Air Strike Hindering Both Sides

By JAMES MARLOW
WASHINGTON (AP) — One of the worst meases of the year — the airlines strike — is beginning to cause the kind of irritation that in the end may put tight strings on both management and labor.

The machinists' union has been on strike against five airlines over a month. This shutdown represents 60 per cent of the country's air services. But this is an election year and Congress, not anxious to antagonize labor, has been hemming and hawing about passing legislation to force the strikers back to work until a settlement is reached.

The machinists say the airline companies figure they can hit a better bargain if Congress forces the strikers back to work and therefore for the past week have made no new offers. There was no bargaining last week, but talks resumed Monday.

The machinists on July 31 voted down as not big enough a wage increase agreed to by their own negotiators and the airlines and blessed by President Johnson who intervened to get a settlement.

The strike continued. Then the Johnson administration pussy-footed in this election year and refused to take a stand one way or the other on whether Congress should pass a law forcing the strikers back to work. The Senate finally passed a resolution ordering them to return to their jobs for 30 days and giving the President authority to keep them there another 180 days until a settlement is reached.

(It would be a worse mess still if, after such a measure became law, the strikers refused to return to work.)

At first the Senate sought to justify its action on the grounds that the strike had caused a national emergency. But Johnson's secretary of labor, W. Willard Wirtz, said there wasn't any such thing.

Then the Senate said the strike "threatens substantially to interrupt interstate commerce to a degree such as to deprive any section of the country of essential transportation services."

The House Commerce Committee is now considering action on the Senate bill but meanwhile the chairman, Harley O. Staggers, D-W.Va., urged the strikers and the companies to settle the dispute to avoid legislation "you will regret the rest of your lives."

Thereupon Wirtz summoned the negotiators of both sides to a joint session. There have been basic frustrations about these negotiations — as there always are about any such dragged-out negotiations resulting in long strikes affecting the public interest — and the results eventually may not be good for management or labor.

For more than 20 years, when big crippling strikes have occurred, there have been calls for compulsory arbitration to prevent any more of them. It seems certain that the only thing which prevented Congress from passing compulsory arbitration for labor and management was this simple fact: That the big crippling strikes were scattered far enough apart to allow public indignation to cool down between them. But now the talk starts again.

Sen. Jacob K. Javits, a liberal New York Republican, has decided within a year Congress will pass permanent legislation to deal with strikes in airlines and other industries which, like airlines, are government-regulated.

And Vice President Hubert H. Humphrey said unless business, industry and unions display "self-discipline" on wages and prices issues it could lead "to something nobody will like." He said there was a possibility that this something might be anti-strike legislation.

Everglades Deer Still Dying Despite Efforts

MIAMI (AP) — Despite efforts by state and federal agencies, deer are still dying in heavily flooded sections of the Everglades.

In the last 14 days, water has receded barely two inches in water Conservation Area No. 1 north of the Tamiami Trail where more than 5,000 deer reportedly have died or are facing death from exposure and starvation.

The Central and Southern Florida Flood Control District said water in the 14-square-mile area stood at an average level of 1 1/2 feet above sea level Tuesday. Eighteen days ago the level was 11 1/2 feet.

FCD Executive Director Ed Dail said rain had nullified nearly everything the district, the Army Corps of Engineers and the Florida Game and Freshwater Fish Commission had done to reduce water levels.

The Game Commission is continuing its deer lift to get the animals into drier regions. However, many of the animals die in the excitement of being moved.

The FCD has closed pumping stations and floodgates emptying water into the area. Last week the Game Commission began cutting channels through the sawgrass leading into the Everglades National Park in hopes of speeding the flow southward from the conservation area.

But the inch of rain that fell over the weekend negated much of what had been done. If this summer's record flooding rain continues, a significant lowering of the water level is not likely, the FCD said.

Dail said the lowest level in the area for August is 8.85 feet. Conservationists say even this level would give the deer trouble.

Sailor Quinn, All-Gal Crew Near Trip's End

HONOLULU (AP) — Sailor Lee Quinn and an all-girl crew are on the last leg of his three-year-old round-the-world voyage.

Quinn and his crew left Gibraltar last Thursday for Miami, in the 48-foot sloop Neophyte. Too. They expect to reach St. Thomas, in the Virgin Islands, about Aug. 28.

Quinn left San Francisco in 1963 on a world cruise using only inexperienced sailing crew members. To date he has signed 36 women aboard his yacht, teaching each boat handling and navigation. The women have ranged in age from 19 to 30 and have come from 11 different nations, mainly from Australia and the United States.

Last summer his original yacht, the 40-foot ketch Neophyte was cut in half and sunk by a freighter outside the harbor of Sydney, Australia. No one was injured and Quinn bought a 48-foot Australian sloop, naming it Neophyte Too.

Quinn plans to winter his yacht in Miami while he goes on a four-month lecture tour. Next January he will sail through the Panama Canal to Los Angeles and enter the 1967 Transpacific Yacht Race to Honolulu.

Visibility Zero

The 34,500 members of the striking International Association of Machinists, turning down a presidential settlement of the airlines strike by a three-to-one margin among those who voted, now emerge as the villains of the piece.

The recommendations of a presidential emergency board, the acceptance and even betterment of these recommendations by the five struck airlines, the threats of Congress to force the workers back on the job and even the application of muscle by the President himself—all have left the union adamant in its position.

It is no longer the IAM against the airlines; it is the IAM versus the government of the United States.

The striking workers are not villains, of course, and some may even consider them heroes in so resoundingly rebuffing the President in his attempt to pull a settlement out of the hat after the efforts of all other parties had failed for weeks.

The strikers are merely men who are attempting to win what they consider a fair share of the airlines' climbing profits—climbing, that is, until they were grounded completely by the walk-out.

To everyone else, however—especially those directly and indirectly involved with air travel whose incomes have suffered—it is clearly time that the national interest take precedence. The public is fed up with the strike and will undoubtedly welcome whatever legislation is necessary to get the planes into the air once again.

This is the tragedy of a prolonged labor dispute which affects so many others besides those immediately concerned in it. This breakdown of the free collective bargaining process brings that much closer the possibility of industry-wide compulsory arbitration—something that is as pleasing to most businessmen as socialized medicine is to the AMA.

Whatever the strikers eventually win, they may already have lost more than they realize.

Steel Springs Back

It's only a tiny item, but it gives a graphic illustration of both the importance of this nation's economy and the competition that goes on inside it.

Zip-open tops to beverage cans began coming onto the market in 1962. The tops were made of aluminum while the bodies and bottoms of the cans continued to be made of tin plate.

Yet even this little inroad cost American steelmakers an estimated 100,000 tons in unsold tin plate last year.

Steel spokesmen say the industry is ready to bounce back, however, with the development of its own plate pop top.

Political Notebook

WASHINGTON (NPA) — Late word from Idaho has it that Republican Gov. Robert Smylie, seeking nomination Aug. 2 to an unprecedented fourth term, is in the deepest trouble of his career. Well-financed archconservatives are working desperately to dump him.

Led by National Committeewoman Gwen Barnett, a strongly-awarded Goldwaterite, the right-wingers have fastened their effort on Donald Samuelson, a three-term state senator of limited influence. Says a trained Idaho voter: "These people are better qualified for Samuelson than they were for Barry Goldwater in 1964. And there are more John Birch Society members in open view today."

