

St. Augustine Cops 5 To 1 Decision Over Local Outfit

Each Nine Credited With 10 Hits During Contest

Bob Pitman and George Kirkland Take Hitting Honors With Three Bingles In Four Trips To Plate

By JULIAN STENSTROM
Herald Sports Editor

Howard Smith of the St. Augustine Saints had too much for the Lookouts last night and he and his mates coped a 5 to 1 decision over the Bill "Raw Meat" Rodgers outfit before 500 Sanford fans.

Smith was nicked for 10 hits during the fray but he kept them well scattered and pitched him self out of numerous tight spots. Smith fanned one of the Lookouts and walked three while Joe Pinder, on the hill for the Lookouts, allowed 10 hits, fanned six of the Saints and walked a total of four.

Hitting honors for the evening were divided between George Kirkland, third baseman for the Saints and Bob Pitman, hot corner man for the Lookouts.

Pitman lead in the total number of bases with four as he singled twice and doubled in four official appearances at the plate. Kirkland's three hits in the four trips were one buster.

The scoring started after each club had played scoreless for five innings. The Saints pushed across three runners in the sixth, Kirkland singled to left field but Contreras threw to Stith to nab Kirkland on a spectacular play at first base. Judy was credited with an infield hit and he took second when Otero worked Pinder for a base on balls. On a wild pitch, Judy and Otero advanced their next base. Mobley grounded to Stith who threw to Contreras at the plate and caught Judy.

Otero moved to third and he scored on Balan's double to right field. Mobley moved to third and he and Balan scored on Helm's double to deep leftfield. The Lookouts scored their only run in the eighth inning when Pinder singled to left-center field. Moore singled to center sending Pinder to second, Pinder took third when Doljack forced Moore at second base. Davis lined out of deep rightfield to score Pinder. Pitman doubled sending Doljack to third but Stith flied out to left field to end the inning.

In the ninth, the Saints put the game on ice when Smith singled to left field and went to second on a passed ball. Schweigerath was hit by a pitched ball and Kirkland secured an infield hit filling the bases. Judy grounded to Pitman who threw to get Smith. Otero flied out to deep center field and Schweigerath tagged up and scored. Judy attempted to steal second and Contreras' throw was low allowing Kirkland to tally when the ball bounded into centerfield.

Lions Arrange To Provide "Talking Books" For Blind

American Foundation Makes Project Possible Free Of Cost

At their semi-monthly meeting last night the Lions Club decided to sponsor a campaign whereby blind persons will be able to secure free of charge through the club "a talking book" machine and records to use in it today.

Mr. Galloway explained that the club could secure the "talking book" machines, which are much like victrolas, free of charge from the Atlanta office of the American Foundation for the Blind. The records can also be secured free of charge, he added.

Pointing out that any blind person who wants to secure the use of one of these machines should get in touch with the Lions Club, Mr. Galloway said the records could be kept for a period of 30 days and then must be returned when new ones could be obtained.

M. H. Smith, superintendent of the County Home, was a guest of the club.

The next meeting will be held at the Valdez Hotel July 22 under the new summer schedule of holding sessions twice monthly during the hot weather. The club will not return to its old schedule of holding meetings each week until September.

Alex R. Johnson, vocational agriculture instructor at the Seminole High school, returned home last night after a trip along the eastern seaboard to the New England states.

Mr. Johnson reported that he had made the 3,000 mile trip which carried him into the White Mountains of New Hampshire and home again without mishap. In addition to visiting friends and relatives, Mr. Johnson reported he had visited many points of interest on his trip. While in Washington, he called on friends at the Federal Department of Vocational Education and also visited the wholesale vegetable market in that city and in New York City.

At the University of Maryland, Mr. Johnson reported that the CCC vocational training exhibit was the highlight of his visit. From the work of the boys in the Civilian Conservation Corps, who are approximately the same age as the members of his vocational agriculture classes, Mr. Johnson declared that he received many good pointers in vocational training, which will be inaugurated at the local high school next year. The work of the CCC youth in numerous vocational fields was very good, he reported.

At Beltsville, Md. Mr. Johnson visited the United States Research Farm where he said several thousand acres are devoted to experiments for the betterment of agriculture over the nation. This farm, he said, is the nation's center for experiments in poultry and animal husbandry.

Pointing out that while there were no outward signs of a recession in Washington, Mr. Johnson declared that in the industrial centers in the New England states business was stagnated and that a feeling of pessimism

FLOYD BENNETT FIELD

N. Y. July 14.—(AP)—Howard Hughes completed his round the world flight today to cut four full days from the record of the late Wiley Post. Hughes was sighted over the airport at 1:34 P. M. (EST) and landed two minutes later.

Hughes' mileage for the trip was 14,824 miles against 15,500 for Post. Hughes' total elapsed time was 91 hours, 16 minutes or three days, 19 hours and 16 minutes, which cut four days off the record of the late Wiley Post who made it in 7 days, 18 hours, 19 minutes in 1931.

