Best-Selling Novel Indicts Art World

By CAROL FELSENFELT
 American Library Assn.
 A best seller in hardback, "Providence" (Avon, $9.95, 304 pages, $2.75) is a super-seller in paper. Don't be put off by its slazy, clavagage-cluttered cover. "Providence" is a rare find—an information and action-packed novel about the art world, both intelligent and intelligible to the reader who wouldn't know a Raphael from a Renoir. (There are some sex scenes but not too many and not too terrific.)

According to author Frank McDonald, interviewed toward the start of a 17-city in 25-days publicity tour for "Providence," the action and cast of characters—art wheelers and dealers, Nazis, unholly bishops, forgers, socialites and hit men—are all based on fact. Names and details have been changed to protect the author. The novel, McDonald claims, is a "Who's Who" of Malison Avenue—the international center of the art world since the 1920s. McDonald got the idea for his first novel while living in England and writing a book on Cuba. (His background, colorful enough to qualify him as a character in his own novel, includes three months of solitary confinement in a Cuban prison, on suspicion of being a CIA agent.)

Trying to buy a Georgian desk from an antiques dealer, McDonald was informed the desk was not for sale because the "Ring" wanted it. Irritated but intrigued, he learned that the "Ring" referred to a group of dealers who worked in various ways to control the art market, often by colluding at auction to keep bids artificially low, then splitting the proceeds when the object later sold for its real value.

That's when McDonald packed away the book on Cuba, mortgaged his 18th century stone house in County Cork and traveled around the world for two years interviewing the biggest dealers in art and finance. Yes, finance, for, as McDonald discovered, art is big business—a commodity like grain or gold, the last totally free, unregulated market.

Only a limited number of masterpieces exist and a very small number of contemporary artists can be expected to add to the supply. Obviously, their value can only go up, and so the competition for works by the masters—Caravaggio, Degas, Van Gogh, Renoir, for example—is fierce, even deadly. (In the novel a Vermeer sold for $6.1 million. In real life, earlier this year, a Turner sold for $7.4 million.)

"The ethical level of the art world is just a notch above the prostitution racket," observes a character in "Providence." Far from its image as the pristine pastime of devotees, trade in stolen art is second only to trade in narcotics on the list of the most frequently committed international crimes.

Porring over recently declassified OSS documents from the National Archives, McDonald gathered details about some of this stolen art—paintings looted by the Nazis during the war. For example, when the Nazis occupied Paris, Hitler's and Goring's looters were right behind with lists of masterpieces to be confiscated from Jews, then among the most prominent of French collectors. (Hitler had grand plans for a museum to be built in Linz, his birthplace, to house what he bragged would be the greatest collection of art in Europe.)

It is this Nazi connection that is central to the action of "Providence." One of McDonald's major

KAZARIAN BEATS THE PRICE!
 By STACI BENVENU

"IF YOU'RE UNDER 25: If you own a van or a pick-up, or if you just need immediate Auto Insurance coverage—you need to call me.

Yes, according to Ralph Kazarian, "You may be paying too much for your Auto Insurance..."

Mr. Kazarian is fully aware that we, as drivers, are tired of reading deceptive ads about how we can beat the high cost of our auto insurance, but there is something definite that sets him apart—specialization. He's an unusual man in his line of business, for he is willing to give hard-look YOUNG DRIVERS a more-than-fair deal on their auto insurance.

"I feel that young people, in many cases, are unjustifiably charged high rates, and I know that many may be short on cash. That's why monthly payments are our specialty. Furthermore, there are a large number of drivers under 25 that are paying high rates due simply to their age; others are penalized because of their personal tastes in automobiles. Finally, customers who need minimum insurance coverage are turned away repeatedly. To overcome these situations is my whole reason for being in business."

Yes, this all sounds quite promising, but just how can Ralph Kazarian afford to offer a truly better price to you and me?

