Exciting Trip Is Taken By Pupils Of Fifth Grade

Excitement ran high last Thursday when the pupils of Mrs. W. O. Brinson's Fifth Grade room lined up in front of the A.C.L. ticket office, eager to purchase the ticket which would fulfill weeks of planning for the train-ride and picnic of the class.

The youngsters were divided into groups and assigned to room mothers who had volunteered as chaperones for the trip. They were shown through the telegrapher's office, and new and modern communication facilities of the recently completed train station were pointed out by Mrs. Geneva Van Buskirk.

For added glamour, The Herald news photographer arrived and actually got "still" picture of the group. And just as the train pulled in, Herold Heckenbach, principal of the Grammar School, arrived to see them safely aboard and answer the frantic waving as the train pulled out to the vocalizing of "Down At the Station, and Oh We Go!"

As soon as the seats were adjusted to every angle they were meant to go, and the water cooler located and drained dry. James H. Pitts, Division Passenger Agent, who had driven over from Orlando to escort the students, on a tour of the train.

The dining car, with its white-coated cooks busily working in the most compact of kitchens and creating the tempting dishes was the first stop; next came the Club Car and the impressive lounge car; and on into the pullman where Mr. Pitts explained the difference between the roomette, bedroom, and compartment.

By this time the destination, Kissimmee, was reached, and hunger sent the 32 children scampering off the train heading for the nearby Legion Hut on the double. There the Veterans of Foreign Wars and the Auxiliary had opened the hut (which centered a large park and bordered a beautiful lake) and had tubs of iced drinks waiting.

Plenty lunch, provided by the consistent winning of P-T-A attendance prizes, featured fried chicken, sandwiches, potato chips, pickles, cake, cookies, and bottled drinks.

It was a tired, full, and satisfied group who boarded the north Champlain for home in the afternoon. Upon arrival L. M. Cornell, general foreman of the A.C.L. Shops, let them explore a "Jeep" Deisel Engine while he explained the intricacies of its operation and demonstrated the familiar whistles.

Several of the boys decided, after talking with Conductor C. J. Wolfe, that only "train reading" would be the life for them. And one young lad wished aloud that he could just "go around the world on a train like this!"

Room mothers who aided Mrs. Brinson were Mrs. F. D. Scott, Mrs. H. E. Long, Mrs. Harry Nelson, Mrs. John Lee, Mrs. H. D. Russell, and Mrs. L. F. Richards.

CHAPTER TWENTY
SUBAN DWIGHT engaged to getting... What did she see in the fellow? Andrus thought. He was pleasant enough and he'd never hurt you with a bad answer, but he was none laxy.

Andrus forced his attention back to his own situation. He was very little more forward than he had been when he came up here over a week ago. He had been released on a Scotch verdict of not proven, simply because there wasn't enough to hold him on. Mrs. Fenna had said he was with Midnight Mike on the night Roger Falham was killed—but not exactly when. She might never be able to say. Regina believed in him—or did she, completely? Once or twice that afternoon hadn't there been a flicker of doubt in her? "But who, Jim—who could have driven your car that night? I suppose it was someone who had no car and wanted to get somewhere in a hurry and took a short cut through our grounds. But it does seem strange."

Until the man who had killed Brodsky and almost killed Mrs. Fenna was behind bars he would never be really cleared. Toddman had tried to persuade him to go back to New York, at which he had merely smiled. He intended to remain here on the spot and pursue his inquiries openly, no matter whose toes he stepped on or how many people he offended. His avowed intention of getting to the bottom of Roger Falham's death might act as a spur, prod the killer or late renegade hit, make him betray himself.

Everything else was subservient, including Regina. For the present, marrying was on the dark side of the moon. Regina had said nothing, gave no slightest indication of how she felt about taking up where they had left off. It was because he was married that she still wanted to marry him? There was certainly no eager mention of it. Then he asked himself whether there had ever been any real eagerness in either of them. But all that would have to wait.

Andrus walked into the Inn lobby, an immense room carpeted with red and blue and chairs and with two sofas. If he had any doubt of how he stood in the eyes of the Inn it was removed there. He was dated and dated. There was a cocktail party going on and the place was crowded. People stopping drinks and laughing and talking, no one made his way through the room toward the west wing he moved in a small circle of the Inn. He had no doubt of the fact, at least where Roger Falham was concerned.

He went, a big room that had the white end of the wing, had been long windows opening directly toward the west wing. He had the window, which looked toward the west wing, and the room was quiet. Sanford Set For New Annexation Bid

The need for annexation has jumped from the "it would be nice if" stage to the "it must be done" level.

This was made clear today by city officials as these new developments were announced:

1. The City Commission, representatives of other groups, and interested citizens will go to Tallahassee Thursday for another discussion of the crucial problem with the Seminole County legislature delegation.
2. The Sanford Merchants Association was to study the issue at a meeting this afternoon at City Hall.
3. Building contractors are stymied by lack of land within the city for erection of housing to care for incoming Navy personnel.

City Manager Warren Knowles and City Commissioner Jack Ratigan emphasized that the only area available for construction is the area the city proposes to annex. The annexation plan would extend the city limits south to take in the new 27th St. school and most of the Dreamworld subdivision.

"The expansion of Sanford Naval Auxiliary Air Station," Knowles and Ratigan said, "makes the need for quick, new, low-cost VA and FHA financing immediate and vital."

The availability of city facilities will insure quick approval for construction, they pointed out. The officials said the extension of facilities should be planned for the whole area in which the city is expanding, not haphazardly.

New construction involving septic tanks and private water systems, they added, "will impose on the home owner a cost from which he will not get full benefit."

Knowles and Ratigan went on to say that expansion of the base will be beneficial to the city from many aspects.

"For every five new families who move into an area," they declared, "one family must move in to go to work serving them."

Pointing out that Congress has allocated $188,900 for construction work at the naval base, the officials said this will give added impetus to business within the city.

More money in circulation means a large volume of business for merchants and more job opportunities for the people," they stressed. "This is the first and greatest opportunity for Sanford in more than 20 years."

The City Commission will make the trip to Tallahassee at its own expense because it feels annexation is vital to the development of Sanford, Ratigan said.

In a letter last month to Sen. Douglas Stearns, Rep. Volie Williams Jr. and Rep. Mark Cleveland Jr., the Commission revealed that after three conferences, during which the matter was "completely debated," the lawmakers opposed annexation without a referendum.

The Commission made an alternate proposal in the letter that the county legislative delegation "secure legislation, authorizing the annexation, whereby the eligible voters of the entire affected area, including the annexation areas, plus the city of Sanford, should be allowed to vote in one combined election."

The results would be determined by a "simple majority of the votes cast," the letter said.

