Tokyo Is Bombed By American Land-Based Fortresses

admitted some fires were started but insisted they were not caused by incendiary bombs. The city was bombed by reporting "practically no damage was suffered by important installations."

Gen. Arnold told President Roosevelt the operation was "in no sense a hit-and-run raid. It is a calculated extension of our air power, a systematic demolition of Japan's war production henceforth to be carried out with decisive force."

In the Philippines, four hundred American infantrymen have captured the Japanese bastion of Limon and have driven 1000 yards south in a sudden surprise of a battle which has actually destroyed the enemy's first division. Headquarters reported today the 32nd division entered today shell-battered Limon Wednesday in the biggest advance in more than two weeks.

The entire Yamashita line, which the Japanese depend to hold Leyte island, is in danger of being rolled up, the command said.

As heavy rains continued to lash the battle front, the Yank infantrymen drove through the mountain village to the nearby Leyte river.

Gen. MacArthur had identified Limon as apparently the Japanese-selected site for their major defensive battle to protect the vital Ormoc corridor. Capture of the town, said today's communique, means the Japanese have lost a "critical defensive line."

The announcement said rolling terrain lies ahead of the Yanks in their drive down the main highway toward Ormoc. Last night the Japanese line has suffered terrific losses from our artillery and superior infantry firepower.

"His First division has been practically destroyed."

Since the Americans agreed to Ormoc corridor, after capturing Pinampon early this month, vicious fighting has flared around Limon, about four miles by road south of Carigara bay. The Japanese dug into the town, utilizing favorable terrain, for a knockout battle.

The communique reiterated that American aggressive tactics had forced Japanese plans for a strong counter-attack, utilizing newly-landed reinforcements, and had placed them on the defensive. They were required to commit their troops in piecemeal attacks.

Resistance Stiffens On European Front

west of Julich, the American knocked out eight more German tanks, bringing the total destroyed on this front to 33.

In a "deluge of rain-lashed horizontal by driving tanks, the Ninth fought into Bourhem, less than two miles southeast of Julich, Kolar, about the same distance west and Barmen, two and a half miles northwest. No more than 200 yards ahead was the Roer itself, and 25 miles beyond lies the Rhineland industrial city of Cologne.

The Germans had dug in their great tanks, or kept them lurking in the ruined villages nearby, and were employing more and more 170-M.M. artillery.

In a two-mile thrust beyond fallen Eschweiler, the U. S. First Army edged into Weisweiler, 20 miles west of Cologne, but the doughboys were heavily beset on both the north and south, which was led by tanks.

"To the south, they were fighting trees by free through the last of the forest Hürtgen Forest, after throwing off two early morning counter-attacks, one of which was led by tanks.

A battle of tank against tank raged around the hamlet of Pütz, just north of Eschweiler, which the doughboys took this morning, lost to a counter-attack then regained. In 48 hours the town changed hands five times.

The Germans were fighting to keep this crack army from crashing through the Hürtgen Forest, an American officer declared that "there just wasn't anything in World War I to compare with this, and the boys haven't fought so hard in all the invasion."

The British Second Army on the northern edge of this front inside Germany seized Hoven and its strategic heights three miles north of Gledenkirchen while other forces fought through West three miles northwest of Gledenkirchen.

From 10 to 20 miles to the northwest of this front the Germans were pushing out all Holland west of the Mass River, the face of other elements of the British Second, which drove within three miles of the Meuse, although the Yanks delayed only by thick mine fields.

German accounts said without Allied confirmation that the British had opened a big-scale assault along the Meuse, and were believed to be striking northward toward the Ruhr from positions around Nijmegen, near the northern terminal of the Siegfried Line.

A front dispatch said the British cut a new gap into the German line, by taking three miles northwest of Yver, further imperiling the enemy land at the threshold of the Ruhr.

The lightning advances to Strasbourg placed the Allies on three sides of Col. Gen. Johannes Blaskowitz's Nineteenth Army, and the U. S. Seventh and French First Armies were putting the squeeze on an estimated six to ten German divisions, estimated to total 70,000 men.

The French on the south who made the first break-through earlier this week reached Battenheim despite two counter-attacks, and at that point were 18 miles south of Colmar.

Between these two forces Germans alone more than 50 miles of the rain-washed Rhine must escape over three bridges and boats, barges and pontoons if they are to escape entrapment.

The Americans were half way through Sedan Pass, south of the Saverne Pass, and French and Americans were well into St. Marie, Bonhomme and Schucht Passes stretching down through the Vosges toward Belfort.

The only resistance remaining in Belfort came from a pocket in the southeast part of the city.

and bring them back home again."

Thomas Brown, County War Reliance chairman expressed confidence that Seminole County would again exceed its quota in the war loan.

Prior to the speaking, the Seminole High School Band played the National Anthem and marches to which the white clad Colorettes put on an intricate drill.

After the speaking, APTAC entertainers, sent from Orlando by Capt. Donald B. Stratton and management of Sgt. Anthony Christing, put on a program of music, dancing and dancing.