They appear to have drawn the issue so close that as of this writing a friend of Smylie's over-estimates the governor's lead at a nervous 43 to 40. With the right-winger's dossier against Smylie is fat with charges. They accuse him of faint-hearted campaigning for Goldwater in 1964 (which he hotly denies). They brand him as a prime mover in the successful endeavor to oust top Goldwater man, Dean Burch, as Republican national chairman.

For this, Smylie does bear acknowledged responsibility. He leads the GOP governors' association, which generated the get-Burch drive at a well-publicized Denver meeting a month after Goldwater's defeat.

Mrs. Barnett and other militant conservatives plainly have never forgiven Smylie. And the anti-Smylie camp is mounting one of the strangest campaigns in U.S. history in the bid to unseat him.

Samuelson is being given no television exposure at all. Idaho newsmen say his campaign speech schedule is never released to the press. His appearances seem limited to carefully arranged meetings before restricted audiences and to occasional outings in supermarket parking lots and similar spots.

The anti-Smylie forces obviously are counting on a Mathews vote (this is Idaho's first mid-summer primary), a heavy sprinkling of money and the inevitable opposition that springs up against any governor who has been in office nearly 12 years.

This thoughtfully conceived sleeper operation was making very damaging inroads against the governor until the alarm bells suddenly rang a week or so ago. And even the optimists in his camp think he will be in peril right to the wire.

Politicians who have been swinging around the state report a considerable coldness toward Smylie's fourth-term bid. No U.S. governor other than colonial executives ever has served 16 years.

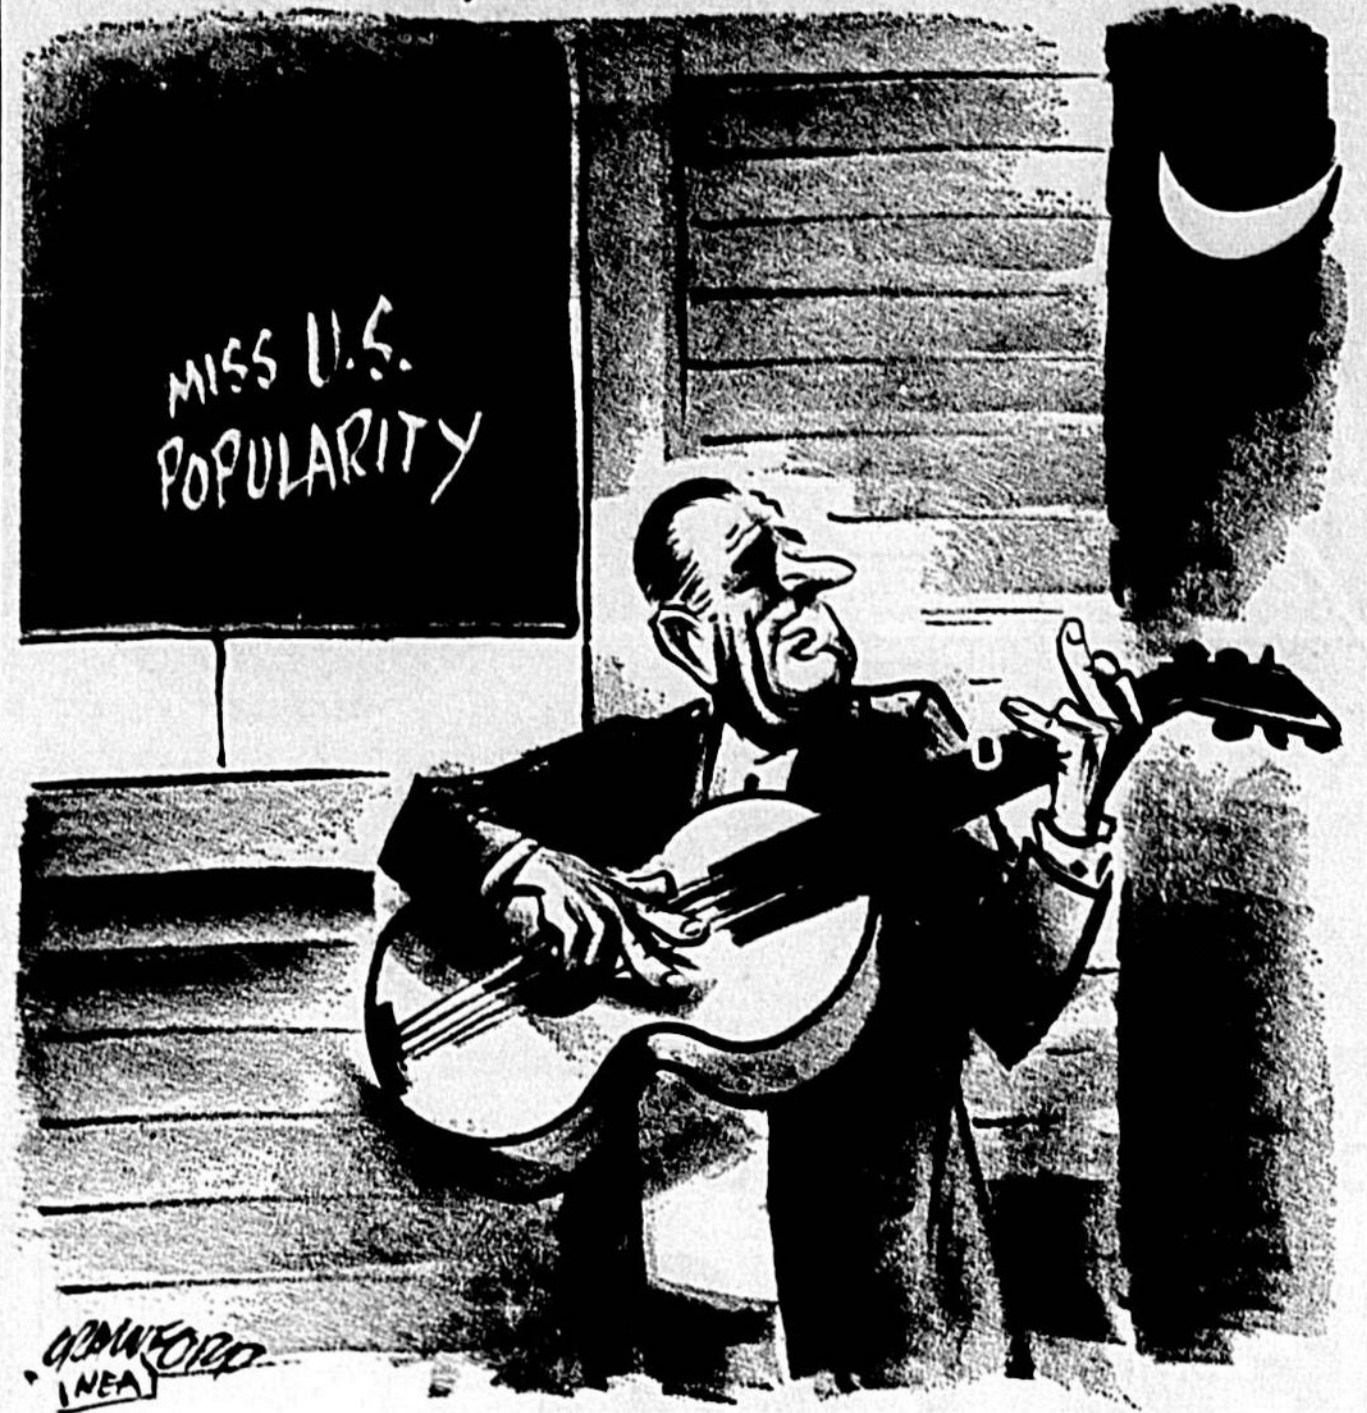

On top of that, Smylie suffers substantially as the sponsor of last year's enacted 3 per cent sales tax — which he justified then as a vital revenue — producer for Idaho's educational needs. That tax will be voted on in a popular referendum this November.

