Power, Telephones Disrupted

Winds And Rains Play Havoc

By JANE CASSELBERRY

Terrential rains and strong winds caused havoc in the area during this morning's rush hour, knocking out electricity and telephones and dumping 4.4 inches of rain during one hour's time on Sanford. This morning's downpour came on the heels of yesterday's day long precipitation which brought 4.36 inches.

The stormy weather was widespread across Central Florida with tornadoes reported in Lockhart and Dommerich Hills, Maitland. A tornado smashed 10 houses at St. Petersburg.

The Sanford Herald news room was "in the dark" this morning for nearly 45 minutes as well as much of the downtown section when a tree blew down in back of the old Herald building on First Street, knocking out power.

Wind ripped out a major portion of the roof of the City Products Corporation's ice plant at Rand's Yard, west of Sanford.

Sheriff's department and the Sanford police department switched to emergency power during this time to keep their radio communications operable.

Some trouble was also experienced in using the telephones.

Robert Shedden, manager of Southern Bell in Sanford, said the damage to cables from wind and water was minimal but there was an overload of calls by people concerned about the storm, causing some delay in getting a signal.

Scott Burns, of Florida Power and Light, reported the repairs were being handled by a supervisory crew of 10, four of whom were in the office handling calls and directing repair crews, due to the strike which has been in effect for the past two months.

Power failures were caused when damage occurred in five or six sections, tripping substation breakers and knocking out three main feeders, but Burns reported the backbone of the system was back in service later this morning. A pole was broken by the winds behind Food Fair, a tree was down on lines at Third and Park, as well as light damage in other scattered parts of town.

A Seaboard Coast Line Railroad crossing arm was broken off at SR 46.

Aluminum boats were tossed about at Meadors Marine, on the lakefront, sending them into the fence and road.

Florida Power Corporation reported power was out in a few isolated areas of South Seminole, such as parts of Casselberry, but conditions were much much worse in Winter Park and Maitland, where three feeder lines were out due to downed trees.

The Herald's Longwood correspondent, Mrs. Ann Riley, reported that a tree limb was blown through a window of her house during the height of the storm.

Grocery Robbed; 2 Bandits Escape

By BILL SCOTT

A South Seminole supermarket was robbed of an undetermined amount last night by two men armed with .38 caliber pistols who forced employes and customers to lie on the floor while the store manager was made to open the safe.

County investigators said Larry Padget, of Orlando, manager of Winn-Dixie Super Market located on Hwy. 17-92 at Longwood, reported two men appearing to be approximately 25 years of age took an undisclosed but believed to be a large amount of currency, from the office safe after pointing a gun at him in the 6:30 p.m. incident.

Detectives Capt. J. Q. Galloway and Clarence Smith are investigating and report the pair drove away in a late model car.

In another county report, Clarence Earl Stubblefield, 24-year-old Apopka man, charged on a warrant with possession of marijuana when arrested by Deputy Constable Hal Grasberry, will have a preliminary hearing before Peace Justice Thomas Lovett Dec. 29 at 5 p.m. Stubblefield was arrested Tuesday while driving along Highway 17-92 by Granberry and later released after posting $750 bond.

AROUND THE CLOCK
By JOHN A. SPOLSKI

Things that are hard for me to understand . . . I listen to the 'pulse' of your comments urging us to make sure that all the news is presented.

And then a couple of snide remarks are cast that "you're not painting a good picture", etc. However, these same people send us Thank You notes on those occasions when we printed something favorable about them or expressed an opinion on a subject on which we both agreed.

You tell me why anyone would object to another party trying to improve an area or the living conditions of others!

• • •

ANOTHER QUIZZER . . .

With the local voter turnout percentage so terribly poor, why do these people get out and vote on a national election, when in reality, the people they put into office during the local elections have a greater bearing on their well-being than voting for a President, as an example. Why wouldn't these same be more concerned in local issues where their pocket books are going to be taxed . . . you tell me, why??

• • •

Switching to the alleged My Lai massacre . . . ask those who are so upset about this incident to explain the difference between the accused and those in airplanes who drop napalm bombs and kill civilians? Or the artillery men who fire their shells and rockets, not knowing for certain where they'll land?

And it isn't just this terrible war . . . CAUSE ALL WARS ARE STUPID with no one really a winner . . . how about back in 1945 when the Allies firebombed the city of Dresden and killed off 150,000 Germans . . . not to mention Hiroshima.

It's like I started to say . . . there are some things I just can't understand.

• • •

But, I think I do get the message of Sen. George McGovern of South Dakota who said, "Every policymaker in our government, every senator and congressman and even the recent elevated silent majority —that all of us are involved in the guilt of the atrocities of Vietnam."

Rains Came Here

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Torrential rains and damaging tornadoes slammed Central Florida today as stormy weather blew into the Sunshine State.

In one hour, 4.4 inches of rain fell at Sanford, the Weather Bureau said. Some streets were impassable.

Twisting winds were reported in St. Petersburg, Lockhart, an Orlando suburb, and Domerick Hills, a community on the Orange-Seminole county line. High winds struck Casselberry in Seminole County, knocking trees onto power lines.

Ormond Beach lost a couple of roofs when winds of 40 to 50 miles raked the area.

What was described as a small tornado flattened a barn in the Riverview area of Hillsborough County, the sheriff's office said.

A tornado watch was issued by the Weather Bureau for an area along and southeast of a line from Fort Myers to Daytona Beach. The watch was in effect until 1 p.m., EST.

Mar-Lou Complex Purchased

By FRED VAN PELT

Purchase of the Albenian Corporation property, including the Mar-Lou Motel complex, by Random Development, Inc., was reported today by J. B. Cain, Random president. This purchase involves one-quarter mile of Hwy. 17-92 frontage.

This property adjoins a parcel purchased in 1968 from Mrs. Emily Yeakle. Total investment in both properties is approximately $500,000.

The Mar-Lou property has been completely renovated and the name changed to Coachman Motel. The restaurant and lounge is being renovated and will be known as the Coachroom.

Cain, of Sanford, said negotiations are underway with a national, Sanford-based concern for utilization of a portion of the property immediately north of the motel complex.

THE WINDS BLEW, THE RAINS CAME

THE SANFORD HERALD building has no windows. So, during the power blackout at the height of this morning's storm, the newspaper people were huddled on the front porch, watching and waiting, and witnessed Bill Vincent snap this exceptional photo of a storm and its fury. Photo was snapped at about 8:10 this morning.

Absentees Costly To Schools

Because of the high number of absentees, Seminole County schools lost $54,606 in state minimum foundation and school construction funds during the month of November.

This was reported today by Walter Teague, school finance officer, who listed county's total pupil absence days during November as 24,839 and stated this was a "terrific amount of absentees" for the school system.

Teague said this means a loss of $2.18 average per pupil for the schools during November, which also saw the county's 19,653 total enrollment dip to 94 per cent attendance. Teague gave no reason for the attendance drop.

In other school news, the School Board will take bids on the new Eastbrook Elementary School during Thursday's 7 p.m. session.

Supt. John Angel related this today at weekly news conference and indicated ground would soon be broken on the needed south county facility.

Because of a shortage of classrooms in the area and the inability of the board to sell $3.8 million in school bonds due to high interest rates, it has become necessary that an educational building of a nearby church be leased to avoid having double sessions.

The money for the Eastbrook facility was obtained on anticipation notes from Florida State Bank by Teague after long hours of searching for building funds.

Board at Thursday's meeting is also expected to hear Carlton Henley, speaking for the Seminole Education Association, on that group's recommendations regarding variable annuity insurance for teachers.

Pat Buie, board member, is also expected to give his report on using data processing at the session.

Courtroom Space Need Given Study By County

By MARION BETHEA

The pressing need of additional courtroom facilities was brought to the attention of the Board of County Commissioners at Tuesday's meeting.

Two possible locations were presented by Commissioner Greg Drummond—the old Herald building with a rent of $600 monthly and the old Hollywood Shop renting for $342 monthly.

(Editor's note: On last July 8 Circuit Judge Vollie A. Williams served notice on the County Commission that it must provide additional courtroom space by Jan. 1 or he would take "appropriate steps" for compliance.)

Owners of the Hollywood Shop also have offered to air condition and carpet the building, the cost to be amortized on a two-year basis.

Drummond also discussed the possibility of a temporary building to be placed on the northeast corner of the block upon which the present courthouse is situated.

Projected time of occupancy of the new courthouse was a prime requisite in determination of rental or purchasing a portable. Estimated cost of a portable is $24,000. Cost of leasing facilities is $19,000.

Drummond and Commission Chairman John Alexander favor the portable. The matter was placed on next week's agenda, during which time the durability of the portable will be ascertained.

Commissioners also took action to notify several utility companies that they are in violation

Police Chief Is Fired By Casselberry Mayor

By TOM ALEXANDER

A letter from Casselberry Mayor Curtis Blow to Casselberry Police Chief Donald Brumley has confirmed The Sanford Herald's exclusive story yesterday that Blow will not reappoint Brumley as police chief next year.

Brumley told The Herald today the letter simply stated that as of Dec. 31 he would no longer be police chief of Casselberry. No reason was included in the letter why he would not be reappointed.

Brumley told The Herald in an exclusive interview this afternoon that "I'm not interested in politics. All I am trying to do is build a good sound police department." Brumley concluded, "My only interest is the well being of the citizens of Casselberry."

Councilman Richard Wirz sounded his disapproval of Mayor Blow's actions this morning when he told The Herald, "I am thoroughly disgusted with the situation. I feel that the city of Casselberry is going to lose out in the end if Chief Brumley is not reappointed."

Wirz continued, "This is going to tear down all the good work that the council has done during the year. I am disappointed on the whole and I think that the Casselberry police department is equal to any in the state and I am proud of every policeman."

Wirz backed up his defense of Brumley by pointing out certain statistics; "We have a very low crime rate and I feel like our traffic court is handled on the level of a city the size of Miami. Justice Tom Freeman is excellent and the policemen show high conduct and poise due to the police department's leadership."

Mayor Blow refused to discuss the matter over the telephone this afternoon, inviting a Herald reporter to come to his office and discuss it in person.

South Vietnam Ups Forces; Factor Seen In Withdrawal

By GEORGE ESPER
Associated Press Writer

SAIGON (AP) — The South Vietnamese government announced today that its armed forces have increased by about 68,000 men during the past six months, a factor presumably figuring in the third withdrawal of American troops President Nixon will announce later this month.

The government said its forces total about 1,090,000 men under arms, compared to about 1,022,000 six months ago.

A spokesman gave this approximate breakdown: army 574,000; navy 28,000; air force 32,000; marines 11,000; regional forces 252,000; popular forces 178,000; paramilitary forces including national police, civilian irregulars and revolutionary development (pacification) cadre, 215,800.

The figures showed a 6,000-man decrease in South Vietnam's regular army, but a spokesman said this was only a "fluctuation." Navy strength increased by 3,000, the air force was up 12,000, and the marines gained 2,000 men.

The biggest gains, however, were in the militia—the regional, popular and paramilitary forces. The regional forces increased 32,000, the popular forces 8,000 and paramilitary forces 33,000.

Militiamen of the regional and popular forces have been hit hard by recent enemy attacks, especially in the Mekong Delta. Regional force companies operate under the control of each province chief, with orders to fight local Viet Cong guerrillas and destroy their political infrastructure. Popular force platoons, which defend their own villages and hamlets, have a higher casualty rate than any other element of the South Vietnamese armed forces.

The South Vietnamese military command would not disclose how many of the 1,090,000 troops are now carried on the rolls as deserters. But the most recent informed, unofficial estimates said the desertion rate this year has been running about two per cent, or a little more than 20,000.

President Nguyen Van Thieu said today that the South Vietnamese "cannot be so craven as to ask the United States to continue fighting the Communists for us."

Thieu, discussing the withdrawal of American troops, said the national situation is brighter than three or four years ago and that his armed forces are growing stronger.

of the county water and sewer regulations and if compliance is not met by the board's Dec. 16 meeting, legal and punitive action will be taken. Those mentioned were Meredith Manor Utilities, Inc., Southern Gulf Utilities, First Florida Utilities and Central Florida Utilities.

R. C. Conklin, engineer, advised the board that it should consider establishing a utility regulations department since the county has grown to proportions of needing such a department.

Constable Robert Jane spoke of traffic speed conditions on SR 426 and said in his opinion a uniform speed was needed from 1-4 to Red Bug Road as the speed limit varies from 35 mph to 45 mph. Jane also pointed to the number of warrants issued this year in comparison with last year. Justice of the peace issued 2,100 warrants this year and 1,200 last year. Arrests made by constables numbered 1,636 this year, 402 last year.

Alexander was obviously not impressed by the figures, stating that in his opinion JPs were "antiquata" and that he was opposed to the fee system.

Troubles Doubled

By JOHN BECKLER
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Nixon's troubles with Congress are being compounded by his failure to win support from key members of the congressional Republican leadership for some of his major proposals.

Influential Republicans, including at times the top leadership, have worked openly against Nixon's recommendations on civil rights, antipoverty legislation, the Supreme Court nomination of Clement F. Haynsworth Jr. and a major provision of the tax reform bill.

As a result, Nixon is winding up his first year in office, when a President's relations with Congress are usually their most cordial, with fewer accomplishments than might have been expected, even with the Democrats controlling both House and Senate.

In part Nixon's difficulties with his own leaders have been caused by policy disagreements born of the liberal-conservative split that has long plagued the Republican party. Capitol Hill Republicans also complain of tangled lines of communication with the White House.

But much of the difficulty stems from what House and Senate Republicans feel is a lack of White House understanding of the political problems certain votes can cause them.

Smallest Package Passed

By MARK BROWN
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — The smallest U.S. foreign aid package since World War I has passed the House and is headed for a Senate confrontation over military aid to Nationalist China and South Korea.

The $1.5 billion global assistance bill, which falls $1 billion short of the amount asked by President Nixon, is the lowest since the program began with the Marshall Plan for European recovery in 1948. It reached a $7.49 billion peak in 1950-51. Last year's foreign aid appropriation was $1.75 billion.

The measure, approved 205-185 in a night House vote Tuesday, contains a hotly disputed $54.5 million to furnish fighter planes for Nationalist China, $50 million in special military aid for South Korea and a provision added at the last minute that bars aid to countries trading with Communist China.

TRAFFIC moved at a snail's pace early this morning as Seminole County was buffeted with tornadic-type winds causing power interruption in parts of Sanford. (Staff Photo)

Two Children Dead; One Critical

Diphtheria Strikes Miami Area

By TAD BARTIMUS
Associated Press Writer

MIAMI (AP) — Diphtheria, a germ almost everybody carries in his mouth, has struck out in epidemic proportions in Miami, leaving two children dead and one critically ill.

State and county health officers unsheated needles today to inoculate thousands of vulnerable children who have never had preventive shots.

An emergency order of 32,000 doses of serum was flown to Miami from Philadelphia before dawn today for distribution through public schools.

Six medical teams were to begin vaccinating school children in 40 schools today in the northwest section of Miami, the only area where the disease has surfaced.

"About 41,000 children in this area will be given immunization beginning today," said Dr. Malcolm Ford, acting director of the Division of Health.

