Disclosure Law May Drain Area Of Volunteers

Seminole County and its cities could lose more than one-third of the volunteers that serve on local advisory boards.

Thirty-six percent of the 500 such volunteers missed their disclosure filing date, said Seminole Supervisor of Elections Sandy Goard, and may resign or face dismissal.

With the strict enforcement of the financial disclosure law by the state's Ethics Commission, four members of Sanford's Henry Shelton Sanford Memorial Library and Museum have already resigned and a fifth is preparing to resign.

Sanford City Commissioner Ned Yancey said the disclosure law applied to volunteer boards "is purely assinine."

And the Sanford City Commission Monday agreed to call on the Seminole County Legislative Delegation to introduce new law exempting volunteer boards from the financial disclosure requirement.

State Rep. Carl Selph, R-Casselberry, said Tuesday while he wouldn't go so far as to commit to support such special legislation, he doesn't believe it was intended by the lawmakers that the financial disclosure law would include such boards as the Sanford museum and library board of trustees.

"I question whether the law really envisions requiring financial disclosures by those, who serve on boards, making only advisory recommendations, when the real actually binding decisions are made by an elected body, which already files financial disclosures," Selph said.

"I would feel differently if a volunteer board made binding decisions that could inure to their personal benefit," Selph said.

Yancey said the museum trustees do not expend any money without the concurrence of the city commission.

Mrs. Goard said she suspects many of the 180 out of 500 Seminole County persons deemed by the ethics commission as serving in posts requiring financial disclosure, who missed the July 1 deadline for filing disclosure forms, will be resigning. And she suspects many of these 180 will be resigning.

The state commission has given them a grace period extending to Sept. 15 to get those disclosure forms executed and filed with Mrs. Goard's office.

While the law on financial disclosure is several years old, it was only in the past year, after a boost from the Florida Legislature, that the commission began a statewide search to record all advisory committees and the names of members who must file.

Mrs. Goard said she sent out 500 notices and when not all the persons responded to her first notice, she sent out a delinquency notice mandated by the commission.

The delinquency notice said during the grace period, until Sept. 15, no investigative or disciplinary action based on the delinquency would be taken.

However, if financial disclosures are not received by Sept. 15, the commission says those persons "will be subject to a civil penalty not to exceed $5,000, removal from office, suspension, public censure, reprimand, demotion, reduction in salary level or the forfeiture of no more than one-third salary per month for no more than 12 months."

Water Stumbling Block

Developers Stalled In Lake Mary

By Donna Estes
Herald Staff Writer

Potential development in Lake Mary "is stagnating," Mayor Walter Sorenson said today, because the city has no way of supplying new customers with water.

Sorenson said 434 housing units on the drawing boards and some already under construction and a 12,000 square foot office building can't be completed until some arrangement can be worked out to give them water.

"The developers are frustrated and the lack of water makes them too scared to proceed," he said.

And a plea from Sorenson to Sanford Mayor Lee P. Moore for another discussion on a new water supply contract between the two cities has been rejected by the Sanford City Commission.

Moore said at Monday night's city commission meeting he's happy with the court order just as it stands — that Sanford must continue supplying Lake Mary with water but Lake Mary must not add any new customers to the system.

After press reports that Lake Mary Mayor Walter Sorenson was saying it has no problem connecting new developments to its water supply, Sanford's Assistant City Attorney Ned Julian Jr. reminded Lake Mary's City Attorney Robert Petree that a court order by Circuit Judge Dominick Salfi forbids Lake Mary from adding new customers to the 1,243 homes it is serving or had contracted to serve prior to the July 27 order.

It would appear that Moore's prediction in June that the tiff between the two cities over their water contract would jeopardize Lake Mary's growth has come to pass.

At issue has been a proposed new contract Sanford submitted to Lake Mary in June, requiring Lake Mary to turn over water connection-impact fees to Sanford for safe-keeping until it has its proposed new water supply in operation. Lake Mary has projected its new wells and water plant will be in operation by Dec. 31, 1985.

Lake Mary officials rejected the Sanford proposal and talks ended June 27.

While Sanford and Lake Mary have had a contractual arrangement for Sanford to supply water to Lake Mary since 1976, Sanford cancelled that contract in June.

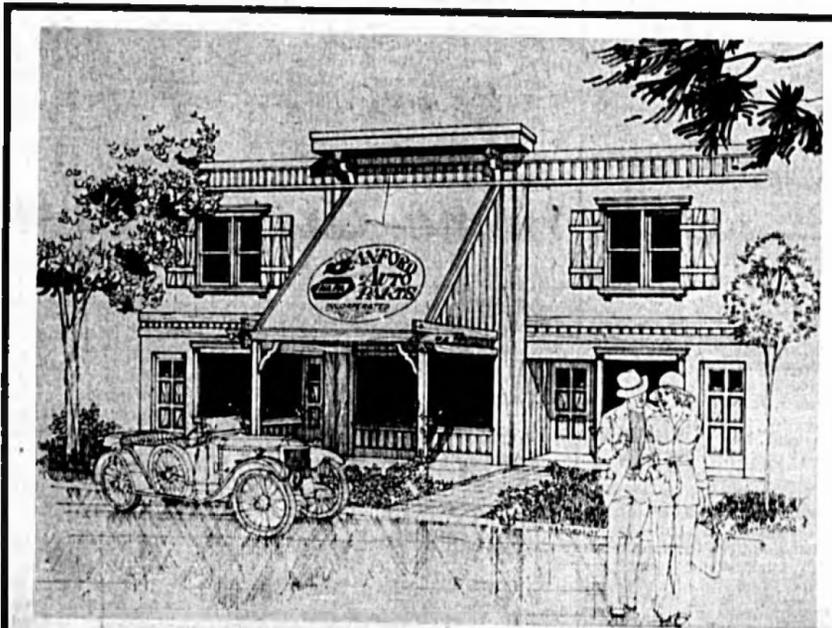

Sanford became concerned about the open-ended contract after it was reported that Lake Mary, in the midst of a building boom, had more than 2,000 housing units on the drawing boards and all those units would have to be served with water.

City Manager W.E. "Pete" Knowles, concerned about Sanford's own building boom, hammered away that it was not fair that Sanford developers had to pay nearly $500 in connection fees and impact fees per housing unit to connect to the Sanford water system, while Lake Mary's new customers were not paying any. Lake Mary steadfastly refused to collect the fees for Sanford.

On July 27, Circuit Judge Dominick Salfi signed a temporary injunction to stop Sanford from its plan to shut off the water supply to Lake Mary on July 31 and stopping Lake Mary from adding new customers to its system beyond the 1,243 it was then obligated to serve.

Monday night, Moore reiterated his predictions to Lake Mary in June when he reported to the city commission that Sorenson tried to set up a meeting between the two mayors and two city attorneys last Friday, but because of previous commitments it couldn't be held.

"I told the Lake Mary officials what was going to happen. None of them paid attention. If they want to negotiate with us, they can sign the agreement we presented first," Moore said.

Old Look For New Downtown

Reconstruction of the Sanford Auto Parts building at 118 W. 1st St., west of Park Avenue to its original early 1900s-era flavor is set to begin within the next few weeks with the city of Sanford's blessing. The front of the building, which once housed the Princess Theatre, will be renovated with cedar or cypress and an overhang the sidewalk, which will be reconstructed with paving brick, said Scott Larson, son of owner Ralph Larson. The work is expected to take a month to complete and cost under $10,000. Sanford City Manager W. E. "Pete" Knowles said it will be the first renovation of its kind downtown and "hopefully" more will follow as the city's downtown beautification work progresses.

Reagan Won't Soften Platform Pledge On Taxes, Aide Says

By Laurence McQuillan
UPI Political Reporter

DALLAS (UPI) — President Reagan, bowing to demands for no taxes by rebellious conservatives who wrote it into the Republican platform, now is looking forward to a national convention that virtually will be a coronation.

The Republican National Committee meets today to give its rubber stamp approval to documents that will be taken up next week when thousands of delegates attend the party's convention opening Monday.

Although the White House had hoped to work out a compromise with the party's conservative wing on raising taxes, Reagan's usually ardent supporters refused to be swayed from their course.

They ignored pleas that a loophole be written into the party platform — instead crafting a flat ban on any tax increase after Election Day.

"We can live with it," said former Transportation Secretary Drew Lewis, Reagan's chief envoy to the platform drafters. "He will not have to repudiate the platform."

With Walter Mondale's taunts that Reagan secretly knows he will have to increase taxes in order to stop skyrocketing federal deficits, GOP campaign strategists do not want to arm the Democratic challenger's arsenal.

Any attempt to soften the tax plank by Reagan would be used by the Democrats as proof he does harbor a secret plan for tax hikes exist.

Lewis, assessing Reagan's setback on taxes, told reporters: "We do not feel it puts him in a position where he cannot exercise his authority."

Rep. Vin Weber of Minnesota, speaking for many in his wing of the party, declared: "We should have an unequivocal, absolute, ironclad statement against taxes and I'm not going to back away from that until the convention is over. I don't want to compromise."

In other efforts to shape the platform, conservatives worked closely with Reagan forces. They put down a bid to revive their party's support for the Equal Rights Amendment, toughened an anti-abortion plank and generally applied conservative dogma to most issues.

Bus System Power Play Rebuffed

The Seminole County Commission has turned back what Commissioner Bill Kirchhoff called "a power play" from Orange County officials to take over control of the authority which operates the bus system in the tri-county area.

Lou Treadway, Orange County Commission chairman, and Buell Duncan of the Orlando Sun Bank and chairman of a citizens advisory committee on rail transportation, made a pitch to the Seminole officials to cut the number of members on the Orange-Seminole-Osceola Transportation Authority.

Kirchhoff, a member of the OSOTA board for many years, turned aside the reasons given for reducing the number of authority board members to add rail transportation to its scope and to have a more efficient group running the authority.

"Your purpose is to give absolute majority to Orange County," Kirchhoff said. "I have to look at this with a view toward protecting the interests of Seminole County."

Treadway's and Duncan's plan was to change the 10 member authority to one with seven members.

Now, on the authority board, are five members from Orange, two from Seminole, one from Osceola and one each from the state Department of Transportation and the East Central Florida Regional Planning Council. The membership for the three counties is based on a formula of one member per 100,000 population of a part thereof. This means that while Orange will be getting a sixth member, Seminole will also be getting a third member to keep Orange shy one vote of being in control.

Treadway and Duncan's proposal was to create a seven member board composed of three Orange County, one city of Orlando, two from Seminole and one from Osceola, giving Orange-Orlando the majority.

Kirchhoff elicited a pledge from Treadway that Orange will not drop out of the authority because of Seminole's refusal to "cooperate" with the Orange County plan.

Treadway also said he was presenting the proposal of his county commission. "If this doesn't fly, I am for leaving the authority as it is because I'm tired of fooling with it."

'It's A Little Bit Tough'

Tax Return Flap Dogs Ferraro

PORTLAND, Ore. (UPI) — Vice presidential candidate Geraldine Ferraro, harried by repeated questions about her husband's income tax returns, says much of the information will be included in the financial statement next week.

"I would still like him to release his tax return, but he has indicated it would hurt his business," Ma. Ferraro told reporters Tuesday in San Jose, Calif.

Ma. Ferraro today will campaign in Portland, Ore., taking a boat trip on the Willamette River and speaking about environmental issues. She is then scheduled to fly to Seattle, the last stop of her first solo trip of the campaign, for a speech to sheet metal workers.

The tax returns of her husband, John Zaccaro, a wealthy New York real estate executive, became an issue Sunday when the Democratic hopeful announced she would not release the forms as promised. Ma. Ferraro is clearly weary of the issue.

"I would like to spend a lot more time speaking about the issues ... it's a little bit tough," she said.

Even the Republicans are getting in the act. Rep. Trent Lott of Mississippi said in Dallas Walter Mondale, the Democratic presidential nominee, should force his running mate to make the returns public. "Let the American people judge for themselves the propriety of the financial affairs of their party's nominee."

Geraldine Ferraro

The tax returns are not required to be filed. But the political fallout could be heavy as Mondale promises to close tax loopholes for the wealthy.

Power Disrupted

Lightning knocked out power for two hours in the southeast part of Sanford Tuesday night, according to Florida Power and Light spokesman Rudolph Allen. He also said there were a few scattered outages in other parts of the city.

The thunderstorm which moved through the area at 6:30 p.m. also disrupted power to about 1,000 homes in south Seminole County. Tracy Smith of Florida Power Corp. said in Deltona, about 500 residents lost electricity for about an hour.

Smith said all power was restored by 10 p.m.

Blind Group Planning Protest Against Airlines

BALTIMORE (UPI) — A one-day demonstration against American Airlines and other major carriers is in the works by a national organization for the blind to protest what they term degrading treatment, a spokesman says.

Blind people have been asked to sit on blankets "because the airlines think we can't control our bladders" and have had their canes taken away because "they are supposedly dangerous," Kenneth Jernigan, president of the 50,000-member National Federation of the Blind, said Tuesday.

"We're going to go to an airport on a given day, and we're going to close the airlines down for a day," Jernigan told United Press International. "We're going out on the runway and we're going to block the planes."

Jernigan would not reveal when members of the Baltimore-based federation planned to protest "the widespread discrimination," saying only that it would be soon.

Freedom Fighter Or Terrorist?

NEW YORK (UPI) — The head of Omega 7, an anti-Castro terrorist organization blamed for two murders and a score of bombings, was branded Tuesday as a "gun for hire" which protected Florida drug dealers.

The charge was made in the government's opening statement at the trial of Eduardo Arocena, 41, who has been charged as the Omega 7 leader, code-named "Omar."

Omega 7 is an underground group committed to the overthrow of Cuba's Fidel Castro. The FBI has described Omega 7 as one of the most dangerous terrorist organizations in the United States.

Defense lawyer Humberto Aguilar in his opening statement countered that the government's charges were "a fairy tale." Aguilar said Arocena was a staunch anti-Communist, but was never a terrorist.

'It's A Sad Day For Us'

KANSAS CITY, Mo. (UPI) — Joe Carmona, whose family drew officials attention on winning a home in a church-sponsored lottery, must leave the country by Dec. 14, an immigration judge has ruled, calling the order "regrettable."

"We just feel bad," Carmona said after a hearing Tuesday before Immigration Judge O. John Brahos. "It's a sad day for us, real terrible."

Carmona, a roofer, said he and his wife Sylvia came to Kansas City from Mexico in 1977 hoping to begin a new life. Their four children were born in this country.

Immigration authorities arrested and charged the couple with being in the country illegally after seeing a story about them in a Kansas City newspaper June 13.

Another Daycare Center Scene Of Sexual Assault

MIAMI (UPI) — Authorities said the sexual assault of a 4-year-old boy at a second daycare center was an isolated incident, but they have asked parents of other children at the center to watch for unusual behavior that may result from abuse.

No charges have been filed, but police are still investigating the incident.

Meanwhile, the county and state moved to tighten regulation of daycare centers.

An emergency agreement was reached Monday, forcing daycare services to prove they have a valid child-care license from the state Department of Health and Rehabilitative Services before they can acquire a county occupational license.

The action came after HRS officials admitted that a complaint filed in May was mishandled. Because an investigator failed to make a routine license check while investigating a complaint of sexual abuse at the Country Walk day care center in south Dade County, a convicted child molester was allowed to continue running the unlicensed facility.

'Reason '84' Challenged

TALLAHASSEE (UPI) — The Florida Medical Association's constitutional amendment limiting negligence awards has run into the same kind of court challenge that knocked out a tax-limiting amendment early this year.

Plaintiffs in three negligence lawsuits — two of them medical malpractice cases — filed suit Tuesday to stop Amendment 9 from being voted on Nov. 6 by Florida voters. The amendment would put a $100,000 cap on "non-economic losses" — such as pain and suffering, and mental anguish — that could be compensated in negligence-injury cases.

Among other grounds, the suit cited the Florida Supreme Court's March 27 ruling which struck Amendment 1 from the ballot because it dealt with more than one topic.

Additionally, the plaintiffs contended that Amendment 9 was "vague and ambiguous" in its ballot summary and that the public initiative petitions certified for the amendment last week did not adequately tell voters what they were putting on the ballot.

School Policies Topic Of Thursday Seminar

Dr. Hortense Evans, Assistant to the Superintendent for Seminole County public schools, will discuss current school programs and policies, with emphasis on the new student code-of-conduct, at a seminar scheduled for Tuesday at 2 p.m. at the Castle Brewer Community Room, West 10th Street, Sanford.

The seminar is sponsored by the Adult Learning Center, a new adult program of Seminole Community College.

It's Smart To Save Early For College

Private School Degree Cost Surpasses $60,000

By Patricia McCormack
UPI Education Editor
NEW YORK (UPI) — The price of a four-year college degree at elite private schools has risen to more than $60,000 for the first time, but the "average costs" of attending college rose only 6 percent over last year, surveys show.

At the Massachusetts Institute of Technology in Cambridge, Mass., the cost for the academic year starting in September is $15,800. A four-year MIT degree, based on no increases for the next three years, would cost $63,200.

Other examples of higher prices for a four-year degree, based on new annual school costs: $61,340 at Princeton University in New Jersey; $60,684 at Stanford University in California, and $61,880 at Yale University, New Haven, Conn.

Such huge bills are the rule at the Ivy League schools, acknowledged as the most elite and demanding academically. A survey of about 10 elite private schools indicated costs up $700 to $1,000 over the previous year.

By contrast, the College Board said in a report the "average" annual costs at a four-year private college in the new school year will be $9,022, or $36,088 for a degree. At four-year public colleges the average annual cost, $4,881, comes to $19,524 for four years.

The report said the annual cost has risen only 6 percent over last year — slightly above the Consumer Price Index and below annual college increases of 10 to 11 percent over the past three years.

The College Board's "average costs" include tuition and fees, books and supplies, room and board, personal expenses and transportation. The figures on costs at the elite private schools do not include transportation expenses.

Eighty percent of the nation's 12 million college students attend public institutions — state and city universities and colleges heavily subsidized by tax funds.

When it comes to college, financial planning is a must for U.S. families. Tuition and fees rose more than 130 percent in the past decade. They are expected to rise an additional 110 percent in the next 10 years.

The College Board report is based on information from more than 3,200 public and private two-year and four-year colleges, which is included in the 1984-85 edition of "The College Cost Book" due out Sept. 1.

Home-Grown Pot Nets Man Probation

A Sanford man who pleaded guilty to growing marijuana has received three years probation.

Theodore Edward Heeren, 29, of 104 Silver Maple Terrace, entered the plea Monday before Seminole Circuit Judge S. Joseph Davis Jr. who also fined Heeren $250 for "manufacturing a controlled substance" and advised him to have no contact with drugs during his probation.

According to court records, Heeren was arrested May 11 at his place of employment, Stromberg-Carlson, U.S. Highway 17-92, Lake Mary.

Heeren reportedly grew the pot at home. He could have received a year in the county jail.

In other court action, an Altamonte Springs man arrested two days in a row for possession of cocaine has pleaded guilty to possessing the controlled substance.

James Ronald Williams, 32, of 609 Camino Court, entered the plea before Davis who set Oct. 7 as a sentencing date. With no prior record, Williams could receive up to one year in jail.

Williams was arrested April 19 after Altamonte Springs police reportedly watched him sell cocaine to an informant.

After the sale was completed in the parking lot of the Shop-N-Go convenience store on state Road 434 at Grant Street, Altamonte Springs, officers arrested Williams and charged him with possession of cocaine. A total of 38 grams of coke was found in Williams' car at the time of his arrest, a police report said.

Williams was rearrested a 1 p.m. April 20 after officers reportedly found more cocaine in his home, according to the report.

A Longwood man who pleaded guilty in January to battery on a law enforcement officer and was sentenced Feb. 15 to community control (equivalent to house arrest) has pleaded guilty to violating his sentence.

Steven Nobel Waller, 26, of 895 Lake Irene Drive, was arrested July 25, 1983 after police saw his car traveling in excess of 80 mph. He was charged with three counts of battery to a law enforcement officer, resisting arrest with violence, possession of less than 20 grams of marijuana and driving under the influence of alcohol. He pleaded guilty to one count of battery and the state will prosecute the other charges.

Davis sentenced Waller to two years of community control and three years probation.

On Monday, Davis reaffirmed Waller's community control and probation and added 250 hours of community service.

Waller is also to complete a drug education program.

A Sanford man who attempted to cash a stolen check was sentenced to two years probation and fined $300.

Derrick Levon Hardy, 25, of 1105 E. 9th St., was sentenced by Seminole Circuit Judge C. Vernon Mize Jr. who also ordered Hardy to pay the public defender's office $300 for his legal defense.

According to court records, Hardy was arrested Feb. 23 at the B & W Market, 1303 S. Sanford Ave., Sanford, after he tried to cash a $293.85 check made out to Raymond Norris. The check had been reported stolen from Carp-Chem Inc., Orlando.

Hardy was charged with uttering a forgery. He could have received a year in the county jail.

Also, Keith Alan Doverspike, of 121 Club Road, Sanford, was sentenced to 360 days in the county jail for possession of more than 20 grams of marijuana and driving with a suspended or revoked driver's license.

Doverspike, who was sentenced by Seminole Circuit Judge Dominick J. Salti, was arrested Jan. 27 after an Altamonte Springs officer saw him violate a driver's right of way. He was arrested on the charge of driving with the suspended driver's license. A subsequent search turned up the marijuana.

Lawsuit Puts Jenos Sale To Coke On Hold

From Staff and Wire Reports
Coca-Cola wants to buy Jenos's Pizza, but not until the frozen pizza chain settles a 3-year-old lawsuit with Pillsbury Co., according to Sanford's Jenos Paulucci, founder of the chain.

Coca-Cola, based in Atlanta, would not comment on whether it is negotiating to buy the $240-million-a-year frozen food company headquartered in Duluth, Minn.

"We do not have any comment on that report," Coca-Cola spokesman Tom Gray said Tuesday.

But Paulucci, 65, said he has been negotiating with Coca-Cola for a couple of years and came close to signing a deal until the lawsuit between Jenos's and Pillsbury Co. got in the way.

"We have been negotiating with Coca-Cola for past year," he said. "Unfortunately, Coca-Cola felt it could not let our litigation with Pillsbury continue if they bought Jenos's."

"The purchase is on hold to let us pursue the contract," Paulucci said, adding any comment on what would happen to employees and the office in Seminole County would be premature.

Paulucci's lawsuit against Pillsbury over patent infringement and breach of contract has been on-going since 1981 and "will go on for years to come."

He said the lawsuit has cost millions of dollars.

Paulucci said if he sells his pizza company, "I'll do something else." He has already started a luxury real estate development — Heathrow — in Lake Mary.

"We have several tracts of lands under option. Each of our businesses stand on their own bottoms. If Jenos's were sold, the family would look for other business investments rather than real estate. In addition to family interests, each member of the family has his own portfolio as well. We keep diversified."

"We were considering the sale because the family felt we have so many interests and I'm not getting any younger. They felt there are a lot of other places where I could spend my time."

Paulucci was the founder of Chun King prepared Chinese food. He sold the venture to R.J. Reynolds Tobacco several years ago for $63 million and poured his energies into Jenos's.

He said he reached an agreement with Coke to "put the matter on hold until the litigation is over. That's the verbal agreement."

"We were close to drawing up a rough draft for a letter of intent," said Paulucci. He said Coke asked him to give up or settle the lawsuit and countersuit he has pending with Pillsbury since 1981.

"It just goes counter to my nature to walk away from any litigation or any fight we believe in," said Paulucci.

"My son Mick, my wife and family would like to see me take it a little easier, but I could not live with myself if I dropped a fight," he said.

"We told Coca-Cola we're sorry, but unless they want to put this in a hold pattern we're going to go ahead with the litigation and not close any deal — whether it takes a year or two years."

Paulucci would not disclose the possible purchase price. He said Jenos's had revenues of $240 million last year, although the emergence of other national brands has cut into Jenos's market share in recent years.

Jenos's filed the lawsuit in Minneapolis in 1981, claiming Pillsbury infringed on its patent in making pizza crusts. Pillsbury, which makes Totino's pizza, filed a counterclaim.

WEATHER

NATIONAL REPORT: Thunderstorms scattered today across the Southwest and the Rockies threatened more flooding in Las Vegas where flash floods turned streets into 4-foot deep rivers, injuring an 11-year-old girl and a woman. In Pennsylvania, two people were still missing after they were washed away by floods that killed three others. However, the thunderstorms that produced 8-foot floodwaters tapered off. Heavy thunderstorms rumbled across Texas Tuesday, causing power outages and forcing officials to close temporarily two runways at Houston's Hobby Airport. Flash flood watches were still in effect for western Utah and east central Nevada. Thunderstorms today were reported from California to Texas and north to Montana.

Gunman Robs 7-Eleven Store, Clerk And Customer

A gun-wielding bandit made off with an undisclosed amount of cash from the cash register of the 7-Eleven convenience store at 3650 Howell Branch Road, Winter Park, as well as $65 stolen from a store clerk and customer.

Clerk Robert Logan reported to Seminole County sheriff's deputies that the gunman entered the store about 10:30 p.m. Tuesday and demanded cash. The man threatened Logan and customer Linda Lee Hersey of Winter Park, and demanded money from their wallets after emptying the cash register, a sheriff's report said.

The suspect fled west on foot. When sheriff's investigators arrived at the crime scene, there were about a half dozen customers in the store. Any physical clues left behind by the robber had been disturbed, so the scene could not be processed, the report said.

SEXUAL BATTERY

A 33-year-old Sanford man has been charged with sexual battery for allegedly molesting a 14-year-old Sanford girl on several occasions, the first time on March 20 and the latest about two weeks ago.

He was being held in the Seminole County jail in lieu of $10,000 bond.

The girl and her mother reported the "forced" sex acts to a Florida Health and Rehabilitative Services counselor who reported the allegations to Seminole County sheriff's investigators on Aug. 10. An examination at Central Florida Regional Hospital, Sanford, supported the girl's allegations, a sheriff's report said.

David Alongo Anderson of 5 Ruby St. was arrested at 7:45 a.m. Tuesday.

SUSPECT 'LEWD BURLGAR'

An Altamonte Springs man has been charged with burglary to an occupied dwelling and lewd and lascivious behavior after he allegedly entered the screened porch of a Fern Park, stood before a window and performed a sex act upon himself as the woman occupant of the house on Meadowwoods Boulevard watched, sheriff's deputies report.

The woman called sheriff's deputies, described the man and within minutes of receiving the 11:26 p.m. Friday incident report deputies picked up a suspect on foot on U.S. Highway 17-92 at Ridge Road, Longwood. The zipper of the man's cutoff shorts was down when the deputy confronted him and the man appeared to be nervous and was sweating, the sheriff's report said. The woman reportedly identified the man and he was jailed at 1:45 a.m. Saturday.

Donald Thomas, 19, of 311 Salina Drive, was being held in lieu of $8,000 bond.

possession of marijuana after the man they approached in a convenience store parking lot reported their offer to police.

Kyle Keogh contacted Lake Mary police shortly after the two suspects offered him a deal on the drug, which he refused at about 10 p.m. Monday.

Police returned to the store on Country Club Road at Wilber Avenue with Keogh and he identified the alleged drug dealers who were still at the scene, a police report said.

Police searched the suspects' truck and reported finding marijuana and small white pills in a cup in the glove box.

Willie Gladve, 26, and Joseph Henry Russalillo, 27, both of 1201 1/2 W. 1st St., were arrested at 10:15 p.m. They were later released on $5,500 bond each.

FORGERY CHARGE

A 39-year-old Altamonte Springs woman has been released on $1,000 bond after being charged with four counts of forgery and uttering a forged instrument and two counts of grand theft.

The woman allegedly forged the name of Nathaniel Johnson Jr. on four checks, which she made out to herself, drawn on his account. The checks for $370, $350, $75 and $70 were cashied at Pioneer Federal, Fern Park. Two tellers identified a suspect in the case in a photo lineup, a sheriff's report said.

The suspect was interviewed at the Seminole County Sheriff's Department on Aug. 6. Inez Durham, of 339 Longwood Ave., was arrested at her home Monday. She is scheduled to appear in court Aug. 31.

GIRL WITH KNIFE

A sheriff's deputy charged a 15-year-old girl with aggravated assault after she allegedly threatened to stab herself and her parents with a butcher knife when they tried to keep her from running away from home at about 12:30 a.m. Friday.

A deputy responding to a disturbance call at the girl's Maitland home reported seeing the girl holding an 8-inch butcher knife in her right hand. The deputy confiscated the weapon and turned the girl over to juvenile authorities, a sheriff's report said.

BATTERED BIKER

Karen V. Dwyer, 23, of 1417 Tanner Lane, Winter Springs, reported to sheriff's deputies that while waiting for a traffic light to change at state Road 419 and U.S. Highway 17-92, Longwood, at 2:15 p.m. Saturday, a man pulled up beside her and said, "You're crazy, you're going to kill yourself."

Ms. Dwyer replied, "It's my life," and the man got out of his car, hit her on the head with his fist and fled in his vehicle, a sheriff's report said.

DUI ARRESTS

The following persons have been arrested in Seminole County on a charge of driving under the influence:

—Wendell Lawson, 26, of Titusville, was arrested at 8:45 a.m. Friday, after his car was involved in an accident on state Road 46, Geneva. He was also charged with having no driver's license.

—Vincent John Rybert, 37, of 703 Spring Ave., Oviedo, at 8:30 p.m. Friday after his car almost hit a highway patrol car and ran off the road and across the center line of state Road 419 in Winter Springs.

—Eachol Leicester Walker III, 28, of 2503 Saginaw Trill, Maitland, was arrested at 2:58 a.m. Monday after his car was involved in an accident on Kewanee Trill, Fern Park.

—Charles Keith Anderson, 20, no address listed, at 12:52 a.m. Tuesday on state Road 436, Altamonte Springs, after being warned by a sheriff's deputy not to drive.

FIRE CALLS

The Sanford Fire Department responded to the following calls:

Saturday

—6:10 a.m., 1107 W. 8th St., rescue. A 73-year-old man was having kidney problems. He was transported to the hospital by ambulance.

Family Photos, Computer Taken

Carol Jean McCommons, 37, of 164 Brewer Ave., Winter Park, gave sheriff's deputies the name of a suspect who may have burglarized a storage shed at 2620 N. state Road 436, Winter Park, taking her family photos, a $2,800 printer and computer and a $1,500 Bicentennial rifle. Ms. McCommons told deputies the items were stolen between Aug. 2 and Monday by a thief who cut a lock from the shed door.

Three pre-hung doors were taken from the garage of a house being built at 1541 Elfstone Drive, Casselberry, between Friday and Monday. The doors, with a combined value of $108, were the property of General Homes, 1638 Pinehurst Drive, Casselberry, deputies report.

In an unrelated construction site theft, 12 bundles of wire worth a total of $360 were stolen from lot 9, 610 E. Club Circle Longwood, between Aug. 7 and Monday. The wire belongs to Lyons Plastering of Ocoee, according to a sheriff's report.

A burglar who entered the Royal Heritage Co., 130 E. Altamonte Drive, Altamonte Springs, by prying open a rear door Thursday or Friday took a $3,800 Persian rug and a $2,800 memory writer along with other office equipment, according to a report owner Alex A. Broumand filed with deputies.

A paddle fan and a light fixture with a total value of about $200 were stolen from a house being built at 908 Carson Drive, Altamonte Springs. The theft occurred Friday, according to builder Gary Mullen, 39, of Longwood, who reported the loss to the sheriff's department.

Sharon H. Worthy, 27, of 841 Riverbend Blvd., Longwood, reported to deputies that her 1978 Oldsmobile was stolen from her driveway Sunday.

About $600 worth of items including tools and a bicycle were taken from the open garage of Robert Cowan, 33, of 102 Colonial Lane, Longwood. Cowan told deputies he and his wife may have been home at the time of the Saturday burglary, but they didn't realize the theft was occurring.

Wayne W. Holcomb, 31, of 3270 Coleus Drive, Winter Park, told deputies a $600 pool sweeper was stolen from his swimming pool around 3 p.m. Sunday.

Two golf carts worth $5,000 each were stolen along with about $300 worth of other items from a maintenance shop at Lake Howell Condo, Ltd., 700 Georgetown Drive, Casselberry. Manager Freda Lynn Spalding told deputies the theft occurred Sunday.

A trolling motor, other fishing gear and a battery with a combined value of $600 were stolen from the garage of Sam T. Richbourg, 33, of 1228 Wellington Terrace, Maitland, between Thursday and Saturday, according to a sheriff's report.

No More Teachers ...

What if the last teacher retired and there were no new teachers to take over?

Education as we have known it would end. Some parents might have the time and motivation to teach their children to read, write and solve mathematical problems. Other children might learn from computers.

Schools would close and most children would receive virtually no education. Few new writers, scientists, doctors or engineers would be trained.

Society would return to the dark ages. Of course, this is not likely to happen, but we should be concerned because there is a shortage of teachers for math, science and vocational education in the United States.

The U.S. Department of Education estimates that next year the supply of new teachers will no longer meet demand. By the 1990s, the department forecasts that there will be three teaching jobs available for every two education graduates.

Recent studies also have indicated that the quality of students entering schools of education has been declining. It follows that the quality of teachers is sinking.

The obvious reason for the national decline in quantity and quality of teachers is that sometimes salaries are not competitive. When young people can earn considerably more money in other fields, they are not going to become teachers.

The United States became a great nation because it developed an excellent educational system.

We need, too, to take a closer look at the institutions our future teachers are being prepared. They too, according to recent studies, are falling down on the job of adequately preparing our teachers.

Cheap Price Tag

During this decade public and private expenditures on controlling pollution in the United States will reach more than $500 billion, a recent Environmental Protection Agency report estimates. That's a hefty sum, but it ignores the benefits of controlling pollution, benefits that often cannot be totaled on a balance sheet.

To its credit, the EPA, which is only required to report on the costs of pollution control, notes in its study that there are substantial benefits associated with environmental regulation. One, for instance, is the number of jobs created or lost because of strict anti-pollution laws.

According to the EPA's report, corporations which oppose strict environmental laws have reported that 33,000 jobs have been lost since January 1971 because of anti-pollution measures. But what these companies leave out is that these same anti-pollution laws will create 524,000 new jobs by 1987.

And the EPA cautions others who would use the report that environmental protection is too costly. Since it only assessed all the costs and not all the benefits of pollution controls, the negative aspects of these laws are "exaggerated," says the EPA.

Thus, although the absolute cost seems large — about $50 billion a year — the effect of this much spending is small relative to gross national product, prices and inflation.

The report states, for example, that the cost of anti-pollution measures will decrease the nation's gross national product by only seven-tenths of 1 percent by 1987.

That's a small price to pay for a clean, safe and healthy environment.

The next exhibit at Sanford's Henry Shelton Sanford Memorial Museum and Library will offer a look at the history, culture, beauty and diversity of New Zealand. If you have artifacts from New Zealand, the museum would like to borrow them for display. Of particular interest are items relating to the native Maoris; historical items, such as mementos from soldiers stationed in New Zealand during World War II; and New Zealand art and native goods. If you wish to contribute, contact curator Mildred Caskey at 321-0710 during museum open hours, 2 p.m. to 5 p.m. Wednesday, Thursday, Friday and Sunday.

If you live or work in the Deltona area, you may be happy to discover the many college courses offered in Deltona by Daytona Beach Community College. You may even be surprised to discover that it's possible to earn all the course credits necessary for a two-year Associate of Arts degree exclusively at the college's Deltona Center.

Registration for fall classes, which begin Aug. 27, is beginning at the DBCC Deltona center, located near the corner of Providence and Normandy boulevards. Classes will end Dec. 12.

Center coordinator Jeanne Goff says the center offers a range of courses and programs designed to appeal to individuals of various ages and interests. Courses may be taken for college credit or non-credit.

The center is in its fifth year of operation and has about 450 students. General education courses, in the areas of English, mathematics, science, and the like, are taught, as well as a range of business and personal enrichment courses. In addition, the center's physical education courses are being expanded. Bowling, golf, tennis and gymnastics will be offered.

What may be of special interest, Ms. Goff said, is a new beginning karate course to be led by 6th degree black belt instructor Chester Holubeck.

Ormond Beach artist Pam Griesinger will return to teach beginning and intermediate painting.

Business courses include typing, shorthand, bookkeeping, accounting, microcomputer operations, and real estate for salesmen and brokers.

Other courses include Conversational Spanish and French, American Political & Economic Issues, Standard First Aid & Personal Safety, Contemporary American Literature, Human Nutrition, Anthropology and General Psychology.

Abortion And This Election

It is beginning to look as if the abortion issue is going to play a prominent role in this election, with the organized right-to-life people picketing Ferraro, Mondale, and Cuomo, with Cuomo picking a fight on the issue with John O'Connor, the bishop of New York, not to mention personal opposition to abortion — going beyond Roe versus Wade and freedom-of-choice to support federal funding of abortions.

An abortion is a serious matter, of which more in a moment, and my own present views on it were shaped several years ago by the philosopher James Burnham, one of the profound thinkers of our time, who was awarded the Freedom Medal recently by President Reagan.

Burnham characterized his approach as "Aristotelian," by which he meant guided by common sense and the general experience of mankind. He thought that under some circumstances an abortion would be the lesser of the bad options, and that under some circumstances one might decide to go ahead with it very regretfully, and that these circumstances ought to be defined by a thoughtful public consensus. The "Aristotelian" approach recognizes that a pregnant woman has long been described as "with child," and that an abortion is not an appendectomy.

Dr. Bernard Nathanson at one time was an abortionist, running the largest abortion clinic in the Western world and personally performing some 5,000 abortions before he changed his mind.

At a recent public seminar of the subject, Dr. Nathanson showed a movie about abortion. It tops absolutely any Hollywood movie in terms of violence. Usually you see photographs of the fetus after it has been killed, but in this movie, through the use of new sonographic filming techniques, you see the outline of the child inside the womb thrashing about in order to avoid the sucking device which tears off its head. Then you see the child dismembered and sucked out and its head crushed.