Annexation proposals originally submitted by the City Zoning and Planning Commission were altered slightly after it was pointed out that the city would take in swampland by holding to the set-up.

Under the new plan, the southern limits of the city would be extended 330 feet south of 27th St. The new line would run between Marshall and Hartwell Aves. on the southwest side of the city, and, on the northwest side, would run west on 20th St. to the Atlantic Coast Line Railroad's new mainline track. It would then go north to the A. C. L.'s Leesburg track and back to the present city limits.

Although some property owners in the affected areas registered protests at first, the objections have mostly died down and it is probable that annexation will pick up firm support in the sections under consideration, city officials said.

Strolling In Sanford

Forty-two members of the Georgia Tech senior class were recently elected to membership in Phi Kappa Phi, national scholastic honor society. Senior students are chosen for membership on the basis of leadership and character, and must rank in the upper seven percent of their class. Charles J. Anderson of Sanford, majoring in mechanical engineering, is among those selected.

CHAPTER TWENTY-ONE
DINNER was done with. Edith and Frederick hadn't come. Edith had said over the phone that Frederick had one of his headaches. Mrs. Caserly was as nervous as a cat. Her eyes were too bright. She had knocked a bottle of sherry over when she went to get it. Regina, Susan and Mrs. Caserly were washing the dishes, Regina drying them and Susan heating coffee, when Lulu Caserly said to Regina, "I saw you had a letter from Monica Davies yesterday—how is she?"

"That was it, that was the letter," Regina said, "Monica's fine. Settling out a whole slew of new orchards. She's a wonderful woman."

"The Davies were all fine people," Mrs. Caserly let water out of the sink. "I remember them well, although it must be 11 or 12 years since they left here. They were so nice with all that money, too, not a bit proud or stand-offish. What a pity Lulu Davies had to die the way he did. He couldn't have been more than 40."

"He was 39."

"You wouldn't think they'd let him go on flying at that age," Lulu Caserly said.

Regina smiled. "I'd had a way of doing what he wanted to do. Two years ago Hal Davies had gone down in Korea in a blaze of glory, a jet ace. Susan could just dimly remember him as tall and blond and to her 16-year-old eyes, a godlike Viking, very calm and certain and altogether delightful. Hal's wife, Regina's closest friend. They had gone to the same schools, graduated the same year. The Davies had been by long odds the wealthiest people on the Hill and the most influential. What could Hal's sister, Monica, rumpoing an enormous fruit ranch in the Sacramento valley 4,000 miles away have said in her letter that had made Regina decide to die Wolf Hill? The answer, it was Lulu before 9 o'clock, was stunning.

Mrs. Caserly had gone for her usual walk and Susan and Regina were in the living room, Regina sewing and Susan reading, or trying to, when the door was thrown open and Mrs. Caserly came rushing in. She was upset, frightened. "There was a man," she said, trying to get her breath. "He followed me. I could hear his footsteps. I got scared."

"Lulu, it was just someone going peacefully home," Regina was indignantly. Mrs. Caserly said obstinately, "I tell you there was someone following me, and it was a stranger." She jumped and dropped her needle.

The doorbell had rung. Susan went into the hall and opened the front door. There was a man on the porch outside. A big man in a woman's hat coat. Lulu Caserly's stranger? He removed his hat and said hesitantly, "Is Regina—Mrs. Peltman home?"

Susan couldn't see his face clearly. Regina was out of sight. Susan said, "I'll see. What name shall I say?"

"Tell her it's Henry."

"Henry?"

"Yes. Tell her it's Henry Trout." A dead man walked into the hall and into the living room with an unsteady gait, a man who was supposed to have gone to a watery grave in the Mediterranean more than three years ago.

Lulu Caserly booted upright in the chair into which she had dropped in an attitude of arrested motion, her hands at her disordered hair, eyes and mouth open, Regina was on her feet in the middle of the floor, her face very white. Except for that she was the coolest of the three of them."

"Henry?"

Henry Trout was utterly unlike the alert, vigorous, gay young man Regina had married. He had gone to seed, not subtly. He ate too much, drank too much, and in spite of his well cut clothes and erect bearing, there was a general softness to him, the softness of decay, but he was still handsome.

"Yes, I'd like to see you," he went up to Regina, put his hands on her shoulders and tried to draw her toward him. She moved back and managed to turn so that his kiss just grazed her cheek. He said, "I've been wanting to see you for a long time, Hedge, tell you—not that it will make any difference—but to tell you that I know I was a dog to you—and that I'm sorry."

A long time was right—it was almost 10 years. Regina had divorced him when Roger was an infant. He had no claim whatever on her.

She kept her temper beautifully. She said gently, "Never mind it, Henry. It's a long time ago, and we were both younger and we both made mistakes—but it's behind us now."

"I know," he said humbly. "But I wanted to tell you." He spoke to Susan and to Mrs. Caserly.

"Susan! You're grown up! I can't shut pretty, Regina? How are you, nurse? Still going strong, I see."

Lulu Caserly's blue eyes were bright and hard. "Did you—were you the man who followed me around the block a few minutes ago?"

Henry Trout said yes, taking off his overcoat uninvited, tossing it and his hat on a chair in the hall. "I was hanging around outside, trying to get my courage up. I wanted to speak to you, find out how Hal Regina was." After that they all sat down. Trout refused coffee. "If you have a drop of Scotch in the house..."

Regina had no Scotch. She said it was too expensive for her, but that there was some rye. The rye was brought and he mixed a stiff drink for himself and settled back in a chair as though he were going to be there for life.

Regina picked up her sewing. "Tell us what happened, Henry, why your name wasn't on the list of the Appolo survivors, why you were reported dead when you weren't?"

His tale was vague, rambling. When the Appolo went down and he was flung into the water he got a blow on the head and remembered nothing until he found himself working in a French barnyard weeks later. Gradually his memory began to return but it was a long time before he realized who he was and what had happened.

He had originally gone over to take a radio job in Casablanca. Gail Dubois had got his name for him. "You remember Gail? What a fool I made of myself over her! Anyhow I knew she'd be there, she was dancing in a club, and I owed a lot of money... so I—well, I just decided in wash the whole thing out and start over again." He had wandered about Europe picking up jobs and doing all right, but finally he got homesick. He had arched back in the States two weeks ago and as he worked on the west coast—he had worked his way over on a freighter—he stopped in to see Monica Davies—and Toke. "Monica squared me up, Regina, told me what happened to the boy. It was tough." Easy tears came to his eyes. He wiped them away and took a long swallow of his drink.

As Roger was three months old when Regina came home for good and began divorce proceedings, Trout's grief was slightly excessive.