Hughes left Minneapolis, where a 33-minute stop was made for refueling, at 8:11 (CST) (9:11 (EST)). The Minneapolis halt was unexpected.

For 12 hours and one minute after leaving Fairbanks, Alaska at 8:35 (EST) last night the big ship, its radio silent for six and a half hours, had roared across Canada, apparently destined to clip full four days off Post's record.

Hughes and four companions left New York at 6:20 P. M. (EST) Sunday. The Minneapolis airport was the first American soil the fliers had touched, Alaska excepted, since leaving here last Sunday. Their elapsed flying time at time of the landing at Minneapolis was 66 hours, 49 minutes.

Throng jammed Floyd Bennett Field to welcome the fliers, officials said they believed it the biggest crowd ever to gather at the field.

British Efforts To Halt Conflict Again Stalemated

LONDON, July 14.—(AP)—The Chamberlain government yesterday disclosed new statements in its efforts to stop the rain of death bombs on civilians and British merchant ships.

At the same time the government asked $11,505,000 more for its air rearmament program, and fought off a House of Commons attack on its alleged failure to encourage home agriculture production as a safety measure in event of the aerial blockade in wartime.

Declaring Britain was "not prepared to acquiesce in repetition of attacks of a certain character" on her shipping, Prime Minister Chamberlain informed Commons the government had rejected the suggestion of insurgent General Franco that America be made an "immune" port for British ships visiting government Spain.

He also announced that Sir Robert Hodgson, British representative in insurgent Spain, would remain in London for "the present," and that Britain's efforts to set up a neutral commission to investigate bombing of civilians had failed.

OTHER THOUGHT

Walking in the shady woods north of Titonnet, I found Tremont with the drift of afternoon.

His voice sparkled in sunlight, the sea swept back and made for history a path smooth out of Rome and Babylon, the silver sand

Winged by the breeze in double track, and Socrates sang in a pine. Barefoot walking

Unshod and sang. Beyond Barnes's screenhouse a motor exhaust recalled mortality.

Over sunlight at a break of stone, blue glimmered in the warm urgency of flight.

There, a fan fell, twisted to glide at the edge of a bog, he settled in quiet across a slender bough

The Price Of Force

That honesty is still the best policy and that it does not pay to seek gains by force or unfair methods, whether his rule is applied to the individual or to great nations of the world, is shown by the recent experience of Germany and Italy.

Just how true this is has been shown by recent financial reports written by newspaper correspondents living in Berlin. Robert Crozier Long writes the New York Times that in spite of the boom in the armament industries and a successful deal in connection with the expropriated Mexican oil properties, business sentiment in Germany is generally depressed while production and export trade are on the down grade.

Hitler started out to make Germany rich and powerful and his followers prosperous. He began by persecuting Jews and Catholics, seizing their property, and in some cases where there were funds or relatives in foreign countries holding them for ransom, thus alienating millions of persons living abroad who might have been friendly to his regime and good customers of German exporters.

He continued by violating solemn treaty obligations, destroying confidence throughout the world, by building a huge war machine, which started the world armament race, and finally by seizing, by force of arms and without provocation, a free and independent nation.

Combatting Hyacinths

Of interest to Sanfordites, particularly those who use the river, is any great extent, is the announcement from Washington to the effect that Army engineers have perfected machines for which they claim great success in destroying water hyacinths which jam our lakes and streams and interfere with navigation.

According to the announcement, one of the machines, which is valued at about $105,000, hauls the hyacinths into a giant maw, grinds them into tiny bits and throws them back into the water. The other, a more economical device, costing $10,000, merely pulls the hyacinths out of the water and dumps them on the shore where they soon dry up and die.

The report says that the former machine is already at work in the bayous of Louisiana where there is probably more actual inconvenience and difficulty due to hyacinths than anywhere else in the country.

Efforts to conquer the hyacinth so far have been largely unavailing as the plant multiplies so rapidly that to get rid of it is almost like bailing out the ocean. Arsenic sprays have proved fairly effective but dangerous to cattle which graze along the river banks. But it may be that the new machines will do the job.

STRANGE AS IT SEEMS—By JOHN HIX

JOHN STEVENS, INVENTOR... The history of transportation in America might be a vastly different story if it had not been for the inventive genius of Colonel John Stevens, early American inventor.

Stevens was nearly 40 when he turned to the study of steam engines and their adaptation to water craft. In 1788 he built the first multitubular boiler on record for use in his marine engines.

In a desire to protect this invention, Stevens petitioned Congress for a patent law. By profession a lawyer in New York, Stevens was able to draw up a successful outline for a patent system which was passed by Congress as the Patent Law of 1790, the foundation of the present Patent Office.

Stevens established the first regular scheduled steamboat line on the Delaware and Connecticut Rivers, and in 1814 started the first steam-powered ferry from Hoboken, N. J., to New York City. Stevens then turned to railroading, in 1815 obtaining the first railroad charter in America—from the Delaware to the Baritan Rivers.