"Mc. Slim" Fortner, announcer for the troupe, directed the drawing of tickets to give away a turkey and a great big donation by Frank Evans and other valuable prizes donated by Sanford merchants.

Shrill applause that echoes up the main street greeted the music of Cpl. Bert Fitzgerald, piano, Pvt. Al Leslie, bass fiddle and electric dancer, Pvt. Melville Smith, singing guitarist, Cpl. Jerry Eisenberg, accordion, Pfc. Foster who gave a singing imitation of Frank Sinatra as well as announcing, and WAC's Pfc. Jane Dook and Pvt. "Duz" Mortensen, singers.

"It is a pleasure to be here this evening to stimulate interest in the war effort," said Capt. Smoot. He then pointed out the increase in pace of our armed forces both in Europe and the Pacific.

"The invasion of France has come and we have carried the war into the homeland of the Germans. In the Pacific we have gradually pushed the war to their own front door. This has been a result of a determined and magnificent effort on the part of our fighting men."

Need of equipment and supplies for the fighting men was stressed by Capt. Smoot, and he urged that we "back up the boys" by donating the war funds in excess of the fast pace of our overseas forces. He told a story of a colored soldier who said "Sergeant I don't believe I'm going to last for the duration."

"That however is not so," said Capt. Smoot referring to a serious vein. "It is going to last a long time yet. The cost of running this war for one day is around 20 million dollars."

Mr. Lane then introduced Colonel J. Stone who said, "In the early days of the war after Pearl Harbor we were on the receiving end as you know. The war has changed now and we are pushing the enemy into a position of overwhining defeat in ships, airplanes and men."

He then added that we had been criticized for the way we had spent money but pointed out that by so doing "we are saving lives."

"We in this country do not really know what it is to be without the necessities of life," he continued. "Our fighting men are putting up with hardships we can't imagine. The best way we can show our thanks on this Thanksgiving is to buy war bonds and keep them."

Philippine Natives Are Said 99 Percent Loyal To America

CAMP BLANDING, Nov. 24. (Special)—"Native of the Philippine Islands are 99 percent loyal to America and, despite Japan's control of the native, there are many thousands of well-organized Filipino guerrillas ready to layo mountain hideouts to prove their allegiance to the United States."

This was the encouraging appraisal of the Far Eastern island people by two 31-year-old Philippine-born trainees of the Infantry Replacement Training Center at Camp Blanding. To safeguard the lives of their families still remaining on the island of Panay, the names of the two soldiers must be withheld.

But they know the Philippines. And they know the Japs. In 1942 when the "Rising Sun" horde invaded the Pacific island, they were active captains in General Douglas MacArthur's "United States Police in the Far East."

Then came the inevitable surrender, and the Filipino officers joined the Jap-hating guerrilla force to become first lieutenants in charge of supplies.

Three months after the surrender their Army was receiving U.S. supplies by submarine.

With thousands of other loyal Filipinos, the two constantly harassed the Jap occupying forces. Not the most bloody but perhaps the most bothersome of Jap measures of oppression in the Philippines were their clock-like "chicken patrols"—small foraging parties that went out on a regular schedule to steal every bit of food they could find in the native settlements. When a patrol neared a village, the people would take to the hills like rabbits.

After two years of underground activity, the two Filipino loyalists were widely hunted by the puppet Jap government and they were forced to escape to America—and freedom.

Then in March, 1944, began an arduous trip that sometimes saw them creeping and crawling, walking, riding on horseback, moving by sea and by air until their safe arrival in Port Darwin, Australia. From there they went to Brisbane by Army transport and on to San Francisco, where officials held them for six weeks before they were declared eligible for draft.

Faded in their memory are the horrifying atrocities and tortures the Filipinos have endured under the yoke of the barbarians from the north.

OPA Begins Drive To Check Rise In Clothing Prices

costs "must stop."

Greatest Threat

Bowles said that for the last 18 months "price rises in clothing have been the greatest threat to the program to hold the line on the cost of living."

"In my opinion," he added, "any increases in the cost of living, in the coming months, will stop completely as soon as (these) programs are fully effective."

He added, however, that despite these efforts "the clothing problem is as far as price control and supply are concerned — will be with us as long as the war is on."

Bowles said the new program followed many complaints from the public about the disappearance of low priced clothing, about deterioration of quality—which is really a price increase—and about rising prices for garments.

Mercury in thermometers took a nose dive Wednesday night down to the 34 degree mark, and it was reported by B. F. Williams, weatherman, Tuesday night's lowest recording was 37 degrees. No frost damage was reported.

Rev. Dr. Robert McCallin, pastor of the Park Lake Presbyterian Church of Orlando and brother of Dr. H. H. McCallin of this city, will speak on "Thanksgiving" at the regular luncheon of the Rotary Club at the Mayfair Hotel Monday.

