2 Florida Students Die When Their Car And Truck Collide

Herbert Bostwick And Norton Davis Killed In Accident Today; Goodbread Injured

ST. PAUL, North Carolina, June 1.—(AP)—Two University of Florida students were killed and two were injured when their automobile collided with a truck driven by a negro, Herbert Bostwick, of Miami and Norton Davis, of Tampa, were killed. Goodbread, who was injured, was taken to a Fayetteville hospital. With the exception of Davis, who was driving, the men were asleep and knew nothing until the crash wrecked the car.

University of Florida officials and students throughout the state were said to have been shocked when news reached Gainesville today that the two boys had been killed and that the other two were seriously injured. Each of the boys is said to have been an outstanding student in one or more activities, Goodbread being especially prominent because of his football career as a member of the football team during the years 1928, 1929, and 1930.

Norton Davis, a senior in the law school, was a member of Delta Tau Delta fraternity, as well as the Phi Kappa, a leadership fraternity. He was also a member of the Phi Kappa, a leadership fraternity. He was also a member of the Phi Kappa, a leadership fraternity.

City Attorney Explains Measure To Be Voted Upon By Citizens June 8

In order that the public may be better informed in regard to the act of the Legislature to be voted upon June 8, authorizing the City to foreclose its lien for taxes, the City Attorney, Fred M. Wilson, has answered the following questions in regard thereto:

1. WHY WAS THE ACT PASSED BY THE LEGISLATURE?
To comply with the agreement between the Bondholders Protective Committee and the City. One of the conditions upon which the Committee entered into the agreement with the City was that the City would endeavor to strengthen its tax collection laws.

2. WHAT IS THE DIFFERENCE BETWEEN THE PRESENT METHOD OF COLLECTION AND THAT PROPOSED BY THE ACT IN QUESTION?
Under the provisions of the Charter, as it is now, real property is sold for non-payment of taxes, although the City is authorized to foreclose the lien at the end of two years. The proposed bill changes the method of selling the land for non-payment of taxes.

3. WHEN MAY TAXES BE FORECLOSED UNDER THE PROPOSED BILL?
The City Commissioners may at any time after the Act is ratified by the people, direct a foreclosure of any taxes for any year prior to the year 1930. However, the bill provides that the City Commissioners may in their discretion direct the foreclosure of the taxes which have been delinquent for the longest period of time.

4. COULD THE COMMISSIONERS BE COMPELLED TO FORECLOSE THE TAXES FOR 1927, 1928 AND 1929, BEFORE THEY FORECLOSE TAXES DUE FOR ANY PRIOR YEAR?
In my opinion they could not, because as I have stated they are allowed to begin with the taxes which have been delinquent the longest period of time, and there are delinquent taxes for the years 1925 and 1926, and prior years.

5. IS THE METHOD NOW PROPOSED BY THIS ACT OF THE LEGISLATURE SUPERIOR TO THE PRESENT METHOD OF COLLECTING TAXES?
In my opinion it is, because the former method practically involves only a voluntary payment of taxes, and the sale of the property for non-payment is merely an extension of the City's lien until tax deed is issued or the lien foreclosed.

TEXAS GUINAN IS NEAR COLLAPSE OF WILD YOUTHS OVER DETENTION

HAVRE, France, June 1.—(AP)—Fate from the bright lights of Broadway "Texas" Guinan, traveling night club hostess, last night was reported near collapse from the strain resulting from detention in the Hotel Transatlantique here which is being patrolled by French police and detectives.

The entertainer remained behind closed doors in her little room with three narrow beds and barred windows, and refused to see visitors.

"She is all worn out with strain and has a splitting headache," said "Bunny" Weldon, director of the Guinan chorus and the party's spokesman. "She can't see anybody."

UPWARD SIGNS FOR BUSINESS ARE REPORTED

Governmental Figures Reveal Conditions In Some Cases Have Taken Decided Jump

WASHINGTON, June 1.—(AP)—The commerce department reported yesterday that business conditions generally showed continued and, in some instances, marked improvement during April.

