America Chooses

During the past few weeks a number of developments in the field of U. S. foreign affairs have given indication of the way America will choose to go in its political and economic relationships with the rest of the world through-out the next decade or so.

First we cut loose from the Philippines. Those distant islands in the far Pacific, the outposts of the American empire, have been a constant source of difficulty and political intrigue. Now we are going to give them their freedom.

Next, an embargo is declared against further shipments of arms and ammunition to either of those warring South American countries, Paraguay and Bolivia. There is good money in such sales of war supplies, profits for capitalists and labor for workmen.

Finally, a new treaty has been arranged with Cuba, abrogating the Platt amendment. The United States will no longer have the right to interfere in Cuba's domestic affairs, no matter how bloody some communistic revolution may become, or how many times that little ship of state may change hands.

So the United States withdraws within its shell. Thirty-five years ago we set out to liberate oppressed people. We saved Cuba from the iron yoke of foreign rule. We rescued the Philippines from the diabolical tyranny of a Spanish monarch.

These, according to Berton Braley, in the Literary Digest, are phrases which to the ordinary citizen are common enough, but to the so-called intelligentsia are simply Greek, for instance: overhead, jobbing, turnover, spread, profit, and loss.

CUSTER'S LAST STAND

BY EDWIN C. HILL

In an effort to comply with the will of Mrs. George Custer, who died recently, patriotic societies in Montana and Wyoming are seeking to establish a national museum on the battlefield of Little Big Horn.

Only the episodes of the Alamo and the Lost Battalion of the Argentine are comparable in our history to the tragedy of June 25, 1876, when five troops of the Seventh United States Cavalry were wiped out to the last man by an overwhelming force of Sioux and Cheyenne up there on that little river in Montana.

The widow of their general survived him and the battle for 57 years, and it was her last wish that his accoutrements, uniforms, photographs and souvenirs of the frontier war should be preserved in a museum on the site of the engagement.

White markers in the hills of Montana show today where Custer made his last stand and the bodies of the men of the Seventh Cavalry lie in the dust. National Cemetery. The two oldest Indian schools of this commonwealth, the Smithsonian Institution, Washington, and the University of North Dakota, are the only institutions in the United States which have a copy of the "Yellow Hair" book.

Most newspaper men start from the lack of vision in a wedding and press it to the fore. Yet, there are exceptions. Occasionally an editor is found who will paint a word picture of a wedding which is not only a picture of a wedding, but a picture of a life.

Miss Margaret Davis' Pupils Give Recital

With a large number of friends and relatives in attendance, the piano pupils of Miss Margaret Davis presented a recital Wednesday evening at the Woman's Club on Oak Avenue. Mrs. George C. Harden, soprano, assisted on the program.

Reds Beat Kissimmee, 5 to 4, In Fast Tilt Featured By Cowboys' 9th Frame Rally

MANAGER Ed Rive's Sanford Cowboys scored a 5 to 4 victory over the Kissimmee Reds in the Municipal Park yesterday afternoon after a tilt which saw the very stage a ninth inning rally at full speed at the tying run.

At the same time, the Vero Beach Jaycees dropped a 4 to 3 decision at Cocoa when their late hitting rally also was short.

The local game marked the debut of Elder Mattair, left-handed pitcher who made good. The youth pitched hitless ball for four innings, and, until the ninth, he had given up but four hits, two of them scratch.

The Kowboys fell on him in the ninth, however, three singles and a double counting three runs, with some observers believing that more hits would have followed had not Yowell, whose double had cleared the bases, been tagged out in a fast play at third when he tried to stretch the hit into a triple.

The tilt also marked the debut of Bryant Böhner, younger brother of the flashy Paul Bonner of the 1933 club. The youngster failed to get a hit in four tries, but he handled himself perfectly afield. He is a dead ringer for his brother, and there is every reason to believe that he will do in this league.

As it developed, the Reds earned only two of their five runs, and as a result, the Kowboys lost another game because of their own errors. All of the Kissimmee runs were earned.

The Reds scored first. Paul Mansfield smacked a double into right field to open the second inning. He went to second when shortstop Duke messed up a perfect peg from catcher Allen, and he scored when Roy Britt hit a sharp single into center field.