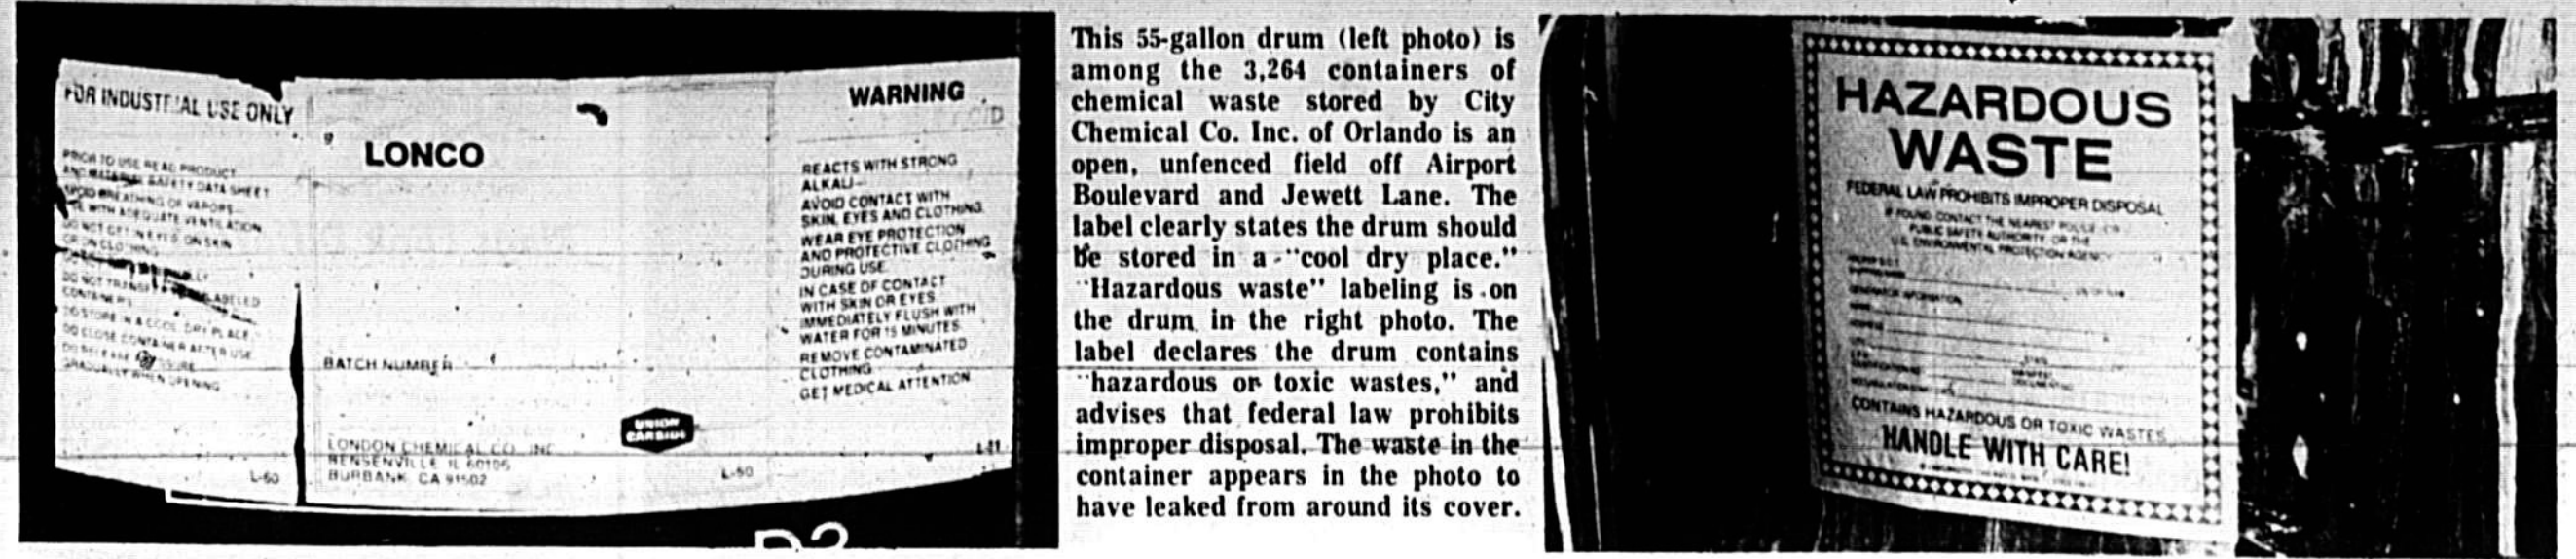

"I've shopped for years to find companies who offer the best possible rates for my particular customers. As a result, I broker business with 25 to 30 Auto, Truck, Motorcycle, Motor Club, Mobile Home and Motor Home companies that target their effort to my particular customers. This allows me to give my customers the insurance they need at the price they want to pay."

And Mr. Kazarian has proved himself to be quite successful in his approach. After 15 years in the business, he's established himself as an institution within the auto insurance industry in Florida. To prove his ambition and determination, he's opened nine offices in the last two years in the Central Florida area and has just recently remodeled his new Sanford office, which is located between Burger King and Flagship Bank on Orlando Avenue 122-2464.

So, if you're really interested in finding out how to get the insurance you need...at the price you want to pay—stop by one of Ralph Kazarian's auto insurance agencies.—ADV.

This 55-gallon drum (left photo) is among the 3,264 containers of chemical waste stored by City Chemical Co. Inc. of Orlando in an open, unfenced field off Airport Boulevard and Jewett Lane. The label clearly states the drum should be stored in a "cool dry place."

"Hazardous waste" labeling is on the drum in the right photo. The label declares the drum contains "hazardous or toxic wastes," and advises that federal prohibitions on improper disposal. The waste in the container appears in the photo to have leaked from around its cover.

Sanford Manager 'Promises' Removal Chemical Dump Alarms Officials

By DONNA ESTES
 Herald Staff Writer

City officials have discovered a chemical dump containing 3,264 55-gallon drums of potentially hazardous waste stored in an unfenced field in Sanford and have appealed to federal and state agencies to assist the city in having the chemicals removed.

City Manager Warren Knowles has "promised" the owner of the chemical waste that if a schedule for immediate removal is not on Knowles' city hall desk by noon Monday, the city will initiate court action.

The dump, located off Airport Boulevard and Jewett Lane, is operated by City Chemicals Co. Inc., which also has a plant at 3208 Forsythe Road, Orlando. The dump site was leased for a one-year period in September from Seminole Economic Employment Development Corp. (SEEDCO).

Knowles said the field has been used by the Orlando firm for four weeks to two months as a "transporter site," Chemical waste, picked up by City Chemical Co. Inc. from various manufacturing plants around the state, is stored at the Sanford location. Part of it is to be transported later to Alabama for disposal. Knowles said the firm, according to its president, Arthur Greer, no longer had storage space available at its Orlando facility.

About half of the chemical waste is flammable Knowles said. He is doubly concerned about the flammable chemicals since the storage site is unfenced and no diking or security measures have been taken by the Orlando firm. Dry weeds are within 10 feet of the drums, making the site a fire hazard, he said. "Nothing has been done by the firm to keep children from getting into the area or into the drums," Knowles said.

A drainage ditch is located within proximity to the stored chemical, adding the danger of contaminating storm drainage, he said. At least two of the drums are leaking, Knowles said.

The city manager said that since there is "no telling what's in those drums," there is a possibility that toxic fumes could be released if the dump catches fire.

Knowles said although many of the drums are labeled, there is no way of actually knowing what the contents are. He said when chemicals are transported across state lines, federal law requires that each drum be tested by a chemical laboratory to determine content.

The site is being operated without permits from the U.S. Environmental Protection Agency (EPA) or the state Department of Environmental Regulation (DER), according to Knowles. Permits from both agencies are required by state and federal law, Knowles said.

City Engineer Mack LaZebny, acting on a tip from a citizen, discovered the site Wednesday. By Thursday morning both Knowles and LaZebny had inspected the site. Knowles called a meeting for 10:15 that morning in the city manager's conference room at city hall with Greer, Bill Howard, another officer of City Chemicals, Jim Tharp, state DER engineer, City Attorney Vernon Mire, Jim Wright of SEEDCO, Knowles and LaZebny.

Greer told the group, according to the record of the meeting, that 60 to 70 percent of the chemical waste can be reclaimed into useable chemicals and resold. The waste from which nothing useable can be reclaimed is transported to a site in Alabama for disposal, he told the officials.

Knowles said Greer would not say when he could begin having the drums removed because of the need for trucks and the expense of removal.

"Greer asked not to be put out of business and wants to work with DER and the city," Knowles said. The city manager said Greer estimated the cost of removing the drums, transporting some of them to Alabama and disposal at $50 to $60 per drum. Greer said 60 percent of chemicals will go to Alabama, Knowles said.

If the company goes bankrupt, Knowles said, the city could be left with the chemical dump. Total cost for the removal of all the drums is estimated by Knowles, using Greer's cost figures, at nearly $300,000.

Hichar Ferruzziolo of the Atlanta office of EPA, after telephone discussions with Knowles, promised to be in Sanford to inspect the site Thursday afternoon.

An actual count of the drums of chemicals was made by Tharp of DER. He counted 3,264 drums when he inspected the site with LaZebny, Greer and Howard this past Thursday. LaZebny said Tharp appeared shocked at the seriousness of the situation.

At about the same time, Jim Brown of SEEDCO brought the lease between Knowles and City Industries, another name used by City Chemicals Co. Inc., into city hall for Knowles to look over.

Chemical waste from these drums appears to have leaked onto the ground at the storage site.

was not a threat. "It was a promise," Knowles said.

The chemical dump is located west of Airport Boulevard and north of McCracken Road. When LaZebny first inspected the site on Wednesday afternoon, he said an obvious chemical odor was prevalent. LaZebny said during his inspection he met a tractor trailer entering the site with an additional 90 drums.

The driver of the truck told LaZebny, according to the record, that the Sanford site has been in operation for about two months.

