COMPLETELY ABSORBED in the "five o'clock shadow" adorning the face of seaman Tom Freeman aboard the S.S. Sisal Admiral in Staten Island, N. Y., this Java monkey just refuses to take time out to look at the camera. The little fellow arrived with a shipment of wild animals from the Malay Peninsula, destined for zoos in the U. S. STAGING A MAJOR counter-offensive, thousands of truckloads of South Korean troops were reportedly pouring northward to the Han River (1), just south of Seoul, Korean capital. Figuring importantly in this turn of the tide were the B-29 raids, which routed the Communist North Koreans from Kimpo Airfield outside Seoul and brought about its recapture by South Korean troops. Earlier, Red forces had crossed the Han, obtained a toe-hold on the south bank and were set for a clean sweep to Suwon (2). Port of Incheon (3) fell to the Reds. (Central Press)

Vivacious and charming Mary Dwight, 16, of Weekiwachee Spring, was recently chosen Miss Florida Newsreel because of her outstanding performance in underwater movies. She also holds the title of Miss Azalea, being chosen queen of the Azalea Festival at Palatka. Now she is being sponsored jointly by the Brooksville Junior Chamber of Commerce and Weekiwachee Spring to compete for the Title of Miss Florida of 1950.

By HAL BOYLE
 NEW YORK. — (AP) — Should America use the atom bomb against North Korea?

If it plans to do so, it might be better to do it now than later. There is no sound military argument against using it—right now. And there is no sound moral or legal argument either.

The Communist invaders have been described as bandits by President Truman. Against armed bandits any employment of counter-force is morally justified by that oldest of reason—self-defense.

The call by the Security Council of the United Nations to "render every assistance" to the South Koreans also gives full legal justification for using the atom bomb.

And the most pertinent reason of all is—it will save American lives. It did this in Japan, and it will do the same thing in Korea.

At this moment soldiers are outnumbered and outgunned on the ground in Korea, fighting a foe equipped with heavier tanks and more artillery.

Already an American headquarters has been forced to retreat and a forward American infantry position has been reported cut off. We stand exactly as we did in the early days of North Africa. Within a week we have had a small Kasserine Gap—and perhaps a miniature Hlantan, too.

Before the real weight of United States arms can be thrown into battle, there may be the limitation of more retreats, more cutoff troops. For only a small heroic force as yet is in the field to uphold the prestige of a great nation.

With the arms they have it may be only possible for them to fight delaying actions until help comes. Today they are lonely men, and home must seem far away.

A new armada of B-29s has been flown to the Pacific. Do they hold atom bombs in their bellies?

Some observers still hope that if the North Koreans were warned to halt their advances or take the atomic consequences they might yet pull back across the 38th parallel.

If such an ultimatum is given and the invaders don't begin to withdraw, then the atomic arsenal might quickly change their minds. But if we do decide to use the atom bomb, we won't have to depend on one. We can throw them around like baseballs. We have a stockpile now. And each can cinder a battle area of one square mile—and probably much more.

The atom bomb has been regarded as a strategic weapon, with cities as its natural target. But it is also a tremendous and effective tactical weapon. It can be used against concentrations of troops and tanks on the ground.

Wherever men and armor mass for attack, and they do have to mass to cross rivers or go through valleys—the atom bomb can find and destroy them.

The bomb can be delivered by plane in the last world war. The U. S. Army has disclosed it now has atomic artillery. Presumably this means the bomb can be fired with the accuracy of an ordinary shell. Why not fire a few?

Even one atom bomb, exploded in Korea, would serve as a mighty warning against possible further violence of the peace in East Germany, Iran, Burma, and half a dozen other trouble spots.

The time to flex a small muscle is past.

Of course you recognize it. Who doesn't know that those four Ventiports, that graceful sweep of fender-chrome, mark ROADMASTER—best of all the Buicks, unquestioned "big buy" of the bus-car field? But have you tried it?