The second Red run came in the third inning. Mattair reached second when Duke threw wide of first base on an easy out. Smith singled sharply along the third base line, scoring Mattair. The side was retired when Owens' roller hit Smith in the heel; Owens was out stealing second, and Abbott struck out.

The final Red runs came in the fifth, and with two out, Mattair again reached first on an error, Tyler's throw to first pulling Bova off the bag. Smith drew a walk, sending Mattair to second. Owens singled into left field, scoring Mattair and sending Smith to third, and Abbott singled almost to the same field, scoring two runners. Mansfield fled out.

Old Larry Chubb held the Reds to two hits the rest of the way.

The first Kissimmee run came in the sixth, with one out. Yowell doubled into right field and scored on Allen's single to center, after which Britt made a great running catch of Mach's long hit to left field, and Hansell also fled out to Britt.

Fine infield work by Smith and Kelly helped Mattair out of the pinches in the seventh and eighth but the Kowboys opened up in the ninth to keep the customers on edge.

Hansell opened with a double to left field. He went to third on Murphy's infield out, and he scored on Manager Sam Story's single to right. Snyder, running for Story, went to second on Duke's single past third, and Bova fled out. With two on and two out, and the count three and two, Yowell doubled to deep center, scoring Snyder and Duke. Fast relaying of the ball by Mansfield to young Bonner to Kelly saved the day and retired the side.

A feature of the tilt was the general all-around work of Wilson Smith at short. His two singles were timely, and his fielding was near perfect. He had good support from Kelly, Bova, and Bonner all Sunday, the Reds will be at Cocoa. There they will have a chance to go into a first place tie with the league leaders, and all of the Reds were heard saying after yesterday's game that they are going to win.

Manager Rive has stated that Lee Mansfield, right-hander who looked so good in his first start here last Sunday, will get the starting call on the mound. Rive believes the big fellow and his smoke ball will be hard to take, and, with his youngsters demonstrating that they can hit the ball, Rive looks for a Fed victory.

tional monetary action to stabilize monetary values and restore silver to the place it held as a precious metal before England's policy started its decline after the Napoleonic wars.

The views of conservatives during the House silver debate were summed up by Representative Luce, a Massachusetts Republican, who said the currency to be issued against the silver bought was "flat money."

By contrast, Fiesinger, who introduced a silver purchase bill of his own, called it a "sap" and a measure which would have little or no effect.

He and others assailed the proposal because it left the time and terms for the silver purchase to the discretion of the President. Supporters of the plan replied they had been assured that the Administration regarded the declaration of policy as mandatory and that Roosevelt and his secretary of the treasury would enthusiastically carry out the program.

Madman Gives Up Plan To Blow Self Up With Dynamite

"I have been planning suicide

for three years," police quoted the man as saying. "I considered several means of suicide and some time ago got a gun to shoot myself, but I was arrested for carrying it and placed on probation.

"I was laid off as a mechanic three years ago, and have been sick and in the hospital several times."

About 300 feet from Bennett, a cordon of police watched. With them was Bennett's daughter, Virginia.

Some 1200 feet back of the police line stood the crowd. The officers had threatened to turn their shotguns upon anyone who ventured closer than the deadline set by them, believing an edgewise advance of the throng might nettle the madman or cause him to make a fatal move.

Toward midday Bennett delivered a warning to police that he hadn't quite made up his mind yet whether he would let go with the blast.

Up to that time only one officer, Policeman William Pries, who first spotted Bennett Wednesday afternoon at Neptune Beach and persuaded him to move away from that thickly populated section to the vacant marsh land, had been able to approach Bennett.

At first authorities did everything possible to keep the crowd entirely out of the district but people came to the scene during the day in increasing numbers as the news spread. Officers instructed the watchers to stand on tip toe and hold their mouths open to lessen the possible effects of concussion.

The wife of the madman, Mrs. Eula Bennett, 28, just out of a hospital after a major operation, was unable to leave her sick bed at home, but she told of her husband's despondency. She said he left home at 11:00 o'clock Wednesday morning. She described him as a World War veteran and a former interpreter for Maj. Gen. Smedley Butler, retired marine corps officer. Bennett took part in a Mexican campaign, she said, and with the switch in his hand.