He built the first locomotive with a multitubular boiler and ran it on the first railway track in this country. He built an ironclad ship in 1813 for the U. S. Government and advocated, the year before, a double-track railroad to run from Albany to Lake Erie, to replace the slower Erie Barge Canal.

WASHINGTON DAYBOOK

WASHINGTON, July 12.—From European centers comes increasing inside evidence that the war danger so potent only a few weeks ago is rapidly diminishing.

There are several reasons given by close observers. Important among these are the effect of British warning and the impact of her latest diplomatic gestures to cauterize the Spanish sore and to break down the Franco-German axis. Another is the calming effect on Germany of plucky Czechoslovakia's mobilization.

Less measurable in exact terms, but nonetheless important, is the horrible experience of Japan in attempting a quick conquest of China. One observer with access to unimpeachable sources said, the experience of Japan had an appalling effect on the ambitious schemes of aggressive nations.

It was just a year ago that Japan one of the best armed nations in the world, engaged with more or less helplessness, sprawling China in a conflict which all but a few experts expected would last no more than six weeks. Yet it is still going, and opinion here is that Japan would be only too glad if something now would intervene to save her face and her present conquests before she cracks.

Japan's experience has demonstrated to each interested country as Germany and Italy, our foremost report, that the modern day high-speed "smash-and-run" cannot bring overnight conquest in spite of the airplane, the fast tank and other things now would intervene to save her face and her present conquests before she cracks.

Modern bombing planes could make raids on any of these areas and return home during the dark hours. Czechoslovakian guns could bombard Vienna without crossing the border.

To Europeans these figures are not the immaterial things they appear here. During the tense moments of the German-Czech clash, many British and some American sent their families out of Berlin.

A collection of English magazines that date from 1824 and feature the "War of the Roses" is being sold for $100.

"YES, BUT" SORT MYERS NEWS PRESS

This "yes-but" attitude which President Roosevelt hoots at isn't as bad as he paints it on the stump. On numerous occasions he has resorted to it himself. For example he vetoed the soldiers' bonus and several other bills providing benefits for veterans. If asked, "Why, Mr. Roosevelt, aren't you in favor of helping the veterans?" his reply would be, "Yes, but not in the form provided by these bills."

He believes, doesn't he, in the constitutional independence of the executive, legislative and judicial? "Yes, but" he feels that one branch is "thwarting the will of the people," it should be brought into line by the others and for that purpose he proposed his supreme court bill.

That bill, by the way, has three branches of government, branches forth plenty of supporters from his staunch supporters. Which it was pending many liberals, when asked, "Aren't you for Roosevelt's policies?" with a prompt reply, "Yes, but not that one."

The man on the street, in all sincerity, will "yes-but" many current New Deal policies. It crops up in practically all the answers. Do you favor federal relief for the unemployed? "Yes, but they ought to make 'em work, not lean on their shovels." Are you for the president in improving the lot of the working man? "Yes, but he is letting radical labor leaders go too far. He ought to get rid of that fellow Lewis."

Do you approve the president's policy of putting a curb on Big Business? "Yes, but he shouldn't plunge the whole country into hard times in order to punish a few of his enemies." As a whole, do you have confidence in President Roosevelt? "Yes, but not a lot of those crackpots he's got helping him run the government." Are you in favor of federal regulation to improve the farmer's position? "Yes, but not by taking away the farmer's independence."

Herbert Marshall Stars In Ritz Film

A new screen triumvirate of Herbert Marshall, Virginia Bruce and Mary Astor makes its first appearance in "Woman Against Woman," which comes to the Ritz Theatre for the next few days. Robert Siodmak directed and Edward Chodorov produced from his own screen play.
 Marshall has the role of the husband in this picture of Margaret Culkin Banning's national magazine story, "Enemy Territory," following his outstanding success in "Mad About Music." The story tells of a divorced man who takes his second wife to his home town where his first wife and child live. The second wife finds the town leagued against her and the first wife bent on making trouble, but her love for her husband gives her the strength to see the situation through.
 Miss Bruce plays the second wife, stepping directly from her role in "Yellow Jack." Miss Astor is the first wife.

COMFORTABLE WORK CLOTHES

Utility garments are among the clothing needs of the farmer. If he is to be healthy, efficient and happy, his clothing must be selected for comfort and service.
 Design of work garments is undergoing improvements in appearance and fit. It is possible for all types of individuals, be they tall and stout, short and slight, tall and thin, short and thin, or average.

Comfort is the first consideration in selection of work clothes. Ample freedom should be allowed for all body motions. Few garments are cut to fit the normal figure; instead of being sized to standardized body proportions.

More men's garments are being designed to suit the purpose which is planned for the person engaged in building activities. Baggy pockets are unsound, thereby increasing the cost as well as being more difficult to launder.

An outfit consisting of a work shirt and trousers is better. By using his combination a medium weight shirt can be used for summer and a heavier or warmer fabric for winter wear.

