Sanford lowers taxes, a little

By Nick Pfiffner
 HERALD STAFF WRITER

SANFORD - The Sanford City Commission Monday will go through steps toward approval of the fiscal 1998/99 budget. This point was reached as the result of a number of budget sessions and input from city department heads.

The millage rate has been proposed for 6.87, a fraction lower than the present year, which is 6.8759. City Commissioner Brady Lessard commented that the amount, while minor, is one of the first reductions in the millage rate in many years, and projected that the rate might be lowered more during future years.

The millage rate number is multiplied by the assessed evaluation of property, per $1,000, minus homestead exemption if applicable.

At that level, with the $25,000 homestead exemption, an owner of a home in Sanford valued at $100,000

Killer, or killers subject of intense search by deputies

By Russ White
 HERALD STAFF WRITER

WEST OF GENEVA - A killer - or killers - who brutally beat to death a couple and their 11-year-old girl here early Wednesday morning is the subject of an intensive search by the law.

Authorities are not revealing how much they know or identifying any suspects in the savage murder of Daniel Privett (33), Robin Elaine Razor (32) and Christine Razor, who recently graduated from the fifth grade at Hamilton Elementary School in Sanford.

They do have serious leads, however, and are grateful to those who have and continue to provide pertinent information. The Florida Department of Law Enforcement has provided its crime scene unit to work with the Seminole County Sheriff's Office in a 24-hour major crime operation. The FBI would enter the picture if interstate flight was suspected.

By Tony Tinsle
 HERALD CORRESPONDENT

WINTER SPRINGS - In a scene reminiscent of the Boston Tea Party, roughly 20 area residents, many representing specific communities, gave their opinions about what's been going on in Winter Springs during the last couple of months. This occurred at the most recent city commission meeting.

People spoke to a standing room only crowd. The issues included: the mayor's lawsuit, as well as the mayor's attempt to fire City Attorney Bob Guthrie; the proposed pay raise for commissioners, which is actually an expenditure allowance to them; and the Tusawilla Lighting and Beautification Project with the Tusawilla Beautification Board of Directors.

Some memorable comments included Philip Ray's view of the current commission. "Classic pettiness disappeared for a while, then returned. Our mayor has the right to hire or fire the city attorney. You, the commission, get off his back and get off the personal ego trip and do what's right."

Resident and businessman Tom Lenzini, owner of Broadway Gymnastics said, "When I see government wasting my money, I get upset. I'm told you used $10,000 of my money to fight this lawsuit against the mayor."

Tim Johnson asked the question, "I thought you all agreed that the mayor could get a legal opinion."

Johnson went on to ask, "I hope you are willing to spend about $1,200 a piece. Now I hear you have voted yourselves a pay raise. I thought you knew when you got the job that the pay was $350 a month."

On a different note Marjorie Gray said, "It is time that the commission realized that the Tusawilla Homeowners Association does not represent all of the homeowners in the area."

'I humbly ask that we end the strife up here.'

--Mayor Paul Partyka

On a nostalgic note, former Winter Springs Mayor Phil Kulbes had several things to say.

"I was going to talk on two topics this evening, the proposed appeal and pay raise. I urge the commission to listen to the people. They are the voice of Winter Springs."

On the Tusawilla Lighting and Beautification Project, John Sargent said, "I am opposed to

Trail association to hold TGIF hike next Friday

By Dawn Jensen
 HERALD CORRESPONDENT

OVIEDO - As the heat of summer dies down, leaving like an unwanted house guest, the cooler weather brings new outdoor activity.

Many of us who grew up in the county school system will remember the first taste of wilderness at the environmental center as we scuttled out of the yellow school bus with our bag lunches eager for the afternoon mud walk.

Hiking is not quite as dirty, but you can rediscover what had been so fascinating years before. The Central Florida chapter of the Florida Trail Association is holding a Geneva Wilderness TGIF Hike, Friday, July 31. The public is invited to meet at the Geneva Wilderness parking lot at 6 p.m. The leisure hike will last about 1-1/2 hours followed by a reward of a cold drink or food at the Black Hammock Fish Camp in Oviedo. That beats a bag lunch any day.

The Florida Trail Association, founded in 1996, is an organization of volunteers dedicated to building and maintaining hiking trails for the public while emphasizing wilderness ethics and teaching environmental awareness.

IN BRIEF

County rebuilds homes

GENEVA - Five of the homes destroyed in the early June Geneva area fires will be rebuilt, courtesy of Seminole County Government and Mennonite Disaster Services. Recently, the county earmarked $200,000 for the materials and equipment rental while the Mennonites will provide the labor. Construction could begin within months.

The five homes are owned and occupied by citizens considered at a low or very low income level.

The funds will be allocated to the residents' homes as loans that will be "forgiven" in 10 years, as long as they remain in that home for the duration of the loan. The money, $230,144, will come from a previously set-aside fund designated for housing reconstruction.

Resuming CR46A

SANFORD - A proposal has been advanced to the Seminole County Commission to rename County Road 46A (25th Street west of Sanford) to H.E. Thomas Jr. Parkway. The county has reportedly polled 139 property owners. Of the 75 responses returned, 43 were in favor of the name change and 32 opposed it.