The education lobbies are, of course, hard at it for the governor. The full-page advertisements carried in Idaho newspapers this week will stress Samuelson's voting record in opposition to the tax, to key education measures and welfare bills.

The backers of incumbent GOP Sen. Len Jordan, who is up for re-election, also are greatly concerned. The senator is said to be terrified at the thought of running on the same ticket with Samuelson, while facing a strong Democrat.

The betting is that Smylie will scrape through. But he is learning, with some pain, that the vengeance of angry, frustrated right-wingers is like

Free Lunch Is Not Free

By LYLE WILSON

American citizens are being suckered for a hooch-penny daily delivery of free lunch for which they actually pay twice the value and for which the price steadily goes up.

A businessman who managed his affairs as the politicians manage the Treasury of the United States would go bankrupt. A banker, a broker or a trustee of some orphan's fund would be jailed for the kind of funny business in which the politicians indulge themselves. At the expense of the citizens. The politicians are tapping every individual's bank account, his wallet, his insurance policy, his kid's piggy bank in a larcenous conspiracy to maintain themselves in office at public expense.

Politicians to protect themselves with the American voters of whom it must be reported that they lack both the courage and the wisdom to act. What the larcenous politicians are inflicting on the voters is inflation. This inflation shrinks the dollars in your pocket, in your bank account, in your insurance policy. The disease is deadly if slow, like arsenic. The National Industrial Conference Board calculated a few weeks ago that a man with wife and two children would need an income of $13,234 this year to be able to buy the amount of goods he could buy with $5,000 in 1959.

The U.S. dollar is now worth only 40 cents in purchasing power compared with the dollar's purchasing power just before World War II. Big time spending by all presidents beginning with FDR has seen the greatest factor in shrinking dollar value. Living costs creep steadily upward. Bread jumps two cents a loaf in one area. Milk prices hike in another. Bacon, beans and baby shoes cost more today than a year ago.

American citizens seem not to understand that it is their dollars that are being shrunk by the politicians. Neither do they comprehend that the politicians will not change their ways. The good life for politicians with re-election purchased with federal funds has become a permanent way of life. This was predictable. In fact, it was predicted, as follows:

"A democracy cannot exist as a permanent form of government. It can only exist when the voters discover that they can vote themselves larges out of the public treasury. In result that democracy always collapses over a loose fiscal policy."

The backers of incumbent GOP Sen. Len Jordan, who is up for re-election, also are greatly concerned. The senator is said to be terrified at the thought of running on the same ticket with Samuelson, while facing a strong Democrat.

The betting is that Smylie will scrape through. But he is learning, with some pain, that the vengeance of angry, frustrated right-wingers is like

Dr. Crane's

Worry Clinic

Home Ec Teachers should spotlight Laura's tragedy.

For Laura's mother, though a college graduate, will doze! Know no to use a cookstove! She can drive an automobile safely but not operate the kitchen! So seraphic case or mail it to my parents with toddlers around the house!

George W. Crane, Ph. D., M. D. CASE 2-494; Laura B, aged 4, is now in a hospital.

"Oh, Dr. Crane," has frantic mother cried, "I don't believe I can stand it if Laura doesn't live."

"She reached up this noon and she is so terribly burned that she holds a pan full of boiling cabbage."

"It slipped over on her and now she is so terribly burned that her life is hanging in the balance."

"Oh, Dr. Crane, please tell me what to do!"

CONSULT GOD

When your loved one is in the hands of earthly medical experts, turn to God. He is God Almighty.

Far too many of you Americans think an M.D. is God, but that is a sad mistake.

We medics can't even heal a scratch on your hand or foot! When we remove an inflamed appendix, we suture the muscles and skin together, just so God will have an easier time making the two cut surfaces knit or grow fast.

But we medics definitely cannot make skin or muscles grow together!

Clear out your medicine cabinet of unused pills and bottled drugs. Beware of acids and lye or toilet bowl cleanser!

Clear the deck for action when you have children in the home.

Open sleeping tablets, tranquilizers and aspirin can be lethal!

(Always write to Dr. Crane in care of this newspaper, enclosing a long stamped, addressed envelope and 20 cents to cover typing and mailing costs when you send for one of his booklets.)

The more you speed up your life, the quicker you arrive at the end.

The family budget is the most accident-prone of man's devices.

A teenager could be an adult before the youngster could read all the articles about teenagers in today's magazines.

Several types of membership are available and the dues are nominal. Seven or eight speakers are presented during the season and special events are announced from time to time.

By your cooperation SSAA can continue to grow and lend prestige to a growing area of activities. Art is for everyone. It is part of our daily lives.

Our first meeting will be on September 12 at 7:30 p.m. at the Cultural Art Center, Fifth Street and Oak Avenue.

At that time there will be presented a book review concerning the lives, loves and works of the artist who started the famous Latin Quarter in Paris. It will not be dull! Joseph Mathews is the speaker.

Concern Being Heard On County Tax Hike

Concern is being heard from many taxpayers over the proposed 33 per cent increase of ad valorem taxes in Seminole County for the 1966-67 fiscal year.

Tentative budget, which is to be approved by the board of county commissioners, subject to public hearing at 11 a.m. Aug. 23, is $2.85 million, an increase of $220,000 over last year.

The new millage will be 20.8 mills plus 4.8 mills. Breakdown of the millage is public schools 13.07, Seminole Memorial Hospital 1.53 and 5.3 for operation of county government.

Vernon W. Dunn, former county commissioner, pointed out at a recent school board public hearing, that while taxable value for property had increased 37.7 per cent since 1959, the school millage will have increased 179.4 per cent with the 1966-67 budget. "Tax receipts by

Two Sanford Teams Open Play In District Tournament Tonight

Two powerful Sanford teams — Quality Mobile Homes and the Sanford All-Stars — who finished 1-2 respectively in the central sub-district tournament last weekend, leave this afternoon for Starks to watch their eyes on the District title and a ticket to the state tournament.

The All-Stars, made up of players of the other five teams in the Metro League, meet the strong Dixon Electric team of Metro League play this season, take on St. Augustine in the first game tonight at 7 p.m. St. Augustine was the runner-up in the northern sub-district.

The All-Stars, made up of players of the other five teams in the Metro League, met the strong Dixon Electric team of Metro League play this season, take on St. Augustine in the first game tonight at 7 p.m. St. Augustine was the runner-up in the northern sub-district.

The other Friday semi-final pits the Quality-St. Augustine winner against Starks. Finals are slated Saturday night and only the winner will advance to the state tournament in Tallahassee, Aug. 19-21. There will be eight teams in the state tournament field, including defending state champions, the Cocoa All-Stars.

