I don't want to get anyone mad at me the day before Thanksgiving so I spent most of the morning at the zoo.

There won't be any turkey served there tomorrow . . . Just roasted beef, warm broth and canned chicken . . . Maybe, when the zoo is moved . . .

When was the last time a member of the South Seminole Jrcees looked at the "Jaycee Creed" . . . I mean the part about promoting "unity" and "civic pride" . . .

Thus far county taxes collected hit the $125,000 mark . . . that's $200 more than the same period last year . . . People apparently taking advantage of the four percent discount . . . Good until Dec. 1.

We hear the county commissioners were out looking over Sand Lake Road again this afternoon with the road superintendent. What's wrong now, folks?

There's been so many escapes at the Ovidio Prison Camp recently that the warden recommended tighter security measures around the facility . . .

City police reported there were people in the Orange St. area complaining about some guy knocking on doors saying "Vote For Me" . . . He didn't elaborate . . . There's already a move on by an ex-city official attempting to get enough written votes to take the election . . . Apathy on the part of Sanford Dec. 6 will help.

Isn't it too bad city and county officials weren't invited to the County Fair (that's officially) (No ribbon cutting ceremonies, or anything).

Lake Mary postal workers will be moving into their new facility on Second and Miller over the weekend . . . Official dedication set for December.

City Manager W. E. Knowles will be meeting with the apparent low bidder on one of the phases of the Marina project . . . That's construction of the building at a cost of $91,000. Low bidder is Sparrow firm of Maitland . . . Bid awarding is scheduled for Monday night.

Isn't it too bad the Seminole County Junior College's first formal of the year will be held in Orange County, what's the matter with the Civic Center?

Cliff McKibbin deserves a pat on the back from all of us for pushing this Industrial Potential Board . . . When the Navy base leaves we don't want the city and county battling over the NAS property . . . This special board will keep politics completely out of it . . . McKibbin is just the "pro" to run it.

Officials from that large Georgia firm interested in the "Port of Sanford" toured the area yesterday looking at the site . . . Needless to say they were very impressed . . . That will be a $2 million industry . . . Let's go.

How effective is the anti-poverty program here? You can count on your hands how many kids turned out yesterday at "Community Action" for the Job Corps . . .

We got some complaints that the Chamber of Commerce fest in the courthouse was de-staged for Dec. 6 because it was election day . . . 'twas all sold close at 7 in Longwood, Altamonte Springs and Ovidio and by the time people vote, eat supper and all that, they could never get to Sanford on time . . . Well, we queried Chamber of Commerce President Vernon Mize on this and he said that if enough people call him regarding a change of dates because of the election he would call the executive board together to switch nights . . . His office number is 322-1314.

And now you'll enjoy that turkey tomorrow . . . I'll be here pounding the typewriter.

6-8 Sanfordites Lose Thousands In Land Swindle

Some six-eight Sanford residents are among more than 300 persons who were bilked of $40,000 in one year in a land scheme swindle.

There was considerable excitement about a year ago when it was reported that six-eight local heirs of the "Edwards estate" stood in line to inherit about $1 million each from the sale of New York City real estate through a New Orleans court.

NEW ORLEANS (AP)—The FBI has arrested a woman here and a man in Texas on charges of taking $40,000 by Miss Volman J. Wilson of New Orleans and William Chester Carr, formerly of New Orleans and now of Vidler, La., in a land swindle.

The pair yesterday, naming them in a scheme which involved claims to the property titles of the vast holdings of historic Trinity Church in New York City, charged that they had secured legal rights to holdings of Trinity Church in New York City, Philadelphia and Chicago.

A federal grand jury returned a 60-count indictment against the pair yesterday, charging them with a scheme which involved claims to the property titles of the vast holdings of historic Trinity Church in New York City, Philadelphia and Chicago.

Hunt Plant Named In Back Wage Suit

ORLANDO (Special) — U. S. Secretary of Labor W. Willard Wirtz has filed a Fair Labor Standards Act (FLSA) suit in U. S. District Court here which seeks a court order restraining the defendant, Hunt Oil Company, doing business as HLL Products, from continuing to withhold $4,242.53 in back wages allegedly due the firm's employees under the Act.