Service of work garments must be considered. Cotton fabrics are generally the most satisfactory because they are cool, easily laundered, and economical. A garment should be made of well-constructed, durable, and colorfast, completely shrank material.

Fabric should be closely woven of long regular cotton fibers and should contain an equal number of length and crosswise threads. Plain and twin weaves, as in denim, chambray, twill, and oxford, will prove most serviceable. Excessively heavy fabrics should be avoided because they are difficult to launder and less comfortable.

Undergarments should carry garments which give definite information on color and shrinkage. They should be colorfast and should be colorfast. A fabric should fade when laundered repeatedly, exposed to sunlight, and with perspiration. Complete shrinkage is necessary to produce garments for comfort and service.

Garments must be constructed to allow free motion. They should be made of strong, even stitching with strong, even stitching. Strong, even stitching with strong, even stitching.

Miss Mary M. Lucas Weds Felix E. Turner

Miss Mary M. Lucas, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Lloyd M. Lucas of Maitland, became the bride of Felix E. Turner of Hinsdale, Ill., yesterday in a quiet ceremony at the home of the bride's parents. The Rev. F. D. Gibson of Daytona Beach read the service in the presence of a few relatives and friends.
 The bride wore a white tailored traveling ensemble and yellow accessories.
 Through the rooms of the home, garden flowers were used to decorate for the occasion.
 Following the ceremony Mr. and Mrs. Lucas entertained the wedding guests with a delightful dinner. The guests included Mr. and Mrs. Felix E. Turner, honor guests, Mr. and Mrs. O. R. Edridge and Mrs. F. N. Edridge of Sanford, the Rev. and Mrs. F. D. Gibson of Daytona Beach, Mrs. C. L. Thomas of Orlando and Miss Ruth Lucas.
 The bride is employed as a dietitian in the sanitarium at Hinsdale, Ill. The groom is also connected with the same institution.
 After a tour of Florida and a visit with Mr. Turner's parents in Ethel Mo., Mr. and Mrs. Turner will return to Hinsdale where they will make their future home.

PERSONAL APPEARANCE

An attractive personal appearance is a desirable asset. Although one is frequently judged by his appearance, the effect on others is not as important as that on the individual. Self-confidence, assurance, and poise are gained when a person knows he is well dressed.
 A pleasing personal appearance requires health, correct posture, and carriage, normal weight, neatness, and an attractive and appropriate costume. Since posture and health are the fundamentals of making a good appearance, efforts should be made to build and protect health. Good nutrition, sufficient exercise, rest and fresh air are requirements for good health. Fortunately, faulty posture can be corrected if no structural defects are involved.
 Habits of good grooming are essential if a person is to make the most of himself. Cleanliness is fundamental to being well groomed. The skin should be thoroughly clean, free of odor, and exude the glow of health. Cosmetics carefully selected and skillfully applied may improve one's appearance but can never be substituted for healthy beauty. Well cared for hands aid in making a person attractive. Cleanliness, softness and well-manicured nails are essential of well-groomed hands.
 Hair, when clean, healthy and becomingly arranged, assists in improving one's appearance. The style best suited to the face and figure should be selected. Many may find that continuous use of beauty aids lessens the individuality of the person rather than increase it.
 Costume may be used to improve appearance. A design becoming to the individual should be selected, emphasizing a person's best points. The dress should be suitable to the individual and occasion. A well-fitted costume, clean, neat, and worn with harmonious accessories, gives a pleasing effect.
 Appearance of the costume is influenced by the undergarments. They should be adequate, immaculately clean, and well-fitted. A good foundation garment is essential with the firm-fitting garments of today.
 Of all costume accessories, the shoes probably affect the health and appearance most. Shoes must be correctly fitted and styled to afford support and comfort. An important factor to be considered in selecting shoes is appropriateness to the costume.
 Hats should be correctly fitted, clean, harmonious in color, and worn with the same straightness as the hair. The crown should be correctly placed and the brim should be correctly placed.

 offensive against Hankow Japanese aerial raiders left an estimated 150 killed and 500 injured in new attack on Canton.
 The sudden insurgent advance down Tsoel in Spain's civil war threatened to trap thousands of government troops at Mora de Rubielos, outpost of defense at Valencia. Sarrion was reported to have fallen last night.
 Meanwhile the Free City of Danzig appeared as the next German objective as a Nazi leader from the city conferred with British officials, apparently to arrange for a plebiscite on return to the Reich of the former provincial capital.
 The insurgents claimed their forces broke through on a sea front after a heavy bombing of Sarrion. They claimed an advance of six miles through territory which the loyalists have defended feverishly for several weeks.
 The capture of Sarrion will open the highway and railroad for an advance on Segorbe, where the insurgents are planning to join forces operating in the Sierra Espada for a drive to Sagunto and Valencia.
 The fall of Sarrion followed closely an announcement that Gen. Francisco Franco had taken personal charge of his insurgent eastern armies for the final drive on Valencia.
 Franco assumed personal command when his troops bogged down on the Valencia front. He is said to have ordered the withdrawal of enough troops and material from Catalonia and other fronts to regain his mastery along the sea coast.
 Gen. Jose Miaja is reported to have 200,000 loyalist troops in the Teruel Sagunto front, opposing less than 100,000 insurgents who have, however, greater artillery and air power.
 The loyalists were besieging Sagunto for a final defense of the defense of Valencia, and Franco wants to smash through before impetrable fortification, and machine gun emplacements can be built.