It became evident presently that he was getting drunk. His talk grew more rambling. Every once in a while there was a sudden gleam of shrewdness in his eyes that was disconcerting.

Henry was a cousin of Toke Davies, Hal's widow. It was through Toke that Regina and Henry had met, and he and Regina had stayed with the Davies when they first went west, until Regina found a house. Henry talked a lot about the Davies and what a wonderful time they had. Toke had always been delicate, her lungs were in poor shape and she spent a lot of time in sanatoriums. He had only seen her for a moment.

He went on interminably until Susan thought she would scream. It was bad enough when they were alone with him, but there was worse to come. People started dropping in—the Benedicts first, then Frederick and Edith and the doctor and Amy. Antoinette, exclamations, and a withdrawal into uneasy monosyllables. Every body was terribly uncomfortable except Henry Trout.

After a few minutes the Benedicts went, the doctor and Amy and Edith and Frederick sat on the even. Jim Andrus arrived and the evening reached its grotesque peak.

Andrus knocked and followed his knock into the hall and on into the doorway of the living room. He paused there, and the center of attention shifted. Regina's face lighted.

"Jim. Come in and sit down." She noticed the cushion beside her. "You know everyone."

Henry Trout glared at Andrus, still in the doorway.

Trout looked away from him at Regina. "He doesn't know me." He looked back at Andrus. "You're the fellow who was up for murder and got off on a technicality, aren't you?"

Andrus nodded genially. "I am." ...out was leaning forward, his face flushed. "Why don't you keep away from here?" he demanded roughly. "You don't think you've wanted here do you?"

They were all dumbfounded. It was shocking, ludicrous. Susan held her breath, waiting for Regina to put an end to it, give her former husband his comeuppance with sharp finality.

She didn't do it. She didn't move. She looked as though she couldn't, she just sat there in a corner of the couch, her face paper white.

"Yes, I'd like to see you," he went up to Regina, put his hands on her shoulders and tried to draw her toward him. She moved back and managed to turn so that his kiss just grazed her cheek. He said, "I've been wanting to see you for a long time, Hedge, tell you—not that it will make any difference—but to tell you that I know I was a dog to you—and that I'm sorry."

A long time was right—it was almost 10 years. Regina had divorced him when Roger was an infant. He had no claim whatever on her.

She kept her temper beautifully. She said gently, "Never mind it, Henry. It's a long time ago, and we were both younger and we both made mistakes—but it's behind us now."

"I know," he said humbly. "But I wanted to tell you." He spoke to Susan and to Mrs. Caserly.

"Susan! You're grown up! I can't shut pretty, Regina? How are you, nurse? Still going strong, I see."

Lulu Caserly's blue eyes were bright and hard. "Did you—were you the man who followed me around the block a few minutes ago?"

Henry Trout said yes, taking off his overcoat uninvited, tossing it and his hat on a chair in the hall. "I was hanging around outside, trying to get my courage up. I wanted to speak to you, find out how Hal Regina was." After that they all sat down. Trout refused coffee. "If you have a drop of Scotch in the house..."

Regina had no Scotch. She said it was too expensive for her, but that there was some rye. The rye was brought and he mixed a stiff drink for himself and settled back in a chair as though he were going to be there for life.

Regina picked up her sewing. "Tell us what happened, Henry, why your name wasn't on the list of the Appolo survivors, why you were reported dead when you weren't?"

His tale was vague, rambling. When the Appolo went down and he was flung into the water he got a blow on the head and remembered nothing until he found himself working in a French barnyard weeks later. Gradually his memory began to return but it was a long time before he realized who he was and what had happened.

He had originally gone over to take a radio job in Casablanca. Gail Dubois had got his name for him. "You remember Gail? What a fool I made of myself over her! Anyhow I knew she'd be there, she

Scientists Learning By Doing

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. — A group of scientists here is taking an experimental approach to the world's first conference on peaceful uses of atomic energy. They're learning by doing.

Their job is to help the U.N. set up that conference, scheduled for Aug. 9-30 in Geneva. They've moved, 19 strong, into 20 rooms high in the 28-floor secretariat building.

They include 17 "scientific secretaries" from 11 countries; the conference secretary general, Walter G. Whitman, of Concord, Mass., and his deputy, Viktor S. Vavilov, of Moscow.

They sat down the other day with assorted U.N. employees in a conference room for a dry run of a conference session. It took about an hour. The real thing next summer will take considerably longer; more than 50 countries are sure to be represented, and 24 altogether have been invited.

The subject of the rehearsal, chosen somewhat haphazardly, was the abstract of a Canadian paper on "Experiments on Some Characteristics of the NRX Reactor." The NRX is an atomic pile Canada has been operating at Chalk River, Ont., since 1947. Robert A. Charpie, 29, assistant director of research at the national laboratory in Oak Ridge, Tenn., presented the abstract. He is one of the scientific secretaries.

The main object was to give U.N. interpreters practice in talking about nuclear physics in English, French, Russian and Spanish. They had already worked up their own glossary, and the scientists had been checking it for accuracy.

Now the American scientist sat at a table with his colleagues in the conference room and presented the Canadian paper in English. His colleagues in turn rendered multilingual comments on it.

The interpreters, wearing headphones, caught their remarks by wire in enclosed booths overlooking the chamber and put them simultaneously into the other languages. The interpretations went back to the scientists listening at the table, through little plastic receivers hung over one ear.

Estimates of the scientists' success ranged from fair to good. There will be more.

Built to Flash Ahead

(not just get by!)

Some things you can see right away that tell you this is the year of the Big Dodge move. (Sales have doubled over last year!)

You can stack the new Dodge up against other cars in its field, and see how much larger and more luxurious it is: Up to 9 inches longer than competition.

You can see the distinction of new Dodge styling, with upper lines that are stacking the "OH" from the hood and over the swept-back sweep-ground windshield. The "sparkle" of twin-jet taillights and three-tone color combinations. The beautiful Jacquard tapestry interiors.

But more important than this is the deep-down dependability engineered into every corner part and feature of this great Dodge!

That is something you discover through the years and over the miles. It is your own record for choosing the new Dodge.

Officials Believe Moscow Sets Tone For Intense Period

WASHINGTON (AP)—Some American officials believe Moscow has set the tone for a period of intense jockeying over the conditions and agreed purposes of a prospective Big "our meeting."

They read that interpretation into an editorial published yesterday by the Communist party paper Pravda—perhaps the forerunner of an official note from the Soviet government within a day or two along similar lines.

The paper sharply criticized the United States on the ground that it was "unreasonable" in urging a meeting of only a few days duration among President Eisenhower and the Premiers of Russia, Britain and France.

