to investigate a reported stabbing they found George Williams Jr. lying in the frontyard of the Williams' home.

Williams, whose age is estimated by police at about 50, was on his back. There was blood on his shirt and a hole in the shirt above the left side of his chest, near his heart. Oviedo police officer F. J. Baker reported.

Three policemen had arrived at the scene. Police Cpl. Steve Benson checked Williams and found no sign of a pulse. He had a single wound in his chest.

Two Oviedo Fire Department rescue workers arrived and determined that Williams was dead. That was confirmed by Seminole County Medical Examiner Dr. G.V. Garay, Baker reported.

A neighbor told police that Mrs. Williams came to his home to use the telephone after the stabbing. She allegedly said she had just killed her husband.

Oviedo police reported that at about 8:15 p.m. Saturday a police officer was called to the Williams' home to take a report on Williams' allegation that his wife had threatened to kill him. When police arrived at the Williams' home

Boil Water, County Tells Utility's Customers

By Deane Jordan
Herald Staff Writer

Customers of a private water system west of Sanford will have to boil their water for at least three more days because of a bacterial contamination and maintenance problems at the facility.

About 40 commercial customers of Lake Monroe Utilities may be able to start drinking the water again by Friday if the Department of Environmental Regulation okays it, said Bill Bostwick, Assistant Director of the DER's Orlando office.

Seminole County tested the water in the system Friday after receiving a complaint that it had gone bad.

The DER has estimated that the utility serves between 1,000 and 1,500 people at commercial establishments in the area of State Road 46 and Interstate 4. Among the business hooked up to the system are the Holiday Inn, Day's Inn, Stuckey's Restaurant, McDonald's, the Waffle House and the General Store. The businesses were ordered to boil their water, said Russell Miller, Seminole County's environmental health director.

The county's test showed a bacterial number "too high to count," Miller said. The problem was caused by a broken line on a machine that puts chlorine into the water system, he said.

Bostwick said the DER wants the utility to repair or replace aeration screens and to clean an aeration unit before it will cancel the boil-water order. Bostwick said the maintenance chores will take about three days.

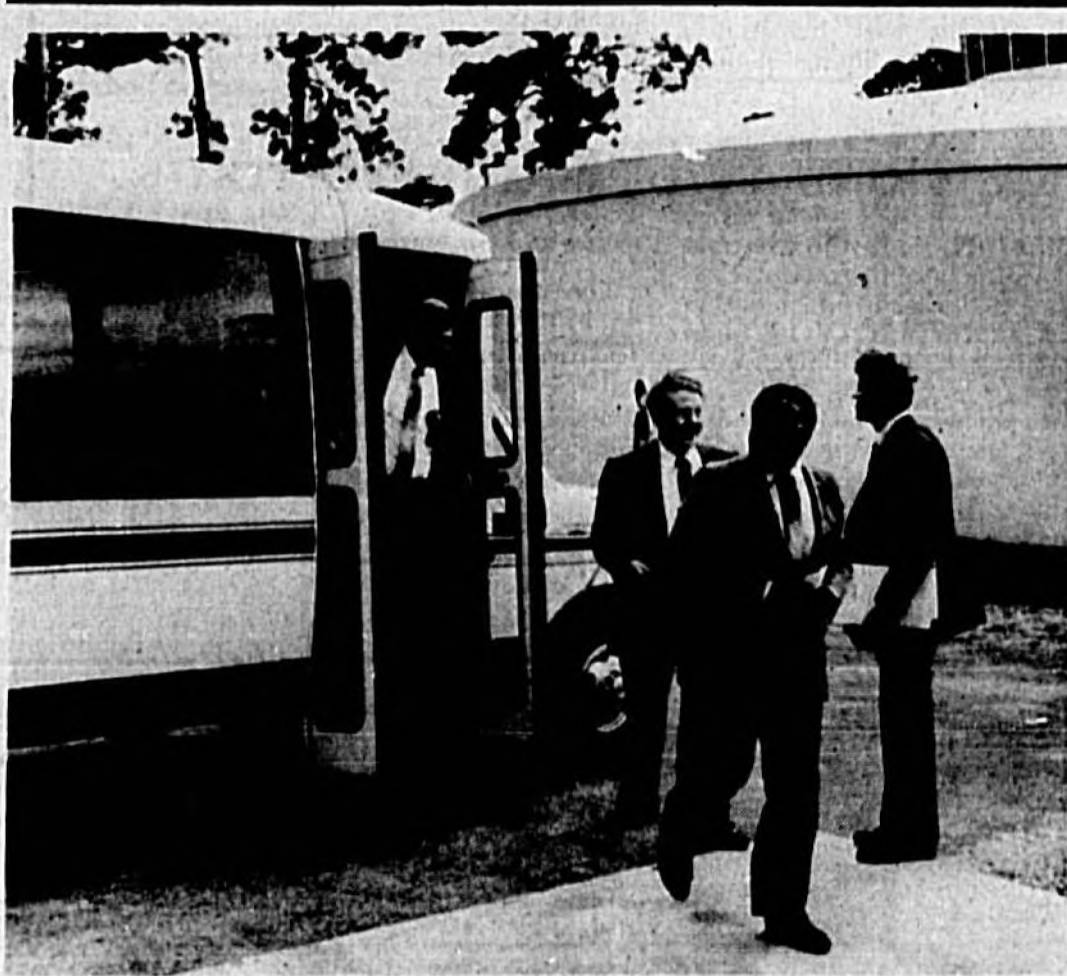

"It was a pretty gross situation," said Bostwick. He said the utility may also have to flush the system.

Bostwick said the tests identified a type of organism in the system's water that indicates conditions were favorable for the growth of disease-causing bacteria. Although the organism was identified, it does not guarantee there were any harmful bacteria in the water, just that it was possible, he said.

Normally the chlorine count in the treated water is one-fifth of a part per million, Miller said. He said the water system had no chlorine in it Friday. Monday, after the chlorine machine had been fixed, the water system showed 1.5 to 2 parts per million, Miller said. He said the utility was told by the DER to get the level of chlorine up to at least 1.5 parts per million for two days to disinfect the system.

Miller said it is impossible to tell by the bacterial level when the chlorine level dropped. He said if there were a source of contamination handy, the system could have been flooded with bacteria within minutes.