Knowles said the city would seek injunctive relief from the court to stop the delivery of any additional drums of chemicals to the site and would seek a court order compelling the immediate removal of the chemicals already there. Knowles said his ultimatum to Greer

Herald Photographer Tom Vincent, who took the photos at the chemical dump, said he could hear sounds of bubbling and drums expanding as he snapped pictures like this one. What the substance is in these drums is unknown.

Judge Orders Delay Of Rep. Kelly's Trial

The bribery trial of Congressman Richard Kelly, R-New Port Richey, scheduled to begin Monday has been ordered delayed until Dec. 1 by the judge handling the case.

Kelly was charged with taking a bribe from FBI agents posing as businessmen seeking aid for an Arab bank attempting to immigrate to the United States, part of the ABCAM investigation.

Sports Handicapping Becoming Big Bucks Business

NFL Says No To Legalized Gambling Experts Do Big Time Business

NEW YORK (UPI)— Betting on football and basketball games through bookies, legal only in Nevada, may be growing faster than any other gambling business. At the peak of the season such wagering may hit $1 billion a week.

This kind of betting has spawned a growing business, the sports handicappers who get handsome fees for their services in predicting the winners and point spread in games.

That $1 billion a week figure comes from Ed Horowitz, who runs The Professor Picks at Hicksville, N.Y. He is a 38-year-old Harvard-educated CPA who also teaches tax accounting at Pace University. He made his first million in the computerized income tax preparation business then sold out to a big data processing firm.

Horowitz sells a telephone service during the football season and a printed weekly tipsheet. On a good football weekend he says he may take in $100,000. Business falls off in the basketball season and drops to almost nothing in the summer.

Baseball just isn't a betting game," he says, "or at least there's no way you can use the computer to help people bet on baseball."

Horowitz uses the computer to calculate point spreads and help his clients beat the bookies. All football betting is on point spreads, not just on which team wins.

There are so many of these tip sheet experts they are holding a convention next month in Las Vegas. Those attending will pay $250 to $375 over their hotel bills to listen to experts on football, basketball, gambling, handicapping and the computer discuss the fine points of the business.

Horowitz says he has a file of 45,000 well-to-do clients around the country, the largest number in the south and southwest, who regularly

Wager an average $2,000 a week on football games, anywhere from a couple of hundred dollars to $5,000 or more. They include businessmen, doctors, lawyers, other professionals, politicians and persons who don't do much but gamble. He says very few are what a psychologist would call compulsive gamblers — They gamble as a hobby or as a coldblooded way of making money.

Do they make money?

About 20 per cent do, Horowitz says.

But bettors who avail themselves of the expertise of men like Horowitz are only the tip of the iceberg.

Ninety-five percent of the bettors are do-it-yourselfers "and some of them do well," Horowitz said. He believes total betting on football games fluctuates greatly during the season, from $150 million a week up to $1 billion.

Interest in professional football is behind the rapid growth of this betting, particularly the Monday night games and the superbowl in January, but college games also attract big money.

The growth has prompted politicians to consider legalizing football betting so it can be taxed. Delaware tried it but gave up when the National Football League objected strenuously.

The NFL said legalized gambling would get too much publicity and that would damage the image of the game. So Horowitz doesn't believe further legalization is unlikely soon.

Technically, being a tip sheet expert is a legal gray area. "Convincingly tipsters could be prosecuted for encouraging illegal gambling, but the business has been going on for 50 years and the only thing any tipsters have ever been prosecuted for was fraud, deliberately cheating their clients."

Sports wagering, especially on football games, is now considered one of the fastest growing avenues of gambling. The proliferation of tip sheet and telephone line experts is so big, professional line setters are holding a convention in Las Vegas next month. Weekly betting on games fluctuates during the season, but educated guess says between $150 million and up to $1 billion a week is wagered. Some politicians have considered legalizing sports gambling and taxing revenues. The National Football League says legalized gambling on pro games would damage the sport's image.

field, giving Sanford new life at the Greyhound 46. Two plays later, Pace blasted 45 yards up the middle for a 63 lead.

On its next possession, Sanford marched from its own 41 to the Lyman 10 before they had to settle for a 17 yard Jim Voltaire field goal on the second play of the second quarter.

After stopping the Greyhounds, the Tribe went 81 yards for their second touchdown of the night. The big play of the drive was a 25 yard flanker reverse by Ralph Byrd to Lyman's 27 yard line. Linton found Pace on a second down pass for an 11 yard score and a 16:3 halftime advantage.

"We run the same plays we have all year," acknowledged Pace. "But we executed those plays better tonight than we have all year."

Lyman had even less luck cracking the Seminoles in the second half. Six Greyhound turnovers in the second half (four fumbles and two interceptions) along with 55 yards in penalties threatened any hopes of a Lyman comeback.

A Kelvin Brown interception of a Johnson pass set up a one yard blast by running back Jimmy Williams with 4:03 left in the third quarter.

Robert Gray scored his final touchdown following a fumble by Jim Hines at the Tribe 27 yard line. The senior speed merchant took a quick pitch from Linton and turned the corner for a 12 yard touchdown run early in the fourth quarter.

The Greyhounds slipped to 69 with third ranked Winter Park waiting on the betters. Meanwhile Sanford picked up its second win of the year with last Lake Brantley left on its schedule.

"It's been a long time coming," said Seminoles coach Jerry Poyer. "Our defense had a super night. When your defense plays that tough, it allows your offense to take advantage."

for a big gainer against Lyman.

hammer-like defensive effort, all night long. At first it appeared the contest would be an offensive one.

Lake Howell drove 47 yards on its first possession and tucked on a 25-yard field goal by Capobianco.

That best signaled a defensive war for the remainder of the game. Until Spruce Creek struck with lightning quickness with only 5:28 left in the game.

Following a short punt that put the Creek at its own 47 yard line, elusive quarterback Stan Chang booted the PAT to give Spruce Creek a stunning 2-0 lead with just 2:48 left.

And just as it appeared that the wind had been taken out of Lake Howell's sails, the Hawks would again be denied a homecoming win, that Spruce Creek would capture its eighth straight game and the outright district crown with it, Lake Howell tradition was born.

The sign in the Silver Hawk locker room said, "Tonight the Creek Runs Dry."

Layne's catch triggered an emotional outburst on the sidelines and in the home stands.

"Everybody from Lake Howell gave a super effort," added Drivas quietly.

"We just knew what we had to do. I've never been more motivated for anything in my life than right now. I've got chills running down my spine."

There were some spine jarring tackles delivered throughout the night by a swarming Lake Howell defense.

And as Weir stated, "You'd have to name everybody."

The victory throws a new shade of possibilities on the final week of play. Should Deland beat Spruce Creek next Friday, Apopka, Lake Howell and Lake Brantley would each earn a share of the conference title. Forcing a four-way tie-breaker playoff.

Lake Howell locker room said, "Tonight the Creek Runs Dry."

The sign on the scoreboard said, tonight, tradition was born at Lake Howell.

