No Theme For A Sermon

Concluding an editorial upon the resentment felt by some parents toward the allenist who claims that young Loeb, one parents toward the allenist who claims that young Loed, one of the Chicago murderers, had his character distorted by the tyranny of a prudish governess, the Asheville Citizen, readtyranny of a prudish governess, the Asheville Citizen, reading a sermon to parents in general, says:

More important still, how many fathers and mothers will profit from the reading of that Chicago testimony? Here we are not dealing with the guilt or innocence of the lads on trial. What we are trying to bring out is that their case may be the means of educating the fathers and mothers of America in the blessed art of being better parents. To learn from wise men that neglect by the parents can hang behind the child for the remainder of its life a dark curtain of nameless terrors and crooked thoughts, a curtain from which the tempting idea or the overpowering emotion may at any moment spring upon the adult to devastate his career-surely, that will do much to make the parents of today better builders of the citizenship of tomorrow.

With any other subject on which to hang a sermon than the characters of the two fiends, Leopold and Locb, the isin in the United States." That Citizen could have appealed more directly to the parents it is all right for a short campaign, attempts to reach. No American parent who is not fiend-like but there isn't much substance in himself could conceive of his child having, or acquiring, the lit. traits that made possible the crime for which the two Chicago youths will be hanged, if courts and juries are not times becomes good United States

Undoubtedly most of the distorted views and crooked characters of boys and girls come from parental neglect or parental ignorance. But the Citizen does wrong to attempt to win sympathy for Loeb and Leopold. Normal, justice-lov-Ing people are rightly incensed at efforts to save their worthless lives. If they are mentally defective, they should be put out of the world for fear by some miscarriage of justice they pass their disease on to their children. If they are without souls or concience, they should be exterminated as speedfly as possible, to rid the world of their worthless hulks,

Parents may gather lessons from this trial, but they will bor, highly profitable, in fact esbe lessons on the need of surer and quicker justice from our

Accidents Brought Home

An editorial in the Florida Times-Union recalls to mind that during the World War there were forty-eight thousand American soldiers killed in France in eighteen months while during a recent period of similar length in the United States there were ninety-six thousand persons killed in automobile negro in chains kneeling at the accidents. Of this ninety-six thousand, twenty-five thousand were children.

These figures are of course staggering, but one ever fails to get the true import of vital statistics until they are brought home to him in some more tangible way. Still vivid to remain one of the best weekly in the minds of most Sanford people are the details of a recent automobile accident which in the twinkling of an eye brought upon a joyous, happy family great sorrow and remorse. It is only such things as this that make folks realize the significance of ninety-six thousand persons killed by au-

Commenting upon an article in the New York World, the of the Republic now. Times-Union presents the following suggestions for the prevention of automobile accidents:

The World seems to feel that there is no workable plan as yet offered to prevent automobile accidents. There is a plan, and it is worth trying. Have every driver realize the responsibility that should be felt when controlling a great piece of machinery that can leave death and destruction in its wake if badly handled. This would mean; insist upon qualifications for drivers' beenses. It would mean the prevention of small children from driving because, however expert a youngster may be regarding the shifting of gears and turning the wheel it is not reasonable to expect mature judgment from such sources. It would further mean sober, careful and complete attention on the part of the driver. Crowding several into a seat intended for no more than two should be discouraged and it almost seems as though there should be the same restriction of "arms front" as there is upon soberness.

To make "every driver realize the responsibility that squeezed dry has a enquerty of the fall when controlling" an automobile, that is the "Love and see she thinks so those of the House should be felt when controlling" an automobile! that is the problem which should confront all civic authorities. No Mars Message, Yet! Dear Old Constitution. Live Out of Date? Hardly. Tortue and Hanging. BY ARTHUR BRISBANE (Copyright 1924)

SATURDAY MARS comes within thirty-five million miles of us, not to come so close again for 200 years. It is too much to hope for any message from our highly educated older brother in space. A planet millions of years older than we are probably looks upon us as a full grown man looks at a new taby biting its toes, considering us something interesting to look at, but too young to be taught.

WELAKA BUILDING-

Opening of New Coral Gables Section Offers Opportunity for Investment

HE newest addition to Coral Gables, and one of the most significant developments of the great 1924 program, is announced in the first offering of plots in the Flagler Street section. It is important not only in the fact that it marks new and enlarged boundaries for Miami's Master Suburb-not only another fine Coral Gables entrance beautify the western part of Miami's leading business street—but also for the reason that the new addition brings Coral Gables one-half mile nearer to the heart of the

The Flagler Street section consists of approximately one hundred acres and includes land on both sides of Douglas Road: A fine entrance, designed by Denman Fink, who has created all of Coral Gables' noble entrances, will be built just east of Douglas Road on Flagler Street. The entrance will mark the beginning of Ponce de Leon Boulevard, which will be the main thoroughfare of the section. This fine paved boulevard will be 100 feet wide, and will be the continuation of the present main thoroughfare north and south through the Douglas section and the business section. It will extend all the way from Flagler Street to Coral Way, linking up the eastern sections of Coral Gables, and upon it are now being erected, or to be erected, many of the most important buildings and institutions of the suburb.

Ponce de Leon Boulevard, along its entire length to Flagler

Street, will be developed with the same high-grade features which it possesses in other section. It will be 100 feet in width and will continue the white way for its entire length, and sidewalks and watermains are to be laid. In the matter of electricity, water, phones and other utilities it will enjoy the same service as all of the other parts of Coral Gables. Adjoining the fine Douglas section, which it does on the north, with all of the exceptional features which the latter will possess, the Flagler Street section is destined to be both popular and desirable with the buying public.

The development work in the new section will begin at once, and, with the fine new entrance will be completed before the winter season.

This new Coral Gables section will be doubly attractive to the investing public. The manifold attractions of Coral Gables' great development are here united and merged with the tremendous increases which all West Flagler Street property has enjoyed during the last two years. The combination offers splendid advantages for investors and especially for early buyers.

Flagler Street section plots are priced at $1,450 upward. Maps and plots are now ready at the Coral Gables office, and deluxe pullman buses are ready to bring you to Coral Gables to take advantage of this opportunity.