"We have had seven cases of the disease since last October and an earlier case brought the total to eight cases in four months," he said.

Dr. Milton Saslaw, acting director of the Dade County Health Department, said the term epidemic is applied when more than three cases of a preventable disease breaks out in a short period of time.

"We have a definite outbreak and it is serious, especially when you consider this is the first time since 1962 we have had more than three cases," Dr. Saslaw said.

The two children who succumbed to the disease and the 5-year-old boy in critical condition in an isolation ward at Jackson Hospital did not have any traceable contact with each other, according to the county health official.

Dade County Mayor Chuck Hall said he will check on the County Commission's responsibility today to pass a local ordinance requiring immunization against the disease among all school children.

"I understand this is not required by state law, but I think this semi-tropical state needs this more than any other," the mayor said.

"I urge everyone not to panic," Hall said, "because this is in the process of being controlled. However, I feel every child should get their shots, because it could save their lives."

Herod McKinnon, Jackson Hospital administrator, said although the hospital's regular supply of serum was modest, "we have a special ward set up and we can treat any amount of cases."

Diphtheria is basically an airborne germ that lives in almost everyone's mouth, Dr. Saslaw said. It is generally communicated through coughing and sneezing, and is centered in the throat.

The now wholly-preventable disease wiped out thousands in Western Europe and the United States prior to 1890 when German bacteriologist Emil von Behring developed the first anti-toxin.

But doctors still have not fully determined why the disease strikes some a fatal blow while other carriers are never affected.

"Every once in a while, for some unexplained reason, this bug causes actual illness centered in the throat and spreads throughout the body," Dr. Saslaw said.

The disease most commonly occurs in the fall and winter months. McKinnen said this fall was the first time most of the doctors at Jackson Memorial had ever seen a diphtheria case.

All Banned—From Rock To Bach

FORT LAUDERDALE, Fla. (AP) — The Broward County Commission Tuesday passed an ordinance that bans all outdoor music events from rock to Bach.

The commission action was aimed at a Christmas week rock festival.

"Our legal counsel said it was the only way to block the rock festival," said Commissioner Robert B. Barkelew.

The complicated ordinance came just 18 days before the scheduled opening of a rock festival expected to draw 70,000 people.

"After what we read about such goings on in California and Palm Beach, we don't want such a thing for our community," said Barkelew.

An attorney for Norman Johnson, promoter of the festival, called the ordinance "unwarranted, confiscatory, unconstitutional action" and said legal steps would be taken in a federal court against the ordinance.

Johnson said he had no plans to call off the festival and reported ticket sales for the festival planned for an auto race track nine miles west of Hollywood would continue.

The complex county ordinance seeks to block any outside musical events over the holidays. The ordinance does not ban indoor entertainment.

By JOHN CUNNIF
AP Business Analyst

NEW YORK (AP) — As a measure of the economy's health, those jobless figures that are announced each month are suspect. If you accept them, then you must believe also that we are undergoing convulsions.

Through most of this year the Jobless rate was a bit above or below 3.5 per cent. In September it leaped to 4 per cent, one of the sharpest increases in years and cause enough for suspicion.

In October the figure dropped a slight bit to 3.9 per cent but remained higher than in previous months and so was viewed as confirmation of a trend to greater joblessness.

Now comes the second shocker in two months. In November, the Labor Department announced, the rate plunged to 3.5 per cent, the sharpest drop in 10 years.

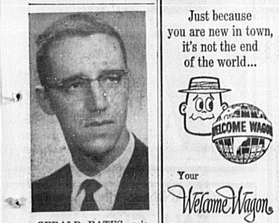
Imagine those figures on a line graph. Similar aberrations on a seismograph would indicate an earthquake, on a barometer a violent storm, on an electrocardiograph a heart attack, on a stock market chart some shocking news.

Now curiosity the figures in relation to the economy. For many months the Nixon administration has made the battle against inflation the No. 1 domestic issue. The surtax is being maintained, spending is being cut, money is being made tight.

Such a policy, we are told by economists, almost invariably results in a rise in unemployment. When the September figures came in, therefore, they were viewed as evidence that a slowdown was developing.

Administration spokesman generally commented that nobody likes to see men out of work but that the figures, distressing as they were, offered evidence that the government was making headway against inflation.

The argument sounded convincing. In fact, if the figures were to be accepted as accurately portraying the employment picture, about the only logical explanation was the one being offered by the administration.



GERALD BATES, missionary to Burundi and Congo will be guest speaker at Free Methodist Church, Sanford, at 7:30 p.m. Thursday, Dec. 11. He will tell of his adventures in that rebellion torn land illustrating his talk with slides and artifacts. A question and answer period will follow.

Newshen Causes Top Officials To Jump

Presidents Stop And Listen To Distaff Reporter

By DILLO NGRAHAM
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — "Sir," Sarah McClendon begins. And presidents of the United States—the most powerful individuals in the world—brace themselves for assault by a plump, 5-foot-3 woman.

"Sir," Mrs. McClendon began at President Nixon's news conference Monday night, "There are two flagrant instances of intimidation and harassment and threats against Pentagon personnel who may have divulged information to Congress and to the public about cost overruns and mismanagements and irregular industrial alliances."

President Nixon looked on straight-faced.

"These two instances," Sarah continued, "are related because some of the same people are involved. I refer, one, to the Gestapo-like interrogation of Pentagon personnel to see who leaker information to Sarah McClendon for news stories. This involved Barry Shillito and Edward Sheridan."

The President continued to look on, without changing expression as Mrs. McClendon continued:

"I also refer to the firing of Arnest Fitzgerald, whose divulgement of cost overruns saved the American people $2 billion. His greatest critics were Dr. Robert Moot and Barry Shillito.

"Can you do something about this, please, sir?"

President Nixon then grinned and the other newsmen laughed.

Nixon answered: "Miss McClendon, I better, after the way you put this question."

Her reference to Barry Shillito didn't surprise the President. Monday, but it did at his last news conference when Mrs. McClendon said he was unqualified to be assistant secretary of defense.

"I don't know the gentleman," the President said finally. "But after that question I am going to find out who he is."

Sarah McClendon's questions often evoke that kind of response.

"I'm often asking the questions others are afraid to ask," she says. "I am timid. I have to make myself ask the questions. But I don't have any fear if I think I'm right."

In asking questions she thinks are right, Mrs. McClendon has visibly angered Presidents Eisenhower, Kennedy and Johnson.

She is Washington correspondent for a string of newspapers, most of them in her native Texas, and she has been doing it since 1944.

"Mr. President, Sir," she asked John F. Kennedy in 1962 "Two well known security risks have recently been put on a task force in the State Department to help reorganize the Office of Security."

Kennedy asked, "Well, now, who?"

Mrs. McClendon told him.

About 60 per cent of Ireland's total exports are agricultural products.

The President said he had looked into the cases and that the duties that they have been assigned to, they can carry out without detriment to the interests of the United States and, I hope, without detriment to their characters by your question."

Secret Of Landing Right First Job

By JOYCE LAIN

DEAR MISS LAIN: I am a 17-year-old girl and will be graduating from high school this June. I know this may sound dumb to you coming from a high school senior, but would you be good enough to tell me what the procedures are for getting a job?

Whom do I write to or see about getting a Social Security card and work permit? Where do I start looking for employment?

Would you please answer my questions? It means quite a lot to me and I'm anxious to get a job. I thank you for any secret to the whole job-finding business you may give me, and the time you may have wasted reading this.

E.L.T., WASHINGTON, D.C.

A. — You happen to be an untried teen on the trail of your first job and this six-part special series answer is directed to you. However, to a large extent, the same techniques apply to the experienced worker searching for new career satisfaction or the homemaker who wants to return to work.

Your letter is typical of thousands I've received and please don't be concerned about the time I spent reading it. If my answer helps you in any way, it's time well invested, not wasted.

TO ANSWER your easiest question first, all you have to do to obtain a Social Security card is fill out an application which you can get from the Social Security Administration office in your community (by personal visit or telephone request), or at a Post Office.

State laws vary, so you'll have to get the facts on the work permit question from local school authorities or a public employment service office.

BECAUSE YOUR FIRST JOB can set the style of your whole life for years to come, locating and landing it is one of the most crucial challenges you will ever face. And . . .

Although you didn't say it, I think you mean you want The job — not just A job. If so, you're going to have to put considerable effort and strategy into your hunt. There are no short cuts, no cop-outs.

FIRST, you need a clear plan of attack. And since you're waging a campaign, it's a good idea to outline your plan in a special notebook, and to keep notes and progress.

You're fortunate to have six months to prepare; begin reading and clipping the newspaper's classified want-ads (in the field of your interest), noting such information as requirements and salary information. Seek out people who are currently employed in your interest area, and ask them questions. Let your teachers and counselors know you're making a search; employers may call them to find good employees.

Research now will give you a basis for action later.

The fact that most people roam randomly on job safaris can work to your advantage. By following a planned approach, you'll have the edge on other applicants seeking the same job.

THAT'S THE SECRET of great success in your job search: System. For several weeks we'll talk about basics for your system, including resumes, job interviews and how to avoid costly mistakes.

Nixon's Press Conference: Closing The Gap

President Nixon's nationally reported, broadcast and televised press conference on Monday evening was a major example of the recognition of a need for better communication between his administration and a masterful effort to provide it.

Proper evaluation requires that the temper of the times be considered. For these are days of trial for both those in government and those who must try to understand and report what is being done.

Distortion by political pressures and the need for careful pronouncements from the President of the United States to avoid misinterpretations are twin circumstances that confront the Chief Executive whenever he holds a formal and general press conference.

Cultivered to pose questions are the very best of journalism's practitioners. Many have watched President after President undergo the searing test of the sharp and slanted questions to be answered with the full light of the TV cameras to portray facial expressions and the keen wits of analysts and commentators alert to any news-making sentence.

Thus it was with the affair of Monday night. To one who has watched such conferences for many years, the manner in which President Nixon conducted the conference, the ease with which he fielded some hot questions and his general air of confidence based on fine briefing got very high marks, indeed.

It is also necessary to recognize that a general press conference can be used as a stage upon which to present dramatic or headline making decisions. This is often done and was done during the President Johnson administration.

When President Nixon announced that he would hold his first general press conference in prime TV time on Dec. 8th, dayz before the event, it was expected that some such announcement would be forthcoming.

None was.

The reporters were handed the ball at once. President Nixon went "to the questions." Almost every issue was brought up. Vietnam, inevitably, was spotlighted.

Tax reform, the speeches of Vice President Spiro Agnew attacking mass media treatment of presidential statements, the slow-moving Congress, even the involvement of U.S. arms in Laos provoked leading questions.

Yet, none seemed to disturb the president. Quickly and effectively came the responses. From time to time there were reminders of the free-wheeling and intriguing press conferences which were a hallmark of the Kennedy days.

As hands were raised for recognition, out would come the Nixon arm and, with a sweep, his finger would point to the reporter who could pose the question.

We believe that such press conferences should be held more frequently. For it is only with an understanding of White House positions which need public support and which, more often than not are obscured by official gobbledygook, that such support can be obtained.

This, once more, brings out the sober necessity of the American citizen to do his part. This is, without doubt, to keep informed about national policies and events.

President Nixon and his staff who so ably briefed him on probable questions, the TV networks, the radio stations, the news services and the newspapers who published the news have done and are doing their part.

The disturbing question is: How many Americans did either watch the TV, listen to the broadcast or read the accounts?

For all else goes down the drain if public attention is absent and the communication gap remains!

Green Thumb, Inc.

Not every battle in the War on Poverty has been lost, though setbacks always command large headlines. One sparkling success story is Green Thumb Inc., a public works project for men over 60 with agricultural backgrounds who are willing to work three days a week for $1.60 an hour. It had a modest beginning in Arkansas in 1966 and has spread to Oklahoma and 13 other states. The program is funded by the Office of Economic Opportunity and provides highway beautification, park and other public works jobs.

By almost any yardstick, Green Thumb measures up as a success story. In fact, many of the men who went to work on Green Thumb projects have been hired away by private employers impressed with their ability and hard work. Not only has the program helped some of the country's elderly poor, it has provided cities and towns with such worthwhile facilities as picnic tables, toilets, fireplaces and floral gardens.

The Oklahoma program is under the direction of Oklahoma Farmers Union. For many of the participants, the opportunity to earn up to $1,600 to supplement their small incomes means the difference between grinding poverty and getting by. The program also proves that the difference between guaranteeing a man a job and guaranteeing him an income is the difference between pride and indolence.

An one elderly Green Thumber told a reporter: "Kinda like the old WPA days. Back in them days we built a lot of things. Bridges, courthouses, roads — you name it, we built it. 'Made work' they called it, but . . . we at least gave 'em their money's worth."—Tulsa (Okla.) Tribune

Political Notebook:

Foes Misread Nixon's Motives

By BRUCE BIOSSAT,
NEA Washington Correspondent

WASHINGTON (NEA) — Some of President Nixon's adversaries, both young and adult, are reasoning quite badly as they try to weigh his motives with regard to the Vietnam war.

Many say they distrust his announced intent to disengage the United States from that war, at least on a combat basis, because he is a "political animal" responsive only to shallow political considerations.

To clear away the fringe aspects of this issue, let us first set aside those who simply distrust Nixon the man—and allow that to color their judgments of all his actions.

Recently a leading Democrat privately acknowledged that he feels this broad distrust, and there is evidence he has much company among adult liberals of both parties. It is a heritage from the 1950s, when they saw Nixon as the Republicans' young hatchet man.

Countless young people voice a general distrust of the President, but the judgment has less meaning since they profess to feel the same about all "establishment" leaders.

When all such leaders are automatically blackened in a blanket indictment, obviously no real process of judgment and discernment are being exercised and the conclusions lack all force. There is nothing easier, or more useless, than condemning everybody.

The argument that does deserve answer is that Nixon cannot be believed on the subject of war disengagement because he is "political."

The reported must try to appraise the validity of that argument without either defending or assaulting the President's specific plans for getting us out.

Politics is highly complex, and being political can have many meanings. It is unlikely that all those who apply the label to Rchard Nixon have the same things in mind. But one can be pretty sure that a high proportion of those individuals believe that the President wants very much to be re-elected in 1972.

His track record on this score is persuasive. He has been running for something most of the time since 1946. In 1968, undiscouraged by prior, back-to-back defeats for the presidency and the California governorship in 1960-62, he staged an impressive comeback to gain the White House. No first-time GOP loser had ever before managed that.

Now, if the President is the sharp-eyed politician both his friends and his enemies say he is, and no more than an ordinary reader of the newspapers, then he knows what every major pollitaker has been reporting for a good many months: that a very substantial majority of the American people want us out of Vietnam.

In case any of Nixon's untrusting adversaries missed it, his acute awareness of this sentiment has been widely and often reported. Moreover, it has been many times reported that he does not believe he would have a very good chance of re-election in 1972 if by then he has not severely reduced our role in Vietnam and eliminated battle casualties.

This June he set out upon a course of unilateral combat-troop withdrawal from Vietnam, a path no leading dove in 1968 had urged upon us. He did so because, watching the empty peace talks in Paris, he could see no other way to get in motion toward disengagement. Can there be any real doubt that political urgency was high in his mind?