Greater than seasonal improvement was shown by manufacturers of food products, automobiles, leather and shoe products, cement and tobacco, but iron and steel and non-ferrous metal products manufactures were smaller than in March.

"April was the third consecutive month," the department said, "in which the volume of business in the United States, after allowing for normal seasonal trends, showed further slight expansion from the low levels established in January, while the seasonal decline occurring in early May had been slightly larger than usual."

Industrial production as measured by the federal reserve board's seasonally adjusted index, registered another increase in April, and in that month was nine percent above the December level. Output of manufacturers was larger than in March, owing chiefly to greater than seasonal improvement in the food products, automobile, leather, shoe, cement and tobacco industries, while iron and steel manufactures, metal production was smaller than in the preceding month.

The index of mineral output, adjusted for seasonal changes, increased nearly five percent from the low level of the depression established in March.

"Building construction in April as measured by contracts awarded decreased nine percent from the preceding month instead of continuing the seasonal increase, usual at this period, which was manifest in February and March. A further decline of seasonal proportions occurred in the first half of May. In general, residential building has been holding up better than commercial and industrial types."

"Expansion in manufacturing and mining industries and the seasonal resumption of outdoor work in agriculture and building has brought further improvement in the employment situation with reduction of part-time work and a shrinkage in the number of unemployed since January. Factory employment, as a whole, has increased by about the normal seasonal amount since the first month of the year when a low level for the depression was reached.

"Retail distribution of freight as measured by carloadings has shown normal seasonal expansion in March and again in April, but shipments of merchandise in the latter month increased less than usual. Dollar sales of department stores in April after allowance for seasonal trend and the early date of Easter, increased by 8 percent from March to April and in the latter month were less than two percent below the total for April, 1930, an increase of five percent below that of April, 1929, despite the decline in retail prices during the last two years."

Broen Still Has Hope For Racing Measure

MIAMI, June 1.—(AP)—Frank Broen, director of the Miami Racing Association, operators of the Hialeah Park race track, said today he has not given up hope for passage of the pari-mutuel racing bill and that he looked forward to further action by the Legislature when it convenes.

"There's nothing I can do but to sit tight and continue nursing my disappointment. It is unfortunate that the bill had to be vetoed right at this time when a solution of the unemployment situation in Miami seemingly had been found."

MRS. HOOVER HAS SIMPLE TASTES AS TO JEWELRY

Won't Use Cosmetics Or Wear High Heels; Calls Hoover "Bert"

By MARGUERITE YOUNG
WASHINGTON, June 1.—(Copyright, 1931, by the Associated Press.)—The first lady of the land is fond of a ropelike necklace smoothly woven of dull silver, but she will wear neither jewels nor cosmetics nor high heels. She calls her husband "Bert." Her eyes, so often thought grey, are blue.

Shopping alone, she has started a new habit of buying her jewelry in a quiet shop in the city. She takes her grandchildren picknicking in a public park at the edge of the capital, she is seldom recognized. If she is, she remains unperurbed.

Guards at the Lincoln memorial know her though, for on occasion she takes her house guests there after the 10:30 P. M. closing hour. The visitors are let in to see the lighting within the white columns; they look along the reflection pool to the slender white sentry of the Washington monument that Mrs. Hoover so admires.

Effort Is Made To End Deadlock Over Gasoline Measure

TALLAHASSEE, June 1.—(AP)—The House today turned from a filibuster to a conference in an effort to end the deadlock over the proposal to distribute half of the present six cents gasoline tax equally among the counties.

The Senate passed the House bill amending laws regarding the Okeechobee flood control district. At the request of Senator Getzen, Bushnell, the Senate informally postponed consideration of the governor's veto of the bill to legalize racing and pari-mutuel wagering.