The Quality Mobile Homes team defeated the Sanford All-Stars, 9-8, in the final of the sub-district at Ormond Beach Saturday night. Quality had defeated Port Orange, 16-7, and Inland No. 2, 9-3, to reach the final, while the All-Stars knocked off DeLand No. 1, 21-7, and defending champion Ormond Beach 9-8, before losing in the final. Rick Starks of the All-Stars, who hit four home runs in three games, was named the sub-district's most valuable player.

Rookie Will Replace Lions' Injured Karras

DETROIT (AP) — The Detroit Lions were expected to replace their injured defensive back, Alex Karras, with a 23-year-old rookie against the St. Louis Cardinals in a National Football League exhibition game tonight.

On Friday night the Chicago Bears and the Green Bay Packers were expected to be pressed into the tight end spot held by Ron Kramer. Kramer broke a bone in the back of his hand during scrimmage two weeks ago.

Jim Ederly, a 235-pound free agent picked up from New Mexico State, was coach Harry Gilmer's choice to replace Karras, the team captain, whose badly bruised knee made him a doubtful starter. Karras suffered the injury last Saturday when the Lions tied Minnesota 6-6.

The Detroit squad will be studded with rookies against a powerful Cardinal team whose chief assets are the passing of quarterback Charley Johnson and the running of Bill Triplett and Willis Crenshaw.

St. Louis is considered a top contender for the Eastern Division title in the NFL this year, largely because Cleveland Browns fullback Jim Brown has retired.

The Cardinals, who whipped the new Atlanta Falcons 20-10 in their initial contest, will meet the Lions for the first time in an exhibition game since 1961. The Cards last played in the Motor City in 1959.

Gilmer said rookie running back Bruce McLen, a Little All-American from Hillsdale (Mich.) College will "get a lot of action." McLen is expected to be used in combination with starting quarterback Milt Plum and Amos Marsh, the team's leading ground gainer last season.

Newcomer John McGuire, acquired Monday from Balt-more for a future draft choice, meeting the Houston Oilers at Birmingham, Ala. Oakland is at San Diego in another Saturday night AFL exhibition.

Four NFL exhibitions are scheduled for Saturday night. Baltimore meets Philadelphia at New Orleans; Dallas is at Los Angeles; the New York Giants tangle with Atlanta at Nashville and Minnesota takes on Pittsburgh at Portland, Ore.

Cleveland is at San Francisco in the only Sunday game listed first exhibition Saturday night.

Nicklaus Better Four Years Ago?

CLIFTON, N.J. (AP) — It may come as a surprise to the rest of the touring pros but Jack Nicklaus says he was a better player when he first hit the golf trail four years ago than he is now.

"I hit the ball better then but I'm older now and a more experienced and better scorer," Nicklaus said. "I tried a new driver, which I won't use Thursday." He went on, adding that he could easily have reached the 600 yard, par 5 18th green in two shots with a half-decent drive.

The Cardinals, who whipped the new Atlanta Falcons 20-10 in their initial contest, will meet the Lions for the first time in an exhibition game since 1961. The Cards last played in the Motor City in 1959.

Gilmer said rookie running back Bruce McLen, a Little All-American from Hillsdale (Mich.) College will "get a lot of action." McLen is expected to be used in combination with starting quarterback Milt Plum and Amos Marsh, the team's leading ground gainer last season.

Newcomer John McGuire, acquired Monday from Balt-

ton to Gene Litterer and pocketed $10,000. Since then he has risen to third place on the all-time earnings list — behind Arnold Palmer and Billy Casper — with $478,888.92. That includes his first check of $33,333 in the 1962 Los Angeles Open.

This is the first time since 1962 that the "Thunderbird" has been played at the Upper Merion club. Nicklaus posted a 34-36-70 in a pro-amateur charity event Wednesday and he found the par 72, 7,055-yard course pretty much unchanged.

The expansive greens are reasonably fast "with good putting speed," he said. His problem, ironically, was off the tee, where he is golf's longest slugger.

"I was lucky to hit the fairways the way I was playing," Nicklaus said. "I tried a new driver, which I won't use Thursday." He went on, adding that he could easily have reached the 600 yard, par 5 18th green in two shots with a half-decent drive.

Junior Grant Monahan of Basking Ridge, N. J., will captain Dartmouth's increase team next season.

Forward, Baird Are Winners

By MARYANN MILES
Patty Forward received the Senior High point trophy and Sissy Baird won the Junior High point trophy at the recent Central Florida Horse Show.

ELMORE MOORE is indeed proud of his trophy won at the Central Florida Horse show August 6th in the Challenge race. This race had to be won three times in succession before the trophy was his. This race was started in April, with Elmer winning with a time of 14.99. In May, he lost to Sissy Baird. In June, Elmer came in with a time of 14.24, in July 14.66 and in August 14.52. Elmer has only started riding in the horse shows in January of this year. Before that he only rode around the farm back home. Since January he has won seven ribbons and 2 small trophies.

Phils' Short Doesn't Need Green Weenie

By ASSOCIATED PRESS
Chris Short admits he's not afraid any more, but he was scared stiff when he made a mistake against Lou Brock. Short, Philadelphia's right-handed pitcher, lost his perfect game on Brock's seventh inning single and finished with a three-hitter Thursday night as the Phillies downed St. Louis 5-1.

Pittsburgh, meanwhile, remained unafraid of anybody with its green weenie and power-packed lineup working in unison. Announcer Bob Prince and trainer Danny Whelan are the Pirates' chief hex men. They brandish the oversized, colored ball dog at the enemy and presto, the Pirates win.

Jim Paganaro and Willie Stargell kept the mysticism alive with a pair of two-run homers against the Mets. The victory widened Pittsburgh's lead to 1 1/2 games over the second place San Francisco Giants, who were rained out at Cincinnati. Houston's game at Chicago also was postponed by rain.

Billy Hitchcock isn't using a whammy but he's getting results from his hunches just as the first inning with a home run by the Braves elevated Felipe Alou to the leadoff spot and for the second straight night. Alou opened the first inning with a home run and scored on Hank Aaron's sacrifice fly. Joe Torre's single and Rico Carty's double produced Atlanta's other run.

'Coronary Arrest' Takes Baseball Great Dressen Hoped To Rejoin Tigers

Detroit (UPI) — Charlie Dressen, 67, one of baseball's last big-time holler guys and a man who liked his baseball as hot as his chili, died Wednesday with hopes of returning to baseball still on his mind.

The peppery little veteran of 47 years in baseball suffered his second heart attack three months ago but was waiting for a doctor's okay to return to his job as manager of the Detroit Tigers or to accept a new front office job.

But Dressen never got the go-ahead. He was readmitted to Ford Hospital last Saturday in serious condition with an acute kidney infection and Wednesday morning he died of a "coronary arrest."

A title book of 160 pounds man, Dressen was known for his frank, honest talk. Before he died, he had even been classified in the Leo Durocher category, getting himself in and out of jams by occasionally popping off.

CHUCK DRESSEN

Washington (AP)—Detroit pitcher Denny McLain, emotionally spent, stepped down to the pants of his uniform, sat in front of his locker with his head buried in his hands.

But the worst, who scored a run in the seventh and then hit his 8th homer of the year in the 11th to put the Tigers ahead 3-2 did not hesitate to talk.

It was a terrific shock when I heard of his death while watching television," Podres said. "I always liked and admired Charlie. He was quite a character. He was quite a manager."