The matter is scheduled for discussion Monday, July 27 during the Sanford City Commission workshop beginning at 3:30 p.m., and scheduled for action by the Seminole County Commission at a 9 a.m. meeting on Aug. 11.

Republican women

ALTAMONTE SPRINGS - The Republican Women's Club of Seminole will hold its monthly meeting Saturday, July 25 at the Bombay Bicycle Club in Altamonte Springs beginning at 11:30 a.m.

Signs to warn anglers about fishing restriction

By Nick Pfiffner
 HERALD STAFF WRITER

SANFORD - People who fish the waters of Lake Monroe say the black crappie is not only one of the most plentiful species, but it is among the best tasting. It has been said that those who fish for food seldom toss them back simply because they are shorter than what may be desired.

Now however, the Florida Game and Fresh Water Fish Commission (GFC) has established a new rule which went into effect on July 1, which they hope will be heeded by fishermen. It requires that "no person kill or possess any black crappie on Lake Monroe less than 12 inches in total length." In effect, toss 'em back if they aren't a foot long or larger. The purpose of the restriction, according to the GFC is to create a quality black crappie fishery on Lake Monroe.

At the present time, the rule isn't being stringently enforced, mostly due to the fact that fishermen have not been adequately informed of the restrictions. As a result, the GFC is asking the city of Sanford for permission to erect a number of signs informing the public of the restriction. Once the signs have been put into place, citations will be handed out to violators.

Approval from the Sanford City Commission has been requested regarding suggested locations for signs. At various boat ramps, the GFC wants

Cmdr. Hasson signs off today at the SPD

Today is Commander William Hasson's last official day with the Sanford Police Department. He is retiring after 25 years of service and being grammatically correct. "If you can work Sanford, you can work anywhere in the U.S.," Hasson once said about the diversity of assignments he and the other SPD officers experience each day.

Sgt. Darrel Presley of the SPD said that Hasson is "someone I admired and looked up to. He's articulate and athletic and has been physical and training coordinator. He runs every day. He's a good guy and we're going to miss him."

"Commander Hasson has been a real professional and set an example for those who follow on the force," said Seminole County Chief Deputy Sheriff Steve Harriett, who was a former Sanford Police Chief.

Harriett and Presley said Hasson has been a no-nonsense law enforcement man who was a stickler for detail. He demanded all written reports be legible and grammatically correct. He told those in his command what he expected. No one was left guessing.

The SPD has a retirement party planned for Oct. 5. Kissing cousins this. I think a recount is in order." Several Beautification Board Members were concerned when they thought that the board was being disbanded. Their fears were soon alleviated.

As Carol Morrison, a member of the Beautification Board said, "We work for the betterment of the City of Winter Springs."

On pay raises for commissioners, Tom

O'Connell, Tuscawilla Homeowner's Association president said, "I want to go on record as supporting the pay raise."

Wayne Nelson commented on the mayor's lawsuit, "Why are we paying tax dollars on this. You lost, that's it."

But perhaps the most profound statement came from Winter Springs Mayor Paul Partyka who said, "I humbly ask that we end the strife up here."

Murder

violent and vicious attack." Sheriff Don Ealinger said Thursday, "It's all the more egregious because of what happened to a defenseless 11-year-old girl." Christine Razor was described by her school principal, Nan Parker, as "a sweet little girl," who enjoyed singing and was in the school chorus.

The whodunit at Cleck Circle west of Geneva has scared the bejebebers out of those who live in the area. The obvious suspects are persons who were familiar with one of more of the victims. But who are they? And why would they kill these people?

Ealinger said the triple homicide was not an act of random violence nor was it a case of domestic violence. He gave the grisly details of what happened but did not say what type of weapon or instrument the killer used. He called the act "extreme inhuman behavior."

Privett and Razor's other child, a 14-year-old girl, was at the sheriff's office Thursday and has been with victims' advocates and counselors. She was with friends the night of the slayings. She peeked down from the second floor of the sheriff's office Thursday during Ealinger's briefing on the lawn below.

Reports that Privett or Razor may have had an arrest record are circulating but the sheriff's department said today that this could not - or would not - be confirmed. Privett has worked for Strickland Drywall Inc. for eight years. His employer, James Strickland, said he was a hard-worker who never complained.

Chief Deputy Sheriff Steve Harriet urged anyone who had information that would help the investigation to call either the Sheriff's Office (330-6800) or Crime Line (423-TIPS). He said Crime Line offers as much as $1,000 for tips that lead to the arrest of the killer.

In the meantime, folks who live in or around Geneva are baffled at all that's happened the last few months - the wildfire, followed by the killing of popular Sheriff's Deputy Eugene Gregory and the Cleck Circle tragedies. Some say the area is cursed and that bad spirits and devils are walking the streets.

"We used to have T-shirts that read, 'Where in the World is Geneva,' because people use to look at us so blankly," said Margie Burke of the Geneva Historical Society. "Now, I'm afraid everyone knows."

Taxes

Continued from Page 1A would pay $515.25 in city taxes, a $75,000 home would cost the owner $343.50 in taxes, and the owner of a $50,000 home would pay $171.75. This of course, would be increased through the addition of school and other taxes over which the city has no authority.