The defendant, whose principal place of business is in Sanford, Seminole County, is engaged in the canning of fresh fruits and vegetables.

The complaint alleges the defendant is in violation of the minimum wage, overtime pay, and record-keeping provisions of the FLSA. The court was asked to enjoin and restrain the defendant from such violations in the future.

William F. R. plant manager, said this morning no persons have been served on him but "maybe at our Dallas headquarters." He added that "the federal government likes to make a big thing out of technicalities" on over-time wages, etc.

Topless Go-Go Girls --- And In Seminole

By FRED VAN PELT

Dear Boss:

Now we got 'em in our own back yard!

Here boomed gals cavorting in public, I mean. They're real, too . . . no plastics, no falsies, no pasties. Just the bare facts.

For a long time now we've been publishing AP stories out on bawling, oblivious to the eye-popping officers.

Casselberry police said they are hesitant to close down the topless go-go girls' act because from our angle, they are not a public nuisance.

Even "Dear Abby" this Friday will carry a letter from a husband complaining his wife has taken a job as a "topless waitress" . . . and he wants to know about some place, any place, with "bottomless waitresses."

Our spies tell us these local topless go-go girls started up recently at the Ovidio bistrot, but the joint went broke, and they had to move on to some place else to show their "talents" and earn a living.

So — they came to Casselberry on Monday last, and set up their show. There were four girls tonight . . . regular go-go costumes, sure 'nough. One spy reports the girls "bounced" all over the place.

There were three topless go-go girls last night. The night club was packed with men, including two-three in police uniform. But the girls kept right on bawling, oblivious to the eye-popping officers.

Casselberry police said they are hesitant to close down the topless go-go girls' act because from our angle, they are not a public nuisance.

Clear, Clean Lakes Urged in Area

Recommendations that public hearings be held before any permit is issued to dredge or fill in the area lakes were given by Col. Raymond E. Steffert, at the meeting of the County Commission Tuesday.

Steffert, representing the Bear Lake Gulley Association, membership of which is composed of residents of the north side of Bear Lake Gulley, stated his association's "desire that the lakes be kept clear, clean and free of contamination."

He reported that the recent dredging operation on Lake Burkett had caused the "water to become turbid. It will take at least 10 years and possibly never again in our lifetime for the lake to become clear without costly treating with chemicals."

Steffert declared cost of materials for clearing Lake Burkett has been estimated at $15,000. Present conditions have affected $1.5 million in properties around the lake, he said.

Commission Chairman John Alexander assured that Board would be taken under advisement and that the board would never issue a permit if it believed such a permit would be detrimental.

Army Runs Short On Rifles

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Army ran short of standard M1 rifles in the United States during September and October.

The Pentagon, acknowledging today what it called a temporary shortage, said nearly 15,000 standard M1 rifles were pulled from depot stocks to fill the gap.

The 30 caliber M1 was phased out beginning in 1961 and succeeded by the lighter M14, a 7.62mm weapon weighing about 9 pounds.

In response to questions, the Defense Department attributed the shortage to "a combination of concurrent increases in the training base requirements."

The Army has been training men at a rate of about 20,000 a month, with a net monthly gain of 26,000 to 25,000.

The Pentagon emphasized that releases of the old M1 ended on Oct. 21 and each man armed with it will get the modern M14 within four to six weeks.

Alvin C. York Listed On Army Rolls Again

FT. CAMPBELL, Ky. (AP)—A young man named Alvin C. York joined the Army nearly 50 years ago.

The original York grew up in Tennessee where he hunted fox and sold the pelts for $35 each.

The present-day York grew up in Illinois where he works with his father and two brothers in the family landscaping business.

"I always wanted to write my cousin, but I never did," says Pvt. York, stationed at Ft. Campbell, for basic training.

"I collected newspaper clippings and pictures."