Podres called the death of Dressen, "a terrible loss to baseball." Dressen was "a great baseball man. I feel very bad about it," Durocher said.

Durocher called the death of Dressen, "a terrible loss to baseball." Dressen was "a great baseball man. I feel very bad about it," Durocher said.

Dressen will be buried in Forest Lawn Memorial Park in Glendale, Calif., Saturday afternoon at 10:30 a.m. in a Requiem High Mass in Detroit on Thursday. A memorial service also will be held in Detroit next Tuesday for the Tiger players who saw on a road trip in the East and are unable to return because of current travel conditions.

SSA Moms Live In New World Packers To Find Bears Tougher

By KAY BARTHOLOMEW
"It will change your way of living!"

With eyes twinkling, Sally Gifford, past president of the Sanford Swim Association, mother of two of its swimmers, and one of its most ardent backers, looked out the friendly window of a "new" SSA mother as she registered her child for the first time.

It was a challenge, too. As the mother soon found out, to become a member all a youngster has to do is meet the coaches' requirements. But the parents, and particularly the mother? That's a different story!

Goose are the leisure summer mornings of "steeping" in. In order to use the city pool, the swimmers must practice literally at the crack of dawn. Not only does this come with practice sessions, but week-end meets. It also becomes complicated when one member of the family is a "B" swimmer and another one an "A", because often there is a meet scheduled for each one the same day, and naturally, miles apart.

You guessed it. "Mother" now takes on a new role — that of bus driver. This comes after she has juggled preparing breakfast, lunch, goodies and snacks; tidying the house; packing the car, and leaving in time to arrive many miles away at 8 a.m.—sharp. Hopefully, she arrives in time to find poolside space for a chair to enable her to watch her star swim, and another spot for the large umbrella, ice chest and blanket where the youngsters can rest between heats.

Besides fulfilling the collateral job of the American mother, number one chauffeur — she needs to be a scheduling expert, dietitian and professional timer, plus the purveyor of all the wonderful attributes a mother should possess. She must remember jackets and sweat shirts to keep the tankers warm; raincoats for the ever-present showers; games and books for the swimmers to read; radios for the teenagers; crayons and coloring books for toddlers; brothers and sisters to learn to watch their tankers' towels as closely as they did bottle feedings many years ago.

As the young swimmer progresses under the dedicated tutelage of coaches, Emma Spencer and Jim Colbert, the parents learn to cope with wet towels instead of diapers; wash out burning eyes from the chlorine; buy new equipment for streamlined "starts"; rearrange furniture in children's rooms to display hard earned ribbons; fit vacations in and around meets; or finally create a family outgrowth of the numerous weekend trips in-lieu.

Yes, it takes time. It takes hard work. Particularly when the home town hosts a meet for over 20 teams from all over Central Florida, the parents must be the clerk of the course, the scoring table, the concession stands, the tedious tasks of sewing and printing the heat sheets, the announcing, and the myriad other jobs in addition to all the planning, and building of shelves before their National Anthem is played.

"GO CLUB" ribbons from SSA coach, Emma Spencer, at the end of the year mean about as much as the many won in competition at swim meets for they denote tremendous enthusiasm and spirit. Mrs. Robert Rosemond, past president, points out the 'Go' ribbon won by her daughter, Cheryl, last year while son Jimmy tallies up the ribbons and medals won by the two of them.

College Begins At Age Two, Teacher Says

Thirty years of experience attest to this fact, says Mrs. Isabelle P. Buckley, founder of The Buckley Schools, Los Angeles.

Rev. Denslow On Vacation

By Mrs. RICHIE HARRIS
Rev. and Mrs. L. E. Denslow of the Barnett Memorial Methodist Church, Enterprise, are spending their vacation in Lake Toxaway, N. C., with his father, who will celebrate his 81st birthday, Aug. 10.

During Rev. Denslow's two weeks absence the pulpit will be filled as follows: On this coming Sunday, Hubert Talton, District Lay Leader from De Land, will speak and on Aug. 14, Bernard Barkey, District Men's Club president, will speak.

poles, the nation's only non-profit co-educational private institution ranging from preschool through high school.

That the school's "no-nonsense approach to education" has met with success is evident in the fact that all members of the past two graduating classes have been accepted for college.

At birth, an opossum is smaller than a honeybee; a teaspoon can hold from 15 to 18 of them.

Good Lighting Is Important

Any parent knows it's next to impossible to get youngsters to sit quietly while studying. . . . Today's student belongs to the post-war generation and his study habits reflect his energetic mobility.

That's why the mobile Tensor lamp is finding such great popularity with students everywhere. Easily toteable from room to room, the lamp provides close-to-the-light conditions and is ideal for close eye-work.

Its high-intensity white light is glare-free eliminating eye strain for studious youngsters, especially important when long hours of homework are on the agenda.

Its small size allows privacy in lighting and minimizes distraction for the all-too-easily distracted youngster.

The philosophy that "college begins at two" is predicated on the premise that the instinct to learn, which also must be encouraged, is first satisfied through play—play that is designed to stimulate the imagination.

"Far Out" Coats, Suits "In" For Student Fashion Leaders

Coats and suits, emuggest, warmest, most comfortable fashions are now far out enough to be truly in with the campus set.

American designers continually survey the college scene for straws in the wind. Our booming young population has become fashion leaders for all age groups. The "with it" looks are the London Carnaby, The Naval, The Combat, The Western, The Total Costume according to the National Board of the Coat and Suit Industry.

For coats are original and nice. The seven-eighths length makes a breezy topper. Slightly shorter, they combine with pleated or slim skirts for salty suits jack tar collars, side-entry pockets and other trappings rate a salute.

The combat look, often in drab, marches along. Low olive drab, marches along. Low-placed belts and epaulets are features. Often mixing slicks make a triple threat suit.

Skimmer shapes lead, but "pop" items are coming into the swing. For topping suits, sweaters and other campus bundlers, they're great.

Leggings go higher and tighter. How else would a co-ed show off white or wildly textured stockings? And, speaking of accessories—the peeking caps, the chunky jewelry, the pierced earrings, the boots, what better background for them than the coat and suit.

Fabrics—smooth but wild. Fun-dar fabrics, campus hit for coats, now suits the co-ed. Shiny spotted seal fabric combine with suede-cloth or tweed—and a sweater totals the look.

Other fabrics are colorful, melons, chinchillas, flannels and of course, Oppy vinyls—slimy and brave.

Tweed and window-pane checks go mad and mad—so do geometric Tweeds, on the other hand, go sweet.

Colors—zingy! Fashion pulls out a plum—the big color. After

Motorcycle And Scooter Riders Safety Is Urged

SCOOTERS and motorcycles are popular school transportation with both boys and girls.

With so many new riders on the road, it is not surprising that safety education has become a major concern. The industry group has urged adoption of a national training program for riders and passed a resolution favoring special licenses for motorcycle and scooter operators, based on appropriate testing methods. Use of a safety helmet for riders of any duration or distance was also strongly recommended.

From safety experts say that motorcycle safety depends as much on educating automobile drivers as it does on improving the cyclist's riding skills and habits.

This problem is responsible for several points in the industry's safety tips to motorcycle and scooter riders.