It protested also against rejection by the Western Powers of Vienna as a site for the conference, projected for some time this summer. And it expressed resentment at American expressions by President Eisenhower and Secretary of State Dulles that the conference should consider the problems of Russian satellite states in Eastern Europe.

Western terms for the conference—that it should be short and confined to general discussion of the problems and methods for attacking them rather than with specific solutions—were proposed jointly by the three Western Powers two weeks ago.

Pravda's reaction bitterly attacked the U. S. government stand, leading to a belief here that the Russians are seeking to drive a wedge between this country and its allies by accusing only the Americans of being unreasonable.

Red-Style Peace Petition Started

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP)—A Communist-style peace petition campaign will reach a climax during the U.N.'s 10th anniversary meeting in San Francisco June 20-26. The signature drive aims at a ban on atomic warfare.

Members of some U.N. delegations said today Soviet Foreign Minister V. M. Molotov might try to use the petitions as evidence of support for the repeated Russian demands for such a ban. Molotov announced Friday night that he would attend the San Francisco meeting.

It is being built at Chanting, 280 miles west of Formosa, by 30,000 laborers working around the clock under the direction of Russian experts, the news agency reported.

The Chanting base, said Tatro, will be capable of handling every type of plane.

Civilians living within a mile of its limits have been ordered to move.

Large Air Base Added To Chain

TAIPEI (AP)—Another huge air base is being added to the chain of jet fields with striking distance of Formosa, says the Chinese Nationalist Tatro news agency.

It is being built at Chanting, 280 miles west of Formosa, by 30,000 laborers working around the clock under the direction of Russian experts, the news agency reported.

The Chanting base, said Tatro, will be capable of handling every type of plane.

Civilians living within a mile of its limits have been ordered to move.

CREW MEMBERS of the sailing vessel Free China stand on deck after anchoring at Yokohama, Japan, completing the first leg of a scheduled cruise from Formosa to the United States. They plan to go to the West Coast and transport their junk overland to Newport, R. I., in time to enter the International Transatlantic Yacht Race to Europe. If delays prevent the overland journey, they will sail through the Panama Canal and up the East Coast. (International)

Architects Plans Are Being Revised In Saving Attempt

MOSCOW (AP)—Hundreds of architects' plans to make Moscow a city of skyscrapers and penthouses are being scrapped or revised. A saving of 50 million rubles (12½ million dollars officially) already is claimed, according to a progress report appearing in the magazine Ogonyek.

Communist party boss Nikita S. Khrushchev, at a national congress in December, declared architects put too much stress on facts and frills on the facades of buildings and paid too little attention to economy and efficiency within. He virtually put an embargo on the construction of any further skyscrapers, claiming they were wasteful. He also ordered the substitution of concrete wherever possible to save steel and timber.

Concrete, like corn, has become a big Khrushchev campaign. Ogonyek said a special meeting of architectural building councils was summoned to revise building plans to cut construction costs.

"When architects started to revise some of their drafts for buildings on the embankment of the Moscow River, they were able to reduce costs by 10 per cent," Ogonyek reported.

Social Security Revisions Studied

WASHINGTON (AP)—Further revision of social security laws to help women and disabled workers is under study in the House Ways and Means Committee.

House Democratic leaders said Sunday they hope to put the legislation before the House for action next month.

They hope to eliminate the present 65-year age limit for women—who would qualify at age 60 or 62—and for disabled workers, who would become eligible for benefits when they become disabled.

Congress last year provided a general increase for all recipients of social security benefits, but Rep. Mills (D-Ark.) said the law "left much to be desired."

POWER RATES CUT
SALT LAKE CITY (AP)—Members of the Utah Public Service Commission may have been slightly startled by a request yesterday.

But they didn't show it. They went right ahead and granted it, posthaste.

The request, by the Wendover Light and Power Co., was for permission to reduce its rates by more than 15 per cent.

Commission Secretary Frank A. Yeamans said the firm's application was "completely voluntary."

Duxbury School Of Dancing Presents Annual Junior Recital

The Junior Recital of the Duxbury School of Dancing was presented Friday night in the Southside Primary School auditorium with a theme of "The News In Dance".

First on the program was the Weather Report consisting of White Clouds, Blue Skies, and Sunshine. Next was the Children's Corner, a story of Cinderella. Accompanist was Allison Lee. Scene I was by the Fireplace and showed Cinderella, the Fairy Godmother, Step-mother, step sister, pumpkin coach, mice, and fairy helpers all in the form of dancers.

Scene II was At the Ball in which were shown guests, enter tainers, and the Prince. Scene III presented by the Fireplace featured the trumpeter, and the princess's escorts. An extra, "I can Do A Ballet Dance," was done by two girls.

The third page of the paper theme was The Society Page in "We went to New York." This depicted dances featuring a Stage Show, Doing the Town, At Mambo-land and On T. V.

Next was the Flower Nook. Here were presented dancing to show Rosebuds, and Forget-me-nots. The Comic Strip was brought by a Little Orphan Annie Dance.

The Radio Guide was translated with Blues, Rhythms, Jive, Notes, and Band Groups and II.

An Editorial Page featured Copywriters and Editors. The sports page portrayed On the Beach and Monkeys at the Zoo.

Director of the school is Doris Duxbury with teachers being Faye Harvey and Mrs. Duxbury. Mrs. Christine Blankenship is accompanist and costumes design is done by Mrs. Duxbury. Seamstresses are Mrs. H. S. Dugger, Mrs. O. R. Smith, Mrs. W. R. Jennings and the mothers.

Summer courses will begin June 14. Class and private lessons will be given every Tuesday, Wednesday, and Thursday for six weeks. For further information or registration call 1628.

Mrs. W. Shannon Is Entertained With Stork Shower

Mrs. Fred Esclavon entertained with a stork shower in honor of Mrs. W. Shannon in her home in Longwood Friday night at 8 p. m.

An imitation stork was placed inside a pink and blue bassinet which held the honoree's gifts. Spring flowers were used throughout the rooms.

A unique arrangement consisting of a strobilina from which hung pink and blue miniature baby clothes was placed in the center of the refreshment table over the cake. White linen was used on the table. Punch and other delicacies were served after several games were played.

The guests were given pink and blue paper bottles upon arriving, that were used later in the evening in the games. Those winning prizes were Mrs. Annie Madden and Mrs. Louise Noland. Gifts were then opened by the honoree. Those invited were Mrs. Mary Hipschock, Mrs. Jackie Price, Mrs. Mary Reed, Mrs. Edith Bradley, Mrs. Annie Madden, Mrs. Eloise Lommier, Mrs. Marguerite Stevens, Mrs. Evelyn Lee, Mrs. Virginia Holland, Mrs. Louise Noland, Mrs. Harriett Nixon, Mrs. Mervie Largent, and Mrs. Sarah Olesky.