The physician who performed the abortion in the film could not bear to stay through the film to the end. He rushed out of the studio and never performed another abortion, though he had previously performed thousands.

CIA Bankrolled Salvador Election

WASHINGTON — Scarcely 14 years after the CIA meddled in Chile's national election and was properly scolded by Congress for its bizarre plottings, the CIA again has intervened in the politics of a sovereign nation.

The story behind the CIA's machinations in El Salvador have been hushed up. But here are the details, which my associate Dale Van Atta has pieced together from intelligence sources:

— In 1981, President Reagan approved a covert action "finding" — the secret routine that authorizes the dispensing of CIA funds for clandestine operations. This allowed the CIA to finance non-communist candidates in Latin American elections. The intent was to block communist sympathizers from coming to power, not to discriminate between rival anti-communist candidates.

— Without further White House authorization, the CIA slipped a reported $980,000 under the table to El Salvador's Christian Democratic Party, whose candidate, Jose Napoleon Duarte, won the presidential runoff on May 6, 1984. Another $437,000 was delivered to the moderate National Conciliation Party. The purpose was to defeat Roberto d'Aubuisson, the right-wing candidate, who allegedly is linked to the notorious death squads.

— President Reagan didn't learn about the CIA's meddling in the Salvadoran election until after the Senate Intelligence Committee was briefed on May 3 about the secret payments. Five days later, Sen. Jesse Helms, R-N.C., went public with the charge that the CIA had "bought the election" for Duarte.

Press accounts reported that the president summoned Helms to the White House for a reprimand. Our sources say that Reagan was furious, not at Helms but at the CIA. He thanked Helms for saving him from the embarrassment of halting the election in his May 9 television address as an example of democracy in action — words he would have had to eat when the CIA's involvement became known.

— After the election, the Reagan administration changed its attitude toward d'Aubuisson. The policy makers decided that a leader who had won 46 percent of the vote — regardless of his alleged bloody background — could not be ignored and that it would be wise to start a dialogue with him. President Reagan wrote a personal letter to d'Aubuisson, congratulating him on his strong showing. Secretary of State George Shultz, who previously had denied d'Aubuisson a visa, asked Helms privately to invite the right-wing leader to Washington.

Footnote: There have been other occasions when Helms has used his right-wing channels. He won a stunning concession from the Argentine at the beginning of the Falklands War because the military junta trusted him. The Argentines told Helms they would withdraw their troops from the islands if the British would halt their fleet before it reached the Falklands. Unfortunately, this secret concession, which could have prevented the war, got lost in the rush of events.

Helms was also behind the negotiations that saved the life of Korean dissident Kim Dae Jung. The senator's erstwhile assistant, John Carbaugh, helped persuade Korean leaders in late 1980 to exile rather than execute Kim.

HYPE AND HYPOCRISY: With much fanfare, Vermont's Republican governor, Richard Snelling, recently launched a national, bipartisan, $10 million crusade called Proposition One, intended to force a reduction in the federal budget deficit.

The goal, Snelling said, is to "organize the people of this country into a broad interest group that will tell the Congress and the president that we understand, and reject, the consequences of continuing to operate hundreds of billions of dollars in the red each year."

The press packet that accompanied Snelling's kickoff of Proposition One included a large photo of himself. But there was one bit of relevant information missing from the hoopla: During Snelling's eight years as governor, Vermont has been awash in deficits, including an all-time record $30.8 million pool of red ink in 1983. According to the National Governors' Association, Vermont may be the only state with a deficit in 1985.

An American Giant

NEW YORK (NEA) — I have always had a soft spot in my heart for North Carolina, having served for six months at the Overseas Replacement Depot in Greensboro in 1945-46, after returning from my own hitch in the Air Force in India. Maybe I was just glad to be home, but North Carolina seemed to me to possess a full share of Southern charm without a hint of the decadence that sometimes accompanies that famous quality in certain other states.

But never until now have I longed so much to live in North Carolina. For in November, citizens of that state will have an opportunity to re-elect to the U.S. Senate a truly remarkable man: Jesse A. Helms.

If it is true that one can know a man by his enemies, then no one in the Senate has more reason for pride than Helms. There is no question whatever that his defeat this fall will gladden more liberal and leftist hearts, here and abroad, than any other outcome in any other race. Every special interest gearing up for a fresh raid on the federal treasury, every moral nihilist probing for new cracks in America's social structure, every enemy of this country from the jungles of El Salvador to the corridors of the Kremlin, knows and detests the name Jesse Helms, and every one of them would cheerfully stick pins in his effigy if they thought it might help to bring him down.

What has the distinguished senior senator from North Carolina done to deserve all this hatred? Well, in the first place, he isn't one of your typical political equivocators. According to the latest figures I have been able to lay my hands on, his cumulative score (i.e., over the whole period since he entered the Senate in January 1973) in the rating systems of both the American Conservative Union and Americans for Constitutional Action is 99 points out of a theoretically possible 100. If they gave Olympic medals for conservatism, Helms would be all but encased in gold.

That alone, of course, would be enough to set the liberals' teeth on edge; but Helms doesn't stop there. In the Senate, he has stubbornly insisted on defending causes and individuals that were unpopular and raising questions that were, to say the least, inconvenient. When El Salvador's conservative leader Roberto d'Aubuisson was being subjected to a vicious smear campaign and even many who ought to have been made of sterner stuff were ready to toss him to the wolves, Helms risked damaging his own re-election campaign to come to d'Aubuisson's defense. And, when the rush was on to make Martin Luther King Jr.'s birthday a federal holiday, Helms had the courage to raise questions concerning King's communist associations that have since been shovelled under the rug for 35 years to come.

Not a smooth, easy, accommodating man; more like a great elemental force of nature, designed to cope with the tough problems that more prudent politicians gladly leave to others. But we would be a far blinder and weaker nation if there wasn't a Jesse Helms around to tackle them.

ANTHONY HARRIGAN

Trade Adviser Needed

The quality of economic advice President Reagan receives affects both his political future and the future of the nation. President Reagan — indeed any President — needs to hear a wide range of responsible viewpoints.

The country is fortunate in that Mr. Reagan has good economic instincts. He well-understands, for example, that the American people don't want more taxes and that such taxes would be a drag on the economy. Indeed they would be an incentive for liberal politicians to indulge in more spending.

Both the Secretary of the Treasury and the Secretary of Commerce have offered sound advice in the Administration. Both, for example, have pressed for Japanese action to open up their market to American goods. Both have complained of Japanese foot-dragging which results in an enormously unfavorable U.S. trade balance.

One Executive Branch unit that has been a failure in the Administration has been the President's Council of Economic Advisers, the chairmanship of which is now vacant. While the CEA operates without a chairman, it is not without an influential voice. Dr. William Niskanen, an economist, who is outspoken in his opposition to confronting America's trade adversaries who target U.S. industries. While Dr. Niskanen sincerely believes in his free trade dogmas, his dogmatic line is a disservice to the President in this election year and to the American people in a year when the foreign trade deficit may total $120 billion.

Dr. Niskanen's approach will further enrich the Japanese, Koreans and other trade adversaries, who have their state-directed trade strategies, and will also result in additional industrial deterioration in the United States.

Dr. Niskanen and other free trade dogmatists have a perfect right to preach their gospel in the face of worsening conditions in U.S. industries hurt by unfair, subsidized competition and by foreign nationalized companies. But the President should have an in-house adviser who is keenly aware of foreign industrial targeting and who is concerned about the people and places affected by the targeting.

This is the type of adviser whom the President needs right now, in the midst of his re-election campaign.

Chemicals Make Mice Lose Weight - Fast

BAR HARBOR, Maine (UPI) — Chemicals similar to human sex hormones can reduce the weight of obese mice the human equivalent of 20 pounds a week without any apparent side effects, a senior scientist said.

The substances can also prevent diabetes in mice prone to the disease and halt its progress once it has started, said Douglas Coleman, a senior scientist at Jackson Laboratory.

He said the chemicals seem to make a far more effective and longer lasting insulin in mice.

Coleman said the discovery will have the most application for people with adult-onset diabetes and those who are overweight, but he speculated that it may also be very useful for juvenile-onset diabetes.

The experimental drugs have been tested on dogs and a variety of mice and are ready for testing on humans, Coleman said.

The compounds are called etiocholanolone and beta-etiocholanolone, components in dehydroepiandrosterone (DHEA), the most abundant steroid in the human body. DHEA is used by the body to make estrogen and testosterone, female and male hormones.

DHEA is present in humans in very large quantities and scientists are not sure why the body needs so much.

"When we fed these substances to normal aged animals that were overweight it resulted in a rapid weight loss while they were eating more, when they hit normal weight they stayed there," said Coleman, who published his results recently in Endocrinology magazine.

"This is a very exciting group of compounds that as far as we can tell have no side effects," he said.

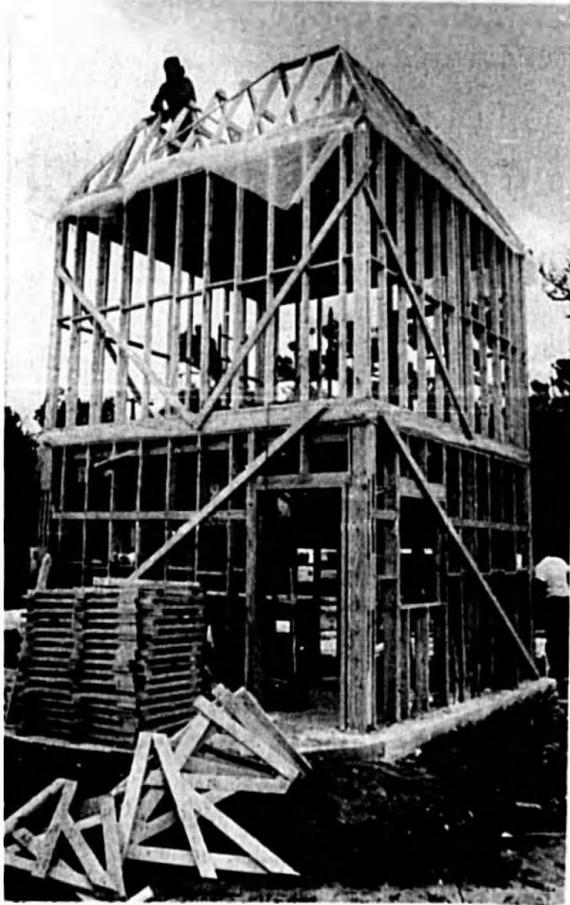

"I don't know if these findings apply to humans," he said. "But I would certainly like to see it tried."

When Coleman and his associates fed the chemicals to mice that were bred to become diabetic, their high blood sugar levels were restored to normal.

And when the chemicals were fed to mice that had not yet developed diabetes the disease did not appear.

Coleman said when the chemicals were fed to diabetic mice, the parts of the pancreas that produce insulin did not deteriorate further.

Drive-Through For Burgers

Carpenter Danny Hudson adjusts the beams on a skeletal structure that is going to be a Grand Junction drive-through hamburger restaurant, according to Margaret Grant of Shoemaker Construction Co. Hurried, hungry travellers will soon be able to zip through the restaurant at 2555 S. French Ave. But those who are looking for a seat will have to get their burger elsewhere. "It would be kind of tight for people to sit in a 14-by-14-foot room," Ms. Grant said.

Saving For College: Impossible Dream?

By Patricia McCormack
UPI Education Editor

"Saving for a college education" may be taking its place next to "buying a home" as a part of the American dream that's going bust for many families.

That's one conclusion drawn from a Roper Organization survey for the National Institute of Independent Colleges and Universities, an organization of private colleges.

Eighty percent of the nation's 12 million college students attend public colleges; 20 percent go to the private schools, which cost more because they lack tax subsidies.

The survey of parents with children of pre-college age found families are not planning and saving adequately for their children's college education at either a public or private institution.

Nevertheless, 77 percent hope that one or more of their children will go to college. Forty percent said they aimed for local state colleges or universities, acknowledging that they're a bargain in higher education.

Thirty-seven percent would like to send their children to an independent college or university, even though expenses in many cases are double or triple charges of public colleges.

For example, the tab at Ivy League schools this fall is a record $15,000 or so — $60,000 for a four-year degree if no further price hikes take place between now and 1988.

Due to budget restraints and the high prices, the survey report said parents seem to be scaling back hopes to fit perceptions of the future. For example, only 40 percent of those who would prefer an independent institution think it's in the cards.

Even families with incomes of $30,000 a year and up feel an independent college education will be unattainable for their children, the report said.

Two-thirds of the parents said they have the primary responsibility of paying for college; one-third say it's the students' responsibility.

Two-thirds of the parents said they expect to pay for college by drawing on savings but only half currently are saving for their children's education. The others expect to start saving later.

The saving pattern that emerged: The average family started saving when the oldest child was four and the median was $517 a year.

"Clearly, most parents are willing to pay for their children's education, and are making some effort toward that end," said Julianne Still Thrift, executive director of NIICU.

But the effort is woefully inate in the face of today's college costs and we know that costs will be much higher by the year 2000. Parents need help and encouragement to save more, and more realistically."

With help from the Teagle Foundation, the NIICU launching a national campaign to educate parents and potential students about saving for college.

NIICU intends to explore ways of promoting incentives for saving. Four of every 10 parents say they would save more than they now are if they could receive a federal tax deduction or tax credit for money put into an education savings account.

Several proposals for education savings accounts have been before Congress in recent years but none passed.

The issue is more than one of helping parents. Survival of the less-well-endowed colleges among the independents will be threatened if increasing numbers of students shift to the lower-cost public colleges, authorities on the higher education scene say.

The "privates" with fat endowments — the Harvards, Yales, Princetons, Stanfords of the land — have no such worries. Although charges at those schools are tops in the nation, the actual cost of education at these elite spots is still heavily subsidized by endowment earnings.

For the school year starting next month, here are some average total college costs, based on the College Board Annual Survey of 3,200 colleges:

PUBLIC COLLEGES. Two year colleges — resident students, $3,998; commuting, $3,423. Four year colleges — resident students, $4,881; commuting, $3,906.

PRIVATE COLLEGES. Two-year — resident students, $7,064; commuting, $5,996. Four year — resident, $9,022; commuting, $7,782.

Average charges for the 1983-84 school year are up 8 percent this year, compared to from 10 to 11 percent each of the previous three years.

Still No Verdict In De Lorean Case

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — The 15th day of deliberations in the John De Lorean case ended without a verdict as jurors struggled to define the automaker's role in an alleged plot to save his failing sports car firm through a $24 million cocaine deal.

Since last Wednesday, the jury of six men and six women has spent nearly 22 hours reviewing more than 300 hours of testimony from 17 witnesses, plus 65 secret audio and video surveillance recordings.

The panel was continuing its deliberations today.

Fallen Hero

Officer Who 'Saved' Bus Now Blamed For Planting Bomb

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — A decorated policeman who confessed to staging the "heroic" defusing of a bomb he planted on a Turkish Olympic team bus in an attempt to impress superiors was so depressed he was under 24-hour watch, jailers said.

Officer Jimmy Wade Pearson, 40, a nine-year veteran of the force and a certified hero a commander described as a man who "wanted to slay dragons and rescue damsels," broke down Tuesday and admitted he planted the bomb he claimed to have found on the bus Monday night in the wheelwell of the Olympic bus at International Airport.

An obviously embarrassed Police Chief Daryl Gates said Pearson confessed as he prepared to take a lie detector test. Pearson's hoax, which triggered a "red alert" in the Olympic security system, was the only major incident in an otherwise near-perfect performance during the Games.

A court commissioner refused Tuesday night to lower Pearson's $60,000 bail on a charge of illegally possessing a destructive device, a felony punishable by up to six years in prison.

"He indicated he was having problems with his supervisors ... and wanted to do something that would gain him attention," Gates told a news conference.

"And certainly we have all noticed him now."

Pearson told superiors Monday he spotted the bomb at 5:30 p.m. PDT as its timing alarm went off. He sprinted 60 yards with the device in his hands and dropped it on the tarmac before fleeing. The device was later disarmed by bomb squad officers.

The bomb was not rigged to go off, police said. The bus was one of three that had brought about 50 Turks to the airport. Gates said the bus contained mostly baggage, but airport police said some Turkish Olympic officials were aboard.

An Armenian terrorist organization with a history of assassinations of Turkish officials in a long vendetta against Turkey over the massacre of thousands in 1915, claimed to have planted the device.

Interest Rates Worry Consumers

ANN ARBOR, Mich. (UPI) — Consumers are generally bullish on the economy but feel jittery over the specter of rising interest rates, a survey shows.

The survey by the University of Michigan's Institute for Social Research, concludes that consumers are making more money and they are ready to spend it — as long as interest rates do not go too high.

The Institute said its latest Survey of Consumer Attitudes shows that consumer confidence in the economy remained strong in the second quarter, although it was down slightly from the first quarter.

The Index of Consumer Sentiment stood at 96.6 in the second quarter, just below the record 99.5 reported in the first quarter. A year ago, the second-quarter index stood at 91.5. February 1986 at 100 is the base period used by researchers to gauge how Americans feel about the economy.

Survey Director Richard Curtin attributed the slight second-quarter drop to public concern over rising interest rates. But he noted that consumer sentiment during the first half of 1984 "has been more favorable than in any prior year during the last decade."

The latest survey is based on a nationwide representative sample of more than 2,000 respondents. Interviews were conducted in April through June.

Curtin said 45 percent of those surveyed said their financial situation had improved during the past year. That is unchanged from the first quarter reading, which was the highest level recorded since 1972.

"Although income and employment gains were primarily responsible for the recent improvement, declines in inflation during the past several years have had a substantial cumulative impact," Curtin said.

Forty-two percent of the respondents said they were willing to use accumulated savings to finance major purchases in the second quarter, the highest level recorded in 10 years. Curtin said.

But Curtin said consumers are worried about high interest rates, and only 31 percent of those surveyed expect business conditions to improve during the next year, down from the peak of 52 percent a year ago.

Expected trends in inflation, unemployment and interest rates reached their most favorable levels a year ago, he said. Since then, researchers have noted slightly less favorable expectations about inflation and unemployment, "but interest rate expectations, in contrast, have become very unfavorable, and represent the major factor behind the expected decline in the pace of economic growth," he said.

Pair Wind Up In Jail After Dancers Refuse To Have Breakfast

Two men who reportedly chased down a pair of Pinellas Park women and rammed the rear of their car with their own, causing the women to stop beside U.S. Highway 17-92, Fern Park, were arrested by a Seminole County sheriff's deputy who approached the scene and heard a gunshot fired by one of the women.

The officer reported that as he drove up, the men drove away, running over the motorcycle of one of the women's boyfriends who had been following the women home from their jobs as dancers at Circus Circus, U.S. Highway 17-92, Fern Park.

Cyde owner Daniel Gray, 28, of St. Petersburg, told the deputy that he had stopped to see why his girlfriend, Bonanita Goodwin, and the other woman, Jean Clark Tartini, had pulled off the road with the two suspects at about 2:30 a.m. Sunday.

He reportedly hit one of the men and Ms. Tartini fired a shot at the two with a .38-caliber revolver after the suspects refused to leave, claiming the women had agreed to have breakfast with them, a sheriff's report said.

The woman was not charged for having the gun, which was stored in the glove compartment prior to being fired, apparently in self-defense, the report said.

The deputy reported seeing the suspect's car run over the motorcycle as he approached the scene and ordered the suspects to stop.

The driver, William James Duke III, 23, of Sandlake Road, Longwood, was charged with aggravated assault with a vehicle and possession of a concealed firearm after the officer reported finding a .22-caliber handgun near the front seat of his car.

Passenger Steven Wayne Nue, 21, of 260 Humphrey St., Lake Mary, was charged with possession of marijuana after the deputy reportedly recovered a bag containing more than 20 grams of marijuana that was thrown from the car as the pair tried to flee, the report said.

Both were released on $1,000 bond and are scheduled to appear in court Aug. 31.

Team Of Chemical Engineers Searching For Perfect Tear

GAINESVILLE (UPI) — A team of chemical engineers is working on a replacement for the common teardrop, a complex solution that sometimes breaks down — leaving sufferers with irritating unprotected spots known as dry eye syndrome.

Artificial tears are not new, but University of Florida chemical engineer Dinesh Shah says none of them achieve the blend of lubrication and viscosity needed to efficiently correct dry eye syndrome and aid contact lens wearers.

Real tears, which protect and lubricate the eye, are a solution of water, salt, proteins and other molecules surrounded by two distinct layers. One of the layers holds the tear film to the cornea and another keeps it from evaporating, said Shah, who began his search for a replacement tear when his mother began suffering dry eye syndrome 10 years ago.

"The surface of the cornea is like non-stick cookware — water doesn't naturally stick to it," Shah said. "Tear fluid has a wetting agent that makes the water wet the cornea and stick to it."

The outer layer — 10 to 16 molecules thick — is a film of oil and wax-like compounds.

Dry eye syndrome can occur when any part of the tear film breaks down, allowing the tear to drain from the eye or evaporate too quickly. Dry eyes also can result when tear glands are underproductive.

Dry spots the size of a pencil point can cause irritation when the eyelid rubs across them. But artificial tear solutions now available have fallen short of solving the problem, Shah said.

"The artificial tears on the market are either too thick or too watery," Shah said.

Everyone Wants To Sell Reactors To China

PEKING (UPI) — China, the world's last major market for nuclear reactors, has foreign vendors locked in a winner-take-all battle for billions of dollars in projected sales.

Order-starved European, American and Japanese firms have wooed Peking since the 1970s in hopes of snaring China's potential $10 to 20 billion market for nuclear fuel, equipment and technology.

Now, with China preparing to conclude the first of several contracts for the purchase and construction of civilian nuclear reactors, the rivalry among foreign suppliers is at a peak.

"The Chinese very well realize that they're the only major world market for nuclear reactors, and they want to keep everyone competitive," said John Swaner of C.E. International, an American firm bidding for the sales.

Industry sources say the stakes are immense, since China may buy the $5 to $10 billion worth of reactors from a single vendor to ensure technological uniformity.

"It's possible they'll sign with two or three companies, but when you cut up the pie in the nuclear field you're just asking for trouble," Swaner said.

China plans to build an estimated six nuclear stations by the year 2000 to reach its ambitious production goal of 10,000 megawatts of nuclear-generated electricity a year.

Chinese workers recently began site construction for two of the stations, both designed to hold pressurized water reactors.

The first, a 300-megawatt plant near Shanghai in Zhejiang Province, is scheduled for completion in 1989 and will be almost entirely of Chinese fabrication and design.

The second is a $4.6 billion, 1,800-megawatt plant at Daya Bay in Guangdong Province, to be financed, built and operated under a joint venture between China and Hong Kong.

In March, Peking announced it will begin building two more nuclear stations by 1990, one at Sunan in Jiangsu Province and another in the northeastern province of Liaoning, each with a capacity of about 2,000 megawatts.

Chinese nuclear officials have privately acknowledged plans to construct a fifth and sixth station by the end of the century to meet the massive target output, industry sources said.

The plans call for Peking to import two to four entire reactors, gradually assimilate foreign designing, engineering and manufacturing skills, and build the last power plant alone.

China's decision to go nuclear has sent officials from the United States, Japan and West Germany racing to Peking to conclude nuclear cooperation pacts necessary for legalizing the sales.

In May, Bonn and Peking signed an agreement providing for the transfer of German nuclear technology and equipment to China, paving the way for reactor sales by Kraftwerk Union.

In July, Tokyo began negotiating a Sino-Japanese nuclear pact, which would give Japanese firms like Mitsubishi a shot at the billion dollar contracts.

The U.S.-China nuclear cooperation agreement, initiated during President Reagan's Peking visit in April, faces stiff opposition from U.S. lawmakers who say the accord rests on insufficient Chinese non-proliferation guarantees.

Farmers Being Pushed Out Of The Fields

DALLAS (UPI) — About 200,000 farmers have been forced from their fields since Ronald Reagan took office and promised farmers "a fair shake," the director of American Agriculture Movement told a Republican platform committee.

"The president tells us 'America is back,'" said David Senter, director of the activist AAM. "Let's get on with the rest of it."

"For the Republicans to literally save the country," he said in hearings Monday, "you've got to literally start in the country."

Senter told the agriculture platform panel that "without prosperity on the farm, other prosperity is at best an economy based on quicksilver."

Senter said high interest rates were crippling farmers.

"They know that with prices well below the cost of production, they can't pay (a large loan) back," he said. "You can't borrow your way out of debt if you are not making a profit."

In a 1980 campaign speech, quoted by Senter, Reagan promised farmers to get a "fair shake."

Reagan was quoted as saying, "Since then," said Senter,

Lane Palmer, editor of Farm Journal, the nation's largest independent farm publication, said many government programs have never been effectively administered.

Sen. Roger Jepsen, R-Iowa, chairman of the platform subcommittee, said present farming problems are largely the result of bungling by previous Democratic administrations.

"Our foreign competitors are benefitting from our tarnished export reputation brought about by the Carter-Mondale embargo," he said.

Sen. Robert Dole, R-Kan., chairman of the Senate Finance Committee, told platform delegates Reagan finally has a chance to curb wasteful government intervention.

"If re-elected," said Dole, "Reagan has a clear shot at forging the first real Republican farm policy in a quarter century."

Dean Kleckner, an Iowa hog farmer and spokesman for the state's farm bureau federation, said, "We as a nation are now paying for the bad farm programs of the 1970s."

The report also charges that Block abolished the Human Nutrition Center, a central agency that linked research to the development of education programs, cancelled funding for distribution of free publications, failed to fill the department position of nutrition coordinator and stacked advisory committees with representatives of the food industry and excluded public representatives.

Consumer Group Blasts Ag Department

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Agriculture Secretary John Block has gutted nutrition programs that provide information to the public and uses his department to cater to the food industry, a consumer group claims.

Public Citizen, a Ralph Nader-founded consumer organization based in Washington, issued a 68-page report charging the administration with crippling programs supplying information about food, nutrition and health.

"Block has stocked the Department of Agriculture with meat industry employees," said Public Citizen President Joan Claybrook. "He has kowtowed to the meat, egg and dairy industries by deleting most references to cholesterol and fat from (the department's) publications, education and training programs."

Ms. Claybrook also said the Agriculture Department no longer distributes dietary guidelines, based on its own research, which caution the public about eating fat, cholesterol, salt and sugar.

The report, "Starving for Nutrition Information from Reagan's USDA," says Block has dismantled public information programs and instituted an anti-consumer bias in the department.

Ms. Claybrook said the department's "Food and Fitness Fair," scheduled to open Thursday in Washington, "will provide a forum for the food industry to disseminate misleading information that contradicts (the department's) nutrition research."

The report also charges that Block abolished the Human Nutrition Center, a central agency that linked research to the development of education programs, cancelled funding for distribution of free publications, failed to fill the department position of nutrition coordinator and stacked advisory committees with representatives of the food industry and excluded public representatives.

ST. PETERSBURG — Athens, Ga. may be one of the football capitals of the South, but the Athens Little Leaguers no longer harbor any thoughts of establishing their dominance on the baseball diamond.

Not after the whipping they received from the Florida Altamonte National League All-Stars in Tuesday's Southern Regional Series at Al Lang Memorial Stadium in Gulfport.

Altamonte powered three homers — including back-to-back blasts in the first inning — to send the Little Bulldogs scurrying back to Georgia with a 15-4 thumping.

"That's the best hitting Little League team I've ever seen," muttered a shellshocked Georgia manager Joe Newsum after the 12-hit, six-extra base barrage eliminated his team. "That was an awesome first inning."

That it was. Catcher Jerrey Thurston picked on the first pitch of the game from starter Sam Parker and rifled it into the right field corner for a double. Jason Varitek struck out, but Aaron Iaratola crunched a fastball on the line over the left-center field fence for a two-run homer.

Barely had the Georgia fans gotten their "It's still early" and "We'll come back" pep talks out of their mouths when Jimmy Musselwhite struck the telling blow. The Athens mouths never had time to close as "Muss" launched a fastball 275-feet over the left-center field fence.

"Musselwhite hit that ball so hard and far I lost sight of it," said Altamonte manager Jerrey Thurston.

Chris Radcliff then scorched a double off the wall in left and alertly came all the way around to score when the left fielder hurled his throw past the second baseman. The lead grew to 4-0.

Although Georgia did rally to pull within 6-4 on Parker's three-run homer in the third, the tone for the game was established with that awesome first inning.

"We wanted to get their (the teams left in the tournament) attention," said Thurston with a smile. "I think we got it. The only way we'll lose this thing is if we beat ourselves."

Which doesn't seem very likely if the Altamonte 12-year-olds can duplicate Tuesday's performance today. They take on a powerful Lake Charles, La. squad today at 2 p.m. in what may be the title showdown. Huntsville, Ala., which hammered D'iberville North Biloxi, Miss., 11-2, Tuesday, plays Tullahoma, Tenn. in today's 4 p.m. game. Tennessee blanked Springfield, Va., 9-0, Tuesday.

Both games were moved ahead two hours to try and beat the late-afternoon showers, according to Southeast Region administrator Arnold White.

Lake Charles, which had a team in the Junior League

Southern Region at Eustis last year, mauled Pine Bluff, Ark., 11-0, Monday, then came back to eliminate Port Arthur, Tex., 7-2, Tuesday.

Altamonte will face Louisiana's man-child — 6-0 and 155-pound 12-year-old Carrol Thomas. Thomas, who started playing baseball last year, according to manager Ben Guilbeau, was impressive against Arkansas Monday. The right-handed fireballer struck out 15 of the 18 batters he faced. For the tournament, he is 8-0 with a sparkling 0.75 earned run average.

Despite the lofty credentials, manager Thurston and pitching coach Greg Ebbert were confident their boys could handle him. "Well, he's not as fast as the kid from Rolling Hills (Noen "Billy" Duncan)," said Thurston about the District 14 ace who struck out 19 Altamontes in nine innings. "He's got kind of a herky-jerky motion. We'll hit him."

Ebbert, too, expressed faith in his team's attacks. "Thomas throws pretty hard, but we hit a very good pitcher today, and hit him hard."

After Altamonte's four-run first-inning explosion, Athens came back with one in the first when starter Musselwhite walked in a run. He escaped further damage, however, when Jason Adams rapped a one-hopper to the mound which Musselwhite fired home to Thurston. Thurston stomped on the plate for the force and then fired the ball to first baseman Albert for the 1-2-3 twin killing to retire the side.

While Parker was upset with the power show during the Altamonte first inning, some daring baserunning led to his withdrawal in the third. Musselwhite led off with a single

Above, Jimmy Musselwhite makes perfect contact as he sends a fastball 275-feet over the left-center field fence against Athens, Ga. At the right, Musselwhite is engulfed by his joyous teammates. Musselwhite and Aaron Iaratola slammed back-to-back homers in the first inning to propel the Altamonte Nationals to a 15-4 victory over Georgia in Little League Southern Regional play at St. Petersburg Tuesday.

Conklin: I Had Dream; Barracks Over Condos?

Jeff Conklin had a dream. Nothing like that of the late Martin Luther King. His dream didn't want to unite the people of the country. It just wanted to unite the Altamonte National All-Stars in a trip around the bases.

"I had a dream that we were going to hit home runs all over the place," Conklin said about Monday night's vision prior to the Florida-Georgia Southern Region Little League Baseball encounter. "I dreamed that everybody on the team would hit a home run."

Conklin's vision didn't reach his ultimate goal, but three real home runs later, Altamonte had an easy 15-4 victory over Athens, Ga. to advance to the semifinal round against St. Charles, La. today at 4.

"I guess I didn't quite get a home run for everybody, but I hope I have the same dream tonight," the 12-year-old left fielder said.

Although everything was sweet dreams for the Nationals Monday night, Sunday was more like a nightmare for the coaching staff. "Nobody could sleep because we were so excited," said outfielder Curt Carlson. "I bet we only got two hours all night."

"But we made up for it Monday night. We were so tired everybody was in bed at 9 p.m. That's why we played so well."

Carlson did say there might have been another motive. "Yeah...well...the coaches were pretty upset after Sunday night," Carlson said. "They said if anybody was fooling around, they'd send them to the condos (condominiums with the parents). Nobody wanted to go out there."

Imagine that, Altamonte players picking the barracks over the condos.

Speaking of barracks, there is no truth to the rumor that Altamonte Senior League All-Star catcher Ryan Lisle cut up his feet trying to scale the wall in Gary, Ind. during an escape attempt.

Actually, Ryan is being pretty closed-mouthed about last week's incident which kept him out of the Southern Region championship win over Coral Springs. "I always thought about being in this position (to win a trip to the World Series)," Lisle said before last Friday's game. "Now that we're finally in it, I can't play."

Ryan shuffled around for a couple of days, but he was ready to go Monday as he returned to the lineup with a single. Lisle had to play right field, however, as Eddie Taubensee handled the catching chores for the second straight game.

Taubensee, who goes to Lake Howell High, is no stranger to World Series action. When he was a 12-year-old, he was a member of the Seminole Broncos team which finished second in the World Series to California. Altamonte teammates Mark Coffey and Sean Flaherty were also key members of that Bronco team managed by Richard Coffey.

McLeod's Mammoth Homer Ends Marathon

Baseball

Chris Flster
Herald Sports Writer
FORT LAUDERDALE — A game that took 4 hours and 35 minutes to unfold, was literally ended in a matter of seconds.

Monday night, the District 14 South All-Stars and the U.S.A. West (Sacramento, Calif.) battled to a 1-1, 12-inning tie and the game was stopped at that point because of the 12 midnight curfew.

The game resumed Tuesday afternoon at three and, on the second pitch of the top of the 13th inning, the South's Dwayne McLeod unloaded a mammoth home run to left-center field to unlock the tie and the South added an insurance run and went on to claim a 3-1, 13-inning victory in the Big League World Series at Floyd Hull Stadium.

The 13 innings tied a Big League World Series record and it also moved the South All-Stars into the winner's bracket final Thursday night at 7:30 against the Far East (Ping Tung, Taiwan, Republic of China). The Far East advanced via a 3-1 victory over host Broward County in Tuesday night's late game.

In loser's bracket action Tuesday, the North (Grand Rapids, Mich.) eliminated Europe (Gellenkirchen, Germany), 18-0.

In today's loser's bracket action, Venezuela goes up against Canada at 5 and the North faces the West at 7:30.

After a horrendous night at the plate on Monday, in which its only run was scored via a bases loaded walk, the South wasted no time in breaking out the aluminum on Tuesday. McLeod, leading off the top of the 13th, jacked Randy Vere's second pitch over the light tower in left-center. The shot, which was estimated to travel some 480 feet, gave the South a 2-1 lead.

"There was no doubt from the moment he hit it," South manager Howard Mable said of McLeod's homer. "The only thing we were worried about was that he touch all four bases. Floyd Hull Jr. (tournament director) said it was the furthest ball he's ever seen hit."

The South wasn't through yet, though, as Dean Hazen followed with a single, and the big first baseman then lumbered down to second with a stolen base. With one out, Kevin Wick clubbed a double to drive in Hazen with a 3-1 South lead.

That was all South pitcher Jeff Greene needed, he surrendered a lead off single in the bottom of the 13th, but then retired the next three hitters in order and the South All-Stars walked into the winner's bracket final.

"We figured it might take us three innings to win it," Mable said. "We were flat last night (Monday) and fortunate to have stayed in there. But, the guys came out ready to play this morning (Tuesday)."

Since they have advanced to the winner's bracket final, the worst the South All-Stars could finish is third in the World Series. However, right now, Mable and his team are shooting for World Champions and Mable believes it is well within reach.

"I believe we can beat the Republic of China," Mable said of Thursday night's game. "I'm convinced they have some weaknesses that we can exploit. We have more power than they do and we can stick with them defensively. I have full and utter confidence in these kids and I think we can win it."

The Far East team breezed to a 17-0 victory in its opening tournament game, but that was against a weak Europe team which was outscored, 35-0, in two lopsided losses. Broward gave the Far East all it could handle Tuesday night before bowing out.

"The Broward pitcher was good for four innings," Mable said. "He was keeping the Taiwan hitters off balance until he got tired, and that was all she wrote."

"It's going to be interesting to play the Far East team," added Mable. "They have the typical Taiwan discipline, a couple power hitters and a lot of good contact hitters. They also have an excellent pitching staff. They usually try to set you up with fastballs and sliders. The key for us is to keep good hand-eye contact and we fell we can hit their pitching."

TOURNAMENT TIDBITS — The South All-Stars were selected to be the official representative of the Big League World Series in an interview with ABC television, according to Mable. The interview will be tonight and the South All-Stars might just be on national television in the next few days.

Practice Starts For Footballers

Seminole County's six high school varsity football teams opened practice this morning, picking up where they left off in the Spring. The first week of practice will be dedicated mostly to conditioning and going over what was learned in Spring drills.

SEMINOLE — Seminole High started at this morning and the Tribe has aspirations of bigger and better things in 1984 after a promising 1983 season. The season, however, is some three weeks away and getting in shape is the main concern of the coaches at this time.

"We will concentrate on conditioning this week," Seminole High coach Jerry Posey said. "The kids are pretty well set from Spring. We'll be reviewing what we finished off with."

LAKE MARY — The Rams, coming off an impressive 6-4 season in 1983, started practice this morning at 9. Coach Harry "The Ram" Nelson also said conditioning is the main concern this week and Lake Mary will also work on throwing and kicking.

LYMAN — The Greyhounds got off to the earliest start of the county schools as coach Bill Scott's squad kicked off the 1984 season at 6:30 this morning. The Greyhounds, 6-4 last season, will count on a strong defense to get them over the rough spots this year.

LAKE HOWELL — The Silver Hawks, perhaps the hardest hit team by graduation, started conditioning practice this morning at 9:30. Lake Howell finished at 5-5 last year and lost a number of its top players to graduation and coach Mike Bisceglia may be looking at a rebuilding year.