The difference brought about through the slight reduction in the millage would basically mean the owner of the $100,000 home would pay 44 cents less next year, and the owner of the home valued at $50,000 would pay approximately 15 cents less.

At Monday's meeting, the commission will be called on to (1) adopt the "proposed" budget, (2) set the proposed millage rate, (3) announce the roll-back millage rate, and (4) set the date, time and place of the first public hearing for the tentative budget.

The proposed millage rate, once adopted by the commission, could be reduced, but not raised.

The current year rollback rate, determined by the Seminole County Tax Assessor's office is 0.0028, which would be the level required in order to draw in the amount of money the city received through taxation last year.

With the suggested proposed millage, the city would obtain slightly over $7.96 million, as compared to slightly over $6.97 million received at the same level during this 1997/98 fiscal year.

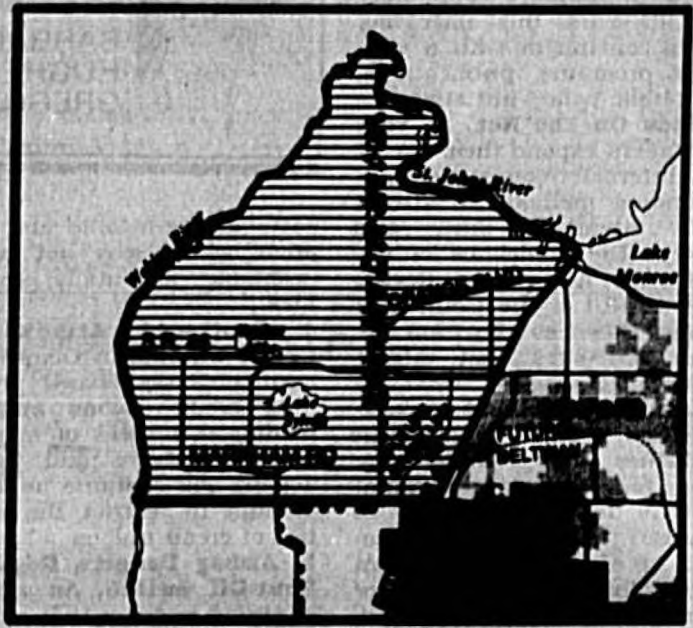

The time, date and place for formal budget hearings will be Monday, Sept. 14, at 7 p.m., in the city hall commission chambers, if approved at this commission meeting.

Updating consumers on trends, movements

1. Office Of Consumer Affairs Closes. After many months of uncertainty, the U.S. Office of Consumer Affairs officially closed in January. For more than 25 years, this office has served consumers with a variety of programs, publications, and public policy initiatives.

2. Kids On The Net. As your consumers expand their use of the Internet, companies are expanding methods to attract their attention, time, and money. The guidelines of the Children's Advertising Review Unit (CARU) of the Council of Better Business Bureaus require web sites that attract children to disclose what information they collect and exactly how it would be used. The guidelines also emphasize the need for acquiring parental consent and require sites to disclose their marketing motives in a language kids can understand. Many consumer advocates believe stronger federal regulations are needed.

3. Deregulation of Utilities. More than 30 states are moving toward electric-utility deregulation with varying speeds. This will allow business customers and households to select their electricity service provider. As this market becomes more competitive, concerns exist about service availability and costs in low-income and rural areas which may not be as profitable for utility companies.

CONSUMER FOCUS

4 Continued Attacks On Credit Unions. In October, an injunction was issued prohibiting credit unions from extending their field of membership. Legislative and judicial actions will continue as banks attempt to restrict the activities of credit unions.

5. Airbag Dangers Result In Shut-Off Switch. As a result of strong evidence that air bags can cause extensive harm to children, and small adults, when riding in the passenger seat, Federal regulations now allow for a key-operated shut-off device for air bags.

6. Global Consumer Movement. Customers International and many local consumer groups throughout the world are expanding their efforts and visibility. Topics under scrutiny include food safety, safe drinking water, unfair advertising, financial services, unsafe products, health care services and costs.

7. Fees. While the availability and competition among ATM operators expands, fees also increase. Surcharges and other fees are becoming more common despite legislative actions to limit these charges.

8. Financial Service And The Poor. Check-cashing outlets, pawnshops and rent-to-own businesses are attracting more and more customers. This "alternative financial sector", with its high fees and exorbitant interest rates, continues to expand among low-income consumers and others.

9. Expanded Consumer Regulations. Expanded credit reporting rights and auto leasing disclosure rules are two of the new regulations addressing changing societal trends.

10. Electronic Benefits Transfer. As of January 2, 1999, the Treasury Department plans to make all federal payments--Social Security, veterans benefits, welfare--electronically. The proposal may push many consumers into using unregulated, unsupervised financial services, such as check-cashing outlets. About 10 percent of people currently receiving benefits do not have bank accounts.

Zoo hosts Black Tie

By Nick Pfeiff
HERALD STAFF WRITER
SANFORD - Personnel at the Central Florida Zoological Park this week have been running at a fever pitch. Preparation is being finalized for this Saturday night's Black Tie on the Wild Side event.

The ninth annual fund-raising extravaganza will be held at the Omni Rosen Hotel, 9840 International Drive in Orlando, from 7 p.m. until midnight.