The utility pumps about 100,000 gallons a day. Its capacity is 1.2 million gallons per day, according to DER records.

Sanford Officials Glimpse Future

By Karen Talley
Herald Staff Writer

Sanford's future was glimpsed by a receptive city commission Monday as the five elected officials toured the city by bus with the heads of Sanford's eight municipal departments.

The two-hour tour took almost 20 city representatives through annexed parcels, planned park lands, a new fire station site and the police station where the canine division literally sunk its teeth into a demonstrated fight against crime.

Three layers of leather were worn by the officer who portrayed a fleeing felon for the canine unit demonstration. In addition to drug detection and chasing down suspects, the department's two german shepherds are going to be instrumental in tracking lost children and for crowd control, said police Chief Steve Harriet.

Commissioners approved the canine unit's formation in this year's budget. It's part of the police department's "tactical patrol division" which includes a mounted patrol.

The representatives' bus trip began and ended at Sanford city hall, on Fulton Avenue. The tour was planned by City Manager Frank Falson to combine "the visual with the verbal" regarding projects and plans commissioners regularly discuss in meetings and work sessions. The five commissioners made frequent inquiries to staff about specifics of various projects.

The city's Poplar Avenue sewage treatment plant, and several annexed parcels in western Sanford, off State Road 46, offered visions of the city's future growth. Sanford is engaged in a $38.5 million effort to develop a new wastewater disposal system in accordance with a state order to cease effluent disposal in Lake Monroe. Sanford's effluent re-use system will dispose treated wastewater at city owned parks, the Mayfair golf course and Sanford Airport.

Also visited Monday was the city's water plant at the Mayfair golf course, off County Road 46A, and the new effluent disposal system was pointed to

Acosta Appeals 35-Year Sentence

A Longwood man sentenced three weeks ago to 35 years imprisonment for second-degree murder in the shooting death of a child has appealed his case to the 5th District Court of Appeals in Daytona Beach.

Oswaldo Lorenzo Acosta, 50, of 226 Berkshire Circle, was sentenced Jan. 16 by Circuit Judge Robert B. McGregor. McGregor had the option of sentencing Acosta from 27 years to 40 years. As is, Acosta will serve about 17½ years for the murder of Roldy Aragon, 7, according to prosecutors.

Neither attorneys on the case could be reached for comment and a statement of issue to be reviewed by the higher court were not yet in the appeal file. However, under Florida law, Acosta can only appeal his sentence not his conviction because he pleaded no contest in the case.

At his sentencing hearing Acosta asked McGregor to sentence him closer to 27 years rather than closer to 40.

The boy was killed Dec. 11 and his mother, Margarita Montero, 33, and sister, Lourdes Aragon, 14, were injured. Acosta also pleaded no contest to wounding them and to shooting inside a home. Acosta and Miss Montero's

Rats Out-Fox Lake Mary Officials

By Genie Lindberg
Herald Staff Writer

"Burning the midnight oil" at meetings in Lake Mary City Hall has become somewhat routine. But there has been more going on in the wee small hours than anyone had imagined.

Hearing the news that city commissioners chose a site for a new city hall, "unusual homesteaders" wasted no time creeping in at night to take over old building. But city employees, knowing it will be a long while before they leave the premises, say they have been fighting off the "die-hard" intruders.

The intruders are rats, and members of a committee holding a meeting at city hall last Monday say they discovered "they were not alone" after spying one of the "homesteaders" sneaking across the commissioners' hall floor.

When asked to describe the intruder, a committee member said, "He was a very healthy-looking brown rat, and as he rounded the corner, I swear he winked at me."

City hall employees summoned Myers Pest

Control of Winter Park to evict the rats, and say they were impressed with the "new and improved, modern trap" put out to "stop a rat dead in his tracks."

However, the trap, a small flat tray containing glue, that looked like mustard, didn't work. Employees said they found only an empty trap and a trail of mustard-colored footprints running across the stage in city hall.

After its center stage debut, the rat apparently made his exit-stage left—through a suspicious hole that cannot be seen from inside city hall, an employee said.

Poisonous brownies have not worked either. The brownies, or at least something that looks like brownies, were placed in strategic areas on the stage; but were later found in a back office where they had been "dragged and half-eaten," employees said.

And despite the usual Monday morning "rat race," city hall employees were managing to keep a sense of humor about their mysterious tenants. One employee said, with a raised eyebrow, "They must be bigger than we think."

Lake Mary Set To Vote On Sewage Rate Hike

Lake Mary city commissioners agreed Monday that ordinances to increase the city's water and sewer rates be put to a vote at their regular session beginning 7:30 p.m. Thursday.

If the ordinances are approved as expected, users of the city's waterworks system will pay an additional 15 cents per their first 3,000 gallons used and users of the city's wastewater system will pay an additional nine-cent flow charge per 100 gallons used.

A feasibility study done in 1984 for the city of Lake Mary by its consulting engineers, Camp, Dresser and McKee, Inc., concerning the city's water rate structure recommended higher water rates to meet the increase in costs of operation, according to City Treasurer Madeline Minns.

The proposed ordinance establishing the new rates states that any user of the services of the waterworks system, located within the municipal limits, shall pay for water used.

The rate per 1,000 gallons shall apply to each increment of 1,000 gallons or any additional part of it. For example, if 3,500 gallons of water are used, the monthly charge will be the same as if 4,000 gallons were used. Monthly charges or rates will now be $5.94 (minimum billing) for the first 3,000 gallons and $1.98 (per 1,000 gallons) over 3,000 gallons, according to the proposed ordinance.

The increase in rates for monthly sewer usage in Lake Mary is a result of the increase in expenditures caused by switching over to service from Seminole County from the sewer plant in The Forrest of Lake Mary, a manufactured homes subdivision, city treasurer, Madeline Minns said.

The proposed ordinance establishing new rates for monthly sewer usage states that the minimum monthly charge to single-family users shall be $1.75 which shall be a base rate whether the sewer system is in use or not. In addition, each user shall pay a flow charge of 39 cents per 100 gallons, up to a maximum sewage flow of 4,000 gallons-per-month.

The minimum monthly charge will not change under the proposed ordinance but the 39 cents per 100 gallons flow charge represents a nine-cent increase.