LAKE BRANTLEY — After an outstanding 8-3 record in 1983, the Patriots' football program is flying high. Lake Brantley got its 1984 squad started with its first practice, beginning this morning at 8. The Patriots are looking forward to another strong performance this year.

OVIEDO — The Lions are a little low in numbers, 30 at last report, in 1984, but they have talent and experience at key positions. Coach Jack Blanton and staff got the 1984 season going with its first practice this morning at 9. Oviedo is hoping to do well after finishing with a 3-7 season in 1983. — Chris Flster

Olympic Heroes Head For Orlando

ORLANDO (UPI) — Many of America's Olympic heroes were to make their way to Orlando today for dinner with the Florida governor, another parade and a meeting with Mickey Mouse.

The U.S. Olympic medal winners started their day in New York City, where they were to be honored with a ticker-tape parade through the heart of Manhattan.

From there, they were to fly to Orlando to continue their cross-country celebration tour.

The partying began in Los Angeles Monday as the athletes had breakfast with President Reagan. They then flew to Washington where they were honored by thousands of flag-waving fans in a motorcade to Capitol Hill.

An estimated 120 of the 250 U.S. medal winners were expected to travel to Orlando today along with their guests and Olympic officials aboard three chartered jets.

Mickey Mouse, Donald Duck, Goofy and all the Disney gang — as well as a marching band — were scheduled to greet the Olympic entourage at Orlando International Airport.

Tonight, the athletes will be guests at an invitation-only banquet hosted by Graham and Orlando Mayor Bill Frederick.

The only public event will be a 1.3-mile motorcade — the athletes will ride in trolleys — down International Drive beginning at 9:15 a.m. Thursday.

Blue Jays Sweep Indians; Tigers Lose 2 To Angels

United Press International

There is nothing like a clean sweep to put things in a new perspective. While the Toronto Blue Jays were sweeping a double-header from the Indians in Cleveland Tuesday night, the Detroit Tigers were losing a pair to the California Angels. The results moved Toronto to within six games of the Tigers in the loss column in the AL East.

pinch-hit home run in the eighth inning of the nightcap to snap a 5-5 tie. Later in the inning, Damaso Garcia smacked a two-run shot off the left-field foul pole against Cleveland reliever and loser Tom Waddell, 2-5. "Sometimes it works and sometimes it doesn't," added Cox.

The second-place Blue Jays trail the Tigers by 7 1/2 games. Detroit, which started the season with a record 35-5 tear, have slowed considerably. They have lost 11 of 17 games since Aug. 1.

Angels 6-12, Tigers 4-1
At Detroit, Doug DeCinces had the game-winning hit in the opener and drove in four runs in the nightcap to pace the Angels. Don Aase, 2-1, and Bruce Klison, 3-1, posted the wins in the sweep. Willie Hernandez, 6-2, and Dave Rozema, 7-4, were the losers for Detroit. Luis Sanchez earned his 11th save in the opener.

The Blue Jays also handed career wins No. 500 and 501 to Manager Bobby Cox.

Twins 5, Brewers 2
At Minneapolis, Tom Brunanaky homered and Tim Laudner hit a two-run double in a three-run second to lift the Twins. Ed Hodge, 4-2, went the first 5 1-3 innings for the win and Ron Davis picked up his 23rd save. Moose Haas dropped to 6-10.

"The victories are especially good when Detroit is losing," said Cox after watching his Blue Jays bang out 29 hits, including four homers, in the 8-1 and 9-5 triumphs over the Indians.

A's 4, Orioles 3
At Baltimore, pinch hitter Bruce Bochte's ninth-inning single scored Donnie Hill to lift the A's. Tom Burgmeier pitched 1 2-3 innings to raise his record to 3-0. Sammy Stewart, 4-2, took the loss.

"We have to keep up with Detroit by winning big. Our pinch-hitters came through tonight," added Cox. "But we have been getting good pinch hitting all season."

Mariners 2, Yankees 1
At New York, Mark Langston pitched a six-hitter over eight innings and Al Cowens scored the winning run on center fielder Vic Mota's seventh-inning throwing error to lead the Mariners. Langston, 11-9, equaled Seattle's record for wins by a rookie set last season by Matt Young.

Red Sox 6, Royals 2
At Kansas City, Mo., Bill Buckner rapped four hits, including his eighth homer of the season, to back the seven-hit pitching of Al Nipper to carry the Red Sox. Nipper scattered seven hits, struck out five and walked one to improve to 5-5.

Torre's Sunday's Fights Wake Up Atlanta

Last Sunday's fight-filled game between the Atlanta Braves and San Diego Padres woke up many to the increasing number of brushbacks, beanballs and brawls. But Atlanta manager Joe Torre also believes it jolted awake his ball club.

innings. Lefferts recorded his eighth save. Jerry Kosman, 12-10, took the loss.

But Torre feels the weekend sparring may have given his team the lift it needed to beat the Pittsburgh Pirates 3-1 Tuesday.

Astros 7, Cubs 6
At Houston, Terry Puhl drove in two runs with a triple and a single to lead the Astros. Julio Solano, 1-2, pitched one inning for the victory and Frank DiPino, the fourth Houston pitcher, went the final three innings to record his 10th save. Reliever George Frazier, 2-2, took the loss.

"I don't think it hurt us because we needed some kind of a jolt," Torre said. "I don't know how much of an aid it can be except emotionally, which is where we needed it."

Mets 4, Dodgers 0
At Los Angeles, Bruce Berenyi snapped a personal three-game losing streak by combining on a four-hit shutout with Jesse Orasco to lift the Mets. Berenyi improved to 8-12 and Orasco pitched two innings for his 24th save. Orel Hershisler, 8-5, took the loss.

Rick Camp, who has been bothered by a groin injury, pitched a four-hitter to pick up his 50th career win. Donnie Moore got the final three outs for his 15th save.

Expos 7, Giants 6
At San Francisco, former Giant Max Venble drove in three runs and three Montreal pitchers combined on an eight-hitter to lead the Expos. Bill Gullickson, 8-7, earned the victory. Jeff Reedman came on to get the last four outs and notch his 18th save. Mark Davis dropped to 3-14. Tim Lincecum singled and doubled while scoring three runs and stealing two bases to run his total for the year to 45.

Cardinal 8, Reds 2
At St. Louis, David Green drove in three runs with a two-run homer and a sacrifice fly to power the Cardinals and hand the Reds their fourth-straight loss. Dave LaPoint evened his record at 9-9 and Jeff Russell, lasting only 3 2-3 innings, dropped to 5-13.

Padres 3, Phillies 2
At San Diego, Terry Kennedy drove in two runs with a first-inning single and Craig Lefferts pitched three innings of scoreless relief to lift the Padres. Padres starter Eric Show, 12-9, went six

Brown Tells No. 1 Pick There Is No Key To Fort Knox

By United Press International

Cincinnati Bengals' General Manager Paul Brown believes in making money the old-fashioned way — by earning it. And that's just what Brown thinks Ricky Hunley, the team's No. 1 draft pick, should do before he goes around demanding the keys to Fort Knox. Hunley, a linebacker from the University of Arizona, has been a training-camp holdout the past month as he attempts to gain the biggest contract in the history of the Bengals.

Pro Football

"We would have liked to have signed Ricky, but his agent (Howard Slusher) has demanded the kind of things that we can't do," said Brown. "The demands of his agent were so ridiculous. He would have been by far the highest paid Bengal before he played a down. That's wrong."

Although neither side has disclosed details of contract offers and requests, the Cincinnati Enquirer reported Tuesday that Slusher had submitted a 30-page contract proposal on Hunley's behalf, included in the proposal were automobiles, life and health insurance policies and real estate.

Not only have the Bengals rejected the rookie's demand for a bigger contract than star quarterback Ken Anderson, a 15-year veteran, but told Slusher, Tuesday, that the club's offer had been withdrawn.

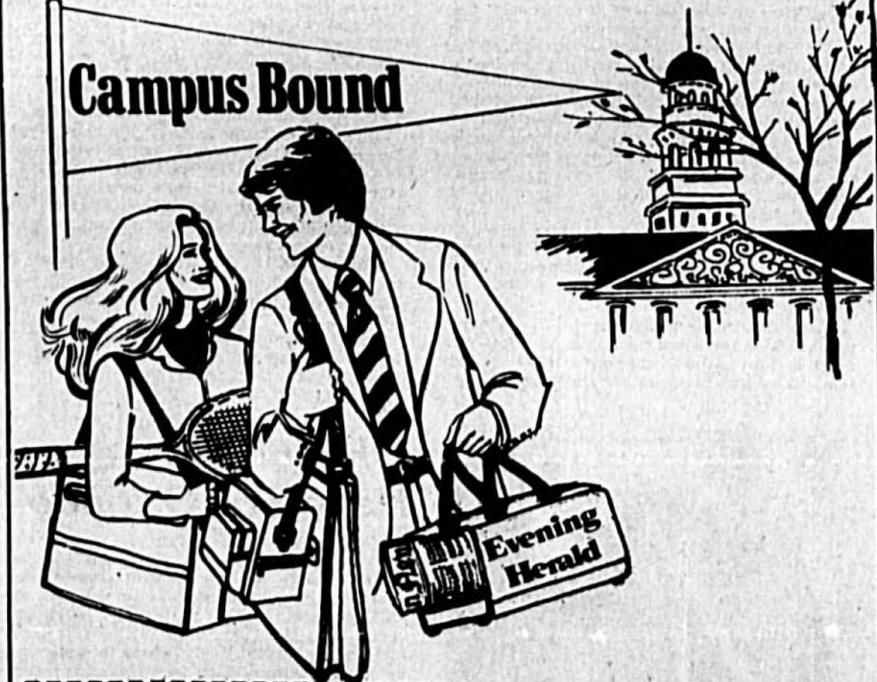

Brown feels that by missing camp, Hunley would not be able to contribute very much this season, and so is no longer worth the team's offer.

"Here's a guy who has missed all the work that goes into the teaching of the position," Brown said. "We have to withdraw our offer because without being able to step in there and play linebacker, he'd probably have to be a special teams player for an extended period."

"It would be a difficult thing if he waits until just before the opening game and then says, 'I'll take your offer.' Well, he's missed everything and he isn't worth it to us at this stage."

Brown said the Bengals are willing to reopen negotiations, but pointed out the club's offer would drop because they feel Hunley's value has diminished.

Elsewhere in NFL training camps: New York Giants coach Bill Parcells named Phil Simms his starting quarterback. He beat out Jeff Rutledge who, along with Simms, was edged out by Scott Brunner in last year's training camp.

Thick Bermuda Rough Has Pros Worried As PGA Nears

SHOAL CREEK, Ala. (UPI) — The thick Bermuda rough has the pros worried as the start of the $700,000 PGA Championship at the Shoal Creek golf course nears.

"The rough is, to put it mildly, kind of brutal," said former PGA champion Larry Nelson following a practice round Tuesday.

"If you hit it in there, it's difficult to play out. But it's what you expect for a major tournament. If you hit a bad shot you should be penalized, and it's going to penalize you probably one shot."

The field of 150 golfers practiced under clear skies Tuesday on the 7,145-yard course in suburban Birmingham. The last of the four "majors" this year has attracted a stellar field, including Masters champ Ben Crenshaw, U.S. Open winner Fuzzy Zoeller and British Open champ Seve Ballesteros.

Tom Watson, the tour's money leader and only triple winner this year, feels accuracy off the tee will be the big factor when play begins Thursday.

"Whoever hits it in the fairway the most will win this week," said Watson. "Anybody hitting the fairways only 50 percent of the time can forget it."

Two-time PGA champ Ray Floyd added anyone driving it in the rough "can't hope to hit it over 130 yards."

Crenshaw, who finally won his first "major" this year at the Masters, was bemoaning the state of his game following a practice round Tuesday with Greg Norman and Andy Bean.

Clermont Schedules Triathlon

One of the greatest tests of athletic endurance, the triathlon, is coming to Central Florida. The Great Clermont Triathlon will be held Sunday, Oct. 7, at Jaycee Beach in Clermont.

The Greater Clermont Triathlon, a U.S.A. Triathlon Federation sanctioned event, will include a one mile swim, 22 mile bike ride and 7.5 mile run. Men and women 15 and over are eligible to enter the triathlon for a $20 fee.

To obtain an official entry form, write to: The Great Clermont Triathlon, Rt. 2 Box 82, Clermont, 32711. Or, for more information about the event, call Fred Sommer, Race Director, at (904) 394-3775.

O-Twins Knock Off Orioles

CHARLOTTE, N.C. — Jerry Lomastro capped a two-run fourth inning with an RBI double as the Orlando Twins knocked off the Charlotte Orioles, 4-3, Tuesday night in Southern League baseball.

Lomastro and Jeff Trout each supplied key hits in the fifth frame while Greg Morhardt's triple chased home Stan Holmes and Greg Howe for two runs in the fourth inning.

Mark Portugal picked up his 11th win in 17 decisions with ninth-inning relief help from Curt Wardle. Wardle hurled the final 3/5 for his 16th save.

Dolphins Hold Final Signup

A final registration for prospective Lakeview Dolphin football players will be held Saturday from 9 a.m. to 12 noon at Sanford Middle School, according to Lakeview Seminole Youth Sports Association coach Wes Childers.

Players need to bring their birth certificate and a $40 registration fee. All players from ages 7 to 14 are eligible for the SYSA league. There are five divisions in the league.

Practice will begin Aug. 27.

Jaycee Darts Is Rescheduled

The Winter Park Jaycee Open Darts Tournament, originally scheduled for Saturday, Aug. 11, has been rescheduled for Sept. 21 and 22. The tournament will feature competition in four events. Cash prizes and trophies will be offered to winners in each event.

'Rested' Savages Begin Region Play

By Chris Flater
Herald Sports Writer

When the Seminole Savages won their first three games in the American Softball Association/Junior Olympics Southeast Regional Tournament, they had already accomplished something that no other Seminole Softball Club 15 and under team had done, they qualified for the ASA National Tournament.

The Savages leave Thursday morning for the National Tournament, which is being held in Plantation. Seminole is one of just six Florida teams competing in the prestigious 50-team tournament.

The draw for the tournament will be held Thursday at 12 noon and the Savages will open play either Thursday night or Friday morning. Opening Ceremonies for the tournament will be held Thursday night at 6 with a parade and introduction of all 50 teams followed by an exchange of gifts between the teams.

After clinching the spot in the National Tournament, the Savages took a week off for vacations, etc., and then got back to practicing the last week and a half. The mood of the team has been pretty calm considering what they are about to embark on.

"They are excited, but I don't think what they have accomplished has really hit them yet," Seminole manager Roger Richardson said. "Once they get down there (Plantation), it will hit them."

The tournament will be a double elimination format and it will probably take seven or eight games to win the title. Four fields will be in use simultaneously during the tournament.

Although winning the tournament is the ultimate goal of every team in it, Richardson is shooting for a top 15 finish.

"Of course we'd like to win the tournament, but I would be very happy to finish in the top 15," Richardson said. "I'm very proud of what this team has accomplished so far, it (National Tournament) is something I've been shooting for four years."

Richardson will most likely go with the same starting lineup from the Southeast Regional Tournament, which was played in late-July at Lake Fairview Field in Orlando. Seminole won its first three games and finished with a 3-2 record and in third place.

The starting pitcher for the Savages is Christy Tibbitts who has had great success on the mound for Seminole the past two years. Behind the plate is hard-hitting Lomicia Whitaker.

Bench strength comes from Jessica Bradley (second base), Kris Korzon (third base, catcher, outfield), Kathy Davis (catcher) and Bridgette Jenerette (outfield).

Richardson's assistant coaches are Larry Korzon and Don Jonas.

Service Returns Are Vital Part Of Game

Larry Castle
SCC Tennis Instructor

One of the most important aspects of one's game is the return of serve. Even though it is so vital it is often neglected and particularly among inexperienced players not nearly enough though is put into this most important part of your game. The return of serve is really a series of supplementary shots. Your basic forehand, backhand and serve will allow you to play the game but you must learn a series of service returns to ever really play the game well. A description of the things involved in service returns follows. Work on them and your game will improve.

Though you may not regard your service returns as supplementary shots since they occur in every point in which you are the receiver, the technique for them often differs enough to warrant special consideration.

Consistency when returning serves is one measure of your playing ability. Work on your service returns as much as you practice other phases of your game.

A common quality among players who return serves effectively is quickness. They are quick to see the ball, quick to move their rackets, and quick to start in motion. In your practice, strive specifically for improvement in these areas.

Your ability to move quickly depends partly on how well you prepare to move. In the ready position, bend your knees and shift your weight forward to get most of it off your heels. Make yourself feel light, bouncy, and springy. Be ready to spring into action the moment you determine the direction of your opponent's shot.

As your opponent's racket goes up to meet the ball, hop up slightly, just barely leaving the ground. Land in the ready posture, called the ready-hop, just as your opponent's racket meets the ball.

As you make your ready-hop, watch the ball as your opponent tosses, and especially as the racket comes into contact with it. Do not look at the total figure of the server and then wait for the ball to come out of that back ground. Focus on the ball. Concentrate on it. Try to determine its direction as soon as you can.

Besides seeing the ball quickly and making a quick start, you should move your racket as quickly as possible. Here you may have a problem of grips — grips in the waiting position and grips during the swing. If you can manage a no-change grip, one that you can use for both forehands and backhands, well and good; you will not have to worry about having time to adjust your grip during the backswing. But if you feel you must hold the racket differently for forehands and backhands, experiment to see which change you make faster, from forehand to backhand or from backhand to forehand. Use as your waiting grip the one you find it easier to change from.

For maximum quickness on the swing you may find it is best to change your backswing from what you normally do. If you normally make a loop swing, change here to a straight one. And if you normally pause at the end of your backswing, change that too; cannonball serves don't allow much time for pausing.

Start your backswing with a quick turn of your shoulders. Add a slight amount of arm action (on the backhand add even a little elbow action), but only as much as time allows. Reverse your arm action to start your forward swing. And if time allows, bring your shoulders around in reverse action too. Otherwise, simply block the ball with a short motion of your arm. Keep your wrist and grip firm.

While in the ready stance, hold your elbows in at your sides, and bend your arms to bring your hands and racket closer to your body. With such a short-radius swing you will need less force to start the racket in motion, and as a result you'll have more force available for speed. This adjustment in posture which shortens your swing may be just what you need to gain that extra quickness which lets you bring the racket around in time to meet the ball squarely.

"When we went to that World Series, we were the host team of the Region," said Taubensee. "This one felt better because we earned it. We've won a lot of games and we deserve to be where we are."

Anthony Laszka, who will pitch tonight against U.S.A. Central Midland, Mich., also has tournament experience, but he said last year's appearance was more exciting with the Altamonte 13-year-olds.

"That was our first time we made it and it was really exciting," said Laszka. "But this time may eventually be better because we may win the World Series."

Last year's 13-year-olds finished second to Puerto Rico.

Getting back to the 12-year-olds and St. Petersburg, Altamonte pitching coach Greg Ebbert had the best line of the tournament thus far. When informed that tonight's 6-0, 155-pound pitcher Carrol Thomas had only played baseball since last year, Ebbert responded, "That's because last year was the first time they could find a birth certificate to match him."

Ebbert wasn't serious, was he?

to left and Radcliff drilled the second of his three hits to left to put runners on first and second.

Greg James then coaxed a walk to load the bases, but Albert ripped a one-hopper which Parker fielded and threw home for the force and the first out. When Jeff Conklin popped out to the second baseman, it looked as if Parker may escape unscathed.

But with Jamie Wallace at bat, Radcliff pulled a fast one. Just as catcher Corey Newsom was returning a pitch to the mound, Radcliff broke for the plate. He scored before the bewildered Newsom could handle the return throw and make a tag. On the play, James alertly took third, and three pitches later scored on a wild pitch for a 6-1 lead.

"Coach Ebbert gave me the steal sign," said the speedy Radcliff. "Just when the catcher gets ready to throw the ball back you have to go. I took over when he stood up and started to throw."

Manager Newsom pulled Parker in favor of Andy Ring, and although Ring was greeted by Thurston's second single.

Parker got his measure of revenge in the third when he followed singles by Eric Wiley and Adrian Jarrell with a long blast over the center field fence to pull the Georgians within 6-4.

Altamonte gave Muselwhite all the runs he needed in the top of the fourth as it sent 11 batters to the plate against Ring and scored six runs. Jason Varitek started the outburst with a bang when he popped a solo homer — his seventh of the playoffs — over the right-center field fence.

Jarrola then walked and went to second on a wild pitch. Muselwhite promptly bounced a ground-rule double over the left field fence for an 8-4 lead. Radcliff followed with a single to drive in Muselwhite and then scored when James singled to left for a 9-4 bulge.

Albert was hit by a pitch and one out later, James scored on a passed ball before Wallace and Thurston both drew free passes. Varitek then hit into a forceout to drive in his second run of the inning for a 12-4 advantage.

The icing came in the sixth when pinch-hitter Curt Carlson reached second when the shortstop overthrew first base. Pinch-hitter Steve Waala then drew a walk, but Thurston lined out to second for the second out.

Varitek, though, smashed a single which handcuffed the shortstop to score Carlson. Jarrola then walked and when the shortstop couldn't come up with Muselwhite's groundball for another error, Waala and Varitek scored for the 15-4 final.

Muselwhite didn't have much trouble the rest of the way, retiring 12 of the final 14 hitters. "We started them out with a fastball inside, then threw the curve down and away," said catcher Thurston, who gunned down a would-be base thief with a strong throw to end the fourth inning.

Jarrola will pitch for Altamonte.

El Salvador Says Nicaragua Lied To The World Court

SAN SALVADOR. El Salvador (UPI) — El Salvador, in a move backing Washington, lodged a protest in the world court accusing Nicaragua of lying when it denied it threatened the security of other Central American nations.

El Salvador filed a protest in the International Court of Justice in The Hague, Netherlands, over a lawsuit Nicaragua filed against the United States April 9.

The Nicaraguan suit requested that the world court order the Reagan administration to halt its backing of anti-Sandinista rebels and condemn the U.S.-led mining of Nicaraguan harbors.

The Reagan administration has said its $55 million in aid to the rebels is to halt arms shipments to leftist guerrillas trying to overthrow El Salvador's U.S.-backed government.

The court found unanimously that the United States was mining Nicaraguan harbors and called on the country to halt the action, but a final decision has not been handed down. The court has no power to enforce its rulings.

Pilgrims Flock To Shrine

CZESTOCHOWA, Poland (UPI) — Roman Catholic pilgrims are flocking to Poland's most sacred religious shrine for annual celebrations normally marked by demonstrations supporting the outlawed Solidarity union.

Pilgrims began arriving Tuesday for today's celebrations at the shrine of the holy Black Madonna Icon at the cliff-top monastery of Jasna Gora near the southern city of Czestochowa. The pilgrimage will end with a celebration of Assumption Day, which marks the Virgin Mary's ascent into heaven.

Since the formation of the now outlawed Solidarity trade union in 1980, the end of the Assumption Day pilgrimage has sparked pro-Solidarity demonstrations despite a government ban on the organization.

Uruguay Finally Sets Elections

MONTEVIDEO, Uruguay (UPI) — In a first step toward ending military rule, the government announced the country's first elections in 13 years will be held in November for a civilian president and congress.

A government decree issued Tuesday by the armed forces, which took power in a 1973 coup, said elections would be held Nov. 25 for a president, vice president, congress and provincial officials.

The elections, the first in Uruguay since 1971, are considered a first step toward ending rule by the military, which overthrew the government after guerrilla violence and strikes weakened the nation's long-time democracy.

Supplies Head For Salyut-7

MOSCOW (UPI) — An unmanned cargo rocket taking supplies to the Salyut-7 space station today headed for the orbital home of three cosmonauts nearing the 211-day space endurance record.

Although Soviet space officials have declined to say when the team is scheduled to return to Earth, it is almost certain they will surpass on Sept. 6 the 211-day endurance record set by the Soviet Union in December 1982.

Nazi War Criminal Who Became U.S. Archbishop Deported

WASHINGTON (UPI) — An accused Nazi war criminal who lived in the United States for 35 years and served as archbishop of the Romanian Orthodox Church in America has been deported, the Justice Department says.

Department officials said Tuesday Viorel Trifa, 70, a leader of the anti-Semitic Iron Guard government in Romania during World War II, flew from New York to Lisbon Monday night after Portugal granted him a visa.

If he had not found a country willing to accept him, he was due to be deported to his native Romania in October.

"This persecutor of countless innocent Jews before and during World War II cannot consider the United States a haven," Attorney General William French Smith said in a statement.

Author Elie Wiesel, head of the U.S. Holocaust Memorial Council, applauded the deportation, which he said "signals once again that there is no room for such war criminals in our midst."

Trifa had been living in Detroit where he has been highly visible as the archbishop of the Romanian Orthodox Church in this country.

"He did not leave because he wanted to go to Portugal," said Neal Sher, director of the Justice Department's unit that prosecutes war crimes. "He left because the United States exposed him. He was able to get to a country where I guess he felt he would not be prosecuted."

Sher said Trifa called for persecution of Jews in Romania as head of a student group called "the shock troops" of the Iron Guards.

Trifa used his position as editor of the newspaper "Libertatea" to spread Nazi propaganda inciting anti-Semitism with "crude" caricatures and comments, Sher said.

Trifa was protected by the Nazi Gestapo in Romania and Germany, Sher said, and entered the United States in 1950, becoming a naturalized citizen seven years later.

Sher said "there was no involvement, no involvement whatsoever" by the CIA in Trifa's passage to America.

Nine years ago, the U.S. attorney's office in Detroit began proceedings to strip Trifa of his citizenship. In 1980 he legally conceded he was deportable.

To avoid years of appeals, the Justice Department agreed to a compromise with Trifa, giving him until October of this year before he would be deported to Romania — if the country would take him.

Former HIS Store Manager Dies After Auto Accident

James R. Sheets, a former Sanford resident of eight years, died Aug. 3 at Baptist Memorial Hospital in Jacksonville after an auto accident near his home in east Palatka. Sheets managed the HIS mens' clothing store in the Sanford Plaza for six years.

He moved to Sanford from California in 1967, retiring after 20 years in the U.S. Air Force. He lived in Ravenna Park.

He is survived by his wife, the former Betty Jo Allen, whom he met while working at the plaza. Mrs. Sheets was fountain manager at Eckerd Drugs in the plaza for 10 years. They were married May 1, 1978.

They moved to Palatka that year and Sheets began working for Foster Wheeler Energy Corp.

He was a veteran of the Korean War and a member of VFW Post 3339 and the American Legion Post 45, both of Palatka.

Services were held Aug. 5 at Masters Funeral Home, Palatka. He was buried at Palatka Memorial Gardens.

In lieu of flowers, Mrs. Sheets has requested that contributions be made to the American Diabetes Association.

U.S. Minesweepers Head For Suez

PORT SAID, Egypt (UPI) — A U.S. Navy ship carrying four minesweeping helicopters followed British and French mine hunter-killers today en route to search out and destroy underwater explosives in the Gulf of Suez.

The USS Shreveport, burdened with the 21-ton choppers, minesweeping gear and 210 support personnel, was to arrive at the northern end of the Suez Canal at 3:30 p.m. (8:30 a.m. EDT) — five days after steaming from a Spanish naval base and 24 hours after British and French mine hunters entered the waterway.

The allied minesweepers — four British, one French and escorted by two support vessels — glided slowly southward through the 100-mile-long canal Tuesday to the Gulf of Suez, which they were to enter early today.

Loaded with four RH-53D Sea Stallion helicopters, the Shreveport is to transit the waterway splitting Egypt proper from the Sinai and was expected to reach the Gulf early Thursday.

Three other Sea Stallions that arrived in Saudi Arabia Monday are to begin minesweeping operations near the ports of Jeddah and Yanbu "within the next few days," the Pentagon said Tuesday. The two ports are about 200 miles apart and are across the Red Sea from Sudan.

Unlike the four helicopters requested by Egypt, the operation of the choppers airlifted to Saudi Arabia will be paid for by the wealthy oil kingdom so long as their sweeping activities are confined to Saudi waters, the Pentagon said.

Washington will bear the cost of the minesweeping operation requested by Egypt, it said.

Despite the mysterious explosions in the Red Sea and the Gulf in the past two weeks that have damaged at least 18 ships of several nationalities, including some of the Soviet bloc, U.S. and Egyptian officials said neither mines nor fragments of mines have been found.

The recovery of an intact mine is viewed a crucial factor in trying to determine who has been responsible for sowing the suspected mines. Egyptian officials have accused Libya and possibly Iran for the mine laying. But there has been no proof.

For the first time since the explosions began, Egypt may be feeling the impact of the suspected mining campaign where it hurts most — economically.

The chairman of the Suez Canal Authority, Adel Ezzat, gave the first indication Tuesday that shipping in the canal has been affected slightly because of the explosions. The canal earns Egypt $1 billion a year in tolls.

Tass: Reagan's Joke 'A Cynical Escapade'

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — The Soviet news agency Tass led a new chorus of criticism on President Reagan's remark about bombing Russia, but the White House maintained a stony silence on that comment and one by a top aide.

The first political repercussion from the bombing remark came from the International Association of Firefighters Tuesday, which endorsed the Democratic ticket because, one member said, "Nuclear war is too serious to joke about."

In Moscow, Tass said, "The White House remains dead silent in answer to the attempts at getting commentaries to this cynical escapade," which "has revealed the real character of the policy pursued by the current U.S. administration."

White House spokesman Larry Speakes refused to comment on reaction to Reagan's weekend quip or presidential assistant Michael Deaver's comment that Reagan, 73, sometimes dozes off during Cabinet meetings.

While testing the microphone before making his weekly paid radio address Saturday, Reagan, who planned to return to Washington today after an 18-day vacation, quipped: "My fellow Americans, I'm pleased to tell you I just signed legislation which outlaws Russia forever. The bombing begins in five minutes."

Jesse Jackson became the latest Democrat to denounce Reagan for the comment.

"I think the Republican Party ought to repudiate that statement and President Reagan should apologize publicly," Jackson told reporters at Washington's National Airport.

Cook Of The Week

Bachelor Prepares A Unique Meal For 2

By Karen Warner
Herald Correspondent

Instilled within the fibers of mankind is a predestined desire to be a success. Yet success is one of those things that man measures in so many different ways. To one, success can be measured in financial freedom, to still another it can be achieved by a career, or in the raising of well-adjusted children.

But for today's Cook of the Week, Dan Taylor of Sanford, success can be measured in personal growth, individualism and uniqueness.

Born in Orlando, Dan was raised by what he calls "the most perfect examples of good character" he has ever met, his mother and father. Looking back, and still feeling the loss of father, Josiah Wells Taylor, who died about a year ago, Dan fondly speaks of the legacy "this great man" left him. More like a friend than a father, Dan says his father taught him to be himself, no matter what, and to be a unique individual.

Dan's unique individualism can be seen everywhere throughout his comfortable two-story Sanford home — from his polished original brass fixtures to his hat collection and even his extensive record collection, which includes a variety of sounds from classical to rock.

Although he is still an eligible bachelor at age 24, Dan has a variety of loves in his life including a love of music, reading and life itself. Filling his days with the things he enjoys the most, he starts off each day with serious, dedicated exercise. Recently joining a fitness center in Sanford where he works out and jokingly refers to "the quest for the perfect tan."

But exercise in physical fitness is only one area where Dan strives to be the best he can. He also loves to exercise his clever and philosophical mind, stretching it to the limits.

Actively pursuing a career as an accountant, he is currently attending Seminole Community College where he is studying business accounting and computers. After spending at least four hours a day in serious study, Dan also actively plays with his favorite toy, his Sanyo NBC 550 computer, learning new programs, and storing up a wealth of information for later use.

Other loves of his life include extensive study of the Bible, chess, driving his metallic blue Porsche 911 and reading science fiction and books on human relationships.

Being a "romantic" at heart, Dan says he enjoys the challenge of preparing a full course meal for large groups but really prefers quiet dinners for two by candlelight.

When unexpected guests drop in at his house for dinner, he disappears off into the kitchen to prepare what he calls a "throw together" meal. Shortly returning to his guests, he can set before them a meal that any gourmet chef would be envious of: baked cornish hens with rice stuffing, broccoll with cheese sauce, and a loaf of freshly baked bread.

Today's recipes are some of Dan's favorites, not only ones he enjoys cooking and serving, but ones that he truly enjoys eating himself.

DINNER FOR TWO

- 2 game hens
- 2 large baking potatoes
- Small bunch of FRESH (not canned) asparagus

2-3 strips of bacon

- Onion
- Celery
- Chives
- Lemon
- Cashews
- Unprocessed rice
- Sour cream
- Cream cheese
- Fresh Romano cheese
- Unsalted butter
- Pam
- Brandy
- White burgundy wine
- Worcestershire Sauce
- Salt, black pepper, Fines herbs, paprika

OPTIONAL: pear preserves

Wash potatoes, pierce with fork and spray lightly with Pam. Bake at 375 degrees for about an hour. Scoop out insides and beat well. Add 1/4C milk and continue beating. Add 1/4C-1/4C cream cheese, 1/4 tsp. salt, sprinkle of pepper and mash until completely smooth. Roll skins in freshly grated romano cheese and fill them with mashed potato mixture and top with crumbled bacon, paprika and chives. Bake 20 mins. at 400 degrees. On the side serve sour cream and a mixture of 1/4C butter with 1 tablespoon Fines herbs.

Cook 1/4C (total) chopped onion and celery in 1 Tablespoon unsalted butter until onion begins to wilt. Add 1/4C UN-PROCESSED rice, 7 oz. double strength chicken broth, and 2-3 tablespoons chopped cashews. Simmer between 20 and 25 minutes. IMPORTANT: If broth is not absorbed the rice will be like ball bearings in the hens. Stuff the hens with the rice and oil the openings tightly. Cook approximately 90-95 minutes, piercing with knife to check for doneness. Do not overcook. While hens are cooking, baste with a mixture of butter and a light touch of brandy. Hens are ready when they take on a golden glaze like a surfer at Daytona Beach. (NOTE: If desired, a glaze of pear preserves warmed with bandy may be brushed over the hens just before serving.)

Cut tough parts of asparagus away from stalk, and steam stems until tender. While the asparagus is cooking, saute 1 chopped garlic clove in 1/4C unsalted butter. Add 2 dashes of Worcestershire sauce, freshly squeezed lemon juice and 1 tablespoon of white burgundy. Lightly brush on asparagus prior to serving.

Dr. and Mrs. Michael Robert Haake

Miss Biglin, Dr. M. R. Haake Repeat Vows

Patricia Ann Biglin and Dr. Michael Robert Haake were married July 28, at 2 p.m., in the Nativity Catholic Church, Lake Mary. Father J. Selbert was the officiating clergyman for the double ring ceremony.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Paul Biglin, 501 Crystal View, North, Sanford. The bridegroom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Oscar Haake, Ferdinand, Ind.

Given in marriage by her parents, the bride chose for her gown a French ribbon lace gown fashioned with an off-the-shoulder neckline and puffed sleeves terminating with ruffled cuffs of schiffli lace. The fitted bodice was accented with Venice signature satin scallops and seed pearls. Her double full skirt of silk French ribbon lace edged with Venice scroll satin embroidery overlaid an underskirt of bridal satin. She wore a single strand of pearls and carried a cascading silk bouquet of white roses, stephanotis, babies breath and trailing ivy. Her tiered waltz-length veil of imported illusion was held by a halo of silk flowers embellished with pearls.

Pamela Grant attended her sister as matron of honor. She wore a dusty rose gown featuring a chiffon skirt and Qiana skirt accented with Venice lace. Her headpiece was a spray of babies breath and she carried a silk hand bouquet of mixed flowers interspersed with fresh babies breath.

Bridesmaids were Gayle Mazza, Ori Sanders and Betty Haake. Their gowns and flowers were identical to the honor attendant's.

Joseph Haake served his brother as best man. Groomsmen were Pat Kippenbrock, Jim Mooney and Jim Biglin.

Elizabeth Haake was the flower girl and Christopher Dilger was the ring bearer.

Following a reception at the Woman's Club of Sanford, the newlyweds departed for a wedding trip to Hawaii.

They are making their home in Deltona. The bridegroom is a physician specializing in internal medicine. The bride is employed as a radiation therapy technologist.

Engagement Fuller-Prescott

Mr. and Mrs. Deane Fuller, 133 Bedford Court, Sanford, announce the engagement of their daughter, Kimberley Michelle, to David Leroy Prescott Jr. of Sanford, son of Mr. and Mrs. David L. Prescott of Lakeland.

Born at Ormond Beach, the bride-elect is the maternal granddaughter of Mrs. J. H. Loehbelt, Sanford. She is a member of the 1985 class of Seminole High School and is employed as cashier-clerk by Touchton's Drug Store, Sanford.

Her fiance, born in Miami, is the maternal grandson of Mrs. Sarah Prescott, Sylvester, Ga. He is a member of the National Guard and is employed by Seminole County.

The wedding will be an event of Aug. 18, at 7 p.m., in the gazebo of Centennial Park, Sanford.

Beekeepers Institute Set

The Beekeepers Institute, a hands-on instructional program planned Aug. 24-26 at the 4-H Camp, Ocala, will be especially geared to help new beekeepers get started.

"Our goal is to provide the individual with training needed to make the best possible management decisions," says Dr. Tom Sanford, director of the Institute and an extension apiculturist with the University of Florida's Institute of Food and Agricultural Sciences (IFAS).

In addition to learning about the science of raising bees, the program will also deal with techniques for processing and marketing bee products. Sanford says that although this year's institute will be especially valuable to beginners, "Both the beginner and the experienced beekeeper can profit and are encouraged to attend."

Fees are $45, with a $5 discount for registration before August 15. Meals are included, but participants should bring their own sheets, towels and blankets.

To register or for more information, write to Beekeeper's Institute, 202 Newell Hall, University of Florida, Gainesville, Fl 32611, or call Sanford at (904) 392-1801.