One does not have to buy all the elements of Nixon's plan, to ignore the conditions he attaches to withdrawal stages, or to argue that there are no heavy gambles in it, to accept the high probability that he is on an irreversible route to full disengagement of our ground combat forces—for a starter.

Granted the accuracy of the general judgment that the country wants out, given the President's evident grasp that his political future is linked to fulfilling that national wish, his action, conservation (cleaning up air and water) and homes for all neglected children—not just two.

Anyway, the 1970 session of the Legislature is not too far off. Then I hope Seminole County will get a fair share of road money.

In the meantime they can use the road money already available.

I hope the voters will remember that Republicans as well as Democrats helped pass the pay raise bill, and all the trouble might have been avoided if the governor had told them in the beginning that he would veto it, instead of waiting till the taxpayers howled in their agony.

The governor has not been exactly stingy with himself in the use of our money.

Another thing, we must not forget a number of good legislators who remembered their promises to the people. Among them are three Democrats we must admire, Reubin Askew of Pensacola, our own Bill Gunter and Frederick Karl of Daytona Beach.

P.S. I sent a letter like this to the newspaper in a neighboring city and they "doctored" it to make it appear that I approve of the governor! No wonder there are so many letters in favor of Kirk!??

Questions

Editor, Herald:

Can you tell me why that East 24th Street off Mellonville Avenue is graded nice and smooth, while 24th East of Summerlin gets no attention at all???

24th Street east of Summerlin is the sorriest excuse for a street that I've seen, including roads in Vietnam.

I wonder if the the fact that a certain city official lives on 24th west of Summerlin has anything to do with the condition and maintenance of the street.

Name Withheld

(Editor's note: It is presumed the writer is referring to City Manager Pete Knowles. They should know that Mr. Knowles would like to have his street paved, even to the point of sharing the pro rata cost with his neighbors, as is most street paving financed, but has withheld any such work because of anticipated criticism such as the letter above.)

Appreciation

EDITOR, Herald:

Without the aid and support of the downtown merchants and area businessmen, many of Seminole Junior College students would be out of a job or maybe out of college also. By having the opportunity to work and save, many students are learning and earning at the same time.

Whenever a student is given the opportunity to work and earn a little money, it helps put food in their mouth, clothes on their backs, and gas in their tanks.

Someone comes into the office everyday to inquire about a job and once a job is obtained, hard work is put into making the best of the assignment.

Words alone cannot express our sincere appreciation for the job opportunities given to us by the merchants and businessmen in the community. On behalf of Seminole Junior College and the Student Government Association, I express our genuine appreciation for your aid and support of the employment during our time of need.

Letters To The Editor

Kirk Given A Mild Slap

Editor, Herald:

Some people have been shocked at the disrespect shown the governor of Florida by the legislators. So far, I have been able to hold back tears of sympathy for him because I believe he enjoyed every minute.

When will the legislators learn that they are dealing with a master politician? So far he has out smarted them every time. He let them think he would approve the big pay raise and even members of his own party were surprised and angered when he vetoed the bill. Ever since, most of them—Republicans as well as Democrats—have been trying to get even with him, and the poor taxpayers are caught in the middle of their spats. And who appears to be the savior of the state?

I for one am not so sure he is a savior or even a good governor. If his tongue hadn't been so sharp, If he'd been willing to reason and try to lead. As one newspaper so often says, he "blasts" people—and it is human nature to "blast" back.

And I don't approve of his secret club. Why don't the contributors want their names published? Is it because they think the voters would not approve of them? Do they expect favors in return for the big donations? If we are going to have government in the sunshine, let's not have any dark corners anywhere.

When I read that the governor was moving two youngsters from an adult prison, I applauded. But he had to spoil it all by putting them on television and calling them Huck Finns.

It would have been wiser to have moved them quietly. How many others boys in reform schools and prisons would like to be heroes on television? Of course, we all know it isn't the governor's nature to be modest about his good deeds. But it would have been better for the boys.

There must be a few people besides me who are not too broken up over the failure to get a road bill passed. I am in an age group that does not use the roads much. I prefer my part of the taxes being used on education, conservation (cleaning up air and water) and homes for all neglected children—not just two.

Anyway, the 1970 session of the Legislature is not too far off. Then I hope Seminole County will get a fair share of road money.

Ousted O'Neil Has Reply

TALLAHASSEE, Fla. (AP)—Deposed State Transportation Secretary Michael O'Neil said today he hopes the Florida Senate permits him to respond to allegations made against him.

As a result of these criticisms, O'Neil, described by friends as a politically naive Irishman, is out of a job today.

However, a move was afoot in some quarters to reconsider the matter.

"I do think we should have some opportunity to answer everything," said O'Neil 41, when contacted at his Tallahassee apartment. He said he planned to be available if senators want to call him for further information.

After four hours of debate and mounting tension, the Senate Tuesday night by a 27 - 21 vote rejected O'Neil's appointment. Old charges were repeated and some new ones offered against O'Neil, an appointee of Gov. Claude Kirk.

O'Neil declined to discuss the allegations specifically, saying he preferred to wait until called by senators or until the Senate completes its work. The special session was scheduled to end today.

"No one likes losing," O'Neil said. "You wonder why you get involved. Once you get in this thing you don't like to lose."

"I don't know," O'Neil said, "but I'll be here, ready to respond."

Just before the vote, three senators pleaded for a delay, saying they were uncertain which way to go. And after the vote, two Senate leaders criticized some of the speeches made against O'Neil.

"Some speeches should never have been made," said Senate President John Mathews, D - Jacksonville. He referred specifically to a perjury accusation leveled at O'Neil by Sen. William Barrow, D-Crestview.

Mathews said in an interview later that he changed his mind four or five times during the debate. Mathews voted for confirmation. Other senators said they, too, were undecided and went into the Senate with open minds to hear the debate.

Sen. Joseph McClain, R-Tampa, a strong critic of O'Neil who voted against confirmation, said he never meant any attacks to get personal or accuse O'Neil of lying.

Eighteen Democrats and nine Republicans voted against O'Neil's confirmation to be the state's road chief, heading an agency that spends some $1 million per day and has 9,000 employes. Fourteen Democrats and seven Republicans voted for confirmation.

When the dust settled, it appeared the two main factors that spelled O'Neil's doom were his part in forming the secret $500-a-year Governor's Club and his participation — while a top state official — in fund - raising activities for Kirk and his war on crime, even after many legislators had expressed displeasure at the practice.

Highway Patrol Asks $700,000 For Autos

By RICH OPPEL
Associated Press Writer

TALLAHASSEE, Fla. (AP)—A $700,000 emergency appropriation bill for the Highway Patrol was greased for fast approval by the Legislature today on the last day of its scheduled 10-day special session.

"Shouldn't take more than 30 minutes," said House Rules chairman E. C. Rowell, D-Wildwood. "There's no opposition. Something's got to be done. We can't let the Highway Patrol ground itself."

The bill breezed through House Appropriations Tuesday night and was expected to gain easy passage today by Senate Ways and Means—clearing it for floor action in both chambers.

A Senate - passed bill which would restore the old state road board and make the secretary of transportation a nonvoting chairman was scheduled to reach the House floor, where at least some opposition awaited it.

The Legislature will be seeking $700,000 in funds as Gov. Claude Kirk will begin seeking a new transportation secretary to replace Michael O'Neil who was voted down in a Senate confirmation showdown Tuesday night.

O'Neil came out on the short end of a 27-21 vote after nearly four hours of debate on the Senate floor.

The vote against confirmation meant that O'Neil, appointed by Kirk to head one of the key agencies in state government, will be out of office at the end of the special session — probably this afternoon.

Gov. Kirk expanded the call —after initial speculation he would extend its length — to allow consideration of the highway patrol request he called "a serious problem."

Old Hoax Reported

TAMPA, Fla. (AP) — Joyce Johnson is stuck with more than 600,000 empty cigarette packs, the victim of what a tobacco company official calls "the biggest, cruelest hoax ever."

Several years ago, Mrs. Johnson heard the story that 20,000 empty cigarette packs or 15 pounds of silver paper from the packs could be redeemed for a seeing eye dog for a blind person, blood for a leukemia victim or some other form of help for needy people.

She began saving packs herself and asked her friends to send them to her to aid others.

She made bi-monthly trips through the Tampa Bay area, gathering 30,000 to 40,000 cigarette packs per trip.

Friends sent her packages of empty cigarette packs from Rhode Island, Mississippi and Louisiana.

Now, she says, she has learned that the empty packets are worthless, and that she has a garage full of empty cigarette packs she'll have to pay someone to haul to the dump.

Joy of Christmas

Christmas is a host of things
It's tinsel, trees and lights
It's candlelight and mistletoe
And many dazzling sights
It's the laughter and the spirit
Of the bustling, happy throng
It's the chiming of the church bells
And the voices raised in song
But Christmas time is most of all
Man's hope of peace on earth
And the glad commemoration
Of our Blessed Saviour's birth

Crane's Worry Clinic:

How About That "Kiss Test"?

By - GEORGE W. CRANE, PH.D., M.D.

CASE L-581: Bob Summers invited me to address the banquet session of his Lions Club.

As I ate my dinner, the chairman asked me if I could suggest any question that might be asked the crowd to determine the winner of the customary prize awarded at each meeting.

So I suggested that the "Tell Twister" of the club ask the assembled group of men to estimate how many of them had kissed their wives that day.

In that crowd of 50 men, the guesses ranged from 10 to 25.

Then all the members were requested to put up their hands if they had actually kissed their mates that same day.

Of the group, 34 hands went up, which was about a 50 per cent batting average.

"But, Dr. Crane," one of the men protested, "husbands are more likely to kiss their wives at bedtime than in the morning, aren't they?"

What do you readers think of that query?

When a busy housewife is trying to get her children fed before they head to school and her husband rushed off to his job, does that husband take time to give her a farewell kiss?

And does the usual father greet his youngsters or give them a word of praise, not just in the morning, but at any time during the day?

Alas, many children are miserable because they are undermothered and psychological food!

Their ego needs to be inflated by a bit of praise EVERY DAY.

"Dr. Crane," many grammar schoolers have protested, "Daddy hurts me out if I get a 'C' grade but never praises me for a 'B' or an 'A'."

In similar vein, a 9-year-old boy was shedding tears recently because his daddy had scolded him for one tardy mark on his report card.

"But he never said a word about the 64 days I got to school on time!"

Since women want words, especially bits of praise, then husbands should teach themselves to join my Compliment Club and be more liberal with their spoken admiration.

And kiddies are doubly hungry for a boost to their chronically deflated ego.

For youngsters are yelled at in the morning because they are slow getting dressed.

"Hurry up and eat your cereal," Mamma then chides them.

"Come back here," she screams, "for you didn't drink all of your milk."

Then, as the youngsters head for the door, she scolds them for not having put on their coat or sweater.

"Now watch when you cross the street," she cries as a final bossy command with an implied criticism therein.

Then the teachers start looking for flaws and usually mark off the wrong words on the child's spelling paper or math problems and reprimands the boys for smudges on their themes.

Almost always the focus is on mistakes, errors and faulty answers, thus surrounding the child with deflating negative words.

But children thrive on cheerful, positive compliments, so we need to stress the vital importance of praise as a vital nourishment for the child's ego.

So send for the "Compliment Club" booklet, enclosing a long stamped, return envelope, plus 20 cents. Praise is as vital to the ego as oxygen is to our hemoglobin in the blood.

(Always write to Dr. Crane in care of this newspaper, enclosing a long stamped, addressed envelope and 20 cents to cover typing and printing costs when you send for one of his booklets.))

Don Graff Says:

Neighs Louder!

By DON GRAFF, NEA Writer

"Get a horse!" may have been a by joke back when the auto was making its spattering challenge for control of the roads, but a half century and more since the horseless carriage's apparently total victory more and more Americans are now doing exactly that.

We have the Department of Agriculture's word for it that there has been a significant upswing in the nation's horse population in recent years—a doubling, in fact, to an estimated seven million in the last six years alone.

This is, of course, still a far cry from the something like 27 million on American streets and farms back in the peak year for horses, 1918. After that, the decline was rapid. As the internal combustion engine took over transportation and field chores, man's age-old power source became not only inefficient but eventually almost a luxury.

Ironically, this is the reason for the comeback in the affluent '60s. With more money and more leisure time, more Americans are indulging in horsey pastimes.

Horse racing, for example, already rates as the country's No. 1 spectator sport with 63 million fans passing through the turnstiles of 230 tracks last year. The race horse population alone is growing at a 15 per cent annual rate.

Domestic Comment:

Draft Lottery - New Confusion

By RAY CROMLEY
NEA Washington Correspondent

WASHINGTON (NEA) — The first year of the new draft by lottery is going to see extreme confusion and widespread complaints of inequity.

Because of the way in which the lottery system will operate under President Nixon's executive order, a young man in one place whose number is 142, for example, may be drafted and sent to war, while a young man in another town whose number is 137 may not be called at all.

Men farther down the list in some states will be called before men higher on the list in other states.

For all men with No. 67, for example, will not be called at the same time throughout the United States.

The Defense Department, in a particular month, will order for so many men, say 12,500. That call will be divided among the states and then broken down among the local draft boards in each state.

Each local board will call men in the order established by the lottery. But if, in one board's area, there are few or no men with numbers 1 through 12, for example, that board may have to dip early into the 13 through 20 group.

Another board may have a great many young men with numbers 1 through 12 and will dip later in the 13 through 20 group.

As one call follows another, by the end of the year some boards may thus be digging a lot deeper down the line of lottery numbers than other boards, particularly in areas where considerable numbers of young men are rejected for physical or mental reasons.

These discrepancies, of course, will bring complaints.

The change-over will also present some quite serious decisions for young men with college or other deferments.

Since the pool from which draftees will be chosen is scheduled to be larger in 1970 than in 1971 or 1972 or the years after (because the 20 through 25 age groups are included in the initial lottery), would it be better for him to drop his deferment and take his chances now when he would presumably have a better chance of going next free? Or would it be better for him to continue his deferment in the belief that in 1971, 1972 or 1973 the draft calls will be lower and his chances of being drafted perhaps less even though the pool of eligible men will be smaller?

Further, by 1971, 1972 or 1973, it may be that the number of U.S. troops committed in Vietnam may be so reduced that even if drafted a young man's chances of facing combat would be less than if he were drafted in 1970.

These are the sort of questions that young men are already asking Selective Service advisers.

Conclusion Is Made; Baldness By Hormones

By TAD BARTIMUS
Associated Press Writer

MIAMI BEACH (AP) — A shiny-pated researcher who tested monkeys for many months has concluded man's baldness is caused by the male sex hormone — but he offers no hope for a practical cure.

The researcher, who proudly exhibits fringe around his ears and nowhere else on his head, said the male sex hormone—testosterone— is absorbed in different amounts of man's scalp.

Dr. William Montagna said his work with macaques, a stump-tailed smaller version of the Rhesus money, showed that the primates' hair follicles which eventually slough off and never grow back are located in the center of the head.

The monkey's sex hormones are chemically the same as man's, Montagna said, and primates exhibit the same balding patterns.

"Those follicles, even early in life, show a higher rate of testosterone metabolism than do hair follicles in areas of the scalp and head that do not go bald — the back and sides of the head," Montagna said.