1. Always keep your eyes on the road. Alertness is the most important single factor in avoiding accidents.
2. Always wear a safety helmet. It may be the difference in preventing a serious injury.
3. Wear suitable apparel in all weather conditions and general safety considerations. This includes warm clothes, gloves and some form of eye protection.
4. Ride in the wheel track of the car ahead of you. Being on the outer edge will enable you to turn in time when an emergency occurs.
5. Never take it for granted that a car driver sees you and will give you the right of way. Remember, the car driver is looking for another car or a truck and often misses a small vehicle like a motorcycle. Always be on the defensive.
6. When riding in groups, go two-by-two, never three abreast.
7. Watch for pedestrians. Sometimes they won't see you and may step right into your path.
8. Never follow too closely behind vehicles. Rear-end collisions continue to be a major cause of traffic accidents.
9. Observe speed limits and traffic laws.
10. Slow down for all curves.
11. Pass only when the road ahead and to the left is clear; after passing, don't cut off the passed vehicle.
12. On wet pavements and roads covered with snow, ice or mud, refrain from sudden accelerations or braking to avoid skids.
13. Let the engine set as a brake whenever possible. When brakes must be applied, use rear brake first and then, if required, apply front brake gently.
14. Turns lead to a large percentage of motorcycle accidents so avoid them as a general rule. If you must reverse direction, pull off the road to the right, come to a complete stop, look around, look again, make re-entry.

Good Breakfast Helps Students

Mothers are supposed to welcome the back-to-school bell because it gets children out from under foot and back in the classroom. But they also know, mom is busier than ever preparing hearty meals for hard-working students.

Children who go to school without a good breakfast can be as unprepared for classwork as those who neglect their homework. And because youngsters are unconcerned about proper diets, mom must be sure that they eat nutritious meals. Even on hectic school mornings, she can whip up appetizing breakfasts on a convenient electric range.

Even fussy eaters needn't present a problem on school mornings. If one youngster prefers soft-boiled eggs, another poached, and a third scrambled, mom needn't stand sentry at the range to cook each order to perfection. An electric range's precise temperatures and even heat elements do the job for her. Water boils quickly and surface-top thermostats maintain whatever temperature is selected without pot-boiling or heat readjustment.

Youngsters eagerly eat hot breakfasts when treats are added to the menu. If mom takes her own rolls and muffins, the porridge temperature controls of electric ranges are essential for tastier results. Warming ovens that come with double-oven electric ranges are handy for heating frozen breads and browning rolls. They also keep food warm while the kids

Freeze Liquid Diet Food For Lunch

A staggering total of five million adolescents suffer from overweight, ranging from several extra pounds to obesity. Bad food habits, too many calories and too much push-button living have contributed to this national teenage health problem.

Back-to-school lunches often pose a problem for the dieting youngster. Most teenagers consider calorie counting a nuisance. It's easier to grab a calorie-laden lunch or skip the meal altogether than to bother to pack a lunch.

Liquid diet food can be a nutritionally balanced answer to the problem. Freeze a slim 10-ounce can of liquid diet food overnight. In the morning, pop the key can into the lunch box along with a few low-calorie nibbles, straws, and a can opener. By noon, the frozen diet food has thawed to a frosty cold, 200-calorie drink that looks and tastes like a thick, creamy milk shake, plus being highly enriched with protein, vitamins and minerals.

Fluorides Reduce Decay 70 Per Cent Studies Show

Today, educators as well as parents are becoming increasingly aware of the importance of good teeth to a child's health. One of the reasons behind this emphasis on dental health is the fact that recent research has shown a new way that parents may drastically reduce tooth decay—through use of fluoride vitamin supplements.

The value of fluorides in combating cavities has been known for 25 years or more. Studies have shown that fluorides in drinking water can reduce dental caries between 60 and 70 per cent. The American Dental Association has had a vigorous program to get communities to add fluorides to their water supplies if the water didn't contain natural fluorides. Reports indicate that the family dental bill—averaging nationally about $48—can be cut almost in half through fluorides.

Unfortunately, 63 per cent of the country is without fluoridated water, either because the local community has not fluoridated its central water supply or because many families have their own wells, particularly in rural areas.

This year, however, a group of scientists at Indiana University completed a three-year study that proved, for the first time, that another method of giving fluorides may be as effective as fluoridated water. The study found that when daily doses of a vitamin-fluoride combination were given to children, tooth decay was reduced up to 63 per cent.

This method of protecting children's teeth in areas where the water is not fluoridated is quite practical because most families have already established the habit of giving daily vitamins. And the child is given fluoride during the time when it is most critical—about the time he is born and the teeth are forming up to about age 10, when the permanent teeth are all complete.

SELF-DISCOVERY
Anytime is the best time to discover yourself—to find out what makes you as you are; your job—to learn what all it can mean to you.
Your family—to show them how much their love and respect mean to you.
Your life—what you have made of it—what you want it to be.
Self-discovery is the first step to self-improvement.

SEEING IS BELIEVING
Your eyes bring you more than 80 per cent of all knowledge, guide more than 90 per cent of all your actions.

Good Manners Aid Safety On School Bus

As the nation's students return to school, it is important that every young school bus rider realizes he must be responsible for his own safety and that of others on the bus.

According to "Safety On Our School Bus," a film produced for classroom use by Encyclopaedia Britannica Films, Inc., youngsters should be taught these good safety practices:

- Line up in an orderly manner and board the bus in single file; board seats first.
- Be sure aisles are clear so nobody will stumble.
- Stay in your seat while the bus is moving.
- Don't put anything (including your head or hands) out of the window.
- Don't play with the emergency door.
- Don't talk to the driver while the bus is moving.
- Hide quietly without scuffling or horseplay.

The film illustrates each of these rules by picturing and relating the story of a popular bus driver and his riders who have maintained an excellent safety record.

It also depicts the proper way to get off a bus and to cross a street.

Mod Is Mad Fun, But Classics Still Major Style For Youth

Seldom has a new look for the teen been so widely publicized as the mod fashion, and most apparel manufacturers agree it will be a tremendous influence this autumn.

But marketing executives of sweaters and sportswear especially for students, believe the early surge of way-out modism will subside into a more definite and lasting style.

Modism is manifested in two areas—one is best described as spoof or kookie numbers (a striped "Con Man" sweater with prim number, for instance) and the other European styling, such as unique cable treatments or the narrow, French fed stripe.

Despite all of the noise being made by mod, the bulk of retail sales will continue to be in what's best called the classic sweaters," according to an executive of the menswear division. "Pullovers of lambswool, shetlands and assorted blends in the $12 to $18 range will in fact be stronger than ever. The big difference is in coloring, which has gone to heathers in the coffee and rust shades."

Solids will continue to reign in 100 per cent cotton velour pullovers, which this fall will be selling in a wide variety of such styles, though the standard "V" and crew should be the most popular.

Changing Styles Hard On Hair

Wash it, dry it, bleach it, dye it. Roll it, tease it, iron it, crease it. Pin it, strip it, front it, tint it. Lighten it, spray it, darken it, perm it.

American girls, what are you doing to your hair?

Now, we don't mean to shout, because we fully realize that to keep up with today's fashion demands, hair must be pushed around until a vicious cycle is created. The more our coiff is treated to make it look good, the more treatment and maintenance it requires to keep it in place. With the sad result that most hair today, no matter how beautifully coiffed, is dry, brittle, unmanageable and unhealthy.

But now comes news of a specially formulated hair treatment lotion from the laboratories of Maxrad.