Have you matched this sweet-stepping bonny against the tall hills, and the call of the straight-away?

Ever tooled it across town—and seen how Dynaflow's quick surge and smooth take-off slip you through traffic with minimum of foot-motion and maximum of timesaving?

Ever known the good feel of a light and easy wheel, swinging almost at a finger's touch—the soul-satisfying lift in a big 152-hp Fireball engine just waiting for the release your toe-pressure gives it?

Ever sampled that famous Buick ride—steady, level, unperturbed, soft with the special gentleness of coil springs on all four wheels, sweetly restful in both front and rear seats?

There's no reason, really, to wait longer for such satisfying experience.

There's a Buick dealer near you. He delights in showing off ROADMASTER. He'll arrange—unless all his demonstration cars have been snatched away from him by eager buyers—to put you behind a ROADMASTER wheel.

Why not see him now—to find out what's finest in today's fine cars, and how little it takes to buy one?

FRIDAY, JULY 14, 1950. TODAY'S BIBLE VERSE: God still loves his children even when they fall away from his love and law.

The lid has been clamped down tight on illegal gambling in Orlando. Oh, well, there will be plenty of time to lift it before the tourist season begins.

Mrs. Susan Thackeray was taken to the hospital in San Diego, Calif. yesterday in a serious condition. That may not mean much to you, but some will recall Ruth Elder who in 1927 became the first woman to attempt to fly across the Atlantic.

Admiral Husband E. Kimmel, who was in command at Pearl Harbor when the Japs attacked, and got blamed for the results, has suffered a heart attack. We don't suppose the news from Korea had anything to do with it, but we can understand his emotions in the present crisis.

Again and again and again, during his recent campaign, Senator Pepper told the people of Florida that he was against the FEPC bill. Nobody believed him, of course, so when the matter came up in the Senate the other day, it is interesting to note that Senator Pepper was recorded as not voting.

Bill Casubee, local Floggy Wiggly manager, tells us that this store has just won a district contest for selling the most Minute Maid cans of orange juice. In four weeks time the local store sold two thousand cans of this particular concentrate, or at a rate of five hundred cans a week.

Unsavoury publicity for Florida comes from Drew Pearson's Washington Merry-Go-Round published in hundreds of large newspapers all over the country. Nation-wide gambling rackets, says Pearson, "have subsidized the sheriffs of their local counties and even the Governor of Florida himself."

Weather And War

The first few days of the fighting in Korea have emphasized anew the importance of accurate foreknowledge of the weather in planning military operations.

On the other hand such weather is against the defenders. Air support is almost useless in bad weather, particularly in hunting down and destroying the tanks, which appear to be the main material advantage of the Reds.

It will be recalled that in World War II the Germans repeatedly exploited the weather in their offensive operations, in the seizure of Norway, the big bombardment of England, the Battle of the Bulge and others.

Movies' Responsibility: "In the struggle to preserve world peace and to find a way for mankind to live in harmony the picture maker must find his own way to use his talent and resources so that his work on the world's screens will be an ambassador of good will and a shining instrument of hope."

Wylar, on the occasion of his receiving the One World Award for Motion Pictures for 1950, Wyler emphasized the belief that films should be examples of the morality of humanism, which entails social responsibilities. The dignity of men everywhere, which is one of the foundation stones of democracy, should be the underlying theme of their work, he averred.

It is a pity that so many of the wrong kind of movies are exported to other countries, there to help in forming erroneous ideas about our country. If there were more movies available truly reflecting American life, the industry might be better able to send the "right" films abroad.

Lo, The Poor Indian

Four Idaho Indian boys last March pleaded guilty to stealing a sheep. The theft occurring as a by-product of a joyride, they were illiterate and had no lawyer to defend them.

The special injustice of the case lay not merely in the unduly severe sentence, but in the fact that by the Idaho constitution Indians are ineligible to serve on juries. This discrimination would be grist for any anti-American propaganda mill, a bit of material proof that in the United States those of other races than the dominant white have no rights.