Montagna, director of the Oregon Primate Research Center, said he has been able to prevent baldness in his monkeys —but only through castration.

"Obviously, the best animal to study baldness in would be man," he said, "but I need hardly point out this can't be done. Therefore, I have little hope to offer the balding man."

Further, Dr. Montagna said he has been able to induce baldness in his maccaques by giving them injections of testosterone over a 30-day period.

But in an interview during the 28th annual meeting of the American Academy of Dermatology here, Montagna was adamant in refusing to speculate on a direct link between baldness—or lack of it—and the male sex drive.

"Culturally, we seem to be reverting to a relatively hairy era," he said. "All you have to do to prove this is walk along a beach in Los Angeles."

When a newsman with a receding hairline asked Montagna if there was a chance of baldness becoming fashionable, the doctor said, "If I had anything to do about it, it would."

Then, smoothing his wisping hairs, he grinned and added, "As I always frivolously say, there isn't much you can do about it. Just shave it off and be proud of it."

Frogs' Legs

NEW DELHI (AP) — Exports of Indian frog legs declined from 324 tons in 1967-68 to 202 tons in 1968-69, according to the Indian Seas Foods magazine. But because of demand for frog legs in the French market, earnings increased by $33,000.

Jurist Offers Opinion

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Supreme Court, in Warren E. Burger's first majority opinion as chief justice, today gave Florida the right to hem in activities of a national bank.

The 6-2 decision, in a test case, overrode the judgment of the U. S. comptroller of the currency and accepted Florida's view that armored car messenger service and an off-premise bank depository are forms of "branch banking."

Consequently, the court said, Florida may forbid the offering of such services by The First National Bank in Plant City as it would forbid branches for state banks.

Federal law specifies that a national bank may establish a "branch" in a state only when state law would authorize a state bank to establish such a branch.

Burger's opinion involved whether the two services proposed by First National are forms of branch banking.

Speaking for the majority, he said, "We are satisfied that at the time a customer delivers a sum of money either to the armored truck or the stationary receptable, the bank has, for all purposes contemplated by Congress . . . received a deposit."

Associate Justices Hugo L. Black, John Marshall Harlan, William J. Brennan Jr., Byron R. White and Thurgood Marshall agreed with the chief justice.

Associate Justices William O. Douglas and Potter Stewart dissented, taking the position the court should defer to the determination of the comptroller of the currency as to what is a branch bank.

Douglas wrote: "It will come as a shock, where common sense is the guide, to learn that an armored car picking up merchants' cash boxes and checks is a branch bank."

The Tiny, Mighty Lines Of Type

The Want Ad section of a newspaper, with its mass of tiny lines of type, may be physically drab looking. But if you take the trouble to read the classified ads in The Sanford Herald carefully (as thousands of readers avidly do), you will find in these pages the heartthrob of the community.

Here's where a little boy pleads for the return of his lost pet, where a student can look for a summer job, a vacationer can ask for a ride to Timbuktu, and buyers and sellers can get together on items ranging from automobiles to roller skates.

We are proud here at The Sanford Herald, not only of the volume of want ads and the results they obtain, but also of the principle of private initiative and private enterprise that the want ad section represents.

Individual advertisers, whether looking for jobs, seeking help or offering goods and services, reflect the hopes and aspirations of a throbbing community.

We are proud of the major role The Sanford Herald Want Ads play in the progress of this area. We are grateful to the patrons and the readers who keep our Want Ad section a living and growing part of our publication.

THE TRADITIONAL CHRISTMAS STORY was approached from an unusual angle for the Sanford Woman's Club recently. The Rev. G. Blair McGarvey, pastor of the Christian Alliance Church, created the lovely story in soft pastel tones, as his wife accompanied him with Christmas tunes on the piano. Mrs. A. C. Doudney, left, was the hostess chairman for her club that day.

Unusual Art Illustrates Christmas Story For Club

An inspiring Christmas Story painted in pastel tones of blues, greens and soft gray shadows was the unusual Christmas gift Rev. G. Blair McGarvey had to offer the Sanford Woman's Club at their Christmas luncheon meeting.

A talented artist, Rev. McGarvey, who is pastor of the Christian Missionary and Alliance Church, in Sanford, used as his theme for the program "No Room in the Inn." His wife accompanied him on the piano with arrangements of favorite carols as he created a lovely scene of the First Christmas. "Don't be too harsh on the Innkeeper that turned the Holy Family out," urged the minister as he ended his artistic presentation. "How many of us are guilty of shutting Christ out of our lives?", he queried.

The club was decorated in a Christmas theme and members placed gifts for needy children under a large silver decorated tree on the stage. Hostesses for the luncheon, preceding the meeting were Mrs. A. C. Doudney, chairman; Mrs. Claud Adkins, Mrs. R. W. Graham, Mrs. Thelma Niblcak, Mrs. Gilmer Randolph, Mrs. K. L. Williams, and Mrs. Edna Brinson.

Greeting members and guests in the foyer were Mrs. C. M. Flowers, Mrs. Mildred Gramkow and Mrs. J. T. Collins. Guests were Miss Ruth Bradford, of Arlington, Va.; Mrs. Paul Prueters, Mrs. Virginia S. Herndon, Viola Frank and Jeanie R. Wisecup, Manhattan, Kan.

Mrs. Stanley Pierce, reporting for the nominating committee, presented Mrs. Herbert Larson for first vice president, who was unanimously elected to fill the office for the remainder of this year and 1970.

During the business session, it was announced that the Woman's Club won first place in the Civic Section of the Christmas parade. Club members will take care of the Salvation Army kettles at The Publix Grocery and TGAY downtown.

Mrs. Flowers was appointed finance chairman of the Social Department. She will replace the late Mrs. Harry Hahn. The Social Department will meet Dec. 10 for bridge and canasta following a covered dish luncheon at 12 noon.

MRS. FRANK LUECKER is shown aboard the S.S. Ariande prior to departing from Miami to Nassau where she enjoyed a few days relaxing the tropical way.

Miss Pat Harris, R. L. Harris Exchange Vows

By MELENDA CASSELBERRY

Miss Patricia Ann Harris and Ronald Lamar Harris were united in Holy Matrimony, Nov. 22, 1969, at 8 p.m. at Holy Cross Episcopal Church.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Henry Harris, Sanford and the bridegroom's parents are Mr. and Mrs. Lonnie Brooks Harris, Lake City.

Rev. Leroy Soper was the officiating clergyman at the candlelight double ring ceremony. The altar was adorned with two vases of white Fuji chrysanthemum, accented by Italian wheat and croton foliage, palms, and a brass candlabra. White satin ribbons and croton foliage identified the family pews.

Miss Beatrice Buck, organist, presented a recital of appropriate nuptial selections.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride chose for her vows, a formal gown elegantly designed of candlelight peau de soie in a modified Empire silhouette. The gown featured a bodice of re-embroidered alencon lace on net with a high stand-away neckline and long tapered sleeves terminating in Calla points. The v-back cascaded into a sweeping chapel train.

A forward leaf cluster of peau, appliqued with matching lace with stand-up flowers, secured her four-tiered chapel length veil of bouffant silk illusion.

The bride carried a formal cascade bouquet of ivory roses and stephanotis with miniature English ivy.

MRS. RONALD LAMAR HARRIS

Susan Brown, Sanford, attended the bride as maid of honor, wearing a long gown of softly gathered candlelight satin rkirt with olive green chiffon bodice, featuring a candlelight roll collar and wide cuffs. Satin ribbons of green encircled the crescent waistline.

Her headpiece was of matching olive green illusion in a shoulder length with circular rose veil. She carried a fall hand bouquet of bronze and yellow daisy pom poms with Italian wheat and croton foliage.

The bridesmaids were the Misses Sherlene Green, Lake City; Sue De Curtis, Philadelphia; Barbara Conklin, Stet bourne; and Lana Malone, Orlando; and Linda Harris and Brenda Steverson, Sanford. Their gowns and flowers were identical to the maid of honor's.

Danny Green of Lake City, served the groom as best man and ushers were Mike Connelly, Haywood Brown, Lake City; Larry Booth, Panama City; Danny Parrish, Orlando; Dick Strong, Jacksonville; and Alan Steverson, Sanford.

Judy Andrews, cousin of the bride, Sanford, wore a dress identical to the bridesmaids. The ring bearer was Tray Dennard, cousin of the groom, from Fernandina Beach.

For her daughter's wedding, Mrs. Harris chose a tourqoise coat dress of raw silk and worsted wool, complemented with matching accessories and a yellow rosebud corsage.

Mrs. Lonnie Harris, mother of the bridegroom, wore a mint green dress enhanced with matching accessories and a white orchid corsage.

Following the ceremony a reception was held at the parish house decorated with palms and a large Grecian urn on a pedestal with an arrangement of white mums, yellow daisy pom poms, and Ti leaves. The cake table was accented with two three-branched silver candelabra with a cascading arrangement of white stock, and white and yellow daisy pom poms.

The punch table was decorated with a five-branched candelabra and an arrangement of white stock and white and yellow mums.

The groom's table featured an arrangement of two gold cornucopias with Italian wheat, croton foliage and fresh fruit.

The bride's book table had an arrangement of white and yellow daisy pom poms in a two daisy vases and centered in a silver pedestal centainer.

Assisting at the reception were Mrs. Joe Andrews, Sr., Mrs. Charles Stafford, Mrs. Ken Aleel, Mrs. Charles Rabon, Jr., Mrs. Joe Andrews, Jr., Mrs. Charles Rabon, Sr., Mrs. Walter Fesler, Mrs. Gordon Bradley, Mrs. Jack Horner, Mrs. John Elem, Mrs. Gerald Lewis and Mrs. Richard Elam.

Cousins of the bride Ronnie Stafford, Judy Andrews and Chuckie and Bobby Rabon passed out rice bags and cake boxes.

For her going-away outfit, the bride wore a black and white wool dress. Matching accessories and a white daisy pom pom corsage completed the travel costume.

Following a wedding trip to Daytona Beach, the newlyweds reside in Daytona Beach.

Story League Forms Plans For Bible Fair

Mrs. Evarae Robb opened the November meeting of The Sanford Story League with a Thanksgiving prayer.

A very beautiful flower arrangement, an orchid, in full bloom adorned the dining table of Mrs. Betty Snyder, the hostess. All other decorations spoke of Autumn and suggested Thanksgiving Time.

Plans were formulated for the "Bible Fair", which will be held early in 1970.

Many interesting letters from Story Leaguers in the Eastern District especially Pennsylvania, were read by Mrs. Mykanen. A letter and colored pictures of Pennsylvania offered by Mrs. Robb were also impressive.

A story from Carl Sandburgh's "Rootabaga Stories," suitable for all occasions, but particularly for Thanksgiving, was told by Mrs. Betty Snyder and it was enjoyed by all.

Fruit cake, punch and candy corn were served by the hostess to Mrs. H. A. Watt, Mrs. Evarae Robb, Mrs. Lavice Gustafson, Mrs. K. V. Mykkanen, Mrs. Nancy Robb, Miss Judy Robb, Mrs. J. W. Widdis and Mrs J. E. Evans.

Strikes And Spares

BY: JOHN A. SPOLSKI

We can print all of the big 200's we'd want to . . . but, none can match a 204 according to Mary Dougherty.

There's an obvious reason for that statement . . . It's her first sanctioned 200-plus game, with this one coming during the course of the Wednesday evening Fiesta Lounge Mixed League.

That's quite a thrill . . . rolling that first deuce. And it's almost indescribable when that 600 series pops off.

How many of you can remember your first 200 game? (Ooops, maybe that first one hasn't arrived yet, eh?)

★ ★ ★ ★

BOWLING POT POURRI . . .

Let me lay a couple of new ones on you . . . from the Adcock Home Improvement Mixed League on Monday evening, a comparative newcomer—Bob Quinn totaled a 216.

On the other end of the house, smooth stroking lefty Skip Horton tied five of those Xs together and hand a rip-snorting 242.

★ ★ ★ ★

BOB QUINN

SKIP NORTON

Just like an elevator . . . with plenty of those ups and downs, that's the picture of many a local kegler. When they're hot . . . you just can't touch 'em, and by the same token when they're cold . . . IT'S LIKE AN ICEBERG.

Which brings us round to good ole Doug Owens. Not too many weeks ago, we were writing of Owen's exploits and then he went into a temporary tailspin.

Don't despair though cause he's back on the hot track and is unloading nothing but really, really big ones. Take last Wednesday as an example.

In the early City League and bowling for Wall Plumbing, Doug shot a 240/613 series. And to prove that it wasn't a fluke, in the league following, the Drake's Classic All Star League, Owens got even Lotter with a big 255/636. Look out Pros . . . cause here comes Doug.

★ ★ ★ ★

Practice Does Help

Bobby Garner, a two-times-a-week league bowler, was out to the lanes to take the kinks out of the elbow . . . and wouldn't you know it . . . he started a string of strikes that didn't let up until he finished with a plus 260 game. (Now all you have to do is duplicate it during league play, Bobby and the pro circuit will have their eyes on you.

★ ★ ★ ★

BOB CORBETT

The Monday evening Keg-ler's League made another entry into our spotlighted area whe none of its own, bob Corbett pounced-ou a big one.

Corbett just couldn't miss with lots of Xs and spares on his telescore to finish the night with a 234 game. From this same league, Ronnie Russi of the Sanford Atlantic National Bank rolled a 213, J. DeStfano had a near-miss at 197 while

★ ★ ★ ★

Six Crack Into "Circle"

The Monday evening Singles Classic B League had six of its members rolling an even 200 or higher this week with Wayne O'Neal showing the way with his 228. Others worthy of note are Ron Urban 200, Dave Carter 201, Larry Pivec 211, Dan Miller 210, Pete Duggan 206.

We tried to get some response from the gents with a four-game handicapped-scratch sweeper this past Monday at 9 p.m. and were moderately successful with these local keglers supporting our efforts . . . Doug Owens, Reggie Sigmon, John Pfumpfrey, Jack Kanner, Rich Murphy, Wes Scott, Dan Miller and Spill-ski.

Each pair of lanes carries its own incentive in the form of $7 for the high game scratch and another $3.50 for the high game with handicap.

In all, there was over $50 in total prize money . . . not bad, considering the small number of keglers. We're hoping that this will catch on with the number of bowlers growing each Monday at 9. A reminder that it is open to both men and women.

★ ★ ★ ★

A quick check of the Adcock Home Improvement League reveals these "bonbers" . . . Sue Quinn 190, Jane Adcock 184/502, Bill Kreick 194, Jean Kreick 192, Morris Evans 190, Judy Clark 194, Margie Jackson 191/562, Ellen Bettis 222/565 and Bob Quinn's 228.

Joe Sibley paced his Road Runners team in the Community United Methodist Church League of Friday evening to a three and one night with a 791/2be series over the Flippin Flins. High for the losers was Pat Neiswander with a 170.

★ ★ ★ ★

A reminder to those of you with a bowling problem or who have not ever had any lessons . . . they're given each Saturday at 11:30 a.m. and they're for free.

Hounds Leashed; Panthers Stung

Hot Kearse Paces Win

The Seminole High Seminoles, last night in the Seminole High gym, out-classed their arch-rival, the Lyman Greyhounds, by a score of 63-38, to push their basketball record to a mere 2-0 season thus far.