Army's Woe

Furniture and other items are scattered about the parking lot behind the Salvation Army building in Sanford Monday after weekend donors failed to heed the request on the drop box. Lt. Sam Flanigan, corps commander, asks that donors put items in the box when the office is closed or call 322-2642 for pickup of larger items. He said furniture left out overnight is often ruined by rain or dampness and has to be hauled to the dump.

Flea Cats In Van Spell Trouble

Flea World Exhibitor Cited For Improper Transport Of Animals

A man who displays and photographs wild animals at Flea World south of Sanford faces a possible $1,000 fine and a year in jail after a Sunday receiving a second citation this year for improperly transporting his big cats.

Lt. John Moran, wildlife inspector for the Florida Game and Fresh Water Fish Commission, assigned to Orlando, said Monday that for the past couple of months as he has had time he has watched Bobby Franklin Steel as Steel transported his wild cats to and from the Flea Market where the animals are available to be photographed with shoppers.

Moran followed Steel as he left the market in a Mustang convertible with a 280-pound lion riding with him at about 5:30 p.m. Sunday. Traveling with the Mustang was Steel's van which contained a jaguar, a tiger and two cougars restrained in plastic and wooden cages, Moran said.

As the vehicles traveled north on U.S. Highway 17-92 toward Sanford Moran said he was waiting for an appropriate site and a chance to order the vehicles to stop when the Steel vehicles stopped at a Cumberland Farms store.

There Moran said he was told that a photographer began taking photos of Steel and the lion in the convertible.

Moran said he issued a citation to Steel for improperly transporting the animals. As a state game warden Moran has the same arrest powers as any police officer in the state.

Steel's van was inspected and Moran said the plastic and wooden cages inside the van, which held the four other cats, violated state requirements that such wild animals be caged in steel or re-enforced aluminum cages for transport.

The metal cage requirements, Moran said, are to prevent the large animals from breaking out of the cages and to also make sure they are contained if the transport vehicle is in an accident.

Before Steel was allowed to leave the area with the cats he had to rent an enclosed metal trailer to transport them to his home near Eustis.

Steel could not be reached to comment on the citation.

Moran said since this is Steel's second citation for the same offense, with Moran issuing both citations, the charge has been upgraded from a second degree misdemeanor to a first degree misdemeanor, which carries double the potential penalty of the second degree charge.

Martinez Signs Two Death Warrants

TALLAHASSEE (UPI) — In the first two death warrants of his administration, Gov. Bob Martinez has authorized the execution of condemned murderers Levis Leon Aldridge and William Melvin "Snivelhead" White.

Martinez signed the warrants Monday and prison officials set the executions for 7 a.m. March 18 in the electric chair at the Florida State Prison near Starke. The warrants expire at noon, March 19.

The warrant was the third for Aldridge, 48, sentenced for the murder of Fort Pierce restaurant manager Robert C. Ward during a 1974 robbery. Former Gov. Bob Graham ordered Aldridge's execution in 1981 and 1983, but Aldridge won stays from the Florida Supreme Court and a federal district court.

Mild Weather Warms Nation

Fierce winds that buffeted Nevada, tipping over tractor-trailers, snapping utility poles and closing schools, subsided and relatively mild weather dominated the nation today despite predictions that spring is six weeks away.

"You can't ask for much better in February," said Pete Reynolds of the National Weather Service. "All the high wind warnings have been dropped and all the winter storm warnings have been reduced to travelers' advisories."

Winter weather persisted in some places. Snow fell early today from northern Minnesota across the Great Lakes, the upper Ohio Valley and upstate New York, the weather service said.

Fog stretched from the lower Ohio Valley across the Tennessee and lower Mississippi valleys to the Carolinas and Virginia. A travelers' advisory for dense fog was issued early today over southwestern Louisiana.

A cold front that moved through the Lake Tahoe area Monday whipped western Nevada with winds that gusted to 70 mph.

The Nevada Highway Patrol said the winds toppled trailers of two rigs on U.S. 395 between Reno and Carson City. No one was injured, but a section of the highway was closed for more than three hours.

The winds also tripped burglar alarms and snapped utility poles, leaving about 6,600 customers without power in Carson City and Sparks. Schools in Storey County and Dayton were closed by blackouts, officials said.

An operations manager at the Reno-Cannon International Airport said, "The little guys got tossed around a bit but the big planes did not have any problems."

The same storm front brought rain and mountain snow to northern and central California and western Nevada Monday. More than 13 inches of snow fell in 12 hours at Blue Canyon, Calif. Rain soaked the northern and central Pacific Coast, and heavy snow made travel hazardous in the Cascade and Siskiyou mountains of western Oregon.

Mudslides in Oregon Monday blocked one lane on both Highway 42 near Myrtle Creek and on Highway 20 on Cascade Mountain, officials said.

An Oregon man was missing and presumed drowned after trying to retrieve a capsized canoe Sunday from the flooded north fork of the Yamhill River in Oregon.

While Punxsutawney Phil, the weather-predicting groundhog at Gobbler's Knob in Pennsylvania saw his shadow Monday, foretelling six more weeks of winter, much of the Midwest was treated to a second day of springtime warmth that broke at least 10 high-temperature records in Illinois, Iowa, Minnesota and Wisconsin.

Ahead of the Western cold front, the eastern half of the nation also enjoyed clear skies and unseasonably warm temperatures.

Warm air from the Gulf of Mexico was the reason for unseasonably warm temperatures Monday in the Midwest and Northern Plains.

In Chicago, the mercury soared to 50 degrees, topping the previous high for the date set in 1920. Other records in Illinois included 58 degrees at Moline and 48 at Rockford. In Wisconsin the temperature rose to a record 46 at Milwaukee and 48 at LaCrosse. Burlington, Iowa, had a record high of 59, and Minneapolis-St. Paul reached 47 degrees.

Man Jailed In Attack On Babysitter

Winter Springs police reported charging a 28-year-old Winter Springs man with armed burglary, aggravated battery and false imprisonment after he allegedly dragged a babysitter away from a home at knifepoint.

The babysitter told police the suspect showed up at the South Cortez Avenue, Winter Springs home where she was working at about 11:10 p.m. Friday. He used the telephone and left to return and attack her when she answered the door the second time.