The lotion was created to restore new health and manageability to all hair, whether dry or oily. Actually, damage to the hair shaft begins almost as soon as it emerges from the scalp. Besides being subjected to the multitude of abuses mentioned above, hair is damaged also by exposure to the elements.

This deterioration within the hair causes it to bend in erratic directions, entwine around other hairs and become entangled. What this new treatment does is to make each hair assume its normal position, whether straight or curly. Once a hair is independent of all others, there is no more overlapping, no entwining and no tangled resistance. Hair is so manageable as it was when you were a baby.

Proper Study Habits Can Help Students Learn More

HELP FOR Viet Nam orphaned children will be the aim of this drill team of pretty girls from the Melodice Dance and Figure Club, who will perform in three shows at Melodice Skate Rink Tuesday. Skaters will be admitted to one of the three sessions scheduled by donating three bars of soap or a bag of candy to the Far East. From left are Nancy Russell, Jackie Thornton, Mitzi Allen, Carol Wyatt, Arlene DeMatteo, Linda Eldridge, Mitzi Moge and Kathy Smith.

Physically, millions of children will return to school this fall, but their minds will still be exploring the fun of summer.

One of the big jobs for teachers and parents is to persuade youngsters that reading books can be as much fun as exploring new swimming holes and haunted houses.

Bringing a child's mind back to his studies is not easy, but the task is simplified for the parent who remembers a few key points:

1. First, though children disagree, television and home work do not mix. The best place for a youngster to study is in a quiet room where his restless mind won't be distracted.

Next, suggest a varied study pattern. Doing homework is like eating a meal. For many children, it's more fun to switch from one portion — or subject — to another, then back again, rather than to complete a long assignment in one subject before going on to another assignment in another.

Build study schedules around the child's temperament so he can move through his homework in the way that is most enjoyable — and beneficial — to him.

Learning requires good reference materials. They should be close at hand when the child is working. A short walk from the bedroom to the living room to check the 20-volume encyclopedia can include detours to the refrigerator and the television set, with the result that an hour is lost before the child returns to work.

1. Be sure that adequate reference books and study aids, such as a good dictionary and a world atlas, are available in the home. A typewriter and tape-recorder are worthwhile aids for older students.

2. To insure the development of good study habits, children should be encouraged to set aside regular hours for study — without the diversions of excessive television, radio and phonograph records. Children should also learn the benefits of doing homework assignments promptly, rather than procrastinating, so that they needn't too often "burn the midnight oil" and so that they may have the major remaining portions of weekends free for other activities.

3. See that youngsters receive their pre-school medical and dental examinations. (Many schools require them).

4. So that younger children particularly in a new school or class — can also make friends and get to know their classmates in a healthy and happy home environment outside of the classroom, parents should consider entertaining their child's young friends on birthdays and other special occasions early in the school year.

Parties should not be lavish or complicated, but should feature things for the children to do — games and specialties that appeal to youngsters, such as musical chairs and pin-the-tail-on-the-donkey, along with special treats like frozen prepared dinners, candy and other refreshments.

Right Reasons Are Important In Choosing Life Career

"Watch your reasons in choosing your future life's work," cautions the vocational experts. "Too many wrong reasons can create unrealistic goals."

They point out that many times a student will aim himself at a glamour or prestige career, when in all actuality his abilities indicate another direction that will leave him more fulfilled.

Experts cite the young man who was sent by his parents to take a battery of vocational and aptitude tests.

At the final interview with the vocational counselor, he said, "I want it firmly understood that no matter what you tell me I'm going to be an engineer."

He may have arrived at this choice because he wishes to emulate someone he admires.

If he is bright and industrious he may indeed become a successful engineer but never be completely happy because his real pattern of interests is more suited to another line of work.

Some times a college freshman chooses a certain professional field through parental pressures.

In many cases this ambition may exceed the aspirant's ability and cause him to either fail or become with great effort only a moderate success.

Especially beneficial in skin care is an anti-bacterial soap. A soap containing hexachlorophene reduces infection and odor-causing bacteria on the skin, so important in complexion care. What's more, regular use leaves an invisible protective film that inhibits further growth of bacteria on skin.

may already have enjoyed great achievement as a salesman, but could be a failure as Sales Manager.

Or take the case of research. It is one thing for a man to be a top investigator and quite another matter to become the Research Director, with different talents required in this type of job.

School Days Mean Best Face Forward

Back to school for teenagers means seeing old friends and meeting new ones as well as another year of books, homework, and term papers. It means putting your best face forward as you catch up on summer happenings and settle down to study, cheer the football team, and plan school dances.

The confidence of a clear complexion will get the new school year off to a good start, and a minimum of three daily cleanings are the key. The condition of a complexion depends on the care it receives.

One solution to minor teenage complexion problems — for both boys and girls — is a regular cleansing routine with soap that contains bacteria-fighting ingredients.

Combined with plenty of rest

Look For Originality In Dress, School Fashion Designers Urge

Projected estimates for Fall 1966 indicate that fashion-wise young women are planning the largest back-to-school wardrobe ever. Many, according to the authority, "Mademoiselle" magazine, will do their shopping in boutiques. A boutique is defined either as an area within a large store which has been set aside for a special purpose, such as a seasonal "College Shop," or as a small store, usually privately owned, which caters to the needs of a particular clientele. It is interesting to note that the present enthusiasm for boutiques runs highest among young women of high school and college age; here they're able to find originality in merchandise which has been selected especially for them.

"Mademoiselle," which conducts an annual Guest Editor competition on college campuses across the country, reports that "boutiquing" is perhaps THE favorite pastime on campus. Not only did a large number of the 1966 contestants in the contest submit designs of original fashions, shoes, and accessories for these shops, no fewer than nine of the 21 winners have career ambitions in boutique design.

ACROBATICS: Trampoline and hand bar, great for fancy acrobatics.

In most of the world's sprawling cities, the neighborhood youngster is often shortchanged when it comes to space in which to play.

To overcome this space problem some cities are experimenting with vest-pocket parks — small play areas constructed on vacant lots.

In Tokyo, Japan, a kindergarten principal has gone one step further. He's designed some unique and inexpensive equipment to ensure that the children in his school get plenty of exercise in the limited playground area he has available.

Mr. Kogo Kato, the designer, points out that these new tools not only provide adequate exercise for his 300 pupils but, more important, the children enjoy using them.

Baseball, soccer and track events are all possible now in areas that take up only a fraction of space normally needed. In the fertile young minds of the participants, the games are no less exciting than those that might be played on a regulation size field.

SOCCER: A ball attached to rope returns after being kicked, lets the children play stationary soccer game.

BASEBALL: With his eyes glued to a tethered ball, this youngster prepares to bat a long one out of the park.

CHARIOTEERING: Pedaled device, used for chariot racing, develops legs and balance.

By-trimmed sirloin tip, ask your butcher to add a little beef suet to it. This will give you a juicier product.

While regular ground beef can also contain up to 30 per cent fat, retailers frequently limit it to 20 to 25 per cent.

Both hamburger and ground beef, however, are made from business chunks of less tender beef along with the less popular cuts such as neck meat, stew cuts, the plate, brisket, flank shank and trimmings from boned roasts.

While they can be used for "hamburgers," they are best when used in combination with other items such as in meat loaves, casseroles, meat sauces, and many foreign dishes such as Italian and Mexican specialties.