Rather than the usual suggested black tie regalia, persons planning to attend are being told to wear something wild, with an Asian or animal motif, or with the black tie but "as wild as you want to be." Zoo spokeswoman Andrea Farmer said there will be a wild side costume contest with prizes awarded for the most creative attire.

Farmer explained that guests will embark on this Asian adventure with an animal encounter, reception and silent auction featuring wild gifts, entertainment packages, original wildlife art, a Land Rover discovery, jet ski and trailer, and Kawasaki Vulcan VN 800 motorcycle.

The expedition continues with an Oriental dinner, program, music and dancing.

Individual tickets are $125 per person and corporate tables of 10 are $1,750. For additional information or reservations phone the zoo at 323-4450, extension 112.

signs three by three feet in size warning of the restriction. In order to reach anglers who may sit along the shoreline as they fish, plans are to have smaller signs, one foot square, at various locations along with roadway adjacent to the lake. They would be placed on posts extending four feet above the ground, every 500 feet from the north end of French Avenue, (U.S. Highway 17-92) eastward beyond Fort Mellon Park to Mellonville Avenue.

The request for the signs is scheduled for discussion during the work session meeting of the Sanford City Commission, Monday, July 27. It is also scheduled on the regular 7 p.m. meeting agenda for possible approval as part of the overall consent agenda.

Guys, you're messing up your relationships

Last week in this column we laid some hard lines on the ladies. Now it is time for you guys to heed the wake-up call on how you're helping to mess up your relationships.

Most of us had lousy training in how to create a good relationship. Our education came from our parents, who, if they stayed together, often did so "for the sake of the children", or from financial necessity, or because it was easier to stay in a bad situation they understood than to risk having no relationship. Of course, we supplemented our training with romantic movies and bad novels to create an absolutely ridiculous image of what to expect from a relationship and how to relate to our partners.

Let's look at some of the ridiculous games guys play to win the "girl of your dreams" (and often later spend enormous time, energy and money getting away from).
Some guys love to play "Sugar Daddy" to impress their lady. It might work real well for awhile because many girls love to be wined and dined. But the bad news is that when the money runs out, so will she.

Workers sweeping diners toward door

DEAR ABBY: Last night my boyfriend and I ate at a very good Chinese restaurant. The sign says it closes at 9 p.m. We arrived at 8:45, were seated and ordered a small meal.

While we were starting the soup, the server brought the main course. As we began the main course, he brought the fortune cookies and the bill and placed them on the table. He said they were closing the cash register and asked us to pay immediately. At the same time, another employee began vacuuming around us and the other couple who were still eating.

Abby, it's a large restaurant, and they could have started cleaning at the other end of the room. The woman of the other couple asked them if they'd please turn off the vacuum, and was told they were closing. Meanwhile, my boyfriend and I paid for a meal we couldn't enjoy. Had we known they would rush us, we could have ordered the meal to go.

We are late eaters, so we usually ask when we enter a restaurant if they're still serving. Are restaurant closing times generally considered the same as store closings when customers should be out the door at a designated time? What do you think, Abby?

DISAPPOINTED DINER
IN SAN CARLOS, CALIF.
DEAR DISAPPOINTED: Don't fault the employees at the Chinese restaurant. The posted closing time is just that, a closing time that should be honored just as customers should abide by the closing time of a department store.

Next time you must eat late, in consideration for the restaurant owner and employees, select a restaurant with a later closing time - or order take-out.

DEAR ABBY: In response to the letters in your column about domestic abuse - one from a divorce lawyer in Florida and another from Attorney General Tom Udall of New

FAMILY COUNSELOR

MARY BALK

Everybody has difficult periods in their lives, and if your relationship is built on the "Sugar Daddy" theme, you are going to be abandoned by your wife or lover just when you need her most.

Another big mistake men make is getting your ego fed by marrying a woman who is totally dependent on you for her physical, emotional and financial well-being. The time will come when you get tired of carrying her, but she'll still be totally dependent on you. The reality is that equal relationships are the best thing that ever happened to men, but many of you are scared of them. Get Over It!

Don't do the "Handsome

Prince" number and get on your white horse to rescue the little damsel in distress. It's nice to help people when they are having problems, but if you build a relationship on it, you're carrying it too far. In the "Handsome Prince" game, when you fall off your white horse (illness, accident, lost job), your little damsel is very likely to resent your "failure" and start looking for another prince to rescue her.

Finally, skip the "trophy wife" unless you plan to have her bronzed and placed on the mantle. They're real high maintenance, both financially and physically, and they're always available to the highest bidder.

The awful truth is that women do get older, heavier and more wrinkled as the years go on. SO DO YOU! So develop your sense of humor, find the important values in the lady you choose, and avoid the "NO fool like the old fool" label.

ADVICE

ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

Mexico - I am sure they both mean well, but domestic abuse is not cut-and-dried.

Yes, we need to protect women from batterers and free them from arrest when they defend themselves. But one-sided laws that protect only women (battered by men) are just quick-fix schemes - "sound bite" laws.

Blanket protection for women doesn't address gay and lesbian relationships (like it or not, they do exist - and they, too, have batterers). Women are also batterers and abusers, not just in lesbian relationships, but also in straight relationships. Men, too, can be victims.