Preservation Society At Work

Since April, a committee has spent tireless hours drawing up the by-laws for the Henry S. Sanford Library-Museum Preservation Society. The by-laws were ready for the vote of the membership at the quarterly meeting. Due to lack of quorum, the by-laws will be voted on at the next meeting. Among the preservation society committee members writing the by-laws are, from left, Orjan Walker, Rebecca Stevens, co-chairman, Brabara Ruprecht, chairman, Barbara Moore, Ruth Swinney and Juannie Mercer.

Nancy's Hairdresser Wouldn't Dream Of Coiffing And Telling

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Robin Weir wants to get something straight right up front: "I'm a waste if you want to know who's sleeping with who. I don't know who's having affairs."

Even if this hairdresser knew for sure — indeed, he may — the guy who Nancy Reagan, Maureen Reagan, Elizabeth Dole, Joan Rivers and Edie Gorme trust with their tresses wouldn't dream of coiffing and telling.

During official state visits to Washington, Margaret Thatcher, Indra Ghandi and Queen Beatrix have also gone under his comb.

"If a hairdresser develops a reputation for not talking, his clients keep coming back," Weir, a homegrown Washingtonian, explains tartly. "People loooooove to ask about the personal lives of some of my clients, you know, 'what's she really like?' I say, 'Well she has moles on her chin and lumps on her head.'"

But there are some subjects Weir will broach. Take the misconceptions about Mrs. Reagan's puffy do.

"I've heard the jokes, like if she falls down, she'll break her hair," he relays. "You read that it's stiff, but it's very soft. At any time, you can run your fingers through it. It's just that she has very thick, good hair — that I don't have." He lets out a sarcastic howl and flips his eyes upward to his thinning crown.

As for the "does she or doesn't she" question, Weir admits she does. "It's not Moonchild. It's hmmm...," he's at loss for the exact name of the bottled hue. Touch-ups are done by Julius Bengtsson, her West Coast hairdresser of 20 years.

What's the story on President Reagan's hair, which seems to thicken and darken with age? "It's absolutely real. I mean, there's a lot of gray there," insists Weir.

Nancy Reagan may be the country's grand dame, but that doesn't mean she gets a free ride with Weir. He says she pays his going price of $18 for a cut, $18 for a set: "I bill her monthly and I don't take tips."

But this client, of course, doesn't get groomed with the masses that frequent Weir's namesake shop near Georgetown. Rather, decked in coat and tie, he tools to the White House "at least once a week" in his Mercedes 380 SL and works out of Mrs. Reagan's private salon.

"It's a little, teeny room that was John John and Caroline Kennedy's playroom," he explains. "Patricia Nixon put in the salon. Mrs. Carter decided to remodel it. After Carter lost, the project was completed when the Reagans came in."

Must be a real thrill, huh, to pull up to the Pennsylvania Avenue gates and say to the guard: "I'm here to see Mrs. Reagan?" Adjacent tables at the Jockey Club grow silent awaiting a juicy reply. "I don't get the chill anymore, I mean, I go in, get the job done and get out," he says, then takes a nonchalant sip of Campari and soda.

Oh, come on, not even one tiny goose bump? "Well, when the president comes in, it's a little more...," Weir leaves the sentence in mid-air then slices into his steak au poivre. "President Reagan comes in after work and sometimes tells jokes that he heard at the office," he continues.

Yeah? What's his funniest joke so far? "I cannot remember jokes told by anybody, much less the president," Weir retorts, but does recall that the stories are "absolutely" always clean.

All jokes aside, there's usually no time for chit-chat during Mrs. Reagan's one-hour sessions. "There are only two women that I do who work while I'm shampooing, work while they're getting their hair set, work while they're being combed," remarks Weir. "And that's Elizabeth Dole and Mrs. Reagan."

"I mean, she (the first lady) doesn't just go to lunches," he huffs. "She really works hard — paper work, answering letters, going over schedules."

He bristles when it's mentioned that Nancy Reagan has been portrayed as a woman who prefers clothes and parties to the dirty business of politics.

"That's absolute myth," he argues with a sloop of his hand, the light dancing off his three-karat diamond ring. "She understands the issues. But she also wears nice clothes. It's not a crime to wear nice clothes. She's gotten a bad rap. I mean, if she was a dog and wore gingham pass-me-downs, they'd bitch about that."

You won't hear any moans come out of Weir's mouth on Nancy Reagan's Chinadoll image. When she looks good, his business surges accordingly.

Woman Ready To Lay Down The Law To Two-Timing Cop

Dear Abby

DEAR ABBY: What a mess I am in! I just found that the rat I've been living with for nine years (we have a 6-month-old baby) has been having quickie affairs all along. I bought the story he couldn't marry because we're living in my house, which is located out of his district (he's a Detroit police officer), and he would say, "If I married you and we lived in your house, I would lose my job because of residency."

One of his girlfriends wrote him a letter addressed to my house. In this letter she described some love scenes she had with him that are exactly like the ones I have had with him. She used the very same endearing words he used to whisper in my ear at night.

I am so burned I want to throw the rat out. Can you give me some advice? He lies so much I can't believe a word he says.

BURNED IN MICHIGAN

DEAR BURNED: The "rat" has a legal responsibility to the child he fathered. I don't blame you for wanting to throw him out. Too bad you didn't write to me nine years ago. I would have suggested that you sell your house and move into his district.

DEAR ABBY: You recently gave your readers some valuable advice when you warned them against vigorously shaking an infant or small child. I am a retired pediatric nursing instructor who has always stressed that very point.

Few people are aware that shaking an infant or small child vigorously can cause a whiplash kind of brain injury that can result in eventual mental retardation!

How often we see well-intentioned adults playfully "tossing a baby high into the air." This innocent little game that seems to delight the baby can also result in permanent brain damage.

Brain cells are easily destroyed in infants, and as I told my students, every child needs all the brain cells it can maintain in order to cope in our complex worlds.

JOYCE B. JARVIS, R.N.
FULLERTON, CALIF.

DEAR NURSE JARVIS: Even though you are officially retired, you're still teaching. Thanks for the refresher course.

DEAR ABBY: This is for the woman who claimed that her immediate friendliness to strangers while waiting in lines "puts everybody in a good mood."

I've met you many times. Once when I was in the checkout line at the market, you asked me a question regarding the weather, the length of the line or whatever, while I was mentally tabulating the amount of money I was spending or wondering if I had forgotten an important item. I tried to get by with a nod and a smile, but you kept right on talking, so I finally had to feign deafness in order to be left along with my thoughts.

I encountered you again while standing in a long line at the bank. You tapped me on the shoulder to comment on how crowded the bank was during the lunch hour. When I turned around to acknowledge your remark, the teller closed her window to go to lunch, forcing us helpless customers to get into an even longer line.

Another time I was in line to have a prescription filled when you went into a detailed account of your recent illnesses. I considered fainting at your feet to shut you up, but I was afraid I'd lose my place in line.

Your children were correct when they told you you were too friendly, and they feared that one day you may be murdered by a stranger.

Interrupt Use Of Drug For Migraine Headaches

DEAR DR. LAMB — I need your opinion on the long-term use of Sansert. I have been taking it for the past seven years to prevent migraine headaches. My former doctor, who has since retired because of age and illness, prescribed the drug. I take Sansert one to three times daily, as needed.

DEAR READER — It is important to know that your doctor's diagnosis of a migraine headache is correct. If it is, then using Sansert to prevent headaches would be proper, but your present doctor is quite right that one should not take it without interruption for a long period of time. The usual recommendation is that you should not take it for longer than six months without stopping it for a period of three to four weeks.

Your small dose may have been a help in preventing complications. Sansert is a very good medicine, but it can stimulate the growth of fibrous tissue lining the body cavity. This can cause obstruction of the ureter and can even cause damage to the heart valves. There may not be any symptoms while this condition is developing. No one should be taking Sansert, no matter how small the dose, without regular medical supervision.

While Fiorinal may relieve your symptoms, it is not a commonly used preventive medicine. Inderal and Elavil are sometimes used for that purpose. I have outlined the treatment and prevention of migraine headaches in The Health Letter 16-12, Headaches and What to Do About Them.

DEAR DR. LAMB — Can you tell me what value niacin has far as your mentality is concerned? I bought some and the salesperson at the drug store said it could give me flushing.

DEAR READER — You need to clarify common terms. Niacin often means either nicotinic acid or nicotinic acid amide (niacinamide). Nicotinic acid causes flushing and it is used to lower cholesterol levels. This reason it is used in treating some doctor's supervision, if at all. It could aggravate this condition for you.

Send your questions to Dr. Lamb, P.O. Box 1551, Radio City Station, New York, N.Y. 10019.

Cable TV Industry Challenges Education Programming Rule

HARTFORD, Conn. (UPI) — Some state cable television companies say a law requiring them to set aside one channel to carry state-run educational programs violates their First Amendment rights.

The Connecticut Cable Television Association filed suit Monday against the law, saying it inhibits their right to choose their programming and allows the state to confiscate cable company property without just compensation.

A hearing on the suit is scheduled Sept. 10 in U.S. District Court before Senior Judge M. Joseph Blumenthal, said Michael J. Dorfman, executive director of the cable association, which represents 25 cable systems.

Conservatives In Control At The GOP's Convention

By Clay F. Richards
UPI Political Writer

DALLAS (UPI) — Not since 1964 when they booted Nelson Rockefeller off the podium and nominated Barry Goldwater have conservatives so dominated the Republican National Convention.

Frustrated the last three and a half years because President Reagan has not pushed much of their social agenda, the conservatives took over writing the platform for the 1984 election campaign.

It includes much of the legislation they have waited in vain for Reagan to push, including such items as tuition tax credits and a constitutional amendment banning abortion.

When it came to the battle over whether or not there should be language in the platform that might allow for a tax increase if necessary to battle high budget deficits, the conservatives were not having any of it — even though it meant taking on Reagan.

For 48 hours, the White House operatives, who thought they were in firm control of the platform process, tried to find compromise language that would oppose tax increases in principle, but allow Reagan to raise them if he thought it was needed for continued economic recovery.

The conservatives wanted no tax increase whatsoever and therefore no compromise. By a unanimous vote, the economic subcommittee voted for a plank that in effect said the drafters opposed tax increases, period, because they threatened economic recovery.

They added insult to injury by coming out in favor of a flat tax to replace the progressive income tax. Reagan is interested in the concept but does not want to be bound to it.

There is much more behind the conservatives' domination of the convention than just trying to get Reagan to run on the party platform they favor. The conservatives know as well as anyone else that no one reads a platform for the four years after the day it is passed.

The conservatives are confident Reagan will win re-election with any kind of platform. What they are looking to is 1988, who will run the party then and who will be its presidential nominee.

Rep. Jack Kemp of New York, one of the pioneer authors of the Reagan tax program, led the anti-tax fight in Dallas. The former pro-football quarterback from Buffalo has made no secret of his ambition to inherit the conservative mantle and the White House from Reagan in four years.

On the other side of the battle, arguing that deficit and economic recovery might demand a tax hike next year, was Sen. Robert Dole of Kansas, another player in the 1988 presidential sweepstakes.

Any battles being fought at the Republican National Convention over the next 10 days in Dallas are not just the latest installments of Reagan vs. his conservative base. They are the opening volleys of the 1988 campaign.

Mondale: 'I'll Win On My Own'

MEMPHIS, Tenn. (UPI) — Walter Mondale, stung by Jesse Jackson's criticism of his campaign strategy, says he will win the election "on my own."

Jackson has not met with Mondale since the Democratic convention ended nearly a month ago and Jackson has not campaigned for the Democratic ticket.

Some Democrats, Jackson among them, regard Jackson as an important part of a general election campaign because of his demonstrated ability to draw large numbers of black voters to the polls.

It is not clear how many of the blacks who turned out for Jackson would turn out for a white candidate in November.

Jackson has said he is waiting for a signal from the campaign to begin work on voter registration and getting out the black vote.

Although Jackson has said he supports the Democratic ticket, he was critical of the effectiveness of the campaign in a newspaper interview published Tuesday.

"The Mondale camp has no media strategy, no coherent regional or national strategy, no themes to attract black voters," Jackson said in the Los Angeles Times interview.

While flying from Little Rock, Ark., to Memphis, Mondale, who had just learned about Jackson's comments, said angrily:

"We've given him Ernie Green and that didn't help." Green, a former Labor Department official in the Carter administration, was a high-level aide to Jackson who was hired recently by the Mondale campaign.

Then Mondale added: "I can win this thing on my own."

At a news conference a few minutes later, Mondale said he did not remember exactly what words he had used on the plane. But he minimized their importance.

Nationwide Search Begun For Missing Paperboy, 13

DES MOINES, Iowa (UPI) — The FBI searched nationwide for a "loner" suspect seen by six people talking to a 13-year-old paperboy shortly before the youth disappeared.

Police also sifted through hundreds of tips hoping to find a lead to Eugene Martin, whose disappearance resembled that of another paperboy who vanished two years ago.

"We have to assume the worst," Sgt. Bill Mullins said. "There is no reason to believe he is not in another state."

Eugene Martin, whose 14th birthday is Friday, vanished early Sunday as he was about to deliver copies of the Des Moines Register. Fellow newsboy Johnny Gosch disappeared from his Sunday route Sept. 5, 1982, and has not been heard from since.

Police say there may be a connection between the two cases and are treating Martin's disappearance as a kidnapping.

Authorities said they are concentrating on "relatively similar" reports by six neighbors who saw Martin talking with a man Sunday morning as he was about to begin his paper route.

An FBI specialist was called in to draw a composite sketch of the suspect based on the reports. Police said the description of the suspect had improved with more interviews.

Authorities also were using a psychological profile of the suspect to aid the search, said Herb Hawkins, special agent in charge of the FBI Nebraska-Iowa field office.

"Generally, the person is an introvert, a loner who may or may not be extra guilt ridden on what he does but will not turn himself in," he said.

Hawkins said 17 FBI agents and other authorities were investigating leads.

A report that the missing boy was spotted "looking beat up and battered" in a car heading out of town was unfounded, Mullins said. But he refused to say how the lead was eliminated.

SECOND AMENDED NOTICE OF ACTION TO ALL DEFENDANTS
YOU ARE HEREBY NOTIFIED that an Action to Quiet Title on Lots 1, 4 and 5, Block B, LITTLE WEKIVA ESTATES, NUMBER ONE, Flat at Seminole County Public Records, has been filed against you and you are required to serve a copy of your written defenses, if any, to: HOWARD A. SPIEGEL, ESQUIRE, 201 S. ORIZAVELLA AVENUE, SUITE 201, WINTER PARK, FLORIDA, 32789, and file the original with the Clerk of Seminole County Circuit Court, on or before the 24th day of August, 1984; or otherwise, a judgment may be entered against you for the relief demanded in the Complaint.
The specific purpose of this litigation is to remove, as Deed Restrictions on the property described hereinabove, those paragraph portions of NOTICE OF RESTRICTIONS ON REAL ESTATE, filed on all Lots of LITTLE WEKIVA ESTATES, NUMBER ONE, and specifically the following paragraph portions: "1. All lots in the said subdivision shall be known and described as residential lots, and not more than one private dwelling designed for and occupied by one family, with appurtenant garage and utility room, shall be permitted to be built thereon."
"2. No noxious or offensive trade or business shall be carried on upon any lot, nor shall anything be done thereon that may be or become any annoyance or nuisance to the neighborhood; no billboards, outdoor advertising display or other signs of any kind shall be constructed, erected, used or placed upon any lot hereby restricted."

Aging Inches Across America Like A Glacier

Some States Take Futuristic Action To Cope With Urgent Problems Of Elderly Population

By H.D. Gaigg
UPI Senior Editor

We are the people. We keep coming. But we're aging faster than ever before in history. More people than ever are living longer than ever.

Would you believe that in America 25,000 of us are over age 100? That was the 1980 census finding. But the census bureau estimates the number now has grown to 45,000.

Either figure is a quantum leap — or perhaps dodder — of centenarians.

In the last two decades, the 65-plus population grew twice as fast as the rest. In year 2010, just a quarter-century away, one of every seven Americans is expected to be 65 or older. And by 2050, one out of four.

The older population itself is aging. The 75-plus old folks are the fastest-growing group in the American population. About half of all the people 65 and older have great-grandchildren.

To paraphrase Ogden Nash, "The years are creeping over us like we're red ants."

On June 29, Florida's Gov. Bob Graham stood before his newly appointed Committee on Aging at its first meeting, noted that one in five Floridians would be age 65 or older by the end of just this decade, and said he wanted a projection of what the needs would be "in the year 2000 and beyond."

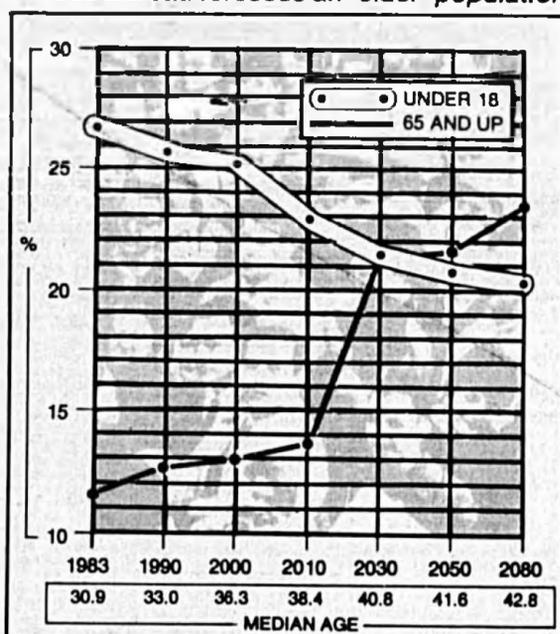

"We need to be futuristic," he said. "Florida is where much of the future of America is being lived today. Florida is like a person trying to intercept a fast-moving jet plane; if you move to a point where the plane is now, you miss it."

That metaphor will apply to the United States in the year 2010, when the postwar "baby boom" generation starts to give the population a sudden overlay of gray, a society of the elderly with attendant problems.

The case of the very old, above age 85, is nothing short of demographic drama. Their segment of the population is projected to jump from 1 percent now to 5 percent of the total by mid-21st century.

Statistics for that very-old bloc sound an alarm bell of number and proportion: 123,000 in 1900; 2.2 million in 1980; a projected 16 million in the year 2050. The foregoing figures and projections are from the U. S. Senate Special Committee on Aging.

Census Bureau foresees an 'older' population

From 1790 to 1950, the "average American" was under 30 — but by 2080, the median age will have increased to 42.8 and the over-65 age group will make up nearly one quarter of the population, almost double its current share.

The country will have to face up to a geriatric glut shortly after the century turns — a corner-turning only 15 and a half years away. The oldesters above 75 — classed "aged" by the experts — will be one out of every eight Americans by mid-century.

And that bloc brings on policy troubles. They are the ones that need such attention as nursing homes, housing, health services, social care, and income maintenance. Not to mention the bugaboo of Social Security, an institution that fosters instant caterwaul between President Reagan and his sociological critics.

Social Security in 1940 paid out $35 million in benefits to 254,984 people. In the calendar year 1984, it expects to pay out $176 billion to 36.5 million beneficiaries. One of every seven Americans now gets a monthly Social Security check.

Social Security benefits are the single largest source of money income for the elderly; they reach 91.2 percent of the elderly. More than half of that group depend on Social Security for more than half their income; a fifth get 90 percent of their income from it.

Of the graying of the people, one demographer says: "It's like the approach of the next ice age. Nobody pays much attention, and when it finally creeps up, good God!"

That inexorable creep of the aged has been called the major event of the 20th century by Dr. Robert N. Butler, former director of the National Institute on Aging, now professor of geriatrics at Mount Sinai Medical Center in New York.

Butler notes that the 85-plus group is the fastest-growing age segment in all the industrialized countries — then notes that about 20 percent of the people aged 85 have some kind of serious senile brain disease.

Texas state Sen. Chet Brooks, chairman of the Health and Human Resources Committee, says the state is trying to develop a network of long-term care alternatives in homes and communities to avoid or defer hospitals or nursing homes.

"Some elderly in the past were sadly parked in state hospitals for psychological care — hopefully we don't have that anymore," Brooks says. "It was commonplace 10 years ago. They'd suffer a little loss of memory and get parked in a mental institution. This new network of services had been a godsend for them and their quality of life."

Texas, Brooks says, is also developing preventive health care — "I think the new buzzword is 'Wellness Promotion'" — in services to educate oldsters how to alter lifestyles to avoid catastrophic illness.

Brooks notes: "There's going to be a lot more interest on the part of state, city, and county government about the needs and wishes of the aging — a significant voting bloc who have already demonstrated their ability to be active politically."

Quite so. Older people are more likely to vote than younger groups. Seventy-one percent of people between ages 55 and 64 voted in the 1980 presidential election, as did 69 percent of those 65-74. But only 40 percent of those under 25 voted, and 55 percent of those 25-34.

In California, where Medicaid is called Medical, the chairman of the state Senate Subcommittee on Aging, Henry Mello, says the state's In-Home Supportive Services sends people to do homemaker-type chores (inside the house for frail oldsters).

Another California program, Senior Companions, doesn't do homemaking but tends to such things as writing letters, taking aged ones shopping, paying bills, and seeing medicines are taken. The visits are two or three times a week.

Florida is something else. Dade County (Miami) alone has more elderly, about 335,000, than 18 other states. Every year, 120,000 to 150,000 new residents above age 60 move into Florida. But since some are moving out and some are dying, the net is about 100,000.

In a Florida statewide population of 10 million, one of every

'We need to be futuristic... Florida is where much of the future of America is being lived today. Florida is like a person trying to intercept a fast-moving jet plane; if you move to a point where the plane is now, you miss it.'

four, 2.5 million, are 60-plus, and 17.8 percent are above age 65.

"We just did a study," says John Stokesberry, director of the Florida Office of Aging and Adult Services, "and find that when you take the $9 billion in Social Security our senior citizens get and add it to other types of pensions they get, the take totals $17 billion a year."

"We call it our mailbox economy. It sort of makes Florida immune to recessions."

Florida funds its Community Care for the Elderly program with $20 million in state general revenues, providing services such as respite care, homemaker chores, shopping assistance — to promote independent living. It administers the federally funded Older Americans Act, which provides such things as adult activity centers and congregate meal sites.

"People are just coming in faster than we can accommodate them, really," Stokesberry says. "I predict that in coming years Florida's biggest problem is going to be adequate affordable housing."

A Florida breakthrough came in the last legislative session, when a hospital cost containment bill was passed setting up a pool for the medically indigent — all hospitals will pay a share toward caring for those patients.

Ohio is the only state that requires its medical schools to have courses in geriatric medicine. These are in different departments of seven schools. The state allocates $1 million a year in state funds to the schools for the program. Students now get involved in nursing homes to augment the classroom.

Ohio has an Assisted Living Program that helps with home care. There is also a Shared Living, with sometimes eight or 10 people in one house.

An interesting and innovative private approach to long-term care will be the testing at four sites across the country of social health maintenance organizations (SHMO) with voluntarily enrolled populations aged 65-plus. These are in New York, Long Beach, Calif., Portland, Ore., and Minneapolis.

Brandeis University, Waltham, Mass., is the project manager for the Health and Human Services Department to set up this private long-term care insurance plan to provide everything from hospital, doctor, and home care services through such as eyeglasses, dentures, foot care, and home chore services.

Payments would be private monthly premiums plus Medicare-Medicaid money. The four sites expect to begin enrollment of some 16,000 elderly people in September.

An example of community-based long-term-care alternative service is the On Lok Senior Health Services in the San Francisco Chinatown-North Beach area. It is funded with waivers from Medicare and Medicaid, from which it takes less money than they normally would spend there. The program delivers health and health-related services to 300 of the most frail elderly low-income people living in small rooms in Chinatown, all state-certified as eligible for nursing homes.

Old age is often a time of loneliness, of many anxieties, often of a decrease in walking ability, sometimes of senility, often of paranoia because of increasing deafness — and ever a sense of segregation and wondering how much longer there is to go.

C.C. Turnesa, a retired engineer who lives in a city heavily populated with retirees, St. Petersburg, Fla., says: "The biggest problem I see here is loneliness. A big percentage live alone, many with no one close to them. I know one gentleman who's 92 who tells me, 'There doesn't seem to be anyone who cares; if I do have a conversation, they'll walk off from me.'"

Frank Stewart of Cleveland, 77, a retired clerk, says the main concern is crime against the elderly, but he voices another common complaint: "You get so many insurance supplements popping up at you, offers in the mail. A lot of people don't know what it's all about. One main thing we need is a national Medicare thing — all the way across the board."

In Los Angeles, Milton Tepper, 70, says: "Ten years ago I was fired, not retired. I quickly found out that at age 60 the only positions available were at the top or bottom — not middle management, which I had been."

Tepper became a peer counselor at the Andrus Older Adult Center, which is devoted to meeting the mental health needs of the aging.

"The biggest problem is depression," he says. "Relatives and friends moved away, the children maybe 2,000 miles away. Plus, nobody ever asks you your advice or opinion; you feel you are no longer needed. And the incredible cost of health is a big thing."

The Bible, Psalms 71:9, asks, "Cast me not off in the time of old age; forsake me not when my strength faileth." But the poet Dylan Thomas advised: "Do not go gentle into that good night; old age should burn and rave at close of day."

North Carolina Becomes Retirement Mecca

By Dan Lohwasser

ASHEVILLE, N.C. (UPI) — Three years ago, after a New York publisher released The Places Rated Almanac, the telephone lines began to light up at the Asheville Chamber of Commerce.

This scenic, mid-size mountain town, the setting of novelist Thomas Wolfe's Look Homeward Angel, was ranked the No. 1 place to live among cities of less than 125,000 population.

Then in 1983, The Places Rated Retirement Guide ranked Asheville No. 2 and nearby Brevard No. 1. The action at the chamber really heated up. They were handling 400 to 500 inquiries daily, most from retirees. The co-author of both books, Richard Boyer, was so impressed with the place, a traditional tourist town, he chose it for his own retirement.

As the nation begins to gray, with a dramatic increase in the ranks of the elderly, Asheville and placid western North Carolina in general have become one of the nation's top retirement attractions.

"We have a lot of Florida people coming here," boasted Garrett Alderfer, director of the chamber of commerce. "We have 400 to 500 calls a day on our toll free telephone lines, and 50 percent of those are from Florida. The Floridians like it here because we have four distinct seasons and the winter is not severe enough to cause problems."

The moderate climate is only one of the factors that makes Asheville attractive to the elderly, say the experts.

"When retirees can put together the climate, economic housing, good health care, a good environment, a low crime rate, a good public transportation system — all of the arts, then this is a combination that truly attracts them to settle in this area," said Alderfer.

But above all, the retirement boom is fed by the attitude of the area, which gladly accepts its role in the 80s.

"The total environment adds up to something very satisfactory with very few disadvantages," says Evelyn Omwake, a retired college professor from New London, Conn. "It's an area that is interested in its growth and development and a major point is making it a suitable and attractive place for people to retire."

"The people are courteous and eager to make you comfortable and satisfy you. My friends visiting here have been very impressed."

At the state capitol in Raleigh, June Barber of the Division of Aging said the entire state has a policy of welcoming the elderly and that policy has made it a leader in special programs for the aging.

"There are some states that don't want older people," she said. "This isn't a political remark. But we have a governor (James B. Hunt Jr.) who made promises to the elderly and he's carried them out 100 percent."

She said the state has established 70 senior centers, social centers for the elderly, and is asking the Legislature for the money to build 30 more. A program called "Living Independently for the elderly" teaches the aged about nutrition and health at the community level. The Joining Old and Young Program tries to get school kids to adopt "grandparents" in real homes and retirement communities.

Barber said the influx of retirees is also being felt in coastal areas. She said the last census figures showed 667,000 people in the state over 65 out of a total population of 8 million. That ranks it second behind Florida in the South.

Bananas Reveal A Dazzling Variety of International Flavors

American cooking is coming of age. Long known for adaptations of ethnic dishes, especially those of Europe, the United States is now seen as a creative center for innovative cuisine. We are developing a style and a repertoire all our own, and the versatile banana is fully up to appearing in the popular new modes.

Keynotes in the new American cookery are freshness, regionalism and specificity in preparation. Inventive chefs are flexing a concern for freshness: in ingredients, recipe ideas and presentation. Only the best produce, seafood and seasonings will do. Only creations that reveal the dazzling variety of international flavors and bounty available to us are worthy of consideration. Such distinctive foods deserve equally artful grace in presentation. Hence, flair and imagination, coupled with the finest of America's foodstuffs, are merging in the excitement that is American cooking today.

One ingredient that meets the requirements of this new school of food preparation is the banana. "The banana arrives from Central and South America in a matter of days, with every precaution taken to preserve the fruit in prime condition," says Robert Moore, president of the International Banana Association, which represents the industry domestically and abroad. "The banana is unique in requiring intensive, individual care. Propping of the plant to support the weight of growing fruit, plastic bagging of stems for protection, even special care in harvesting, have helped to make the banana America's favorite fruit, available at a level of quality consistent with the standards of the nouvelle American cuisine."

The banana also fits the new cuisine's focus on native ingredients and influences. A key agricultural export of Latin America, the banana has played a crucial role in the cooking of the New World for centuries. Fish Fillets Emeraldas is one American recipe inspired by Ecuador's Emeraldas province, which is known for its fishing trade and banana production. The use of fruit with main dishes is an established American tradition. Here, seafood and fruit are bathed in a fresh tomato sauce, accented with coriander or cilantro leaves commonly used in Latin American cooking.

A new cookery style dessert presents bananas with an Apricot Marsala Sauce. The refreshing topping gives the lightly baked fruit a natural sheen, fully in keeping with the understated, clean presentation sought by today's cooks. Macadamia nuts, a prized product of Hawaii, add a regional touch and contrast in texture, as well as a delicate, buttery richness. Garnish the plate with deep green leaves and a vividly-colored flower to make serving a feast for the eyes, as well as the palate.

FISH FILLETS EMERALDAS
1 tablespoon butter or margarine
1 clove garlic, minced
1/2 cup chopped onion
4 ripe tomatoes, chopped
1 tablespoon fresh lemon juice

Macadamia nuts, a prized product of Hawaii, add a regional touch. Garnish the plate with deep green leaves and a vividly-colored flower to make serving a feast for the eyes, as well as the palate.

1 tablespoon chopped, fresh coriander
1/2 teaspoon salt
1 pound flounder fillets (4 fillets)
3 bananas, peeled, divided fresh coriander leaves for garnish

In a medium saucepan melt butter; add garlic and onion, cook 5 minutes. Add tomatoes, lemon juice, chopped coriander and salt. Cover, simmer 10 minutes; uncover, simmer 10 minutes longer. Correct seasoning. Cut two bananas in half. Wrap fish fillets around banana halves; secure with foodpicks. Place in a shallow baking dish. Spoon tomato sauce over fish. Bake in a 350-degree F. oven 15 to 20 minutes or until fish flakes easily when tested with a fork. Garnish with remaining banana, sliced, and fresh coriander, if desired. YIELD: 4 servings.

BANANAS WITH APRICOT MARSALA SAUCE

1 can (17 ounces) apricots in syrup
1 vanilla bean, split
1 1/2 tablespoons Marsala (wine)
1 tablespoon fresh lemon juice
4 bananas, peeled chopped macadamia nuts leaves for garnish (mint, lemon or grape)

Drain apricots, reserving 1/2 cup syrup. In a small, covered saucepan simmer syrup and vanilla bean 10 minutes. Remove vanilla bean. In a blender or food processor, process apricots, syrup, Marsala and lemon juice until smooth. Arrange bananas in a shallow baking dish; spoon sauce over bananas. Cover. Bake in a 425-degree F. oven 15 minutes, until tender. Arrange bananas on serving plates; top with sauce and sprinkle with nuts. Garnish with leaves, if desired. YIELD: 4 servings.

Fruity Pizza A Scrumptious Combination

You can serve pizza for dessert anytime...when the "pie" is a scrumptious combination of sugar cookies, La Creme frozen whipped topping with real cream...and ever-so-fresh summer fruits. Cut in handy wedges, the Fruity Pizza makes a great and easy-to-serve treat at a "Come For Dessert" party, for patio entertaining and for teen-get-togethers.

To bake it easy, you make the crust with sliced refrigerated (packaged) sugar cookie dough...cool...then add a refreshingly light layer of frozen whipped topping folded into sour cream. Over the whipped topping mixture arrange an assortment of juicy sweet sliced summer fruits such as peaches, nectarines, strawberries...and blueberries for garnish.

PARTY PIZZA
1 17-oz. roll refrigerated sugar cookies
2 cups thawed whipped topping with real cream
1 cup sour cream
Assorted fresh fruit, sliced

Cut cookie dough into 1/2-inch slices. Arrange dough slices, slightly overlapping, on foil-lined 14-inch pizza pan or 15 x 10 x 1-inch jelly roll pan; press edges to seal. Bake at 375 degrees, 10 to 12 minutes or until golden brown. Cool; remove from foil onto serving plate.

Fold whipped topping into sour cream; spread over crust. Arrange fruit on whipped topping mixture; chill. Cut into wedges, 10 to 12 servings.

FRUIT FOR THE WISE

The banana's botanical name is musa sapientum, said to be derived from the writings of Alexander the Great. The illustrious king of Macedonia found wise men (Indus = sapientes, in Latin) eating bananas when he crossed the Indus River in 327 B.C.

Indian Feast Filled With Warmth, Intrigue

Indian cuisine — warm, abundant and just a little mysterious, like the country itself. A blend of the tropical fruits, vegetables and an array of fragrant spices flourishing there. It is colorful, flavorful and as varied as the subcontinent's many regions.

The idea of serving a complete Indian dinner at home is intriguing and now fixing it is easy, after a quick trip to the freezer and pantry. East meets West when time-honored recipes are recreated with modern prepared food products.

SWEET RICE & CREAM

2 envelopes (2 tablespoons) unflavored gelatin
 ½ cup packed light brown sugar
 ¼ to ½ teaspoon ground cinnamon
 1½ cups orange juice, divided
 1 cup buttermilk
 1 cup dairy sour cream
 ½ teaspoon almond extract
 1½ cups cooked rice
 1½ cups diced orange or blanced papaya*
 ½ cup raisins (optional)

In medium saucepan, combine gelatin, sugar and cinnamon. Stir in 1 cup orange juice. Stir over medium heat until dissolved. In medium bowl, combine gelatin mixture, remaining ½ cup orange juice and buttermilk. Stir in sour cream and almond extract. Chill 1 hour or until mixture slightly thickens. Fold in rice, orange and raisins. In 8-cup mold, pour rice mixture. Chill 2 hours or until firm. Makes 8 to 10 servings.

*NOTE: Fresh papaya, like fresh pineapple, has an enzyme that prevents gelatin from setting. Cook papaya in boiling water 5 minutes. Rinse until cool. Then drain well to use in gelatin recipes.

GINGER-CHICKEN DIP

3 packages (5 oz. ea.) frozen prepared chicken a la king
 2 packages (3 oz. ea.) cream cheese, softened and cut into cubes
 ½ cup sliced almonds
 2 tablespoons sliced green onion (including some green tops)
 2½ teaspoons lemon juice
 1 teaspoon ground ginger
 Dash hot pepper sauce
 Crackers, sliced apples, sliced pears, small grape clusters
 In medium saucepan, combine chicken a la king, cream cheese, almonds, green onion, lemon juice, ginger and hot pepper sauce. Cook over medium heat until mixture is hot and bubbly. Serve with crackers and fruit. Makes 2½ cups dip.

INDIAN PASTA CASSEROLE

1 cup chopped apples
 1 cup minced onion
 ¼ cup butter or margarine
 2 (10 oz.) packages frozen broccoli or 2 cups fresh broccoli florets
 2 teaspoons curry powder
 ½ cup raisins
 4 (15-oz.) cans mint chicken or beef ravioli
 6-8 red cabbage leaves
 Sauté chopped apples and minced onion in butter until tender. Add chopped broccoli and curry powder; cover; simmer for 5 minutes. Add raisins and chicken ravioli; cover; simmer for 15 to 20 minutes. Arrange red cabbage leaves in serving dish. Pour ravioli mixture over cabbage leaves. Makes 6 to 8 servings.

CHICKEN KABOBS WITH SPICY PEANUT SAUCE

1 package (12 oz.) frozen prepared breaded drumstick shaped chicken patties
 1 medium red or green bell pepper, cut into 1-inch cubes
 1 orange, cut into ½-inch slices and quartered
 ½ cup peanut butter
 ¼ cup lemon juice
 ¼ cup catsup
 2 cloves garlic, minced
 ½ to ¾ teaspoon crushed red pepper flakes
 ¼ cup milk
 On eight metal skewers, alternate chicken, peppers and orange. Bake on cookie sheet in 425-degree F. oven 6 minutes. Turn kabobs and bake an additional 6 minutes or until hot. In small saucepan, combine peanut butter, lemon juice, catsup, garlic and red pepper. Cook, stirring constantly over medium heat, until mixture is hot and bubbly. Remove from heat. Stir in milk. Makes 1 cup sauce.

CURRIED VEGETABLES (AVITAL)

In India, the term "curry" means a blend of spices that varies from region to region, even family to family. Here, a variety of seasonings transform seasonal vegetables into a warm, mellow side dish.
 2 onions, sliced thinly
 2 garlic cloves, minced
 1 2-inch ginger root, peeled and sliced (1 teaspoon ground ginger)
 ¼ cup corn oil

2 teaspoons spicy brown mustard
 1 teaspoon black pepper
 ½ teaspoon red pepper
 4 teaspoon curry powder
 4 green chiles, sliced (optional)
 3 tomatoes, quartered
 ½ cup grated coconut
 1 teaspoon ground cinnamon
 1 teaspoon ground cloves
 1 teaspoon ground allspice
 8 cups mixed vegetables*
 fresh coriander (optional)
 In 4-quart pot, saute onions, garlic and ginger root in corn oil until tender. Add mustard, black and red pepper, curry powder, green chili slices and tomato quarters. Stir; cover; simmer for five minutes. Place grated coconut plus ½ cup of water in blender, blend for 2 minutes. Add coconut liquid and remaining ingredients; stir; cover; simmer for 15 to 20 minutes or until vegetables are tender but firm. Serve garnished with coconut or coriander.