World War I's Sgt. York entered the service in 1917. On Oct. 8, 1918 then Capt. York killed 28 enemy and took 128 enlisted men and four officers prisoner.

"I am all single-handedly," for his unusual accomplishment, he was awarded the Medal of Honor.

Jim was graduated from San Diego Naval Training Center last January and was ordered to NAS North Island, San Diego, where he became a plane captain of a T-3 jet.

He decided to surprise his father, and relinquished a year of shore duty in order to serve with the "Savage Sons of Sanford."

The sailor spent a short visit with his family at 303 Collins Drive, before reporting for duty and will be married Friday to Miss Sylvia Williams, of 1902 Park Ave.

Property on the southeast corner of SR 436 at Pearl Causeway was rezoned C-1 from R-1 with unanimous approval of the Board of County Commissioners Wednesday.

Contemplated use of the property, according to John M. Cather, owner, in construction of a shopping center.

The zoning change had not been recommended by the Planning and Zoning Board. Jack Goodin, county planner, considered the rezoning would be "strip zoning" and that homes on lakeland property would be facing the new enterprise.

Attorney for the petitioner, Mack N. Cleveland Jr., insisted the "new shopping center would not be inconsistent with development of the area, with SR 436 being a main arterial highway."

Rape Charged To Two Men

Two college men were in jail today charged with statutory rape of a 13-year-old Oviedo girl, Constable George Kelley reported.

The men were identified as Fred Pierce, of Pennsylvania, and Donald Neidigh, of Tennessee.

The girl, allegedly attacked on Nov. 12 and Nov. 20, was released from the hospital yesterday.

The tight money situation that has characterized the nation's economy — including that of Seminole County — will still plague business in the first half of the new year, although there should be a slight easing of the strain.

This represents the consensus of expert opinions reported by George Touhy, executive vice president of First Federal Savings and Loan Association, on his return this week from New York. He and Mrs. Touhy had spent a week at the national convention of the United States Savings and Loan League at the New York Hilton and the Americana hotels.

Headlining a succession of national authorities on business and finance was Henry H. Fowler, secretary of the Treasury; John E. Horne, chairman of the Federal Home Loan Bank Board; Walter E. Heller, former chairman of the President's Council of Economic Advisors and currently professor of economics at the University of Minnesota; and Michigan Congressman Gerald Ford.

"As a backlash of the money market's present insufficiency it was announced at the convention, Touhy said, that the just released figures on housing starts during October indicated a 1966 figure of "about $2,000." This compares with authoritative forecasts for the year of 1,200,000 on this 12-month period started.

Ford, who is minority party party leader, said that the recent elections provided additional strength that would be used to "induct" some elements that have apparently been unsavory to the people throughout the land and pledged his effort to see that no new taxes were imposed "until non-military government spending was curtailed."

Over 5,000 delegates were registered, Touhy said.

European Reds Are Frustrated

SOPIA, Bulgaria (AP)—East European Communists have a frustrated feeling of being straggled unwillingly behind what they consider the unrealistic onward rush of Hanov's war policy.

This feeling was expressed privately and was reflected in public speeches at the Bulgarian Communist Party Congress which ended Saturday. Leaders from Eastern Europe and Communists from other areas attended.

The Congress heard more about China than Viet Nam. Except for the Romanians, the delegates in their speeches did not discuss the Vietnamese situation in detail, and most notably they did not set conditions for peace.

This was one of several recent signs that, in Eastern Europe and in Moscow, policies on Viet Nam are flexible. The European Communist governments want the war to end and therefore are not insisting on such conditions as U.S. withdrawal from Viet Nam before peace negotiations can open.

Some sources considered it significant that speakers at the Bulgarian Congress did not demand that U.S. air raids on

Farm-City Week

This is Farm-City Week in Seminole County, a period set aside each year as a time for fostering better understanding between rural and urban segments of our society.

The observance (held nationally) has particular significance in Seminole because of its suburban areas and vast farming sections in the county which contribute so heavily to the economic stability of the county.