The Sanford Merchants Association at its last meeting recommended that stores be kept open all day next Wednesday prior to Thanksgiving on Thursday. It was reported by W. V. Biting, Association president.

The sum of $12.20, representing tickets and dinner bought by the club of the South Sea Cruise Club, was reported at the school.

Cement Breakwaters Floated over Channel

WITH U.S. FORCES IN FRANCE—Great concrete breakwaters built in England by United States Army Engineers were floated across the Channel shortly after D-Day to wall in the harbor improvised at the Normandy beach-heads. It has been revealed at Headquarters, Communications Zone.

The artificial harbors made possible the Allied successes in the Battle of France by solving one of the most important problems of supply. Through them a greater tonnage was shipped over the beach than could have been unloaded in almost any of the great Continental ports.

For months before D-Day, the Engineer soldiers worked in secret on a round-the-clock schedule to form the floating breakwaters. Finally the barges were pulled from the Thames Estuary into the Channel.

Looking like floating apartment houses, they were towed across to the shores of France. Water-tight compartments responsible for their buoyancy were opened then and the breakwaters sank in place.

One of the men who helped build them was Pfc. Abner E. Shaw of Sanford, who said "it was a tough job, but we didn't want any praise to boast our work," he says. "We knew what it was for."

Special training was needed for the job on the project. Two of the boys who built it were Staff Sergeant James B. Forster of Antioch, Wisconsin, a structural engineer with 18 years building experience with Marine Engineers at the time of the war.

Remember the words of the Lord Jesus, how He said—

"Neither do I condemn thee, go, and sin no more." — John 8:11.

How much more tender is Jesus than the tenderest of earthly friends! The apostles, in a moment of irritation would have called down fire from heaven on obstinate sinners. Their master rebuked the unkind suggestion. Peter, the trusted and treacherous disciple, expected no thing but harsh and merited reproof for his faithlessness.

He, who knew well how that heart would be bowed in penitent sorrow, sends first the kindest of messages and then the gentlest of rebukes, "Lovest thou me?"

The watchman in the canticles smote the bride, tore off her veil, and loaded her with reproaches. When she found her lost Lord, there was not one word of upbraidings, so slow is He to anger, says an illustrious believer, so ready to forgive, that when the prophets lost all patience with the people so as to make intercession against them, yet even then He could not be got to cast off His people whom He foreknew, for His sinners to whom He speaks this comforting word was frowned upon by her accusers. But if others spurned Her from their presence, "Neither do I condemn thee."

Well it is to fall into the hands of this blessed Savior — God, for great are His mercies.

Are we to infer from this that He winks at sin? Far from it. His blood, His work at Bethlehem and valiant, repulse the thought! Ere the guilt of one solitary soul could be washed out, He had to ascend from His everlasting throne to agonize on the accursed tree. But this "word of Jesus" is a word of encouragement to every sincere, brokenhearted sinner, that crimson sins and scarlet sins, are no barriers to a free, full, everlasting forgiveness. The Israelite of old, gasping in his agony in the sands of the desert, had but to "look and live!" And still does He say, "Look unto me and be ye saved all the ends of the earth."

Upgraded by the side of His own cross there was a monumental column for all time, only second to itself in wonder. O'er the head of the dying felon is the superscription written for displaying guilt and trembling penitence. This is a faithful saying and worthy of all acceptance that Jesus Christ came into the world to save sinners. He never yet says Charon put out a candle that was lighted at the sun of righteousness. Whatever our guiltiness must be, says Rutherford, yet when it falleth into the sea of God's mercy, it is but like a drop of blood fallen into the great ocean. And all wonder at the gracious words that proceeded out of His mouth.

We are cutting short this little sermonette to ask you for a little information. As we have received some words of cheer concerning this weekly message, we are now wondering how many are reading it and how many are proving a blessing to you. Will you drop me a card? Can you lend you a hand as a minister of God's love?

The spirit of the Lord God is upon me because the Lord hath anointed me to preach good tidings to the meek. He hath sent me to bind up the broken hearted, to proclaim liberty to the captives and the opening of the prison to them that are bound.

IT'S TIME FOR THE KNOCKOUT!

It's all out, America! Every American must throw his Victory punch during the Sixth War Loan, now in progress. As our fighting men move on the road to Tokyo, we must back the attack to victory the only way we can—with our pocketbooks! So buy at least one extra $100 Bond during the drive, for more if you can!

The Nation's goal in the Sixth War Loan is $4,000,000,000. Think that's big? It's going to take more tanks, more planes, aircraft carriers, more ships, and oil to crush the Japs than we need for the entire European invasion. Think what that means and decide now to buy Bonds and throw your Victory punches on the Home Front!

DRYFARM UNDER SNOW
(From The Sonnetter) CORDED like chiseled stone, these fields deny
The living grain beneath their grooves. This bill,
Now under arises of frozen skill, Quickened and warmed, in quivering green shall lie.
Then on the ears of men the strident cry
Of gulls shall fall like raindrops and the trill
Of blackbird choruses shall rise until All duller tones are crowded from the sky.