It was just not a Lyman night, as the Hounds could not get a strong momentum activated. They were held to two points in the third quarter, as the Sanford defense plugged every drive, and to add to their problems, Lyman got into serious foul trouble early.

The match commenced with the Seminoles jumping off to an early lead—one that was never overcome, but the scrappy-ness of the smaller Hounds brought about a first quarter tally of 13-11 with the home Seminoles in the lead. The second quarter saw the aggressive Seminoles start to pull away, and by the termination of the period they had built up a 30-22 half-time lead.

The third quarter was the most decisive though, as the Seminoles, except for a Bob Funk field goal early in the period, blanked the Hounds with their defensive determination, and meanwhile amassed a 21 point lead, 46-25.

By the fourth and final period, the Seminoles were flying high. Lyman had had two players foul out, and the Seminole squad began to substitute. With 7:12 left in the contest Rick Browne sunk a foul shot to break the ice on the Lyman drought, which lasted almost a whole period, but any attempt at a comeback by Lyman was stymied by the stingy Seminoles. The host went on to play a strong contest and insure victory. It came as a devastating 63-38 final.

Lyman and Seminole both made many floor mistakes but the Seminoles capitalized while the Greyhounds weren't able too. Although Lyman committed 21 fouls and the Seminoles 25, relatively close, the Sanford shooters showed more accuracy in taking advantage of the charity stripe.

Seminole head coach Joe Mills commented after the court battle, "We did a good job defensively and had a good team effort." He went on to comment about some of his standouts, "Larry Kearse did a fine job on the boards and Bill Parker shot well and helped spark the team". Kearse scored game high with 16 and Bill Parker added 11 to aid the Sanford cause. Coach Mills concluded by saying that he "Would have to work to improve his offensive game;" which he felt would have done a better job.

In the junior varsity tilt, the Greyhounds ran 'nto more had luck as the Baby Seminole triumphed 49-42 led by a stable attack.

The winless Greyhounds trek to Oak Ridge Friday in pursuit of their first victory, while the undefeated Seminoles host Apopka Saturday in their next court clash.

Raiders Thaw Falcon Freeze

It got cold in the Florida College gym in Tampa last night. The freeze was generated by the Florida College Falcons, and the result was a score 28-21 in favor of Seminole Junior College.

In an attempt to knock off the undefeated Raiders, now 8-0 on the season, the Falcons froze the ball the entire game, bringing about the low score at the end.

The Raiders opened up a 15-7 lead at the end of the first half, and went to the dressing rooms to map out strategy for their second half attack. They came back out on the court and opened up their lead to 12 points. But the Falcons came back and outscored the Raiders 14-13 during the second half.

The game was full of close contact, but oddly enough, there were very few fouls. The Raiders only committed nine personal fouls, while the Falcons were called 21 times on personals. No one on either team fouled out.

Harry Lee was the big man for the Raiders as he accounted for 12 Raider points. He was trailed closely by big Simon Harper with 11 points. Only two other Raiders got into the scoring column, Greg Robinson with a total of field goals for four points, and Jim Below sank one of six foul shots attempted.

Two Return

HANOVER, N.H. (AP) — Dartmouth, upset by Princeton in its final football game, can look forward to next season with the thought of having another fine offensive team.

Halfback John Short of Glendale, Ariz., and quarterback Jim Chasey will return as starters. Short led the Indians in rushing with 767 yards in 116 carries for a 6.1 average.

Chasey, from Lo Gatos, Calif., made the All-Ivy team and completed 62 of 111 passes for 892 yards and seven touchdowns. Chasey also rushed for 232 yards and scored five TDs on the ground.

Hornets Fly, 77-44

★ ★ ★ ★

ORLANDO — The Crooms High Panthers ran into an offensive attack they couldn't handle last night as Bishop Moore handed them their second loss in two starts, 77-44.

The Hornets, now 2-0, were led by Mark Amrhein with 19 points. Amrhein was the leading scorer for the Bishop Moore junior varsity last year.

The Panthers just couldn't get on the scoring track during the second half, and that's what really threw them behind. The Panthers kept pace for the first quarter as they trailed only 14-12. By the time the teams went to the dressing rooms, the Hornets owned a 34-20 lead.

But the third quarter saw Bishop Moore outscore the Panthers 22-9, and roll the lead up to 56-29. The Panthers were so far down going into the final period, it was hopeless. To make matters worse, one of their boys, Clyde Stevens, fouled out.

The Panthers will be home Friday night when they host Dade City Mickens at 8 p.m.

The speckle perch fishing in the immediate area is real good with a lot of fishing action going on in the Lake Jessup area while fishing with Missouri Minnows and some jig fishing along the shore line around the wire grass.

The Bass are starting to hit up in the old river area at the Thorn Tree, with most of the action being on plastic worms; the purple and black ones.

The bream are biting slow but a few were caught on live worms while fishing close to the shore line, with the water dropping the bass and bream should start biting real well.

The ducks are still pretty scarce but there sure are a lot of nice coots to be hunted, and the shad should start biting by the fifteenth of December, that is next week so get ready for some real action.

Those spraying machines are still in the river spraying for hyacinths.

At the Osteen Bridge Fish Camp the specks are starting to bite in the early mornings, and a lot of nice catches are being caught while using Missouri Minnows, one good fisherman caught eighteen specks in less than an hour.

Paul and Dixie Johnson and a lot of good Georgia fishermen were fishing over at Port Canaveral Cocoa Beach area this past weekend and they really got in to the blue fish, spots, croakers, and whiting, and the blues were real nice size, and all were caught on cut shrimp while fishing in the surf.

Attention nature lovers: We are in for some real beauty while you are driving along at night, especially on these dark nights, the foxes are running and can be seen in just about any area you might be in, and especially on the east and west sides of Sanford.

We sure would like to hear from some of those BIG DEER hunters around Seminole County that have been killing so many big deer.

TALLAHASSEE—Florida's fishing future is not bright, and pollution is but one problem in the battle for desirable fishing, according to an article appearing in the December issue of FLORIDA WILDLIFE magazine.

The magazine, published by the Game and Fresh Water Fish Commission, contains a direct, hard hitting presentation of "rather ugly" facts being faced by both fishermen and personnel of the Commission's fisheries division.

The article, "Florida's Fishing Future," prepared by fisheries and wildlife biologists and the magazine staff, outlines 11 points that must be considered if Floridians are to enjoy a quality environment and sport fishery.

According to the article, the progress we once looked forward to has become, in some ways, a day after day threat to the environment of man. Changes in Florida's aquatic environment are already irreversible without tremendous expenditures of money and manpower, but most people are not ready to accept the hardships and costs.

Dr. O. E. Frye, Commission Director, said, "I feel this article should be read by all conservationists, school children, or for that matter citizens in general. Florida's fishing future is a people problem, and only people can solve the problem."

FLORIDA WILDLIFE magazine is available by subscription from the Game and Fresh Water Fish Commission, Tallahassee, Florida. A limited number of the December issue will be available to school teachers upon request.

TALLAHASSEE—Florida sportsmen will open the third phase of the 1969-70 dove hunting season on Saturday, December 13. Hunting will be allowed from 12:00 noon until sunset through January 5.

According to the Game and Fresh Water Fish Commission, this is the final phase of the dove hunting season. The bag limit for the third phase season will remain at 12 doves per day.

TALLAHASSEE—Parents or grandparents planning to give fishing tackle or guns for Christmas should write the game and Fresh Water Fish Commission at Tallahassee for a free Christmas Conservation Kit. The kit contains information on firearm safety, fishing and hunting tips, and an outdoor guide for young sportsmen.

T-Bowl Elevens Ready

ORLANDO, Fla.—An undefeated Mid-Western football team and a Southern team with the best season in its history will meet here December 20, 1969 for the 24th Annual Tangerine Bowl.

And by all accounts, the 17,000 fans attending the night game, plus millions watching on the Hughes Sports Network, will see a classic match.

The University of Toledo Rockets, Mid-American Conference Champs, are noted for a stingy defense, while the Southern Conference champions from Davidson College have a high scoring offense built around an aerial game.

This is the second year these two conferences face off at the Tangerine Bowl, which prior to last year had been a small college contest.

Last year Ohio University came to the Bowl with a 10-0 record and ranked in the top twenty by both UPI and AP, but they were upset 49-42 by Richmond. The Davidson Wildcats, with a 7-3 record will be trying for a repeat when it challenges Toledo's 10-0 record.

Toledo holds its first Mid-American title, and Davidson has had its best year since it started playing football 73 years ago.

It Takes A Good Hunter

LUTZ, Fla. (AP) — A lot of people swear that J. B. "Trader" Horne must be at least one-quarter quail, but the 73-year-old hunter just laughs and points to his receding hairline and asks, "You don't see any feathers there, do you?"

The assertations about his part-bird ancestry comes from his ability to "whistle up" Bob White quail, one of the fastest and trickiest game birds in the nation.

Horne, who has patented his quail whistles and put them on a record, shares his retirement home overlooking his "fishin'" lake with his bird dogs and a flock of tame pigeons.

When he decides to do a little quail hunting, he gets out in the fields before dawn and wakes up the quail with a piercing, three note whistle.

When the dozing birds return his call, he puts a stake in the ground and draws an arrow in the sand to mark the direction the answer came from.

Later, he whistles out either an off-the-roost or a feeding call.

"If one doesn't get a reply, the other usually does," Horne says.

The quail that answers Horne's call is generally a dead duck.

Horne sends one of his dogs to flush out the bird, and shoots "just enough quail to make biscuit gravy."

Most hunters plugging through the scrub oaks and sand prefer to shoot at a covey of quail, hoping to get at least one by firing into the middle of the pack of fast - flying, twisting birds.

Horne prefers to locate an individual bird and try to knock down the speedy Bob White with one blast from his 12 gauge shotgun.

He has a "loot single" whistle he said would allow him to wreak havoc on the birds.

This whistle is tie call used by a bird to find other members of a scattered covey. When Horne gives his plaintive imitation of a wayward quail, answering whistles come from coveys all over the field.

But Horne says he doesn't believe in wholesale slaughter.

Tampa Wants Fight

TAMPA, Fla. (AP) — Mike Malitz, head of Sports Action, Inc., arrived here today, lending support to the report that Tampa is in line to host the proposed Cassius Clay — Joe Frazier heavyweight championship fight.

Malitz' firm specializes in closed circuit telecasts of boxing shows and it is expected to handle the multi-million dollar televising of the Clay-Frazier match.

Bob Arum, Clay's attorney, also headed for Florida to hammer out the final details of the bout. "It looks like Tampa is in," said Arum.

The bout also has the blessing of Claude Kirk, governor of the state of Florida.

"I would like to see it accomplished for the state of Florida," said Kirk. "He (Clay) lost his title legally, not by fistcuffs."

Clay was stripped of his title when he refused induction into the armed forces. Frazier is recognized as heavyweight champion in several states. Both are undefeated.

DOG RACING

Today's all-important post position draw will determine the early favorite in the Friday night running of the 35th Annual Inaugural Handicap at Sanford-Orlando Kennel Club.

With the field completed, three outstanding greyhounds are drawing most of the early support from veteran racing officials.

If R. B. Perrin's Stonebreaker, Lowland Kennel's Bang Bang Billy and Wayne Strong's Learn How will draw most of the support in the opening night classic.

Stonebreaker was last year's track champion with 10 wins for the meet. Learn How was a solid performer with nine wins and recorded the fastest timing of the schooling session. She won all three schooling starts.

Bang Bang Billy is the sensational finisher who comes from far off the pace. He too, won all three pre-season trials.

Others named to the fast-stepping field include Chouinard's Sun Sis, Moran Kennel's Kane Brake, Mulberry Kennel's Wonder Badge, Paul Boone's Fawn Lida and Diane Eno's R. L.'s Rohoe.

The track will be dark tonight and Thursday night as preparations are made for the Friday night opening.

18 Field Goals

LARAMIE, Wyo. (AP) — Bob Jacobs not only led Wyoming's 1969 football team in scoring with 76 points but he also led the nation in kicking points.

His 18 field goals during the season set an NCAA record. The old mark was 17 made by Gerald Warren of North Carolina State in 1967.

Jacobs also kicked 22 extra points in 23 attempts.

Ellzy Is Flying High

By GARY TAYLOR
Herald Sports Staff

"It's great!" That's how Vernell Ellzy summed up playing for the FSU Seminoles and being among the starting five. Ellzy stated, "I feel pretty good about starting."

Ellzy made a good showing before his Central Florida fans Monday night at Rollins when he scored a game high 23 points and boosted his average to 17.67 the team high.

Ellzy commented that he liked FSU much better than he did when he first got there. He stated, "I found it hard to change over from Junior College at first, but I've fallen into the groove now. Ellzy is also catching on academically, and though he feels it is much harder than junior college, he feels he can make it.

Ellzy's former coach, Joe Sterling, praised Ellzy for his job on defense and rebounding as well as his scoring against Rollins. "I still think he's as good as an player on the FSU squad." Sterling went on to say, "He is representing Seminole County well."

A large crowd from Seminole County and SJC was on hand see Ellzy Monday night. Among them were the SJC basketball squad, and Ellzy's family. His mother was over-joyed about his performance, but just hoped he could continue. Commenting on Ellzy's role as a starter, she stated, "He's doing real fine."

Ellzy played a lot like he did at SJC Monday night as he leaped high on the boards. Twice he was called for goaltending as he attempted to prevent scores.

The FSU squad is led by Hugh Durham. Ellzy is pleased with Durham as a coach, and commented that his methods of coaching are a lot like those of Sterling. But Ellzy realizes a gap between Sterling and Durham. Ellzy commented, "Durham hasn't worked as much with Black athletes as Sterling has and it causes a gap." But Ellzy feels Durham does a good job.

TKOs Highlight Boxing Matches

By GARY TAYLOR
Herald Sports Writer

The main event last night at the professional boxing matches at the Orlando Sports Stadium started out as a real battle. Leroy Caldwell, the underdog in the battle, kept pace with Cleveland (Big Cat) Williams for the first few rounds of the scheduled 10-rounder.

But Caldwell soon weakened, and it appeared that Williams was getting stronger. The 226 pound Big Cat pounded away at Caldwell and then landed the TKO punch 1:08 remaining in the final round.

Caldwell, 30 pounds lighter than Williams at 196, had to be helped to the dressing room after the match. He could not straighten his body for several minutes without the help of his trainers.

King David, the Florida Lightweight Champion, won over Kit Shaffield with a TKO 1:31 into the third round of the scheduled eight round event.

Cody Gainer also took his match with a TKO. He was on top of Dave Bowen from the time the bell sounded, and the TKO came 31 seconds into the second round of the scheduled six round event.

Lonnie Robbins, a young fighter from Altamonte Springs, could not keep his winning streak going as he fell to Morris Reeves by a decision of the judges.

The opener saw Phil Little win over Ed Walker by a decision of the judges.

Dear Abby:

By Abigail Van Buren

DEAR ABBY: I am sitting here, drinking my eighth cup of coffee and feeling very depressed. I need someone to talked to so I am writing to you.

Three weeks ago I lost my job, and since then I've been all over Chicago looking for work, but I haven't had any luck.