A closer understanding and appreciation of the roles of each in our society has always existed here. But National Farm-City Week gives us a special opportunity to reemphasize the importance and interdependence of each segment to the other.

"Agriculture is Your Business" is the theme of this year's observance in the county and every effort should be made to emphasize that never before has the rural understanding by city people of the food potential of their land and the problems of its producers been so vital to the continued welfare of the county.

The observance comes at a time when Seminole County farmers are planting or preparing to plant the vegetable crops. A drive through our farming region at this time will provide the urbanite with a good idea of the scope of this county's agricultural industry.

Letters

To The Editor

Editor, Herald:

I take issue with Tom Pratt in his statements reported in The Sanford Herald dated Nov. 17, regarding the Seminole County Courthouse and other points which I shall discuss.

Mr. Pratt starts off his remarks on the issue of locating the County Courthouse. First let me say, that I do not live in Sanford, also like to point out that when you view this issue you have to ask yourself, what is the problem?

Seminole County is a small county, we are talking about an area approximately 20 miles square. We are talking about an area approximately 20 miles square. We are talking about an area approximately 20 miles square.

When Mr. Pratt talks about how your tax dollar is spent and points out the fact that you are not getting a fair shake, I again take issue.

Mr. Pratt says that he is not sure what the Port Authority is doing. He says that the Port Authority is a committee consisting of citizens of Seminole County who were appointed because of their desire to help out in the county seat from any place in the county. Did you know that in the south end of Orange County, if you wanted to go to the county seat and you lived on the county line it would take you approximately 45 minutes to drive in? Do you hear the people of Orange County fussing about this? Certainly not. Orange County is a big county and simply because the county seat is in the north end of the county approximately 40 miles from the southern border, does not mean that the government of the county is weakened. It simply means that the county is the largest and most dynamic area in Orange County, and the focus of attention is in Orlando.

When Mr. Pratt states that the opening of a new plant is the best chance of being successful. This is true in Seminole County, sure, you can look at our county and say that we are backward in our approach. You can say that the people in south Seminole are being short changed, but is this true?

Have you looked at the possibility that the County Commissioners, the Seminole Chamber of Commerce and the Port Authority has made every effort to make Seminole County an important and necessary part of the growth of Florida? Have you considered the impact that we as citizens of Seminole County can have on the State of Florida in the next 10 to 15 years if we forget our petty local complaints and coordinate our efforts toward building for the future which most of us want?

We as citizens of Seminole County, should not engage in local and small issues which call "fill pickens". We should look at the big picture and concern ourselves with the major problems of the County and State, and if we are ever to become a county to be recognized,

... WHO'S THE FAIREST ONE OF ALL?

Helen Fuller Says:

Our Health Menaced

WASHINGTON—Recently a New York Congressman returned from a flight over his city to report that his citizens are living under an "aerial cesspool."

This was no dramatic figure of speech, as even the ordinary rider of big-city highways is aware.

Almost every scientific meeting of experts on the subject of pollution concludes with a ringing declaration that the air most Americans breathe is one of the greatest menaces to the nation's health. Yet local and state governments have been slow to take the costly steps required to clean the air of the poisonous contaminants it now contains.

The big offenders are fuel oil and gasoline exhaust fumes, the most contamination comes from coal-using industrial plants, apartment incinerators and furnaces, and from automobiles.

The vast Consolidated Edison Company which supplies New York City's electricity, for example, claims that convert its facilities from coal would force a large increase in rates to the consumer. Auto manufacturers have known for years how to diminish gas pollution but they balked at the cost in profits that might result.

The time may be near when the public will demand action at whatever cost to whom. This month "Clean Air Week" was observed in 100 cities to make the facts about air pollution. The ABC's are simple. Every day we breathe in more than 16,000 quarts of air. Much of it contains a high dose of carbon monoxide, carbon dioxide, lead, soot, gases, dust and irritants. The carbon monoxide that pours from auto exhausts lowers the supply of oxygen to the blood and tissues. One car, it is estimated, produces about one ton of carbon monoxide a year.