Canning Factory Is To Begin Operation In City Next Fall

Plant Is Expected To Employ 200 Men And Consume At Least 1000 Boxes Per Day

The establishment in Sanford of an orange and grapefruit canning factory which is expected to begin operation by Oct. 15, to employ at least 200 laborers, and to consume at least 1000 boxes of oranges and grapefruit each day, was announced today at noon when, speaking at a meeting of the Seminole County Chamber of Commerce at the Valdez Hotel, H. M. Papworth, president of the trade body, read an excerpt from a letter he had received from F. H. Ekerson, New Jersey capitalist, in which Mr. Ekerson advised W. H. Tunncliffe of this city, to proceed at once in completing all the details in connection with the plant.

The meeting, called by trade body officials last week for the purpose of entering into a free discussion of the proposed charter amendment election to be held next Monday, was attended by about 35 Sanford and Seminole County residents.

The discussion, which did not get under way until Mr. Papworth scolded the members of the trade body and other residents not present for their failure to speak their minds openly on the matter, followed the reading of the letter from Mr. Ekerson, and the disposal of several matters which have been under consideration by the trade body during the week.

Mr. Papworth, after asking the members present to express their views on the subject of the charter amendment and being greeted with silence, stirred the group to action by a short talk in which he declared that "it was inconceivable that people in this City should harbor the feeling that they can own property here and yet pay no taxes." He took exception to those "who sit around on our street corners and advocate the non-payment of taxes and yet who are afraid to come before this group and speak their minds freely and openly on such a vital matter," and declared that the great trouble with Sanford today is that there are "so many people of that type living here."

Mayor T. L. Dumais was the first to speak, following Mr. Papworth's talk. He declared that in his opinion it is absolutely necessary that some method of enforcing the collection of taxes be created, and that the bill upon which freeholders will vote next Monday answers all such purposes. He asked City Attorney Fred H. Wilson to outline the details surrounding the decision to draw up the bill.

Mr. Wilson summed up his remarks by saying that "the residents of Sanford can, I firmly believe, work under the provisions of this bill with no hardships to any taxpayer." He also maintained that the city, county, and the state must change their system of tax collection and enforcement if the government is to exist.

Under the Supreme Court mandamus, it was estimated that the millage would have to be raised to 215 mills before the City could pay its outstanding principal and interest coupon and provide for the payment of the 1930 interest and principal. After a meeting with the Bondholders Protective Committee, who agreed to reduce the millage to where it would provide for the payment of the outstanding interest and the interest for 1930, it was found that 195 mills would be needed for this purpose.

Realizing that such a collection would be almost impossible, Mr. Wilson said the bond committee agreed to set the millage at 20 mills, in order that they might arrive at a definite idea as to the ability and capacity of the taxpayers to pay. One of the conditions laid down in arriving at the 20 mill figure was that the Commission would draw up a plan and support its enactment, and would provide a more strict enforcement of tax collection.

"As the bill now stands," Wilson said, "the Commission may, at their discretion, change it." (Continued On Page Three)

Factory Operates Monday Next

(Continued from Page One) closing on all property upon which taxes have been due the longest. They expect to do that, and will proceed in an orderly way to collect taxes which are the oldest. All taxes for future years may be reassessed after a two year period, and since it will take many months to reassess or collect on taxes due in 1925 and 1926, the bill can work no hardship upon the delinquent taxpayer of 1927, 1928, 1929, or 1930.

City Commissioner W. A. Lester summed up the attitude of the entire Commission by declaring that they were all in agreement that the bill ought to be ratified by the taxpayers. The recent Farmers Day celebration here proved to us that the people here can and will co-operate for the benefit of the City," he said, "and that we can do anything if we will only get out and work for it. There is no substitute for work, and what we need now is active work in securing the collection of taxes which have been delinquent for years."