Each year this white gives way to living green.
That warms to gold beneath a summer sun.
Then blunted spines a white returning snow.
From dormant furrows I have learned to glean
One sheaf of truth before all gleaming done
Such is the pattern for the one who sows.

Well, 130 million Americans will probably want them, but those who buy War Bonds now will be able to buy them.

Speaking of President Roosevelt as the Commander-in-Chief, Admiral William D. Leahy, chief of staff, says that the President's ways accept the military and naval plans presented to him by his chiefs of staff. "The President frequently expresses opinions," says Admiral Leahy "but has always accepted the plans presented to him by his chiefs of staff."

Union men have no use for non-union men, we gather from a statement by Joseph Padway, labor attorney, speaking at the AFL convention: "If Arkansas and Florida attempt to enforce open-shop laws," he says, "our answer will be that the printers will not print the bricklayers will not lay brick, and members of the other trades will say down their tools rather than work with scabs."

In Boston five thousand truck drivers are still out on strike following a demand by 34 truck drivers for an accounting of union funds. Union officials were indignant, kicked the protesting truck drivers out of the union, whereupon all truck drivers struck in protest. Meanwhile, other Bostonians don't know where their next meal is coming from as food, frequently spilling overnight piles up in the city's warehouses.

A New York newspaper explains why there is a cigarette shortage, pointing out first that there is really no shortage at all, actually more consumption than ever before. In the big department stores in the cities where thousands of girl clerks "wait on the trade," it is against the law to smoke during working hours on account of the fire hazard. But in this day and time, with help from "it" girls, smoke anyway, smoke two packages a day, "waiting on the trade" between shifts. It may take a big department store fire to overcome the cigarette shortage.

Farm Medical Care

Home demonstration agents of the Department of Agriculture, assembled in Washington for a conference on the outlook for farm-family living, heard among other things a tentative plan for rural medical service, outlined by Dr. Thomas Parran, Surgeon General of the Public Health Service.

Dr. Parran suggests that such service be organized on a state-wide basis, with a base hospital and medical school as a nucleus in each State. There would be district hospitals in strategically located smaller cities, and health centers in wholly rural areas. The whole state would thus be covered with a cooperating network. Patients could go from local centers to district hospitals and, if very specialized work were required, to the base hospital. This system, he feels, would give to rural physicians the facilities needed for modern medical practice, and end their present isolation from current scientific developments.

A further prediction was the development of group medical care in the post-war era, probably to include farmers, who are not reached by present city hospital insurance systems.

Problem Of Helgoland

Internationalizing is tending to replace annexation by one country, as a means of disposing of troublesome regions.
It is now suggested for Helgoland by Wilson Harris, a British writer on World affairs.

Helgoland is a German island in the North Sea, 36 miles from the mouth of the Elbe River and about 100 from Hamburg. Once Danish, it came into British possession during the Napoleonic wars, and so remained until 1890. Then Prince Bismarck, the astute German chancellor, persuaded Lord Salisbury, the British premier, to trade it for Zanzibar in East Africa. Germany then proceeded to turn Helgoland into another Gibraltar. During the last war it was a shield for the submarines that preyed on Allied commerce, and in this war has given valuable protection to the German fleet.

After the last war Danzig, a German city which was at the same time Poland's chief outlet to the Baltic Sea, was internationalized because of the difficult racial problem involved. Helgoland's population is so small that no great injustice would be done if it were annexed outright to the British Empire. If, however, Great Britain does not wish to take on any more responsibilities, internationalization might be a solution.

Conquered Plague

American soldiers who go to out-of-the-way parts of the world sometimes encounter out-of-the-way diseases. One such is malaria, which some have picked up in the Pacific, but which our medical men know how to meet. Quinine will do the trick; therefore so much quinine has been reserved for our armed forces that physicians find it hard to get for its occasional use here.

Except in a few restricted areas the need for quinine is slight in most of the United States. If our ancestors return to earth, our mastery of malaria would not be the least of their surprises. Known as "ague" or "chills and fever," this disease harassed thousands, especially in badly drained regions. Dickens painted a gruesome picture, yet one not greatly overdrawn, of the haggard sufferers whom his heroes found in the Ohio and Mississippi valleys. Those days are gone.

They will not be brought back, either, by returning soldiers. "They can't bring malaria back," declares Dr.
Morris Fishbein, editor of the Journal of the American Medical Association, "unless they bring the mosquitoes with them, and we'll see to it that they don't do that."

Twenty-Three Children

A picture of Lena and her 23 pups, introduced to the nation at Philadelphia's 50th dog show, makes people do a little thinking. How long would it take, for instance, for Lena and her brood of foxhounds, with a good break and plenty of dog biscuit, to populate the earth and crowd man into a corner, Dean Swift came near to that idea when he wrote his famous satire about the horses who used men for slaves.