*Use mixed frozen vegetables (defrosted) of your choice or: 1 cauliflower, florets separated; 3 small carrots, sliced; 1 small eggplant, cubed; ¼ pound green beans, tipped; 2 medium zucchini, sliced; ¼ pound snow peas, tipped; 2 green peppers, sliced lengthwise; 2 red peppers, sliced lengthwise.

Microwave Magic

How To Be A Low-Calorie Gourmet Cook

There must be a good market for frozen diet food, otherwise there would not be so many new kinds appearing in the supermarket. I have found the 300 calorie frozen entrees to be a quick solution to a meal problem, when I'm counting calories.

Recently, I've prepared some entrees that I measured and calculated the calories and then frozen, using the containers from those purchased low calorie entrees. Some of you might like to try your hand at this.

The following recipes have the calories counted for individual servings. The entrees can be made and frozen and then reheated in the microwave oven.

MEAT BALL STEW WITH ITALIAN GREEN BEANS (225 calories per serving) Meatballs:
 1 pound lean ground beef
 1 small onion, finely chopped

Midge Mycoff

Home Economist
 Seminole Community College

1/2 teaspoon parsley
 1/4 teaspoon salt
 1/4 teaspoon pepper
 1 egg
 1/2 cup grated carrot
 Mix all ingredients well and shape into small balls. Microwave on 100% power 3-5 minutes, or until no longer pink. Drain.

Stew:
 In a 3-quart casserole combine:
 1 (16 ounce) can whole tomatoes
 3/4 cup water
 8 ounces sliced fresh mushrooms

 1 medium onion, quartered
 1 teaspoon instant beef bouillon
 Cover and microwave on 100% power for 5 minutes, reduce power to 50% and microwave for 20 minutes. Add meatballs and 1 (10 ounce) package of frozen Italian beans. Recover and microwave on 50% power for 10 minutes, or until beans are hot. Stir and let stand covered 5-10 minutes. This makes four servings. Have one and divide the remainder into 3 equal portions and freeze.

Use left over turkey, or buy several thighs and cook them for this low calorie entree.

SWEET AND LOW TURKEY (200 calories per serving)
 1 package of frozen pea pods
 2 tablespoons water
 1 small onion, sliced thin
 1/4 cup chopped green pepper
 1 rib of celery diagonally cut

2 cups cooked turkey, cubed
 1 can (15 ounce) pineapple chunks, juice reserved
 4 teaspoons cornstarch
 1 teaspoon instant chicken bouillon
 Dash of ground ginger
 1 teaspoon brown sugar
 1 1/2 tablespoons soy sauce
 1 tablespoon vinegar
 Place pea pods and water in 2-quart casserole; cover. Microwave on 100% power 2-3 minutes. Break apart and drain. Stir in onion, green pepper, celery, turkey, and pineapple chunks. Set aside.

In a 4 cup measure combine cornstarch, bouillon, ginger, salt and brown sugar. Stir in soy sauce, vinegar and pineapple juice. Microwave on 100% power 2-3 1/2 minutes, or until sauce is clear and thickened, stir every minute.

Fold sauce into turkey mixture; cover. Microwave on 100% power 4-6 minutes, or until heated through.

This low calorie entree of chicken is good enough for company. Invite your friends that are dieting.

CHICKEN IN WINE SAUCE (250 calories per serving)
 8 ounces fresh sliced mushrooms

1/4 cup chopped green onions
 1 tablespoon margarine
 2 tablespoons all-purpose flour
 2 teaspoons dry sherry
 1/4 cup water
 1/2 cup plain low fat yogurt
 1/2 teaspoon salt
 Dash of pepper

1 teaspoon instant chicken bouillon
 2 whole boneless chicken breasts, halved and skin removed

Paprika

Combine mushrooms and onions in 1 quart casserole. Cover. Microwave on 100% power 3-4 minutes, or until mushrooms are tender. Drain. Place margarine in a 4 cup measure, microwave on 100% power 30 seconds, or until melted. Blend in flour. Add sherry, water, yogurt, salt, pepper and bouillon. Stir in mushrooms and onions.

Arrange chicken in 8 x 8 baking dish. Pour sauce over chicken. Cover with wax paper. Reduce power to 50%. Microwave 14-20 minutes, or until sauce thickens and chicken is tender and no longer pink. Turn and rearrange breasts and stir sauce every 5 minutes during cooking. Spoon sauce over chicken and sprinkle with paprika. Serves 4.

Anyone can be a low calorie gourmet by limiting the amount of fats and carbohydrates, and limiting the size of portions served

BLUEBERRY CHOCOLATE ROLL

6 eggs, room temperature
 1/4 cup sugar
 6 ounces semi-sweet chocolate, melted
 3 tablespoons strong coffee, cool

1 teaspoon vanilla
 1 1/2 cups heavy cream, whipped
 1 tablespoon cocoa
 1 teaspoon cinnamon
 2 cups fresh blueberries, or dry-pack frozen
 1/4 cup heavy cream, whipped
 1/2 cup fresh blueberries, or dry-pack frozen

Grease a jelly roll pan (15 1/2 by 11 1/2 by 1 inch). Line the bottom and sides with wax paper. Grease the wax paper. Separate eggs. Beat yolks and sugar until lemon-colored and thick. Add vanilla. Beat chocolate and coffee into egg mixture until well blended. Beat egg whites until they form firm but not dry peaks. With a rubber spatula, gently fold beaten egg whites into chocolate sauce until well blended. Spread batter evenly in pan.

Bake in a preheated 350-degree oven for 15 minutes or until top springs back when lightly touched with finger. Cover the cake with a damp towel big enough to overlap the edges on all sides.

The cake may be prepared ahead to this point. Just keep covered with a slightly damp towel so it will not dry out. To assemble the blueberry roll, lay out two long overlapping pieces of wax paper. Sprinkle with cocoa and cinnamon. Remove the towel and invert cake pan onto wax paper.

Gently remove wax paper from cake. Trim off any crisp edges. Spread the whipped cream evenly over the cake within 1 inch of the edges. Sprinkle blueberries evenly over the cream. Roll up the cake, using the wax paper to apply uniform pressure. Carefully slide the roll onto a serving platter. Decorate with whipped cream and fresh berries.

Refrigerate until serving or keep in cool place. To serve, slice on the diagonal. This kitchen-tested recipe makes 10 servings.

Salad Days

Unique Combinations Are Showcases For Creativity

Salads always have been popular with American consumers. But in recent years creativity in salad-making has reached new heights, influenced by changes in eating styles, new salad ideas and an unprecedented array of salad dressings.

Salads are nearly synonymous with the lighter meals that are so popular today. Consumer research, for example, indicates a growing trend toward serving salads as the main meal, rather than as a side dish.

In its role as the star of a meal, the new American salad has become a showcase for a cook's creativity. While fresh produce is essential for most salads, salad ingredients can be found in almost every aisle of the supermarket. Some favorite salad ingredients include pasta, beans, frozen or canned vegetables, cheese and cold cuts, rice, canned tuna and other fish.

EL TACO SALAD

- 4 flour tortillas
- oil
- 1 pound ground beef
- 1 8-oz. bottle taco dressing
- 1 quart shredded lettuce
- 1 cup chopped tomato
- 1 cup (4 ozs.) shredded natural monterey jack cheese
- 1/4 cup pitted ripe olive slices
- 1/2 cup sour cream
- 2 tablespoons green onion slices

Fry tortillas in 2 inches of hot oil, pressing down centers with large ladle to form shell. Continue frying until crisp and golden; remove with tongs. Drain. Brown meat; drain. Add 1/2 cup dressing. Cover; simmer 5 minutes. In tortilla shell, layer lettuce, meat mixture, tomato, cheese, olive, sour cream and green onion. Serve with remaining dressing. Four servings.

PASTA SALAD PRIMAVERA

- 2 cups tomato wedges
- 1 1/2 cups (5 1/4 ounces) shell macaroni, cooked, drained
- 1 1/2 cups zucchini slices
- 1/4 cup chopped parsley
- 2 tablespoons green onion slices
- 1 8-oz. bottle Italian dressing
- 2 avocados, peeled, sliced
- lettuce
- Combine tomato, macaroni, zucchini, parsley and green onion. Pour dressing over macaroni mixture. Cover; marinate in refrigerator 2 hours. Drain, reserving marinade. Arrange avocado on lettuce-covered platter; top with macaroni mixture. Serve with marinade. Six servings.

CHICKEN PINEAPPLE TOSS

- 1 20-oz. can pineapple slices in juice, drained
- 2 cups chopped cooked chicken
- 1 8-oz. can water chestnuts, drained, sliced
- 1 cup green pepper strips
- 1/2 cup buttermilk creamy reduced calorie dressing
- lettuce
- 2 tablespoons chopped almonds, toasted
- Cut six pineapples in half; cut remainder into chunks. Combine pineapple chunks, chicken, water chestnuts, green pepper and dressing; mix lightly. Chill. Spoon mixture onto lettuce-covered plates; surround with pineapple halves. Sprinkle with almonds. Four servings. Two hundred fifty calories per serving.

Variation: Substitute one fresh pineapple for canned pineapple. Cut crosswise into six 1/4-inch slices; cut off rind. Core; cut slices in half. Cut enough remaining pineapple into chunks to measure 1/2 cup.

SUMMER FRUIT KABOBS

- 1 8-oz. bottle French dressing
- 2 tablespoons finely chopped green pepper
- 1/2 teaspoon celery seed
- Strawberries
- Cantaloupe chunks
- Pineapple chunks
- Pear slices
- Natural monterey jack cheese, cubed

Combine dressing, green pepper and celery seed. Chill. Alternate fruit and cheese on skewers. Serve with dressing mixture. One cup dressing.

LAYERED SEA SALAD

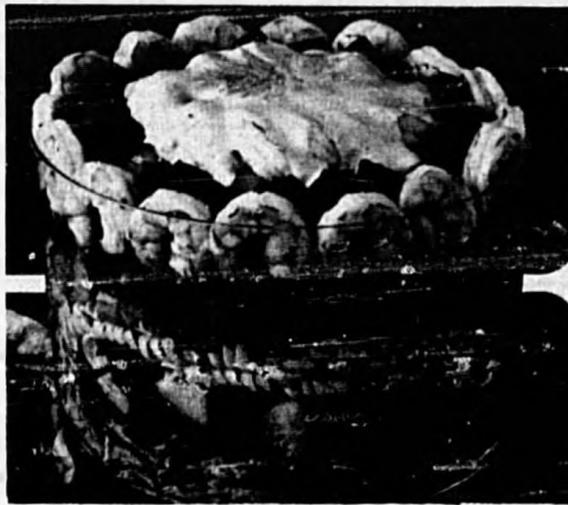

- 1 8-oz. bottle bacon & tomato dressing
- 1/2 cup sour cream
- 2 cups (8 ozs.) corkscrew noodles, cooked, drained
- 1/4 cup chopped parsley
- 3 cups shredded lettuce
- 2 cups chopped cucumber
- 1 1/2 cups celery slices
- 3 cups chopped tomato
- 1 pound cleaned shrimp, cooked
- Combine dressing and sour cream; mix well. Chill. Combine noodles and parsley; mix lightly. In 3 1/2-quart serving bowl, layer lettuce, cucumber, noodle mixture, celery, tomato and shrimp. Serve with dressing mixture. Eight to ten servings.

Variation: Substitute 16-oz. can salmon, drained, flaked, for shrimp.

Italian herb dressing made with cream cheese

- 1/4 cup chopped green pepper
- 6 iceberg lettuce slices
- 2 tomatoes, cut into wedges
- Combine tuna, eggs, celery, 1/2 cup dressing and green pepper; mix lightly. Chill. For each serving, top lettuce with tuna mixture and tomato. Serve with additional dressing. Six servings.

Layered Sea Salad is an eye-catching combination of fresh produce, pasta and shrimp that is perfect for a luncheon buffet or patio supper

Fill pineapple shells with colorful Hawaiian Chicken Salad

Use Tropical Theme To Put Spark In Gala Autumn Patio Picnic

Whatever state you call home, you can join in any festivities right in your own backyard with a tropical party menu featuring easy, make-ahead recipes. These economical dishes will put a spark into any patio picnic. And because you prepare everything in advance, you can enjoy the exotic taste of the Islands in minutes.

HAWAIIAN CHICKEN SALAD
 2 cups cooked rice (do not add butter/margarine when cooking rice)
 2 cups chopped cooked white chicken
 1 cup fresh pineapple chunks
 1 cup strawberry halves
 1 cup celery slices
 1 tablespoon lemon juice
 ¼ teaspoon ground ginger

¼ teaspoon pepper
 ¼ cup plain yogurt
 ¼ cup almond slices
 Allow cooked rice to cool. In a large mixing bowl combine rice, chicken, pineapple, strawberries, celery, seasonings and lemon juice; mix lightly. Store mixture in air-tight sealed bowl in refrigerator. Prior to serving add yogurt and almonds to mixture; mix lightly. Garnish with additional strawberries and pineapple. Makes 4-6 servings. Serve individual portions on lettuce leaves or in pineapple shells.

TROPICAL CREAM CHEESE SPREAD
 1 8-oz. package soft cream cheese
 2 tablespoons apricot preserves
 ¼ cup crushed pineapple
 2 teaspoons honey
 ¼ cup flaked coconut
 Combine cream cheese, preserves, crushed pineapple and honey, mixing until blended. Add coconut and mix well. Chill. Serve with Banana Nut Bread slices. Makes 1½ cups.

BANANA NUT BREAD
 1 cup sugar
 ½ cup shortening
 2 eggs
 1 teaspoon vanilla
 1 cup ripe bananas, mashed
 2 cups flour
 ½ teaspoon baking soda
 ¼ teaspoon baking powder
 ¼ teaspoon nutmeg
 ¼ teaspoon cinnamon
 1 cup chopped macadamia nuts

In a large mixing bowl cream sugar and shortening, add eggs and vanilla, beat until fluffy. Add bananas. In medium mixing bowl combine flour, baking soda, baking powder, nutmeg and cinnamon; add to banana mixture. Stir in nuts. Pour into greased 9 x 5-inch loaf pan (for smaller loaves, use two pans). Bake at 350 degrees for 45 to 50 minutes or until done. Cool in pan 10 minutes then turn onto rack and cool thoroughly. Serve with Tropical Cream Cheese Spread.

TANGY LIME TEA
 1 6-oz. can of frozen limeade concentrate ¼ cup unweetened pineapple juice
 4 teabags
 4 cups boiling water
 ¼ teaspoon ground ginger
 In a 2-qt. pitcher, mix limeade concentrate with 4 cans of water; add pineapple juice and stir to blend. Place teabags in 4 cups of boiling water; steep for 5 minutes. Remove teabags; add ginger while stirring tea.

Combine tea with fruit juice mixture; stir until well mixed. Chill at least 2 hours in refrigerator before serving. Serve in tumblers over ice; garnish with lime slices. Makes eight 8 oz. servings. Variation: prepare beverage using orange spice tea.

COCONUT CUSTARD PIE
 2 cups milk
 4 eggs
 ½ cup sugar
 ½ cup all-purpose flour
 ¼ cup butter or margarine, cut-up
 1 teaspoon vanilla
 ¼ teaspoon salt
 1 cup flaked coconut ground nutmeg
 ¼ cup toasted coconut
 ¼ cup toasted sliced almonds

In blended container, combine milk, eggs, sugar, flour, cut-up butter or margarine, vanilla and salt. Cover; blend about 10 seconds until well mixed (do not overblend). Stir in flaked coconut. Pour egg mixture into greased 9-inch pie plate. Sprinkle a little nutmeg atop filling. Bake at 350 degrees for 40 minutes or till knife inserted in near center comes out clean. (As pie bakes, it forms its own soft crust.) Cool. Place in 9-inch pie taker. Cover and chill to store. When serving, garnish with toasted almonds and toasted coconut. Makes 8 servings.

TIP: After you've baked a custard pie for the recommended time, Tupperware Educational Services suggests that you gently shake the pie to test for doneness. If the area that still appears to be liquid is smaller than the size of a quarter, the pie is done.

TOASTED COCONUT
 Spread ¼ cup coconut evenly in shallow baking dish. Place in 325-degree oven for 10-15 minutes, stirring frequently.

TOASTED ALMONDS
 Spread ¼ cup sliced almonds in shallow baking dish. Place in 300-degree oven for 5 minutes or until golden.

Pan Am Pilots, Crew Return To Work After Brief Strike

NEW YORK (UPI) — Pan American World Airways pilots and crew members were back on the job today, but the issue that caused the five-hour strike — the airline's freezing of its pension fund — is still to be settled.

The union representing 10,000 Pan Am ground staff members went on strike at 2 p.m. Wednesday and, about 90 minutes later, the union representing the airline's 1,500 pilots returned to work.

The walkout caused Pan Am to cancel six regional flights out of Kennedy Airport, including flights to Boston, Washington, Chicago and Detroit.

U.S. District Judge Joseph McLaughlin in Manhattan issued a restraining order about 7 p.m. Wednesday after the Transport Workers Union and Pan Am agreed to return to court in 10 days for a hearing before McLaughlin on whether it was legal for Pan Am to freeze the workers' pension benefits.

Slurs Helped Cause Death

HOUSTON (UPI) — The city of Houston and two firefighters must pay $53,000 in damages to the wife of a black man a judge said was tormented by racial slurs to the point his health deteriorated and he died of a heart attack.

"We argued in court that (racial attacks) contributed to or caused his death," Patrick Gilpin, attorney for technician James W. Hamilton, a civilian employee for the Houston Fire Department, said Wednesday.

U.S. District Judge John Singleton criticized the city and firefighters C.L. Wilford and C.P. Nelson for racial discrimination against Hamilton, who died in February 1983.

Singleton, ruling in favor of Hamilton's 1982 job discrimination lawsuit, said the technician entered the fire department in 1979 without blood-pressure problems. Within four years, Hamilton suffered a stroke and a fatal heart attack because of stress from the job. He was 44.

Housing Starts Slip

WASHINGTON (UPI) — New housing construction slowed down 6.6 percent in July but still maintained a respectable pace, above that of last year, the Commerce Department said today.

Single family house construction was off 10.1 percent while multifamily apartment construction dropped 1.9 percent, the department reported.

The decline in July housing starts, to an overall annual rate of 1.761 million units after seasonal adjustment, was in line with expectations of a slowdown generated by the high level of mortgage rates.

The latest figures, however, failed to reflect a collapse of housing that many analysts expected would take place when fixed-rate mortgage interest rates topped 14 percent and adjustable rate mortgages jumped as well.

Explosives Factory Blast Kills 3

SIMSBURY, Conn. (UPI) — It could be a week before investigators know why an explosives factory building blew up, killing three workers and forcing hundreds of residents to evacuate their homes, the company's president says.

Federal investigators were called in to help determine the cause of the explosion, which occurred at mid-morning Wednesday while the company's research manager and two engineers were making PYX, an explosive used by the oil drilling industry.

About 200 people living near the 600-acre factory complex in the quiet Hartford suburb were ordered to evacuate their homes for three hours as a precaution. No injuries were reported among the residents or the factory's other 500 workers.

Disregarding the differences in the two predictions, there remains the unprecedented threat the government, despite an otherwise healthy economy, will generate an enormous amount of red ink, year after year.

Since interest must be paid on the national debt, and since interest payments are dictated by interest rates, the government's cost of borrowing alone could be more in 1989 than the entire annual deficit is now.

The deficit now is tremendous, although below last year's record $195 billion. Since most of the 1984 total has already been borrowed, it is the least controversial of any of the predictions — $174.3 billion by Sept. 30.

Only slightly more in doubt is the 1985 deficit, projected to be $188.9 billion if administration recommendations are followed by Congress and $172.4 billion if "current services" are maintained.

The cost of interest payments in 1985 is a projected $130.2 billion.

"In other words, we will not decide how much each agency receives until after the campaign is completed," he said. "An agency just doesn't receive their requested amount because they have been a U.W. agency. They receive their allocation based on the work they do — the social services they provide."

In addition to getting more small businesses involved in the campaign, letters written by Cindy Carnes, a client of the Seminole Work Opportunity Program, will be mailed to those individuals who gave one-time gifts last year. Waldo said the letters will also be sent "to people we think will care or want to give."

Raising funds has been difficult in Seminole County, Waldo said, because Sanford is a "bedroom community for Orange County." He said many Seminole residents give at their Orange County jobs.

According to a survey Waldo said he conducted, Seminole County ranks last in a list of 56 cities and counties in the U.S. He added that United Way contributions in the county was $1.78 per capita in 1983-84.

Poor Are Poorer, Rich Are Richer

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The average American is a bit better off today than four years ago while the poor are poorer and the rich are richer, a study by a non-partisan organization says.

The study found that President Reagan's economic and domestic policies have helped expand what has been a growing and somewhat unexplained financial gap among the upper, lower and middle classes. The study, however, did not lay the blame for the disparity on the administration.

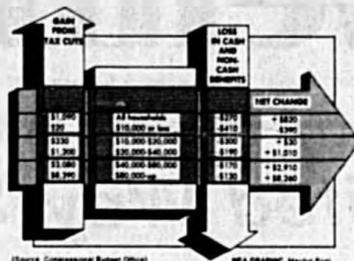

Financed by the Urban Institute, a non-profit research group, the study, "The Reagan Record," was released Wednesday and is likely to fuel an already heated election-year debate over whether Reagan's policies are unfair to the poor.

The study showed that the real disposable income of the bottom fifth of the economic scale dropped 7.6 percent, from $6,913 to $6,391, while it increased 8.7 percent for those in the top fifth, from $37,618 to $40,880.

Overall, it said, family incomes after taxes and adjusted for inflation increased by about 4 percent, from $20,333 to $21,038, "a modest increase by historical standards."

"President Reagan's policies are not responsible for all or even most of this increase in income inequality," said economist Isabel Sawhill, the report's co-editor.

"Even without the cuts in taxes and social programs he initiated in 1981 and 1982 and even with a milder recession, there still

The wealthy have benefited most from the Reagan administration's tax and budget cuts, according to a study by the nonpartisan Congressional Budget Office. The CBO estimates that the average low-income taxpayer will lose nearly $400 this year while the high-income taxpayer will gain over $8,000.

would have been a wide disparity in income," she said.

"The reasons for this trend are not entirely clear, but they appear related to generally high levels of unemployment in recent years and demographic changes, such as the growing number of female-headed families at the bottom of the income distribution and growing number of the two-earner families at the top."

For Stolen Checks

Return To Motel Lands Pair In Jail

A Haines City couple have been charged with two counts each of burglary and grand theft after they allegedly returned to a motel to claim a bag of stolen checks that had been taken in two Altamonte Springs burglaries.

Altamonte Springs police report that checks a housekeeper at Day's Inn, 235 S. Wymore Road, found in a paper bag after the occupants of the room checked out Tuesday had been stolen in two Aug. 10 burglaries.

The housekeeper turned the bag over to manager Jerry Spivey who reported the find to police. Three of the checks were from V.S. Auto Works, 850 Sunshine Lane, and six were from Triage Car Wash, 875 Sunshine Lane.

Wednesday, a female who had checked out of the room where the checks were found called the motel asking for the return of her property. Arrangements were made for her to identify and pick up the bag, and police were invited to the meeting.

The two suspects returned to the motel and the woman identified the bag and its contents, but claimed the stolen checks were not theirs. They did complain, however, that a $100 bill was missing, according to a police report.

Police moved in and arrested the pair and reported finding additional checks which had been stolen from the two businesses in the suspects' car.

Juanita Gilberry, 23, and Curtis Levon Herrington, 25, were arrested at 6 p.m. Wednesday. They were being held in the Seminole County jail today in lieu of $5,000 bond each.

BABY BEATEN

The father of a 10-month-old boy has been charged with child abuse and spouse abuse after allegedly beating both a woman and the child she held in her arms during an assault.

A sheriff's deputy who arrived at the home of Denise R. Price, P.O. Box 113 Chuluota, at about 2 a.m. Tuesday reported being met in the yard by Ms. Price, who was hysterical, had blood on her blouse and swollen and discolored eyes, nose and lips.

Ms. Price alleged that the father of her child had become enraged during an argument and had beaten her and the child as she held the boy. The deputy found the suspect, who lives with Ms. Price, asleep on the living room couch, his report said.

Fire department paramedics were called to treat the boy, who had a lump on his head, and his mother at the scene, the report said.

John B. Peterson, 25, was arrested at 2:46 a.m. Tuesday. He was being released on $500 bond.

done seems to have pulled the country together." In New York, spectators eager for a bird's-eye view of America's Olympic medalists caused a wooden scaffolding to collapse and tumble 15 feet onto a street full of people watching the ticker-tape parade, causing at least 98 injuries.

"They fell like dominoes. They just fell down all over the place. It was terrible," a construction worker said, describing the incident that marred the Big Apple's patriotic salute to the nation's athletic heroes.

Police said only two of the 98 people hurt were seriously injured — one suffered a neck injury, the other a possible heart attack.

The scaffolding, made of plywood and 2-by-4 boards, collapsed due to the weight of the people leaning against it.

Police said at least 20 people were perched on the structure, but some witnesses said as many as 100 spectators jammed the scaffolding.

The accident occurred at 12:10 p.m., before the athletes passed the building, and caused a 30-minute delay in the parade.

Olympic boxing gold medalist Mark Breland of Brooklyn and Koch later went separately to Beckman Downtown Hospital to visit the injured.

Breland, who gave the victims Olympic buttons, said, "They missed the parade so I wanted to come down here and see them."

The athletes seemed a bit weary when they arrived at Orlando International Airport in their three chartered jets — dubbed "party planes" by the Olympians — but all wore smiles. Some waved miniature American flags; others gave the thumbs-up sign.

"It's great to be home," said a beaming Gaines, who grew up in nearby Winter Haven. "This is the best stop on the whole trip."

"I'm very tired," said gold medal gymnast Peter Vidmar. "I have to admit I fell asleep on the bus coming over here to the hotel. But this has all been fantastic."

The Olympians dined Wednesday night at an invitation-only banquet hosted by Florida Gov. Bob Graham and Orlando Mayor Bill Frederick.

"This gives you such a good feeling," said gold medal swimmer Nancy Hogshead of Jacksonville. "I really can't put into words what it's like."

The American Olympic team was the most successful ever, winning a total of 250 medals, including 83 gold.

Four Men Sentenced To Death In Hijacking

MOSCOW (UPI) — A former clergyman, two doctors and a one-time actor were sentenced to death for hijacking a passenger plane and ordering it to fly out of the Soviet Union, the official news agency Tass reported.

Ten people, including the pilot, the navigator and a stewardess, were killed during the attempted air piracy that happened in the Georgia Republic last November, officials said.

It was not clear whether they were shot by the hijackers or a police commando unit that stormed the Aeroflot TU-134.

A fifth suspect, the wife of one of the defendants, was sentenced to 14 years in prison.

The incident began Nov. 19 on a Tbilisi-to-Leningrad flight with a stop at Batumi, near the Turkish border. The plane was carrying 59 passengers.

Galvin Ban Defended

BELFAST, Northern Ireland (UPI) — Ulster's chief constable has defended the decision to ban an Irish Republican Army sympathizer from New York, whose appearance at a rally triggered a riot when police tried to arrest him.

Sir John Hermon Wednesday called Martin Galvin, 34, a New York City department of sanitation lawyer, a "supporter of terrorism" and said the British government's ban against him entering Ulster was "justified on the grounds of principle and integrity."

Galvin, publicity director of the U.S. fundraising group Noraid, or Northern Ireland Aid committee, made an illegal appearance in Belfast Sunday. When he appeared at an anti-British rally, police stormed the headquarters of Sinn Fein, the IRA's political wing, in an effort to arrest him. One man was killed, 20 people were wounded, and Galvin escaped.

Because of the violence, Britain's Northern Ireland secretary James Prior conceded Tuesday that the ban against the American may have been "a bad mistake."

Separatists Threaten Bombings

COLOMBO, Sri Lanka (UPI) — Cinema owners searched patrons' handbags for bombs and refused to let viewers leave during intermissions today because of a threat by separatist Tamils to blow up several movie houses, police said.

The security measures were enforced as members of the main organization representing Sri Lanka's Tamil minority gathered to decide whether to attend a government conference Friday on Tamil-related violence.

The Tamils are a mainly Hindu minority with close ties to India's southern Tamil Nadu state. Militants have been fighting for years to break free of Sri Lanka's Buddhist Sinhalese majority and establish an independent state.

Israelis Occupy Village

BEIRUT, Lebanon (UPI) — United Nations peace-keeping forces briefly "disturbed" Israeli troops occupying a southern Lebanese town where residents hurled stones at the Israelis.

A spokesman for Israel's Military Command in Tel Aviv said Israeli soldiers Wednesday sealed off the mainly Shiite village of Maaraka, 5 miles east of the southern port of Tyre, after villagers built stone barricades and hurled rocks at Israeli troops — the targets of almost daily guerrilla attacks.

United Nations peace-keeping troops intervened in the incident but later left and no shots were fired during the confrontation, the spokesman said.

Computer Problem Mars Shuttle Countdown Test

CAPE CANAVERAL (UPI) — Discovery — delayed from blastoff twice — ran into new problems with a balky engine computer on a dress-rehearsal countdown, but officials say the shuttle launch later this month is still on schedule.

Technicians planned to thoroughly check the No. 3 engine controller today to find out what caused one of its two channels to reject its programming in the first of two attempts to load the crucial commands.

Discovery is scheduled to blast off at 8:35 a.m. EDT on Aug. 29 for a six-day mission to launch three communications satellites and conduct several sophisticated experiments.

The payload is made up of what was to have flown on the shuttle's first two missions. But the second flight was canceled and the payloads combined because of Discovery's launch abort June 26.

First Photos Not Obscene

MIAMI (UPI) — The first batch of photographs developed from film seized at a Miami day care center showed typical family snapshots rather than the explicit child sex scenes police expected to find.

Investigators seized videotapes and undeveloped film Wednesday at the Country Walk Babysitting Service in south Dade County after a 5-year-old boy told police sexual "games" among children were filmed by the center's owner, a convicted sex offender.

Additional film stills was being developed by the police lab today.

The unlicensed babysitting service was operated at the upper-middle-class home of Francisco Fuster Escalona, 35, and his wife Ileana, 22. Fuster was arrested last week on probation violation charges stemming from a 1982 conviction for molesting a 9-year-old girl.

Solution Sought For Exam Jams

TALLAHASSEE (UPI) — The Cabinet is expected to wrestle Tuesday with the burgeoning problem of issuing and renewing driver's licenses, which has created a citizen clamor of demands for action throughout the state.

Deputy Director James H. Cox of the Highway Safety and Motor Vehicles Department Wednesday said the state now has 8.9 million drivers, more than any state except California "and maybe Texas," an increase of 22 percent since 1980. The number of driver license examiners has increased less than 9 percent during the same time.

The long-term solution, he said, would be to hire about 300 more examiners, which would cost about $5 million for training, equipment and salary packages. Cox said the short-term answer is to reopen some examination stations that were closed and to divert more staff to driver testing.

After Being Rebuffed By U.S.

Kuwait Buys Soviet Arms

KUWAIT (UPI) — Kuwait, rebuffed by the United States, has bought weapons worth an estimated $300 million from the Soviet Union and may accept a group of Soviet military advisers on its soil for the first time.

Defense Minister Salim al Sabah negotiated the agreement for his Persian Gulf oil state during a visit to Moscow last month and it includes the purchase of anti-aircraft missiles to protect Kuwait's oil facilities.

"The agreement comes in accordance with Kuwait's policy of modernizing various branches of the armed forces," Faisal Dawood, the acting Defense Ministry undersecretary, said Wednesday.

Under the agreement, Soviet military advisers were expected to be stationed in Kuwait for the first time to give technical and training assistance.

Few details of the weapons purchase were released in Kuwait, where Soviet Gen. Yuri Grishin, president of the Engineering Department of the State Committee for Foreign Relations, signed the deal for Moscow.

"This is undoubtedly a lot larger than any other Kuwaiti arms purchase from the Soviet Union, but don't look at it as a full-scale turn to the Soviets by Kuwait," a Western diplomat said.

The deal was struck shortly after the United States refused a Kuwaiti request in May for the sale of shoulder-fired Stinger anti-aircraft missiles to bolster its air defenses for the Gulf tanker war. Kuwait asked for the weapons after Washington sold 400 Stingers and 200 launchers to neighboring Saudi Arabia.

Although the Soviet anti-aircraft missile sold to Kuwait was not identified, the Soviets build a counterpart to the Stinger — the SA-7, NATO code-named Grail. Kuwait already has some in its arsenal, according to the authoritative International Institute for Strategic Studies in London.

The U.S. State Department has said it "would be concerned" if the agreement with Moscow upsets the East-West balance Kuwait has traditionally maintained. It is the only one of the six Gulf states that has diplomatic relations with Moscow.

As the closest Gulf nation to the Iran-Iraq battlefronts, several Kuwaiti oil tankers have been attacked by Iraqi and Iranian warplanes. Iran has threatened to attack oil installations in Gulf states that back Iraq in the nearly 4-year-old war.

"Kuwait is no doubt pleased that this will show the United States that if it is ignored it can go somewhere else," a British Middle East expert said. "It is a good business for both the Kuwaitis and the Soviets."

tive director of the Judicial Administrative Commission of Florida which oversees expenses of the Public Defender's Office and the State Attorney's Office.

She said the county is responsible for such bills and that if the public defender's office or the state attorney's office tried to bill the state for such expenses they probably would not be paid.

High travel costs could cause those offices to remove themselves from such cases making the county bear the expenses of defense and prosecution, she said.

W.J. "Buzzy" Patterson, executive director of the Seminole-Brevard State Attorney's Office, said his office is required by statute to prosecute individuals and it would be exceptionally rare for the State Attorney's Office to remove itself from a case because of finances.

"We have to prosecute," he said.

He said his office would bill the county for such expenses and if they refused to pay, the state would receive the bill. He added that it would be rare for any court to appoint a private prosecutor to a case. When another prosecutor is needed on a case because of a possible conflict of interest with the public defender, state attorney from a separate office is assigned the case, he said. He could not recall an instance where a private prosecutor was appointed to a case.

According to appeal papers, West appeared before Circuit Judge Robert B. McGregor May 29, as required by rules of procedure, for authorization to make the county to pay the expense of the Puerto Rico trip.

The county is directed to pay many related costs regarding trials, including expert witness fees, but not travel costs to Puerto Rico, McMillan said.

McGregor, according to court records, said that he would authorize payment for the trip excluding mileage and told West to call the Judicial Administration Commission to find out if the county could be responsible for the trip's cost.

On June 4, Public Defender Russo wrote McGregor stating that his office does not have specific funds for travel and per diem expenses out of the circuit area during the preparation of a case or during the taking of depositions.

On June 24 McGregor signed the request of May 29 directing the county to pay all travel expenses of the public defender without mentioning the previous travel expenses exclusion, according to the county.

On July 10, the signed May 29 order was officially filed and payment of the bill ordered by McGregor at a hearing of which the county says it was not properly notified. At that hearing, West's $955.21 bill including apparently $126 for the interpreter was authorized for payment plus a second authorization for $126 for the interpreter, which could have been an overpayment, according to a county attorney.

July 25, McGregor denied a county request to have the orders filed and authorized on July 10 stricken, affirming the county had to pay the bill.

The county maintains that throughout the decision-making process it was denied due process of law by not being notified of the July 10 meeting nor given copies of the motions.

According to court records, the court authorized not only West's trip to Puerto Rico but the hourly services of another public defender, Mark Reyes, as interpreter. According to court records, he accompanied West, was an authorized second driver of the rented car, and was paid $126 for his services though no bill is in the court file for his services and how much he charged per hour is not recorded in the file. The $126 expense is apparently included in the court's authorization of the $955.21 to West since West's itemized bill was $829.21 with no mention of transportation to the island or meals.

West has also asked the court to appoint another interpreter to replace Reyes who resigned from the public defender's office Aug. 1.

According to the court record, West arrived in San Juan June 24 and stayed at the Ramada Hotel at a cost of $80 a day. While there he rented a Buick Skyhawk and drove a total of 433 miles, with at least one trip to Arceibo on June 27. He paid $270.48 for the car rental and $24.77 for gasoline.

According to the court file, West took at least two depositions while in Puerto Rico and has stated that trial expenses may include the cost of bringing a witness from the island to testify at Padilla's trial.

Beside the request to be paid to go to San Juan, West has submitted several motions regarding Padilla since his indictment by the grand jury March 26 for first degree murder.

West has said in court records that his client may have been insane at the time of the shooting and two expert witnesses have been appointed — at county expense — to examine Padilla.

Altamonte: 1 For Williamsport

Iatarola, Albert Lead Romp

By Sam Cook
Herald Sports Editor
ST. PETERSBURG — Chalk up two more converts for the Altamonte Nationals. Lake Charles, La. manager Ben Gilbeau and his hot-shot pitcher, Carrol Thomas, have joined the believers.
 After the beating they took Wednesday, at Gulfport's Al Lang Memorial Stadium, there wasn't much else to do.
 Altamonte Springs, representing Florida in the Little League Southern Region, pounded out 14 hits en route to an easy 10-1 victory over Louisiana. The win moves the Nationals within every Little Leaguer's ultimate dream — the World Series in Williamsport, Penn.
 If Altamonte beats Alabama today at 2, the Nationals will realize that dream. Alabama advanced to the championship game with a 9-8 victory over Tennessee Wednesday.
 Getting back to the converts,

Baseball

Gilbeau seemed more impressed than Georgia manager Joe Newsom, whose team was beaten 15-4 by Altamonte on Tuesday.
 "I've been in this game a long time," said Gilbeau. "And I've never seen any Little League team hit the ball like that. Thomas hadn't given up more than four hits in a game all year."
 Altamonte's Aaron Iatarola, meanwhile, was as impressive as Thomas was not.
 "That curve-balling lefty (Iatarola) took care of us," continued Gilbeau. "He's the only pitcher we haven't hit all year."
 And, it took Louisiana until the last inning to get that hit. The hit — Ned Capell's one hopper off third baseman Jamey Wallace's glove — was also a tough chance for the official scorekeeper.
 Which can't be said for Alta-monte's 14 rips. Lefty Danny Albert led the way with a single and a homer, good for four RBI. Jimmy Musselwhite slugged another prodigious homer and drove in three runs.