The Meaning Of The Label On The Hamburger You Buy

That all-time favorite—commonly called "hamburger"—can be one of the greatest food-budget-stretchers.

But, what should you buy—hamburger, ground round or ground sirloin?

The U. S. Department of Agriculture's Consumer and Marketing Service points out that each of these names on the label of a package of ground meat has a distinct and different meaning.

And, knowing the right meat to buy for the dish you plan to serve will not only save you money, but will also result in a more satisfying, delicious meal.

The first step in becoming a truly "meat-wise" shopper is knowing a little about ground meat in general. With the exception of ground round or sirloin, it is generally made from less tender and/or less popular cuts of beef. This does not mean the ground meat is any less wholesome or nutritious.

Nutritionally, all beef meat—regardless of the cut—has the same amount of protein, vitamins, and minerals. While the percentage of fat in the meat will have some effect on the total amount, the degree of difference will be relatively minor since the fat itself also contains some protein, vitamins, and minerals.

Some Say 'Right', Others, 'Wrong'

US Servicemen Divided On Viet Nam War

EDITOR'S NOTE—President Johnson says the letters he gets from American servicemen in Viet Nam reflect high morale and strong dedication. What do servicemen have to say who write from Viet Nam to Sen. Wayne Morse, one of the most outspoken congressional critics of Johnson's Viet Nam policies? This story surveys letters made available by the White House and the senator's office.

BY JOHN D. McCLAIN

WASHINGTON (AP)—"I am proud to be serving my country by being in Viet Nam," a U.S. serviceman wrote President Johnson recently.

"Serving here is the most degrading experience of my life," the feeling an Army private first class expressed in a letter to Sen. Wayne Morse, D-Ore., an outspoken critic of Johnson's Viet Nam policy.

The two letters are examples of the conflicting views that some Washington officials receive from the troops in Viet Nam.

The President told a news conference last month he gets 20 to 30 letters each week from Viet Nam. The mail shows, he said, that "morale is high, that the men are well and adequately supplied and properly led."

He also told an Indiana audience last month, "I have yet to get one letter from a man that says to me that he wants to get out and come home, that he does not want to stay there and do his job."

But Morse, while receiving fewer letters, nevertheless gets a different viewpoint from the battlefront.

In response to requests from The Associated Press for a look at Johnson's mail from Viet Nam, the White House made available copies of 20 letters he has received in recent months.

Morse provided his entire correspondence on the Viet Nam issue for the same period. It contained seven letters from Viet Nam, the remainder from his home state.

One consistent theme ran through most of Johnson's letters — the servicemen writing the President saw themselves performing an important role in the forefront of a crucial battle against communism. None was critical of administration policy.

Morse's mail, on the other hand, consistently was critical of Johnson's policies and told of morale problems and a feeling of uselessness in a land where the writers felt they were not wanted.

About the only things the letters had in common were frequently misspelled words and erratic grammar.

Here, in letters to the President, he saw some of the men writing their reason for being in Viet Nam:

"I tell that the reason why I was sent here is to keep myself and the rest of our boys free from Red China."

"Now I really know why Viet Nam. Why because if we don't stop Charlie here he will be on our homes next."

"I realize that there is a job to be done over here or we'll all be lying under the Communist government and I myself don't like their type of living."

But an Army master sergeant, affording to a Johnson address at Omaha on June 30, wrote the President: "May the truth of your speech pierce the fog in the minds of the anti-Viet Nam groups."

Others told the President: "There has been quite a bit of protest against the U.S. policy... It is reassuring to see you stand for the true situation here, cannot really protest against the U.S. policy... for this simple reason, they're too quick at assuming their own belief where they are right or wrong."

"As fighting men in Viet Nam, I feel we're the best informed in the world. We also can see the consequences of a pullout. In fact, we're probably better informed than the major party of the demonstrators. We're not here to do this or that. We're here to win. If you could sit around at night and listen you would know it is a entirely different story... Most of the guys want to lay down their guns and go home just like the people in Saigon want us to."

But a private first class wrote Morse: "Everybody thinks the moral of the men is very high but this is not true... On the outside to outsiders our moral does look high, but if you could sit around at night and listen you would know it is a entirely different story... Most of the guys want to lay down their guns and go home just like the people in Saigon want us to."

Long Hair, Short Skirts Scissored By Principals

School Board Gives Approval To Rules

By DOTIE AUSTIN

Seminole County hairbushes can expect to do a land office business in the next few weeks as junior high and high school youth who have let their locks grow in Mod style all summer are short of their glory, under an edict issued today by secondary school principals of the county.

Short hair is mandatory, but short skirts, on girls are "to be expected to wear socks, keep their faces cleanly shaven and wear shirtslens instead trousers," according to the decree.

"Girls will be expected to wear conventional style dress, excluding excessively long or short skirts and low-cut blouses. Extreme hair styles, by adult standards, worn by either boys or girls, will be considered unacceptable," the edict continues.

Secondary principals met with the school board Thursday and asked approval of the regulations which they have established. The approval was given.

"Along with parents, churches and various community organizations, our schools share the responsibility for assisting teenage boys and girls in becoming mature adults," the principals said.

"Our part in this very important endeavor enables us to place on students the need for meeting deadlines, respecting authority and complying with regulations as a portion of the maturation process.

"The majority of our young adults accept these tenets with little or no prompting. There remains however, a number of teenagers who, by their refusal to adhere to acceptable standards, adversely reflect the image of the school and community.

"In an effort to further clarify secondary school policy in the area of appropriate student dress and grooming, the following standards will be in effect at the beginning of the school year," the statement continues.

Supt. R. T. Milves explained that students who refuse to comply with the regulations "whether or not his personal grooming is a distraction."

Principals of the county's four high schools and four junior high schools are to be the judges of whether or not the student is "in compliance" and whether or not his personal grooming is "a distraction."

(A suspended student receives a zero on all subjects during the time he is suspended.)

Medicare Approval Awaited

By JUDY AUSLEY

"We are just waiting to hear the decision on whether we will have Medicare or not," Robert Besserer stated while speaking to the Sanford-Seminole Jaycees at their regular meeting Thursday noon.

School board granted a waiver of fees on a number of junior college students on basis of need.

Five Seminole County students who had been expelled from school last spring for vandalism to schools, have applied for re-admission. Permission has been granted after re-examination by school board officials said.

A request for loan of folding chairs from Altamonte Springs School for the presentation of a play by the Attie Theater, a community little theater group, was refused.

Medicare provides health insurance for the aged individual 65 years and older. He pointed out that in the state of Florida 25 per cent of the population is people eligible for the aid.

Besserer explained the Medicare program and the work that has been done in order to have the local hospital readied and eligible for the program. As of the last inspection on Aug. 4 by Social Security representatives the hospital has not been certified for the program. Besserer added that he expects to hear some decision within a week.

During the luncheon meeting a trophy was presented to the outstanding youth who recently won the Jaycee Junior Track Meet held at the Buddy Lawson Memorial Track. Gene Hedd, Winter Park, was presented the trophy for over-all winning. Al Besserer, who was recognized were runner-up placers Kenneth Griffith and Tommy Berns, both of Sanford. Some 60 boys competed in the all-day meet on July 30.

Jaycee of the month recognition went to Joseph Hunt and S. O. Dornway for the month of August.