Laws against domestic violence should focus on the abuser, whoever the abuser is - male or female, straight or gay, rich or poor. Law enforcement and politicians should be trained to understand all the possibilities, and then take educated action to end abuse. We already have too many laws and too many police. What we really need now is more respect for both - and for one another.

STEPHEN RANDOLPH, SAN FRANCISCO

DEAR STEPHEN: You make a good point. However, I believe the laws are written the way they are because the vast majority of spousal battery cases involve men abusing women. After reading your letter, I would concur that the laws should be amended so that all batterers, regardless of gender, should be liable for their actions.

First Baptist Church of Geneva: Reaching out to the community

By Michelle R. Fox

GENEVA - Pastor Daryl Fermenter of the First Baptist Church in Geneva wants the community to know how much the membership cares about its community.

"I think that non-church goers often misunderstand that pastors and churches really do care about both individual and corporate needs within the community," Pastor Fermenter stated. "It is our intention to convey that by reaching out and getting to know people where they are, and we are open to any suggestions on how to do that better."

The First Baptist Church in Geneva is located on Main Street, right next to the Seminole County Sheriff's Station Office. Sunday School begins at 9 a.m., followed by Morning Worship at 10:15 a.m. Sunday Evening Service takes place at 8 p.m., and on Wednesday night there is a youth program for sixth through twelfth graders at 6 p.m., which is led by youth pastor Dale Griffin, who also serves as minister of music for the church. Adult mid-week Prayer Meeting and Choir Practice begins at 7 p.m. on Wednesday night. There is also a special senior adult activity every last Thursday of the month at 11:30 a.m., which varies from guest speakers to enjoyable outings, depending on the month. Also, for many years now, the First Baptist Church has hosted the Easter Sunrise Service on a portion of their property which sits on Lake Geneva, though the service format is a joint effort of all the community churches.

The First Baptist Church was built in 1875, and is a part of the Southern Baptist Conference as well. The original building still serves as a fellowship hall and is located directly across the street from the new church building, which was built in 1985 and seats 250 to 300 people. The church plans to eventually remodel the older buildings as funds permit.

When asked about the vision Pastor Fermenter has for the church he said, "We are currently in the process of examining what we need to do differently to welcome more people into our church."

While he strongly believes there is a need to keep good traditions going, he also feels that it is important to reach people where they are, and there by make it easier for them to understand and appreciate what church is all about: caring and helping people find their purpose in Christ.

For more information about the church you may contact the pastor at (407)349-8411.

Genesis is more than chronology

By Rabbi Mordechai Sliwa
CONGREGATION BETH EL OF CENTRAL FLORIDA

In our own age, and for the last several hundred years, learned men and women have argued about the meaning of the Creation story. Are these tales of a seven-day unfolding of the cosmos meant as the Biblical rendition of history, the record of how Creation actually happened? Or are the opening chapters of Bereshit (Genesis) intended to teach something other than history?

The question is of more than merely academic relevance. Several court cases around the United States seek to gain equal time in the classroom to teach "Creationism," the Biblical account of the origin of life and the universe. Proponents of Creationism maintain that the narrative in the Bible is divinely inspired in a literal way. They therefore read of the marvels in the Torah as a fundamentalist light-insisting that to accept the divinity of the Torah means to accept it as a historical record that is literally true. Their approach offers the comfort of certainty, the clarity of simplicity. It also, however, reduces Judaism's most sacred book to the status of an ancient newspaper—relating all the news that's fit to print.

There is another, equally religious way of understanding the Torah and of perceiving its sanctity. Rather than reading the Torah simply as a chronicle of ancient events, a listing of facts (what was created on which day), we can understand the Torah as Judaism's founding statement about the meaning of human, and specifically, Jewish life and community.

While perhaps less successful in compelling acceptance of biblical "facts," the strength of this view is that it does recognize the concerns and priorities of the Torah as primarily religious and spiritual. The Torah doesn't focus on lists of events so much as on what life and history reveal about the Creator of the universe and our brit (covenant) with God.

The Torah tells us how to live, not merely how others have lived. No less an authority than Rabbi (11th Century France), the pre-eminent medieval commentator on the Bible and the Talmud, took such a stand on the story of Creation. Rashi insists that the only way to understand biblical Creation is midrashically (according to rabbinic interpretation). A superficial, historical reading of Creation would miss the point of the story. Such a literal approach to the Biblical tale is, in Rashi's words, "astounding." Instead, he encourages us to admit that "Scripture does not teach us everything about the order of the earlier or the later acts of Creation."

The narrator of the Torah is not interested in recounting facts. What captures the Torah's attention and what remains significant is not facts in themselves, but what those facts mean for our lives and our communities.

To paraphrase Albert Einstein, imagination is more important than knowledge. Imagination, the ability to connect facts into meaningful patterns, the willingness to transcend an "is" into an "ought," has characterized our traditions at their best. Jewish traditions, starting with the Creation story, provide a way of reading the world not simply as a random collection of phenomena, but as a coherent collection of morality, holiness and hope. Out of that vision of meaning and coherence, a society committed to establishing God's sovereignty, one which can implement God's love, becomes possible. The task awaits: the reading is possible.