French 40-Hour Week Losing Ground Fast

PARIS, July 14.—(AP)—The 40-hour week, slogan that carried the People's Front into power and Socialist Leon Blum into the premier's office in 1936, is giving way to the needs of France's national defense.
 Eighty per cent of industry was estimated to be on the 40-hour week last fall. Now it is about 50 percent and falling fast. More than six months ago Blum warned his followers: "If you want to keep your 40-hour week, then you must restore production." Now Leon Jouhaux, French labor czar, has declared: "It will be difficult for us to keep our 40-hour week unless other countries also cut working time."
 The two champions of the shorter working week admitted, like most other French leaders, that Frenchmen must step up their industrial output if the nation is to keep her defenses on a level with Germany and Italy, where the 40-hour week is practiced in industries laboring for the armed forces.
 Premier Eduard Daladier, while affirming his "respect" for the shorter working week, modified the rigid 40-hour week into a 3,000-hour year. Time lost in strikes and shutdowns can be made up under this system.
 The first stage appearance of Will Rogers was at Keith's Union Square Theater in New York City in 1935.
 Safety pins were first devised by Walter Hunt in 1849.

Burgoo Is Found To Be Favorite Kentucky Recipe

LOUISVILLE, Ky., July 14.—There are few Kentuckians who haven't wrapped themselves around a helping of double helping of steam burgoo. You find it everywhere you go at farm auctions, picnics, church suppers, civic celebrations and more than anywhere else, political speaking.
 What is burgoo? One is tempted to reply: "everything."
 Various combinations of meats and vegetables are used, but one that has won long standing approval is the recipe of the La Fayette Hotel at Lexington, in the heart of the bluegrass country that even produced a horse named after the delicacy called R. Bradley's Burgoo King won the Kentucky Derby in 1932.
 Three gallons of burgoo, the normal recipe, would hardly take the edge from the hungry appetites of the hundreds who attend the bigger political speaking, though.
 At these one finds just the size of serving machines and several of them. And the more the more, the more the more, which the rural districts abound, add nearly every product of the Kentucky farm except tobacco in their eagerness to keep up with the Joneses.
 Another delicacy peculiar to the South, popular in Kentucky, is spoon bread.
 It seldom known looks like pudding and is served and eaten with a spoon, taking the place of other bread at a meal.
 Mrs. Sam McMeekin, wife of Louisville's safety director, included in a cook book she wrote ten years ago in collaboration with Mrs. Woods Fleming.
 Burgoo, Mrs. McMeekin's husband for years has been associated with the management of Churchill Downs, most recently as a world, has entertained hundreds of persons from various parts of the country at derby time.
 Every year there's a crown on hand for her Kentucky Derby breakfast on Derby Day.
 Her rule, she explains, is to "cook fifteen, except thirty, prepare for forty and have fifty."
 Here's a typical menu:
 100 Kentucky corn, fried apples, poon bread, sweet peas, peas, young salad, strawberry shortcake and "large cups of coffee."
HOW TO MAKE BURGOO
 Here's the famous recipe used at the La Fayette Hotel in Lexington:
 1 pound lean beef
 12 pounds veal
 4 pounds chicken
 4 gallons water
 6 onions
 1 head cabbage
 6 carrots
 16 tomatoes
 2 stalks celery
 6 ears fresh corn
 1 gallon canned tomatoes
 Put the beef, veal and chicken into the pot, add the water and boil until the meat is well done. Remove meat and cool it. Brains the onions in fat, in the pot until well done, but not browned. Chop the next fine and put in the pot. The cabbage, also chopped fine, follows. Then dump in carrots, turnips, celery and tomatoes and boil the concoction slowly for an hour and a half, adding water, if necessary, to make three gallons of mixture. When the burgoo is done, add the fresh corn, scraped from the cob, cook 30 minutes more, then season to taste with salt and red pepper.
 The number of servings from three gallons depends on the guests' capacity more than appetite, say veterans.
KENTUCKY SPOON BREAD
 This recipe comes from Mrs. Sam McMeekin, wife of the safety director of Louisville:
 3 cups milk
 3 eggs

Now Leon Jouhaux, French labor czar, has declared: "It will be difficult for us to keep our 40-hour week unless other countries also cut working time."
 The two champions of the shorter working week admitted, like most other French leaders, that Frenchmen must step up their industrial output if the nation is to keep her defenses on a level with Germany and Italy, where the 40-hour week is practiced in industries laboring for the armed forces.
 Premier Eduard Daladier, while affirming his "respect" for the shorter working week, modified the rigid 40-hour week into a 3,000-hour year. Time lost in strikes and shutdowns can be made up under this system.