A constitutional amendment doing away with this discrimination has been submitted to the Idaho voters at the November election. A favorable vote would silence what might otherwise be a telling propaganda point.

Florida 44 Percent

Florida has gained 44 per cent in population in 10 years. That's the pleasing fact revealed by the report of the 1950 census, just released by the Atlanta regional census office.

Highway beautification is a subject that has been discussed many times in Florida but very little has ever been done about it. A few enterprising communities through their local chambers of commerce or garden clubs have succeeded in beautifying short stretches of highway.

Harold Cole, executive vice president and general manager of the Florida State Chamber of Commerce, thinks that something should and can be done about it and the State Chamber has taken the lead in a move to arouse and interest all civic groups in a constructive united program to improve the look of our highways.

While sniping with road signs is supposed to be prohibited by law in this state, thousands of signs are still tacked to trees, posts and fences and the worst offenders are political candidates. Today throughout the state can be found hundreds of tattered and torn signs for U. S. Senator candidates and those of many other candidates.

From time to time attempts have been made to eliminate billboards or regulate their number and size, but little progress has been made. The billboard people are excellent lobbyists and whenever a bill is introduced in the legislature something always seems to happen to it.

The Soviet Union were those condemned for serious war crimes, those whose alleged war crimes are still being investigated and a few who were temporarily detained because of illness.

The news shattered the hopes of hundreds of thousands of Germans with relatives missing. Reaction in West Germany was bitter, with German officials declaring that 1,500,000 Germans are still missing, including "tens of thousands of deported civilians."

The U. S. State Department has labeled the Russian claim "fantastic and absurd." It estimated the number of Germans still being held at "at least" 200,000. Before the Soviet announcement was made, the United States and France accused Moscow of lying about its repatriation claims to hide the fate of hundreds of thousands still unaccounted for.

"We got a few that night but we didn't learn until the next day what the job was, the blond and chunky Hook went on. We learned then it was to be a volunteer group, a 51 outfit, strictly American in planes, pilots and ground crews. Then we came to Korea."

The volunteers are finding the Mustangs something of a ship. Two of them were strafing North Korean tanks recently when one of the pilots tried a maneuver which might have been carried off in a war-time Japanese Zero but which you just don't do in a Mustang. The plane crashed.

The volunteers have staved over 200 missions since they took to the air. They haven't had any contact with enemy aircraft yet, in fact haven't seen any in the air. But their war against North Korean tanks and men goes on daily.

Grisham, the outfit's weather officer and veteran of one mission in the Korean war, grimed amably behind a glistening black mustache when asked how he'd made out on his flight.

The department apparently has advised the White House that such action may be necessary, but has not forwarded a definite recommendation.

General J. Lawton Collins, Army Chief of Staff, and General Hoyt Vandenberg, the Air Force chief, are due in Washington tomorrow. They have been in Tokyo conferring with General Douglas MacArthur on his needs.

The question of calling at least some Guard units and Reservists to active duty becomes increasingly urgent as the Korean war becomes a stalemate. The United States is to send over units from its mobile reserve at home.

One Army division and elements of other divisions already have been earmarked for assignment to the Far East in the near future.

The problem now is to replace the strength at home through tapping the civilian reserves.

President Truman also explored with his Cabinet the whole range of possible home-front mobilization measures. But Cabinet officers said no decisions were reached.

There was also a discussion of the military outlook. General Omar Bradley, chairman of the Joint Chiefs of Staff, gave a briefing on the military situation.

None of the Cabinet officers who talked with reporters after the 45-minute meeting would say what Bradley had told them. They also declined to say what specific home front measures were being considered. The talks covered the whole range.

Women's Coats To Be Prettier Than Ever

NEW YORK, July 14.—This winter American women are going to be sitting around in the check room.

Philip Mangano, the old master tailor, outlines even his own distinctive record this season with a collection of coats and suits of such handsome fabrics and skillful cut that visiting fashion editors sat on the edge of their chairs at his full preview and visibly drooled.