Quarterback Jeff Litton draws a Greyhound posse during Seminoles' explosive win over Lyman Friday night.

Fullback Carl Carlson got the call on tough inside plays. Lake Howell's defense was equally tough despite giving up its first score of the year on touch.

Weekend Starts Local Tournament Play

Florida State's Bobby Bowden

Bowden Schedules Local Trip Nov. 25

Bobby Bowden, head football coach at Florida State University, will be in Deland on Tuesday night, November 25, 1980 at First Baptist Church.

In 1979 coach Bowden led the Seminoles to a perfect 11-0 season record and an Orange Bowl appearance against Nebraska on New Year's Day. He was named coach of the year in 1979 in district 2 and by ABC-TV.

Bowden ranks in the top ten among active head coaches with a total career record of 107 wins and 41 losses. Florida State is now recognized as one of the best teams in College Football.

"Coach Bowden is coming to Seminole Association as a christian coach to speak at the annual 'M' night meeting beginning at 7:15. To Seminole Baptists, 'M' (Mobilization) night represents a highlight for church training. Church training is a program designed to train and equip Christians for more effective leadership. This year, 'M' night theme will be equipping our personal growth."

This is open to the public free of charge. Everyone is welcome. A nursery will be provided.

Tangerine Bowl Tickets Available Wednesday

Public ticket sales for the 35th annual Tangerine Bowl Football Classic will begin Wednesday with a limited number of sideline seats available.

Tickets for the Dec. 20 game will be on sale only at the Bob Carr Auditorium Box Office, and only cash or money orders will be accepted. The box office is open from 10 a.m. until 5 p.m., Monday through Friday. The phone number is 819-2363.

Mail orders may be sent to Bob Carr Auditorium Box Office, 401 W. Livingston St., Orlando, 32801. Money orders should be made payable to the City of Orlando. There is no service charge, but a stamped self-addressed envelope must be included.

All tickets are $12.00. Zone 1 tickets remain on sale at Harnett Banks in Seminole and Orange counties. The $12.00 you pay for a Zone 1 ticket in the end zone also gets you a coupon package worth $50.00 in free or discount products.

SNAFU Scrambles By Ugliers 17-16

MEANS CLASS

"A" SOFTBALL

Tuesday night's action in Longwood saw SNAFU streak by the Ugliers by a score of 17-16. The Ugliers won it in the bottom of the 7th. The Ugliers led the game until the 6th when it was tied at 15-15, but couldn't hold on to their 16-15 lead to home team Ugliers at the end of 7 innings.

The next game was between Classic Homes and G.O.H. Inc. and by the end of 4 innings it was a close one at 3-3, and at the end of 5 innings close as the second half of the second round is left before they go into the 3 round of play. Up to date standings are as follows:

Tennis Anyone?

LARRY CASTLE

I suppose that the cool weather has a lot to do with it, or maybe the influx of tennis players from the north or maybe more clubs are just wanting to run tournaments, whatever the cause or the situation may be, there are more tennis tournaments being staged in this area than ever before. On most weekends almost any player can find a tournament of some type on some level. Some of the events that are coming up are as follows: S.C.C. Mens and Womens Doubles Championships - Nov. 15, 16, 17, at S.C.C. - Sweetwater Member Doubles Tournament - Nov. 16, 17, - The Seminole County Singles Championships at Red Bug Park - Nov. 21-24. This is one of the best singles tournaments in the area and some of the top area pros and college players will be participating. Bayhead's Member Guest will be held at Bayhead Racquet Club the first weekend in December. This is always a fun event - already committed to play are some of the top teaching pros and players in the Central Florida area. Most of the Bayhead tournament level players are busy lining up a partner for this

Patriots Powder Bulldogs 27-17

By SAM COOK

Herald Sports Writer

FOREST CITY - The Patriots' Dave Tullis will take a quick mind over quick feet any night.

Friday night Tullis received a little of both from junior quarterback Jay Poyag enroute to a 27-17 homecoming dazzling of the Deland Bulldogs.

Poyag, who played football at Lyman as a freshman, dazzling the Bulldogs with some mental and physical developments. "Jay's capable of making the right decision at the right time," praised Tullis about his talented option runner, who he dubbed the "Dogs respected defense."

After Joe Poyag's 25-yard field goal had given Deland a brief lead midway through the first quarter, Poyag went into his physical act.

Senior linebacker Steve Hartman handed Poyag beautiful field position with an interception of a Dana Thylen pass at the Deland 17-yard line.

Poyag deftly faked into the line, pulled the ball back and rambled 35 yards to the two-yard line. On the next play, running back Dave Gilliland followed massive 46-yard, 20-second run Scott Timble into the zone for a touchdown.

Kicker Tim Melnick booted the extra point for a 7-3 Patriot lead which he never relinquished.

"You never know how this team's going to play," commented Poyag while watching the seconds tick away Deland's chances. "The defense giving us good field position made it a lot easier."

That field position started again just a scant one minute and 20 seconds later, although this time Poyag wasn't named for the TD.

Junior linebacker Otis Clatt snagged another errant Thylen toss and circled down the left sideline into the end zone.