 "I choked up a lot the first time up, because he was supposed to be fast," said Albert. "But coach (Jim Barfield) told me to come down on the bat."
 The result was a two-run single which capped Altamonte's second four-run, first inning outburst in two days. Jerrey Thurston, who his hitting line drives all over St. Petersburg, opened the game with a double to left center. He scored the first run when the Louisiana third baseman threw away Jason Varitek's ground ball.
 Musselwhite followed with a base hit to right to chase home Varitek. Chris Radcliff then stroked a ground ball through the first baseman's legs for another error. Greg James grounded out to first to move the runners up before Albert's base hit up the middle.

 Altamonte upped the lead to 5-0 in the second when Thurston lined a one-out single and moved up on a wild pitch. Varitek followed with a single which pushed Thurston to third as Varitek took second on the throw to the plate. Iatarola then beat out a ground ball to the shortstop to score the run.
 While the hitters were teeing off on Thomas, Iatarola was easily disposing of Lake Charles.
 The 12-year-old lefty hit a batter and walked another one in the first, but a nice catch by Thurston in right thwarted the rally.

 From that juncture on, Iatarola set down 10 in a row, until his control deserted him in the fifth inning.
 Altamonte had picked up a run in the top of the fifth on Varitek's second single and an RBI groundout by Musselwhite.
 The 6-0 bulge, nevertheless, didn't look insurmountable during a scary fifth inning when Louisiana loaded the bases for power-hitting Byron Woods.

 Iatarola walked pinch-hitters Ray Berry and Leo Henry to open the inning. Craig Hawkins then grounded into a force out and pinch-hitter John Brooks was caught looking at a third strike for the second out.
 Then it got a little scary. Leadoff hitter Troy DeBoest walked to load the bases and Cary Sole drew another free pass to force in Louisiana's first run.

Mets Edge Dodgers, Move Up On Cubs; Rapp Exits With Win

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — Sid Fernandez didn't get mad. Instead, he got the New York Mets even closer to first place.
 "While I was with the Dodgers I did what they told me and that's why I felt bad when they let me go," Fernandez said Wednesday night after he helped the Mets defeat Los Angeles 3-2. "Even though I don't hold any grudges, it feels good to maybe show them that they made a mistake."
 Mookie Wilson capitalized on a pair of errors by third baseman German Rivera in the seventh inning to score the tie-breaking run for New York.
 The victory moved New York to within 2 1/2 games of first-place Chicago in the National League East. The Cubs lost to the Houston Astros 6-2 Wednesday.
 Fernandez, 4-1, who was called up July 11 from Tidewater of the International League, was making his debut against his old club, which traded him to the Mets last fall. Rookie Wes Gardner relieved in the eighth, but was replaced in the ninth by Jesse Orosco, who got the last out with the tying run on second to notch his 25th save.
 With the score tied 2-2 in the seventh, Rivera bobbled Wilson's grounder for an error. Wilson stole second and Kelvin Chapman walked. Two outs later, George Foster grounded to Rivera, who threw the ball in the dirt at first base for an error as Wilson scored.
Reds 9, Cardinals 2
ST. LOUIS (UPI) — The record will state that on the day Vern Rapp went out a winner, he was still a loser.
 Perceived by many players as an uninspiring manager, Rapp was fired as skipper of the Cincinnati Reds Wednesday night, but not before he was given a final victory.
 Rapp's final game went 11 innings before the Reds snapped a five-game losing streak with a 3-2 win over the St. Louis

N.L. Baseball

Cardinals.
 The 56-year-old Rapp, who piloted the fifth-place Reds to a 51-70 record, will be replaced by Pete Rose, a Cincinnati native, played for the Reds for 16 years and will take over as player-manager Thursday.
 Rapp, who managed the St. Louis Cardinals in 1977 and part of '78, was hired after last season to take over for Russ Nixon. He inherited a 74-88 team and it appeared that the Reds weren't going to finish much better this year.
 "I do what I can within myself and that wasn't enough," said Rapp, who was a coach at Montreal for five seasons before joining the Reds. "I'm sorry I couldn't finish the job. It's a very difficult job. We had to live with a lot of things we didn't enjoy. I think they (owners) wanted quick results."
 With two outs in the 11th inning Wednesday, Cesar Cedeno singled off Bruce Sutter, 4-4, stole second and scored on Brad Guiden's single to center to make a winner of Tom Hume, 4-12.
Expos 8, Giants 3
 At San Francisco, pitcher Dan Schatzeder helped his own cause by going 3-for-3 and driving in two runs to lead the Expos. Schatzeder, 6-3, pitched eight innings. Mark Calvert, 2-3, took the loss.
Braves 7, Pirates 3
 At Atlanta, Steve Bedrosian and Gene Garber combined on a seven-hitter and Glenn Hubbard smacked a three-run double to highlight a six-run first inning that carried the Braves. Bedrosian, 9-8, permitted five hits over five innings to pick up the victory. Rick Rhoden, 10-9, was the loser.

District 14 South All-Star manager Howard Mable takes a breather in the sweltering heat at Tinker Field in Orlando during last week's Big League Southern Region Tournament. Mable and the District 14 All-Stars won the Southern Region and are now two games away from winning the Big League World Series being played in Fort Lauderdale. However, the South has a tough opponent tonight at 7:30 in the Republic of China.

two relievers combined on a six-hitter and rookie Mark Bailey went 3-for-3 with three RBI to lift the Astros to a three-game sweep. Knepper, 12-8, went seven innings and allowed five hits. Dennis Eckersley, 6-7, took the loss.
Padres 4, Phillies 3
 At San Diego, Carmelo Martinez' one-out bases-loaded single in the bottom of the ninth lifted the Padres. Steve Garvey and Kevin McReynolds hit solo homers for San Diego while Mike Schmidt hit one for the Phillies. Rich Gossage, 7-4, was the winner in relief.

Mets 3, Dodgers 2
 At Los Angeles, Mookie Wilson capitalized on a pair of seventh-inning errors by third baseman German Rivera to score the tie-breaking run and push the Mets within 2 1/2 games of first-place Chicago in the NL East. Sid Fernandez earned the victory against his former team to improve to 4-1. Fernando Valenzuela, 9-14, took the loss.

Seniors Upend Michigan, 4-1

Baseball

GARY, Ind. — Anthony Laszalc tossed a six-hitter and struck out 10 to lead the U.S.A. South Altamonte Springs Senior League All-Stars to a 4-1 victory over the U.S.A. Central (Midland, Mich.) Wednesday night in the Little League Senior League World Series at the Junedale Joe Eckert Field.
 The victory moved Altamonte into the winner's bracket final tonight at 7:45 against the U.S.A. West (Walnut Creek, Calif.). The West advanced via an upset of one of the tournament favorites, the Far East (Ping Tung Taiwan).
 Altamonte got off to an early 1-0 lead Wednesday on Bill Henley's RBI single in the first inning. Altamonte pushed its lead to 2-0 in the fourth when Ryan Lisle drilled a leadoff single and scored on a double off the bat of Mike Schmit.

 The Seniors came back to add insurance runs in both the sixth and seventh innings and Laszalc did the rest.
 In the sixth, Lisle again led off with a single and Shane Letterio reached on a Michigan error to put runners on the corners. Schmit followed with a sacrifice fly to give Altamonte a 3-0 lead.
 The U.S.A. Central scored its only run in the bottom of the sixth, but Altamonte got that run back in the top of the seventh on Letterio's RBI single.

Carner Sets Sights On World Golf Title

Golf

SHAKER HEIGHTS, Ohio (UPI) — "Big Momma" doesn't sound like the sort of nickname JoAnne Carner would want. After all, her 5-foot-7 frame can more diplomatically be referred to as pleasantly plump.
 But the moniker does not refer to Carner's physical attributes. One view of her powerful swing underlines the true "big."
 And the "Momma" part?
 "JoAnne isn't really the mom of the LPGA Tour," said Nancy Lopez, "but she's helped a lot of us like our own parents would."
 "She is probably the best liked and most loved veteran player. And, she's a real treat to watch — she's such a competitor."
 That is high praise from Lopez, especially since she, Carner and 10 others of the LPGA's elite begin battling in today's first round of the $200,000 World Championship of Women's Golf.
 First prize in the event, which is sponsored by Chevrolet and televised nationally by NBC, is worth an LPGA-highest $65,000.

 Carner is the two-time defending champion, and exuded confidence despite a 74 in Wednesday's pro-am on the par-72, 6,225-yard Shaker Heights C.C. course.
 "I'm ready to go," said Carner. "I can't wait to get started. Bring 'em on."
 "The 74? Well, I was experimenting a little bit. That's why the pro-am always helps — you can get away with things you normally wouldn't dare try."
 Carner said the Donald Ross-designed layout is in "prime" condition.
 "It doesn't look like it plays long, but there are a few holes that require a cannon to reach the green," said Carner, whose lone 1984 victory came at the Corning Classic in late May.

Rose Returns To Cincinnati As Player-Manager

CINCINNATI (UPI) — Pete Rose, whose "Charlie Hustle" playing spirit rocketed the Cincinnati Reds to the top in the 1970s, comes back today to manage his hometown club and try to spark a lackluster team with his gritty dedication.
 In a sudden move Wednesday night that many Reds fans had hoped would someday happen, the 43-year-old Rose was named Cincinnati's player-manager, effective immediately. The emphasis, club officials made clear, is on "manager," not player.
 Rose, who replaces Vern Rapp as manager, has a news conference scheduled for late this afternoon (4 p.m. EDT) on a Reds off-day. He will manage his first game Friday night when Cincinnati entertains the Chicago Cubs.
 Rose helped the Reds win world championships in 1975 and '76, but departed as a free agent after the 1978 season. In the past three seasons, the Reds have been one of the worst teams in baseball.
 "Pete is going to put enthusiasm back in Cincinnati baseball," predicted Reds' part-owner Marge Schott. "I think this is one of the biggest things that's happened to Cincinnati baseball in a long time. The hometown fans just adore Pete you play to win. I think Pete will be the same way as a manager as he was as a player. He'll make the guys do their best."

 "I think it's difficult to be both a player and a manager, but Pete wants to go after the record and I don't blame him. I think he can get it, because knowing Pete Rose, anything he thinks he can do, he will do it."
 Detroit Tigers manager Sparky Anderson, who managed Rose and the Reds for nine seasons, said the Cincinnati front office "couldn't have made a better move."
 "This guy, he's special," said Anderson. "He's been special ever since he played. He'll make a good manager. He's got a good way about him."
 "He's going to expect guys to push themselves, (but) I don't think he'll do it in a nasty way. There's a difference in how you go about it."
 Rapp was in his first season as manager, lasting only 121 games. In final time managing the club Wednesday night, the Reds beat St. Louis 3-2, but under Rapp the Reds were only 51-70. The firing came only one week after the Reds had given Rapp a vote of confidence.
 Rose, who played five years for the Philadelphia Phillies after leaving Cincinnati, had been there, there's no doubt about it."

 Rose, who played the first 16 years in the majors in his hometown of Cincinnati, owns numerous records, but not the one he cherishes most — Ty Cobb's all-time hit mark of 4,191. He's 130 hits behind the Detroit Tigers' great, and may have attaining the record in his role as player-manager.
 "Pete and (Reds' President) Bob Howsam agree that Pete's primary function is manager and any playing he will do will be of a limited nature — pinch hitting and playing on occasion," said Jim Ferguson, Reds' vice president of publicity. "Pete will be here mainly to develop young players to make us a contender again."
 Tony Perez, one of Rose's teammates on those world champion Cincinnati Cubs, who also returned to the Reds this season, said the club couldn't have found a better manager.
 "I think Pete is going to be a great manager," said Perez. "He'll make you play hard and make wearing the Montreal Expos' uniform this season, but not playing much lately. The Expos agreed to trade Rose to Cincinnati in exchange for a player to be named later.

 When the Expos were playing in Cincinnati earlier this season, Rose commented on how much he still loved his hometown and the Reds.
 "I could go on playing for 40 years (for other teams), but my heart will always be in Cincinnati," he said. "I've always been a Reds fan and always be."
 "The Cincinnati fans rooted for me for 16 years. I think the fans still feel I'm a part of them and I feel the same way."
 Rose holds the major league record for most games played (3,345). He won the National League Rookie of the Year Award in 1963 and the Most Valuable Player Award in 1973.
 In 1975, Rose was the World Series MVP as the Reds won the world championship and he also helped the Phillies to the 1980 world championship. Last season, Rose hit .375 in the World Series as Philadelphia lost to Baltimore in five games.
 Rose set a National League record in 1978 when he hit safely in 44 consecutive games.

Key Unlocks Pandora's Box, Jays Tumble

CLEVELAND (UPI) — Jimmy Key is one of the guys the Toronto Blue Jays call on to lock up their victories in the late innings.

On Wednesday night, he unlocked Pandora's Box and the Blue Jays may never recover from it. The Blue Jays were one out away from salvaging an important split of a double-header with the Cleveland Indians and entrusted that out to Key, a 6-foot, 175-pound left-hander.

Alas, Key couldn't latch on to it and walked home the tying run in the 10th inning. He then walked the leadoff batter in the bottom of the 13th and the Indians went on to score the winning run and escape with a 4-3 victory.

The Blue Jays, who were crushed in the opener 18-1, thus dropped a game and a half to the American League East Division-leading Detroit Tigers, who whipped the California Angels 8-3. Tigers 8, Angels 3

At Detroit, Tom Brookens drove in a pair of runs with three hits and Dave Bergman drove in three runs with two triples to lead the Tigers. Dan Petry, making his fourth try for his 15th triumph, spaced eight hits over eight innings to raise his record to 15-5. Doug DeCinces and Fred Lynn homered for California.

Yankees 3, Mariners 2
At New York, Dave Winfield and Ken Griffey had RBI singles in the fourth to snap a 1-1 tie and carry the Yankees. Joe Cowley, 4-1, was the winner and Dave Rightell notched his 21st save.

A's 6, Orioles 1
At Baltimore, Carney Lansford extended his hitting streak to 19 games with a solo homer and two singles and Curt Young, 6-1, scattered 10 hits to lift the A's. Lansford's homer, his ninth, came off starter Dennis Martinez, 4-7, in the first.

Rangers 6, White Sox 5

At Chicago, Larry Parrish led off the 10th by smashing his 20th homer to lift the Rangers and Charlie Hough, 13-10. The loss was the White Sox' sixth in the last seven games. Dave Schmidt earned his eighth save. Richard Dotson, 12-10, suffered the loss. Greg Walker hit his 16th homer, Harold Baines his 22nd and Carlton Fisk his 17th for Chicago.

Brewers 6, Twins 4
At Minneapolis, Rick Manning slugged a three-run homer and Dion James had four hits to power the Brewers. Jim Gantner added three to the Brewers' 17-hit attack. Milwaukee left-hander Mike Caldwell, 6-10, scattered eight hits and allowed three runs over six innings for the victory.

Royals 13, Red Sox 8
At Kansas City, Mo., Don Slaught belted a two-run homer to trigger a seven-run outburst with two outs in the sixth to lift the Royals. Joe Beckwith pitched three innings of middle relief to

BMXers Can Double Points This Weekend

This weekend, Aug. 18 and 19, BMXers can double their pleasure.

On Saturday, they will begin the double points weekend at Gordon Barnett Park in Pine Hills. Registration starts at 4 p.m. and racing will begin at 7 p.m. Super trophies will be given out, and they are going to be big.

On Sunday Aug. 19, it will be held at Lake Alfred BMX track. Registration will begin at 11 p.m., and racing will start at 2 p.m. Some very large trophies will be given out here, too.

The points that are given out are state points, and go toward a riders score in the Sunshine Series race. So, anyone who is attending the series race in November, should attend these points races.

August 11 at Barnett Park was uneventful and a good night for racing.

In the 13-beginner class, Danny Lombardi, of Lake Mary, raced his first beginner race, and had a perfect night. Three first places in his regular motos gave him the overall first place trophy. Mike Dague also raced, and placed second. This was Dague's last beginner race, and he will continue on to join National Bicycle League (NBL) and race novice.

In the 7-expert class, those SRP (Staley Racing Products) boys were battling it out for first. Darby Brown got the gold, and Jay Staley wasn't far behind him with a second place.

In the 7-novice class, Jason Wesson, of Sanford, dominated again as he "scarfed" first place. Our hero also raced open, and placed fourth.

Eight-year-old Jamie Garner was out there stylin' in the 8-novice class, and placed second.

8-expert Dusty Cimmins didn't have too bad of a night either. He also placed second.

Mark Brown placed third in the 9-novice action.

In the 10-novice class, there was a main event. Jason Ganas, of Sanford, scored three perfects in his regular motos, making him a shoo-in for the main. During the main, Ganas got a good start and held his own until disaster struck, as riders neared the finish line. Jason's chain fell off. But, Jason wasn't giving up so easily. Determined, Ganas picked up his bike and pushed it across the finish line, but could only place seventh.

The 12-novice class had a full gate of eight riders. Six of them were Seminole County dudes. Here's how they made out.

Stacy Johnson and Andy Spence were all for top honors. Stacy took home the first place trophy, and Andy the second. Craig Bowles placed fourth in the tough competition. In the battle for fifth and sixth place, Brad Dyess overcame Mike Davis, and placed fifth. J.P. Adams brought in 8th place.

Brad Dyess also raced in the 12-13 open. Brad made the main by placing three thirds in his regular motos. In the main, Brad took a fall around the first berm, and placed seventh.

In the 13-novice class, unbeatable Ronnie Brewer was again, unbeaten in the competition for first place. Mike Garner of Sanford placed sixth, and Scott Lucia placed seventh. Brian Lane of Lake Mary placed fourth in the 14-novice class.

Women's Baseball Team In The Works

ATLANTA (UPI) — Women are out in left field, or will be if Bob Hope gets his way.

Hope, an Atlanta public relations executive, is hoping to form a Class A baseball team comprised entirely of women to play in Florida.

He already has a corporation, a team name and a logo. All he lacks is approval from the Class A Florida State League, a ballpark, and about 18 to 20 talented players.

"Baseball is the only team sport you can play coed with no disadvantage to either party," Hope said. "Baseball is a game of quickness and finesse, not brute strength."

Hope, who once worked for the Atlanta Braves public relations department, said he began organizing the all-female baseball team about two months ago. He said baseball legend Hank Aaron would act as player personnel director for the Sun Sox, as he does for the Braves.

Baseball

Beginning at the Class A level, the women players would primarily be up against 18- or 19-year-old men.

"We don't expect them to win any games," Hope said. "If they win any, that's a plus. Two or three years down the road, hopefully they'll be a competitive Class A team, graduate some (to Class AA) or have a couple of All-Stars."

Hope said he would like to base the team in Daytona Beach, but that hinges on the Houston

Astros moving to their spring training facility in Kissimmee, Fla. The Florida State League teams also have to approve the Sun Sox.

"It's mindboggling to a few people," said league president George McDonald. "It will take quite a bit of a sales pitch. Some will be totally against it no matter what."

Baltimore Bidding For USFL Federals

MIAMI (UPI) — Sherwood "Woody" Weiser's deal to buy the Washington Federals of the United States Football League and move the team to Miami next year may not be as firm as first reported.

Baltimore automobile dealer Richard Sammis has told The Miami News his group of investors still have a shot at buying the Federals franchise and moving it to Baltimore.

Until Wednesday, it appeared that Weiser had a deal with the Federals' owners locked up. The Miami developer already has hired Howard Schnellenberger away from the collegiate national champion Miami Hurricanes and installed him as president and head coach.

Sammis told the News that he was contacted by Washington, D.C., attorney Al Begle, coordinator of the sale, a week ago about buying the team and taking it to Baltimore.

"They told us the franchise was still available and asked us if we were still interested," Sammis said.

Schnellenberger admitted that Weiser's deal with the Federals was "very fragile" as late as two weeks ago.

USFL

"Since that time things have strengthened very dramatically and Woody, in the last 10 days I guess, has tendered a new and different offer to Washington. And they have accepted it tentatively," Schnellenberger said.

Weiser was reported in Spain and unavailable for comment. "They didn't give us any particular reason why it is still available, but obviously something is wrong," Sammis told the newspaper. He said his investor group, which had been negotiating with the Federals prior to Weiser's bid, submitted a revised offer for the Federals a day after Begle called.

"We felt we were dead when the Miami deal was made," Sammis said. "But evidently it's still lingering. It doesn't really surprise me that much. Every time we tried to close the deal, it was always something else or they didn't want to make the deal, or they had somebody else interested."

Schnellenberger said Begle probably called Sammis, "and some other people, too."

This brought up Woods. The muscular shortstop had launched a 320-foot homer Tuesday and, another long one would pull Lake Charles within one run.

"I just threw fastballs," said Altamonte. "If he hits one, then he hits one. We'd still be up by one run."

Arts Awards

Nominations Accepted For Tri-County Honors

The annual Arts Awards program of the Council of Arts & Sciences identifies and honors the excellent works of Central Florida artists and the exemplary service of these individuals and businesses helping to make the arts survive in the community.

The 1983-84 Arts Awards is being sponsored by Ivey's Florida. Nominations are being accepted by Ivey's or the Council of Arts & Sciences for Central Florida. An Ivey's spokesman said, "For example, vote for a painter or sculptor whose work stirred your imagination, or the ballet or theater performance that delighted your children, or the concert that made you come alive. Then, help to applaud those important people behind the scenes whose efforts to support the arts benefit us all.

Any individual or business from Seminole, Orange or Osceola County is eligible for nomination. The arts or science activity must have taken place in the tri-county area any time from July 1, 1983 through June 30, 1984. The deadline for nominations is Sept. 4.

The field of nominees will be narrowed by a screening committee after which a panel of judges knowledgeable about the arts in Central Florida will determine the winners in each category.

Individuals and groups will be selected in Outstanding Achievement in the Arts and Outstanding Contribution to the Arts. The Awards will be presented in mid-September. Winners will each receive a specially commissioned work of art by local artist, Henry Sinn. The artwork will be on display at Ivey's Stores, Winter Park and Colonial Plaza, until Sept. 4, before being presented to the winners.

Miss Thompson, James Ellis Repeat Vows

Carolyn Ruth Thompson of Durham, N.C., and James Tice Ellis, also of Durham, were married July 21, in Mechanicsburg Presbyterian Church, Mechanicsburg, Pa. The Rev. George B. Warren, cousin of the bridegroom, was the officiating clergyman for the 11 a.m., double ring ceremony.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Chester H. Thompson, 2407 Riverglenn Court, Atlanta, Ga. The bridegroom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Henry W. Ellis, 2725 Lake Holden Terrace, Orlando.

The bride's only attendant was Mary Martin Ritchey of Inler, Pa., matron of honor.

Dr. Theodore M. Freeman, San Antonio, Texas, served the bridegroom as best man. Groomsmen were the bridegroom's cousins Allen Tice of Orlando, and Ben Warren of Gainesville.

The reception was held at Allenberry-on-the-Yellow-Breeches, Boiling Springs, Pa.

Following a wedding trip to Bar Harbor, Maine, the newlyweds are making their home in Durham. Both are systems analysts at the Microelectronics Center of North Carolina.

Things Are Not Like They Used To Be For Woman, Married Man

DEAR ABBY: Until the first of the year, I worked as a secretary to a very sweet man, several years older than myself. He told me his wife didn't appreciate him and he found me very comforting to talk to. One thing led to another, and we became intimate.

His wife found out about us and he laid me off, but continued seeing me whenever he could. He called me every day and we'd talk on the phone. He continued my salary although I was no longer working for him, and he also paid off all my debts and made me many promises.

When he and his wife went on a vacation, he arranged for me to stay in a motel nearby so he could spend some time with me. Well, his wife must have had him tailed because she found out about it, and he told me we'd have to "cool it" for a while.

His telephone calls have been tapering off and he seldom gets away to see me anymore. Things are not like they used to be, and I'm beginning to worry. He made many promises.

Do I have any legal rights? This is the second time this has happened to me with a married man.

FOOLED AGAIN

DEAR FOOLED: Since I am not a lawyer, I'm not qualified to tell you what your legal rights are, but if I may offer a bit of advice: Stay away from married men! As my sainted father used to say, "Every once in a while the hog kills the butcher, but most of the time, the butcher kills the hog."

DEAR ABBY: I'm getting married soon and was going to ask my favorite uncle ("Jim") to give me away because my father is dead. Now I'm wondering if I should.

You see, Uncle Jim is now a devoted family man, but he used to be a Catholic priest and he may not feel comfortable participating in a non-Catholic wedding.

Should I leave him out of my wedding? If I do, I'm afraid my mother (his sister) would be deeply hurt. My mother and all her relatives are devout Catholics.

I was raised Catholic, but now I'm a born-again Christian and so is my fiance. Should I play it safe and not invite my mother or any of her relatives?

Hurry the answer. I need to get married soon before this guy changes his mind again.

Dear Abby

GETTING MARRIED IN FLORIDA

DEAR GETTING: Ask your uncle if he wants to give you away, and don't try to second-guess his feelings. Invite your mother and the relatives you want and let them decide whether they want to accept or not.

Your closing sentence causes me to question your maturity. If the guy you want to marry might "change his mind" (again, yet!), perhaps you should slow down and rethink the whole thing.

DEAR ABBY: This concerns the frustrated couple who were unable to marry because the man's wife had left him and he couldn't find her in order to obtain a divorce. The wife had not been heard of for over four years and all efforts to find her had failed. Obviously the man couldn't marry again without divorcing his wife, so they turned to you for advice.

You suggested that they retain a lawyer. Abby, why spend money on lawyers? I had the same problem - only I couldn't find the husband who had left me.

I went to three lawyers before one told me that all I needed was my husband's Social Security number. I found it, gave it to my lawyer, and he located my husband in no time at all.

JUST HELPING OUT

CONFIDENTIAL TO "FEELS FOOLISH FOR ASKING": Foolish? No way. Take it from the sage and quotable Malcolm Forbes, who said: "One who never asks either knows everything - or nothing."

(Do you hate to write letters because you don't know what to say? Thank-you notes, sympathy letters, congratulations, how

Cover Your Ears To Prevent Hearing Loss

Dr. Lamb

DEAR DR. LAMB — About a week ago, I went to the rifle range to fire my pistol. I didn't have adequate ear protection, just earplugs. Due to the noise, I have had ringing in my right ear ever since. There is no pain, just a slight ringing. Do you think this will eventually go away or could it be something serious?

DEAR READER — You probably do have noise damage. Not only will noise decrease your hearing ability, but it can cause ringing in the ears called tinnitus. It is an injury like a blast injury. It is a good idea if that happens to see an ear specialist at once. Sometimes immediate treatment can minimize the damage and help prevent part of the hearing loss and ear noise that might occur.

Of course, the ideal thing to do is to prevent the damage in the first place. Similarly, I received a letter this week from a man who was a construction worker and had worked around heavy construction equipment all his life. To prevent hearing loss and tinnitus, the noise in the environment has to be controlled. That is why the noise levels have to be measured in many work environments. If the noise level can't be controlled, then earplugs, helmets or sound-tight "earmuffs" must be used.

You may recover and have little damage to your hearing and you may stop having tinnitus, but this should be a good warning to you to take all the precautions to protect your ears from noise in the future. Hunters or anyone involved in firing guns should always use adequate ear protection.

I must add that loud music can cause ear damage, including both hearing loss and tinnitus. Many young people, in particular, have damaged their ears permanently from exposure to excessively loud music. If you are ever caught in a room with excessively loud music, cover your ears or get out, preferably the latter. Some music groups on tour leave a trail of damaged hearing in their wake. I have discussed noise and the other causes of tinnitus in The Health Letter 12-10. Help for Tinnitus — Noise or Ringing in the Ear.

Answer to Previous Puzzle

WIN AT BRIDGE

By Oswald Jacoby and James Jacoby

Over the years, the perennial Canadian pair in the World Team Olympiad has been Eric Murray and Sammy Kehela, both of Toronto. When this event took place at Valkenburg, the Netherlands, in 1980, these two faced an Egyptian pair in a match crucial to Canada's chances of advancing further. The Egyptian East bid one club in second seat, South and West passed, and Eric Murray, a passed hand, reopened with a takeout double. Kehela, trading on the fact that the auction would help him to locate any key cards, bid three no-trump immediately. The queen of hearts held the first trick. Next, a heart was played to East's king. Although East's play of the club king now would be the best defense, a third heart was in fact continued and won by dummy's ace. Now the concept was simple — Kehela must develop his long suit without allowing West to gain the lead. The spade 10 was led from dummy, queen from East, and South ducked. East played a diamond, won by dummy's jack, and another spade was led. When East ducked, declarer won the king and cleared the suit. Now nine tricks were made. Not surprisingly, North-South's 24 high-card points were not bid to game in the other room. The Torontonians' aggressive bidding, plus Kehela's ability to play the spades to lie as he needed them to, helped keep Canada in the competition.

What The Day Will Bring...

YOUR BIRTHDAY AUGUST 17, 1984

This coming year you will make some powerful contacts who will be in a position to give your career a boost. The persons who will be the luckiest for you will be those born under the sign of Capricorn or Virgo. LEO (July 23-Aug. 22) You're likely to be luckier today in fulfilling career objectives than you will be tomorrow. Make hay while the sun shines. Major changes are in store for Leos in the coming year. Send for your year ahead predictions today. Mail $1 to Astro-Graph, Box 489, Radio City Station, New York, NY 10019. Be sure to state your zodiac sign. VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22) Do not be obsessed by things of a material nature today. Your joy will be found in the real values that life offers, like love and good friends.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 23) You may have to deal with some negative situations early in the day, but be of good cheer, because these are manageable. You can overcome adversity. SCORPIO (Oct. 24-Nov. 22) Today has greater promise than early signals may indicate. Lady Luck will be there to back you up when she is needed. SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23-Dec. 21) Think in terms of being helpful and of service to others today. Good deeds will be recognized, appreciated, and later rewarded. CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19) Things will run smoothly for you today if you do not take yourself or what life has to offer too seriously. Smile and be a winner. AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 19) Don't think you have to be out where the action is in order to enjoy yourself this evening. Spending time at home with those you love will be more fun. PISCES (Feb. 20-March 20)

Whether it's mingling with a sizeable crowd or promoting a big deal, anything that smacks of largeness could turn out to be extremely fortunate for you today. ARIES (March 21-April 19) Today is a day where you'll have an opportunity to expand upon something good you already have going. Look for ways to enhance your position. TAURUS (April 20-May 20) Somewhere far removed from where you presently reside, something beneficial is happening on your behalf. You'll learn of this occurrence later. GEMINI (May 21-June 20) Conditions look promising for you today in joint ventures or shared enterprises. You, as well as your associates, will be lucky. CANCER (June 21-July 22) Do not cast yourself in the loner's role today. You require joyful companions or, more ideally, time with your special someone.

Jackson's Mr. Clean Image Said To Be Good For Kids

children to grow up. Michael Jackson becomes part of their mourning for a lost childhood." Tufts University psychologist David Elkind told Discover Magazine.

with toys. He stays apart. Kids pushed to grow up too fast find this appealing," he said. The singer's gender-blending image is also a plus for children coming of age in the 1980s, he added.

"Kids are so surfeited with sex that these androgynous guys are almost a relief," Elkind told the magazine.

He noted that Jackson, like many of his young admirers, identifies with Peter Pan, "the lost boy of Never-Never Land."

The magazine said Jackson's non-controversial image makes him "considerably more benign" than previous rock idols such as Elvis Presley or Mick Jagger.

Presley, who rose to fame in the 1950s, was "rampant sexuality in an era ripe for eroticism."

Jagger, the lead singer of the Rolling Stones, "was the first of many androgynous stars who represented the beginning of gender liberation," the magazine said.

Jackson combines "a clean living, anti-drug, strong family background image with a very sensual presentation," noted Marquette University psychologist Anthony Kuchan.

Race To The Moon 'Greatest Adventure' On PBS

By Julianne Hastings
UPI TV Reporter

NEW YORK (UPI) — The story of man's insatiable quest for the unknown is told with historic film and interviews with astronauts and "Right Stuff" author Tom Wolfe in PBS's "The Greatest Adventure: The Story of Man's Voyage to the Moon."

Narrated by Orson Welles, the documentary traces the history of the American space program from Robert Goddard's invention of the first liquid fuel rocket to Apollo 11's landing on the moon on July 16, 1969.

The program airs Wednesday, Aug. 22, 10:20-11:10 p.m. EDT (consult local listings).

The film opens with footage of President Kennedy's famous speech informing the world that America was taking up the Russians' gauntlet and the race for space was on.

"I believe that this nation should commit itself to achieving the goal before this decade is out of landing a man on the moon and returning him safely to earth," Kennedy said.

America's first astronauts had already been chosen by 1958, and there is plenty of nostalgic film footage of those instant national heroes who were compared by the media to the Wright brothers, Christopher Columbus, Ferdinand Magellan and Daniel Boone — all to the National Aeronautics and Space Administration's sheer delight.

All of the first seven Mercury astronauts were test pilots and had been known as the "fighter jocks" during the war in Korea.

Wolfe, whose book is a biography of the first astronauts and their fellow test pilots, defines "the right stuff," which he believes a good test pilot must have.

"Any fool can risk his life," Wolfe says. "You have to have the moxie to hang it over the edge and bring it back, time and time again."

After a couple of astro-chimps went up in the Mercury rockets, Alan Shepard was selected to ride in the first American manned space flight — Soviet cosmonaut Yuri Gagarin beat him into space by almost a month.

Shepard's flight lasted 17 minutes.

Then John Glenn became the first American to orbit the earth in a space ship and, due to technical problems, he also had to land manually — the lab rabbit becomes a pilot again.

The documentary focuses on the social problems that were going on back on earth, but despite the racial unrest, poverty and an unpopular war, we see Americans gathering around their televisions and portable radios, waiting to hear from the astronauts as they get closer and closer to the moon.

Even the Rev. Ralph Abernathy is overcome with emotion when the civil rights leader takes time out of his protests to watch a launch at Cape Canaveral.

The space program of the 1960s did touch a common thread among Americans that pulled them together — but only temporarily. Finally, the cost of the program became the target of widespread criticism.

Astronaut Edgar Mitchell firmly supports the costs.

"To solve certain mundane problems at the sacrifice of man's quest of the unknown is sheer folly."

The NASA footage shown in the documentary is breathtaking and when you see Apollo astronauts Neil Armstrong and Edwin Aldrin plant the stars and

NATION IN BRIEF

NOW Files $2 Million Insurance Discrimination Suit

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The National Organization for Women says its $2 million class-action suit against Mutual of Omaha will be the first of several suits to fight what it considers insurance price discrimination against women.

NOW filed the suit Thursday in the District of Columbia Superior Court on behalf of 10,000 NOW members living in Washington.

The suit charges Mutual of Omaha, which it said sold $41.6 million in individual and group policies in Washington in 1983, discriminated against women in pricing health and disability insurance.

Elizabeth Lelf, an assistant actuary for the company, told reporters that "while it is true that we charge women higher rates than men at some ages for certain health coverages," women pay lower rates than men for automobile and life insurance.

If the lawsuit were successful, she said, women would eventually pay more for insurance in areas where they are now charged less.

White House Not Backing Burford

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The White House wants to stop a conservative group from leading an advertising attack on Geraldine Ferraro's refusal to divulge family finances, featuring former EPA chief Anne Burford.

At the request of the National Conservative Political Action Committee, a right-wing political group, Mrs. Burford made a television spot criticizing as "a real scandal" Ms. Ferraro's stance on financial disclosure. She also announced Thursday she will head a "truth squad" that will trail Ms. Ferraro's campaign to counter claims by the Democratic vice presidential nominee.

Mrs. Burford resigned as administrator of the Environmental Protection Agency in March 1983 amid allegations of mismanagement.

Reagan campaign officials "protested and urged her not to do this" said White House spokesman Larry Speakes, adding, "It's not the way we want to run the campaign."

Only Cash In Andria Doria Safe

NEW YORK (UPI) — A rust-covered safe entombed nearly 30 years aboard the sunken liner Andrea Doria was pried open in ceremonies televised worldwide to reveal bundles of blackened U.S. $20 bills and Italian lira, but none of the gems rumored to be in the vault.

Adventurer Peter Gimbel, who first dived to the wreck the day after the vessel sank 28 years ago, expressed elation at the findings but said he had promised his wife, Elga Andersen, he would "never go down to the ship again."

The Andrea Doria collided with the Swedish passenger ship Stockholm 45 miles south of Nantucket, Mass. just before midnight July 25, 1958. The next morning she sank, with the loss of 52 of the 1,700 passengers aboard.

FLORIDA IN BRIEF

NASA To Make $40 Million Satellite Rescue Attempt

CAPE CANAVERAL (UPI) — The space agency has signed a contract with insurance underwriters to launch a bold space shuttle mission in November to rescue a stranded $40 million Indonesian Palapa B-2 communications satellite.

"Our objective is to recover the satellite on behalf of the underwriters and have it available for sale," said James Barrett, president of International Technology Underwriters, one of Palapa's two major underwriters.

Palapa and Western Union's Westar 6 were sent into useless orbits in February when their solid rocket boosters failed shortly after deployment by the crew of the space shuttle Challenger.

The National Aeronautics and Space Administration has been planning a rescue mission for months as a demonstration of the shuttle system's versatility and to gain experience in satellite retrieval techniques.