Health studies as early as 1924 documented a direct relationship between areas with heavy air pollution and areas having a high death rate from cancer. A recent New York State Health Department study concludes that the risk of dying in a high pollution area is 30 per cent greater than in pure atmosphere. The odds that a man between 50 and 70 will die of lung cancer are twice as great in an area of high pollution.

It is naturally hard for local governments to crack down on careless landlords—and impossible to do anything about how Detroit chooses to equip its auto, with or without controls on poisonous exhausts. There is an obvious temptation to "let the Federal Government do it"—an out to be avoided when possible. Finding the fair formula for cleaning up our air involves all levels of government.

This fact almost justifies yet another "government conference." On the weekend of December 12, Washington will host the local and national governments moving in the same direction, with minimum duplication of effort.

As our most congested center, New York City naturally has lived with the pollution problem longer and earlier than most of the nation. The laws which its R. E. P. U. Administration, state and city, are putting into effect will therefore get special attention. New York law now requires air pollution control devices on all 1968 and later model cars. Landlords have until May, 1968, to recondition apartment buildings with heating plants to meet new minimum standards.

The December meeting in Washington will alert the leaders of smaller cities to what is inevitably in store for all the country unless some elementary preventive steps are taken toward keeping our air fit to breathe.

Head Shrinkers

NEW YORK (AP)—Remarks that psychiatrists get tired of hearing:

"Whom do you guys tell your troubles to—bartenders?"

"Are you sure you're Dr. Wellington Cortex, the psychiatrist? I thought all psychiatrists wore beards—like beakins."

"If I want my head shrunk, I'll take it to a good Chinese hand laundry."

"I admit I'm kind of dumb about these things, but what puzzles me is—there much difference between astrology and psychic?"

"Wellington, you'll have to punish the children. I'm afraid that if I do it I'll leave them with emotional scars."

"I don't care if this is National Mental Health Week. Doc, if you tell me I hate my mother, I'll punch you right in the eye."

"They say that after he took that tourist trip to Vienna, he overjoyed his rates."

"Don't try to pull the wool over my eyes, Doc. I've read a little Freud myself, and I still say you're just a nasty-minded old man."

"Before we begin, do you mind if I just look under the couch? I'm the cautious type."

"My problem, Doc, is that both my wife and my employer understand me completely."

"Would you please tell the doctor that I am Napoleon—and don't care to be kept waiting. I am on my way back from Moscow and must reach Ebla by nightfall."

"I don't believe you heard a word I said. Frankly, doctor, for 150 an hour, I thought you could at least hear me out without groaning."

"If I do tell you what my secret-lying me is—there much difference between astrology and psychic?"

Dr. Crane's Worry Clinic

Larry's mother is in a difficult spot. For it is natural for us parents to feel sympathy for our children. So we must lean over backwards to treat children like Larry as if nothing has happened. But when they should learn to handle their daily chores in spite of their physical difficulty. But when they should learn to handle their daily chores in spite of their physical difficulty. But when they should learn to handle their daily chores in spite of their physical difficulty.

Dr. Crane's Worry Clinic is a place where you can get help for your worries. Dr. Crane's Worry Clinic is a place where you can get help for your worries. Dr. Crane's Worry Clinic is a place where you can get help for your worries.

Remind him of deaf Beethoven, who is world famous in music. Or tubercular Robert Louis Stevenson, who wrote the swashbuckling "Treasure Island" pirate story.

Blind Milton, epileptic Caesar stuttering Demosthenes and Moses, these are a few who used their handicap as a spur to greater success.

Larry can still become an expert swimmer or bowler, for an artificial leg will permit him to get around fairly well.

In fact, we had a Chicago baseball pitcher for the White Sox who even pitched for awhile after he lost his leg in a hunting accident.

Also, encourage young children with the stimulating stories of "Rudolph, the Red-Nosed Reindeer," and especially "Sandy Slightfoot."