Burgoo Is Found To Be Favorite Kentucky Recipe

LOUISVILLE, Ky., July 14.—There are few Kentuckians who haven't wrapped themselves around a helping of double helping of steam burgoo. You find it everywhere you go at farm auctions, picnics, church suppers, civic celebrations and more than anywhere else, political speaking.
 What is burgoo? One is tempted to reply: "everything."
 Various combinations of meats and vegetables are used, but one that has won long standing approval is the recipe of the La Fayette Hotel at Lexington, in the heart of the bluegrass country that even produced a horse named after the delicacy called R. Bradley's Burgoo King won the Kentucky Derby in 1932.
 Three gallons of burgoo, the normal recipe, would hardly take the edge from the hungry appetites of the hundreds who attend the bigger political speaking, though.
 At these one finds just the size of serving machines and several of them. And the more the more, the more the more, which the rural districts abound, add nearly every product of the Kentucky farm except tobacco in their eagerness to keep up with the Joneses.
 Another delicacy peculiar to the South, popular in Kentucky, is spoon bread.
 It seldom known looks like pudding and is served and eaten with a spoon, taking the place of other bread at a meal.
 Mrs. Sam McMeekin, wife of Louisville's safety director, included in a cook book she wrote ten years ago in collaboration with Mrs. Woods Fleming.
 Burgoo, Mrs. McMeekin's husband for years has been associated with the management of Churchill Downs, most recently as a world, has entertained hundreds of persons from various parts of the country at derby time.
 Every year there's a crown on hand for her Kentucky Derby breakfast on Derby Day.
 Her rule, she explains, is to "cook fifteen, except thirty, prepare for forty and have fifty."
 Here's a typical menu:
 100 Kentucky corn, fried apples, poon bread, sweet peas, peas, young salad, strawberry shortcake and "large cups of coffee."
HOW TO MAKE BURGOO
 Here's the famous recipe used at the La Fayette Hotel in Lexington:
 1 pound lean beef
 12 pounds veal
 4 pounds chicken
 4 gallons water
 6 onions
 1 head cabbage
 6 carrots
 16 tomatoes
 2 stalks celery
 6 ears fresh corn
 1 gallon canned tomatoes
 Put the beef, veal and chicken into the pot, add the water and boil until the meat is well done. Remove meat and cool it. Brains the onions in fat, in the pot until well done, but not browned. Chop the next fine and put in the pot. The cabbage, also chopped fine, follows. Then dump in carrots, turnips, celery and tomatoes and boil the concoction slowly for an hour and a half, adding water, if necessary, to make three gallons of mixture. When the burgoo is done, add the fresh corn, scraped from the cob, cook 30 minutes more, then season to taste with salt and red pepper.
 The number of servings from three gallons depends on the guests' capacity more than appetite, say veterans.
KENTUCKY SPOON BREAD
 This recipe comes from Mrs. Sam McMeekin, wife of the safety director of Louisville:
 3 cups milk
 3 eggs

Holy Land Terrorists Take Orders From Exiled El Mufti

JERUSALEM, July 14—(AP)—Haj Amin Effendi Al Husseini, Palestine's exiled leader, sits in a big house in Al-Zok, near Beirut, and stirs the Arab world with a long-handled spoon.

Reliable reports from Beirut say he has built up as well-financed an organization as he had before he stole away from Palestine last October, after hiding from the British authorities in the holy Mosque of Omar.

The Beirut stories tell of a flow of money to the house in Al-Zok, as the Mufti holds his court and carries on by remote control—the continuing terrorist activities in Palestine, where a royal commission is trying to shape a new partition plan.

The first scheme for dividing Palestine into Arab, Jewish and British-administered states pleased nobody.

For almost two months the commission, headed by Sir John Woodhead, has been interviewing government officials, private individuals and official representatives of the Jewish Agency, all in secret session. Arabs have refused to appear.

Meanwhile British troops are trying to keep the Mufti's terrorists on the run. Late in May thousands of soldiers moved secretly into the Galilee and Samaria districts, cutting a swath right down the center of Palestine, to keep the terrorists out of the villages and force them further north in order to eject them completely.

Construction of an electrified wire fence along the Lebanon, Syria and Palestine borders is proceeding rapidly to keep terrorists out.

Not only does Haj Amin control the Arab brigades who roam the Palestine hills, but he has begun to take an active part in Syrian, Iraqi and even Egyptian affairs.

One report tells of a meeting at Haj Amin's house at which it was decided to allocate $25,000 for the purpose of fostering anti-British and anti-Jewish propaganda in the Arab press in Arab countries; to establish new propaganda centers in Baghdad, Mosul and Basra; and to bring pressure to bear on the government of Iraq and Saudi Arabia to take a more active interest in Palestine.