'The patience of Job' - a commodity

By Dr. William Robert (Shel) Fisher
FIRST BAPTIST CHURCH MARIAN WOODS

Is patience "a commodity"? Yes! "Something useful or valuable" is the definition given the word "commodity" by Webster.

Job was a man with massive problems; but Job was the man who gave the world the valuable, encouraging expression: "The patience of Job." Job's patience—an endurance and powerful characteristic—was a "patience faith in God." Whatever touched his life was met with this principle.

Sadly, many with problems from the cradle to the grave and from the White House to the basement. Many difficulties and problems that confront people today call for what Job had: "a patient faith in God."

Job's faith was phenomenal

Job immediately held to God's promise which states: "Ye shall shall deliver them in all tribulation; yes, in even these shall we not touch thee" (Job 5:19).

A host of trials beset Job

Tribles beset Job and Job of perseverance. Perseverance is to go on in America that our family has enough room for them. Geneva, cities, and public storage buildings are full. Many credit cards are charged to the max. In answering more and more personal questions. Think of it which would it be like to live like Job?

In the story of Job—the greatest of all the stories of the Bible—the 100-year-old, wealthy man of Uz lost everything he owned in a matter of days. He lost his wealth, his family, and his health. He was left with nothing but his faith in God.

What was Job's response to this devastating, continued trial in Uz? Thus, he would be brought to financial victory again by his God. God gave Job twice as much as he had before (Job 42:10).

Tribles beset Job: Loss of Family

They who have lost children can sympathize with Job. Job's ten children were all killed in one day. As Job's children were having dinner at his eldest son's house, "there came a great wind" (storm) which destroyed the house, killing all ten of them at one time.

Think of losing all of your children in one day. What had Job said one year?

Job's response came immediately in these words:

"Naked I came from my mother's womb, and naked I shall return there. The Lord gave and the Lord has taken away. Blessed be the name of the Lord" (Job 1:21).

Tribles beset Job: Loss of Health

Job experienced great debility and heavy pain from boils that erupted over his entire body. There was no medical assistance. To alleviate the torturous itching, Job scraped the body with a broken piece of pottery.

When pain is continuous and health appears to be gone, all else seems to have succumbed. Job's response was: "I will not put my hand to my mouth, lest I become a prey, lest I be taken away as a prey, lest I be taken away as a prey" (Job 13:7).

Job's response was: "I will not put my hand to my mouth, lest I become a prey, lest I be taken away as a prey, lest I be taken away as a prey" (Job 13:7).

One day Pete will come up Roses - but not very soon

Pete Rose has as much right to be in the Hall of Fame as Bud Selig has to be the Commissioner of Baseball. The game can get along nicely at present without either one of them - especially Selig.

Sure, Rose was a great ballplayer. He compiled the right stats, he hustled and helped his team win pennants. What he did on the field should have him enshrined already.

The problem is that he also broke rules, was occasionally mean-spirited, got into trouble with the Feds and wound up in jail. He was a colorful character who lacked character. He told one of his players to quit reading the Bible in the clubhouse. He did a snow job on the press. He left his wife and kids.

He got banned from baseball by Commissioner Bart Giamatti and kept out by Fay Vincent. Selig came along and has said he sees no reason for Rose to be eligible for the Hall of Fame. This is like Cher saying Madonna can't sing. Who really cares what Bud Lite thinks or says. Except in this case he has a point.

Actually, the Rose/Hall of Fame controversy is a waste of time. Big deal that he isn't in. Big deal if he makes it one day as will probably be the case. Some writers have tried their best to get Pete on the Hall of Fame ballot but the Hall and the commissioner's office keep saying no. Once he gets on the ballot, he's in. Pete will be 70.

Sadly, Bill Veck had passed away before he made the Hall at Cooperstown. Leo Durocher was gone, too. "Fee Wee" Reese and Phil Rizzuto made it by the skin of their Rawlings Playmakers. Gil Hodges still isn't in and he sure should be. Larry Doby made it this year, which is grand. Let's celebrate his entry and be still about Rose.

Baseball is in the midst of a beautiful comeback, which is threatened only by Bud Lite's presence and too much hulla-balloo about who's who in the Hall of Fame. The good guys get there and so do some bad guys who had great stats. None of the electors seem to care about the integrity of the candidates.

Two of the guys who can't get in because neither the Baseball Writers of the Veterans Committee are not allowed to vote for them are Shoeless Joe Jackson and Pete Rose. A good argument is that if Rose gets elected, Jackson should go in with him. I'd certainly buy that.

What we should all do now is enjoy some of the players on the field at the turn of the century. Kerry Wood, the sensational Chicago Cubs pitcher, has been the most impressive newcomer in the game. His 20-strikeout game was a beaut and each time he pitches there is excitement. He beat Atlanta's Greg Maddux this past week.

Chipper Jones, the Atlanta third baseman from nearby Pierson, keeps getting better each season and is a bonafide All-Star. He was a No. 1 draft choice in the country, the first ever from Florida. He runs well and hits for power.

Power is, of course, the name of the game in 1998 as Mark McGwire, Ken Griffey Jr., Sammy Sosa, Greg Vaughn, Andres Galarraga and Albert Belle all threaten to hit 50, perhaps 60 home runs. There are enough mediocre pitchers in this expansion season to enhance their chances.