MISS SHELBY JEAN SMITH Jean Smith, Bennie Adams Plan On Early June Wedding Rites

Mr. and Mrs. Frank Leatherwood are announcing today the engagement of her daughter, Shelby Jean Smith, to Bennie Adams, son of Mr. and Mrs. O. H. Adams.

Miss Smith was born in Concord, N. C., and attended schools there until the sixth grade when she moved to Sanford. She is a Junior in Seminole High School and a member of the First Baptist Church.

Mr. Adams was born in Tennessee and attended schools there until he came to Sanford in the fifth grade. He is presently employed by Phillips Properties.

The marriage will take place on June 2 with complete plans being announced at a later date.

Westside School Enjoys Play Day; Has Spring Theme

"One who claims that he knows about it—Tells me the earth is a vale of sin;—But I and the bees, and the birds, we doubt it— And think it a world worth living in," could well be the theme used at the Westside School's Play Day held today.

The program included a devotional by the third grade consisting of songs, Bible readings and prayers. Next dances presented by both second and third grades were performed after which singing for fun was enjoyed. More dances and rhythm band playing were presented along with the favorite song of all grades, "Davy Crockett."

The flag salute and the Star Spangled Banner ended the program.

Count on getting 16 to 20 stalks of asparagus in a pound. This amount will serve three to four persons—depending on what the vegetable is served with. The Sanford Garden Club of F. F. G. C.

Flowers to plant in May include cosmos, cypress vine, marigold, portulaca (rose moss), torenia (Wishbone flower) and zinnia. Try the miniature African Marigold called "Cupid". These plants are six inches high but the flowers are large (2 1/2 inches) primrose yellow completely covering the plants. It comes also in Cupid Orange and Cupid Golden.

Sow lily and amaryllis seed in flats of one third each, good soil and sharp sand, adding a little vermiculite on top to retain surface moisture; or use two parts sharp sand and one part vermiculite. Place flat in a semi-shaded spot till germination takes place. Feed with liquid fertilizer every two or three weeks to keep growing and speed the time of flowering, usually two to three years.

Gerbers daisies may be planted this month. They like a sweet soil, plenty of moisture and part shade, the many gardeners have success with them in full sun. A little hardwood ashes and manure would be good.

Caladium tubers are also available now. Plant them in rich soil in part shade. In front of azalea beds suits them.

Torenia cuttings may be made this month, or plant a succession of seed every two weeks thru July.

Half hardened tip growth of azaleas makes good cuttings. Plant in a porous mixture of sand and peat and place in shade until top growth appears, when they may have a little sun and a light sprinkling of azalea fertilizer, watered in.

Root knot can be lessened by use of two to four inches of mulch to keep ground cool and moist; the nematodes like it dry and sandy. Keep plants well fertilized to induce roots to grow below the root knot area.

Snow scale on hibiscus and other shrubs can be fatal if not quickly controlled. This scale completely covers the branches like a dusting of snow. Use a strong oil nicotine emulsion sprayed on thoroughly after sun is off plant for the day. Repeat in one week if necessary.

To control moles place carbon bisulphide, even soaked in lead arsenate, castor beans or a teaspoon of calcium cyanide in the fresh runs. To know which runs are being used, tramp them all down at night, then in the morning the ones that have been reopened are the ones to treat. Make a small hole in these runs every ten feet or so, insert poison and close.

June Graduate Is Honored Saturday With Splash Party

A "splash" party was given Saturday afternoon by Mrs. Robert H. Reely in honor of June graduate, Betty Bryan at Sanlando Springs.

The honoree was presented with a gift after which swimming and games were enjoyed by the guests. A special decorated cake was cut by the honoree and served to her guests along with a picnic supper. The table was decorated in green and white to carry out the class colors.

Mrs. J. N. Azzarello, the honoree's mother, assisted with the serving.

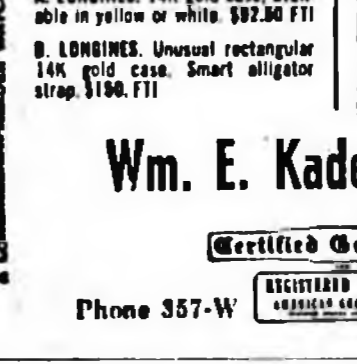

Those invited were Sandra and Sonja Monforton, Marilyn Calhoun, Colleen Engstrom, Tommy Wyatt, Larry Burney, Joe Davis, Kenneth Ramsey, and Bob Reely Jr.

More Fans Attracted By Majors

NEW YORK (AP)—Major League baseball attendance is running ahead of last year after a slow start that had owners wondering where the fans had gone.

An Associated Press survey of attendance figures today showed both of baseball's big leagues ahead of their 1954 pace. The latest figures reveal an increase of almost 80,000 with the American League up 74,000 thanks to Kansas City's new Athletics.

The big leagues have attracted 3,623,401 customers as compared with 3,543,415 in as many games a year ago.

Kansas City's fans, acting as though they haven't had major league ball in 69 years (and they haven't) are supporting the A's—but good. With 321,157 paid—lops in the American League—the A's in 15 home dates, already have surpassed their entire 1954 season's total in Philadelphia of 304,666.

Milwaukee, which led both leagues in attendance last season while setting a National League record of better than 2,130,000, again is setting the pace. The Braves have played before 451,524 people, a gain of more than 50,000. Cincinnati is almost 15,000 ahead Philadelphia almost 1,000. Pittsburgh 4,000, Baltimore 5,000 at Cleveland 3,000.

The Boston Red Sox, Chicago White Sox, St. Louis Cardinals and New York Giants still have attendance worries. The Red Sox are approximately 74,000 off their '54 pace, but they'll soon have the services of Ted Williams in league play. The White Sox trail by 41,000, the Cards by 30,000 and the Giants by 28,000. The Giants, however, figure to boost off their deficit in their crucial three-game set with Brooklyn this weekend.

Merchants' Night Slated Tomorrow At Local Stadium

Wednesday night will be Merchants' Night at Memorial Stadium, the Sanford baseball club announced. A number of prizes will be awarded to fans.

The Sanford Cardinals will play Orlando. Game time is 8 o'clock.

SANFORD CARDINAL 'TERRY' TERRELL Flanked By Sharper And Keith

Baseball Polish Shows On Terrell

By CLAUDE ROSE
Herald Sports Writer

One of the more experienced ball players with the Sanford Cardinals this season is Thurman "Terry" Terrell, popular hardhitting outfielder.

Two years of organized ball and four years with various service teams and fast semi-pro teams in California have given Terry plenty of polish for the fellow who has just turned 22.