Sandy is the youngster with the large feet that brought ridicule and ostracism from his playmates, yet ultimately led to his becoming a co-pilot on Santa's annual sleigh.

But don't let your sympathy show.

Never make the child feel that he is handicapped. Treat him as his normal brothers and sisters.

For he must simply surmount his handicap and still keep up on a par with his normal brothers and sisters.

Remember that people who use false teeth, hearing aids, eye glasses, etc., are also handicapped, but still do their jobs.

Always write to Dr. Crane in care of this newspaper, enclosing a long stamped, addressed envelope and 20 cents to cover typing and printing costs when you send for one of his booklets.

The Easter Seal campaign to help the schools for handicapped youngsters thus deserves great credit for boosting their morale.

So Larry can soon realize that he isn't in bad shape as he contrasts his condition with the polo cists, some of whom can't even move a hand or foot, being totally paralyzed below the neck.

Yet they may sketch and paint beautifully, using their teeth to hold the brush or drawing pencil.

The second method for helping the handicapped is to provide a proper outlook, it is to show Larry that an apparent handicap can become either a stumbling block or a stepping stone to greater attainment.

Remind him that hunchbacked Stielmetz compensated for his lack of athletic ability by becoming the greatest electrical wizard of the 20th century, next to Thomas A. Edison.

Impressive Memorial Rites Conducted By Eastern Star

Fifty members and guests witnessed an impressive memorial service at the last meeting of Seminole Chapter, No. 2, Order of Eastern Star.

Miss Donna Markos, dressed as an angel, approached the altar, with hands clasped as in prayer while the organist played "Goin' Home." As the secretary read the roll call of deceased members, the angel was spotlighted at the altar in the dimly lighted room.

At the conclusion of the reading of the roll, the secretary holding the scroll, and the chaplain holding a piece of fern, approached the altar on each side of the angel, and jointly placed the scroll and fern on either side of the Bible on the altar.

They then stood with the angel, with clasped hands and heads bowed, as Mrs. Robert Cole sang "Goin' Home." When the chaplain and secretary retired from the altar, the angel left the room, followed by the spotlight.

The Worthy Matron, Mrs. Irving Brown, then recognized Mrs. Herman Brown, who represents the widow point of the star, and quoted a poem about the station of Ruth. Mrs. Bowen responded with a poem about Naomi, after which she was presented a demitasse spoon bearing the emblem of her station. Mrs. Sarah Taylor, who came in as a widow of a Marine, presented a poem about the station of a widow.

Members from the communities of Enterprise and Osteen, Mrs. Eva Williams and Mrs. Marie Bowen, were welcomed and recognized.

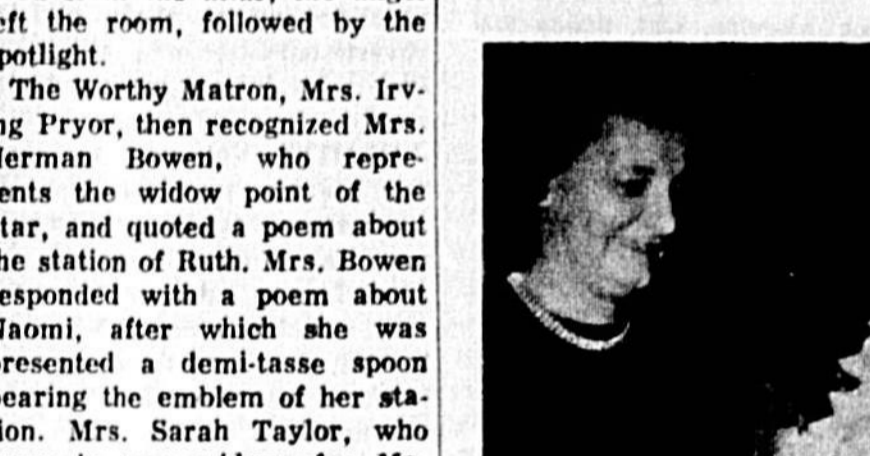

Having birthdays during the month of November are Mrs. Essie Cole, Mrs. Mosier, Mrs. W. A. Raines, Mr. and Mrs. Paul Markos and Robert Penfold.