The babysitter said the suspect shoved her against a wall, grabbed her and put a knife with a 4-inch blade to her throat. She screamed and he told her to shut up. He dragged her out the back of the home to the side of the backyard, where she pushed the knife away. She screamed and the suspect grabbed her legs as she tried to run. She kicked him in the stomach and he fled.

The victim gave police the name of a suspect and police went to that man's home and his wife reportedly said he might be at the Sanford apartment of a friend.

Winter Springs and Sanford police and Seminole County sheriff's deputies went to that home at Groveview Apartments, Lake Mary Boulevard and arrested Kenneth Wayne Culp, of 210 S. Cortez Ave., at 6:46 p.m. Sunday. He was being held without bond.

Lessons That We Should Learn

One of modern history's ironies is how Japan has rebounded from its resounding defeat in World War II to rank among the world's pre-eminent economic powers. Many of the qualities that have transformed the Japanese into the tough international competitors they are today are learned and cultivated in their excellent public-school system.

The most recent evidence of that excellence is contained in a 111-page study compiled by the U.S. Department of Education. "Japanese Education Today" portrays an efficient, dynamic school system where students are prodded to be the best that they can be.

The study stems from a 1983 conversation between President Reagan and Prime Minister Yasuhiro Nakasone. This happened to be the same year that the United States began a nationwide reform movement to revive its lethargic public schools. It was assumed that the Japanese model could be especially instructive to American educators in that campaign.

And indeed it is — to a point. Japanese students generally excel because, beginning in the primary grades, they are provided with a well-balanced education that is enhanced by parental support. From the time Japanese youngsters enter school, they are constantly reminded that knowledge is the key to success. Their school day and year are longer than those of their American counterparts. They also spend about one-third more time learning during each class period than do American students.

No wonder nearly 92 percent of Japanese students graduate from high school compared with 76 percent of American students. Or that the Japanese dropout rate is 7 percent, while the corresponding American rate is an alarming 27 percent. Or that Japanese students consistently rank first in math and science test scores among the world's industrial nations and that American students are generally near the bottom. Or that illiteracy is almost nonexistent among the Japanese.

Japan enjoys the classroom edge, in part, because of its homogenous population. But it is wrong to conclude, as many have, that the United States is permanently disadvantaged because of its cultural diversity. To the contrary, U.S. public education used to be the envy of the world because it was able to assimilate a polyglot population. Not surprisingly, Japan patterned its public schools after our own.

As is so often the case, however, the Japanese have taken a good idea and made it even better. Their public schools emphasize basics and self-discipline in equal measure. Many students attend after-school classes that provide remedial instruction, extra lessons and exam preparation. Teaching is a highly respected and well-paid profession that attracts an average of five highly qualified applicants for every classroom opening. Part-time jobs are frowned upon for Japanese students because they cut into study time. Numerous high schools prohibit students from working. Some schools even set curfews for students, none of whom can obtain a driver's license until age 18.

The downside of the Japanese model is that it tends to foster a rigid uniformity that stifles the students' creative instincts. Another counterproductive side effect is the pressure to get into prestigious high schools that prepare students for the best universities. Moreover, even the finest Japanese colleges and universities cannot compete with American institutes of higher learning.

These deficiencies have prompted a reform movement in Japan to encourage analytical thinking and eliminate "the evils of uniform education."

Whatever the case, the United States would do well to emulate the Japanese successes in early training and motivation for students. In addition, U.S. schools need greater parental involvement, more remedial instruction, better use of class time, and enhanced status for teachers. These virtues used to be commonplace among most American public schools. They can — and must — be once again.

The Eyes For Eyes Seem To Have It

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Judges elsewhere in the world still have 11 months in which to compete, but the title of the year's most injudicious magistrate thus far in 1987 clearly belongs in Zimbabwe.

In the City of Harare, it has been reported, a judge sentenced a nurse to four years in prison. And all she did was set another nurse afire.

The judge said the nurse reacted "out of all proportion" to having her ear bitten off. Needless to say, I don't agree.

If you lose an ear during an altercation, it seems to me the only sensible recourse is to set your assailant on fire.

Most nurses, as you may know from bitter experience, don't burn very well. Dousing her with gasoline may have been necessary to get the fire started.

For a judge to decide that is a prison offense strikes me as the height of irresponsibility, particularly when the other nurse also underwent treatment for depression.

Biting off a colleague's ear is no cause for depression. That proves one's teeth and gums are in good shape, which is reason to set your spirits soaring.

I would say Nurse B had nothing to be depressed about. At least, nothing that could be blamed on the defendant.

The Bible teaches us to retaliate in kind. By that token, maybe the defendant should have gone for her opponent's ear rather than for matches. But all in all, I would say, Nurse B got off lightly.

After all, she didn't have her external appearance marred, did she? Once the burns healed, she could report to a hospital or any other prospective employer as good as new.

But a nurse with one ear is far from being in mint condition. A prospective employer would be fully justified in concluding that something was missing. High prices, for example.

Tired of paying high prices for coffee? Maybe you would like to pay high prices of a cup of gasoline instead.

Although I haven't figured out what a cup of gasoline would cost at current rates, I do know that administration officials cited falling prices of gasoline by the gallon as chiefly responsible for last year's drop in the U.S. inflation rate. So perhaps gasoline by the cup is so inexpensive that even a nurse in Zimbabwe can afford it.

At any rate, it probably is cheaper than beefsteak.

According to the latest edition of Foreign Agriculture, there are "excellent opportunities" for American exports of beer and dairy cattle in Mexico.

It wasn't so long ago that the Mexican economy was geared to gasoline prices. That our neighbor south of the border may be switching to beer and milk cows is good news indeed.

A dash of cream in a cup of coffee already is a requisite for many coffee-drinkers. If Mexican beef becomes plentiful, it may replace ears as the standard fare with Zimbabwean nurses.

I certainly hope so. Prison terms aside, beef may cost more but it also is more nutritious.

Beating Depression Difficult

By Jan Ziegler
UPI Science Writer

WASHINGTON (UPI) — "He's going through a stage."
"Snap out of it. Quit feeling sorry for yourself."

These are on Dr. David Kupfer's list of despised phrases.