I see a sign in the window saying HELP WANTED, so I go inside and the receptionist takes one look at me and says, "Sorry, we aren't hiring right now."

I know why I get turned down without even an interview. I AM FAT!

Abby, can't people be a little kinder and just let me fill out the application blank? Then at least I'd feel like I was getting someplace.

Just because a woman is fat doesn't mean she can't work. In fact, a fat person would probably work twice as hard just to prove she can produce.

Well, Abby, I'm off again looking for a job. I honestly feel a little better being able to tell this to somebody. Thanks for listening.

YOUR FAT FRIEND

DEAR FRIEND: A "friend" does more than listen. He speaks out when there is something his friend needs to hear.

Feeling sorry for yourself won't land you a job. And don't expect some kind-hearted soul to put you on his payroll out of charity for the obese. Face it, most fat women are not as attractive as their normal sisters. (And they're not as healthy either.) They may be "jollier," or better sports because they know they are "Number Two" and must try harder.

And since no one WANTS to be fat, those who are lugging a lot of excess weight may as well wear a sign saying, "I HAVE NO SELF-CONTROL."

So, do yourself a favor, and quit asking for compassion on the part of others. See your doctor, and get on a diet. And if you can't do it alone, get in touch with TOPS or WEIGHT WATCHERS.

(P. S.: If your obesity is due to a glandular disorder or a condition which you are helpless to control, forgive me, this letter is not for you.

DEAR ABBY: Helen (not her real name) and I have been married for 14 years and have five children. We are both 36 years old.

A while ago Helen joined a GROUP THERAPY group. (You know, people just sit around and talk about their problems.) Well, Helen is the only married person in the group.

One evening a fellow from the group picked Helen up and drove her to one of these meetings. He brought her home at 1:30 a.m. Helen said they stopped for a cocktail on the way home. Another time Helen accepted a dinner invitation with another man from the group.

She says she is innocent of any wrong-doing. I believe her, but I feel her conduct is a potential threat to our marriage. Am I wrong to object. OLD FASHIONED

DEAR OLD FASHIONED: No. Every group therapy group has a "therapist." Talk to Helen's, and ask him how you should handle this problem.

DEAR ABBY: For years I have been driving four neighbor girls and my daughter to school every day. I decided not to join a car pool because I figure as long as I am driving anyway I may as well take a car full. Incidentally, we have a nice new car with six seat belts and I am as dependable as a "clock."

We've lived in this neighborhood for many years and I know all the parents, but I don't see them socially. Of course all the mothers know I chauffeur their children every morning because I pick them up at their doors.

Now I don't want a medal or anything, but when I meet one of the mothers in the market or at PTA, not ONE mother has ever said "thank you" to me.

If parents are so thoughtless about showing their appreciation for a good deed, is it any wonder that these kids think the world owes them a living?

This has been on my mind for a long time, and if you print this, it may wake up a few mothers. But please don't use my name or location.

Jacoby On Bridge

By Jacoby and Son

Today's hand, which was taken from a book by Charles Solomon and Bert Wilson, appeared in our column early in October.

The play, as described in our column, started with South winning the first trick with the ace of clubs and promptly leading a spade toward dummy. West plays the four-spot, and East lets dummy hold the trick. Later on, when a second spade is played, West follows with the seven-spot. East wins this spade with his ace, since he knows that West's failure to echo by playing the seven on the first lead shows three spades, so that South must have started with exactly two cards in that suit.

The purpose of this column was to show the advantage of the echo to show an even number of cards and the refusal to echo to show an odd number and we stated that, while four spades would have been unbeatable, this defense would hold declarer to eight tricks at notrump.

Several readers have written to point out that, if declarer would let East hold the first club, he could then make the contract against any defense at all.

We feel like the coon who, he saw that Davey Crockett had treed him, is supposed to have said, "Don't shoot, Mr. Crockett. I'll come down."

If declarer makes this slightly abnormal play and follows up with the correct line thereafter, he can make his contract. Therefore, in our previous article we should merely have said that he would only make eight tricks if he made the rather normal play of winning the first trick.

Polly's Pointers

By Polly Cramer

DEAR POLLY—The other night, my girls, 6 and 7, had nothing to do, so I gave them each a Christmas catalogue that had come in the mail and also a different-colored pen (making note of which had which color) and told them to go through the book and mark an X on anything they would like to get for Christmas. When finished, they exchanged books. This kept them busy for a couple of hours and also helped me with my Christmas list, as I knew what they would like to have.—BONNIE

Polly's Problem

DEAR POLLY—Our new home has very small bedrooms and front room. I am going to paint them and wonder if you could suggest some colors that will make the rooms seem larger. Should I use plain curtains or a flowered print?

—MRS. J. N.

DEAR MRS. J. N.—Light, airy colors or white will give a feeling of more space in your small rooms. If walls, woodwork and plain curtains (and even the carpet, if possible) are all the same color, the feeling of more space will be further enhanced. Of course, the color chosen would be determined by the rugs and furniture coverings you now have.

—POLLY

DEAR POLLY—I want to tell Rosella that I used hot water in a paint pan and then rolled it on with a paint roller to remove my old wallpaper. Roll it over and over until well saturated, or do it layer at a time, saturating each one as you go. I find there is less mess this way and the bits of paste left on the walls can be washed off while they are wet.—D. M.

DEAR POLLY—When purchasing gifts of wearing apparel, staple the sales slip to the price tag and write in pencil on the back of the sales slip who it is for. If anything needs to be returned, erase what you have written and there is no chance of a mix-up when making returns or exchanges.

Beauty after Forty

by Edyth Thornton McLeod

"I know that I am in the beginning of the menopause, but know nothing of how it will affect me and my life. I was brought up in a home where NOTHING was discussed and at a mature woman I feel unsure of life and sex. I have never been married." H. F.

Stop worrying and visit a doctor. Let him advise you. This is, I think, very important. Also you can send for my leaflet "Meno on the Menopause." It does not seem real nowadays to realize that children especially the girls, were kept in complete ignorance about life. This has passed from the scene and we hope it is all for the best. We know that the old system was wrong. To obtain a copy of "Meno on the Menopause" send me a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope and enclose ten cents in coin. Read, learn and also see a doctor. He can help you through this natural "happening" of nature.

"I am forty four, slim (thank goodness) tall and have color-rinsed brown hair. I want a beige wool dress and I want to wear brown accessories. Do you think this would be becoming?"

Lela

Beige is a now fashion and can be made even more becoming to you by the wearing of the new Whisper tint in the new beige shades. Just consult your cosmetic saleswoman. Deepen your lipstick shade just a bit.

"I am wearing a black dinner dress for a pre-Christmas formal dinner. I have a pair of long black lace gloves sent me from France some years ago. Could I wear these, are they "right?" Long gloves are expensive and I seldom go formal. What jewelry (costume) would be best?" N. N.

The gloves are more than correct, they are fashion. Wear strings of pearls. They are also Fashion and are so flattering. Tomorrow: New Ideas!

We The Women:

By Betty Canary

Although I do not think a woman should be a slave to fashion, it is fun staying in step with the times. Not only does she have fun, but a woman also is more at ease, has more poise when she's not feeling dowdy.

I know I have really enjoyed wearing the new chain jewelry. Well, last night I enjoyed wearing it. Last night, my son pleaded, "Mother, would you please stop jingling—I'm trying to do my homework?" Therefore, out of consideration for the eardrums of others, I have cut down on the amount of chain belts and necklaces I wear. Could a humanitarian do less?

I have also stopped wearing my maxi-length pearls. Not because they annoyed anyone (they only went "clickety-click-ety") but because I stepped on them one day in a downtown restaurant. In honesty I must say that my poise deserted me then. But, after all, could any woman feel at ease standing knee-deep in beads while wearing a five-foot length of string around her neck?

Happily, I haven't had to give up all my fashion fun. The several rings I wear, for example. So far, nobody has complained of the noise they make—which is understandable as a dull, clunking sound has a lower decibel rating and is not as irritating as a jingle-jingle. However, now that winter raw winds are here, I'm afraid I'll have to give them up anyway. My hands chap easily and it is absolutely impossible to pull gloves over four or five chunky rings.

Personally, I think the designers have failed me here. What I need are some elegant mittens—perhaps something in a nice, white kid or doeskin.

Anyway if a woman has done her bit against noise pollution and is careful about not strangling herself with maxi-scarves and maxi-beads, there is no reason why she shouldn't be as fashionable as she likes.

She must necessarily be aware of her figure type and she simply will not wear a pants suit or a maxi-coat if the style makes her look like stuffed in green flannel.

And, if she's not extremely well-groomed and actually reeking with self-confidence, she will stay away from anything of the see-through variety. (The thing is, there is nothing worse than getting a run in your body stocking.)

I believe it's all for the best that men's fashions are also becoming more costume than clothing. At the very least, it will stop them laughing at girls in mini-skirts. (The truth is, joking about mini-skirts is outdated. Anyone who still laughs at mini-skirts obviously hasn't seen any funny little girls wearing knee-length hose and monster shoes.)

Let us reason together. Does a man wearing a purple striped shirt, suede vest and astrakhan hat have the right to laugh at anybody?

Highlights

TV Time Previews

WEDNESDAY, DEC. 10, 1969

7:30-8:30 p.m. CBS. The Glen Campbell Goodtime Hour. (Color) George Lindsey, who's "Mayberry, R.F.D.'s" Goober, swinger Michele Lee and young singer-actor Rick Nelson make an interesting cross-section of guest entertainers. Michele does several numbers, including a novelty rendition of "The Look of Love," and displays her shapely legs demonstrating "round dancing" to Lindsey. Rick joins Glen in a rousing duet of "Louisiana Man," and Lindsey, besides trading hometown stories with Campbell, gets his host to swap a fancy sports car for a pen.

7:30-9 p.m. NBC. The Virginian. "Journey to Scathelock." (Color) Shiloh newcomer Jim Horn (Tim Matheson) nearly flubs his first major test of responsibility in this one. In North Dakota to purchase livestock for the Grainger, he heeds the advice of a pretty saloon girl to hide the $4,000 in cash he's carrying in the hotel safe. The next thing the greenhorn knows, his cash is gone, and so is the girl and a gambler, Anne Helm and Burr De Benning guest as the coming couple, but the acting honors go to Matheson.

8:30-9 p.m. ABC Room 222. "Seventeen, Going on Twenty-Eight." (Color) A lovely episode, both funny and touching, about the age-old problem, the student crush. It begins when history teacher Pete Dixon gives a beautiful girl a ride home from a dinner and kisses her goodnight. The next morning he learns the seductive charmer is a very precious 12th grader at Whitman High, who'd plotted the whole business about the ride and has no intention of letting the friendship drop, or of keeping quiet about it. Diane Young, as the scheming beauty, is entrancing.

9-10 p.m. CBS. Medical Center. (Color) A good drama, with an excellent performance by Lee Grant as a rich, recently widowed woman attempts to cure her depression by working with hospital patients. After befriending a youngster (Fabian Gregory), she accidentally sends him into a state of shock by telling him his mother died in the hit-an-run accident which hospitalized him. But Joe Gannon then has two seriously disturbed patients on his hands, the boy and the remorseful widow.

9-10 p.m. NBC. Kraft Music Hall. (Color) Johnny Cash hosts a show more special than most specials. Using the words of poet Carl Sandburg, he introduces songs reflecting the American heritage. Performing them are Cash; the Carter Family and the rest of Cash's group; talented young Browning Bryant; and the inimitable Peggy Lee. Cash and Miss Lee do a medley of songs about love and loneliness: "Kisses Sweeter Than Wine," "When Johnny Comes Marching Home."

Tribute To Retired Educator Harper L. Douglas

By MRS. R. B. THOMAS JR.

The meaning of Christmas varies according to religions, ages and individuals. Some observe the birth of Christ while others celebrate for reasons of their own.

The spirit of Christmas is giving and the receiving of gifts, the old tradition is decorating with colorful lights, trees and a feast on goodies for the family gathering and reunion with friends.

One popular recording of this Yuletime is, "If every day were like Christmas, what a wonderful world this would be. The real meaning of Christmas is the giving of love every day."

To me, the spirit of Christmas should be within our hearts daily and not just for a few days.

Since the key word at this season of the year is giving, I am wrapping this gift, placing it under the community Christmas tree for an individual whom I feel really deserves a very special belated gift.

Testimonials. "This is your life," special assemblies, plaques, fishing gear and the like, traditionally are associated with retirement from one's chosen profession or way of life.

This individual concluded 39 years of dedicated services to thousands of youngsters and teachers of Seminole County.

He bowed out quietly at the end of the 1968-69 school term without all the glamorous fanfare but with a deep feeling of satisfaction that throughout the 23 years as classroom teacher, he had inspired and guided some youngster to remain in school, get and education and advance up the ladder of success rung by rung.

Also with the satisfaction that 16 years spent in an administrative and supervisory capacity, that many beginning teachers and teachers with years of experience have received from him that little something which made their day just a little more comfortable thereby providing a desirable classroom of learning for the youth of our community.

The recipient of this Christmas gift has been a resident of Sanford for the past 39 years. He is a member of Trinity United Methodist Church where he has served faithfully as treasurer for 25 years and is also chairman of the committee on finances and lay leaders of the church.

He is a member of the Fonz Sanfonians Club and still serves as treasurer of Semcote Federal Credit Union.

Mr. and Mrs. Citizen, our very special gift to Harper L. Douglas is not tagged "Do not open until Christmas" but today.

Yet us make this Christmas a time of reviving the love and the hope that the coming of the Christ child quickened in the hearts of a waiting world.

Let us desire and accept the inspiration of the Christ reborn in us.

Let us make Christmas a time of beauty, a time of joy, a time of song, a time of giving, a time of peace.

Let us remember, it is always better to give, and the more we give, the more we receive.

Congratulations, enjoy your favorite hobby, but share your catch with us.

Merry Christmas and a most Happy New Year Mr. and Mrs. H. L. Douglas.

The Les Bon Amie Club will sponsor its annual "Toys for Tots" dance Friday evening, Dec. 19, at the DeLuxe Bar starting at 10 p.m.

This year the club is requesting that you do not wrap the gifts because they have to be unwrapped for distribution.

They also request that you submit names of needy families with children who would not be as fortunate as others on Christmas morning. If you are concerned, please contact the club's advisor, Mrs. Mabel Matthews 322-5447 after 4 p.m.

(From this writers point of view: We have been informed that many unwanted and non-usable articles have been falsely wrapped and have been used to gain admission to the dance. The purpose of the "Toys for Tots" affair is to collect gift items for the disadvantaged, thus making Christmas a day of happiness for them. Do you have a conscious or a heart? Do unto others as you would have them do for you.)

Poison Gas Shipments To Stop?

By WALTER R. MEARS
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — The White House and Pentagon were asked today to bar the Army from shipping massive amounts of poison gas weapons through the Pacific Northwest.

Sens. Warren G. Magnuson, D-Wash., and Mark O. Hatfield, R-Ore., protested the Army plan, which could involve shipments totaling more than 700 railroad cars full of the gas from Bangor, Wash., to the Army Ordinance Depot at Umatilla, Ore.

Magnuson said today he has written Secretary of Defense Melvin R. Laird asking that the Army shipments be barred, "at least until more aedquate safety precautions are taken."