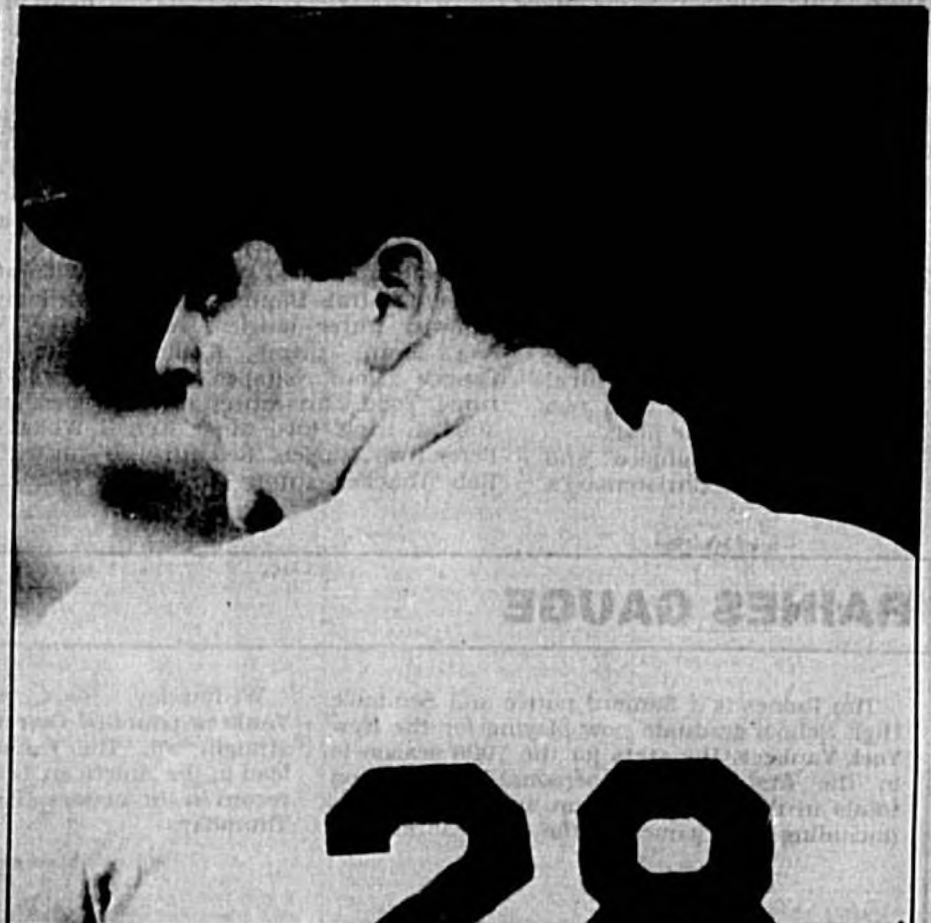

Pete Rose hit a few homers in his career but was known for his one and two base hits and a few more triples than McGwire figures to accumulate. He was fun to watch but now finds himself watching from a distance. The lords of baseball went goofy when he showed up at a park where his son was in spring training camp. Pete was asked to share some wisdom with the young players, and he obliged.

There wasn't much baseball could do to punish him anymore so they scolded Pete and told him to stay away from the players. He did a baseball card show at Cooperstown a few years ago right when the Hall of Fame ceremonies were taking place. The

Nothing was easy in the Sanford Men's Softball League Thursday night.

All four games went down to the wire with three one-run games that went closer to determining the outcome of the season's standings and playoff seedings.

Matthews pulled out two runs in the bottom of the seventh to take a 13-12 win over Cactus Bob's. The teams slugged it out in the first when Matthews took a 5-4 lead.

Cactus Bob's started the slugging with Mack Thorne led off with a single and Ron Wirth followed with another. After a fielder's choice, Jack Castelow singled as did Justin Edwards and Cactus Bob's was up 4-0, but Matthews slugged back.

After one out, Jason Flannagan and Jamie Pitzer singled and Tom Wilks whacked a three-run homer to close the gap.

Mickey Cogburn followed with a single and scored on Jobey Gorman's double to tie it up and Stephen Lugerling singled him home.

Neil Dougherty singled and scored for Cactus Bob's in the second, but Lugerling's two-run single in the third put Matthews ahead for good.

Brantly Brumley's two-run single started a furious rally for Cactus Bob's that came up one-run short.

For Cactus Bob's: Mack Thorne (single, run), Ron Wirth (two singles, two runs), Steve Woodley (single, two runs), Jack Castelow (single), Brantly Brumley (double, two runs), Justin Edwards (two singles, run), Don Basti (run), Brad Hylton (run), Neil Dougherty (single, two runs).

For Matthews: Tony Taylor (double, run), Jason Flannagan (two singles, three runs), Jamie Pitzer (two singles, triple, three runs), Tom Wilks (homer, run), John Lugerling (single), Mickey Cogburn (three singles, two runs), Jobey Gorman (double, two singles, two runs), Stephen Lugerling (three singles).

Papa John's survived a seventh-inning rally to down Bussard Lawn, 12-11.

Papa John's jumped out to a 3-0 lead in the first.