Probably Lena's family has no such intentions. And it must be admitted that Adam's family, an odd offshoot of primitive life that walks on two legs instead of four, seems to have plenty of fair control of the situation. But who knows what might happen in the next million years, if a strain of unusually large and intelligent dogs, developed perhaps in the unknown wilds of Australia, and multiplying according to the once famous "skiddoo" number, arrived and proceeded to take charge of the mundane situation?

EFFECTIVE WEAPON
FLORIDA TIMES-UNION

California has found the solution to the problem that is forever faced by the public in dealing with men who try to ride into public office on promises of large handouts of one kind or another from the public treasury.

People of the Pacific Coast States apparently grew tired of reference to California as the breeding place of crooked ideas and schemes, which have been growing in recent years, and decided to do something about it.
They devised a simple method, tried it out at the recent election, and it worked so effectively that other States may be expected to follow suit.

All the Californians did was to require that to each proposal to give away money, must be attached a tax measure calculated to raise the sum to be given away.
The plan was tested on a recent proposal to the people of the State for a $60-40-40 pension. As a part of the measure was a three per cent tax on gross income, which would take three per cent of all the income of all the people of California.

This proposed method of direct taxation caused the voters to think before casting their ballots.
They knew that approval of the proposal would mean they had automatically voted away three dollars out of every $100 earned, and they didn't approve it.
If a law were on the statute books of every State making it mandatory for every tax spending proposal to carry with it as part of the measure a means of raising the money to be spent, much more care would be used in framing proposals. And many astroturf schemes would be saved

Black Market Called
Reason For Order
Cutting Off Supplies

PARIS, Nov. 24, (AP)—As American troops in Paris went into their second week without cigarettes there appeared to be no immediate relief in sight for them. Although their rations were suspended so that front-line troops could smoke merit the fundamental reason for the shortage is the astounding growth of the black market in France. There are still lots of cigarettes in Paris, but most of them are probably in the hands of French civilians.

In one large French port 40 per cent of all American cigarettes brought ashore have been going to the black market, according to an officer who is in a position to know the facts. Other large quantities disappear somewhere between the ports and final distribution points—from depots or while they are being transported on trains and trucks.

Troops in Paris and other places within the communications zone were cut down so that those cigarettes that eluded the black marketers would go to fighting troops. The latter, for a long time, had been getting an average of only a couple of packages weekly, and in some units even less.
One French regiment, living privately on American rations, got sixteen cigarettes per man for the entire month of October.

Realizing the importance of cigarettes for the troops' morale, Army authorities cut the rear cessions from seven to five packages weekly, then, at the beginning of last week, to nothing at all.

Transport priority for cigarettes was raised from four to one. According to the latest report from the front, thanks to these measures the troops have been getting fuller rations in some sectors. Meanwhile, back here the shortage has become

Group Is Formed
To Promote Farm
Telephone Service

A joint committee of representatives of Bell and Independent operating telephone companies throughout the United States has been formed to advance the nation-wide postwar programs which the various telephone companies have been working on individually—to extend and improve Farm Telephone Service.
It was announced today by E. V.
Turner, manager of the Telephone Company.

Co-chairman of the Committee is John P. Boylan, president of the United States Independent Telephone Association, the National organization of the thousands of Independent Telephone Companies, and Keith S. Mc-Hugh, vice president of the American Telephone and Telegraph Company, representing the Bell Operating Companies.

Rural Telephone Service is more highly developed in this country, under the American System of Enterprise, than in any other country in the world.
Mr. Boylan and Mr. McHugh said today in a statement issued by them for the Committee. However, it is by no means as highly developed as the industry wants to see it, and they said the industry intends to do everything in its power to provide more service and better service, at a cost which the farmer can afford.

"Since operating telephone companies throughout the whole country have been working on this problem, a representative joint-committee has been formed, consisting of a number of their most experienced officials, the statement said. "We believe that the application of new facilities and methods which were under development by the industry before the demand of war interrupted our research and construction program will help to bring telephone service to many new farm customers. As soon as war demands are reduced, we propose to resume and expand our research effort and, along with it, the intensive program for extending farm service which was being carried on before the outbreak of hostilities."

Over one-half million miles of telephone pole lines serving rural areas have already been built so that more than two-thirds of all rural families in the United States can be served from existing lines. Since 1935 more than 500,000 additional families in rural areas have become telephone subscribers—an increase of 38 per cent. One of the major objectives is to continue this upward trend by making the service over existing lines increasingly valuable and attractive.
This the industry intends to do to the limit of its ability.