Reef Damage Being Surveyed

KEY LARGO (UPI) — Officials said tugboats caused environmental damage of hurricane effect in pulling the 400-foot freighter Wellwood off a delicate coral ridge.

The Florida Park Service said Thursday after the vessel was freed that Molasses Reef would remain closed to the public while damage from the freighter and the tugboats is assessed, and the Coast Guard said no one but government divers will be allowed within 500 feet of the colorful reef until damage reports are complete.

The Cyprus-registered freighter smashed into the reef during a thunderstorm Aug. 4 while sailing for Portugal, damaging the rare reef that has attracted divers from around the world.

A $20,000-per-day bill for the salvage operation, totaling about $380,000, will be sent to the firm. The company also faces heavy fines from the government for damage done to the reef.

United Negro College Fund Sets $50,000 Goal; Kickoff Wednesday

The kick-off for the United Negro College Fund in Seminole County will be held at a noon luncheon, Wednesday, at the Holiday Inn-Sanford Marina.

The Seminole County effort is part of a drive in the four-county campaign in Seminole, Orange, Lake and Ocala led by Dr. Michael B. Butler, area surgeon, and Orlando City Commissioner Glenda E. Hood. The region's fund-raising goal is $150,000, with Seminole County shooting for $50,000. The statewide goal is $1.4 million.

The United Negro College Fund financially assists 42 member colleges and universities, two of which are in Florida — Bethune-Cookman in Daytona Beach and Florida Memorial College in Miami. Beginning Jan. 1, 1985, Edward Waters College in Jacksonville will be added to the list.

Co-chairmen of the drive in Seminole County are Hortense Evans, administrative assistant to School Superintendent Robert Hughes, and Dr. Calvin Collins Jr., a Sanford physician.

Agent Orange

Study Disputes Vets Birth Defects Claims

ATLANTA (UPI) — Federal health officials say a major birth defect study shows Vietnam veterans exposed to Agent Orange face no greater risk of fathering deformed infants than other men.

The national Centers for Disease Control, which conducted the three-year study at a cost of $2.8 million, and the Journal of the American Medical Association both published articles today about the study.

Dr. David Erickson, the CDC's chief investigator for the study, said it provided "pretty strong evidence that Vietnam veterans in general are not at increased risk of having babies with birth defects.

"Overall those veterans who had higher opportunities for exposure to Agent Orange did not have increased risk of having babies with defects when all types of defects are combined," said Erickson.

Erickson said, however, there were exceptions to the general findings. Veterans who were exposed to greater amounts of the chemical than others had a higher risk of fathering children with spina bifida (imperfectly formed spinal cord), cleft lip with or without cleft palate, and defects classified as "other neoplasms," the latter described by Erickson as mostly benign tumors.

"These exceptions could conceivably be due to unmeasured confounding factors and may not be biologically significant," Erickson said.

The study showed the odds for exposed Vietnam veterans of fathering children with spina bifida was 1.19 times greater than for men who did not serve in Vietnam.

The odds were 0.76 times greater for exposed Vietnam veterans producing children with cleft palate than for the control group. For "other neoplasms," the odds were 1.50 times higher.

An estimated 50,000 tons of Agent Orange, which contains the chemical dioxin, were sprayed to defoliate the jungles of Vietnam, where about 2.6 million Americans served in the military.

Erickson said researchers investigated the health histories of 8,000 infants — 500 of whom were born with defects — and compared them to 3,000 babies without defects. The children were selected from 325,000 births in the Atlanta area from 1968-1980. Information about military service in Vietnam and exposure to Agent Orange was obtained in 1982-83 through telephone interviews with the parents.

In May, seven chemical companies that supplied Agent Orange to the military agreed to place $180 million in a fund to pay veterans and their families for injuries claimed to be associated with exposure to dioxin.

"I don't think any study sets a controversy like this to rest," Erickson said. He said the CDC investigators "had a difficult time measuring who was and who was not exposed to Agent Orange" and that it was "an educated guess as to who might have been exposed."

But, he said, "We haven't seen any evidence in our studies which we find alarming."

Shop&Go Safe Cracked, $1,413 Stolen

A Shop & Go convenience store manager reported to Seminole County sheriff's deputies that she found the store's safe open and $1,413 missing when she opened that store at 5 a.m. Thursday.

Judith E. Shelton told lawmen that she and another store employee are the only ones with access to the safe. Deputies could find no sign of forced entry to the store on county Road 427 at Charlotte Road, Longwood, according to a sheriff's report.

Two, five-month-old Doberman pinschers, belonging to John A. Long, 48, of P.O. Box 3126, Sanford, were stolen from a fenced, vacant lot on Brissan Avenue at Crawford Drive, Sanford Friday or Saturday, deputies report.

A thief took $550 worth of items including a clock and several pieces of jewelry from the home of Pat Henson, 614-A Lake Howell Condos, Casselberry, Wednesday, according to a sheriff's report.

Deputies have the name of a suspect who may have stolen two $3,000 jet water skis and a $500 trailer from R.C. Hill's Motorcycle Center, U.S. Highway 17-92, Longwood. The items were reportedly taken Tuesday or Wednesday.

Richard Howard Strader reported to deputies that two suspects who rented merchandise from his AAA Rental, 6089

E. E. Williamson Road, Longwood, have not returned the items.

Those items, which were reported stolen Wednesday, include an air compressor with attachments worth a total of $466 and tree climbing spikes and a safety belt worth $90 each.

A pool sweeper worth $577 was stolen from the pool of Lewis William Zoller, 69, of 1540 Sunshine Tree Blvd., Longwood, between Aug. 7 and Wednesday, deputies report.

Items valued at $700, including stereo equipment, were stolen from the home of Thomas Smith, 24, of 556 state Road 436 #1001, Casselberry. Deputies said the theft occurred Tuesday or Wednesday.

A 1979 Jeep was stolen from the used car lot of Bob Dance Dodge, U.S. Highway 17-92, Longwood. Salesman Tom Land told deputies the keys for the $1,200 vehicle, which disappeared between July 31 and Wednesday, are also missing.

Four power tools with a combined value of $300 were stolen from the garage of Melvin Sall, 42, of 2016 Nottingdale Lane, Winter Park, between Sunday and Wednesday, according to a sheriff's report.

A $250 radar detector was reported stolen from the car of William S. Chidester, 35, of 909 Brantley Drive, Longwood, while the vehicle was parked at his home Tuesday or Wednesday.

A thief took $2,600 worth of items including a typewriter and a copier machine from a construction office at 1701 Willa Circle, Winter Park. Deputies report that the items, which were taken Tuesday or Wednesday, belong to Luddy Goetz Jr., 45, of Orlando.

Moderates Fail In Bid To Alter GOP Platform

DALLAS (UPI) — Conservatives, rebuffing an emotional 11th-hour bid by moderates to rewrite the Republican platform, will give next week's national convention a document that a top GOP leader says President Reagan "will love."

The platform committee today meets to dispatch a few lingering formalities before sending the document to the printer so it will be ready for the Republican National Convention opening Monday.

President Reagan "when he reads this document, he will love it," said a beaming Rep. Trent Lott of Mississippi, the chairman of the platform committee following Thursday's work session — which lasted more than 10 hours.

The party's right wing, badly splintered earlier in the week by a feud over the platform's tax plank, acted in harmony as moderates came up with a string of last-minute amendments.

The challengers, led by Connecticut Sen. Lowell Weicker, repeatedly lost by lopsided margins as they sought to reverse platform positions stamped with the approval of the White House.

Weicker says he is exploring the possibility of raising a floor fight at the convention — but his badly outnumbered forces have only a slight chance of mounting such a rebellion.

Conservatives on the platform committee systematically crushed the upstarts Thursday, including their efforts to restore GOP support for the Equal Rights Amendment.

The majority also spurned an attempt to win support for the use of federal aid in some abortions and defeated moves to strike language favoring school prayer from the official party blueprint.

The 106-member panel not only rejected ERA but also turned down a plea that merely would have put the party on record as respecting the views of those who support it.

Phyllis Schlafly, a platform committee member who led the successful national campaign to scuttle ERA, warned against reviving the amendment. "It isn't going anywhere... It would be a mistake to hang this albatross around every Republican candidate."

The platform voices support for equal rights for women but makes no reference to ERA. The party had endorsed ERA for more than 40 years — until 1980, when conservatives dropped it as a plank.

Julie Belago of Westport, Conn., proposed making federal funds available for abortions for victims of rape and incest, saying: "We compound that cruelty when we force a victim to carry that rapist's child to term."

Rep. Henry Hyde, R-Ill., author of a law cutting off federal funds for abortions, said: "Abortion is the killing of an innocent, inconceivable second victim."

Weicker said he and Belago offered the amendment "merely to bring some common sense into this issue and right the extreme view that had been written into law." It was tabled by a 3-1 vote margin.

Weicker's only victory was winning support for an amendment saying the GOP "shall work toward full funding" by the federal government of aid for handicapped children. The senator has a mentally retarded son.

Bomb Cop Wanted To Be Detective

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — The policeman charged with planting a bomb aboard a Turkish Olympic team bus he was assigned to guard has told superiors he wanted to impress them by disarming the device so he could become a detective.

Officer Jimmy Pearson, 40, assigned to an elite Metro

Division protective detail for the Turkish Olympic team, pleaded innocent Thursday to reckless possession of a destructive device, which carries a mandatory prison term of no less than two years.

Pearson was an instant hero after removing the bomb.

Man Jailed In Bedroom Assault

A 21-year-old Sanford man has been charged with sexual battery after allegedly barging into a woman's bedroom and molesting her. The man was being held in the Seminole County Jail today in lieu of $8,000 bond.

The woman reported to sheriff's deputies that she was victimized Wednesday night by a man who was waiting at her home to see her roommate. The roommate later told investigators that he had told the suspect he would not be home that night.

The suspect reportedly arrived at the house at about 11 p.m. Wednesday. The woman told him he could wait around for her roommate, but she was going to bed. The man told her he was too drunk to drive home and she told him he could sleep on the couch, according to a sheriff's report.

The man later opened the woman's bedroom door, jumped on top of her, ripped her shorts and top off, wrestled her to the floor and assaulted her with his hand. The attack did not proceed to the point of rape, the woman told deputies, because when she stopped struggling the man "got upset and fled." Deputies report that the woman had scratches and bruises on her body.

Richard Allen Wallen of 2611 Hartwell Ave. was arrested for the crime at 4:40 p.m. Thursday.

METAL THEFT CAPTURE

A 24-year-old Altamonte Springs man has been charged with theft in connection with the theft of $2,000 worth of aluminum window framing from a Casselberry construction site.

The goods, which were stolen Aug. 7 or 8 from 979 N. state Road 436 where a Kane Furniture store is being built, were sold to Aaron's Scrap Metal, Orlando, for $522. When the man who sold the windows returned to Aaron's with more for sale, lawmen were called. Orange County officers held the suspect for Casselberry police who charged the man at 2:59 p.m. Wednesday.

Michael Stephen Redgrave of 315 Carmona Road was later freed on $5,000 bond.

WEAVER WITH POT

A driver who appeared to be eating as he drove away from a restaurant, weaving on the roadway, was stopped by Altamonte Springs police and charged with possession of under 20 grams of marijuana after that officer reported spotting some partially smoked pot cigarettes in an ashtray in the man's car and saw cigarette papers and several small envelopes of pot in the glove box of the car when the suspect looked for his vehicle registration.

George Wright Jr., 23, of Orlando, was also charged with failing to maintain a single lane on West state Road 436, Altamonte Springs. He was released on $500 bond.

CHARGES DROPPED

Charges have been dropped against a Winter Park woman who was accused of breaking into a friend's home.

Wanda A. Howard, of 165 Bufield Court, will not be tried on a burglary charge because the victim, Herman Q. Schaler, does not want her prosecuted, according to Assistant State Attorney Steven Lawrence.

The victim and Ms. Howard have had a domestic relationship resulting in several disturbances, Lawrence said.

According to the arrest report, a woman appeared at Schaler's patio door and pounded on the glass around noon on July 18, but he refused to let her in. She then allegedly broke a window, pulled down the drapes and fled to Charlie's Bar, Howell Branch Road and Lake Howell Road.

Sheriff's deputies, who had warned the woman earlier to stay away from the man's home, charged her with burglary to an occupied dwelling.

VACATION RIP-OFF

A Sanford woman told police that $6,000 worth of household goods were removed from her home while she was away on vacation.

Mary Margaret Hubble, 23, of 246 Wagon Wheel Court, told police that while she was on vacation between Aug. 1 and Friday, someone entered her home and took television sets, a microwave oven, clothing, a stereo system and other articles. She told police she would submit a complete list of the items taken.

The thief entered the house through a window and took the items out through the front door, police said.

GUCCI PURSE STOLEN

Forgetting her purse was set on the pavement, a Longwood woman and friend drove away from a Sanford subdivision clubhouse only to return a few minutes later to find the purse and contents valued at $450 missing.

Mary, "Jackie" Hyatt, 20, told police she and Frank Rowe, 21, of Sanford, were loading a vehicle Saturday at 4:10 p.m. at the Sanora Clubhouse, Sanora Boulevard, when she put her purse on the pavement and forgot it was there, she said.

When they returned at 4:30 p.m. the purse was gone.

The $180 Gucci purse contained $100 in cash, gold earrings valued at $75, a gold ink pen, $40, a leather wallet, $35, and a credit card case worth $20.

GREASE FIRE

A grease fire in the kitchen of a Sanford restaurant caused $1,500 worth of damage.

According to police and fire reports, grease on the stove at Bahama Joe's, 2508 S. French Av., caught fire about 9:50 p.m. Friday. The burn was quickly extinguished and there were no injuries reported.

According to assistant restaurant manager Patrick Dee, the blaze did about $1,500 damage to the hoods above the stove.

No other equipment was damaged, according to the report.

DUI ARRESTS

The following persons have been arrested in Seminole County on a charge of driving under the influence:

—Robert Alvin McCullough, 24, of 420 Oak Ave., Sanford, was arrested at 5:35 p.m. Tuesday after a highway patrolman was advised by radio that there was a possible drunk driver on Interstate-4 at state Road 46, west of Sanford. He was also charged with driving with a suspended license.

—Christopher Jon Hedum, 22, of Orlando, at 3:35 a.m. on Interstate 4, Lake Mary, after his car was clocked travelling at 88 mph, and was seen weaving in and out of heavy traffic.

—Milton Edward Jones, 44, of 3540 Jericho Drive, Casselberry, was arrested at 2:15 a.m. Thursday after his car hit the median and ran off state Road 436, Casselberry.

And Whither... New Zealand?

Like trade winds, the breezes of nuclear faint-heartedness are blowing through the south Pacific. Last year Australia's new Labor government spoke ominously of changing nuclear policy in the region. Now New Zealand threatens to let itself be driven by those treacherous gales.

New Zealand's Prime Minister-elect David Lange, head of the country's Labor Party, has announced that he stands by his party's pledge to ban nuclear-armed and nuclear-powered ships from New Zealand. Because the United States rightly refuses to disclose which of its naval vessels carry nuclear missiles or are nuclear-powered, New Zealand's ban would bar all U.S. military ships from the country's ports.

Lange insists that his government remains committed to ANZUS, the security alliance comprised of Australia, New Zealand and the United States. The ANZUS treaty commits the members to "meet the common danger" — including with military force when necessary — in the event of a threat to any of the three nations. However, while the Labor Party's aim to make New Zealand a nuclear-free zone would not automatically vitiate the alliance's effectiveness, Lange's brand of freeloading could hamper military coordination among the countries and could, in time, place insurmountable strains on the alliance.

In a recent speech, Paul D. Wolfowitz, the U.S. assistant secretary of state for East Asian and Pacific affairs, said of the potential danger that could be posed by a maverick policy, "The question is not so much whether any one ANZUS country could prosper as a neutral under the umbrella of others' active roles but whether the other countries would choose to continue active roles once one chose to withdraw."

In 1942 New Zealanders welcomed with open arms the U.S. forces that stood between the country and possible Japanese invaders. Since then, the U.S. presence in the south Pacific — including the U.S. nuclear umbrella — has been a vital stabilizing force in the region. But now some New Zealanders seem to want it both ways: They want the security of a U.S.-led ANZUS, but they don't want the invitation to enemy attack they think the presence of nuclear weapons might pose.

The United States is playing down the potential crisis and is giving Lange plenty of time to reconsider his position (no U.S. ships are scheduled to visit New Zealand ports until next year). It is hoped that he will change his mind, as Australia's Labor prime minister did after his election last year.

Where Are They?

Ten years ago Richard M. Nixon resigned as president under threat of impeachment, driven from the highest office in the land by the spreading scandal known as Watergate.

Many of the men closest to him politically were indicted or convicted on criminal charges. Where are these men today? Many have become well-to-do, even celebrities.

Former President Nixon is wealthy, a writer of several books. He is again becoming prominent on the lecture circuit and among some within the foreign policy establishment.

H.R. Haldeman, once White House chief of staff, is a rich Los Angeles real estate developer.

John Dean, former White House counsel, has earned a great deal of money as a lecturer, writer and radio and television announcer.

G. Gordon Liddy, who served the longest prison term, is also a lecturer, one of the hottest draws on the campus circuit.

John Ehrlichman, although not wealthy, lives in Santa Fe, N.M., and has found value in his Watergate experience. "Watergate changed my life for the better," he says.

Two former Nixon cronies are in religion. Jeb Stuart Magruder, once Nixon's deputy campaign manager, is a minister. Charles Colson, compiler of the "enemies list," directs a prison ministry.

The first day of school, Aug. 27, is fast approaching and the school district's transportation department would like to show off their equipment and driving skills to new students and parents.

School bus displays will be set up in the parking lots at Sanford Plaza and the Altamonte Mall on Wednesday, Friday and Saturday. School bus drivers will be available with their buses from 10 a.m. to 5 p.m. each of those days to talk with students about bus safety and to distribute school bus schedules for Seminole County's students.

A get acquainted ride will be available for all students for whom bus riding will be a new experience this year. Parents are invited to join their children for this short ride on a school bus.

Student safety is a top priority of the school system's transportation department. In addition to daily bus safety checks by drivers, all school buses undergo a thorough safety check by bus mechanics every 20 days.

The district's 232 drivers receive 24 hours of in-service training each year with an emphasis on safety. These drivers drive more than 3 million miles each school year.

In May, Seminole County's drivers participated in the state school bus road-race held in Sarasota. In the statewide competition with more than 20 other Florida counties represented, Seminole County's school bus drivers won all seven awards presented.

School Superintendent Robert Hughes says he is pleased with the outstanding safety record compiled by the county's school bus drivers.

He is asking all the drivers in the county to use extra caution when driving near schools, school buses and bus stops.

"We want every student to arrive at school safely every day this school year," he said.

While school doesn't begin for students until Aug. 27, the teachers will be back in their classrooms Monday preparing for the stampede of young people.

Hughes will give a special welcome to the faculty and staff at Jackson Heights Middle School at 9:30 a.m. Monday.

On Wednesday, Curriculum coordinators and teachers will have a comprehensive in-service program at Lake Mary High School.

Hughes will speak to the in-service program for "Student Services" on Wednesday morning at Lake Brantley High School.

On Thursday, awards will be presented by the transportation department in the afternoon.

On Mr. Reagan's Failures

DALLAS (NEA) — The most comprehensive assessment of President Reagan's first term in office, published on the eve of his nomination for a second term, suggests that his stylistic successes have obscured his substantive failures.

Indeed, notwithstanding the extravagant praise certain to be lavished upon the president at the Republican National Convention here, virtually every objective analysis of his tenure in the White House concludes that his performance to date has failed to match his promise.

The newest and most ambitious of those studies is the product of a three-year research project conducted under the auspices of the Urban Institute, a non-partisan Washington-based organization which studies public policy issues.

More than 150 policy experts, researchers and scholars have produced a massive report, published as a 415-page book titled "The Reagan Record" and edited by John L. Palmer and Isabel V. Sawhill.

Their analysis is scrupulously balanced but the underlying documentation is devastating to Reagan, demonstrating that the president has failed to attain almost every goal he has sought during the past 3.5 years.

"Not since 1932 has there been such a redirection of public purpose.... The Reagan administration, more than most others, has had a clear vision of what it was trying to accomplish," notes the study.

"Its continuing objectives have been to reduce the size and influence of government, to restore economic prosperity and to improve national security," the report adds.

Portraying the federal government as the problem rather than the solution, Reagan has waged a ceaseless propaganda campaign to convince the electorate that he is committed to drastically paring its size, scope and influence.

But that is not what has occurred during his tenure. When Reagan assumed office, federal spending consumed 23.5 percent of the country's gross national product. That figure has risen to 24.1 percent.

To finance that spending, the president has proposed budget deficits of unprecedented size. "Nearly as much national debt will have accumulated in the past four years as in the entire history of the country prior to his administration," says the Urban Institute analysis.

Ruling Party May Be Losing Grip

WASHINGTON — In a top-secret report, the CIA has concluded that the near-monopoly party that has dominated Mexico for more than half a century — the Institutional Revolutionary Party — is running scared. The CIA is concerned that the situation could eventually lead to revolution from either the right or the left.

The report, titled "Prospects for Instability in Mexico," was specially prepared for President Reagan before he met with Mexican President Miguel de la Madrid last May. My associate Dale Van Atta has reviewed the report's self-described "key judgments."

The CIA dealt at length with the municipal elections of July 1983. The ruling PRI was jolted by the astonishing success of the opposition National Action Party.

Though PAN won only five of 61 contested legislative seats and nine of 105 municipal posts in five Mexican states, it was PRI's worst showing in its 54-year history. PAN candidates were elected mayors of two state capitals — Chihuahua and Durango — and of Ciudad Juarez,

Those 'Finder's Fees'

NEW YORK (NEA) — The disclosure that Sen. Mark Hatfield's wife received a $55,000 "finder's fee" from a Greek businessman, coming so soon after Sen. Howard Metzenbaum admitted receiving $250,000 as a "finder's fee" from an Ohio friend, inevitably focuses attention on this particular kind of payment. Why do finder's fees seem to have such affinity for U.S. senators and their families?

A finder's fee is simply a commission, paid to someone who has performed a valuable service by bringing together the parties to a contract. Ordinarily, the finder and one of the prospective contracting parties will agree in advance that if the finder succeeds in locating a suitable second party and a contract is in fact entered into, the finder will be compensated. The amount of this compensation will also be specified — usually anywhere from 1 percent to 10 percent of the contract price, depending on how much work is expected to be involved. If it isn't specified, then the size of the fee will ordinarily depend on the amount of work actually done. Obviously, the bigger the transaction the bigger the finder's fee.

In the case of Metzenbaum, what raised eyebrows was the small amount of "work" Metzenbaum did to earn his quarter-of-a-million dollar fee. By his own account, he made two phone calls. Since they allegedly resulted in the sale of a hotel by one of Metzenbaum's friends to another for $30 million dollars, he collected just under 1 percent of the purchase price for his efforts. (Subsequently, Metzenbaum repaid the fee when publicity threatened, though he insists the transaction was entirely legitimate.)

Hatfield has similarly described as a finder's fee the $55,000 that Greek entrepreneur Basil Tsakos paid, in several installments, to Mrs. Hatfield in 1982 and 1983. Her services, according to her husband, involved helping Tsakos find an apartment in Washington. According to The New York Times, however, "former associates of Mr. Tsakos have disputed the senator's explanation." Moreover, the payments to Mrs. Hatfield occurred at a time when the senator himself was deeply in debt and was actively promoting, to the U.S. government, a proposal by Tsakos to build an oil pipeline across Africa.

The problem is obvious. A finder's fee, as we have seen, is often negotiated quite solemnly in writing, in advance; but it can also be acknowledged as due after the event, in recognition of services performed, without any written agreement ever being involved. It is, therefore, possible to explain any payment from one person to another as a "finder's fee," provided the payer was involved in some antecedent transaction that the payee can be said to have assisted. The explanation may be suspiciously facile, but it is also usually hard to refute, especially if the parties involved stick together on the explanation.

As of this writing, Tsakos himself hasn't been heard from in regard to the payments to Mrs. Hatfield. But the Department of Justice has now requested a full FBI investigation of the affair, and it seems likely that further revelations will be forthcoming.

'Heart Attack' That Isn't

By Patricia McCormack
UPI Health Editor

NEW YORK (UPI) — Dizziness, chest pain and shortness of breath may convince some women they are having a heart attack and their doctors that significant heart disease is present.

But both the patients and their physicians could be wrong.

The women may suffer mitral valve prolapse, the name for floppy heart valve, a condition which afflicts 6 percent to 20 percent of otherwise healthy people, said Dr. Richard Helfant, professor of clinical medicine at the University of Pennsylvania Medical School.

Young women, especially slim women in their late 20s to mid 30s with very narrow chests from back to front, are more likely than young men to suffer the condition, he said. Its origin is unknown, but it is believed to be inborn.

Mitral valve prolapse is rarely fatal and does not produce symptoms very often, Helfant said. Many people with the slight defect go all the way to old age without ever knowing one of their heart valves is less than perfect.

However, there is a danger the condition might be misdiagnosed as significant heart disease when occasional heart-attack-like symptoms send a small percentage of victims to the doctor, the heart expert said.

Helfant describes the symptoms as "a heart attack that isn't one."

He said troubles, when they occur, are no more a medical disaster than a headache and severe symptoms respond to medication — beta blockers or calcium blockers.

An examining doctor, not finding significant heart trouble, might also tell people with mitral valve prolapse they are hypochondriacs or emotionally unstable, said Helfant, director of the Mid-Atlantic Heart and Vascular Institute of the Presbyterian-University of Pennsylvania Medical Center, Philadelphia.

The mitral valve is the valve through which blood passes on the way to the main pumping chamber of the heart. Mitral valve prolapse seems to be due to one of the attachments of the valve being longer than normal.

It is a minor imperfection — not to be compared with valve damage from rheumatic fever, for example.

Doctors listening through a stethoscope pick the defect up as a clicking, Helfant said.

Right now, Helfant estimated, probably thousands of women with mitral valve prolapse are suffering needless anxiety.

Oil Rig Explosion Kills 36 Workers

RIO DE JANEIRO, Brazil (UPI) — Special firefighting units battled gas-fed flames today at Brazil's largest offshore oil rig in the aftermath of a thunderous explosion in which 36 workers were hurled to their deaths.

A team of U.S. oil and gas firefighting experts was expected to join the effort today to douse the blaze on the 50-story Insova platform in the Campos Basin, 120 miles north of Rio de Janeiro, a spokesman for the state-owned oil monopoly Petrobras said.

Thirty-six men were killed Thursday during the panicky evacuation from the fiery blow-out, the result of a gas leak. Survivors said a cable snapped on one of five life boats as it absorbed a shock wave from the blast, pitching the 36 into the rolling seas.

Spokesman Gilberto Naum said helicopters picked up 207 other workers, including 19 injured, from the other escape launches and from the blazing platform. He said six of the injured suffered "severe burns" and were in "grave condition."

Another Ship Hits Mine

SUEZ CITY, Egypt (UPI) — U.S. helicopters and British divers joined a multinational search for mines in the Gulf of Suez and Red Sea hours after a Cypriot freighter hit an "underwater bomb" and became the 18th ship damaged by the explosives.

U.S. mine sweeping helicopters and British divers joined the search only hours after the 11,765-ton Cypriot freighter Theopolis hit an "underwater bomb" that caused "severe damage to its engine room" and hull in the southern Red Sea, the shipping insurer Lloyds of London said.

No mines or fragments have been found either in the Gulf or farther south in the Red Sea and one of the principal objectives of the search operation by the United States, Britain, France and Egypt is to retrieve an intact explosive to allow the countries to determine their origin.

Israelis Bomb Guerrilla Base

BEIRUT, Lebanon (UPI) — Israeli warplanes bombed a suspected Palestinian guerrilla base in Syrian-controlled eastern Lebanon in what Israel said was "part and parcel of our continuous fight against terrorism everywhere."

In southern Lebanon, guerrillas attacked two Israeli army positions Thursday and a patrol of Israeli soldiers reportedly set off a land mine, but there were no new reported casualties in the continuing wave of almost daily attacks aimed at driving Jewish forces out of Lebanon.

An unconfirmed report by state-owned Beirut radio said the Israeli air raid Thursday into the Syrian-controlled Bekaa Valley killed at least four people and wounded four others.

In Israel, Defense Minister Moshe Arens cited attacks on Israeli soldiers as motivation for the bombing.

Builders To Drill Now, Pay Later

By Deane Jordan
Herald Staff Writer

Builders who agree to drill wells on their lots in Lake Mary during the city's water-related construction slowdown and then pay tap-on fees when the city gets its own water source and treatment plant will be able to continue construction.

The commission decided Thursday to allow builders, who will receive the approximately 100 permits the city can issue under an agreement with Sanford which supplies the city with water, to drill the wells because the builders were not the cause of the water controversy between the municipalities.

It is similar to the agreement the city used with builders during an EDB crisis when Sanford-supplied water was contaminated by the chemical. City Manager Kathy Rice said.

The commission amended the guideline regarding wells stipulating that any well sunk can be no closer than 100 feet to a septic tank. The county guideline is 75 feet. The distance was increased, at the urging of Commissioner Colin Keogh, to insure that the wells and septic tanks are kept apart.

The commission passed the guideline after developer Mike Guppy said that without some means of providing water to two lots he has under development, he would go bankrupt.

He said the lots were presold and without a water source he could not get financing to build the houses.

In a related matter, Mayor Walter Sorenson reported to the commission that Lake Mary and Sanford may be moving towards a truce in their water war.

Sanford wants Lake Mary to build its own water system, which the city is planning to do. However, the cities have disagreed as to what will happen to impact fees collected from each new customer which taps into the water system. Sanford says that since all tap-ons impact its water system before Lake Mary's is on line, it should get the fees. Lake Mary has contended that since it is building a water facility, it should be able to use the fees to pay for it.

The disagreement prompted Sanford to threaten to cut off Lake Mary's water July 31. The "drought" was forestalled by court injunction.

Sorenson said the cities are discussing two options for solving the impasse:

1] Lake Mary putting up a $150,000 bond which would go to Sanford if the city hasn't completed its own water treatment system by March, 1986

2] allowing Lake Mary to draw on escrowed impact fees for system construction

"We are talking. There is room for conversation," Sorenson said.

Organized by Betty Heitman, co-chairman of the Republican National Committee, and Paula Hughes, first vice president of Thompson-McKinnon Securities, considered the most powerful woman on Wall Street, the members are all women who have distinguished themselves professionally or in business.

Mrs. Austin said. Among them are women who own construction businesses, the dean of the graduate school of Industrial Management at Carnegie Mellon; the vice chairman of the U.S. Energy Board, Joy Burns of the Burnley Hotel chain; a professor at the Wake Forest School of Law, a senior vice president of Marine Midland Bank and a senior fellow at Horton School in Pennsylvania. Another member is Barbara Walls, one of the founders of NOW and now senior economics consultant for the Sun Co., a large economic advisory committee, Mrs. Austin said.

Widowed since 1978 when her husband, Bill, was killed in a plane crash, Mrs. Austin combines her business and political activities with motherhood. She has two children, Jill, almost 16, and Ric, 11.

Mrs. Austin grew up in a home where business was a favorite topic of conversation. As a child, she invested in the stock market. Her father was a graduate of the Harvard Graduate Business School.

She chose the University of Arizona for her higher education and majored in primary education, elementary education, psychology and sociology.

Then she taught school for eight years. "But my first love was always business," she says, adding she took business graduate courses in investment, finance, the stock market and bonds.

After her husband died in May, 1978, Mrs. Austin sold their fertilizer business and went into real estate for awhile. "But I decided I had to have a reason to get out of bed in the morning and bought Ellman Battery."

She has been involved in the local Republican Party for a number of years, "more socially than anything else," she says.

After the presidential election, Mrs. Austin says the group will open itself for new memberships and will work to "keep women's economic issues in the forefront."

"I understand the problems some single working mothers are having with trying to get jobs and put their children in day care. I'm a working mother," she said. "Providing jobs will be the first step and education will be the second."

But Reagan's election is paramount, according to Mrs. Austin. Since 1982, she says, 4.8 million new jobs have been created and half have gone to women and Reagan can do more with four more years.

and my family have gone through, the terror of the last two years, won't ever happen to anyone else. If so, then maybe this was all worth it."

One of the horde of reporters from all over the world who mobbed De Lorean, asked what damage the ordeal had caused.

"Other than the fact that I've aged 600 years in the last two years, and my business reputation has been left in tatters. I don't know," De Lorean responded. "Would you buy a used car from me?"

A videotape showing De Lorean and undercover agents drinking a champagne toast over a suitcase full of cocaine just before they put the cuffs on him was shown on national TV before the trial and was the government's biggest weapon.

De Lorean claimed all during the two years since his arrest that he was set up by informant Hoffman — an admitted perjurer and convicted cocaine smuggler — and led down the garden path by overzealous undercover government agents blinded by ambition.

Some on the jury agreed, saying after their verdict that they believed the government had not proved its case. Others said they believed De Lorean, once the youngest department head at General Motors, guilty but went along with U.S. District Judge Robert Takaue's instructions that if they believed De Lorean had been entrapped, they must find him innocent.

The outcome of one of the most publicized drug cases in U.S. history does not end De Lorean's legal troubles. He faces a subpoena from a federal grand jury in Detroit that is looking into allegations of fraud stemming from the maze of transactions that enveloped the defunct De Lorean Motor Company.

Weitzman acknowledged the arrest videotape was the most damaging evidence but recalled that De Lorean's children's lives had been threatened by the agents when he tried to back out of the deal.

The Dream Becomes Reality

Nationals' 22-Hit Barrage Earns Trip To Williamsport

By Sam Cook
Herald Sports Editor

ST. PETERSBURG — The Dream has become reality.

The Florida Altamonte Springs Little National League All-Stars became the first 12-year-old Altamonte Little League team to earn a berth in the Little League World Series at Williamsport, Pa. Thursday when they pounded out 22 hits en route to a 17-6 victory over Huntsville, Ala. in the Southern Region at Gulfport's Al Lang Memorial Stadium.

"We reached another level," said ecstatic Altamonte manager Jerrey Thurston. "We knew we had to hit up and down the lineup, and that's exactly what the kids did. They knew what they had to do and they went out and did it."

The Altamonte 12-year-olds now join seven other teams in the World Series at Williamsport. They will play the U.S.A. West representative Tuesday at 2 p.m. in the opening game. Thurston said the city will give the team a big sendoff Saturday morning at 8:30 at the Altamonte Springs Eastmonte Recreation center.

Once again, a lusty hitting attack made things easy for the Nationals. As usual, the hitting heroes ranged from the top to the bottom of Altamonte's hard-hitting lineup.

"That's a lumber company out there," said expressed Alabama manager Russell Litz about the 22-hit barrage. "Those kids really swing the bats. They were just a whole lot better than us."

Here's a look at what the

Beatty Blasts 3-Run Homer; Seniors Need 1 For Crown

By Sam Cook

GARY, Ind. — Dan Beatty hammered a three-run homer to highlight a six-run fourth inning, and Mike Schmit tossed a four-hitter as the U.S.A. South Altamonte Springs Seniors knocked off U.S.A. West Walnut Creek, Cal., 10-5, to move into the title game of the Senior League World Series Thursday at the Jundale Joe Eckert Field.

Altamonte, which has won three straight games, will play the winner of the loser's bracket on Saturday at 5 p.m. An Altamonte win sews up the World Series title while a loss forces a winner-take-all second game at 8 p.m.

There are still three other teams in contention. The Dominican Republic plays the Far East today at 12 noon. The winner takes on U.S.A. West at 7:45 tonight. The survivor of tonight's clash then meets Altamonte on Saturday.

Manager Gene Letterio said right-hander Anthony Laszalc would pitch Saturday's championship game. Laszalc struck out 10 while beating U.S.A. Central Midland, Mich. Tuesday. Letterio said Schmit would pitch the second game if Altamonte lost the first.

"Anthony is in superb form," said coach Jerry Lisle. "We feel extremely confident with him going Saturday."

Altamonte jumped to quick lead against West starter John Strauch, scoring one in the first, three in the second and six in the fourth. The Seniors belted Strauch and reliever Willie Martinez for eight hits.

In the first frame, Ryan Lisle beat out and infield single, but was forced at second by Shane Letterio. Schmit, nevertheless, socked a double to left-center field to chase home Letterio for a 1-0 lead. Mark Coffey and Billy Henley then grounded out to end the inning.

In the second, Neal Harris singled to lead off the inning and Eddie Taubensee drew a walk. Beatty popped up to the shortstop for the first out, but Harris then stole third base.

Laszalc then rapped a groundball to the second baseman who tossed out Harris trying to score. But when the third baseman then misplayed Lisle's groundball, Taubensee scrambled home for a 2-0 lead.

Letterio then hit a grounder which was kicked by the second baseman allowing Laszalc to score.

Schmit followed with his second RBI hit to make it 4-0.

The 6-2 Schmit was just as tough on the mound over the first three innings, too. The big right-hander retired the first nine hitters before walking the leadoff batter in the fourth. Schmit struck out six of the nine, including all three hitters in the second inning.

U.S.A. West finally pushed across a run in the fourth, but a snappy Laszalc-to-Letterio-to-Harris double play prevented any further damage.

Altamonte put the game out of reach in the fourth. Lisle drew a leadoff walk and Letterio singled before Schmit walked to load the bases. Coffey whiffed, but Henley followed with a single to left-center for a 5-1 lead.

Harris then was hit by a pitch to force in another run before Taubensee socked a sacrifice fly to left-center to score Schmit for a 7-1 advantage.

Beatty then followed with a long 350-foot blast to left for a three-run homer and a 10-1 bulge. It was the third home run of the playoffs for Beatty.

U.S.A. West picked up two runs each in the sixth and seventh aided by two Altamonte errors.

Schmit threw 110 pitches while striking out eight and walking four. He retired the side in order in four of the seven innings, including the final three in the seventh.