A searchlight was turned on the automobile, as police kept up their watch. This morning officers again approached the man and asked him if he didn't want something to eat.

Every Effort Being Made To Delay Strikes

T. F. McMahon, president of the United Textile Workers of America, went to Johnson's office to discuss a walkout ordered for next Monday in a demonstration against a projected 25 percent cut in production advanced by NRA. The union spokesmen reported little progress had been made by the conference.

Toledo, Ohio—One-third of the 900 National Guardsmen rushed to Toledo to quell riots which grew out of a strike at the Electric Auto-Lite Company were ordered withdrawn and the remainder directed to stations in the army. Federal mediators strove to avert a walkout of employees of the Toledo Edison Company after it had been deferred one day.

Pekin, Ill.—Officials of the American Distillery Corporation plant met workers and R. C. Fox, representative of the department of labor, in a move to settle the strike which stopped operations last Tuesday. A one-day truce effected by Governor Horner prompted pickets to withdraw.

San Francisco—The strike of 25,000 longshoremen and other waterfront workers along the Pacific coast remained at an impasse after Sunday's riot in which two dozen persons were injured.

He refused food and water. Departing of their attempts to talk Bennett out of his plan, police then brought his young daughter from school.

Wearing a bright gingham dress and clutching her books under her arm, the girl waved to her father, who answered by a toss of his hand.

The little girl, between sobs, said her father had been an aviator during the World War and since had suffered a series of misfortunes which apparently had up to her mind.

"Daddy hasn't had anything to eat since breakfast Wednesday, and I'm afraid he is hungry," the child told officers.

Meanwhile, Bennett's attitude, which had been friendly and even joking, suddenly changed after he had permitted photographers and police to approach his infernal machine.

"No more photographs," Bennett shouted. "The next photograph who approaches will cause me to throw the switch."

"I'll make up my mind soon whether to blow us all up or whether to surrender peacefully," the man added.

Shortly afterwards he left his car and was seized by police.

"I surrendered because the government convinced me there is a chance for life and a job," he said. "I've been in the bread line for a year and I couldn't stand it any longer."

SIX BILLIONS FOR RELIEF GIVEN OKEY

Deficiency Bill Sent To House With Disregard For Request Made By Roosevelt

WASHINGTON, June 2.—(A.P.)—The general deficiency bill authorizing a potential $6,000,000,000 relief expenditure by President Roosevelt, was reported today to the House by its Appropriations Committee.

In submitting the measure, however, the committee disregarded the Chief Executive's request for unlimited discretionary power as to allocations of some funds, and it tied up certain items by mandatory provisions.

In the actual cash outlay from the treasury, the bill calls for $1,178,000,000 but it contains provisions that all the unused borrowing power of the Reconstruction Corporation, unspent FWA funds, savings brought about by the Economy Act of 1933, and unexpended farm administration relief monies may be transferred to feed and clothes the hungry.

The RFO also is given power to buy obligations issued by cities and states which have received grants from the FWA. The President requested $1,223,000,000 for relief purposes, but of that $180,000,000 already has been appropriated by Congress under the Jones bill making cattle a basic commodity.

MART CONTROL BILL IS SENT TO PRESIDENT

Senate Adopts Report Minus Record Vote; 5 To Rule Exchange Under Act's Set-Up

WASHINGTON, June 2.—The Stock Exchange Control bill reached the end of a long, disputatious pathway through Congress last night with final approval by both Houses.

House and Senate, without record votes and with little debate, accepted the conference report compromising controversies between the two branches, and the measure was dispatched to the White House for President Roosevelt's signature.

The Senate adopted the conference report without a record vote. The unanimity of the action was in sharp contrast to the conflict and controversy which accompanied the bill's previous course through Congress.

As finally approved yesterday, the bill provides for the creation of a new commission of five members, to be appointed by the President, to regulate the national stock exchanges.

Margin regulations will be set up by the federal reserve board to control advances of credit by banks or brokers on the purchase of securities.