OFF THE ELBOW

The two Thanksgivings make it difficult and confusing to decide when to observe the holiday and although Florida's Thanksgiving is next week, the girls from F.S.U. at Tallahassee have arrived home for the second. ANN WIGGINS sprouted wings to get here soon as possible to see her sis, DOTTIE BOLT, just in from California. And the families of MARY PERKINS and SHIRLEY SMITH along with many Sanford persons who have relatives coming in from out of the State, are celebrating now. VIRGIE, HARRY, MAX and husband, WOLFE, are observing the holiday now for another reason. It is their first anniversary. BRUCE BOLT says the nervousness of being a commissioned officer hasn't worn off—he received his aviator wings a whole week ago and has been rubbing his gold bars dull so they won't shine "too". MARY RAWLINS and several helpers follied Christmas tuberculosis seals and you will get them next week. Taking part in "folding bees" all over Sanford were MRS. FRED DYSON, MRS. MARGARET HICKSON, MRS. E. I. HOY, MISS BLANCHE KENNEDY, MISS FRANCES FRENETTE, MISS ELIZABETH DYSON and the nurses of the local hospitals who worked at their cottages. end.

 Mrs. Leavitt pointed out that there is a shortage of doctors and nurses in Sanford, and declared that "during this emergency, there is no better time than right now for you mothers and home makers to be properly trained to care for your sick. No one should pass up the opportunity to take advantage of this course which will be taught by a trained nurse."

Valorous Stand By U. S. Saved Antwerp Drive

Hdqts. Tells How 7th Armored Division Held Off Germans

WITH THE NORTHERN GROUP OF ARMIES, Nov. 21, (AP)—A valorous stand by the American 7th Armored Division late in October in southeastern Holland saved the British-Canadian Antwerp campaign from possible disaster, it was announced officially this week.

The 7th delayed and finally helped stop a strong German counter-attack against the eastern side of the British 2nd Army salient into Holland. The Americans were outnumbered three to one.

"The Yanks slugged it out toe to toe with the superior enemy forces," a spokesman said. "Each company fought like a battalion. Each squad fought like a company and each man fought like a lion. Unbelievable heroism was the order of the day."

When the 7th was moved into southeastern Holland to protect Lieutenant General Sir Miles Dempsey's right flank during the month-long campaign to clear the northern and western approaches to Antwerp, its armor was stretched precariously thin over a twenty-two-mile sector around Meijel.

Knowledge of the situation evidently leaked through to the Germans, for on Oct. 27 when Dempsey's drive was rolling the Germans back toward the Meuse in western Holland and Canadians were liquidating the Nazis along the Scheldt—Field Marshal Rudolf Gerd von Rundstedt aimed a mighty counter-attack squarely at the Americans.

For an hour and ten minutes before dawn, German artillery rained shells on the American positions. The town of Meijel was assaulted first.

Forty-three Americans of a cavalry reconnaissance squadron—the headquarters platoon of "C" Company and a platoon of assault guns were pitted against 200 German infantry men backed by Panther and Tiger tank formations.

The Americans were forced to fall back, but joined forces with "B" troops of their outfit, counter-attacked and kept the Germans busy the rest of the day.

The German 21st Panzer Division and 15th Paratrooper Grenadier Division smashed at the Americans at Heistak, slightly to the north.

Dempsey ordered reinforcements into the critical battle and told the Americans to hold on.

For two days and a night Nazi tanks fired at the Americans, dug in deep in marshy ground. But when the enemy tanks tried to break through, a few Americans popped out of their foxholes and let go with bazookas.

Perhaps the greatest compliment to the 7th came from the German radio—a grim joke at the time to the men in the line. German forces, Berlin said, were engaged in "very heavy fighting with numerically superior forces."

Drunken Driving Is Principal Charge In Municipal Court

Heavy fines and loss of driver's licenses continuing to be the penalty imposed on those found guilty in City Court of the charge of driving while drunk.

Stetson on Archie Key Ward whose bond of $200, put up on a charge of drunken driving, was estimated, and whose bond of $51 on a charge of using abusive language was also estimated. On Nov. 17, A. Corzang was fined $100 and costs for driving while drunk. Bond of $101 of Hobart Haynes on a like charge, was estimated on Nov. 20.

On Nov. 17, bonds of $101 each of four negroes, Jim McGriff, Alex Mitchell, Allen Mitchell and Bert Adams was estimated, and $101 bond on Nov. 20 of another negro, Horace King, whose case had been continued.

Other negro cases and charges were: Helen Hill, negro, drunk, unclean, disorderly conduct and making threats, $20 fine or 60 days; J. W. Moore, assault and battery, $51 bond estimated; Calvin Baker, $20 bond estimated; Hilt Duval, reckless driving, $6 bond estimated; Oney McCoy, turning stop sign, $3 bond estimated.

Talk Reported Between Brazil And Argentina

Vargas Agent Said To Have Met Secretly With Uruguayan

WASHINGTON, Nov. 24. (AP)—High diplomatic quarters here gave credence this week to reports that a meeting of major inter-American importance was held two weeks ago in Uruguay by Orlando L. Peluffo, Foreign Minister of the officially ostracized Argentine government, and an emissary of President Getulio Vargas of Brazil.

The secret day-long conference, which is understood to have been suggested by the Argentine Foreign Minister, does not indicate that Brazil has any intention of abandoning the present American republics' policy of non-recognition toward Argentina, it was learned.