From his house in Al-Zok, messengers go out over the Arab world to buy arms and ammunition, to recruit brigades, and to stir up trouble against the British.

There are stories which purport to give evidence that the funds at the Mufti's command are ample to keep the Syrian and Turkish frontiers open to get money, arms and ammunition into the Palestine hills, as well as to give himself a certain immunity.

Modern arms, such as light machine guns, automatic revolvers, and Belgian and Czechoslovakian rifles, usually are brought in by the sea route from European countries to Syrian or Lebanese shores. Some are smuggled into Palestine in small fishing smacks.

Rumor says the Mufti gets most of his money from India and Germany. The Italian funds he is believed to have received seem to have been cut off by the Anglo-Italian Agreement.

Lack of men who really can lead has handicapped the brigades, but of late, the full force of the Mufti's terror has been turned upon the warring Arab in Palestine, for Haj Amin does not want the partition commission to think a single Arab might be in favor of the scheme to divide the Holy Land.

Thus the Mufti, in exile, has built up for himself the most coveted position in the Arab world today. The French will not arrest him, declining to provoke an Arab uprising in North Africa; the local Syrian and Lebanese authorities will not touch him, because he has wormed his way into the higher circles.

He will be the man of the hour if Arab independence should become a reality in part or all of Palestine or if there should be a federation of Arab states.

Jaycees Sponsor Auto Races At New Smyrna Beach

NEW SMYRNA BEACH, July 14—Four racing drivers from all sections of Florida will compete in the Jaycees sponsored auto races on the beach here Sunday afternoon. The starter's flag will wave the cars away in the first event promptly at 2:45 o'clock. Entries in the two nine-mile, seven and a half mile, 15-mile and 22 1-2 mile events over the mile and a half course already have been received from Ocala, Jacksonville, St. Augustine, Yulee, Dinamore and New Smyrna Beach. Several others are expected before the deadline. There will be special races for fast and slow cars, a consolation race, an all-winners event and a free-for-all race. One of the most hotly-contested races is expected to develop between Al Wheatley of Jacksonville and Hugh Dixon of Yulee. Most of the drivers who competed in the Jacksonville races on July 10 are expected to be at the starting line here Sunday. Included among the crack drivers from whom entries already have been received, in addition to Wheatley and Dixon, are Ed Eng, A. Smith, Ellis Pierce, Thomas Sunday and Hick Jenkins, all of Jacksonville; Don Buttle, Dinamore; Buck Mathie and Jack Her-perished among the residents. Pointing to Lawrence, Mass., a city made up of mills and factories, Mr. Johnson declared that nearly all of the industries there depend for a living, were closed and signs "for sale", "space for rent" and similar other signs were prominently posted on the once thriving factories. He declared that some of the residents feel that the enactment of the wages and hours bill will revive these industries. Residents claim, he said, that the industries have moved into the South. To substantiate this belief, Mr. Johnson said that he noted that the factories in the Carolinas and other points below the Mason-Dixon line were in full operation.

Loyalists Stiffen Resistance To Offensive Of Insurgents

The tide of battle shifted today to the advantage of defensive forces in both China and Spain. The Japanese drive up the Yangtze River toward Hankow, temporary Chinese capital, appeared stalled, the Japanese having made no marked advance for three days.

The Chinese high command declared 45 Japanese war vessels had been sunk or badly damaged in the past two weeks. Although the statement lacked confirmation, Chinese planes were known to have attacked Japanese gunboats and several have been observed being towed down the river.

A bomb explosion today in the midst of an Arab bazaar crowd in David Street in the old city of Jerusalem led to rioting and brought British troops and police to the scene.

Six Arabs were killed and 40 wounded in the explosion and in the ensuing clash, adding to the tragic toll of Holy Land disorders which became more acute today.

Another explosion was followed by a riot in Safed and two Arabs were killed when police fired into a crowd. Arabs accused Jews of throwing the bomb.

Stiffened resistance of government forces in eastern Spain compelled the insurgents, striking eastward toward Valencia and the Mediterranean coast, to widen their front.

In the Euzkadi mountains north of Valencia, Government troops recaptured important positions before insurgents had time to consolidate.

The conference will close today and the London organization will hold its first meeting Aug. 3.

It will have four vice-chairmen and a paid director who will be authorized to approach various governments in connection with the migration of refugees from Greater Germany.

The London organization will cooperate with existing league of nations refugee bodies and deal solely with German refugees.

The countries represented at the conference here will send to it details concerning the number of refugees they can accept and the conditions under which they will be received.

Symes Is Named Head Of Celery Publicity Group

Officers Are Elected By Directors In Lakeland Meeting

Ray F. Symes was named president of the Florida State Celery Association at a meeting of the directors of the recently revived corporation in Lakeland Thursday morning.

On his return to the city, President Symes declared that little business other than election of officers had been transacted at the short meeting. One accomplishment, however, was the decision that 75 percent of the growers must sign contracts for the proposed celery advertising program for which the association was revived to sponsor. Under the old contract, 80 percent of the growers were required to sign before the program could be launched.