Hatfield said he wrote President Nixon that the chemical weapons should be destroyed, not stockpiled.

Hatfield's letter cited Nixon's Nov. 25 renunciation of the use of chemical weapons unless an attacker employs them first. The President also asked the Senate to approve a 44-year-old treaty banning first use of chemical or biological warfare.

Hatfield said he wrote Nixon, "in effect, 'Here is a wonderful opportunity to demonstrate this policy.'"

The gas involved in the new shipment has been stockpiled on Okinawa, the Pacific island now destined to be returned to Japanese control in 1972.

The weapons—mustard gas and two types of nerve gas—were ordered removed nearly six months ago, after 24 Army men can soldiers narrowly escaped injury or death from a leaky gas container.

Shipments will begin by January, with the weapons to be taken to Bangor, Wash., by ship, then transferred to railroad cars for the final 242-mile trip to Umatilla.

The budding controversy is reminiscent of earlier and successful efforts by East Coast congressmen to stop rail shipments of obsolete gas weapons from Colorado to New Jersey.

The Defense Department this fall had intended to dump the weapons in the Atlantic Ocean, but after strong complaints about safety, plans were revamped and the gas will be disposed of in Colorado.

"There will be from four to five shipments, each ship containing a rail shipment consisting of approximately three trains, with each train containing about 50 cars," Magnuson said in a statement.

"I am asking the secretary of defense not to allow these shipments—the first due this month—until all doubts have been wiped away and we are certain that innocent persons along the route of travel have been given every protection," said Magnuson, chairman of the Senate Commerce Committee.

Stage' Boy Wonder Turns 70 Years Old

By GODFREY ANDERSON
Associated Press Writer

LONDON (AP) — Noel Coward, the longest running boy wonder in show business, is 70 years old.

"The world has treated me very well," he says. "But then I haven't treated it so badly either."

For the coming week the dear boy of the '20s will hold stage-center, his favorite place, while the adulation is heaped on him at galas, banquets and a midnight matinee. He will be word perfect as always, perhaps slightly bored and languid, the typical stage Englishman. He's unlikely to be abashed.

As he says himself. "I'm an exceptionally gifted person. It would be futile to deny it."

As to being 70, the Master says: "This week of praise means I shall have been a professional actor for 60 years. I don't feel 70. In fact, I don't known how 70 ought to feel."

For a man who gave the world the advice: "Don't put your daughter on the stage, Mrs. Worthington," Noel Coward has done exceptionally well out of the theater. Nobody knows the amount of his fortune, which he doesn't keep in tax-ridden England, but it probably tops all others in that field. Back in 1931, at the age of 31, he was already pulling in about $6,000 a week.

For five decades Noel Coward wrote his own plays, composed their music, set their lyrics, produced and directed, sometimes even played the lead role. On the side he made movies, too.

When he had a flop, which was rare, he always bounced back at once with another success which kept the boxoffice selling to house capacity. Even while resting, he continues to draw royalties from performances of his plays by stock companies and amateur groups, from sales of sheet music and phonograph records.

Some of his success rubbed off on others; unknown players on both sides of the Atlantic found themselves stars almost overnight after a Noel Coward premiere.

Yet things change in half a century. If the middle — aged still relish Noel's wit, hum his tunes, and cherish fond memories of his shows, the name means little to the young of swinging Britain.

Even that shook suburban housewives rigid in their seats back in the twenties — if they got by the ex-wringer Lord Chamberlain — have less impact on the London stage today. These are the 60s and there isn't even a censor any more. The words that shocked in the '20s are in daily use everywhere.

Wrong Night

LOUISVILLE, Ky. (AP) — Louisville firemen found Friday night was a poor time to watch television.

On two successive Fridays, firemen reported their color sets were stolen while they answered alarms.

Prepare Beef Like Argentines

By TOM HOGE
Associated Press Writer

On the southeast coast of Latin America lies a vast expanse of rich soil known as the Argentine Pampas. Here sleek cattle graze on luxuriant grass, and beef is the undisputed king of the kitchen.

Steak is the staple diet in this land below the equator, and many Argentines consume it in one form or another three times a day.

Argentina has three main styles of cooking: Spanish from the days of the Conquistadores, classic French found in the more expensive hotels and restaurants of Buenos Aires and, most interesting, criolla or campfire cooking which dates back to pioneering times. It is here that the Indian influence which pervades nearly all Latin American cookery is most noticeable.

Incidentally, the widely-held belief that Latin American cuisine was founded on spices so hot that they strangle the uninitiated, is largely legend, apparently spread by travelers whose experience was limited largely to the volcanic offerings of Mexico. The dishes of Argentina and other countries of Latin America, while amply seasoned, are generally no hotter than those of North America.

One sign of the Indian influence in Argentina is the widespread use of squash and pumpkin. Unlike U.S. citizens who use squash as an occasional dinner side dish or pie filling, the Argentines cook this rich, yellow vegetable in many ways, including squash soup, squash fritters and baked squash pudding.

Another Indian specialty popular in Argentina is Humitas, a baked corn casserole flavored with chopped onions, peppers, tomatoes, salt, sugar, peppers, paprika, milk and bread crumbs.

But Argentina's true love is beef, a deep devotion handed down from the gauchos, part-Indian nomads who lived off wild cattle roaming the Pampas in the 18th century.

The Argentines have specialized in beef cookery for so long, that they know many ingenious ways of fixing it. A classic is the meat roll called Matambre, or "Kill Hunger." This is done with its rich filling of eggs, vegetables, bacon and seasonings.

MATAMBRE

The Covering:
2 two-pound flank steaks
1 cup red wine vinegar
1 teaspoon garlic powder, or fresh chopped garlic
1 teaspoon dried thyme

The Stuffing:
1 pound fresh or frozen spinach
6 scraped whole carrots, about 6 inches long
4 hardboiled eggs, quartered lengthwise
2 or 3 medium onions, cut into thin rings
4 medium fresh mushrooms, sauteed in butter and sliced
¼ cup freshly chopped parsley
1 teaspoon crumbled pequin chile peppers, or similar type
1 tablespoon salt
1 teaspoon ground pepper
3 cups canned beef stock, or fresh stock
12 ounces red wine
Bacon, (optional) 4 slices

Ask your butcher to slit the steaks horizontally from one long side to within ½ inch of other side.

Place steaks in glass baking pan, cover with the wine vinegar and sprinkle with the garlic and thyme. Let marinate for six hours at room temperature.

Preheat oven to 375 degrees. Lay the steaks side up and spread over with carefully washed spinach leaves. On top of spinach leaves, place carrots about three inches apart. Place eggs between rows of carrots. Scatter mushrooms, onion slices and bacon (if desired). Top this sprinkle parsley, chile peppers, salt and ground pepper.

Roll the steaks into two cylinders and tie with kitchen cord. Place in a 12 quart casserole and pour in beef stock and wine. Add enough cold water to bring liquid a third of the way up the rolls. Cover and place in oven for one hour.

When done, remove strings with sharp knife and cut rolled meat into ½ inch slices.

Leftover Matambre is good chilled and served as an appetizer.

WHIPS EASILY

A bit of instant vanilla pudding added to light cream will make it whip as easily as heavy cream. Cuts down calories, too.

Dessert Tops For Holidays

By CECILY BROWNSTONE
AP Food Editor

CHRISTMAS DINNER

If you need to add to your holiday dessert list, this cake can be made from a mix.

Champagne Fruit Cup
Roast Goose Mashed Potatoes
Spiced Prunes Applesauce
Brussels Sprouts with Chestnuts
Plum Pudding with Hard Sauce
Modern Lemon Pound Cake

MODERN LEMON POUND CAKE

1 package (18½-ounces) white cake mix
1 package (3 ounces) lemon flavored gelatin
⅓ cup corn oil
⅓ cup water
¼ cup fresh lemon juice
4 eggs

Into large bowl of electric mixer, empty cake mix. Add gelatin (just as it comes from package), corn oil, water, lemon juice and eggs. On low speed of mixer, mix only until cake mix is moistened. Beat three minutes at medium speed.

Pour into ungreased 9 by 3¼-inch tube pan. Bake in preheated 350-degree oven until cake springs back when touched lightly with finger—50 to 55 minutes. Cool in pan on wire rack 15 minutes. With a small spatula, loosen edges around outside and tube; turn out on wire rack. Cool completely. If desired, sprinkle with confectioners' sugar.

THE FAMILY LAWYER

Six-year-old Jeff, playing cowboys with his cronies, was annoyed by the arrival of a neighbor's four-year-old daughter.

"I'll take care of her," he announced, and gave her a hard shove. The little girl fell over, broke her arm, and later—through her parents—filed a damage suit against Jeff. Despite the boy's tender years, the court rendered a sizeable judgment against him.

It may seem strange to saddle a youngster with such an obligation. But it is no longer rare for a child to be collectible. Perhaps he has money of his own. Perhaps his family has a liability insurance policy that includes coverage for him.

Or perhaps the claimant will keep the judgment hanging over the child's head for years, until he grows older and begins to earn wages.

In any event, in the eyes of the law, mere youthfulness alone does not ordinarily prevent liability. Most courts feel that since the loss must fall upon someone, and since parents often cannot be held responsible, it is fairer to let the loss fall upon the guilty child than upon his innocent victim.

Nevertheless, youthfulness may indeed be a defense if the circumstances show a lack of wilfull purpose. For example:

A four-year-old boy wrapped his arms around the legs of a woman visitor, causing her to topple over and suffer injuries. But in a court hearing that followed, the evidence showed that the hug was a gesture of pure affection. Thereupon the court ruled in the child's favor, because even though his act was intentional, it was not meant to do any harm.

Nor is a child likely to be held liable if the bodily contact is not intentional at all, but simply part of the normal, playful exuberance of childhood.

Thus, in another case, a schoolboy was held not liable when he accidentally collided with another pupil while playing tag. The court said:

"We should not wish to make it necessary for children to stand about the schoolyard with folded hands for fear they might negligently brush against one of their fellows, and become liable for heavy damages."

By CECILY BROWNSTONE
AP Food Editor

CHRISTMAS EVE SUPPER

This dessert may be put together at the last minute.

Oyster Stew — Pilot Crackers
Salad Bowl — Rolls
Mincemeat Peaches a la Mode

MINCEMEAT PEACHES A LA MODE

6 drained cling peach halves, from a 1-pound 1-lit ounce can
Brandied mincemeat, from a 1-pound 12-ounce jar
1 pint vanilla ice cream

Reserve peach syrup for some other use. Place peaches, cavity side up, in a pie plate or similar utensil. Pile a heaping tablespoon of mincemeat in each peach cavity. Bake in a preheated 400-degree oven until hot through—about 10 minutes. Serve with scoops of ice cream. Makes six servings.

HOLIDAY WEEKEND SUPPER

This excellent relish enhances a buffet table.

Sliced Cold Turkey and Ham
Potato Puff — Green Peas
Holiday Cucumbers — Chutney
Sherbet — Fruit Cake

HOLIDAY CUCUMBERS

2 cucumbers, 8 or 9 inches long
¾ teaspoon salt
1 tablespoon sugar
2 tablespoons distilled white vinegar
1 drained canned pimiento

Pare cucumbers; run the sharp tines of a fork lengthwise down cucumbers to score; slice very thin. In a shallow dish, with a fork, beat together the salt, sugar and vinegar. Add cucumbers and mix thoroughly. Chill for a few hours or longer. Drain and turn into serving dish. Using a tiny star-shape cutter from a canape-cutter set, cut pimiento into stars; scatter over cucumber. Makes six servings.

FAMILY SUPPER

This rich tomato-beef sauce tops spaghetti.

Phyll's Tomato Sauce with Spaghetti
Salad Bowl — French Bread

PHYL'S TOMATO SAUCE WITH SPAGHETTI

2 tablespoons olive oil
1 cup chopped frozen onion
½ cup finely chopped green pepper
1 pound ground beef, chuck or round
1 can (1-pound 12-ounces) tomato puree
2 large cloves garlic, crushed
1½ teaspoons dried oregano
½ teaspoon dried basil
¼ teaspoon vegetable bouquet sauce
1¼ to 1½ teaspoons salt
¼ teaspoon pepper
1 pound spaghetti, cooked
Grated Parmesan or Romano cheese

In a four- or five-quart saucepot heat the oil; add onion, green pepper and beef. With a long-handle two-tine fork mash beef until it loses its red color. Add puree, garlic, oregano, basil, bouquet sauce, salt and pepper. Cook gently, stirring often, for 20 to 30 minutes. Makes about 1¾ quarts. Top spaghetti with sauce; pass cheese. Makes 6 servings. If you want a fat-free sauce, refrigerate sauce overnight; remove fat hardened on top; heat sauce.

FAMILY LUNCH

Egg and Lettuce Salad with Imitation Store-Bought Dressing
Bread-and-butter Sandwiches

IMITATION STORE-BOUGHT DRESSING

1 package (1¾ ounces) fruit pectin
¼ cup sugar
2 teaspoons salt
1 teaspoon dry mustard
1 teaspoon paprika
2-3rds cup cider vinegar
1¼ cups salad (not olive) oil
1 can (10½ ounces) condensed tomato soup, undiluted
1 teaspoon Worcestershire sauce
1 clove garlic, peeled and halved

Into a medium mixing bowl, in the order given, turn all the ingredients except the garlic. With a rotary beater beat until thoroughly blended. Turn into a quart jar. Insert garlic on a toothpick and add. Chill overnight. Remove garlic. Store in the refrigerator. Makes about 3¼ cups. Dressing will be rosy color, thick and will not separate.

TO RIPEN BANANAS

If you want to ripen green bananas quickly, place them in a brown bag and close it tightly. Then leave it in a warm, dark place for a day or two.

Projects Receive Action

The November session of the DeBary Public Committee advanced action of several projects important to the future of DeBary.

William Keller reported on progress in seeking the answers to requests for a sidewalk along Highway 17-92. Conferences with the Volusia County engineer and with the DeLand Office of the Florida Department of Transportation had developed this information: A proposal will need to be worked out with the Department of Transportation since the state right-of-way is involved; the State cannot assume the costs until 17-92 is four-laned through DeBary — now scheduled after 1980. In the meantime a sidewalk could be constructed on the west margin of the highway right-of-way.

The DCT planning engineer will contribute the planning and engineering. One cost estimate was $2.50 per lineal foot for a 4 foot wide concrete walk.

A black-top walk would cost less.

Financing by the county, by volunteer community contributions or by a combination was discussed. Keller was instructed to develop a more specific plan and costs. The increase in traffic on 17-92 and in the number of people walking to business places points to need for safe provision for other than motor vehicle traffic, it was stated.

A letter from Attorney General Earl Faircloth ruling that the DeBary Zoning Regulations were protected by the provisions of the Florida Zoning Laws under which the District 5 Zoning Commission was established in 1964 was read. Plans were made for presenting this assurance of the legality of the DeBary Zoning Regulations to the District 5 Zoning Commission to confirm acceptance of the DeBary Zoning Regulations as previously requested by the Public Affairs Committee.