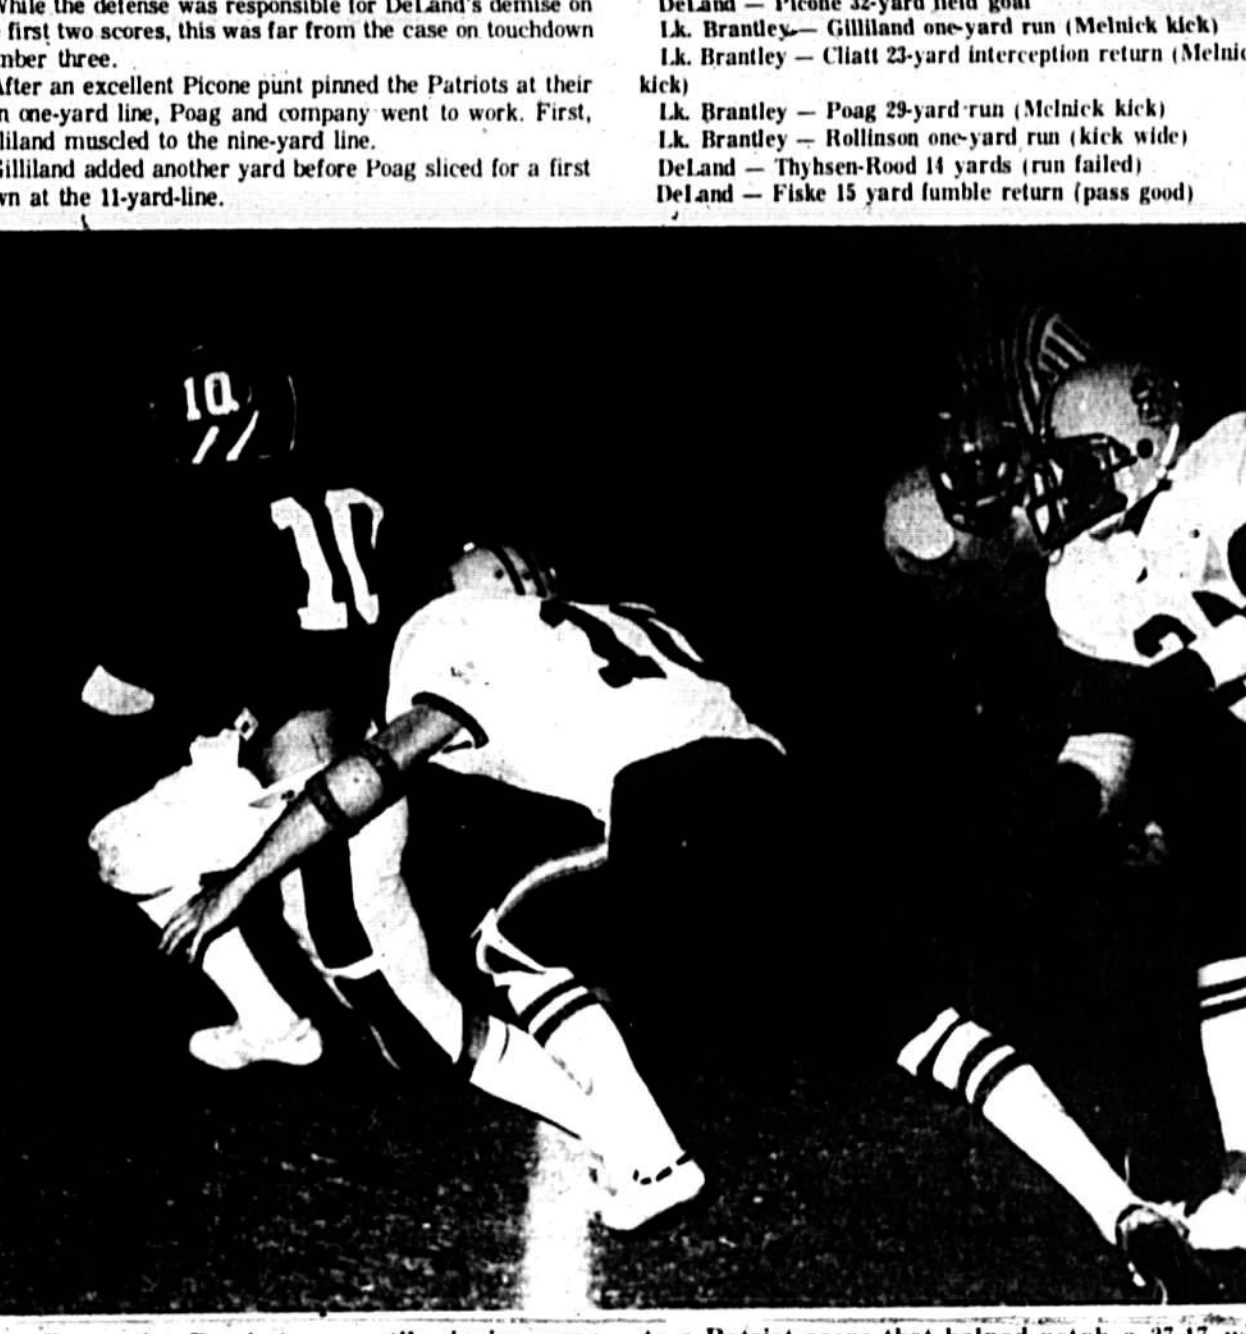

David Bell and Ricky Campbell (defensive linemen) were putting a lot of pressure on the quarterback. "Clatt recalled about the interception.

"I just took a deep drop, got the ball and followed (cornerback) Dave Jeffries in for the touchdown." The first quarter ended with Brantley in control 14-3 after Melnick's second conversion.

While the defense was responsible for Deland's demise on the first two scores, this was far from the case on touchdown number three.

After an excellent Poyag punt pinned the Patriots at their own one-yard line, Poyag and company went to work. First, Gilliland rumbled to the nine-yard line.

Gilliland added another yard before Poyag sliced for a first down at the 11-yard line.

Jay Poyag, the Patriot's versatile junior quarterback pops into the Deland secondary enroute to a Patriot score that helped notch a 27-17 win over Deland Friday night.

to a Patriot score that helped notch a 27-17 win over Deland Friday night.

Green Bay at New York Giants 21.
San Francisco at New York Jets 17.
Oakland at Seattle 21.
Houston at Seattle 17.
San Diego at San Francisco 21.
Dallas at Los Angeles 17.

are so many dark spots and shadows that the ball seems to jump at you. Of course the older one gets, the worse the various lighting systems seem to get. I recently had the dubious pleasure of playing a doubles match under the lights. I did not see one ball properly during the whole match. I guess Father Time waxes up to 100 mph during the day. Actually the tennis level drops drastically for most players when they must play during the dark hours. Seeing the ball well and timing your strokes are so vital and play under the lights is just not conducive to that. It is cooler though and one does not have a tendency to get too tired, so maybe for some people the good and the bad points balance each other out.

Lake Brantley's Dave Gilliland cracks over for a Patriot score against Deland Friday night. The Lake Brantley win kept Patriot hopes alive for a piece of the Five Star Conference football title.

Energy Proposal For The 80s

Florida Power & Light Presents Plan To Florida PSC

Special To The Herald
Florida Power & Light Co. has filed with the Florida Public Service Commission a 300-page document outlining a wide variety of proposed energy conservation and customer service programs for the balance of this decade.

Called the "Energy Management Plan for the 80s," FPL's plan consists of 32 programs designed to meet objectives established within six specific "target areas" over a 10-year period.

FPL Vice President for Energy Management Wayne Brunetti said implementation of the plan will require a number of waivers from the Department of Energy. He also said overall of the program involves a departure from historical conservation activities.

Intermittent Rates: FPL will propose to the PSC that, beginning in 1982, commercial and industrial customers who allow their usage to be curtailed for a specified number of occurrences and hours will receive a rate incentive.

Beginning in 1981, commercial and industrial customers who allow their usage to be curtailed for a specified number of occurrences and hours will receive a rate incentive. This would be a revision to the current rate schedule. FPL would provide for installation of appropriate metering and communication equipment. FPL would develop appropriate cost support data for the proposal.

On-site Energy Analysis: FPL representatives would make a thorough inspection and analysis of customers' homes for a $15 charge. FPL would notify owners and remind them of energy saving appliances and measures as a result of the promotional and incentive features of the plan.

Customer-Assisted Energy Analysis: FPL would provide a "do-it-yourself" inspection kit to customers wanting an analysis but not wishing to or unable to pay the on-site energy analysis charge. FPL would process the customer-completed data, for a minimal fee, and return it with suggested conservation measures.

Ceiling Insulation For Existing Homeowners: FPL would pay $30 toward the installation cost of ceiling insulation in homes with electric air conditioning and/or heating and no insulation. FPL would develop a list of approved contractors.