The meeting is best explained, it was said, by the Brazilian desire, which is shared by a number of other Latin American nations, to make a constructive contribution toward re-establishing inter-American solidarity. As a result of the conference the Brazilian government may be able to indicate to the other Western Hemisphere governments what the Argentine regime wishes to discuss at a meeting of all the American foreign ministers, according to diplomatic sources. Such a conference has been proposed by Argentina, but has not as yet been officially agreed to by the American republics.

So far as could be learned the Uruguayan government is not to be aware that Peluffo and President Vargas's emissary met at Colonia, a small Uruguayan port less than fifty miles from Buenos Aires.

Diplomatic sources interested in the continuing search for an answer to the Argentine proposal regarding a conference of foreign ministers. The proposal, which was delivered by the Argentine government to the Pan American Union on Oct. 28, has been a matter of consultation since that date among the American republics. There is no official indication how soon the proposal will be acted upon and likewise no official hint whether it will be accepted. Unofficially, however, most of the nations that have broken relations with the Argentine government are understood to favor granting the Buenos Aires request.

The question of determining the correct method for dealing with the Argentine situation has imposed the most severe strain on inter-American solidarity since the Good Neighbor Policy was inaugurated, according to diplomatic sources. President Vargas's willfulness to send a representative to confer with the Argentine Foreign Minister was not regarded.

World Council Seat Suggested For Roosevelt

Capital Hears President May Serve As American-Delegate

WASHINGTON, Nov. 24. (AP)—The possible selection of President Roosevelt as the American delegate to the proposed International Security Council is being suggested in Administration circles.

According to this idea the President would continue in office while taking on the new post, thus setting a precedent which his successors might wish to follow.

Proponents said the advantages of picking the Chief Executive as United States member of the planned eleven-man peace council would be:

1. It would dramatize the peace organization for the American people.
2. The President of the United States would lend prestige to the council, and this would give his voice added weight in its deliberations.
3. He could make quick decisions without referring them home, and might be better able to get Congressional and popular support for actions of the international agency than another representative.

Officials suggested that a deputy delegate would be named also, so that the council could be in continuous session without requiring prolonged absences of the Chief Executive from his domestic duties.

Since the question is receiving attention in Washington, it is considered probable that Mr. Roosevelt, Prime Minister Churchill and Marshal Stalin will discuss at their forthcoming meeting the level on which the peace council should be organized.

Presumably, if President Roosevelt represented the United States the other chiefs of state would represent their governments.

The still unsettled problem of how to choose the representative undoubtedly will be taken up with Congress and a formula may be included when submitting legislation for the Dumbarton Oaks plan is introduced.

One possibility is an executive-legislative committee to advise the United States representatives on the council, although the Dumbarton Oaks plan contemplates that he will be free to take specific decisions without submitting them for Congressional approval.

U.S. 1st Army Takes Hurtgen At Roer River

Third Army Broadens Punch Into Germany French Capture 12 Strassbourg Forts

LONDON, Nov. 27. (AP)—About 500 American fighters were shot down in a strafing sweep taking them within 70 miles of Berlin. There were 122 shot down yesterday.

On Europe's western front the U.S. First Army battling through the bloody Hurtgen forest broke into the town of Hurtgen, 2 1/2 miles from the Roer River and captured Frenz. This assault toward Duren is gathering power.

To the south, the Third Army broadened its punch into Germany and broke through the reversed Maginot Line defenses. The Seventh Army spread out upon the Rhine beyond the confluence drive. The French took 12 forts near Strassbourg, and also two German generals.

The U.S. Ninth Army pushed into Kolar, two miles west of Julich, and repulsed Nazi counterattacks.

The British on the northern flank of this sector advanced 500 yards, winning the high ground commanding the Worm valley. In Holland, the German salient west of Maastricht was virtually eliminated.

The Double Russian offensive was rolling against Budapest on the eastern front and into Slovakia. Tanks drove beyond Havan, 25 miles northeast of Budapest. Berlin reported the Soviets had won a foothold on Capet Island downriver from Budapest.

In Haiti the United States and the Americans farther inland won the mountain and half a dozen villages. (Continued on Page Three)

Rev. McCaslin Is Main Speaker At Rotary Luncheon

Orlando Pastor Explains Wheel As Symbol Of Rotary

In a talk on the philosophy of Rotary, in which he explained "the tenets of our faith," Rev. Dr. Robert McCaslin of the Park Lake Presbyterian Church, Orlando, who had presided at the luncheon of the Sanford Rotary Club, explained that he had visited here at various times for the past 25 years and added that whenever the Orlando Rotary club wanted a good program they sent for Charles Morrison, declared today that the real test of Rotary lies not so much in the smooth congenial atmosphere of the luncheon club as in how we comport ourselves on the street and in the market place where we encounter the vicissitudes of life which are constantly seeking to destroy the ideals we profess as Rotary.