One of the few married players on the club, the Norcross, Ga., lad played four years of baseball and basketball and two years of football with Norcross High school. He graduated in 1949. With his home town American Legion team he went to the Georgia state finals in 1949 and was named to the State All-Star team.

After graduation, he signed his first professional contract and played the remainder of the season with Gainesville of the Florida State League. He was a pitcher then and he won four and lost three.

In 1950, he joined the Landis, N. C., team of the N. C. State League. At that time, Landis was the smallest town in the U. S. with a pro ball club. The population was approximately 1200. He ran up a 5-1 record there before hurting his back and switching to Newman, Ga. of the Georgia-Florida circuit. With Newman he won seven and dropped four.

Four years with the Air Force followed that and Terry found himself at Castle AFB, Marced, California. He played ball there for four years and also was a regular with the Atwater, Cal., Packers of the California Semi-Pro league.

The Packers are noted throughout California for being an extremely fast semi-pro club and crowds of 5000 are not uncommon for tournament games held in Atwater each year. Such big-league stars as Bobby Brown and Gerry Coleman were members of the club while Terry was there. He also played against many present and former major leaguers during his four-year stint in the league.

Last year he was chosen for an all-star team made up of players throughout the California League to take part in the National Baseball Association national tournament at Wichita, Kansas. Of the 23 clubs in the Game 2nd In 38 In Which Manager Failed To Connect

WEST PALM BEACH—Manager Dan Keith went hitless to end a 31-game hitting string as West Palm Beach whipped the Sanford Cardinals, 4-1, last night.

Keith walked twice and grounded out three times. It was only the second game in 38 this season that Keith failed to connect.

Claude Raymond pitched to Keith four times and Bill Boyette took over with two out and the bases full in the ninth. Keith was up and grounded out to end the game.

Carl Medley got a single and double to lead the home team before 545 fans.

Other action saw Gainesville defeat Lakeland 3-0, St. Petersburg take Cocoa 5-3 and second-place Daytona Beach whip leading Orlando 11-3.

Daytona clubbed five Orlando pitchers for 20 hits and climbed within two games of the top. The CB's made it easier for the Islanders by committing five errors which allowed seven unearned runs. Bill Patrisa tripled with the bases loaded in the fourth and teammate Ralph Sita homered with one aboard in the seventh.

Norman Hughes of Gainesville pitched his second straight shutout before 686 of the homefolk. The triumph was the G-Men's fourth in a row. Hughes, who now has a 4-3 won-lost record, gave up seven hits, struck out six and walked none. Fred Pippin, going all the way for Lakeland, allowed 11 blows.

Five hundred fans witnessed the proceedings at St. Petersburg as Hooks Iott pitched seven consecutive scoreless innings for the locals. Cocoa gave him a hard time in the eighth when Charles Greenhill doubled in two runs and scored himself. The Saints gathered 12 hits off Craig Hoyal and scored single runs in five frames.

It was while he was in service that Terry moved from the mound to the outfield. Now he wouldn't change back for the world.

Terry, who lives with his wife, the former Janette Reeves of Norcross, Ga., at 615 1/2 S. Park lists fishing as his favorite leisure time activity. More or less a new pastime for him, he enjoys it a great deal and says his best catch to date is a two-pound bass.

During the winter, Terry plans to attend Smith-Hughes Vocational school in Atlanta where he has already finished one year of a TV-Radio course. After he graduates he hopes to set up a business with his brother in Atlanta.

Warsaw Takes Shape Of Fine City

WARSAW, Poland (AP)—Warsaw, 10 years ago a mess of rubble, is taking shape as a fine city.

Broadcasting May Be Career Of Bill Goodwin

NEW YORK (AP)—It begins to look as if broadcasting will turn out to be the career of Bill Goodwin. The jovial, soft-voiced performer has held a lot of different jobs in radio and television but this week reached his 25th anniversary in the business without missing a season.

Goodwin currently is star and master of ceremonies of the Wednesday night Penny for a Million giveaway show on ABC, and he handles it with the same warmth and enthusiasm as his chores on the Burns & Allen and Bob Hope shows for years. Although Goodwin has been in television four years and has appeared in 37 movies, he says many people still identify him quicker from his voice than his face.

"I got into a taxi here in New York and gave the address I wanted and the driver turned around, looked at me and asked, 'What's your name?'" Goodwin relates. "I said 'Bill Goodwin' and the driver said 'I thought I recognized your voice.'"

Goodwin's new TV assignment makes him a coast-to-coast commuter. He and his wife and their four children live in Hollywood. He flies into New York every Monday to prepare for the Wednesday night show and returns to the West Coast every Thursday. He teams with singer Peggy King on live commercials for a local show there on Saturdays.

CBS has given details of its plans for its own series of 90-minute color spectaculars next fall. There will be 10 of them on Saturday nights. At least two will star Bing Crosby, Noel Coward will produce three and costar with Mary Martin in the first. Paul Gregory will produce three others.

The first Capitol Handicap at Laurel Race course in 1919 was won by Billy Kelly. The jockey was Earl Sande.

Reconstruction is tied to a six-year plan that ends this year. Diplomats, businessmen and other Westerners here say progress has been spectacular.

Work started two years ago and the palace is now almost ready for its opening in July. Its exterior is heavily decorated in the Russian wedding-cake style. To some eyes it clashes with the simple elegance of other new buildings. Inside, the palace is equipped on a lavish scale. At any one time, according to a guide, it will accommodate 27,000 persons in its theaters, movie auditoriums, recital rooms, concert and congress halls, libraries, game rooms, gymnasiums and a marble swimming pool.

A showpiece of the new Warsaw is "Old Warsaw," razed in the 1945 uprising. It has been rebuilt just as it stood in the 18th century, a cluster of narrow streets around a market square. In this city, the Poles look at least adequately and sometimes actively clothed. Nor, so far as one can judge after only a brief stay in Warsaw, is there any shortage of food. Because of the artificial exchange rate, prices look prohibitive to Westerners. But the shops look well stocked and people are buying.

Princess Margaret Arrives For Visit

BONN, Germany (AP)—Princess Margaret arrived here by plane today for a brief visit to British troops in West Germany. Because of a typhoid epidemic in the Ruhr, she will stay only one day instead of until Wednesday as originally planned.

The princess landed at nearby Wahn Airport. After brief ceremonies at the airfield, she drove to Wuppertal to present new colors to the 1st Battalion of the Suffolk Regiment. The princess is colonel in chief of the regiment. Margaret also had been scheduled to visit the 3rd Hussars, but it is stationed in Iserlohn, near Hagen, the center of the typhoid epidemic. The number of stricken in the southern Ruhr rose to 630 yesterday and the first death, of a 60-year-old woman, was reported.