Water Heater Insulation For Existing Homeowners: FPL would sell water-heater insulation kits at market price (about $20). FPL would install the kit free with an on-site energy analysis. Kits would be offered as part of customer-assisted energy analysis and energy information services (including an energy story).

Reflective Window Film For Existing Homeowners: FPL would offer labor cost (about $75) for having reflective window film installed. FPL would develop a list of approved contractors.

Efficient Appliances For Existing Homeowners: FPL would give rebates to established customers for replacement purchases of very efficient appliances for cooking, heating and water heating. FPL would develop a list of specific appliances and rebate amounts.

Pool Pump For Existing Homeowners: FPL would install clips on pool pump timers. FPL, in conjunction with pool builders and maintenance organizations, would determine the recommended filtering system operating time. FPL would find homes and notify and remind owners through energy analysis and information services coupled with meter reader surveys.

Watt-Wise Living For New Homeowners: FPL would revise its watt-wise living program to encompass mobile homes, high-rise buildings and new building code revisions. To encourage greater efficiency in new residences, FPL would coordinate with local building authorities, home builders and developers, appliance dealers and suppliers, and others.

Efficient Home Credit For New Homeowners: FPL will propose to the PSC that, beginning in 1982, customers who new homes and appliances meet well-wise standards receive an "efficient home credit." FPL would develop cost support data for a charge on all new homes and for the efficient home credit.

Time-Of-Use Rates: FPL will propose to the PSC that, beginning in 1982, commercial and industrial customers who allow their usage to be entirely cut off for a number of minutes without notification will receive a rate incentive. FPL would provide for installation of appropriate metering and communication equipment. FPL would develop appropriate cost support data for the proposal.

Curtable Rates: FPL will propose to the PSC that, beginning in 1981, commercial and industrial customers who allow their usage to be curtailed for a specified number of occurrences and hours will receive a rate incentive. This would be a revision to the current rate schedule. FPL would provide for installation of appropriate metering and communication equipment. FPL would develop appropriate cost support data for the proposal.

AREA BUSINESS SPOTLIGHT

Two local banks brought good tidings to area residents this past week. At left, State Bank of Forest City Sanford Branch Manager John Mercer (center) presents a color television to Clayton Ashnault (left) and a black and white set to Carolyn B. Nelson. The two Sanford residents tied for the closest guess on the number of tiles on the roof of the new branch (161 W. Airport Blvd.) during recent grand opening ceremonies. The pair guessed 6,800, barely missing the correct total of 6,825. Ashnault won the tie-breaker to top prize. Above, Flagship Bank of Seminole recently honored nine tellers for outstanding customer service. From left, Cindy Tickle, Judy Bowers, Kelly Benton, Judy Goebelbecker and Kathy Malloy were present at the county-wide employee meeting to accept a cash award. # Golden Age Games: How Did They Measure Up?

Fred Knoller

Fred Knoller lives in Lauderdale by the Sea and is 84, he claims to be the oldest participant in bicycle racing. He enters many events around the county and in Canada. He has been to Sanford three times to compete.

As a very serious competitor in bike racing, he had a few complaints about how the races were held in previous years. "It was disappointing to ride store bikes," he said. "It was the wrong size and it had no clip, but now we can ride our own bikes."

Except for a few small problems he was generally pleased with the Games. "For a big project it's pretty well organized," he said. "I saw well-known people today to get people to do that, they just want to be spectators."

Pharmacist, Family End Pharm A Sea

By TOM NETSEL
Herald Staff Writer
You will rarely find a confirmed nudger willing to become a stinkpotter, but in order to make a dream come true, that is the concession a Paula family recently had to make.

But the Buckmasters have two children, Mike, 13, and Kathy, 11, and they also had a dream. The Buckmasters own and operate Fairbanks Pharmacy in Winter Park but they planned to sell the business and spend a couple of years cruising on a custom-built, 34-foot ketch they owned. That was their intention a year ago, but they hit a snag. "It's awfully hard to live aboard a sailboat," Buckmaster said, "and to us."

They also admit it's quite a change moving from a house on six acres of wooded land that had a barn, two dogs, two cats, horses and cows. "It was a big change," Buckmaster said as he and his family sat in the lounge of their boat moored at the marina in Sanford, "but not that much of an adjustment. There've been no real problems."

They wondered there would be problems moving from a secluded spot in the country to the "goldfish bowl" of life in a marina with people all around. "They're all super people here," answered Mrs. Buckmaster. "They found the other people living on their boats to be very congenial and they usually have a dock party once a month. "They are good, friendly people."

One advantage to living on a boat is having no grass to mow. "But there are other types of maintenance, definitely," Buckmaster declared. "If you let it go too long, you're going to have problems."

"Instead of mowing the lawn," Mrs. Buckmaster said, "you wash the boat."

The Buckmasters have been living aboard the "Satisfaction III" for two months, but they plan to change the name soon. Since he is in the pharmacy business, what better name could they choose than "Pharm A Sea?"

The boat's plumb. In fact, Buckmaster said it is more plumb than they would have normally preferred, but since it came that way and since they got it at a good price, they do not plan to remove the electrically powered drapes, the microwave oven or the white

Elinore Dunn

Elinore Dunn is 75 and is visiting from Hampton Bays, Long Island. Swimming is her event and though she has "not competed since high school, it'll be fun."

In addition to swimming, Mrs. Dunn is an excellent marksman. As a Life Master class shooter, she would like to see rifle and pistol shooting added to the Games. She has found several other people who are enthusiasts who would like to compete in such a category were added to the Games. "That would be great if they added something like that," she said.

Except for a few small problems he was generally pleased with the Games. "For a big project it's pretty well organized," he said. "I saw well-known people today to get people to do that, they just want to be spectators."

Annetta Thompson

Annetta Thompson, 71, came from Northeast, Pennsylvania to visit her son and his family in Winter Park. They knew about the games and encouraged her to enter the ballroom competition.

She managed to win gold medals in both rotation and eight-ball. Asked if she was a professional pool shark she laughed and replied, "No, I'm just a jack of all trades and master of none, but we play every night and it's something to do. I don't want to be sitting. I think it's the games marvelous for these people... and for me, too."

This was Mrs. Thompson's first visit to the Games and since bowling is another of her interests she plans to return. "I'm coming back next year and 'ring my bowling ball."

Peg Morrison

Peg Morrison, 57, now lives in Ellenton, FL after moving from Pennsylvania. This was her first time participating and she entered numerous swimming events. "I think it's fantastic that it's really great," she said of the Games. "I think if you can get more people interested they'll think more about physical activities. It keeps you young."

The atmosphere is nice and the people are good," but she thought some improvement could be made with the timing of the bicycle races. There was a little confusion this year and some times had difficulty reading a stopwatch. Many of the takers take their racing seriously and they appreciate accurate scores, he said.