The four DeBary organizations concerned in the joint committee to survey the needs for DeBary street signs and State Highway direction signs have named their representatives. These are Kress Walter of the Civic Association, who is also a member of the DeBary Advisory Road Committee, Arthur Smeerald of the Volunteer Firemen's Association and Glenn Smith of the Public Affairs Committee. This Committee will develop a package of recommendations to County Commissioner Harris Saxon and the Florida Department of Transportation and will welcome suggestions from DeBary citizens.

A letter from the DeLand Office of the Department of Transportation promised a study of the accident situation at the south entrance to DeBary. Data will be submitted in support of the recent request for better traffic control in this area.

A request of executive director of the Volusia Charter Study Commission Wallace Payne for better citizen participation in the development of the commission recommendations was discussed. The PAC decided that an apparent lack of communication with the average citizen — at least in West Volusia — should be remedied.

A request was directed to the commission asking that notice of coming meetings of the commission and its committee with advice on the agenda to be discussed be published in local newspapers and that the organization and its work to date be presented at a DeBary community meeting in January to invite and stimulate local discussion.

Mrs. Dominick C. Bartolussi was welcomed as the representative of the DeBary Professional and Business Women's Club.

Committee Chairman Earl Merrill reported that a detailed budget of receipts and expenses of the Volusia County Commission and of an auditor's report of the past year had been obtained for uses of the Committee in analyzing county operations. This file will be available to any interested DeBary citizens.

There are about 10,000 species in the clam class.

Star Cookies For Christmas

CHRISTMAS TREAT . . . Thin crisp cookies that are delicately spiced.

By CECILY BROWNSTONE
Associated Press Food Editor

If thin crisp cookies please your family and friends, here's a recipe you will like.

Although there's ginger, cinnamon and cloves in the cookie dough, the spice flavor is on the mild side. It's the delightful crisp texture that our tasters found outstanding.

CRISP COOKIE STARS

2 cups sifted flour
1¼ teaspoons baking soda
2¼ teaspoons ground ginger
1½ teaspoons ground cinnamon
¼ teaspoon ground cloves
½ pound (1¼ sticks) butter
1¼ cups sugar
1 large egg
4 teaspoons dark corn syrup
1 cup quick-cooking oats
Sliced blanched almonds
Extra sugar

On wax paper sift together the flour, baking soda, ginger, cinnamon and cloves.

In large bowl of electric mixer, cream butter and sugar; thoroughly beat in eggs one at a time; don't worry if mixture looks curdly. Beat in molasses and brandy. Add sifted flour mixture and stir until blended. Add fruit-nut-flour mixture and mix well.

Turn into prepared pan. Bake in a preheated 300-degree oven until top looks very brown and crusty—two hours and 15 minutes; if cake browns too much toward end of baking, place a sheet of foil over top.

Place cake in pan on wire rack for 30 minutes. With a small spatula loosen cake around tube; turn out on wire rack; remove foil; with another rack turn right side up. Cool completely.

Pour about 1-3rd cup 90-proof brandy into a glass or plastic bottle that has a sprinkler top; generously sprinkle the brandy over top, sides and bottom of fruit cake; this will soften the crusty surfaces. Wrap in transparent plastic film and then in foil; let stand at room temperature overnight. Cake cuts beautifully, tastes delicious and is moist after this overnight stay. If cake is to be stored for weeks before serving, keep it refrigerated: when the surface dries, anpoint it with more brandy if you like a very spirited cake.

This Fruit Cake Is Magnificent

By CECILY BROWNSTONE
Associated Press Food Editor

A lady named Norma has given us her treasured recipe for a Brandied Fruit Cake.

Norma, who now lives in New Jersey, got it 25 years ago from a friend in Wheeling, West Virginia. Norma has been baking the fruit cake ever since. For Christmas Eve supper she always serves oyster stew and salad; after that everyone gorges on the fruit cake.

This fruit cake boasts an old-fashioned combination of fruits. The red glace cherries included make the cake look particularly pretty when it is cut.

NORMA'S BRANDIED FRUIT CAKE

2 cups sifted flour
1 teaspoon baking soda
1 teaspoon cinnamon
½ teaspoon ground cloves
½ teaspoon ground mace
½ teaspoon ground nutmeg
12 ounces (1½ cups) red glace cherries
4 ounces (⅔ cup) diced candied citron
2 1-3rd cups seedless raisins
1¾ cups chopped pitted dates
1¼ cups chopped dried figs, stems clipped before chopping
1¾ cups coarsely chopped pecans
½ pound (2 sticks) butter
1 cup sugar
5 large eggs
¾ cup dark molasses
½ cup brandy (80 proof)

With clarified butter or solic white shortening grease a 9-inch angelfood cake pan—with or without removable bottom. Line bottom and sides with foil; grease foil.

On wax paper sift together one cup of the flour with the baking soda, cinnamon, cloves, mace and nutmeg.

In a medium mixing bowl mix the remaining cup flour with the cherries, citron, raisins, dates, figs and pecans; use your fingers to separate pieces of fruit.

In large bowl of electric mixer, cream butter and sugar; thoroughly beat in eggs one at a time; don't worry if mixture looks curdly. Beat in molasses and brandy. Add sifted flour mixture and stir until blended. Add fruit-nut-flour mixture and mix well.

Turn into prepared pan. Bake in a preheated 300-degree oven until top looks very brown and crusty—two hours and 15 minutes; if cake browns too much toward end of baking, place a sheet of foil over top.

Place cake in pan on wire rack for 30 minutes. With a small spatula loosen cake around tube; turn out on wire rack; remove foil; with another rack turn right side up. Cool completely.

Pour about 1-3rd cup 90-proof brandy into a glass or plastic bottle that has a sprinkler top; generously sprinkle the brandy over top, sides and bottom of fruit cake; this will soften the crusty surfaces. Wrap in transparent plastic film and then in foil; let stand at room temperature overnight. Cake cuts beautifully, tastes delicious and is moist after this overnight stay. If cake is to be stored for weeks before serving, keep it refrigerated: when the surface dries, anpoint it with more brandy if you like a very spirited cake.

BOMBE CREME DE MENTHE

1 pint vanilla ice cream, slightly soft
1 pint lemon sherbet, slightly soft
Green creme de menthe

In a chilled one-quart mold tightly pack the ice cream. Pack the lemon sherbet over the ice cream. Put on cover of mold or cover with plastic wrap or foil; freeze for several hours or overnight. Uncover; with a small spatula loosen edges; quickly dip bottom of mold in hot water and turn out on serving plate. Accompany with creme de menthe as a sauce. Makes six servings. Use high-quality ice cream because if ice cream has air whipped into it, it will lose volume when packed into the mold.

Hepatitis Rises; No Alarm Here

By FRED VAN PELT

While infectious hepatitis cases are on the increase throughout the United States, there is no cause for alarm in this area, Dr. Frank Leone, county health director, said today.

"The disease is on the increase in the county and in Florida, too," said Dr. Leone. "In comparison with previous years, it is a big increase. And surrounding counties report the same information, as does the State Health Department."

The health director said 14 cases have been reported in this county in recent days "but I am confident there are 2½ times that many cases in the county which have not been reported. Most cases the condition is 'mild'."

Investigation has been conducted to determine if reported cases are in "clusters" or "nests," to assist in pinpointing the cause, but the cases are widespread throughout the county, Dr. Leone reported.

Pointing to an outbreak of diphtheria in the Miami area, Dr. Leone stated there have been no reports of the disease in this area. He added there are sufficient dosages of the diphtheria vaccine, DPT, on hand here for use, if needed.

AROUND THE CLOCK

By JOHN A. SPOLSKI

I don't know which I despise more . . . the bully taking the bar of candy from the little kid or those "lost souls" who steal from parked autos, while those folks are worshipping inside the church.

I while back it was happening on Park Avenue in Sanford . . . last night it occurred in Lake Mary.

Will the wife of Marine Sgt. John R. Cook please give me a call here at the paper. Although we've not met, I do know that Mrs. Cook is a Sanford resident and graduate of Seminole High School . . . and that's about all we know of her.

City of Sanford is negotiating with Southern Gulf Utilities for sale of Sunland Estates water and sewage system.

This was promoted by a recent suit and complaints of the urban area residents over the increase in utility rates effective Oct. 1, 1969.

City recently sold Parkridge area sewage system to the utility firm and is on the verge of disposing of the Sunland system.

What with all of that rain and wind yesterday, a Mr. E. G. Cross of Oviedo called in this a.m. to let us know that cyclonic winds tore the west end of his house last night, around the supper hour.

Fortunately, I wasn't told who made that remark or temptation would be on my fingertips to properly credit him/her for it!

Casselberry Police Chief Donald Brumley remained mum today after being notified by Mayor Curtis Blow Tuesday that he would not be reappointed as police department head as of Jan. 1. The letter from Blow followed a Herald exclusive Tuesday carrying reports from other city officials that Brumley would not be reappointed.

Mayor Blow has filed no official charges against Brumley, and the only time the mayor has officially criticized the chief was when he submitted a letter of reprimand to the council during a work session, leveling several charges against Brumley.

Brumley, worried about the possibility of immediate suspension as police chief, had no comment on the charges outlined in the letter but it was noted on the Casselberry police log that an inter-office memo from Blow, dated Dec. 3, advised all city heads, "Please be advised that there will not be any news disseminated from any of the departments administered by the Mayor except through the Mayor." In effect, if Brumley replied to the charges he could be suspended immediately for not following a direct order from the mayor.

Rumors were rampant in Casselberry that a petition was being circulated by citizens asking the recall of Mayor Blow.

Repeated telephone calls to various members of the council and mayor were unsuccessful this morning. Only one councilman has committed himself to the support of Brumley so far, Richard Wirz. Wirz has called the affair "disgusting" and has verbally criticized the mayor for his actions.

A reliable source told The Herald that there is the possibility of a special council meeting this Monday to review appointments by the mayor.

Blow was told at last Monday's Casselberry council meeting to have all of his appointments ready for the council two weeks before Jan. 1 in an effort to give the council time for proper study of the appointees.

Monday would only be one day short of the two-week deadline issued to the mayor.

MERRY CHRISTMAS, TO DAD, WITH LOVE

A BLEAK CHRISTMAS in a North Vietnamese prisoner-of-war camp may be a little brighter for one American flyer if the pictured package is delivered. Mrs. Ruth A. Stamm and her children, Kathy, 11, and David, 9, of 1805 Paloma Avenue, mailed the Christmas package to their husband-father, Cdr. Ernest A. Stamm (inset), shot down on Nov. 25, 1968. Kathy and David, students at Southside School, have not seen their father for 1½ years.

Send Them Cards

WASHINGTON (AP) — A Senate Republican leader urged Americans today to deluge the chief Communist negotiator at the Vietnam peace talks in Paris with a million Christmas cards urging the release of U.S. prisoners of war.

Sen. Robert P. Griffin of Michigan, the GOP whip, said his family already has sent a holiday card to Xuan Thuy, chief of the North Vietnamese delegation in the stalled negotiations.

"Perhaps one card will make no difference, but who can say what a million will do," Griffin said in announcing "Project Xuan Thuy," an undertaking of the U. S. Jaycees.

Wendell Smith of Atlanta, chairman of the Jaycees said the cards will be collected in Washington and delivered to Xuan Thuy in Paris around New Years Day.

Smith said the Jaycees will ask a U.S. airline to contribute the use of the airplane to carry the cards. He added the State Department has been advised of the project and has no objection.

He said Griffin then displayed a poster bearing the address: Project Xuan Thuy, Post Office Box 2600 Washington.

Merchants To Open Nightly

By BILL SCOTT

Sanford downtown merchants will remain open until 9 p.m. each night until Christmas except Saturdays starting Dec. 12. A Santa Claus has been hired to visit member stores for half-hour sessions each day through Dec. 23.

This was decided during the monthly meeting of the group held at Greater Sanford Chamber of Commerce and presided over by Alex Serraes.

The member merchants voted to adopt the new hours after hearing two merchants explain their business has increased considerably since the longer hours were instituted in November to last through the holiday season.

At the same time, Serraes said that two Christmas trees purchased by the merchants a year ago could not be lighted since certain merchants refused to donate electricity needed for the lighting.

Serraes said he had been told of the situation by a city employe after questioning why two of the seven ornaments had not been lighted.

One of the trees has been installed over First Street and is without power, while the other was never installed, the president advised.

Serraes said the Sanford Male Chorus would sing under the association sponsorship at a yet to be determined downtown location at 7:30 p.m. Dec. 22.

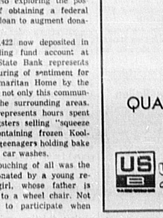
A discussion over the Christmas parade held this year on the Saturday morning after Thanksgiving brought out that 28 units, including two bands, scheduled to be in the parade did not appear to take part. In another action, Serraes appointed Michael Capko, John Kader, John Thompson and Dorothy Powell to a committee to nominate officers for the new year.

In final actions, merchants:

Voted to discontinue kiddie-land promotion.

Received information that the Merchants Association would carry over from $600-$700 into the new year as profit.

FLORIDA Municipal Judges Association, in meeting at Daytona Beach, elected Thomas G. Freeman (top) and Roger Berry, both of Sanford, as first vice president and director, respectively. Freeman is municipal judge of Casselberry and Berry of Sanford.



Home Aides Match Offer

By JANE CASSELBERRY

Ruby Wilson, founder and director of Good Samaritan Home, announced today that she has sent a statement to the Palucci Family Foundation showing that over $5,000 has been raised locally for the building fund to match the $5,000 donation offered by the foundation if the stipulation could be met.

Since the offer was received in August, contributions have come in from many organizations, churches and individuals in an effort to save this institution.

Good Samaritan Home was given until the first of this coming year to meet regulations of the state fire marshal or close because the present frame building was found a fire hazard. It was determined that it would cost approximately $164,000 to build a new concrete block structure meeting requirements.

Mrs. Wilson hopes to get an extension from the fire marshal now that such a good start has been made toward the goal. She is also exploring the possibility of obtaining a federal grant or loan to augment donations.

The $5,422 now deposited in the building fund account at Florida State Bank represents an outpouring of sentiment for Good Samaritan Home by the people of not only this community but the surrounding areas. It also represents hours spent by youngsters selling "squeeze cups" containing frozen Kool-Aid, and teenagers holding bake sales and car washes.

Most touching of all was the nickel donated by a young retarded girl, whose father is confined to a wheel chair. Not expected to participate when her Girl Scout troop was earning money for the Good Samar-

Candidates Air Views

Mayoralty candidates Lee P. Moore and Earl Higginbotham have acquiesced to a request by The Sanford Herald to air their views before the Tuesday election. Both candidates have answered a series of questions put to them by this newspaper. Their responses will be published on page one of Friday's Herald as a public service to Sanford voters.

Hospital Board Vacancies

Dominick Saiffi, Orlando attorney and chairman of Seminole County Republican Executive Committee said today no decisions had been made regarding appointments to fill two positions coming open on the Seminole Memorial Hospital Board of Trustees.

Saiffi said he anticipated appointments within 30 days by Gov. Claude Kirk to fill vacancies created by expiration of terms of John Evans and Robert Bradford, serving until Jan. 1, 1970.

The advisory board is now looking for replacements, but thus far no decision has been made," the attorney advised.

Saiffi said several unidentified persons were being screened, but declined to release any names at this time.