Noy Rivers led off with a single and, following a walk, B.J. Osborne doubled in a run. Frankie Phillips followed with a two-run single, but Bussard's fought back with one in their half of the inning. With two outs, Kirk Winterhoff doubled and was singled home by Dave Johnson to make it 3-1.

Then, Bussard's exploded in the second with an eight-run inning.

Steve Barnes and Steve Bussard singled and scored on Matt Mehalke's two-run double. After two more reached base, Winterhoff slammed a three-run shot over the fence to give Bussard's the lead.

Johnson and Duane Goemle also scored to make it 9-3, Bussard, but the team would need every run.

Papa John's fired back with six runs in the fourth to tie the score, but Winterhoff came back with another homer to put Bussard ahead until Scott Carter scored in the seventh for Papa John's to go up. See Sanford, Page 10A

Big-time player in a small package

By Denise M. Cullen
HERALD CORRESPONDENT

ORLANDO—At 5'8", 180 pounds and 6 percent body fat, McCurrey Hercules Walls gets noticed when he walks in a room. Much like he gets noticed on the football field.

Often told he was too small to play football, the man known to fans as Herkie refused to listen to the naysayers. That kind of determination led to a track and football scholarship at the University of Texas, a twelve year stint in professional sports and now a job in the front office for the Orlando Predators.

After six years in the NFL and six years on the field for the Predators, Walls is still selling the game of football, just to different clients. When he's not marketing the Predators, he's speaking to students around central Florida about the importance of education and walking a tougher and straighter path.

"I try to instill in the young kids that education is very important," stressed Walls. "These young athletes who think football or basketball is everything, I tell them that you have to have an education, you have to go to college."

Working with youth has become a big part of his life. Walls says it's his way of giving back to the community that has given him so much.

"I love kids," said Walls. "They are our future. They'll be preachers and teachers and doctors and lawyers, but if they don't know that the people they look up to are trying to do the right thing, they won't do the right thing."

Walls says he reaches the kids because he can relate to their struggles. He had to grow up fast after his parents divorced when he was eight. His mother raised him and his two brothers by herself. He says, he never forgets her favorite words of advice.

"No matter what happens, keep a smile on your face because everything is going to be O.K.," said Walls. "And it's O.K. to cry."

When asked if he has applied this to his professional life, he smiles.

Walls has a desire to return to the grid-iron for the Predators. He has been working out with Jack Youngblood for the last year, fine tuning his body, mind and game. Many Predator fans are anxious for his return. He smiles again when asked if it will happen.

"I'm hoping to return before the 1999 season," said Walls.

Walls also desires a family someday, but even at 37 he's not feeling rushed to get married.

"She has to be a Christian," said

Walls. "And she has to love children."

For now, he enjoys the challenges of his position with the Predators and speaking to the kids.

"I'm just following God and my beliefs," said Walls. "I'll be patient knowing He works in mysterious ways."

The Oviedo 10-12 softball team is headed for St. Cloud this weekend for the state Little League tournament. The team raced through the districts on its home field and is looking to bring the title back to Oviedo.

lords of the game said that was tacky.

What's even tackier is crying about what Pete deserves. He'll eventually get his just desserts. He'll have a bust at Cooperstown. Not long have Bud Lite wears out his welcome and baseball gets itself a real commissioner. Meanwhile, enjoy a game.

Job

became contentious and turned against him. He had to go through this struggle alone. His wife's statement to him was: "Dost thou still retain thine integrity? Curse God, and die" (Job 2:9). She urged him to renounce his faith in God, curse his God, and take leave of this world.

Job's patient faith says: "Though He slay me, yet will I trust Him."

Trouble number five: Loss of mental stability
Depression eventuates. Job's cry as a broken man was: "Let the day perish wherein I was born... (Job 3:3). First, his body is broken; then his mind fails him; and seemingly without hope, he surmises that he would be better off dead.

But...God delivered him from this great depression as Job's faith and hope were in the Lord.

Trouble number six: Loss of friends
In times of crises, as long as one has close friends, strategic support is there. But, in Job's hour of greatest need, he lost the support and encouragement of his friends. Says he: "All my inward friends abhorred me, and they whom I loved are turned against me" (Job 19:10).

Betrayal by friends and family brought Job to depend and trust more fully in God.

Trouble number seven: Threatening loss of life

In the end of it all, Job was brought face-to-face with death. Life itself appeared to be over for him; thus he said, "Now shall I sleep in the dust; and thou shalt seek me in the morning, but I shall not be" (Job 7:21).

A magnificent encouragement

A genuine and empathetic understanding of Job's problems brings a response which says: "Spare me from these experiences." However, this world is too imperfect to do that. Most people have faced at least one or more of these problems. How can one respond with hope in catastrophic events as these?

Listen to the outcome of Job's problems: "So the Lord blessed the latter end of Job more than his beginning..." (Job 42:12), and Job declares his patient faith in God as he declares that his life shall never end.

"For I know that my redeemer liveth, and that he shall stand at the latter day upon the earth; and though after my skin worms destroy this body, yet in my flesh shall I see God" (Job 19:25-26).

How do we face problems--in our own limited and imperfect strength or with the patient faith as Job in the sovereign, merciful Lord?

Think about that!