Al Hatos

Al Hatos, 75, from Ft. Pierce, was another bike racer and in 1925 he was the state champion in New Jersey. This was his second visit to the Games and Hatos won several medals last year. A bad back prevented him doing well this year but he said he enjoys coming to Sanford. "It's not a cheap living here for five or six days as it is at home," he said, "but we're in a good mood."

Engagement

CARA SHANNON MCCALL
DAVID MICHAEL BEEHNER
McCall-Beehner

Mr. and Mrs. Glenn M. McCall of Sanford, announce the engagement of their daughter, Cara Shannon, to David Michael Beehner, son of Mr. and Mrs. William H. Beehner Sr. of Sanford.

Born in Jacksonville, the bride-elect is the maternal granddaughter of Mrs. P.V. Taylor, Cross City, and the paternal granddaughter of Mr. H.H. McCall of Sanford.

Mrs. McCall is a 1979 graduate of Seminole High School where she was a member of La Gracie, Therapies, Soccettes, Future Business Leaders and she was listed as a 1979 Outstanding Young American. She attended Seminole Community College where she is a member of the Seminole Players. She is employed as a cosmetician.

Her fiancé, who was born in Latrobe, Pa., is the paternal grandson of St. Carl Beehner of Greensburg, Pa. He attended Strongsville, High School and is employed as an electrician.

The wedding will be an event of Dec. 17, at 7:30 p.m., at Grace United Methodist Church, Sanford.

carpet in the spotless engine room.

The boat does not have an electric dishwasher, but it does have two manual ones. Mike and Kathy Laundry does some washing of a problem but the boatmasters have taken care of. Instead of washing everyday, Mrs. Buckmaster said she now does it once a week. On Monday evenings the whole family loads up six bags of laundry and takes it to a laundromat in town. The laundromat is usually not very busy so they fill seven machines at one time, then dump the wet clothes in seven dryers.

The only other problem has been the blind mosquitoes which thrive around the river, but for the most part living on the boat has been like a vacation for the Buckmasters. They plan to take off a week in December and sail up to Jacksonville, then down the Intercoastal Waterway to St. Augustine. Next summer they hope to head for the Bahamas.

"It's a nice feeling being able to take everything in your house with you when you're gone," Buckmaster said.

There is no longer the chore of deciding what to take, loading it in the car, unloading it at the dock, then storing it aboard the boat, and then having to repeat the whole process when they try to leave.

Most everything aboard their boat is bolted down or secured in some fashion and they have only to cast off the mooring lines when they decide to go for a sail.

Buckmaster said they hope to eventually get back into a sailboat, but for the time being, they are content to be "stink-brokers." They like the character of the boats but their new home is very comfortable.

Many people tell the Buckmasters they would also like to live on a boat, but they just do not have the nerve. Some say they plan to do it when the children are grown or wait until they retire. The Buckmasters say perhaps they will be proved wrong, but they wanted their children to be a part of this experience. They want it to be a family affair and let the children know life is a home on water as well as living on land. As a close-knit family, the Buckmasters want to share and experience different things together, they should all be richer for it.

City Awaits Answer On Chemicals

By DONNA ESTES
Herald Staff Writer

Officials of City Chemicals Co. Inc. of Orlando had until noon today to deliver to City Manager Warren Knowles a schedule for removal of the 3,264 drums of potentially hazardous chemicals stored in an open field off Airport Boulevard and Jewett Lane.

Knowles has issued the ultimatum to Arthur Greer and Bill Howard of the firm. If the schedule for removal of the 36-gallon drums is not delivered by the deadline, Mayor Lee P. Moore said today, he is prepared to call a special commission meeting to authorize the filing of a lawsuit against the firm.

The suit would seek a court injunction forbidding the firm to store any additional chemicals at the site and a court order demanding that all the chemicals at the site be removed.

Moore said today he foresees no problem in getting a quorum of the commission—at least three members—together for a special meeting.

Meanwhile, repeated Herald efforts to reach company representatives have been futile since late Friday.

A company employee, who identified himself as Sally Bennett, an accountant, said this morning she had no idea how either Greer or Howard could be reached or if they would return to their offices this morning.

And County Administrator Roger Newsender said the county is standing by ready to assist if assistance is requested by the city or the State Department of Environmental Regulation (DER) concerning the chemical dump.

Marshal: Separate Barrels

By CHARITY CICARDO
Herald Staff Writer

State Fire Marshal John Nelson, after inspecting the chemical dump off Airport Boulevard and Jewett Lane today, advised that action be taken to separate drums which appear to contain flammable chemicals from those apparently containing materials which accelerate fires.

Nelson, supervisor for the state fire protection specialists in the Central Florida region, inspected the site at the request of Fire Chief G. Manning Harriett. Harriett and Fire Chief designate William "Sid" Galle, who takes over when Harriett retires in January, accompanied Nelson to the site.

Nelson spotted drums labeled as containing ether and other chemicals which feed fires next to chemicals labeled flammable. "These must be segregated," Nelson said.

Labels on the drums, noted by Nelson, included ether, peroxide, printers used blanket wash, acetone-sludge mixed with plaster, mixed solvent and trichloroethane.

A number of the drums were leaking green, red and orange chemicals into the ground.

There are no fire departments in Seminole County which can handle all types of chemical fires, said County Public Safety Director Gary Kaiser today.

"We have the equipment to handle the average type of chemical outburst," Kaiser said. "For instance, we handle chlorine gas cylinder leaks which are very dangerous, but to tell you we can handle all chemical situations would be misleading."

Kaiser said his department is in the process of getting extra equipment which could handle 90 percent of chemical fires, but he said it takes almost a year to get the equipment.

Labels on the drums warn that contents are toxic, poisonous, flammable, corrosive and hazardous. But Knowles has said there is actually no way of knowing what the contents of the drums are.

He also expressed concern that if City Chemicals does not remove the chemical waste the city could be left with that responsibility. Knowles estimated the cost of removal, some figures supplied by Greer, at about $200,000.

However, a spokesman for an area chemical firm said the cost of disposal alone could amount to nearly $300,000, not including the cost of transporting the chemicals across the state line to Livingston, Ala.

Kaiser said today the county fire department has a Hazardous Materials Team which is dispatched in disastrous situations.

State Fire Protection Regional Supervisor John Nelson (right) takes notes as he walks through the rows of chemical waste containers this morning. Assistant Sanford Fire Chief William "Sid" Galle (left) is also present.

Protection Agency (EPA) said he will be personally inspecting the site Thursday and will determine at that time if the chemical storage presents an "imminent hazard to the public health and environment" a part of EPA's hazardous waste site enforcement and responsibility system.

"From what I've learned the site is easily accessible to anyone. If kids get in there and play around it could be a problem. There is a apparently a fire hazard there with dry weeds near the drums," Ferrarzo said.

"Thank God, it doesn't go into the city sewer system," LaZebny said, adding that necessary bacteria in the system and put Sanford off the sewer business.

Jim Tharp of the DER said today a "little bit of everything" is being stored in the open field leased by City Industries from SEERCO, owner of the property.