Kupfer, chairman and professor of psychiatry at the University of Pittsburgh School of Medicine, hears them all the time in the course of treating depression.

Family members, spouses or friends may tell a depressed person, "Oh, you've got nothing so why even get it evaluated," Kupfer says, "then when it's evaluated, 'Oh, it's only depression.'"

Refusing to recognize what depression means may make the patient's condition worse, Kupfer says.

An example is young people in the first or second years of college who are depressed, but whose family think they just don't like school and "if they would only try harder they would overcome everything," he says.

"Kids really get a guilt trip put on them in terms of dealing with it when in fact what they need is an appropriate assessment," he says. "Family members need to be counseled to be supportive, but to lay off."

"By pushing people real hard, you may be breaking their last tie with the environment. It may make them decide this world is not a good place to live in any more."

For people with depression, he says, "it isn't a question of trying harder to return to their best-functioning state."

Depression is a disease or disorder, he says, much like diabetes or emphysema. Like these other afflictions, it can be fatal; a small percentage of the depressed commit suicide. Most cases, however, have few physical consequences.

An estimated 10 percent to 15 percent of the population will suffer depression sometime in their lives.

But while science has increased understanding of other, physical diseases and removed the stigma once attached to having them, depression is psychological. Therefore, some people still consider it not quite real or even a sign of malingering — sort of the patient's fault, Kupfer says. The stigma itself can be depressing.

"My point is that we've got a long way to go," Kupfer says.

Ted Stevens Masterminded Pay Hike

By Jack Anderson
And Joseph Spear

WASHINGTON — No wonder the members of Congress were grinning broadly last week as they applauded President Reagan's State of the Union call for a balanced budget. They knew they were going to get theirs, no matter how much the budgets for the nation's defense and social services are cut.

Barring a last-minute miracle of self-denial, every member of Congress will get a 15 percent pay raise this week — without even having to vote on it. The only way this automatic raid on the Treasury can be prevented is for both houses to vote against it, and this is the kind of miracle that is demonstrably beyond the courage of the 100th Congress.

How did this come to pass? It was no accident. Congressional pay hikes used to require approval by both Senate and House majorities before they took effect. The roll-call vote discouraged pay hikes because it identified those who voted for

ROBERT WAGMAN

Who's Got The Money?

WASHINGTON (NEA) — Did middlemen and perhaps even some Iranian government officials siphon off millions of dollars in excess profits from U.S. arms shipments to Tehran?

Senate Select Committee Investigators have spent considerable time and effort trying to trace what happened to the roughly $30 million that Iran is believed to have paid for U.S. arms.

They can now accurately account for about $12 million — leaving the whereabouts of the remaining $18 million largely a mystery.

The money paid for the U.S. arms passed through a warren of interconnecting Swiss bank accounts set up in the names of dummy corporations. Investigators were able to trace the funds only so far, until they were stymied by the complexity of the transactions.

However, it appears obvious to Senate Intelligence Committee investigators that some of the "lost" Iranian payments ended up in the pockets of middlemen in the arms deals. They also believe that millions may have been diverted for "commissions" to Iranian officials.

In fact, CIA concerns over missing U.S. money may have led to the story of the Iran arms deals being made public in the first place.

At a certain point, the CIA became concerned about its inability to account for several million dollars involved in some of the early arms transactions. These deals had been arranged by Manucher Ghorbanifar, an exiled Iranian arms merchant now living in Paris.

Ghorbanifar was brought to CIA headquarters in Langley, Va., and given several polygraph examinations. Reportedly, when he failed the exams, he was cut out of future deals.

Angered at his treatment,

Ghorbanifar reportedly called several aides close to Khomeini and opposed to the "moderate" faction of the Iranian government, which is led by Hashemi Rafsanjani, speaker of the Iranian Parliament. It was with Rafsanjani that the arms deals were being made.

Ghorbanifar told Khomeini's aides of the deals. In an attempt to embarrass Rafsanjani, the aides leaked the story to a Beirut newspaper with ties both to the Hezbollah Party and its offshoot, the Revolutionary Justice Organization. Both are radical Shiite Moslem organizations who call the Ayatollah Khomeini their spiritual leader.

In this way, it is believed, the story became public.

Meanwhile, one source for other fringe information has been Paul Cutter, who is now serving time in a federal prison in Arizona for illegal arms sales to Iran.

Cutter is reported to have told investigators of a case in which certain Iranians knew their side was being wildly overcharged for a particular shipment of M-48 tanks and Bell helicopters. In fact, says Cutter, a purchase price for the military hardware was agreed upon — and then doubled. The excess was then split between the Iranians and the middlemen arranging the shipment.

Investigators say they have no reason to disbelieve Cutter's story, but could not prove any of what he told them.

Baffled by the complexity of the financial transactions, Chairman Daniel Inouye, D-Hawaii, and Vice Chairman Warren Rudman, R-N.H., asked Arthur Liman, 54, one of New York's top white-collar criminal-defense lawyers, to be counsel for what is expected to be a year-long investigation of the arm deals.

Budget Reform Unlikely

By Robert Shepard

WASHINGTON (UPI) — There are plenty of good arguments for reforming the way Congress deals with the annual budget and how it passes the various appropriations bills, but prospects are poor for any significant changes being made this year.

President Reagan, in his State of the Union address, called the budget process "a sorry spectacle," and there are many in Congress who would agree.

"The missing of deadlines and the nightmare of monstrous continuing resolutions packing hundreds of billions of dollars of spending into one bill must be stopped," Reagan said.

The president's idea of budget reform rests heavily on his long-standing proposals for a constitutional amendment requiring a balanced federal budget and for Congress to give him the power of "line-item veto" — the ability to eliminate individual items in an appropriations bill rather than having to accept or veto the bill.

Reagan said such authority would enable him to "carve out the boondoggles and port that would never survive on their own," but members of Congress, particularly the Democratic leadership, are not about to grant the president's requests.

House Democratic leader Jim Wright of Texas was particularly critical of Reagan's call for a balanced budget amendment, saying the president's own spending plans are the main reason the government is so deeply submerged in red ink.

The day after the president's speech, when reporters asked Wright about the proposals, the speaker was blunt in voicing his opposition. Wright called it "ironic in the extreme" — "a cop-out" and a "diversionary" tactic.