Introduced by Rev. Frank Pulley, who explained that Dr. McCaslin was himself a Rotarian who had come to Orlando from pastorate in Jacksonville, Montgomery and Memphis, Dr. McCaslin was the principal speaker at the regular luncheon of the Rotary Club at the Mayfair Hotel. He said that the symbol of Rotary is the wheel, which he characterized as one of the greatest inventions of all time, upon which virtually all progress and development throughout the world is dependent.

Naming the various spokes of the wheel upon which Rotary is suspended, he said that the wheel is the symbol of our service and that Rotary is genuinely concerned with the progress of the community and the happiness and welfare of all its people. Stagnation, he characterized as a satisfaction with past achievements. Declaring that Rotary is opposed to materialism which he called one of the greatest evils in the world today, he pointed out that the Rotary motto is (Continued on Page Three)

Seminole Graduate Is Killed In Action

Death in action of Tillman B. Whitmore, WT-375 USN, a graduate of Seminole High School in 1940, and a resident of Sanford, was recently revealed in a Naval communication to his mother, Mrs. Mattie Whitmore, 238 Burleigh Avenue, Daytona Beach.

The Navy's notification said that Whitmore was serving with the U. S. Buck which was torpedoed and sunk while on anti-submarine patrol in the Tyrrian Sea south of the Isle of Capri. The severity of the explosion caused the ship to sink rapidly and a thorough search next day revealed no survivors.

Mr. Whitmore, who joined the Navy in 1940, grew up in Sanford and attended local schools. The family spent their summers at Daytona Beach for the past 15 years and most of the members live there now.

In addition to the mother, he is survived by six sisters, W.A.R. Nancy Whitmore of the W.C.A. at Nepler Field, Ala.; Mrs. Clara Collins, Mrs. Vera Hardy, Mrs. Alice Whittington, Barbara Whitmore and Stella Whitmore, all of Daytona Beach; two brothers, Jack Whitmore of Daytona Beach and Murray Whitmore of the Navy.

In April, 1944, Tillman Whitmore was home on leave after a period spent on escort duty in the Atlantic.

Hull Resigns As Secretary Of State

Byrnes, Wallace And Stettinius Are Mentioned As Possible Successors To Post

WASHINGTON, Nov. 27. (AP)—President Roosevelt today announced the resignation of Secretary of State Cordell Hull. It is to become effective upon the appointment of his successor, the President said. He had nothing to say about who the successor would be.

Roosevelt said the 73-year-old Tennesseean would remain in close touch with him, acting as an adviser on foreign policy. Secretary Hull's health was reported to have caused his resignation.

The veteran Secretary of State is ill in the Navy Hospital at Bethesda, Md. His condition was not described as serious, but was reported such that he is expected to take a lengthy rest.

There was immediate speculation that the choice of his successor may lie among War Mobilization Director James F. Byrnes, Vice President Henry A. Wallace, or Undersecretary of State Edward R. Stettinius Jr.

Friends who have seen Hull recently quote the 73-year-old secretary as having come to the reluctant decision that he must step out before completing arrangements for American participation in an international security organization. He long had sponsored a plan of this nature as an assurance for future peace.

There were indications that Byrnes may have strong Congressional support for the cabinet post. Vice President-elect Harry S. Truman was reported to be lacking Wallace, and also has influential friends, both in and out of the cabinet who would like to see him succeed to the place.

Bolles Military Defeats Sanford By 25 To 12 Score

Passing Of Jaffe Is Foiled By Interference Of Feds

Robot bomb passing of a back quarter Jaffe coupled with the interception habits of a left and right Whitley spelled a 25 to 12 defeat for the hard fighting Bolles against Sanford in the Bolles Military Academy of Jacksonville.

The first quarter was a scoreless affair marked by fumbles and stone wall defensive plays on both sides with neither scoring. Jaffe was unable to connect with his long robot bomb passes due to alert Fed interceptors by Callahan and Tullum. The latter found his knee going bad and had to retire from the game in the second quarter.

Robert Bolles went in for eight half back passes and did some fine ripping to his left knee injury put him out of the game.

Toward the end of the second quarter, Bolles, finding the passing route ineffective, kicked to the Fed 9 yard line, the Feds fumbled and Bolles recovered, and paced by backs Warner and Bolles made the first score. The run for the extra point failed and at the end of the half the score stood Bolles 6, Sanford 0.

In the third quarter, Whitley intercepted a pass and ran 55 yards for a touchdown for Bolles. A bot later Whitley again snared a pass, this time from the Sanford 5 yard line. Gilly made the touchdown and Bolles ran the extra point making it 19 to 0.

In the fourth quarter, a long pass from Jaffe to right end Milan, resulted in another Bolles touchdown bringing the score up to 25 to 0.

After the game began to come back with a passing attack, including a 16 yard end run by Sandler, and later Callahan another attack, a pass to Brooklyn connected, and Wathen, substitute back scored. Conversion failed and the game ended, Bolles 25, Sanford 12.