Noting he has inspected the site with city officials and Sanford city officials, Tharp said: "We did not open the drums or take samples. We would be taking samples for weeks. We have a pretty good suspicion what's out there. It's not good," he said.

Officials Still Bubbling Over Golden Age Games

By JANE CASSELLBERY
Herald Staff Writer

"It's sort of like the day after Christmas," said Post Golden Age Games Chairman Jim Jernigan today, following a week of frenetic activity for senior citizens in Sanford.

Jernigan and others involved in putting on the sixth annual games, as well as the businessmen, today were still feeling the excitement of the games.

"We came within a hair's breadth of canceling the track and field events Saturday because of the rain," Jernigan said, "but then the weather cleared. The proquet and shuffleboard were delayed until Sunday because of the rain, however. It was a superb week."

The Golden Age Games track and field and bicycle races were featured this morning on the CBS morning news with Charles Kuralt.

A PM Magazine segment is scheduled for the first week in December. Honorary Chairman Buster Crabbe was interviewed on ABC's "Good Morning, America" Friday.

The Champions

Kay Thompson, 57, of Lake Mary, and Gilberto Gonzalez-Julio, 67, of Baldrich, Hato Rey, Puerto Rico, were declared the overall Golden Age Games champions today after points were totaled up by Virginia Longwell and her husband, Greater Sanford Chamber of Commerce office.

"The media has been extremely responsive and enthusiastic," said Ken Defren, manager of Corporate Communications for the General Foods Corporation, which co-sponsors the Golden Age Games through its Post Cereals division.

"When people see it on television or read about it in the paper, it enhances participation in the games."

Defren, one of five corporate officials who came to Sanford for the games, said General Foods is reviewing its participation for next year. Encouraged by this year's success, Defren said he is optimistic about the firm's continued participation.

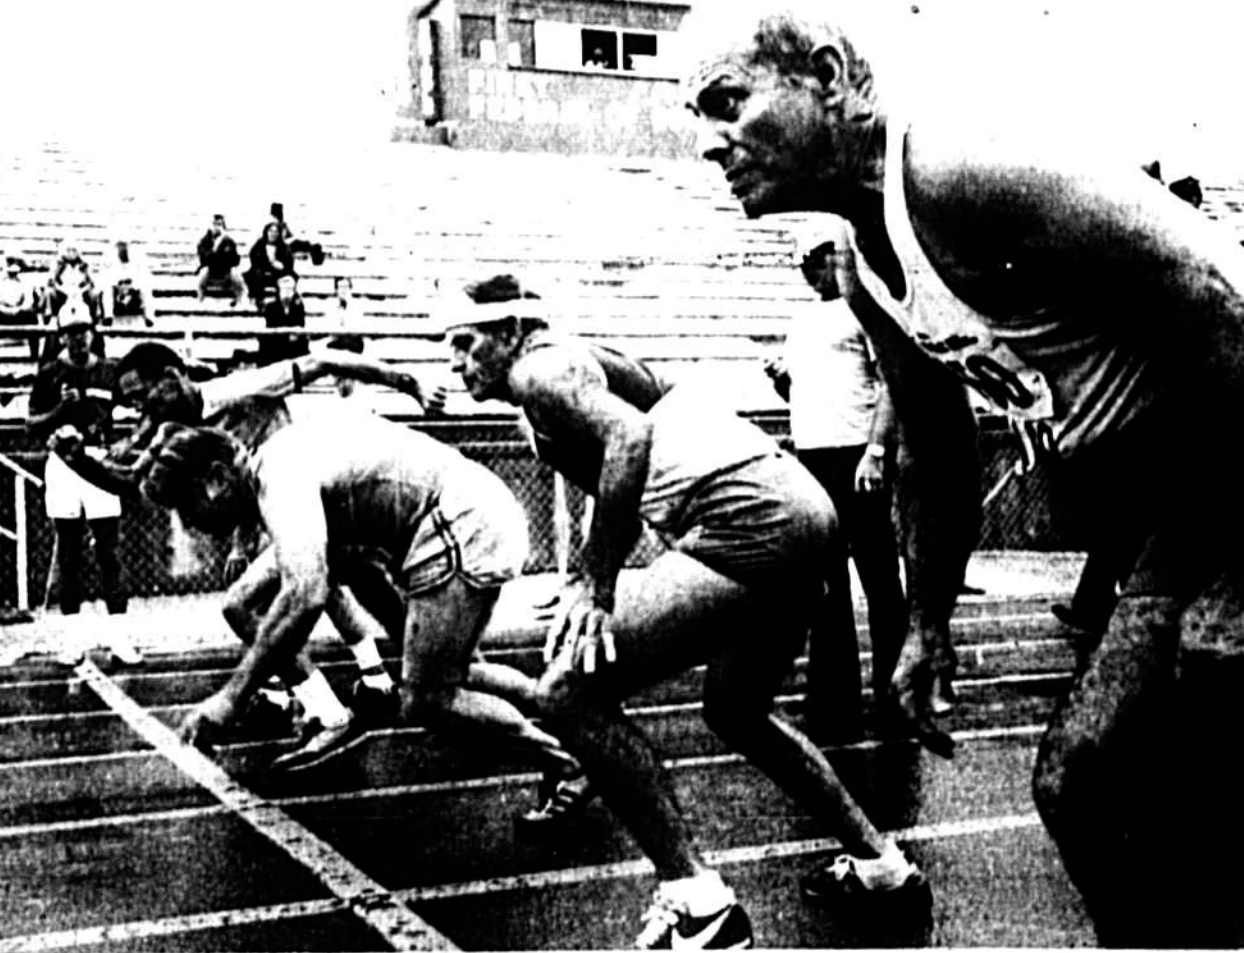

It went about extra smooth and demonstrated once again to all that older people who are still active can lead healthy and fun lives," said Defren. "I thought it was well organized and the response was tremendous. The number of volunteers does a professional job of administering it. We want to do it, but it is a budget matter. When we were approached by an agency this year on sponsoring the games, we were happy to do whatever we could even without putting it in the budget, but we're a business and have to review the operation."

Defren said this is the type of positive program his firm likes to support, and a decision should be forthcoming in the next 30 days. "If we do it, we're rearing in that direction, we have to start planning for next year right away."

Greater Sanford Chamber of Commerce Executive Manager Jack Horner has praise for Jernigan, the Golden Age Games executive committee and the city of Sanford.

With the large influx of people there was good impact on the local economy, Horner said. He is confident that General Foods will be back next year and the Golden Age Games will continue to grow.

John Edwards, manager of the Holiday Inn on Lake Monroe, said it was a very good week for the motel and restaurant in what normally would be a slow season.

Runners line up on the wet track at the Seminole High School stadium Saturday for the running of the men's 110-yard dash in the Golden Age Games track and field events. Gilberto Gonzalez (right), 67 of Puerto Rico, current holder of the world's record for decathlon in his age group, accumulated enough points to become the men's overall champion of the Golden Age Games and was second in the Decathlon.