"You don't reduce the deficit by monkeying with the process," Wright said.

In Wright's view, facing hard choices means the president should scale back his defense budget or consider some form of tax increase to pay for the spending. No doubt Reagan feels the hard choices for the Democrats should involve less spending for domestic programs, such as the clean water bill he vetoed or various other programs the administration wants to eliminate.

of course, and some action. Bill A. Strauss, a founder of the Marbury Foundation (a small group dedicated to fiscal restraint), is one of the attorneys who has filed suit in federal court to block the backdoor pay-hike mechanism on constitutional grounds. The plaintiffs are Sen. Gordon Humphrey, R-N.H., Rep. Bob Smith, R-N.H., and the National Taxpayers Union.

Strauss says Stevens is confusing a presidential recommendation with an executive decision. And he adds that proponents of the automatic pay hike may have gone further than they meant to in their legal argument.

"They are saying that if the president proposes a bill, then both houses have to veto it" or it becomes law, Strauss said. But this means that the president has virtually free rein to raise congressional salaries — or lower them.

The Founding Fathers explicitly set out to avoid this, because, in the words of Alexander Hamilton, "the power over a man's subsistence is a power over his will."

Bulls Drive Market

NEW YORK (UPI) — Prices opened higher today in active trading of New York Stock Exchange issues.

The Dow Jones Industrial average, which climbed 21.38 points to another record high Monday, was up 12.38 to 2191.79 shortly after the market opened.

Advances led declines 637-259 among the 1,316 issues crossing the New York Stock Exchange tape.

Early turnover amounted to about 14,588,800 shares.

The stock market scored a robust advance in active trading Monday as a sliding dollar and a brightened view of the economy helped boost the Dow Jones Industrial average and other market gauges to record highs. Technology, chemical, gold and other stocks sensitive to the economy and the value of the dollar led the way higher.

Michael Metz, a market strategist at Oppenheimer & Co., attributed the market's surge Monday to the view that "we will get an acceleration in the economy rather than the slump we once expected."

Metz said the more optimistic reading of the economy's prospects comes at a time when there are still "an enormous number of people" who have not yet bought stocks. These people "figure that the Dow is going to 4,000 without them, and so they think they better hurry up and buy stocks," Metz said.

Economic Indicators Rise

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The government's index of economic indicators soared 2.1 percent in December, the biggest jump in nearly four years, thanks largely to increases in building permits and a flurry of borrowing, the Commerce Department said today.

December's index concluded a year in which the indicators rose nine of the 12 months, falling only in January, June and August. The index rose 7.2 percent from December 1985 to December 1986, compared to a 5.8 percent increase in the preceding 12 months.

"As a bellwether for future economic activity, today's good news fits comfortably with the stock market's New Year's picture of very strong investment in American business," White House spokesman Marlin Fitzwater said.

Increases in seven of the index's 12 other categories also contributed to the jump.

Buchanan Resigns

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Patrick Buchanan, the hard-line conservative director of White House communications, has resigned, effective March 1, to "better influence the issues" in the 1988 election from outside the Reagan administration, a spokesman announced today.

Marlin Fitzwater, deputy press secretary, said that no successor has been selected and the search is continuing.

He quoted President Reagan as saying "Pat's communications skills and his commitment to conservative political beliefs have played an important part in my administration in the last two years."

enabling groundwater conservation. Effluent, rather than groundwater will be used to irrigate the city owned parcels as well as many new residential and commercial developments, said Engineering and Planning Director Bill Simmons.

Once the re-use system is on-line in upcoming years, Sanford will join Cocoa Beach and St. Petersburg "in the forefront of resource conservation," Simmons said.

In addition to installing spray irrigation systems, the city is also upgrading its sewage treatment plant and will rehabilitate the lines that pipe wastewater to it. The $36.5 million program will be offset with an estimated $8.25 million in state and federal grants.

Annexations extending almost to Interstate-4 were discussed as the bus travelled along State Road 46. A series of these annexed parcels comprise the approximately 115 acre Sanford Industrial Park, which lies just off Upsala Road and includes the developing Codisco commercial/industrial subdivision. Tax base increases are cited by city representatives when Sanford expands its borders through annexation of unincorporated Seminole County land.

Nearly adjacent to the Codisco site is a 4.6 acre parcel that is expected to be annexed this year and then developed as the city's third fire station. Commissioners authorized a $100,000 payment for the site last fall. The new fire facility may include a police sub-station and will cost about $300,000 to build, said Sanford Fire Chief Tom Hickson. Construction will hopefully finish six months after its projected start date next October, Hickson said.

Its 12 acres will include tennis, handball and shuffleboard courts, an athletic field, a picnic shelter and a 3,000-foot winding jogging trail, featuring exercise stations.

The Woodmere Park is being developed on a 169-foot by 112-foot lot that serves as a sewer lift station. The city has budgeted almost $17,000 to develop a basketball court and playground at the lot this year, Jernigan said.

This includes covering over a drainage ditch with piping. Concrete for the basketball court will be poured Friday, he said.

Jernigan on Monday also compared Sanford's parks and recreation departments to those in Altamonte Springs and said based on the cities' populations and service areas Sanford "is behind in our manpower requirements. We don't have near the manpower, but we have the same population base to serve."

Both cities have approximately

The fire complex won't take up more than one of the parcel's almost five acres and Parks and Recreation Department Director Jim Jernigan has his eye on the remaining land for "natural recreation uses," such as picnic areas and pathways.

The city representatives visited two other planned parks Monday — one at the relatively new Hidden Lake subdivision in southern Sanford and the other in the established Woodmere neighborhood in the city's eastern area, off Sanford Avenue.

The Hidden Lake park site is named for former Sanford Mayor Lee P. Moore. The park will be located on 12 acres and cost $187,350 to develop, Jernigan said. The cost is covered by $150,000 in grants the parks department secured from the state last year. The "activity oriented" park will hopefully be finished by next January, Jernigan said.

Before returning to city hall the tour stopped at police headquarters on French Avenue, for the canine unit demonstration and an overview of police department efforts. Harriett told commissioners about 75 percent of the city's crime is related to crack cocaine, whether through use, sale or the robberies and thefts it generates.