Most spectacular of the coats are in bulky, padded fabrics, often two-lined, used in dashing greatcoats of loose and ample cut that look as if they were designed to be worn in a blizzard. One such is a dramatic coat of almost electric red, in an unapologetic double woven fabric that goes three on the outside, red and gray, bold plaid inside. The coat is made with the plain side out on the collar and on the huge buttoned double-Mantone also uses the season's cuffs.

pet absorbent fabric for a number of greatcoats, and shows a series of seven coats in dark wools, completely lined in nutria or mink.

His suits accent the nipped waistline and rounded hip that is typical of the new silhouette.

Winding up the crowded week of fashion previews was the showing of Cecil Chapman, famous for frothy dance dresses for the younger set. This time Cecil Chapman goes all out for billowing skirts of nylon net topped by strapless bodices of taffeta or satin cut as low as the law allows and further accented by petal effects about the bosom.

Far less formal wear she likes short strapless taffeta sheaths in soft black, black or white taffeta, draped to dramatize the figure with covet-up boleros.

Hollywood Is RUTH THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD, July 13.—(AP)—Virginia Mayo, lending a one-sided revolt against the "fashion dictators," says women dress better in St. Louis, Dallas and Chicago than in the so-called style centers of New York and California.

"It's all her own idea and there was no press agent to push her along."

"I think women are foolish to follow blindly what they are told to wear by a small group of designers and manufacturers. I have decided to go against the trend and not follow their dictation. I am going to wear what I want, even if I become known as 'Miss Dowdy of 1935.'"

Attacking the issue geographically, she observed that women in New York are inclined to overdo.

"They display that real style means a display of extravagance—light and heavy jewelry, expensive fur coats, large and unusual hats. That isn't style. They merely look as if they had money, like well-to-do grandmothers."

On the other side of the continent, California women are underdressed, she declared.

"I don't mind informality, but California women carry it too far. I think it's all right for women to go without hats, but I believe gloves are a mark of good grooming. You seldom see them out here."

Where then, she asked, would be the happy medium of good grooming—somewhere in mid-country?

"That's right," she answered. "Let us come to St. Louis. The women know how to dress smartly there. That's also true of Dallas and Chicago."

Virginia recently returned from making a film in England and she said that European women dress better than the style followers of the U. S.

"Europeans don't have as many clothes, but they can do more with what they have. An Englishwoman can look very smart in a tailored suit."

"Europeans have a certain chicness in their clothes. Most of them wear cloth coats instead of fur, but they are cut very smartly."

Getting back to her crusade against the style-sets, Virginia pointed out the absurdities of recent fashions.

"Take the halter dress, which is all the rage. It exposes the upper-arm, which is the least attractive feature of many women."

"And the short hair-cut. I tried it two years ago, before everyone was doing it. I decided I look better with long hair and let it grow back. Some women—like Katharine Hepburn, Claudette Colbert and Betsy Drake—look good with short hair. But a lot of others who are wearing it, shouldn't."

Virginia added that she suspects the style makers put out some extreme fashions, but make most of their money from women who stick to smart styles.

"It's just like Hollywood," she philosophized. "We make a few different pictures every year, but most of our money comes from the old standbys—westerns, musicals and boy-meets-girl."

Shredded wheat biscuits make a "different" base for creamed foods to serve on a summer menu. Just put the biscuits on a baking sheet and sprinkle each with two tablespoons of boiling water; bake in a hot oven for about five minutes.

Odham Takes Presidency Of State Jaycees

Awards Presented To Outstanding Men; Millidge Asks Jaycee Crime Action

J. Bradley Odham, Seminole County representative, was installed as president of the Florida Junior Chamber of Commerce at impressive ceremonies at the Sanford Armory Saturday night when Ed Frost Award as the outstanding Jaycee president in the nation, and Judge E. Stanley Millidge of Miami urge the Jaycees to action against organized crime in Florida.