COUNTY JAILER ANDY EVANS
He Locks Up His Son Every Night

By CLAUDE ROSE
Herald Feature Writer

If you always have butter on your grits for breakfast, you ought to feel right at home in the Seminole County Jail. According to jailer Andy Evans, the state inspectors who visit the local lockup every month say it's the only jail in the state they know of where the prisoners get their grits that way.

Burke Nomination As Naval Chief Comes As Surprise

NORFOLK, Va. (AP)—The Navy's old hands received a whopping surprise with the nomination of Rear Adm. Arleigh A. Burke to be chief of naval operations—but nobody was more stunned than Burke himself.

Burke, whose present job is commander of the Atlantic Fleet destroyer force, said he was notified several days ago that he had been chosen to succeed Carney.

Burke, who presented her resignation and that it was understood President Eisenhower had accepted.

Seven Convicted On Federal Charge

DENVER (AP)—Seven persons named in federal indictments as Communist party leaders were convicted last night on charges of conspiring to teach violent overthrow of the government.

A jury of seven men and five women deliberated 12 hours and 13 minutes in the 29th actual trial day of the case. It began March 21.

Defense lawyers immediately asked time to file motions for dismissal and retrial. U. S. District Judge Jean S. Breitenstein granted them until June 9 to prepare motions and set June 15 as a date for their hearings.

Breitenstein also granted a defense request that the defendants four men and three women, remain free on bonds totaling $100,000.

Lashing Wind, Hail Strike In Orlando

ORLANDO (AP)—Wind and hail lashed three suburban communities for two hours last night, doing many thousands of dollars worth of damage. There were no casualties.

Six houses at Winter Park received minor damage from blown over trees. Hail up to the size of golf balls dented bodies and broke windshields of about 200 cars.

A used car lot in Winter Park reports the heaviest loss, about $5,000. Wind blew a metal awning off its base and it flailed four automobiles.

At Fairville, hail ruined the greenhouse of Lake Fairview Nursery and damaged plants and other buildings. The loss was estimated at $1,500.

Britons Vote Today Under Cloudy Skies

LONDON (AP)—Britons voted today on whether to keep the "free enterprise" government of Prime Minister Eden's Conservatives or to turn left to a Labor cabinet headed by Socialist Clement Attlee.

Balldoting began at 7 a. m. under overcast skies. Some 28 million were expected to choose 630 members of the new House of Commons. The total eligible to vote is just under 35 million.

Polls close at 9 p. m., British time. The decision may be known by early tomorrow afternoon.

ILLEGAL FISHING

WARWICK, R. I. (AP)—For more than an hour yesterday two boats equipped with outboard motors raced at high speed around Narragansett Bay.

After 25 miles one boat ran out of gas and the other caught up with it.

The second boat was manned by state conservation officers, the first by William D. Caswell Jr., 25, of Bristol, who was arrested for fishing illegally. He pleaded guilty later and was fined $50.

Tornadoes Pathways Deadly

UDALL, Kan. (AP)—A series of tornadoes whirled across Kansas and Oklahoma last night hammering 13 towns and killing at least 74 persons.

Approximately 600 persons were injured.

The twisters dealt the most punishing blows to Udall, a south-central Kansas community of 750; and Blackwell, a northern Oklahoma town of 10,000. The towns are 80 miles apart.

At least 55 persons died at Udall and 17 at Blackwell. A twister killed two others at Sweetwater in western Oklahoma. Lightning claimed two additional lives in Oklahoma.

The twisters, the year's most devastating, also roared into Texas but apparently caused no deaths in that state.

Udall was virtually destroyed more than 100 persons were injured. In Blackwell where the tornado leveled homes and factories in an east side area of about 36 square blocks some 500 were injured.

Prison Reform Bill Is Passed By House After Little Talk

TALLAHASSEE (AP)—A prison reform bill, one of the major pieces of governmental reform legislation considered this session, moved over to the Senate today following House passage.

The measure, which sets up a new department of corrections and makes sweeping revisions in Florida's prison system, won approval 74-4 yesterday after little debate.

Should the bill become law, the Department of Corrections would take over prison system responsibility now divided between the prison division of the Department of Agriculture and the State Road Department which operates convict work camps.

The department would be under the Cabinet Board of Commissioners of State Institutions, which would employ a $10,000 a year director of the unified prison system.

The original bill prepared by the legislative council would have created a division of youth services but this was stricken in committee.

Arkansas Senator Says Heart Attack May Cause Delay

WASHINGTON (AP)—Sen. McClellan (D-Ark) said today a heart attack suffered by a key witness may force a postponement after today of an inquiry into alleged graft in buying of uniforms for the armed forces.

McClellan heads the Senate Investigations subcommittee, which has heard New York manufacturer Leon M. Levy give sworn testimony that he furnished nearly $7,000 which he understood an associate would use to pay off government employees having supervision over clothing contracts.

Levy suffered a heart attack at his hotel last night shortly after hospital opens. Bender (R-Ohio) may have been right in calling him "a crook." Subcommittee aides quoted Levy's physician Dr. Emmett Markwood as saying the attack was serious.

June 13 Opening For Summer School

Prof. Herman E. Morris announced today that summer school will begin at Seminole High on June 13 and continue through July 22.

Two hours per day will give one half credit to a student, and during a six week period one full credit may be earned. Price for enrollment is $30 per unit and $15 for half unit per unit.

All subjects will be taught with the exception of foreign languages, commercial, chemistry, physics, home economics and agriculture.

Women Turn Down Voting Resolution

PHILADELPHIA (AP)—After lengthy discussion the General Federation of Women's Clubs has rejected a resolution calling for giving 18-year-olds the right to vote in elections.

It was the first time the resolution had come before the huge women's organization. It had strong backing but was beaten yesterday by a close vote.

The federation passed another major resolution—approving sex education in schools for youngsters and potential teachers.

Annexation Battle Taken To Capital

MRS. MARY DETYENS

Nursing Director Chosen For Hospital

H. M. Weir, Administrator of the Seminole Memorial Hospital has announced the appointment of Mrs. Mary Detyens of Gulfport, Fla. as the Director of Nurses for the Seminole Memorial Hospital. Prior to coming here Mrs. Detyens served as Director of Nursing Service of the Mound Park Hospital, St. Petersburg.

Mrs. Detyens graduated from the Jersey City Medical Center in 1931. She later served as operating room supervisor of the Buffalo General Hospital, Buffalo, N. Y. and Pollock Hospital, Jersey City, until 1943. At this time she took a leave of absence for two years to do war emergency work in Hawaii. From 1947 to the present, she has been associated with the Mound Park Hospital, first as operating room supervisor, then Director of Nursing Service.