From last October to the end of January, the department's four-man vice squad made 153 felony and misdemeanor arrests, confiscated $82,500 worth of crack, $30,356 in cash and $750 in stolen property, according to Lt. Doug Bishop.

The $175 bus rental for the tour was paid with commissioners travel fund. The 25 passenger bus was rented from the Zaffan Company of Orlando.

Benson asked her if she shot her husband and Mrs. Williams allegedly said, "No, I stabbed him." She reportedly said the knife was inside the home where the stabbing reportedly occurred.

Police were not available to comment further on the killing early Tuesday.

An autopsy was scheduled for Williams today at Central Florida Regional Hospital in Sanford.

The Las Vegas Sun, quoting informed sources, reported on Jan. 24 that Liberace was terminally ill with AIDS and had less than a year to live. Heller denied the report, saying Liberace was suffering from anemia caused by two months on a weight-loss watermelon diet, and demanded a retraction.

Anemia is a condition caused by a reduction in the number of red blood cells or the total amount of hemoglobin in the bloodstream, or both. Symptoms are paleness, generalized weakness and a lack of vigor.

Kidnappers Warn Against Intervention By U.S. Forces

BEIRUT, Lebanon (UPI) — With U.S. Navy and Marine forces within striking distance of Lebanon, Moslem extremists said they had moved their American hostages from Beirut and would kill the captives if the United States intervened militarily.

Two threats against the hostages were issued Monday, first by the pro-Iranian Islamic Jihad, or Holy War, and later by the Islamic Jihad for the Liberation of Palestine, a previously unknown group that claims responsibility for abducting four professors, three of them Americans, on Jan. 24.

President Willing To Provide Congress With Excerpts Of Notes

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The White House and Congress, each taking a conciliatory route, appear for now to have avoided a showdown over access to President Reagan's private notes that deal with the Iran arms-Contra aid scandal.

The president's spokesman said Monday Reagan is willing to give Congress "excerpts" from his notes that bear on the affair, and members of special congressional panels set up to investigate the scandal applauded the move.

The apparent compromise was struck as memories of the constitutional crisis that sprang from the fight for Richard Nixon's Watergate tapes. Reagan aides at first said his notes should not be released but later changed their tune.

Lawmakers hope the handwritten notes, described as "personal, diary-like impressions" Reagan occasionally jotted down to help in the writing of his memoirs, can erase some confusion over his decisions and intentions in selling U.S. arms to Iran and their links to the plight of U.S. hostages in Lebanon.

Reagan Names New CIA Chief

WASHINGTON (UPI) — A fight with cancer has ended William Casey's stormy tenure as CIA director, confronting a 20-year veteran of the spy agency with the challenge of repairing its image and relations with Congress.

The White House announced Monday that Casey, hospitalized since Dec. 15 and struggling to recover from brain-cancer surgery, had resigned and that his veteran deputy, Robert Gates, would be nominated to succeed him.

On Capitol Hill, lawmakers praised the way Casey strengthened the CIA with big budgets and assertive leadership, faulted him for a lack of regard for Congress and predicted better relations and sounder judgment under Gates.

Sen. David Durenberger, R-Minn., past chairman of the Senate Intelligence Committee, called Gates "a professional with respect for the oversight process." Rep. Dave McCurdy, D-Okla., a member of the House Intelligence Committee, said Gates "will be a breath of fresh air" at the CIA.

Quality At A Fair Price At Treasure Island Jewelry

The ability to give you a quality piece of jewelry at a fair price seems to have eluded some jewelry stores today. Just look in the newspaper and count the ads for 50 percent off and think to your self, "How can they do it?" If gold and silver are on a worldwide standard and the rent comes due once a month, how do they pay the light company and the telephone company plus salaries, bonuses and the stock itself, out of 50 percent? It stands to reason that the only way is by the regular price being too high in the first place. We see a lot of inferior jewelry sold at inflated prices. Yes, workmanship and quality aren't what they used to be at most places. We here at Treasure Island Jewelry try to still uphold the good name of jewelers. It doesn't take three weeks to size a ring or repair a chain. It doesn't take months to build a custom piece of jewelry. If you don't believe this - give us a try. We will give you a piece of jewelry that will last.

We do lost wax casting and also handmade pieces. Every piece we build is hand finished to assure quality at a fair price. We stock all sorts of rings, chains, charms, earrings and anything else in the jewelry line. If we don't have a piece we can get it in a couple of days. We will always clean you jewelry FREE and make minor adjustments also at no charge. Treasure Island Jewelry has a complete work and repair shop, where you can rest assured that any piece of your jewelry is worked on by a professional. We are capable of building jewelry from your business logo for special presentations or working with you to design jewelry for yourself or your loved ones. We can use your gold that is broken or that you are just tired of or just your ideas and our gold. We also buy gold, silver, diamonds and coins at a fair price. We stock a complete line of precious and semi-precious stones and have thousands of wax jewelry models from which to choose. Treasure Island Jewelry is located at 2107 S. French Ave. next to the Golden Lamb Restaurant. The phone number is 322-0528. So next time you see "50% Off" think of Treasure Island Jewelry and know that you get fair prices and quality workmanship all the time. Not just at sale time.

Scuba World III Offers Open Water Diving Class

Yuri Herviska, master diving instructor, has joined the staff at Scuba World III in the Land and Water Sports Center at 1667 S. U.S. Highway 17-92, Longwood. Yuri has been teaching for 18 years and is certified to teach in 20 different specialties.

New specialty classes being offered include underwater hunter, night diver, and cavern diver.

Scuba World III is a PADI (Professional Association of Diving Instructors) training facility. They will begin classes Feb. 16 and 24 for open water diver certification in the heated indoor 50 meter pool at Sharidan Aquatic Club, Longwood. The scuba course costs $19.95. February classes are filling up fast so enroll as soon as possible.

Kevin Gonzalez, now sole owner of Scuba World III, and his wife, Anna, recently returned from Las Vegas where they attended the DEMA (Diving Equipment Manufacturers Association) trade show Jan. 22-25. "It was very successful with many new ideas," Kevin said. "Diving in 1987 should see great improvements because of new developments and new technologies."