Mrs. George D. Rounds was selected to become a member by affiliation.

The refreshment committee for the evening was composed of Mrs. Hammond, Mrs. Burdette, Mrs. Dorothy Johns and Dorothy Heath, who served delicious sandwiches and coffee.

When raising plastic curtains in clear warm water, add several drops of mineral oil. This helps to keep them soft and pliable. Do this after they have been cleaned with soap and water.

Lake Mary Women To Move Library

The Lake Mary Women's Club will be moving to a more centrally located site in early January by the Lake Mary Woman's Club which sponsors the community project. Action came when club members voted to rent space in the new annex of the Sjoblom building in the center of Lake Mary at the recent meeting and bazaar.

The vote came during a meeting and covered lunch luncheon at the Lake Mary Presbyterian Church where the club held the bazaar and accompanying hobby show for the benefit of the library. Mrs. Beth Gregory, chairman of the library, stated that "the purpose of the library is to serve all the people in the community and open hours convenient to patrons. The committee is unable to do this at the present location where they are hampered by lack of working space."

The committee feels that there will be more working and shelf space at the new location and they will be able to open hours that will coincide with the needs of the community.

Dedicated Teacher Wins Praise

MRS. ROBT. B. THOMAS JR. 322-5735

Mrs. Emma Lee Kittles, one of nine children, from the age of 12 had had a strong desire to receive an education and to find her place in society. She found that it was impossible to reach this goal, because she had to quit school and aid in supporting her younger sisters and brothers in getting their education.

Yet through all of this, she was not discouraged. Traveling as a migratory worker at such a tender age, she still had the desire for a better life for herself.

"I often asked my mother wasn't there an easier way to live other than traveling back and forth from one state to another? I wanted to settle in one place, a place we could call home," she said.

"I met Mother Wilson at the age of 16. Everything I had hoped for and dreamed of was there, at least a home and no more traveling."

Mother Ruby Wilson, director of Good Samaritan Home, said of "Sister Kittles," as she is affectionately known: "Having accepted the Holiness faith, she became a part of me. She left Sanford again with her parents. I was not pleased about not hearing from her. I went down on the 'Glades to get her' myself. She was 16 years old. She was engaged to become married. The following week, I married them in my church."

"Sister Kittles" has given 11 years of service to the Good Samaritan Home and three full years at Rest Haven Shelter Home. She has served as assistant teacher at the kindergarten since it began six years ago. "This is what she has done since when asked about her job at the home and taking care of the children who live at the home."

"To me, they are my children. They keep me alive and active. The children share. I feel that God has joined us together as a family. We teach them to be intelligent, to know what is required to become a good citizen, and to find their rightful place later in life."

"She also believes in daily devotion, reading the Bible, taking an active part in church activities, and to see them grow in the fear and admonition of the Lord."

Mrs. Emma Lee Kittles, one of nine children, from the age of 12 had had a strong desire to receive an education and to find her place in society. She found that it was impossible to reach this goal, because she had to quit school and aid in supporting her younger sisters and brothers in getting their education.

Patrol boys were Ronald Sutton and Richard Lamar. "I like to see my children happy and well-fed. Some say I spoil them, I guess I do. All children need love and attention, since children are my delight, then I am guilty."

"I was asked by one of the welfare workers if I ever became attached to the children when they came to the home? My reply was, 'How can you resist when they are so affectionate, cute, and begging for someone to love them.' I have shed tears when they departed either to their own home or to adoptive home, especially knowing the conditions they are going back into after leaving this shelter care here at Rest Haven Shelter Home."

"To fulfill her dreams, she was graduated from the Sanford High school June 1965 at the age of 29. "Sister Kittles" is a most devoted and devoted person to all who have needed her services at the Home and Rest Haven. She is to be congratulated for her devotion to those in need of love and care. May God bless you and your children, the children who need the love of a person with plenty to share."