Mrs. Detyens is a member of the Florida State Nurses Association, National League for Nursing, Catholic Nurses Guild, and Florida Hospital Association. At the present time she is a member of the Board of Directors of District Number 13, Florida State Nurses Association and Secretary of the Institutional Section of the Florida State Nurses Association. From 1950 to 1952 she was vice chairman of the Institutional Section of the American Nurses Association, a national organization.

During this period, before the hospital opens, Mrs. Detyens will be concerned with the development of policies and procedures for the nursing service, screening and selecting of the various nursing personnel, and assisting the administrator in other administrative duties.

Mrs. Detyens is the wife of Lt. Col. Julian J. Detyens, U. S. Navy, retired. They will reside at 2344 Palmetto Ave.

Unusual Disease Takes Second Girl

LOUISVILLE, Ky. (AP)—An unusual, incurable disease killed little Susan Hoerk last night, a month after taking her sister's life.

Both were victims of pancreatic cystic fibrosis, the disease which causes the pancreas to function improperly.

This failure, in turn, leads to malnutrition and lowers resistance, and the victims succumb to some infection which is the immediate cause of death.

Susan, 23 months old, and Mary Ann, 2, had infections of the lungs.

Dr. Carroll Witten said the disease is unusual in one member of a family but "extremely rare" in two members.

ROBINSON CRUOE NEEDED LUMBERTON, N. C. (AP)—

Police here could use Robinson Crusoe. A theft who broke into five establishments in the past few days has left only one clue—a perfect barefoot print.

Delegates Heading For Tally

Both Sides Meet For Showdown

The annexation battle will erupt on the Tallahassee front tonight.

Delegations for and against the City Commission's proposed bill were to meet with the Seminole County legislative delegation in the capital city for a show down on the vital issue.

Meanwhile today, the Junior Chamber of Commerce joined other organizations in endorsing the annexation plan and voted to send a telegram to the legislators urging them to secure passage of the bill.

The action was taken on a motion by Herbert Roller, past president of the Jaycees, who pointed out that extension of the city limits is "very important at this time." He asked the Jaycees to get behind the annexation move.

A delegation headed by Mayor Denver Cordell left this morning to present the argument for annexation to Senator Douglas Stenstrom, Rep. Vols Williams Jr. and Rep. Mack Cleveland Jr. Making up the delegation were City Commissioners F. D. Scott and Jack Rutigan, City Manager Warren Knowles, Clifford McKibbin and John Levy.

A number of other civic leaders favoring annexation were traveling separately to Tallahassee. Among them were Bradley Odham and Fred Perkins, publisher of The Herald.

But the opposing side readied its big guns for a counter-attack at tonight's meeting. A spokesman said a delegation planned to walk into the meeting and present the other side of the picture.

"All of us want to see the city grow. It means a lot to us," Bob Bennett, head of the opposition group, declared. "But we are fighting for our rights as a democratic people."

Bennett said the group wanted to restrict the proposed referendum to the areas directly affected, instead of permitting Sanford to also vote on the question.

"We are going to try to get the legislators to put off the referendum altogether for the time being," Bennett said. "But, failing that, we are going to try to restrict the referendum to the areas subject to annexation."

Bennett said he had been advised by a member of the legislative delegation that a bill was to be introduced in the legislature to zone within a half-mile radius of Sanford in order to regulate building and bring about an orderly growth.

A discussion of the annexation question took up a considerable amount of time at today's weekly luncheon meeting of the Junior Chamber of Commerce. Others speaking for annexation included William Stempier who pointed out the advantages of being in the city "far outweigh the small amount of tax." He also urged the Jaycees to take a definite stand in the matter.

BELGRADE, YUGOSLAVIA (AP)—Flags left over from President Tito's birthday festooned Belgrade today for the arrival of Russia's top leaders, coming to heal the seven-year breach between the Kremlin and the outspoken Yugoslav marshal.

The government newspaper Politika announced today that the Soviet delegation would arrive late today. The time and details were kept secret.

Politika urged Belgraders to line the streets to show they "believe that the Yugoslav-Soviet talks will be fruitful and will contribute to the further improvement of relations between the two countries."

The Soviet delegation is headed by Communist party boss Nikita S. Khrushchev, Premier Nikolai A. Bulganin and Vice Premier A. I. Mikoyan, a trade expert.

White House Denies Hobby Resignation

Press Secretary Hagerty Reports Official Has Not Given Up Post

WASHINGTON (AP)—The White House denied today that Mrs. Oveta Culp Hobby has resigned as secretary of health, education and welfare.

Press secretary James C. Hagerty reported that the secretary's husband, William F. Hobby, is "critically ill" but told newsmen: "I cannot tell you at this time whether that illness will force Mrs. Hobby to leave the government."

The New York Herald-Tribune said today that Mrs. Hobby had presented her resignation and that it was understood President Eisenhower had accepted.

The New York Daily News in a copyright story, also from Washington, reported that Clare Boothe Luce is flying to Washington from her post as ambassador in Rome to take over as Mrs. Hobby's successor. Mrs. Luce in Rome denied that story.

Hagerty talked with newsmen after conferring with both the President and Mrs. Hobby. He talked with Mrs. Hobby by telephone at her home in Houston, Tex., where she went last week to be with her ailing husband.

Hobby is ill with arthritis. He is 77 years old.

Presbyterians Back U. N. Goal Of Peaceful Living

LOS ANGELES (AP)—Presbyterians have endorsed the United Nations as "an instrument by which sovereign nations can meet together, plan together and act together to save succeeding generations from the scourge of war."

The 167th General Assembly of the Presbyterian Church in the United States of America ended yesterday after also taking stands for universal disarmament and desegregation.

"We warn our churches and church members against malicious attacks on the United Nations on the part of persons and groups whose avowed purpose is to get the United States out of the United Nations and the United States," the assembly said.

Scholarships Flood Pawtucket Student

PAWTUCKET, R. I. (AP)—Jane L. Paltzall has been offered so many scholarships she can't handle them all.

Jane is 20 and a Phi Beta Kappa. She graduates from Pembroke College next month. She held scholarships throughout her four years there.

Yesterday she was named winner of a Fulbright scholarship for a year of advanced study overseas. Three months ago she was notified she won a Rotary Foundation fellowship for a year of study in England.

She turned down both because she had accepted a Marshall fellowship for two years of study at Cambridge England University.

Project engineers could offer no explanation.

Workers Given Ride On Concrete Slab

LOUISVILLE, Ky. (AP)—Seven workers rode a 45-ton concrete slab to a "forced landing" yesterday and escaped with minor injuries.