A 26-year Sanford resident, Kevin is an open water diving instructor and has been diving for 13 years. Scuba World III has been serving Longwood, Casselberry, Winter Springs, Lake Mary and other parts of Seminole County for the past two years. There have been lots of improvements and Kevin is looking forward to many more good years of diving.

SCUBA World III has doubled in size expanding its classroom and showroom space from 1,200 to 2,400 square feet and renovations are almost complete. They have all the new lines and new ideas in equipment for 1987 and carry all the major brands, Sequest, Mares, Dacor, Tekna, Henderson, Seatec and other major lines.

They also offer professional repair service on all makes and models of scuba equipment. They rent diving equipment such as air tank, regulator, buoyancy compensator and wetsuit.

Scuba World III will be offering trips regularly to West Palm Beach, Fort Lauderdale and the Florida Keys. An exciting new diving area will also be Biscayne National Park in Homestead, the nation's largest marine park.

The shop is open Monday through Friday, 10 a.m. to 7 p.m.; Saturday, 9 a.m. to 6 p.m. and Sunday, 10 a.m. to 4 p.m. Phone 695-0991.

Consult Specialist For Thyroid Hormones

Dr. Gott

DEAR DR. GOTT — I take 3 grains of thyroid hormone every day. If I become pregnant, what effect will the drug have?

DEAR READER — Three grains of thyroid hormone (or its equivalent in other medicine such as Synthroid) is the usual replacement dose for people who have underactive thyroid glands. If you become pregnant, you will need to continue thyroid medicine in order to maintain good health. Ask your obstetrician for specific advice when the time comes.

DEAR DR. GOTT — Because of a spastic colon I take Librax daily and Metamucil four times a day. The pain has subsided but not totally. I worry a lot and am wondering what else I could do?

DEAR READER — Spastic colon (or irritable-bowel syndrome) is a common ailment that causes periodic loose stools and excessive gas. No disease is present in the bowel; rather, the intestine seems to go through periods of increased activity. This may be related to stress, anxiety and worry. Other than treatment of symptoms (with bulk-producing agents like Metamucil or anti-diarrhea drugs), there is no specific therapy available.

Mild tranquilizers, such as Librax, may help control symptoms when psychological factors appear to play a critical role in causing irritable bowel. In addition, you may be helped by avoiding certain foods — such as milk products and spices — that make your symptoms worse. Also, if you can find ways to reduce worry, you and your colon will feel more comfortable. To give you more information, I'm sending you a free copy of my Health Report on IRRITABLE BOWEL. Others who want this information should send $1 and your name and address to P.O. Box 91428, Cleveland, OH 44101-3428. Be sure to mention the title.

DEAR DR. GOTT — Recently my husband had to have bladder surgery. The anesthesiologist tried three times to inject a spinal anesthetic and finally had to use another type of anesthesia. Why didn't the spinal work?

DEAR READER — In order for spinal anesthesia to be effective, the anesthesia must be injected into the spinal canal so that it can deaden the nerves to the lower body. Older patients sometimes have calcium deposits around the spinal bones. This is a result of arthritis and can make the injection of anesthesia very difficult. In these instances, patients are better served by having anesthesia administered in another manner.

WIN AT BRIDGE

By James Jacoby

It is certainly right to draw inferences from the opening lead. The next step is to draw inferences from what is not the opening lead.

The bidding was simple — one no-trump, which was raised to three no-trump. Since the defenders were playing standard leads, the four of hearts lead indicated only four cards in the suit, since declarer was looking at the two and three in dummy. East took the ace and returned the suit. Declarer won and played a club to dummy's jack. East won the king and returned the suit. Declarer now played a second club, on which West discarded a spade. That left declarer with only eight tricks, unless the jack of diamonds happened to fall. But perhaps there were other possibilities. It is a sound principle of defense against no-trump to lead your longest suit when you are leading blindly. Thus it was apparent that West did not have a longer suit than hearts unless he was embarking upon a flight of defender's fancy with his opening lead. Furthermore, he had shown up with only one club. Should it not then be obvious that West had started with four-card holdings in both spades and diamonds? The right play for declarer thus becomes equally obvious. He should play the king and queen of diamonds.

When the jack does not show up, he should play West for that card by leading to dummy's A-10 and finessing. The reason? If West held only three diamonds, he would have held five cards in spades originally and would surely have selected that suit for his opening lead.

HOROSCOPE

What The Day Will Bring...

YOUR BIRTHDAY FEBRUARY 4, 1987

A secret desire that you have long nurtured has excellent chances of being fulfilled in the year ahead. It's a dream on which you've almost given up.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 19) Divisive issues could disrupt harmony in your household today. Instigating topics that cause family members to choose sides is a no-no. Get a jump on life by understanding the influences that are governing you in the year ahead. Send for your Astro-Graph predictions today. Mail $1 to Astro-Graph, c/o this newspaper, P.O. Box 91428, Cleveland, OH 44101-3428. Be sure to state your zodiac sign.

PISCES (Feb. 20-March 20) If your emotions rule your head today you could be jockeyed into an awkward position; you may have to defend a premise in which you don't truly believe.

ARIES (March 21-April 19) Take time today to carefully evaluate your financial involvements. If there are situations where you're getting in over your head, start backing out.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20) You may be too protective of your own self-interests today. Objectively analyze your motives. Let your better instincts prevail if you're biased.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20) Don't get drawn into an arrangement today that has hidden strings attached. What you'll derive will be disproportionate to what you'll have to give back.

CANCER (June 21-July 22) Gentle tactics will achieve goals for you today that flexing your muscles won't. Where possible, try to praise instead of push.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22) Don't kid yourself today into believing that the end justifies the means. If your behavior is not in accord with your high standards, you'll regret it later.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22) You might have a bit of a chip on your shoulder today. This could cause you to display displeasure at the remarks of companions where no ill will was intended.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 23) If you deal with the wrong types of people today, you'll be at a disadvantage. What you'll give as opposed to what you'll get will be poles apart.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24-Nov. 22) Valued relationships will require delicate handling today. You might experience opposition from people who are usually staunchly in your corner.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23-Dec. 21) Give credence to your instincts today in your monetary affairs. If your intuition warns you against a certain deal, it's best to look for a new one.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19) Steer clear of social situations today where you could encounter an arrogant acquaintance with whom you've recently had cross words. The wounds haven't healed yet.