Mr. Symes stated that no other terms of the proposed contract were definitely decided upon. He indicated, however, that there was considerable discussion on various other phases.

Generally, he pointed out, those attending the meeting were in favor of the proposed program. Meetings will be called in the near future at which a contract will be definitely decided upon and a campaign started to get the signatures of growers, he said.

President Symes intimated that this time the proposed contract might differ from that in the five-year contract circulated in 1929.

He declared that he felt the advertising program would be more favorably accepted by the growers if the time were reduced to a single year.

County Agent C. R. Dawson, who has been lending his full support to the advertising program, was optimistic on his return from the meeting. Although there was not much definite action taken toward furthering the program, the directors did what they set out to do, he pointed out.

Mr. Dawson reported directors from the other producing centers were also in favor of the same program and had pledged support in a drive to secure the signatures of celery growers in the lower section of the state.

A. Neustenholzer of Sarasota was named vice president and W. M. Haynes of this city will continue to act as secretary for the association.

Attending from Sanford were County Agent Dawson, Secretary Director John Malsch, From Orvis-Haynes, President Symes and do. Directors Andrew Duda and James Wilson.

New Project Is Submitted For Hospital

Plans For Modern Institution Call For Outlay Of $70,000 As Sponsor's Share

Plans and specifications for a County PWA hospital project were mailed Thursday by E. F. Housholder, county attorney, to H. P. Cole, director of the PWA, in Atlanta, in a new effort to secure funds with which to build a hospital.

Mr. Housholder declared that he expected to receive information within two weeks indicating whether the project had been given initial approval.

Approved by the County Commission at the meeting on July 6, the project was ordered prepared by Mr. Housholder, Ben Moughton, and O. P. Herndon, county clerk.

The hospital will cost $127,000 according to tentative plans drawn up. Of this amount the PWA would make the County an outright grant of $57,000.

When the County is notified that tentative approval has been given the project, a freeholders bond election will be called to pass on the issuance of $70,000 worth of bonds. If freeholders approve, these bonds will be delivered to the government in return for a loan of like amount.

Pointing out that complete plans will be ready within 60 days after the project is approved, Mr. Housholder said work could begin on the hospital within four weeks after the allotment is made.

The structure will provide places for 47 beds and has provisions for all equipment to make it a modern and up-to-date hospital. It is estimated that 61 persons will be engaged in work on it each week, and that it will take approximately 30 weeks to complete it. A nurses home will be part of the building.

Mr. Housholder declared that although no definite site has yet been chosen for the hospital, the city has agreed to donate a desirable site.

JACKSONVILLE, July 15. - Florida's Old Age Assistance roll of eligibles is increasing at the rate of 165 per year, if the first year of the administration of the State Welfare Board is to be taken as a criterion.

Hughes Given Huge Ovation By Admirers

New York Pays Greatest Homage In Decade To Airmen Who Circled The Globe

Thousands Line Procession Route

Sportsman And Mates Are Showered From Skyscraper Windows

NEW YORK, July 15. (AP) - Howard Hughes and his four globe-circling companions rode triumphantly up lower Manhattan today, from the battery to the city hall, in the most tumultuous heroes' parade New York has held in a decade.

It was like a throwback to halcyon days when Jimmy Walker once again, when Lindbergh first flew the Atlantic, Edeby conquered the English Channel, Ilyed flew across the North Pole. The canyons of the financial district swayed with crowds of greeting to the intrepid aviator.

For seventeen minutes—the time it took the procession of cars to reach the city hall—downtown New York screamed its praise for the multimillionaire Texas sportsman and his mates and showered the men with tickertape, tore up and emptied from the windows of the world's greatest skyscrapers, telephone books, old stationery, letters, newspapers.

Clerks, stenographers, business men, brokers and bankers, thrilled by Hughes' amazing feat of circling globe in 3 days, 19 hours and 16 minutes, grew sentimental and delirious.

Police estimated there were along Broadway and Police Commission approximately 75,000 persons.

Incidentally, Lewis J. Valentine himself said there were probably 35,000 or 40,000 around the city hall.

Chase Says Story In Morning Paper Was Unauthorized

Declaring that a story appearing in a morning newspaper quoting a letter he was said to have written to Arthur Kudner, Inc., advertising agency for the Florida Citrus Commission, was not authorized, Randall Chase, secretary and treasurer of Chase and Company, today said the communication was a confidential matter between himself and Mr. Kudner and was not intended for publication.

Mr. Chase was quoted as explaining his company's views on the "color-added" process of dyeing fruit by means of which the appearance of the fruit is made more attractive and over which a great deal of controversy has raged among citrus growers and shippers.

There are two schools of thought existing among fruit men regarding the process. One insists that color-added makes the product more marketable and increases its demand; the other contends that the process does not add any value to the fruit for the consumer, that color-added does not help the "keeping" quality or flavor of the fruit and that it is an additional expense to the grower.