He said that the Commissioners are very anxious to create a new interest in Sanford real estate, and that the town would benefit immeasurably if much of the vacant property is cleaned up, sold to people even for as little as 15 cents on the dollar, if it means that homes will be built and property improved. "We sincerely hope that the citizens will ratify the bill," he concluded.

Mayor Dumas said that the residents of Sanford ought to be able to pay their delinquent taxes without difficulty in view of the fact that City of Sanford bonds can now be secured for as low as 30 cents on the dollar. "They have a decided advantage over the 50 percent of persons who have for some years paid all of their taxes here, at the rate of 100 cents on the dollar," he said.

S. O. Shinholser, speaking in behalf of the bill, declared that "if the present system is continued, I see nothing but chaos ahead." He added, "It is even possible to believe that if the bill does not pass, that all of 50 percent will stop paying taxes, feeling that if their neighbors can get by without paying taxes, that they can too. Something must be done, and it is my opinion that this charter amendment will give our Commissioners the authority to enforce collections as they should be."

Frank L. Miller, the only one of the persons present who declared any objection to the bill, said that he was opposed to it because it gives too much authority and power of the Bondholders Protective Committee. He said that attorneys for that group made a promise to the City Commissioners at the time both sides drew up an agreement, and that they later denied that they made the promise. "I wouldn't trust any of the members of that group with a bill like the one you are trying to pass," he said, "and it will never on earth vote for it."

He asked Mr. Wilson if the Commissioners construed the reassessed 1927, 1928, and 1929 taxes as 1930 taxes, and was told that they did not. Mr. Miller then declared that he could see no reason why he should be allowed a two year grace period on his 1930 taxes, while his neighbor had to pay his 1928 taxes at once although they were reassessed.

Mr. Miller was asked by City Commissioner H. J. Lehman to suggest any other remedy which might be satisfactory to all taxpayers and his working the City out of the difficulty. It now found itself in, but Mr. Miller did not answer it directly, saying that there was not time enough to go into a discussion of it. He pointed out that while he was a member of the Commission that he was opposed to the measure which would place such power in the hands of the Bondholders Protective Committee, and asked Mr. Lehman to refresh his memory upon the many meetings of the Commission at which the matter was discussed.

Commissioner Lester arose again and declared that the main object back of the Commissioners' sponsoring the bill was to "get things in such shape so that when the time came for reassessing the City, as it surely will, we will be able to go to the people who will loan us money, and show them that we have a way of enforcing tax collection."

Germany May Ask Creditors For Moratorium

(Continued from Page One) revision of the Young plan, is fraught. Therefore, he and the foreign minister probably will first point out to their British colleagues that Germany's creditors could themselves ease the country's situation by extending long-term credits to her and by letting down tariff walls.

The German press says if Germany is loaned long-term capital, at reasonable rates, and if she is afforded an opportunity of increasing her exports by a lowering of tariff barriers, she can continue the Young plan annuities. But if she is kept capital-hungry and barred from the world market—the press argument runs—only a reduction of her obligations at least temporarily, by a moratorium can save her from economic collapse.

Should the chancellor and the foreign minister find, after consulting with MacDonald and Henderson, that the present moment of world depression is psychologically unfavorable for urging a moratorium or a revision, they may press for concrete results on the reparations issue.

Chancellor Brüning and his colleagues find themselves in a very difficult position. The recent Oldenburg elections, in which the National Socialists captured two-thirds of the local diet seats, show the movement of Adolf Hitler is gaining.

Ash Has Abandoned Flight Over Pacific

TOKYO, June 1.—(AP)—A Rengo Agency dispatch from Sumshiro today said, Thomas Ash has abandoned his proposed non-stop flight across the Pacific and is returning to Tokyo.

Ash's abandonment of flight was attributed in the dispatch to the failure of the plane to come up to expectations. In several particulars, the message said, the motor failed to run perfectly and did not develop sufficient power to rise with a heavy fuel load. Many of Ash's friends advised him to abandon his plan.