Jamey Wallace gets a tap on the head from the first base umpire. Wallace had a pair of singles and an RBI in Altamonte's 22-hit attack.

Cheng-Cheeng's 2-Hitter Backs District 14 To The Wall

By Chris Flister
Herald Sports Writer

FORT LAUDERDALE — Although the District 14 South All-Stars offense has not been burning down the house lately, it always came through with the clutch hits. As a result, the South won two straight games to advance to the winner's bracket final of the Big League World Series.

However, the South's bats went from quiet but clutch, to silent and non-existent in Thursday night's game against the Far East (Ping Tung, Taiwan, Republic of China). The South managed just two hits off Far East hurler Kuo Cheng-Cheeng and China erupted for four runs in the first inning en route to a 5-0 victory and a berth in the World Series title game.

The South will now have to come back through the loser's bracket and beat the Far East twice if it is to win the crown. First, though, the District 14 All-Stars must get by either the West (Sacramento, Calif.) or Venezuela in tonight's loser's bracket final at 8:30. The West and Venezuela meet at 3:30 with the winner going up against the South.

"We have our backs against the wall now," South manager Howard Mable said. "We have to regroup and come out and play ball. We just went through a hitting slump tonight. We had just two hits and a lot of Swiss cheese on defense."

The closest District 14 came to scoring off Cheng-Cheeng was in the bottom of the first inning, but, once the powerful Far East hurler got by the first, he cut through the South batting order like Mazola no-stick margarine. Cheng-Cheeng struck out 11 in the game and had outstanding control as he walked just one batter.

"He was hitting the outside corner all night and mixing it up well," Mable said of the "Taiwanese Express." "We took a lot of good pitches on the outside corner and, when we did get the bat on the ball, we weren't driving it. You have to hit the outside pitch if you're going to win, that's all they throw down here [in Big League World Series]."

The Republic of China opened the game with four runs on three hits in the top of the first. With one out, Lo Kuo-Chong singled to center off South starter David Butterfield and Chen Geeng-Yow followed with a walk. Lo Ming-Chin was the next hitter and he rapped a ground ball to Todd Auckland at second base. Auckland wheeled to make the throw for the force at second, but he threw it into left field instead and Kuo-Chong raced home with China's first run.

The error left the Far East with runners on first and third, but they weren't there long as Pan Wen-Chu stepped up and delivered a two-run double to the gap in left-center, giving China a 3-0 lead. With two outs in the inning, Chang Cheng-Hsien singled up the middle to drive in Wen-Chu and increase the Far East's lead to 4-0.

The South's only scoring threat of the game came with one out in the bottom of the first when Jeff Greene lined a single to left and then stole both second and third. That brought up the power of the District 14 lineup, third hitter Dwayne McLeod and cleanup man Todd Maufoy. Cheng-Cheeng short circuited the South power though as he caught McLeod looking at a third strike and followed by fanning Maufoy.

After being provided with an early cushion, Cheng-Cheeng took charge. After whiffing the last two hitters in the first inning, the Taiwanese express struck out the side in both the second and third innings, giving him eight straight strike outs.

The District 14 All-Stars stayed within four runs until the fifth inning, thanks to the outstanding relief work of Darrin Reichle, who came on for Butterfield in the bottom of the second. Reichle gave up one unearned run and allowed only two hits in six innings.

The Far East picked up that unearned run in the top of the fifth to take a 5-0 lead. Cheng-Hsien reached on an error to lead off, stole second, and scored on Geeng-Yow's double to right center.

District 14's only other hit off

Cheng-Cheeng came in the bottom of the seventh. With two outs, Dean Hazen singled up the middle, but Cheng-Cheeng retired the next hitter for the third and final out.

District 14 must now get its hitting touch back if it wants a chance for revenge against the Far East. The pitching staff is well intact as Jeff Greene will probably get the start tonight. Mable could also go with Auckland or Craig Duncan.

Of the two teams battling to play District 14, Mable would probably rather face Venezuela than the U.S.A. West. Venezuela has had to work its way through the loser's bracket after losing its opening game and has played at least one game every day of the tourney. The West, on the other hand, gave the South all it could handle before dropping a 3-1, 13-inning decision in the second round.

"Venezuela has come a long way in the loser's bracket and they're starting to run out of pitching," Mable said. "But they have a very good team and the West gave us all we could handle so it should be a good game."

Schmidt Backs Off Plate, Slug 2 Homers To Perk Up Phillies

United Press International
 "Even though he's dog-tired, Mike Schmidt has the sort of eye-opening swing that just might wake up the slumbering Philadelphia Phillies. Schmidt, admittedly very tired from the strains of the long season, nevertheless belted a pair of home runs and a double Thursday to spark the Phillies to an 8-3 triumph over the San Diego Padres.
 "Today, I backed off the plate a little," Schmidt said. "I pointed my shoulder. It was just the basic stuff. I was a relaxed hitter today. Maybe it's because I'm so tired."
 The 34-year-old veteran third baseman confessed he had been losing confidence at the plate.
 "I hadn't been getting confident enough to let the ball come into my hitting zone, but today I didn't force either one," Schmidt said Thursday. "I said, 'There it is' and waited until it got in the zone."

 Schmidt's two homers raised his season total to 25 and his career mark to 414. He has hit 18 homers in San Diego Stadium.
 Philadelphia manager Paul Owens, who has watched his club struggle through a recent scoring drought, believes Schmidt could be the key to a big Phillies finish this season. The victory moved them to within six games of front-running Chicago, in the NL East.
 "That's the most runs we've scored in three weeks," Owens said. "You don't know how bad it's been. That struck out five and walked one in registering his sixth complete game.

Expos 11, Giants 3
 At San Francisco, Andre Dawson, Tim Wallach and Max Venable hit homers to power the Expos to their highest run output of the year. Charlie Lea, 15-8, pitched eight innings for the triumph and joined Joaquin Andujar of St. Louis as the league's top winner. Lea scattered 12 hits, struck out four, walked two and was aided by three double plays.
Williams Gets 10 Days
NEW YORK (UPI) — San Diego manager Dick Williams is to speak today with National League President Chub Feeney regarding the penalties levied by the executive over Sunday's beanball war between the Padres and Atlanta Braves.
 Williams, who was suspended for 10 days and fined an undisclosed amount, said he has been granted a review.
 "I will talk to the president of the league tomorrow," Williams said. "I'm going to call him from my home at 11 o'clock (2 p.m. EDT). He's granted a review and we appreciate that."
 Feeney announced Thursday suspensions to both team's managers and five players as well as fines to 18 persons as a result of the brawls.
 "This will be the first time I'll be stating my side of the story," said Williams. "I thought (General Manager) Jack (McKeon) was kidding when he read that to me. I said, 'C'mon, tell me the truth.' It was at least three times larger than I figured."

Sorensen 4-Hits-Orioles; Barbey's Hit Lifts Tigers

United Press International
 If Lary Sorensen keeps this up, he'll rank as a bigger recovered treasure than the Andrea Doria safe.
 Sorensen, who has been a major bust since signing a free-agent contract with Oakland, tossed a four-hitter and was supported by 15 hits Thursday night in leading the A's to an 8-1 triumph over the Baltimore Orioles.
 "Once I got that big lead, I started working on some things I normally wouldn't do in a game," said Sorensen, 5-11. "I threw more than 15 knuckleballs, the first time I'd used that in a game and worked on some other things."
 Despite Sorensen's flop this season and their fifth-place status in the AL West, the A's trail the first-place Minnesota Twins by only 4 1/2 games. If the 28-year-old right-hander can have a good stretch run, he could help the A's scale the standings.
 "The next step is to get the ballclub to .500," said Manager Jackie Moore. "Then we can start checking the standings and see how far we can go. We're on a roll now that we've gotten all our injured people back and it's gotten our confidence up."
 Moore has a 39-39 record since he replaced Steve Boros in mid-May.
 "We are a lot of teams in our division stronger than us on paper, but when you have your confidence and the people who have come back from injuries in the last month, you feel like you can do the job," Moore said.
 Everybody in Oakland lineup, except late-inning defensive replacement Jim Easian, had at least one hit.
Tigers 8, Angels 7
 At Detroit, rookie Barbaro Garbey lined a two-strike double to left scoring Howard Johnson from first base with one out in the bottom of the 12th to lead the Tigers. A crowd of 37,779 put Detroit over the 2-million mark in home attendance for only the second time in their history.

Mariners 5, Yankees 4
 At New York, Larry Milbourne slammed a three-run, second-inning triple and Ken Phelps slammed two homers to power Seattle. Milbourne's triple dropped Phil Niekro to 14-7. Phelps accounted for the Mariners' other runs with homers in the sixth and ninth innings. Salome Barojas, 8-4, notched the victory.
Red Sox 7, Twins 5
 At Boston, Jim Rice belted a pair of two-run homers and the Red Sox scored five runs in the seventh. Trailing 5-2 in the seventh, Boston tagged reliever Ron Davis, 4-9, with the loss as Rice's two-run homer capped the rally. Tim Lincecum homered for Minnesota.
Royals 6, Rangers 3
 At Arlington, Texas, Don Slaught hit his first career grand slam and Steve Balboni added his 19th home run in helping Kansas City. Charlie Leibrandt, 7-5, combined with two relievers on a six-hitter for his third triumph in his last four outings. Dan Quisenberry notched his 32nd save.
Indians 6, Blue Jays 5
 At Cleveland, Andre Thornton doubled home two runs with two out in the ninth to cap a four-run Indian rally. It marked the third straight loss for Toronto to the Indians and the second game in a row in which the Blue Jays blew the lead in the ninth. Tom Waddell, 3-4, picked up the victory in relief.

Sanford Soccer Clubs Holds Registration This Saturday
 The Sanford Soccer Club will have its registration Saturday, Aug. 18 and Saturday, Aug. 25 from 10 a.m. to 1 p.m. at Pinecrest Elementary School.
 New players need to bring a birth certificate and one picture. The Sanford Soccer Club is open to boys and girls ages 6-18.
 Also, players who want to play for the Seminole High School girls soccer team are urged to play in the Sanford Soccer Club. Those interested in forming a team should register as soon as possible.

Floyd Holds 1-Shot PGA Lead
 BIRMINGHAM, Ala. (UPI) — Darkness intervened to help two-time PGA champion Raymond Floyd grab a one-stroke lead in the rain-delayed first round of the 66th PGA Championship.
 Floyd, who recently switched back to the heavier clubs that helped make him a golfing millionaire, fired a 4-under-par 68 Thursday before heavy afternoon thunderstorms delayed play over the 7,145-yard Shoal Creek course for one hour, 40 minutes.

Miller, King Share World Lead
 SHAKER HEIGHTS, Ohio (UPI) — Alice Miller and Betsy King would seem to have little in common.
 Miller, of Marysville, Calif., is tall, muscular and breezily outgoing. King, of Limekiln, Pa., is of medium height, skinny and seriously shy.
 Still, an adage holds that opposites attract and East met West in Thursday's first round of the $200,000 World Championship of Women's Golf.
 Both Miller and King, displaying an aggressive knack that took full advantage of nearly ideal playing conditions, shot 4-under-par 68s to share the 18-hole lead of the prestigious, 12-player event.

 • Jimmy Musselwhite slugged his third homer in three games, and also came in to pitch the final four innings to pick up the victory.
 • Greg James rapped a double and a pair of singles to drive in three runs.
 • Jerrey Thurston continued his hotting hitting with a trio of singles. Thurston had seven hits for the three-game series.
 • Jamey Wallace slapped a pair of singles and drove in a run.
 Altamonte followed its normal procedure as the Nationals pushed across six runs in the first inning when they sent 11 batters to the plate. In the second inning, they erupted for five more runs while sending 10 hitters to the plate.
 With one out in the first, Vartitek ripped a solo homer to left-center. One out later, Musselwhite walked and moved to second on an infield single by Radcliff. James followed with a double to score Musselwhite and when the throw to the plate got away from the catcher, Radcliff hurried home for a 3-0 lead.
 Danny Albert followed with a walk and Conklin hammered a 2-0 pitch way over the left-field fence for a three-run homer and a 6-0 lead. "I knew as soon as I hit it that it was gone," said Conklin. "That was my first home run in the Majors. I've been waiting three years for that pitch."

 Alabama jumped on starter Radcliff for two singles and three walks in the first inning. Moore's base hit up the middle scored two runs before pitching coach Greg Ebbert called for Thurston to relieve. Thurston, too, had control problems as he walked in a run and gave up another on an RBI groundout by Jay Gordon before retiring the side.
 In the second, though, Altamonte improved on its 6-4 advantage. Iarotola drilled a leadoff fastball onto the pitching mound of an adjoining field in right-center to get the ball rolling. Musselwhite then took starter and loser Jauksee Moore downtown in center field for an 8-0 lead.
 Radcliff singled again, but was thrown out trying to steal second. James and Albert, however, followed with singles and when Conklin grounded out to third base, James scored. Wallace followed with his second hit to score Albert before a single by Thurston moved Wallace to third where scored on Vartitek's base hit for an 11-4 lead.

Thurston moved Wallace to third where scored on Vartitek's base hit for an 11-4 lead.
 Alabama, though, wasn't dead just yet. After Thurston walked the leadoff hitter, Jeff Miller clobbered a two-run homer over the center-field fence to cut the deficit to 11-6.
 At that point, Ebbert called for Musselwhite, and that was it for Alabama. Musselwhite got two quick outs on a grounder to the mound and a strikeout. A walk and catcher's interference gave Huntville a little hope, but Musselwhite struck out Earl Johnson to retire the side.
 Musselwhite retired the side in order in both the third and fourth innings before walked Jeff Hyde to lead off the fifth. He then struck out four of the final six hitters to seal Alabama's demise.
 The poised right-hander finished with nine strikeouts and just two walks. He didn't allow any hits and was helped by a fine running catch by right-fielder Iarotola in the fifth inning.
 Although Alabama closed the gap to five runs in the second, three more Altamonte tallies opened the margin in the third. With one out, Radcliff singled, moved to second on an error by the left fielder and scored on successive wild pitches.

One out later, Albert walked and move to second on an error by the catcher. Conklin followed with a linedrive double to right-center for a 13-6 lead. Alabama manager Litz then pulled Moore in favor of little left-hander James Duskin. Duskin walked Wallace and Jerry Thurston followed with a single to run the lead to 14-6.
 Altamonte added its final runs in the sixth. Vartitek lead off the inning with a long homer and Iarotola followed with a double to right-center. Musselwhite then hit into a 6-3-5 double play, but Radcliff restarted the outburst with a double to right-center.
 Pinch-hitter Todd Heiser then socked a single to left to score Radcliff. Heiser moved to second on the throw to the plate and scored three pitches later when pinch-hitter Curt Carlson just missed a homer with a single 10 inches from the top of the right-field fence for the final 17-6 margin.
 The game was delayed one hour and 35 minutes by a severe thundershower in the third inning, but the deluge couldn't dampen the Nationals' spirits.
 "We're going to Williamsport and whip everybody there," proclaimed Vartitek among the celebrating.

O-Twins Move Into 1st Place

CHARLOTTE, N.C. — Mark Cartwright and Frank Eufemia combined on a five-hitter to lift the Orlando Twins past Charlotte, 4-2, and into first place in the East Division of the Southern League Thursday. Orlando holds a 1/2-game edge over Charlotte. The Twins have won five straight games.
 Cartwright hurled the first 8 1/2 innings and Eufemia came on to get the final two outs. Cartwright, 8-7, struck out one and walked three.

Turnovers Doom Dallas, 20-10

Pittsburgh Steelers rookie Anthony Corley made up for his fumble, and Dallas coach Tom Landry will no doubt punish the Cowboys for the five turnovers they committed.
 Corley scored two fourth-quarter touchdowns in Dallas Thursday night to carry the Steelers to a sloppy 20-10 exhibition victory over the Cowboys. Earlier, with the score tied late in the third quarter, Corley had appeared headed for a touchdown but fumbled when hit by safety Michael Downs at the Dallas 8-yard line.

Lowery-Renaud Vows Spoken

C. Faye Lowery of Florence, Ala., and Mark Anderson Renaud were married Aug. 4, at 6 p.m., in Wesley Chapel, Campus Ministry, University of North Alabama, Florence. The Rev. Wayne Todd was the officiating clergyman for the Presbyterian ceremony.

The bride is the daughter of Mrs. Sarah Lowery, Florence, and Dr. James Lowery, Nashville, Tenn. The bridegroom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Ronald A. Renaud of Sanford.

The bride chose for her vows a silk organza dress. Her headpiece was a picture straw hat trimmed with flowers to match her bridal bouquet of mixed flowers.

The bridegroom's father served as best man and his brother was a groomsman.

Mr. and Mrs. Mark Anderson Renaud

Following the ceremony, a wedding dinner was held at Dale's Restaurant, Florence. After a wedding trip to the Florida East Coast, the newlyweds are making their home at Polynesian Village, Florence.

Gardening

Proper Watering Most Valuable To Landscape

One of the secrets to successful gardening is knowing when and how to water. Most gardening techniques do have easy-to-learn rules to follow. For example, fertilizing, controlling pests, and pruning. The one technique that has no specific rules to follow is watering. When to water and how much depends on the kinds of plants, your specific type of soil, the time of the year, and weather conditions. If you think your watering problems are different from your neighbors, you're probably right.

To improve your watering efficiency, closely study your lawn or garden. First, you need to determine how deep the water penetrates after a rain or irrigation. You can do this with a fancy soil coring device or simply use a spade to see how far down the moisture penetrated.

Next, check the amount of water supplied by your sprinklers. Place several coffee cans at intervals around your lawn. When you have run your sprinklers for an hour, see how much water is collected in each can. The amount should be about the same in each can if your sprinkler is delivering water uniformly.

For most of our sandy soils, the top 6 to 12 inches should be moistened at each irrigation. You need to determine how long and how much water is required to wet your soil to this depth. Then, you'll know about how long you need to water. Your soil core sampler can be used to monitor how fast your soils dry out, too.

To provide proper distribution and to avoid wasting water, operate the sprinklers at a rate only as fast as the soil will take in the water. Runoff from too rapid watering does your plants no good and costs you money. Check several areas around your lawn by the procedure. This will give you a guideline to use for time of irrigation. Frequency of watering depends on the rate of water loss which in turn depends on your particular soil type, its depth, weather conditions, and rate of water uptake by the plants.

Water is lost chiefly by evaporation and transpiration of plants. Experience is your best guide for how often to water. Look at the soil to see how fast it dries out and watch your plants to see how quickly they wilt. With a little practice, you can quickly discover how often you need to water, how fast, and how long to replenish the supply.

Using a mulch around your trees and plants can greatly reduce the amount of water needed, as well as reducing the time you spend mowing and weeding. A mulch consists of any kind of material applied to the soil surface to control weeds, conserve moisture, and moderate soil temperature.

Mulch materials may be organic, such as compost, bark, wood chips, or similar material. You can use an inert material, such as gravel, pebbles, or black polyethylene film, too. It's a matter of personal preference, but organic materials are easier to work.

Mulches have many beneficial effects upon the soil and plants. They prevent loss of water from the soil by evaporation. Moisture moves by capillary action to the surface and evaporates if not covered by a mulch. Mulches prevent crusting of the soil surface, too, thus improving absorption and percolation of water into the soil, and eliminating erosion.

If weeds are a problem in your garden, the solution is a mulch deep enough to stop weed germination and smother existing smaller weeds. Sure, an occasional weed may poke and interesting texture in an otherwise drab surface. Dark-colored mulches widen the pupil of the eye, allowing more of the reflected light from flowers to enter your eye. Consequently, dark mulches give planting a more attractive appearance.

For best results, apply your mulch at least 2 to 4 inches deep over the whole area. Avoid covering the crowns of low-growing plants, though. Keeping the layer deep enough to do the job is important. This means that more mulch should be added to the older layers to get maximum benefit.

Usually, you will find it beneficial to add nitrogen fertilizer to organic mulching material before applying it to the soil. When using plastic film, you will need to broadcast a complete fertilizer over the area before laying down the plastic on the soil. You can expect the plastic mulch to last about one season. One added benefit of mulches is that they reduce the leaching of fertilizer and other nutrients from the area where the roots develop, hence smaller amounts of fertilizer are required.

Proper watering and mulching may be your most valuable gardening practices. You'll reduce the amount of your personal effort in cultivating, weeding, and watering. And increase your chances of growing a healthy and vigorous landscape.

Happy Gardening!

Cleaning Woman Concerned Over Dangerous Chemicals

DEAR ABBY: I clean house for well-to-do lady twice a week. She has several small grandchildren that I know she loves, but I am shocked that this same lady, who will not drive a block without buckling up her grandbabies, leaves the dishwasher detergent and drain crystal under her kitchen sink. (The toilet bowl crystals are under her bathroom sink.)

Everyone knows that these chemicals are very dangerous to a child, and I told the lady so. She acted insulted, and said she always watches her grandchildren carefully while they are in her home.

I tried putting these boxes in higher cabinets, but the lady got mad, said it was too "inconvenient" and put them back under the sink.

Abby, those chemicals can kill a child if he takes a statful in his mouth.

Please print this for all the grannies and mummies to see. I'm sure this lady's daughters-in-law would be shocked if they knew these poisons were within reach of their children. Should I tell them?

LILLIAN

DEAR LILLIAN: Yes. And the sooner the better. It may cost you your job, but if you don't tell, it may cost a child his life.

DEAR ABBY: It's all in the past, thank God, but I hope you will print this because there is a lesson for parents here.

For five years, my husband (he's now my ex) abused me verbally at home, at family gatherings and even in public. He did this in front of our young son and my parents. How I wished someone had said to him, "Don't talk to her like that!"

Dear Abby

Nobody came to my defense, not even my parents, so I started to believe this abuse was OK. Soon, the verbal abuse led to physical abuse. After a while, my son saw me taking all this punishment and grew to have no respect for me.

To make a long story short, a dear friend saw what was happening to me and she made me get professional help. Now I realize I could have been spared years of pain if my parents had taken my part.

A LESSON FOR PARENTS

DEAR LESSON: The lesson here is not for parents. It's for any wife who permits herself to be abused. When your husband first started to abuse you verbally, you should have said, "Don't you talk to me like that!"

Had you spoken up in defense of yourself, you may have been spared years of pain.

DEAR ABBY: My husband and I have a difference of opinion. I lock doors — he doesn't.

When I'm home during the day, I not only keep my doors locked, I double-lock them with a dead bolt. When I'm riding in my car, I make sure all the doors are locked. If my car is just parked in our driveway, I keep it locked.

My husband never bothers to lock anything. When I go around making sure everything is locked up at night, he says I'm "paranoid."

I try to tell him I'd rather be safe than sorry. He says, "Sorry, I can't live like that."

What do you think?

CAREFUL

DEAR CAREFUL: Your husband is either very naive or very foolish. Please tell him if he doesn't start locking up, he may not live at all.

DEAR ABBY: The other evening my wife and I took a guest out to dinner. My wife and I ate faster than our guest, and when we were finished with our main course, the waitress came to our table and removed our plates while our guest was only halfway finished with her meal.

Some slow eaters are uncomfortable eating while others have finished, and if the waitress clears the table it just makes the situation worse.

I think it's rude for a waitress (or waiter) to pick up empty plates while someone is still eating, don't you?

NAMELESS IN IOWA

DEAR NAMELESS: Yes. But this need not happen again. When the waitress (or waiter) starts clearing the table, don't be intimidated. Say (politely, of course), "Would you please wait until everyone has finished?"

"Problems? What's bugging you?" Unload on Abby, P.O. Box 18924, Hollywood, Calif. 90018. For a personal reply, please enclose a stamped self-addressed envelope.

The Inside Story

Scratched From PBS Fall Lineup; May Return In Jan.

By Julianne Hastings
UPI TV Reporter

NEW YORK (UPI) — "Inside Story," the only regularly scheduled program on national television that examined media performance, was scratched from the PBS fall schedule this week when General Electric cut off its funding.

The program, anchored for four seasons by former State Department spokesman Hodding Carter, had been scheduled to resume a 13-week season beginning Oct. 18.

Former NBC newsman and author Edwin Newman was to have joined Carter as co-anchor for the first 13 weeks and then take over as solo anchor next spring.

Ned Schnurman, senior executive producer and originator of the program, said he was certain the program could get new funding in time for a mid-season start date in January, but he was uncertain whether Newman would still be available.

"The was an outside chance that we could have found funding for the fall schedule, but it was just too close to the starting date, so we withdrew from the schedule," Schnurman said.

For each of the past two TV seasons, "Inside Story" had been supported by grants of $4 million from GE. Since the program's premiere, its producers, The Press and the Public Project, have raised more than $12 million to keep "Inside Story" on the air.

"Inside Story" has broadcast 74 half-hour episodes and a half dozen one-hour episodes about such topics as Gen. William Westmoreland's libel suit against CBS News, press freedom versus national security, coverage of Central America, local TV anchormen and publisher Rupert Murdoch.

Schnurman said that instead of the half-hour series, The Press and the Public Project this fall would concentrate on special broadcasts, including a planned satellite dialogue between the United States and the Soviet Union on the subject of each country's perception of the other.

The producer said he hoped that program would be broadcast in the late fall with Carter as the American anchor.

In addition, The Press and the Public Project has submitted an invitation on behalf of PBS to the Democratic and Republican presidential and vice presidential candidates to conduct a pre-election debate on the public network with Newman serving as moderator.

Commenting on the lack of funding for the fall season, Carter said in a statement he was confident the show would be back for a full season in 1985.

"When we went on the air in 1981, it was clear that there was a real need for regularly scheduled broadcast journalism about journalism," Carter said. "Three and a half years later, it is no less clear."

NBC News president Lawrence Grossman has unveiled plans for an unprecedented week-long series of special reports on all NBC News television and radio programs that will examine "The New Cold War."

The reports on the state of Soviet-American relations will begin Saturday, Sept. 8, 10-11 p.m. EDT, with a prime time special, "The Real Star Wars: Defense in Space," anchored by NBC News chief diplomatic correspondent Marvin Kalb.

The reports will continue daily until Sept. 16, on the weeknight and weekend editions of "NBC

NBC Testing Waters Of Movie Biz

NEW YORK (UPI) — NBC is joining the other commercial TV networks in the theatrical movie-making business with plans for a big-screen production of a World War II spy thriller "Emerald," starring Ed Harris.

An agreement to produce the movie, which will be distributed worldwide by MGM-UA Entertainment Company, was signed by John Agoglia, executive vice president of NBC productions, and Martin Starger, president of Marstar Productions.

Agoglia said the movie — to be filmed in and around Paris — would also feature Max Von Sydow ("The Exorcist"), Horst Buchholz ("Fanny"), Helmut Berger ("The Damned") and Eric Stoltz, who just completed Starger's production of "Mask" for Universal Pictures.

Agoglia referred to the undertaking as a possible "one-time venture" by NBC Productions, which will allow the company an opportunity to learn more first hand about producing theatrical motion pictures.

He said there was no NBC feature film division in the planning stage at this time.

"Frankly, we seized this opportunity to gain knowledge about theatrical film making from people we respect," said Agoglia. "It may be a one-time venture, or it may not. We'll move at our own speed."

A division of CBS has produced and released 37 theatrical movies over the past 10 years and ABC has produced and released three since 1979.

"We're the last to join in," an NBC spokesman said, "and you can see we're just kind of putting a toe in the water."

Ronald Bass adapted the screenplay for "Emerald" from his novel "The Emerald Illusion."

Harris, who portrayed astronaut John Glenn in "The Right Stuff," will play the protagonist, an American double agent who infiltrates Paris in 1944, just prior to the Normandy D-Day landing on June 6.

Starger, a former president of ABC Entertainment and Marble Arch Productions, was producer of such acclaimed movies of "On Golden Pond," "Sophie's Choice" and "The Muppet Movie."

CBS's Cinema Center Films first started making theatrical movies in 1968, but the division was closed down in 1973 after 32 movies were released, including such titles as "Little Big Man," starring Dustin Hoffman, "A Man Called Horse," starring Richard Harris, and "Boys in the Band."

"Those movies were profitable at the time," a CBS spokesman said, "but the question was, 'How profitable?'"

CBS could make more money in other ventures.

The network got back in the business four years ago, eyeing new markets in cable television, home video and overseas theaters.

Since then, CBS Theatricals Inc. has released

Michael Ontkean and Jodie Foster portray two lovestruck Parisians caught in the crossfire of World War II in the HBO presentation "The Blood Of Others." Directed by noted French filmmaker Claude Chabrol, the film debuts Saturday, Aug. 25 at 8 p.m.

Ice Skating Dorothy Hamill Goes For Theater Gold

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Dorothy Hamill captured the heart of the world along with her figure skating gold medals in the 1976 Olympics and World Championships. Today, she's going for a different kind of gold — success as an ice dancer.

As a guest star in the John Curry Skating Company, Miss Hamill is learning a new art, one far different from the glitz and glamour of the Ice Capades in which she has starred for eight years.

"We're trying to break out into a more artistic framework," the skater said before the show's recent opening at Washington's Kennedy Center and after a successful week-long run at the Metropolitan Opera House in New York. "This is the most artistic thing I've ever done."

She has nothing but praise for Curry, himself a gold medalist in 1976, who has been one of the leaders in the movement toward skating as dance and art.

"These are skaters' steps, not a dancer's. Dancers take tiny little steps to go across the stage; we can just push and glide. But we can only go backward and forward, while dancers can move in all directions."

Skating backwards is what got Miss Hamill really interested in skating.

"We used to skate on a pond and I wanted to learn to skate backwards. My sister could go backwards — she always did everything better. I just sort of took to it. Someone suggested that I enter a competition in Central Park (in New York City) and I came in second place. I don't know how."

From there, it was just "natural" that Miss Hamill would pursue skating competition and eventually Olympic gold.

The growth of ice dancing — highlighted this year by the gold medal performance by Jayne Torvill and Christopher Dean at the winter Olympics — has been developing for several years.

"Peggy Fleming opened a lot of doors that hadn't been open since Sonja Henie," Miss Hamill said. "She got television specials and endorsements. She was the first one I can remember to study ballet seriously. But Janet Lynn was the one who really started working with ballet on ice."

By the time Miss Hamill was preparing for the Olympics, "everything seemed to be more geared to ballet."

After Olympic competition, most of the leading skaters join such ice shows as Ice Capades and Disney on Ice.

Violence And Destruction Lead To Top Ratings

DEAR DICK: Why do the writers of "Days of Our Lives" and other shows kill off some of the characters, then in a year or so bring them back on the show? Gross! Why can't they have more people HAPPY on that show? I wonder how people's minds work that write and produce so much violence and destruction on TV. I think we need a big change in what's shown on TV. — L.H., Amarillo, Texas

If people didn't watch violence and destruction, then the ratings of violent, destructive shows would go down and the folks who make TV shows would make something else. Maybe they would turn to sweetness and light. But on soap operas especially, the public doesn't want to watch dramas about people who are HAPPY all the time. They want conflict and, unfortunately, they also appear to want violence, destruction and all that.

DEAR DICK: On a recent episode of "Knight Rider," Michael had to find a gang leader (Mario Marcelino) who was supposedly the only donor for a bone marrow transplant. At the end of the show, just before the credits, they showed a "Dedication" — in memory of — but it was off before I could read it. I thought I saw Marcelino's name but I'm not sure. Was the show dedicated to him and, if so, why? — M.S., Seneca, Mo.

It was dedicated to the memory of Mario Marcelino's son. The boy had been in the hospital while that episode was being filmed. Every day, after shooting, Mario rushed to the hospital to be with his boy. The boy died, and thus the dedication.

DEAR DICK: On the "Columbo" series, Peter Falk's character alludes to his wife several times in each show. My question — who played his wife, or was she never shown on the series? — M.H., Amarillo, Texas

She was never shown on the "Columbo" series but later, after that series went off, they tried to build another series around the character of Columbo's wife. It was called "Mrs. Columbo," and Kate Mulgrew played the part, but it was a total disaster.

DEAR DICK: Can you tell me if Emma Samms, who plays Holly Sutton on ABC's "General Hospital," was in a TV movie called "Goliath Awaits"? Yes or no? — B.A., New Albany, Ind.

Yes, I can tell you. Next question. (I should leave it go at that, but out of the goodness of my typewriter, I will tell you that yes, Emma was in that turkey.)

DEAR DICK: What happened to Gene Autry? And his sidekick, Frog. What was Frog's right name and are he and Gene still living? How old is Gene now? If he is dead, when did he die, what of and how old was he? — M.L.B., Williamsport, Pa.

If you lived in Southern California, you would know that Gene Autry is alive, and very rich. He owns some radio and TV stations here and also owns the California Angels baseball team. He celebrates his 73rd birthday in September. In many of Autry's movies, Pat Buttram played his sidekick, although I don't know if he was called Frog. If that's the man you mean, Buttram is still a working comedian and doing fine.

DEAR DICK: Please tell me how to contact CBS about Meg Ryan leaving "As the World Turns." I and a million other viewers want to see her about trying to keep her on the show. — M.E.B., Eunice, N.M.

You and those other million can direct your wrath toward CBS in New York, which is where that program is made and where big decisions like that are made. CBS, 51 West 52nd St. York, NY 10019.

DEAR DICK: By any chance was the TV movie "No Man's Land" starring Stella Stevens and Donna Dixon, filmed in Old Tucson? — D.E., Sebawaing, Mich.

By no chance. It was shot on the Warner Brothers Studeck lot in Burbank. A WB executive, when I asked him where it was shot, said, "Hal We tricked them that time."

five movies — among them "Back Roads," starring Sally Fields, and "Table for Five," starring John Voight.

The CBS spokesman said that some made-for-TV movies could make it as theatrical releases in foreign markets (ABC's nuclear holocaust picture "The Day After" did a brisk business in movie theaters overseas), but not many.

"Only about one out of 20 made-for-TV's make it into the foreign markets as theatrical movies," the spokesman said. "When you blow a picture up 20 times, the quality is not the same and there's also the problem of slug spots for commercials."

ABC Motion Pictures releases include "Young Doctors In Love," "National Lampoon's Class Reunion" and the critically acclaimed "Silkwood."

thing other than the ice shows. I think John benefited by not being an American. He was able to take time and begin developing his program into a company," she said.

Preparing to step onto an ice-covered stage is still a frightening experience for the "painfully shy" skater.

"People are amazed that I pace back and forth backstage before I go on. They don't understand that I really am nervous," Miss Hamill said.

But not as nervous as she was the night she returned to the Olympic skating rink for the closing ceremonies at the 1980 Winter Olympics in Lake Placid, N.Y.

"That was the most nervous I've been in my entire life. I had new skates and couldn't practice for two weeks. We were skating to live music. It's the closing ceremonies so of course it was sold out and I came out after all these Olympic champions were out there. I was dying. But once I got out there, the audience was incredible."

After the Washington run, Miss Hamill is taking a "long-needed rest. I've been touring for eight years, working eight hours a day in rehearsals and training. I think it's time for a rest."

But the idle period doesn't mean she'll be off the ice. "I've got to stay in shape because I'll be in the (professional) skating championship at the Capital Centre (in Landover, Md.) in January and then then I'm opening at Harrah's in Lake Tahoe."

- 'Comedy Zone'
- NEW YORK (UPI) — Steve Allen hosts a gaggle of Broadway actors and TV guest stars tonight in the premiere of CBS's "Comedy Zone," an hour of skits written by playwrights and performed before a studio audience.
- The program, being filmed in the same East Harlem studio where "The Howdy Doody Show" once was made, will replace "The Duke of Hazzard" for five weeks in the network's 8-9 p.m. time slot.
- Other guest stars in opening night are Bob Dishy ("Author, Author!"), Steve Landesberg ("Barney Miller") and Penny Marshall ("Laverne and Shirley").
- One aim of "Comedy Zone" is to bring to television some of the nation's top playwrights.

Fans dwindled in size at the beginning of the 19th century, but as this 1813 fashion plate shows, they were still quite useful for flirting.

...Fans

camisoles, corsets, crinolines, bustles and bloomers beneath their frocks, some ornate fans added a few more pounds to the costume and "were just something else they had to carry around with them."

"Fancy fans went out of fashion during World War I," said Mrs. Cordell. "Women's clothing became more streamlined."

While the flapper of the '20s usually kept her hands free to hold a cocktail glass or a cigarette holder, some feather fans became a featured item for evenings out. Ostrich feather fans became the rage "when Africa opened up," Mrs. Cordell said.

And feather fans got a boost in the '20s and '30s when exotic dancer Sally Rand took to the stage to titillate and tease from behind a screen of huge feather fans and little else, Mrs. Cordell said.

The fatal blow to fans came in the form of air conditioning, said the 60-year-old Mrs. Cordell who never bothered with a fan.

To receive a coy glance over the edge of a softly pleated, hand-painted fan would truly be a rare tease — something few if any contemporary males will ever be subjected to.

Any woman who would dare do more with one of these artistic ornaments than pin it on her wall would probably be considered rather eccentric. So true romantics have to be satisfied with amassing a collection of these fragments of by-gone fantasies.

Antique fans can be found in shops or stored away in attic boxes. But within the past three to four years they have become increasingly rare as collectors became fan fanatics, Mrs. Cordell said.

The value of a fan, she said, can range from $5 for an ordinary paper fan from the orient up into the thousands of dollars for those of hand-painted silk, or the jewel encrusted, gold-framed fans that helped the elite keep their cool and their image in the days of kings and queens.

The most outstanding fan she has appraised in a Central Florida collection is a French import from the 18th Century, featuring a hand painted scene on silk. That fan, which is the prize of a woman who has collected fans for 35 years, is worth $1,700, Mrs. Cordell said.

Mrs. Cordell cautions the collector against making major repairs to fans.

"If the fabric is replaced the fan is no longer what it was and the value decreases astonishingly."

To display and protect your fans you can have them framed or placed in shadow-boxes. For a very valuable, hand-painted silk fan you might want to have it sealed in a special box that has had the air removed, a process which is very expensive, but worth it to preserve a very valuable fan, Mrs. Cordell said.