In accepting the presidency for the coming year, Mr. Odham said that in looking at Communism spreading throughout the world, the situation in Korea, the work of the social planners and crime investigators, the Jaycees realize that there is much left to be done and he expressed the hope that God would give them the courage to act wisely and to do the right thing.

Mr. Road, the retiring president, received a special award from the Tampa Jaycees from Al Cahill of Jacksonville who said that the Florida Jaycees have enjoyed during the past year the highest quality of leadership of any state in the union, and calling attention to Road's success in bringing the national convention to Florida next year, said that he had been the best Jaycee president Florida had ever had.

Judge Millidge, who introduced the first anti-bonkie bill in the Florida Legislature, told of the revolution of the Katz crime investigation committee in Miami and pointed out that "when one illegal syndicate boasts an income of $25,000,000 a year, you don't find that kind of money in a law suit without corroborating police officials from the lowest to the highest in office."

He declared that American boys are being killed in Korea trying to preserve the American way of life "while we at home all around completely and allow northern racketeers with their own state, bribe and corrupt our officials with their unlawful pro-Communist, bribe and corrupt our elected public officials the same kind of big racketeers."

"While these boys overseas, are dying for a principle," he continued, "we allow the Ericksons and the Costellos and the crooks and the gamblers to run our government. This is not a problem of crime in this state, but a problem of crime in Miami alone, or just the lower East Coast, but the entire state of Florida. The effects of such corruption in office can not be confined to the state, but are spread to Gainesville, Ocala, Sanford and throughout the entire state."

He paid high tribute to Bradley Odham and Henry Camp of Ocala for exposing bribery in the Legislature and said that this had done more to overcome cynicism in Florida than anything else that ever happened in this state, and urged the Jaycees to take it (Continued on Page Two)

An investigation of gambling was under way at Miami. But a grand jury refused to accept the grand jury of two deputies assigned to assist it by Sheriff James A. Sullivan, whose personal fortune rose from $2,500 to $70,000 or more during three years as sheriff.

Acheson Prepares Delicate Reply To Indian Premier's Peace Note

WASHINGTON, July 17—(AP)—Secretary of State Acheson is planning to make one of the most delicate diplomatic moves of the world this week in reply to suggestions of India's Prime Minister Nehru for settling the Korean war.

The New York Times and a New Delhi source reported today that Russian Prime Minister Stalin has replied to these suggestions by asking for the seating of Communist China in the United Nations Security Council as a step toward ending the war.

Acheson is expected in his answer to draw a sharp line between peace and appeasement, as those terms are applied here to the Korean situation.

The essential conditions to any settlement of the Korean and related Far Eastern issues is complete withdrawal of the Communist invasion forces from South Korea, Acheson is expected to write.

Utah Mine Rescue Hindered By Thick Clouds Of Smoke

LARK, Utah, July 17—(AP)—Thick clouds of smoke were terms of the number one hazard today in rescue workers hurried to reach five men lost underground since yesterday in a lead mine.

Smoke blowers were set up in main shafts to clear the smoke which rescue crews said prevented them from exploring depths of the mine where the men might be huddled.

"Burr" Grant, chief of the supervisors of the rescue operation, said it might be hours, or days, before the five miners are found.

The hole was held that the men had found their way to sections of the mine where fresh oxygen is being pumped in.

Northern Democrats Join GOP To Throttle Electoral Reform

WASHINGTON, July 17—(AP)—The House today killed a proposal to abolish the Electoral College and to revamp the machinery by which the nation has named its presidents for 150 years. It turned down a Senate-passed resolution that would have submitted to the states a constitutional amendment going away with the electoral college system and substituting one based on proportionate division of the popular vote.

WASHINGTON, July 17—(AP)—The Historic Electoral College appeared all but certain today of surviving the latest of many attempts to junk it since its stormy inception nearly 150 years ago.
